SCHOOL BUSES transported children to school Tuesday morning after a threatened strike was called off by non-instructional employees of Tawas Area School.—Tawas Herald Photo.

School Employees Called Off Strike

Non-instructional employees of Tawas Area School, represented by the American Federation of County and Municipal Employees Union, voted overwhelmingly Monday night not to call a strike Tuesday morning.

However, bargaining on a contract for the remainder of the present school term is to continue Thursday. If the current deadline is not resolved, union negotiators have indicated to representatives of Tawas Area Board of Education that a strike vote would probably again be placed before employees Thursday night.

According to one member of the union, non-instructional employees represented by AFCME last week favored a strike by a 45-5 vote of the membership. This was practically the same margin, only in reverse, for Monday night's vote taken during a union meeting held at the Iosco County Building.

Tawas Area Board of Education, which has asked for state mediation on contract issues, has indicated that it would oppose any strike by employees and, in the event of a strike, would seek injunctive action through the courts.

Following last week's vote of non-instructional employees, which gave May 1 as a deadline on contract bargaining before calling a strike, the board of education, through Herman Rollin, principal at the Tawas City Elementary Unit, sent the following note home to parents:

"The purpose of this note is to remind you of a possible strike that could take place tomorrow, May 1. If the strike does occur, it would include the following employees: All custodial, cafeteria and transportation help. Therefore, you should be prepared to do the following:

1. There will be school.
2. Listen to radio station WIOS early in the morning for information.
3. Provide your own transportation for your child.
4. Prepare a sack lunch for your child. Milk will be available.

As the result of Monday night's vote of employees, parents were not required to follow the above alternatives.

Negotiations on a contract between AFCME and board of education bargaining commenced last October, following a hearing before the state labor board which allowed employees to select a representative.

Supt. Edward J. Barry said Monday night that the board of education immediately offered an unqualified hike to non-instructional employees with "no strings attached." He said that the pay raise, "made in good faith while bargaining was to continue," was rejected by the union membership.

Barry said that points at issue include binding arbitration, agency shop, seniority (cross classification which would allow the oldest bus driver, for instance, to "bump" the youngest custodian), portal to portal fringe benefits for bus drivers, show-up guarantee, paid snow days, full health and life insurance. Salary demands, said Barry, had been reduced somewhat since negotiations commenced.

Included in the union are secretaries, custodians, cooks, teacher aides and bus drivers. The latter employees average about 10 working hours per week.

The contract under negotiation would extend to the closing of the present school term.

Board Explains Need for New School

"Our problem for the present is solving overcrowded conditions in the junior and senior high school. After years of board discussion on the problem and months of study, information was funneled through us and our architect advised us to build a new school as a means to solve our problem."

These were the words Monday night of Robert W. Elliott, president, and other members of the Tawas Area Board of Education, who explained recent board action in calling for a bond proposal vote on May 14.

During Monday night's special meeting, members of the extended school year committee were given the opportunity to present their views on school needs and their ideas for solving them.

A position paper read at the meeting stated that the committee "realizes that the Tawas Area High School is overcrowded and building is a solution to the problem. How much building is the question. We feel space needs for a number of years to come could be met by scaling down the program, adding to the existing high school, perhaps, and ultimately going to an extended school year."

Board of education members stressed that they had long been interested in the extended school year program being used experimentally in various parts of the country. However, it was pointed out that a feasibility study had indicated that, because of new state regulations, cost of making additions to the present high school would probably be as much as constructing a new high school.

"For the past three years, the board of education has stated that it was interested in an extended school year; at the same time, we have discussed various construction programs to relieve our overcrowded conditions. The board of education has employed one of the finest architects in the state to analyze our school program and, with the information we have, this bonding proposal is the road we have to travel to meet our needs for today and in the future," said Elliott.

The board of education president pointed out, however, that a feasibility study was being conducted to determine if an extended school year should be utilized here in the elementary grades. He said that a survey was to be completed in May and that a commitment would be made on May 14 concerning this experimental extended school year and if the district should make application to the state for a grant to help finance initiating such a program.

Some of the unanswered questions concerning the extended school year, pointed out by board of education members, include: Would such a program be acceptable to people of the community, is there enabling legislation for year around schools and that it would cost approximately $20,000 to prepare such a program with curriculum changes and textbooks. In addition, selection of a time segment for each student's attendance would be on a voluntary basis and not mandatory, according to law.

"Freehand was given a $20,000 state grant to draw up an extended year program and then it was shot down by the people and it was dropped," stated Trustee Earl Davis. "The people were all enthusiastic about having their neighbor children involved, but not their own."

