

Tawas Area School Opens Term With Split Session

The "great experiment" started yesterday morning (Tuesday) at Tawas Area School. High school classes opened the 1973-74 term with teachers taking roll of students at 6:50 a. m.; buses began to roll before noon transporting middle school students to 12 o'clock classes and returning students from the upper four grades to their homes. Students comprising the middle school (grades six through eight) were returned to their homes prior to the 5:00 p. m. closing hour because of the heat. In reports to the board of education Monday night, school administrators believed that the complicated bus schedule and tight classroom timing developed to combine two school days into one building was going to work out. It was a moot point, however, as successful operation of the split session—this term and in the foreseeable future—is mandatory; there is not enough room to handle the junior and senior high school classes in the building on M-55 during the traditional school hours.

HIGH SCHOOL CLASSES under the new split session at Tawas Area School finished their "day" at 12 o'clock noon Tuesday and middle school students (grades six through eight) arrived (above) by bus to utilize facilities during the afternoon. Elementary grades in the system retained the traditional school day.—Tawas Herald Photo.

With school opening a week earlier this year, the weatherman may be throwing a curve ball past students and teachers. Robert McDonald, principal of the middle school, told the board of education that thermometers in classrooms in the west wing of the building Monday afternoon "stopped at 100 degrees—they will not go any higher." Sun shining through windows of the west wing made classrooms extremely uncomfortable.

With authorization of the board of education, middle school and elementary students may be returned home in the afternoon during the current heat wave. Such closing of the school during hot weather would have no bearing on the 180 days of school required by the state as it is a situation similar to snow days during the winter. In addition, the hot weather probably will not affect high school classes because of the early starting time.

Football practice sessions Monday were limited to light workouts because of the hot weather, but several freshman and junior varsity players were bothered by the heat. The board of education ordered that only light workouts be held during the hot weather. Starting classes earlier than the traditional 9:00 a. m. hour is not new to Tawas Area School, having utilized an early 8 o'clock class in the high school for a number of years as a means of combating the problem of bulging classrooms. A split session, too, is nothing new to schools in the Northern B Conference. Pinconning was forced to use this system starting two years ago and Standish-Sterling Central followed this year, both being faced with bulging classrooms similar to Tawas Area School. Elementary grades here are operating under the traditional 9:00 a. m. starting time.

Lightning Event Proved Success

Although local tars were out-sailed by visiting skippers, the North American Lightning Class sailboat championship races hosted by Tawas Bay Yacht Club proved a great success with near perfect weather for five days of sailing. Visiting skippers and crews had nothing but high praise for the host TBYC in handling this event, the third time the race has been held on Tawas Bay.

Bruce Goldsmith, a 37-year-old sailmaker from Chicago, Illinois, added the North American title to his World Lightning championship title as he accumulated 145 points in the 33-boat championship division to dethrone Jim Crane of Darien, Connecticut, the 1972 champion, who finished second with 134 points.

Third place went to Jack Mueller of Cleveland, Ohio, with 129 points, while James Dressel of Columbus, Ohio, and Tom Allen, Buffalo, New York, won fourth and fifth places.

Top Michigan boat in the NA division was Garry Demarest of Holland, a member of Tawas Bay Yacht Club, who finished 15th. Bill McKinley of Saginaw, another member of Cal Schmieg, Loustan, New York, won the governor's cup with 175 points. Best of the state fleet in this division was Bill Babel of Traverse City in sixth place.

Milk, Gas Prices Go Up to TA School

An open-ended bid on dairy products plus the lack of any bid for furnishing gasoline Monday night placed Tawas Area School District in the same position as other governmental institutions—the cost of operation is increasing during this period of inflation.

The cost of raw milk to local dealers has increased during the past six months, which was reflected by the bid of Nelkie Dairy, only bid to be received by the school. The local increase has been slight, but the state has discontinued its four-cent reimbursement on every one-half pint of milk for schools.

Nelkie's bid was 7.25 cents for one-half pint of white milk and 7.85 cents for one-half pint of chocolate milk. Last term, the price was seven cents for white milk.

As a result of the increased cost, Tawas Area School will charge 40 cents per week for a strip of five milk tickets and 10 cents for a single carton of milk. Because of extra persons involved in selling and talking tickets, the school will be losing money on the milk sale.

In addition, Nelkie's bid is subject to any price increase under marketing of raw milk by Michigan Milk Producers Association. It is expected that the cost of milk to the local dealer will be increased and this will be passed on to the consumer.

One firm sent a letter indicating that it would not submit a bid on gasoline this term. It is believed that under terms of federal government regulations, last year's successful bidder will be required to furnish gasoline again this year. The price of gasoline to other area schools, which excludes payment of state and federal taxes, is 23½ cents per gallon.

Seek Big Voter Turn-Out

Start 'Yes' Campaign on TA Millage Proposal

Groundwork was laid Monday night by Tawas Area Board of Education to "get out the vote" for the Monday, September 10, millage election.

Because of lengthy deliberations by the legislature in adopting a state aid bill for the next term, unfortunately, this will be the last opportunity for a millage proposition to be placed before voters this term and it is a "do or die" situation for local school financing.

Poling place for this election will be at the high school on M-55, following the necessary notification to each registered voter of the board of education's intention. Since last fall, the board had considered combining the former three polling places into one location and took the required legal steps earlier in the summer to make the change.

One benefit of this consolidation of polls being stressed by the board of education is the opportunity it offers to all residents of the district to visit school facilities during actual operation. Supt. Edward J. Barry instructed principals Monday night to make arrangements for election day classroom visits by large numbers of the voting public.

"We want our citizens to take this opportunity to visit the school. While this millage election is extremely important to the operation of Tawas Area School this term, it is also important that citizens realize that they are an integral part of this school district... we welcome them to view their educational tax dollars and their children or grandchildren at work," said Barry.

Cancer Society Passed Goal

For the first time in several years, crusade goal of the local unit of the American Cancer Society, Michigan Division, has passed its goal. This is largely due to the generous response of local citizens, the hearty cooperation of volunteer workers and an extra large amount from the Federal Health Services at Wurtsmith Air Force Base.

Further details on contributions and cancer education sessions to be given by the unit will be related at the annual meeting Thursday, September 13, 8:00 p. m. Place of the meeting will be announced. All volunteers and interested persons are urged to attend.

Hale Teachers Ink New Contract

Thirty-three of the 40-member Hale Area Education Association voting Monday morning ratified a new teaching contract for the 1973-74 term at Hale Area School. The one-year contract had been settled previously with the education association's negotiator and terms were ratified by the board of education at its last meeting.

Salary terms under the contract calls for a base pay of $8,100 for a starting teacher with a bachelor degree to $12,100 in 11 steps. A teacher with a master degree would be paid from $8,800 to $12,800 in 11 steps.

Supt. Paul Keene said that longevity pay "built in" to the contract would give teachers with 12 to 15 years experience $100, from 16 to 20 years, $150, and over 20 years, $200.

Total terminology of the new contract was revised. Among new provisions, the contract gives teachers improved medical coverage, accumulative sick leave was changed from 60 to 110 days.

The contract provides that new teachers are given credit for a maximum of five years of experience. Previously, new teachers were placed on the full salary schedule.

Keene announced that there are 10 new teachers in the system at the start of the new term.

Road Work Stops Over Labor Day

Suspension of all road and bridge construction work on state highways over the Labor Day week-end was ordered Friday by John P. Woodford, state highway director.

The order, effective 5:00 p. m. Friday, August 31, until 8:00 a. m. Tuesday, September 4, halts all but emergency or specially-authorized work that does not affect traffic.

In addition, all construction sites will be put in condition to handle anticipated heavy volumes of week-end traffic and a check of all signing on detours and construction areas will be made for conformance with signing and safety requirements.

Preliminary traffic predictions for the week-end show motorists will drive an estimated 651-million miles between noon Friday and noon Tuesday. That is two percent more than the 638-million vehicle miles logged by motorists over the comparable four-day 1972 Labor Day week-end.

Special Michigan State Police traffic patrols for the three-day Labor Day week-end will begin operations at noon Friday, August 31, and continue through to midnight, Monday, September 3, Col. John R. Plants,

TODAY'S Meditation from The World's Most Widely Used Devotional Guide

(Read Matthew 13:31-35)

"The kingdom of heaven is like a mustard seed, the smallest of all seeds; a man takes it and sows it in his field, and when it grows up it is the biggest of all plants. (Matthew 13:31-32, TEV)

Visiting the giant meteorite crater in Arizona, I was amazed as I viewed first the surrounding landscape of strewn rocks and then the crater itself, 570 feet deep and more than three-quarters of a mile across.

One of my first thoughts was how big was the meteorite that created this crater on the nearly solid rock of this Arizona plain. How amazed I was to learn that the estimated size of the meteorite was 80 feet in diameter! I thought, too, of the tremendous speed of the impact, with vivid evidence of it still to be seen at least 12,000 years later.

Travelling homeward, I thought about God's way of doing things in the life of man. I remembered that as a teen-age boy I had received encouragement from a friend to accept Jesus Christ into my life. The impact of that encouragement became a penetrating force because of the Holy Spirit. I accepted Christ and He made a difference in my life that will last even to eternity.

PRAYER

Heavenly Father, help me to do some of those deeds and say some of those words that can change lives and last a lifetime. Amen.

The Rev. Neil Katterman officiated at 3:30 o'clock, double ring rites Saturday, August 25, in Tawas United Methodist Church, East Tawas, as Jacqueline E. Davis became the bride of his brother, Hal C. Katterman. Mrs. Harold Knight, vocalist, was accompanied by Mrs. Alden Phelps.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride chose a Victorian-styled gown of candlelight silk organza with self-ruffled neckline and long bishop sleeves. Finances Not Only Problem

Citizens Indifferent to School?