The extended school year committee said that school operational costs, like all other expenses, continue to increase and the extended school year would not save operational money; in fact, it would add to the operational expense. They believed, however, that less room would be needed through the extended school year and the proposed construction program could be scaled down.

Supt. Edward J. Barry said that the present school was designed for about 650 students and that it was not adequate to meet the present high school enrollment. He said that the architect had strongly urged the board of education not to "put another patch" on the present building and the state codes would not allow such overcrowding after structural changes are made.

The superintendent said that the "core" of the proposed new high school—library, physical education, cafeteria, language laboratories, industrial arts, home economics and business area—was designed so as to allow future classroom expansion when warranted.

He said, too, that once the school committed itself to the year around school concept and then dropped it later, the district would never get a new school. "This board of education cannot put all of its apples in one basket; if we need more classrooms in the future, then classrooms can be added around this proposed 'core' unit."

Elliott said that the board of education had been provided with enrollment information which indicated that the school district will continue to grow.

Robert McDonald, assistant high school principal, said that one of the principal features of the proposed program was conversion of the present high school into a middle school. "This proposal will offer something better for your sons and daughters—12 to 14-year-old junior high school students will not be in the same building as 18-year-old high school students and this would not be the case with a year around school. If only an addition is made to the present high school, there would not be facilities to offer vocational training and other improved educational programs for junior and senior high school students."

"If the board of education talked to seven or eight different groups in the community, it would come up with seven or eight different programs to meet the needs of the district," said Superintendent Barry. "We have an elected board of education and it is its responsibility to get the facts and make a decision. Once the board of education makes its decision, the people should draw together to support the board of education. We cannot afford to have a number of separate entities and we cannot afford to have all the people make the plans for the board of education to follow."

The superintendent said: "We need more help right now than at any time in the future to get this board of education proposal adopted by voters of the school district."

Family Theatre Ownership Changed May 2

New owners of the Family Theatre at East Tawas are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Brown of Oscoda, who took possession of the business May 2. The theatre will be closed for one week for remodeling, installation of new carpeting in the lobby and redecorating.

The business was purchased from Ashmun Brothers of Caro. The Browns now own the Lake and Mini-Art Theatres at Oscoda and the Gem Theatre at Hale. They will show the same type of family entertainment at the Family Theatre as in the past. The Family Theatre is one of Northeastern Michigan's oldest movie houses operated continuously under the same name. It was originated by Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Berube at East Tawas and sold during the late 1930s to the Ashmun Brothers, who owned a number of theatres in Michigan and at one time operated a theatre in Tawas City.

Superintendent Outlines Plan to Encourage 'Yes' Vote May 14

Plans for getting out a "yes" vote May 14 on a proposed $5,365,643 bond issue to construct a new high school, renovate the Tawas City Elementary Unit and upgrade Tawas Area School's educational offering were briefly outlined Monday night at a special meeting of the board of education.

Supt. Edward J. Barry said that the campaign was to be "kicked off" Tuesday noon when he appeared before Tawas Kiwanis Club with a presentation on the proposal. He is to appear Wednesday before the American Association of Retired Persons. On Thursday, Barry is to meet with ministers of the area.

In addition to the above meetings and others being scheduled with various organizations, personalized letters are to be sent to voters explaining the need for the proposed bond issue. In addition, brochures containing complete information on the board of education's proposal are being prepared by the school architect for presentation to voters.

"We are going to have to push hard during the next two weeks to get the ball rolling for a 'yes' vote," said Barry. He said that present estimates had indicated that the proposal would "go down, six to one," that there was apathy toward the school and the proposal by a segment of voters and "we will have to get the parents out on election day."

He urged the board of education to take an active part in the campaign by making personal contacts with voters of the district. Tawas Area Athletic Booster Club has offered its assistance in the campaign by holding a series of coffee hours.

Federal Fund Cutback May Curtail Special Education

A cutback in federal spending may cost Iosco Intermediate School District $30,967 in funds anticipated for support of its special education programs during the current school year.

"Apparently, the state had counted the federal funds into its financial planning before the funding was secure. It is one thing to be cut before a program starts but it is a more serious matter when the cut is announced after the programs are in operation," stated Ernest Jordan, Iosco Intermediate School District superintendent.

Full funding of the state's projected $67,000,000 state aid for special education would have provided local districts with a maximum reimbursement of $8,100 for each special education educator. Actually, this $67,000,000 would have reimbursed school districts $7,644 per special education educator. With the loss of $17,000,000 in federal funds, the local districts will receive a maximum of only $5,670 per special education educator.