Tawas Area School District is sick and has been sick for a long time. Its problems—and there are many—are not entirely of a financial nature, although it is the most immediate problem; in fact, finances should be the least of this school district's worries.

What is the biggest problem facing Tawas Area School District? The writer will answer his own question by stating his belief that the major trouble spot is the indifference shown toward their own school, which has been demonstrated time and time again by the more than 6,000 residents comprising the school district.

Now that is a serious accusation and needs some explanation before every reader drops his paper and turns his thoughts to some other direction. As a newspaperman who probably has been in a better position than most citizens to observe school operation, I will give my viewpoint.

No better example of the above mentioned indifference toward the school district can be shown than the turnout for the special meeting called for Monday night, August 20, at which time the matter of operational taxes was to be discussed with citizens before the board of education took action on adopting the final millage request to be placed before voters on September 10.

Less than a dozen people showed up for that meeting! Even those people who are opposed to taxes and will vote "no" on any proposition were not in attendance. It would have been an excellent opportunity for them to give the board of education "a piece of their minds." Likewise, for those who support the school, their absence was most distressing to those elected by the people to manage the affairs of this school district. A friendly handshake or even a kick in the pants would have been much better than indifference or to be ignored completely.

Where were the people whose children will be directly affected by the upcoming election? Where were those people who support vocational training, community education, interscholastic athletics and the school's wonderful band program?

As stated earlier, finance is not the only problem of this school district, despite the fact that school operation requires the largest slice of the local tax pie and people are tired of paying increased federal income taxes, increased social security and increased state income taxes.

The lack of interest shown by citizens toward the school, its day-to-day operation, is the biggest problem. Unlike other schools, Tawas Area, despite having been reorganized more than 15 years ago and a model for reorganization in other districts of the state, has never become a community center for its citizens. Some may attribute this to the terrible squabble 15 years ago over location of the new school, but that is past history and old wounds should have healed long ago.

Some people may blame their indifference on individual members of the board of education, the administration or faculty. If this is the problem, then it can be corrected at the polls and, surprisingly enough, it can even be corrected by attendance at board of education meetings. A board of education is no different than a city council. Both are attuned to the public and often make decisions contrary to the belief of individual members because, as one local official always maintained, "the squeaking wheel gets the oil!"

The problem may even lie with the attitude of some of the citizens toward today's children—students of Tawas Area School. Some people apparently believe that kids of today have it too soft, they get too much, they are not appreciative of what they get, they are destructive, they drink too much booze, pop too many pills and smoke too much grass; and furthermore, they are terrible little monsters and "do not compare with me and my friends when I was the same age." To this I say a loud "hogwash!" The kids of today are no different than yesterday. Although there are more of them, they are better informed and are more conscious of what is going on around them than their parents or grandparents were at the same age.

The opinion was expressed at last Monday night's meeting by one administrator, and one who is in a good position to know, that Tawas Area School has one of the finest student bodies in the Northern B Conference. There was no reason for that administrator to brag about the student body, for parents always claim any credit given for raising a "good" boy or a "good" girl; the school always is condemned or discredited when a bad apple turns up.

So what is the problem with the school district? The tax bite certainly has not been high; in fact, the operational tax is and has always been one of the lowest in the state and the debt retirement tax of $1 or less per $1,000 of state equalized valuation is absolutely shameful when one looks at the needs of the school. Added to this district's excellent financial standing has been the fact that a large portion of the district's taxes are paid by non-resident property owners, who absolutely receive no benefit from the school. We are speaking of the hundreds of persons in this district who own summer cottages, hunting camps and lakefront property who contribute tax dollars to educate our children, but who have no vote. Few districts in the state are benefited to the extent of Iosco schools in this manner.

The administration and board of education absolutely misread the attitude of the public toward this school when a bonding proposition for a new school was soundly defeated earlier this year; but, right or wrong, our elected officials did give the people the opportunity to vote on one possible solution to several problems faced by the school—overcrowded conditions and an extremely poor curriculum!

Because of the ultra-conservative attitude of taxpayers in this district, coupled with a changing philosophy toward allocating state aid to schools, which has not benefited this district, the board of education and administration in the past has reduced offerings to students and cut its maintenance program as a means toward balancing the budget. The maintenance program on existing buildings has been reduced to a point where rather large expenditures have been needed to provide necessary paint and equipment replacement after 15 years of use.

As an alternative to the building program, the school is experimenting with a split session this year whereby high school students will attend classes in the morning and intermediate grades (six through eight) will utilize facilities in the afternoon. The principal beneficiaries of this arrangement will be to the intermediate grades as those grades were the first to have curriculum cuts when the budget needed to be balanced and there never has been enough money to return such programs as shop, home economics and foreign language.

There are complaints now concerning this split session and there will be more once school starts, when well laid plans for transportation run into snags and parents suddenly realize the problem of having children of different ages going to and from school at different times of the day. More and more interest probably will be shown in the year around school proposal, discussed here for a number of years, as an alternative to more construction. The immediate problem is this: Unless voters approve the nine-mill operational proposition on September 10—renewal of 7½ mills which expired last term and 1½ additional mills to meet the increased cost of transportation and hiring of additional teachers for the make-do split session, Tawas Area School, which already has lost its accreditation, will be absolutely crippled.

As yet, the board of education has not even mentioned the consequences of a negative attitude by voters. They are also hoping for a positive vote by parents and grandparents.

The millage request by the board of education, which has faced many financial crises in past years, should be adopted for one year by people of Tawas Area School District. But, more importantly, people of Tawas Area School District must show positive interest in the affairs of the school, not just for the excellent entertainment at band concerts, football and basketball games.

A positive vote by just those persons enjoying the "extras" provided by the school—band, athletics, community education—would guarantee passage of any millage election. But much more is needed and persons voting September 10, for the first time at one central polling place at the high school, will have the opportunity to see their school, view its operation and, most importantly, see its student body.

There is nothing more important than children—today or yesterday—and operation of the local school system which they attend. Every voter should take this opportunity to express his individual opinion at the polls on September 10. Tawas Area School will only be as good or as bad as you want it to be.

AuGres Farmers Raise 'War' Fund to Battle Iosco-Ogemaw

AuGres River valley farmers of Arenac County have voted overwhelmingly to bring legal action against Iosco and Ogemaw Counties concerning the negative attitude of officials of the two upstream counties toward construction of an inter-county drain to control flood waters.

Although Arenac County would not be included, legal council for downstream farmers, following a meeting August 21, is studying three courses of action:

An injunction against construction work in Ogemaw and Iosco, a lawsuit against the augmented board which voted against the drainage proposal or a ruling to nullify the decision made at the augmented board meeting on August 14.

When possible legal recourse was threatened at the August 14 meeting, Robert Foster, chairman of the Iosco Board of Commissioners, later declared that perhaps it would be the best to settle the question in a court of law.

Reportedly, a move to reverse the latest negative vote would be based on the premise that Ogemaw and Iosco officials attended the augmented drainage board meeting with their minds already made up to vote "no." Both county commissions had submitted letters of intent prior to that meeting.

According to one source, an injunction to restrict building in areas drained by the AuGres in Iosco and Ogemaw would prevent any construction, ditching, tiling or other excavation which might add drainage water to the river.

It was reported last week that a "war fund" of $5,000 to $6,000 was being raised by a group of private citizens of Arenac County. A county, acting in an official capacity, is prevented by law from bringing civil action against neighboring counties.

William Drillock, Marlette attorney engaged by Arenac to advise it on legal actions available, is being contacted to represent the citizen group.

Harmon Williams of AuGres, watershed steering committee chairman and chairman of the Arenac Board of Commissioners, was quoted as saying that those advocating the drain project were hoping for some solution outside of court action, but admitted this would be unlikely in view of past action by Ogemaw and Iosco.

A federal grant of 2.7-million dollars is available to the three counties if they were to cooperate in the drainage venture under PL566.

MUCC Endorses Gill Net Ban by Michigan DNR

Roger Wenk, president of the 120,000-member Michigan United Conservation Clubs, announced Wednesday that the organization has entered into an all out program in support of a Michigan Department of Natural Resources recommendation to ban the use of large mesh gill nets by the commercial fishing industry in Lakes Michigan and Superior.

Wenk stated: "Lakes Michigan and Superior stand on the threshold of the most exciting and profitable fresh water sports industry in the world. Since 1967, the Great Lakes have experienced an unparalleled recovery in the annals of fishery management. From an area which, prior to 1967, was called a water waste land, we now have a sport fishing industry valued at 34-million dollars and producing a catch of nearly 300-million pounds of fish annually by sportsmen." Wenk further stated: "It is not the intention of the department of natural resources or the Michigan United Conservation Clubs to force the commercial fishermen out of business, but to require them to use selective fishing gear such as pound or trap nets which permit live release of illegal non-commercial species such as trout and salmon.

Gill nets, as are now commercially used, kill all species caught in them. Said Wenk: "MUCC is fully committed to winning this battle and calls upon all sport fishermen to join in its successful conclusion."

The organization is distributing thousands of informational brochures on the issue. Copies are available free by writing or calling the Michigan United Conservation Clubs, Post Office Box 2235, Lansing, Michigan 48911, or by phoning (517) 371-1041.

THROUGH fund raising efforts of Iosco Quota Club and Iosco Republican Women's Club, in cooperation with Central Michigan University, a new hearing evaluation center has been established at Tawas Hospital. Looking at a new audiometer in a soundproof room provided for the center are, from left, Mrs. Thomas Huck, who has a master degree in audiology and supervised establishment of the center; Mrs. Charles Killingbeck, Oscoda, president of Quota Club; Mrs. Howard Burdette, president of the Iosco Republican Women's Club. Cost of the center and equipping it totals slightly more than $6,000, of which $5,400 has been raised by Quota Club and $700 by the Republican women. Quota Club borrowed $3,000 as part of its share. The loan is being repaid through annual fashion shows and from individual contributions.