"Iosco Intermediate School District and local districts should have received for full funding of its special education programs $202,752; instead we may only receive $141,847, a loss of $60,905. The intermediate school district itself stands to lose $30,967 in special education funds," Jordan stated.

Iosco Intermediate School District day training program is the only program that will not be affected by this cut because this program is funded under a special Title I grant.

Coffee House Opened In Tawas City

Shiloh, a non-profit, non-denominational, youth-oriented coffee house operated by a group of interested young adults, who feel the need of an informal teen center in the Tawas area, recently opened in Tawas City.

The coffee house is located just north of the river bridge on US-23 on Tawas Bay. It is open to the public each Friday and Saturday night from 7 o'clock to midnight.

Coffee, refreshments, games, music and informal rap sessions are part of the relaxed atmosphere.

Shiloh has become a reality through the involvement of three key people: Sheriff George Westcott, who has backed the program from the beginning; the Rev. Noah Funk, who is acting as advisor and counselor, and Donald Walker, a young adult, who actually operates the coffee house.

The public is encouraged to "drop in" at anytime, states Walker.

Burglaries-Theft Keep Officers Busy

Iosco Sheriff's Department was busy last week-end investigating numerous burglary and theft complaints.

Latest burglary was discovered Monday morning at Kocher's Market on M-65, Hale. A total of $1,170 in cash was stolen at the market. Sheriff's department officers said that $545 had been taken from one cash register and $524 had been emptied from another. In addition, the store office was ransacked and stolen was $75 in old coins, $26 in Canadian money and $50 in $5 bills.

Entry to the building was gained by forcing a rear door on the north side of the building. Officers said that the door lock had been jimmied. McKay Sales Company, Tawas City, reported the theft Monday morning of a 1973 Chevrolet Corvette. Left on the sales lot was a 1970 Chevrolet which had been stolen in Maryland on April 27. It is believed that keys to the stolen vehicle, parked on the sales lot, were stolen sometime Sunday and that it was driven off after midnight.

Six hub caps were stolen from vehicles sometime early Friday at Inglis Ford Sales, Tawas City. Two tires and wheels were stolen from a car parked 2½ miles north of Hale on M-65. The owner, James E. Smith, said that he had left the car along the highway on April 28. Two snow tires and wheels were taken from a car Sunday at Lumbermen's Monument. Jay H. Gabner, Saginaw, said that he had been camping in the area and his tires and wheels had been stolen during the night. A set of jumper cables and a battery were stolen Saturday from a wrecker owned by Ronald Ponke of Sand Lake. A portable saw and a lantern were stolen during the past week from a cabin owned by Harry Lin on Turtle Road, Burleigh Township.

Hospital Week Observance May 6-12

Open House Omitted

LATEST EQUIPMENT addition at Tawas Hospital is a Spirostat, being demonstrated here by Arlene Washburn and Robert Frank of the cardio-pulmonary department. The unit is utilized in pulmonary function testing and aids early detection of chronic obstructive pulmonary disease.—Tawas Herald Photo.

A full year has passed since Tawas Hospital dedicated its new wing during National Hospital Week. Since then, 2,112 patients have been treated in this modern facility.

No special public program is being planned for this year's national observance, May 6-12, but two teas have been scheduled to honor employees and volunteers.

Employees are to receive service pins at a tea to be held in the hospital cafeteria on Tuesday, May 8. On Wednesday, May 9, the many volunteers who contribute their time to the hospital will be honored at a tea.

Another hospital week activity will include the annual Tawas Hospital Auxiliary dinner dance to be held Friday, May 11, at the AuSable Inn.

"We reached a decision not to hold an open house this year because most of those persons interested in viewing the new facilities have visited us during one or more special events during the past year," states M. Jerry Norwood, hospital director.

However, he pointed out that the public probably would be interested in other improvements at the hospital since the major construction was completed.

In March of 1972, phase two of the hospital construction plan was commenced. This second phase included a new laboratory, X-ray department, inservice classroom and administration offices, which were completed in August.

During the year, awards were presented for "employee of the quarter" and chosen for their outstanding qualities were Lillian Higgins, Lucille Malenfant, Sandra Swartzentruber and Beverly Engle. Through an employee ballot vote, the "employee of the year" selected was Beverly Engle.

Groundwork was begun for a specialty clinic adjacent to the hospital in July 1970 and the new orthopedic outpatient clinic began operation in July of 1972. Since then, the hospital has added a thoracic and cardiovascular specialist, a neurologist and a pediatrician.