FIRST PATIENT to be tested in the new center Friday was Donna Kolts, eight years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Kolts of East Tawas. Mrs. Huck, who has worked on the project on a voluntary basis, said that the center would be manned three days a week by audiology students from Central Michigan University. Patients tested at the center whose handicap cannot be corrected through medicine or surgery would be evaluated for the proper hearing aid. Mrs. Huck emphasized that the new center would not sell hearing aids, but would recommend the hearing aid best suited to the handicapped person, depending upon the type of disability. The center would be open to adults and children two years of age and older under a clinical fee schedule similar to other services provided by the hospital. Counseling for parents of children with hearing problems would be provided. It is anticipated that establishment of the center will encourage an eye, ear, nose and throat specialist to locate in the area.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Supplemental Security Income Program to Start in January

As of January 1974, the Social Security Administration will be administering a new program, supplemental security income. This column will now include questions and answers dealing with these benefits.

Question: My grandfather, who is 76, lives with me in my household. He has no income of his own. Could he get monthly federal payments when the supplemental security income program begins?

Answer: Starting in January 1974, your grandfather may be eligible for the federal payments. However, since he is living with you, his monthly payments would be reduced. You or your grandfather should contact any social security office for more information.

Question: I am a gardener and I work for a number of different people. Does this count under social security?

Answer: If you are paid $50 or more in cash from at least one of your employers in a calendar quarter (January-March, April-June, July-September, October-December), your earnings from that employer are covered under social security as wages. If, on the other hand, you work on a contract basis (by the job, hour, day or week), furnish your own tools and control your own activities (such as the hours you work), you may be covered as a self-employed person. In this case, you would report your earnings at the end of the year if, after expenses, your net profit is $400 or more.

Question: I became severely disabled and unable to work in December 1972. Social security started paying disability benefits to me, my wife and child for the month of June 1973. Should not my benefits have begun last December, the month I became disabled?

Answer: No. The waiting period for disability benefits is five months. You became disabled in December of last year and your waiting period ended in May; so your first monthly payment was for June. During the waiting period, some people may recover from their disabilities. The social security law does not provide payments for short-term or partial disability; it only pays for severe and prolonged disability.

Question: I am a newlywed and plan to keep working until my husband completes medical school. My employer tells me I should have my social security card changed since it still shows my maiden name. Since I only receive one number in my lifetime anyway, why is it necessary to change my name on my card?

Answer: Although it is true you keep the same social security number for life, your employer is right. For social security recordkeeping purposes, your name and number both must be correct to assure proper credit for your earnings. The people at any social security office can issue a duplicate card showing your new name.

If you have a question about social security, contact your district office at 1069 North Madison Avenue, Bay City, Michigan 48706; telephone, 893-9579. For your convenience, a social security representative will be at the Iosco County Building, Tawas City, every Thursday of each month from 9:45 a. m. until 3:00 p. m.

Finances Not Only Problem

Citizens Indifferent to School?

Tawas Area School District is sick and has been sick for a long time. Its problems—and there are many—are not entirely of a financial nature, although it is the most immediate problem; in fact, finances should be the least of this school district's worries.

What is the biggest problem facing Tawas Area School District? The writer will answer his own question by stating his belief that the major trouble spot is the indifference shown toward their own school, which has been demonstrated time and time again by the more than 6,000 residents comprising the school district.

Now that is a serious accusation and needs some explanation before every reader drops his paper and turns his thoughts to some other direction. As a newspaperman who probably has been in a better position than most citizens to observe school operation, I will give my viewpoint.

No better example of the above mentioned indifference toward the school district can be shown than the turnout for the special meeting called for Monday night, August 20, at which time the matter of operational taxes was to be discussed with citizens before the board of education took action on adopting the final millage request to be placed before voters on September 10.

Less than a dozen people showed up for that meeting! Even those people who are opposed to taxes and will vote "no" on any proposition were not in attendance. It would have been an excellent opportunity for them to give the board of education "a piece of their minds." Likewise, for those who support the school, their absence was most distressing to those elected by the people to manage the affairs of this school district. A friendly handshake or even a kick in the pants would have been much better than indifference or to be ignored completely.

Where were the people whose children will be directly affected by the upcoming election? Where were those people who support vocational training, community education, interscholastic athletics and the school's wonderful band program?

As stated earlier, finance is not the only problem of this school district, despite the fact that school operation requires the largest slice of the local tax pie and people are tired of paying increased federal income taxes, increased social security and increased state income taxes.

The lack of interest shown by citizens toward the school, its day-to-day operation, is the biggest problem. Unlike other schools, Tawas Area, despite having been reorganized more than 15 years ago and a model for reorganization in other districts of the state, has never become a community center for its citizens. Some may attribute this to the terrible squabble 15 years ago over location of the new school, but that is past history and old wounds should have healed long ago.

Some people may blame their indifference on individual members of the board of education, the administration or faculty. If this is the problem, then it can be corrected at the polls and, surprisingly enough, it can even be corrected by attendance at board of education meetings. A board of education is no different than a city council. Both are attuned to the public and often make decisions contrary to the belief of individual members because, as one local official always maintained, "the squeaking wheel gets the oil!"

The problem may even lie with the attitude of some of the citizens toward today's children—students of Tawas Area School. Some people apparently believe that kids of today have it too soft, they get too much, they are not appreciative of what they get, they are destructive, they drink too much booze, pop too many pills and smoke too much grass; and furthermore, they are terrible little monsters and "do not compare with me and my friends when I was the same age." To this I say a loud "hogwash!" The kids of today are no different than yesterday. Although there are more of them, they are better informed and are more conscious of what is going on around them than their parents or grandparents were at the same age.

The opinion was expressed at last Monday night's meeting by one administrator, and one who is in a good position to know, that Tawas Area School has one of the finest student bodies in the Northern B Conference. There was no reason for that administrator to brag about the student body, for parents always claim any credit given for raising a "good" boy or a "good" girl; the school always is condemned or discredited when a bad apple turns up.

So what is the problem with the school district? The tax bite certainly has not been high; in fact, the operational tax is and has always been one of the lowest in the state and the debt retirement tax of $1 or less per $1,000 of state equalized valuation is absolutely shameful when one looks at the needs of the school. Added to this district's excellent financial standing has been the fact that a large portion of the district's taxes are paid by non-resident property owners, who absolutely receive no benefit from the school. We are speaking of the hundreds of persons in this district who own summer cottages, hunting camps and lakelands property who contribute tax dollars to educate our children, but who have no vote. Few districts in the state are benefited to the extent of Iosco schools in this manner.

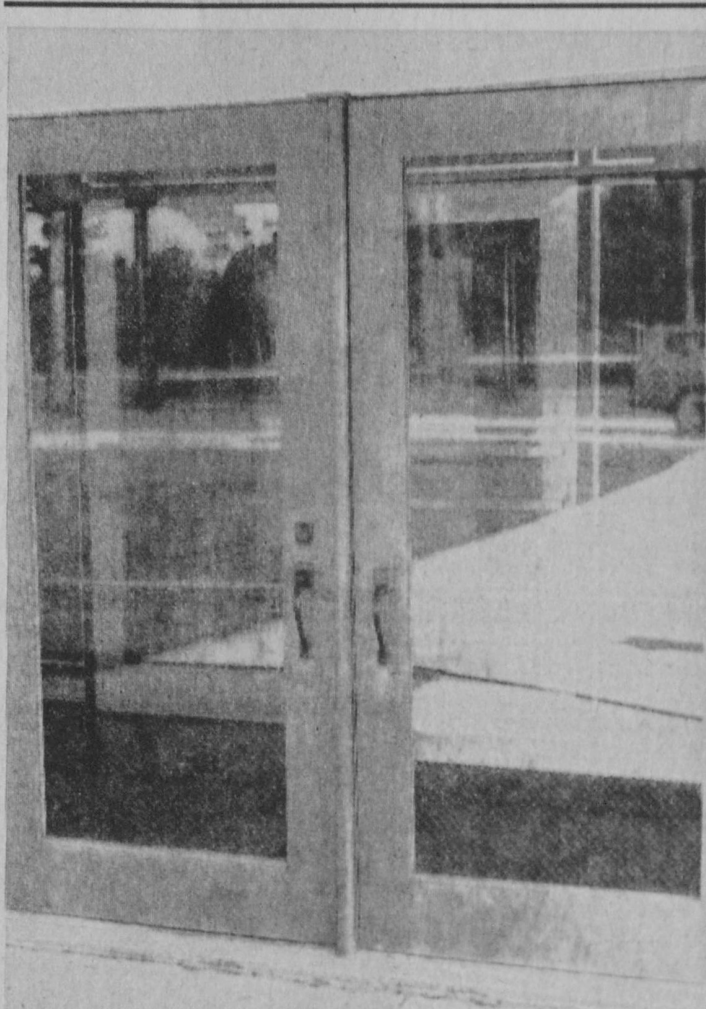

The administration and board of education absolutely misread the attitude of the public toward this school when a bonding proposition for a new school was soundly defeated earlier this year; but, right or wrong, our elected officials did give the people the opportunity to vote on one possible solution to several problems faced by the school—overcrowded conditions and an extremely poor curriculum!

Because of the ultra-conservative attitude of taxpayers in this district, coupled with a changing philosophy toward allocating state aid to schools, which has not benefited this district, the board of education and administration in the past has reduced offerings to students and cut its maintenance program as a means toward balancing the budget. The maintenance program on existing buildings has been reduced to a point where rather large expenditures have been needed to provide necessary paint and equipment replacement after 15 years of use.