Equipment added last year included a new EKG machine in central medical services. This brought computer analysis of electrocardiography to the hospital. The hospital is in direct communication with a computer at Kalamazoo while the electrocardiogram is being taken and transmitted. It requires approximately one minute to run the EKG on the patient and, within minutes, an interpretation is returned to the hospital via teletype.

Another new piece of equipment at the hospital is a Spirostat. Since first being used, pulmonary lung function testing has gradually evolved from a complex research activity to a simple and practical clinical function of steadily increasing importance in the detection, diagnosis and management of pulmonary conditions.

The Spirostat allows the recording of the volume and flow characteristics of the inspired and expired air on a Polaroid Land film. The system can best be used to detect early signs of restrictive and obstructive pulmonary impairment in any patient with a cough; shortness of breath; who is over 40 years of age; with a history of respiratory disorder, including asthma, pneumonia, influenza; with smoking habits, even though obvious symptoms may not be currently present.

Purchase of this unit was aided by Tawas Area School Key Club, which sponsored a basketball game on February 3. Proceeds from the game were turned over to the hospital to purchase the Spirostat.

Last fall, Tawas Hospital received a generous gift from the Kellogg Foundation for the hospital's three-bed coronary care unit. The ninth in a series of classes in coronary care was completed under the direction of Dr. Larry S. Kelly.

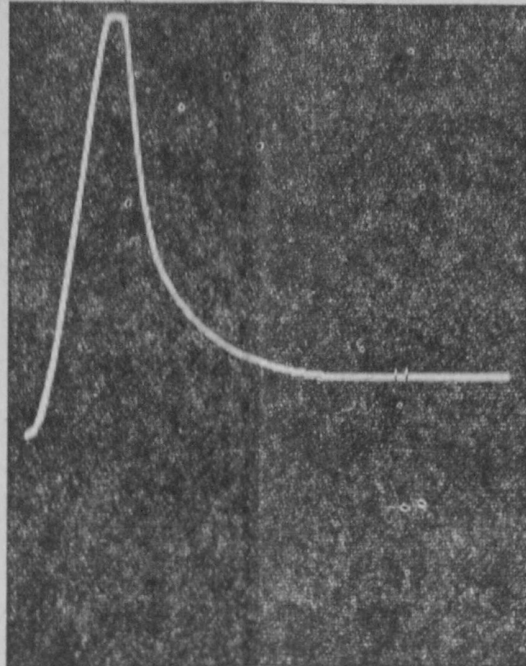

On June 19, Tawas Hospital was inspected by a joint commission and received a full two-year accreditation.

In July, the hospital completed the final assumption of the ambulance contract and equipment. Two ambulances are stationed at the hospital and one is manned entirely by volunteers at Hale.

Employee parking lots were paved during the year and new lighting installed for persons who come and go during the night hours. Security guards were hired to ensure employee and hospital safety.

Tawas Hospital ended the year of 1972 with 250 babies being born there.

"In addition, we have added a new microscope and other equipment to the laboratory, along with a film projector, a life-sized training mannequin, three new pediatric cribs, delivery room table, heart monitor equipment and a heart monitor transcriber for the emergency room," said Norwood. "All in all, we have had a very busy year since the last observance of National Hospital Week.

THE SPIROSTAT measures volume and flow characteristics of inspired and expired air on a Polaroid Land film. A demonstration graph produced by the unit is shown here.

To Honor Veteran Employees

AMONG EMPLOYEES of Tawas Hospital to receive service pins on Tuesday, May 8, are, from left, Mrs. Clarence Curry, Wilber Township, 20 years; Mrs. Walter Zaleski, Tawas City; Mrs. John Birkenbach, East Tawas; Mrs. Arthur Langley, Oscoda, all with 15 years of service. Mrs. Langley is nursing service administrator at the hospital.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Rose City's Indus. Park Gets Grant

The Economic Development Administration has approved a $349,200 grant to aid Rose City in the development of an industrial park, Cong. Elford Cederberg, 10th District, announced last week.

Rose City is developing a 30-acre industrial park in connection with the over-all economic development program of the East Central Michigan Economic Development District.

The aim of the program is to encourage private enterprise to expand and create new job opportunities to combat high unemployment.

Rose City will provide $87,300 to complete the $436,500 total cost of the project, which will have access roads, water and sewer lines and a water storage tank.

"In addition to making the community more attractive to firms seeking locations for new plants, the project will encourage existing Rose City firms to expand operations," Cederberg said.

202 Children Are Enrolled for Fluoride

Dates set for the summer topical fluoride program are June 11-27 at the St. Joseph Social Center, Lincoln Street, East Tawas.

According to Diane Oberlies, program chairman, 202 children have enrolled in the program. Parents will receive appointment cards about two weeks prior to their children's first appointments.

In addition to the clinic in East Tawas, about 40,000 children will be receiving fluoride applications this summer in 200 similar clinics throughout the state. Michigan, which leads the nation in the number of community fluoride programs, has been providing this service since 1949. This is the third year that the program has been conducted in East Tawas.

More Trees, Fewer Signs Along Roads

There are 4,500 more trees and bushes and 6,800 fewer billboards along state highways this spring than there were a year ago.

The trees have been planted and the billboards removed to make the roadsides more attractive.

Before another year passes, it is expected that more than 14,000 additional trees and bushes will be planted and several thousand more billboards taken down.

More than half of the nearly 30,000 signs along Michigan's interstate freeways and primary highways are being removed under the state billboard control act enacted last year. The trees are being planted under the state highway commission's continuing roadside beautification program.

"Some trees necessarily have to be removed from highway construction and for safety reasons when they are too close to the highway," said E. V. Erickson, chairman of the state highway commission. "At the same time, the state highway program provides for the planting of thousands of trees annually along new and reconstructed highways, particularly in urban areas."

Years ago your friends and neighbors pitched in to assist you in building your barns and outbuildings. Today this friend and neighbor is still eager to assist.

the TRUTH that HEALS

TODAY'S Meditation

from The World's Most Widely Used Devotional Guide

(Read Romans 8:22-30)

I trust in thee, O Lord, I say, "Thou art my God." My times are in thy hand. (Psalm 31:14-15, PSV) One night in Miami Beach, Florida, I sat for two hours by the ocean. The night was warm and beautiful. I was alone, yet God was there. As I did some reflective thinking, I thought of Lord Byron's lines:

"Roll on, thou deep and dark blue Ocean—roll!
Ten thousand fleets sweep over thee in vain;
Man marks the earth with ruin—his control
Stops with the shore."
The vast ocean is mysterious and fascinating. Here is something bigger than all men. From time immemorial, the ocean's tide has come and gone. There is low tide and high tide; no power on earth can prevent it.

This is true of life, too. There is low tide of life when burdens almost sweep us under and heartaches are hard to bear.

But whatever happens, God is in control; we are in His hands. The tide goes out, but it will come again. This brings faith, courage and confidence. High tide will come. Wait!

PRAYER
Lord, it is impossible for us to realize the vastness of Your presence. Help us to keep our trust in You, especially when circumstances stand a chance of overcoming us. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY
This very day, my life is in God's control.—Ray O. Jones, Knoxville, Tennessee.

Concert Band Participated in State Festival

Saturday, April 28, Hale Area High School Concert Band traveled to Bridgeport High School to participate in the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association State High School Band Festival. It was the first time in approximately 20 years that the band has earned the opportunity to play at the state festival.

At the festival, each band plays a march, required number and selected concert number before three adjudicators. After completing this, the band sightreads two selections it has not seen before. The band's performance is evaluated against a set standard which varies slightly according to school classification.

Ratings are based on a 1 to V scale with a 1 superior. Two concert number judges gave the Hale band a II rating and a third judge gave the band a I rating. This averages into a second division rating in the concert room. Hale band received a I rating from the sightreading adjudicator. With more emphasis placed on the concert performances, the band received an over-all second division rating.

The three concert numbers performed by the band were "Three Score and Eight," "Two Pieces in Folk Song Style" and "Variations on A Folk Song." Four judges included Dr. William Fitch, professor of music at Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti; Russell Brown, assistant professor of music at Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo; Louis Potter, professor of music at Michigan State University, East Lansing; and Arthur Gorman, instrumental music director at Kellogg Community College.

Hale Area Junior High Cadet Band will participate in the state junior high band festival Saturday, May 5, at Mt. Pleasant.

ENGINE NO. 1 of the Tawas and Bay County Railway, named the "C. H. Prescott" in honor of the president of the road, is shown at the Locke boom, East Tawas, shortly after tracks were extended to East Tawas from Tawas City in 1882.

'Paddy' Was Hero When Rails Were Extended in 1882

The nostalgic history of railroading in Northeastern Michigan would be incomplete without telling the story of "Paddy," a little nondescript locomotive which turned in an heroic feat for the Tawas and Bay County Railway in the summer of 1882. It was not a "thing of beauty," neither was it a "joy forever," it was said, but it filled the bill.

"Paddy" was a homemade affair consisting of a portable boiler mounted on six drivers, which formerly had been ordinary freight car wheels. Its water tank was an iron box on top of the boiler and wood for firing the boiler was carried on an extension of the frame, there being no tender.

The tiny locomotive had been purchased in 1877 from the coal mines at Youngstown, Ohio, by S. and C. D. Hale, pioneer railroad promoters of Northeastern Michigan, who owned a sawmill at the mouth of the Tawas River and were then lumbering on what was later known as the Prescott Ranch in Ogemaw County. (Today, the property is part of the Chamabi Ranch, owned by the Detroit and Mackinac Railway Company.)

The winters of 1875-1876 and 1876-1877 had been very mild and brought about the failure of many log jobbers during those years. The Hales needed a reliable method by which they could move their logs to the AuGres River and built a railway three miles in length for that purpose.

This was the first railroad constructed in the region and "Paddy" came to Tawas City aboard a steamboat, was unloaded at Hale's dock on Tawas Bay and hauled to its destination on a sleigh, a distance of 24 miles. The railway was used for one season and then it was discovered that when there was no snow in the winter, there would be no freshet in the spring and so the logs could not be run out.

The next project of the Hales was to promote the organization of a narrow gauge railroad from Tawas City to reach their property in Richland Township, Ogemaw County. The Lake Huron and Southwestern Railway Company was formed in 1878 with a capitalization of $70,000, but the expense of construction was much greater than expected and, after having completed the road the greater part of the distance, the company went into the hands of a receiver in 1879. The Hales, too, were bankrupt by the costly railroad venture and passed from the scene.

The railroad was then purchased at receiver's sale by C. H. Prescott, who reorganized the company under the name of Tawas and Bay County Railway Company. At that time, Arenac County had not been set off and it was the intention, at some future day, to continue the road to Standish, then in Bay County.

On July 1, 1882, a sale was negotiated by which the T&BC Railway passed into the hands of a company of Detroit men, who were to form the Detroit, Bay City and Alpena Railroad. Before the sale was consummated, however, the citizens of East Tawas offered a substantial bonus if a train load of logs was unloaded into one of the village's mill booms by a certain date.

Railroad tracks had been extended as far as Prescott's saw mill at the site of the present day McKay Sales Company in Tawas City. The time limit for extending the tracks to East Tawas would have been more than sufficient under ordinary circumstances, but the enforced absence of the promoter of the sale, C. H. Prescott, and the fact that it had not yet taken place, rendered it somewhat doubtful if the work could be done. But it was decided to go ahead with the extension and trust to luck.

The citizens of East Tawas who were subscribers to the fund honored the orders of the railroad's superintendent for extra labor. Some of the saw mills shut down and turned over their crews to help.

Ties were brought up the Tawas River and delivered by teams and a few cars were brought down the Prescott woods. A consignment of 30-pound iron had just been delivered at the Prescott dock, which had to be laid on the main line and the 20-pound iron lifted and brought down for the extension.

Trees Topple As Contractor Widens M-55

May 1, 1958—Scores of trees were toppled this week as contractors started work clearing the right-of-way for widening and resurfacing of M-55 from the Hemlock Road Baptist Church to the M-55-M-65 intersection.

Plans for observing the 60th anniversary of the opening of the Wilber School in District No. 1 are about completed.

Total income of Tawas City School District for the school year of 1956-1957 was $15,690, a decrease of $7,882 or 33 percent of the school income received in 1930-1931. Total expenditure of the school district last year was $16,867, a deficit of $1,176. This drop in school revenues is common throughout the state, caused largely by the 15-mill limitation which was passed in November 1932. To attempt to replace the loss in local property tax, the past three legislatures have allotted schools of the state special aid, but never in sufficient amount to adequately finance them.

Only a valve need now be opened and the City of Tawas City will enter into contract with East Tawas for purchase of water from the latter's new filtration plant, expected to go into operation sometime in May. Supt. Reginald Bublitz reported to the Tawas City Water Board that more than 400 water meters have been installed in Tawas City and there are less than 100 to go.

Theme of the 1958 observance of Michigan Week stresses two of the state's great human and natural resources—education and waterways. As an example of water resources, there are some 50 inland lakes in Isosco County covering a total of 9,751 acres. Total miles of streams is 259, the AuGres River the largest, draining about 220 square miles and the AuSable River, draining about 150 square miles. Great Lakes shoreline of the county is 35 miles. Public fishing sites total 1,096 acres, with 12,876 feet of frontage on seven lakes and streams.

May 1, 1949—4-H Club winners of carpenter hand tools sponsored by The Tawas Herald were Larry Kinde, 14; Charles Binder, 12, and Herbert Katterman, 11, members of the handicraft project at Watts School.

Seniors of Hale School sponsored a cake walk following a dinner for teachers at the community building. Music for a "hard time" dance was provided by Danny Thayer, Bill Woolver and Chet Wilson.

Outfitted with a rambling nose "a la Babe Ruth" and a New York Yankee uniform, William Bendix is ready to portray the Sultan of Swat in the forthcoming motion picture, "The Babe Ruth Story."

Looking Backward—

35 Years Ago—
May 6, 1938—Miss Ardis Callahan of East Tawas has been named queen of the Tawas City Perch Festival. Maid of honor is Miss Alma Bronson and members of the queen's court are Lois Pfeiffer, Patsy Murphy and Lyda Moore.

Plans for observing the 60th anniversary of the opening of the Wilber School in District No. 1 are about completed.

Today's teen-age generation is a problem throughout the United States because public responsibility for juvenile delinquency was not recognized until a few years ago. Who can tell but that tomorrow's youngsters, aided by the healthy recreation their communities now sponsor, will forsake crime for a nobler life?

Sen. Sherman Minton of Indiana, who succeeded Hugo Black as chairman of the senate's inquisitorial committee, is so vexed with the newspapers that he has introduced a bill providing for censorship of the press. The American Newspaper Publishers' Association reaffirmed its determination to defend the freedom of the press and the constitutional rights of private citizens.

Senior Citizens Enjoyed Song Fest and Games

One hundred two Tawas Area Senior Citizens enjoyed a song fest, awarding door prizes and playing games and cards Wednesday, April 25, at the East Tawas Community Building. Ice cream and cake were served in honor of members with April birthdays.

Highlight of the afternoon was a talk on the evils of being overweight by Helen Meach, extension home economist. She also narrated a 20 minute series of slides on that subject.

Clyde Soper, accompanied by Mrs. Lesaella M. Stringer, newly-appointed director of programs for senior service centers, visited the group.

A white elephant sale will be featured at the Wednesday, May 9, 12 o'clock noon, meeting at the community building.

Are you talking about rising food costs? Are you just talking or do you really understand the factors involved?

Consumers need to recognize the fact that the cost of growing and harvesting of food takes only one-third of the food dollar.

Labor and services provided by the food plant, transportation, warehouse and the supermarket employees take two-thirds of the food dollar. As your wages increase, so must the food handlers receive pay raises. Who pays for these added costs?

Marketing information from the USDA reports the following figures in February 1973: Cost to grow lettuce, 4.0 cents; labor to pick and pack lettuce, 5.0 cents; handling costs to western warehouse, 3.5 cents; transportation to eastern warehouse, 6.5 cents; delivery to store, 4.7 cents; unpacking and displaying in store, 3.3 cents to 13.3 cents. So the total cost is 29 to 39 cents.

We, as the consumers, question the markup placed by the supermarket. Have we considered the services provided by the supermarket?

The following represents just a partial listing of services that have to be taken out of the total markup:

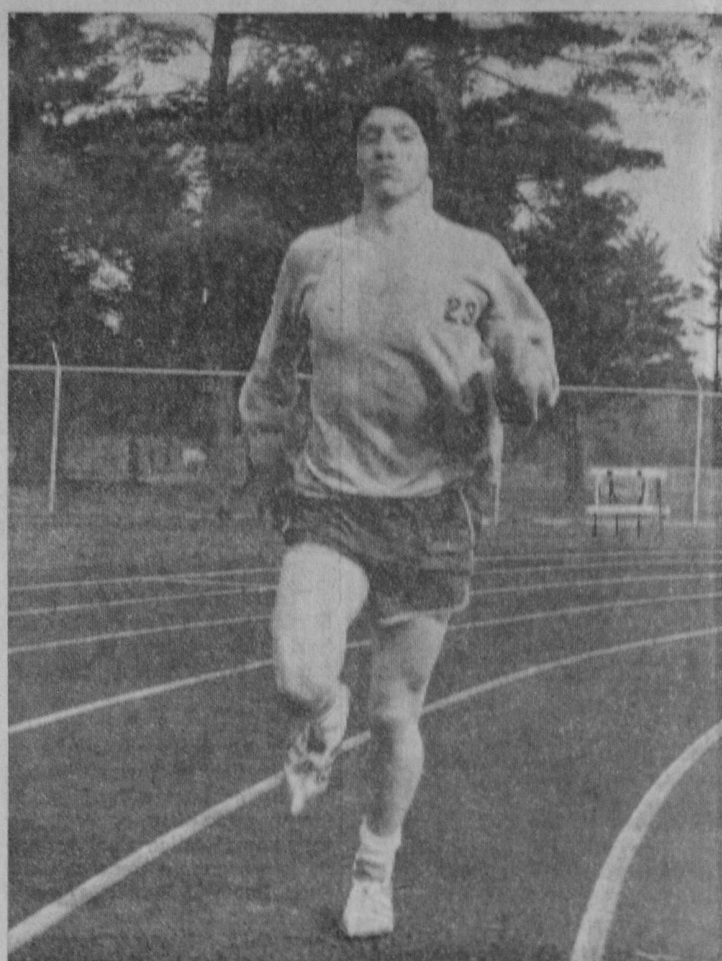

- (1) Weekly advertising and specials to stimulate sales; (2) 40 percent of the meat product winds up in bone, fat and low meat cuts; (3)

security guard service for the supermarket; (4) federal and local laws governing air, land and water pollution; (5) check cashing services at the supermarket; (6) purchase, upkeep and replacement ($40 each) of shopping carts; (7) longer shopping hours; (8) carry-out assistance, curb and snow removal in parking lot; (9) federal and local laws controlling food safety practices; (10) shopping bags, meat packages and plastic produce bags.

Food marketing is complex and big. Remember you are a part of a market family. Negative attitudes toward one segment of the system and less responsibility accepted by the consumer will be passed right back to the shopper in increased food costs.

Carelessness is a national disgrace tool.

GENE MILLER, Tawas Area freshman, registered four minutes, 47.8 seconds, when he ran the mile in Wednesday's meet. It was his first experience in distance running.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Tawas Hosts Meet; Braves Trail Field

Tawas Area proved a "perfect" host to Wednesday's Easter vacation track meet with three other NBC schools. Since the meet fell during the middle of vacation, about one-half of the Braves were absent and Tawas trailed the field with 23 points. The tough Essexville-Garber team was tops with 89 points, followed by 56½ points for Oscoda Area and 44½ points for Pinconning.

There were a few bright spots for the Braves. Al LaBlance won second place in 120-yard high hurdles with a time of 16.3 seconds, his best for the season. Rick Ashmore won third place in 180-yard low hurdles with a time of 22.6 seconds, his best for the season.

Tawas' best performance came from Gene Miller, a freshman, who won third place in the mile run with a time of four minutes, 47.8 seconds. This was the first time he had ever run the mile and was only 10 seconds off the school record.

Paul Brinkman had a third place in shot put with a heave of 39 feet, five inches. LaBlance had a third in high jump, five feet, 10 inches.

Fourth places for Tawas included Rob Sarki, 200-yard run; Brinkman, high jump.

Question: I am an undergraduate college student and I have been getting monthly social security benefits since my mother died last year. I will be 22 two months before the end of the semester in which I will get my degree. Will my student checks continue?

Answer: Yes. Under recent changes in the social security law, a student's monthly payments can continue past 22 to the end of that semester or quarter (depending on which system his school operates) if the student has not yet received his bachelor's degree. If a student's school does not operate on either a semester or quarter system, a student could get benefits for up to two months after his 22nd birthday.

Question: I mistakenly sent a request for medicare payment form to the wrong insurance carrier. Should I send a duplicate request to the right carrier for this area?

Answer: No. The office that receives your request for payment form will forward it to the correct carrier. You will save time in the future, however, by sending your request for payment to the proper address. You will find the address listed in your medicare handbook or you can call any social security office.

Question: My uncle, who lives with me, has coverage under medicare and he is always asking me questions about the program. I used to get the answers out of his medicare handbook, but he has lost it. Can you explain what a "benefit period" is?

Answer: A "benefit period" is a period of time for measuring your uncle's use of hospital insurance benefits. It begins the first day he enters a hospital and it ends when he has not been a bed patient in any hospital or skilled nursing facility for 60 days in a row.

To get your uncle another medicare handbook, call any social security office. They will be glad to send you one.

Question: I am 35 and divorced. I had to stop work recently because I have multiple sclerosis. Even though my ex-husband pays some support for our three small children, can I still apply for monthly social security disability benefits?

Answer: Yes. If you are found eligible for disability benefits, your children can also get benefits even though their father contributes to their support.

Medicare Hospital Insurance Expands

Starting July 1, people 65 and over who have not been able to get medicare hospital insurance before may be eligible. They can apply for the protection now, according to John Carr, social security district manager, in Bay City.

"