As an alternative to the building program, the school is experimenting with a split session this year whereby high school students will attend classes in the morning and intermediate grades (six through eight) will utilize facilities in the afternoon. The principal beneficiaries of this arrangement will be to the intermediate grades as those grades were the first to have curriculum cuts when the budget needed to be balanced and there never has been enough money to return such programs as shop, home economics and foreign language.

There are complaints now concerning this split session and there will be more once school starts, when well laid plans for transportation run into snags and parents suddenly realize the problem of having children of different ages going to and from school at different times of the day. More and more interest probably will be shown in the year around school proposal, discussed here for a number of years, as an alternative to more construction. The immediate problem is this: Unless voters approve the nine-mill

Public Litterers Face Penalties

Public litterers still have a little time to enjoy their sport but they had better be prepared to face tougher penalties for messing up the highways and waterways of Michigan. New legislation passed recently and signed into law by the governor provides stiffer penalties for littering. Depending on when the legislature officially adjourns, probably late in December, the new law will become effective 90 days later. That means it probably will become effective sometime next March.

The law provides not only fines of up to $400, costs of prosecution, jail sentence of up to 90 days or both, but it also makes things tougher on drivers of motor vehicles or vessels.

It states that "the driver of a vehicle or vessel is presumed to be responsible for litter which is thrown, dropped, dumped, deposited, placed or left from the vehicle or vessel on public or private property" or on a "body of water or watercourse."

The law amended by the new provision still provides that, in lieu of fine or jail, the court "may direct a substitution of litter-gathering labor, including the litter connected with the particular violation, under supervision of the court."

Present: Rollin, Smyczynski, Groff, Tanner, Brugger, Lansky, Savage; absent: None; others: Manager Bublit.

Minutes of July 16, 1973, meeting read. Motion by Savage, seconded by Tanner, minutes be approved as corrected. Carried.

A public hearing was held for the purpose of rezoning of F. The city manager announced the publications were in order. Four petitions were read objecting to this rezoning. Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Becker, Mrs. Effie Mallon and Mrs. Albert Mallon supported the rezoning. Martin Wellna, Mrs. Virginia V. Coyle and Robert Erickson opposed the rezoning mainly because of partial block rezoning. Motion by Rollin to table matter until the next meeting. No support to this motion. Both Mr. Ziehl and Mr. Wellna urged a decision at this hearing. Motion by Tanner, seconded by Savage, no "spot" rezoning be approved; whole block or none. Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Thank you very much for your letter of August 16, 1973, and your support in behalf of the fisheries division in promoting wise management of the state's natural resources.

I suppose some philosophies of the past have been discarded and "conventional wisdoms" rejected in the light of new knowledge and the advancement of technology. It is interesting, though, that the Michigan Fish Commission was created 100 years ago for the purpose of restoring our fisheries resources that were depleted by over-exploitation. At that time, great reliance was placed on the use of hatchery-reared fish to replenish the stocks. Many of these efforts failed—either because fish cultural practices had not fully developed or whatever benefits derived from fish plantings were canceled out by the search-and-destroy practices of the commercial fisheries.

Today, I do not believe we are any wiser than our predecessors; rather, we have benefited from their efforts in experimental fisheries management and the great body of knowledge that has accrued during the past 100 years.

I think your letter to Senator Davis was most appropriate and drives to the central issue of the current controversy, i. e. jobs vs. conservation and protection of the resources. I wish there were a simple answer to the question that would satisfy everyone, but there is not. In any event, our mandate is still one of protection and propagating the resource. Please be assured that we shall keep foremost in our minds that we are the trustees of that resource on behalf of the people of Michigan.

Sincerely,
John A. Scott,
In Charge,
Great Lakes Section
Fisheries Division,
Michigan Department of Natural Resources

Dear Editor:

Thank you for the fine coverage you have given us on the proposed redoing of the store fronts and sidewalks in the East Tawas business district. I would like to make some changes in your statements, though. In your paper of August 8, you used the word "Alpine" as the motif we desired. This word was not even used. All that we said was that we would like to establish a "theme" as did Gaylord, not the Gaylord theme, but a "Tawas" theme.

In your paper of August 22, you mentioned brick sidewalks like Gaylord. This, again, is not what we said. What was said is we want brick and concrete sidewalks similar to those in Traverse City and sculpture the concrete like that of Gaylord, plus have planted trees.

Hoping this letter will define our proposal more clearly.

Sincerely,
East Tawas Business Association
Timothy J. O'Connor Jr.
President

Cadet Ranke Attended ROTC Camp

Cadet Paul Ranke, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rueben R. Ranke, Oscoda, attended the Army Reserve Officers' Training Corps basic summer camp at Ft. Knox, Kentucky, from June 22 to August 2.

Cadet Ranke, a student at New Mexico Military Institute, Roswell, was one of some 7,200 students who attended army ROTC training at five installations in the United States.

Students attending the six-week camp are preparing themselves to enter the army ROTC program when they return to college this fall. The two-year program is designed specifically for junior college graduates, transfer students and others who were unable to take ROTC during their first two years of college. During the camp, the future cadets receive instruction and troop leadership experience which emphasize the development of confidence and the ability to make decisions in a challenging environment.

Students who successfully complete the training and are accepted for the two-year program are enrolled in the advanced course at their school and receive the same instruction and benefits as do other cadets in the final two years of the regular four-year program.

Annual Threshers- Farmers Reunion at Erickson Farm

The annual threshers and farmers reunion will be held this year on the afternoons of Saturday and Sunday, September 1-2, at the Neil Erickson farm on Keystone Road located one mile south and three miles east of Prescott, four miles north and three miles west of Twining or four miles south and three miles west of Whittemore.

Oats will be threshed with a Huber and McCormick separator, powered by an Advance-Rumley steam traction engine and the straw baled with a stationary Case hand-tie baler.

Numerous old tractors, with steam, gas and diesel engines, along with horse drawn and hand-operated tools, machinery and vehicles will be displayed and operated, including a horse-powered drag saw unit.

A lunch (chuck) wagon will be on the grounds both days.

"There will be no admission charged. Contributions of any kind that will help to make the reunion show a success will be much appreciated," states Mr. Erickson.

Exhibitors are welcome at their own risk of damage to items or equipment. The threshers and farmers reunion is dedicated to the memory of all threshermen, farmers and their wives of yesteryear when steam engines were belt-power king and horse power tilted the soil.

There will be an exhibit of special interest to the womenfolk. Saturday's activities will end with a pot-luck supper about 5:30 p. m. Bring something to pass and one's own utensils. Refrigeration will be provided if needed and it is requested that only soft drinks be served.

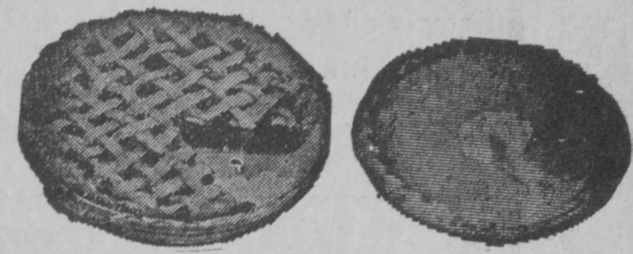

There will be a worship service on the grounds at about 10:30 a. m. Sunday.

"Join us for a good visit and a good time in memory of our yesteryears," states Mr. Erickson. "Please be careful and help us keep the ground and area safe and clean. Remember: Life is fragile, handle with care."

Property and equipment owners will not be held liable for accidents.

Hale's '2-4-6' Policy Still In Effect

The "2-4-6" attendance policy tested last spring is to remain in effect this term at Hale Area High School. According to Richard Dodge, principal, parents are urged to call the school when a student remains home from school. Written notes are not required after each absence. The school is to continue to notify parents by mail after each two absences. No response is required after the first two absences. Parents are required to make contact with the school after four absences and students will be suspended from school after six absences in a nine-week period without good cause. "Parents should contact the school immediately concerning any necessary, unusual, extended, reoccurring or extenuating circumstances resulting in absence from school," said Dodge.

Absence from a certain class while in school, repeated tardiness and suspensions for disciplinary reasons also count against a student's attendance record. "It is felt that this procedure has been especially effective in increasing communication between parents and the school and in curbing unnecessary absences," said the principal.

Frequent calls and questions come to me from the thrifty-minded folks who want to know: "What can I do with onion tops? They are so green and good I hate to throw them away." "My chive plants are producing faster than I can use the greens." "It is a shame to throw away the celery tops." "Is there some way I can preserve this nice tender dill weed?"

If you look through the seasoning counters at the stores, you will see a lot of vegetables used for flavoring available in a freeze-dried form, onions, peppers, parsley, chives, etc. Freeze-drying is an expensive process used only for commercial purposes because the equipment is so costly. The vegetables are cut into desired sizes and frozen solid. While in the frozen state, they are placed into the freeze-drier which is a sturdy box that maintains the frozen state while a vacuum extracts all the moisture. Freeze-dried products retain their original shape and much of their original color.

Since we cannot duplicate the freeze-dry process at home, we often try to dry the vegetables and herbs, but this does not work too well. They wilt, shrivel and darken and often lose their desirable flavor.

We can use our regular home freezing process with satisfactory results for our own herbs and seasonings. The texture will be altered but flavor will remain.

You can make bundles of onion tops, celery leaves and parsley for use with most meats, stews, soups and gravies. A bit of dill weed will flavor green beans, carrots and some fish. Then there are some herbs in the garden that give poultry that extra special touch. You can make up lots of different combinations. Make them in little bundles of flavoring greens then wrap in film and foil and freeze for use during the winter. Along with the good flavor goes the satisfaction that you are using some foodstuffs that might otherwise have been wasted.
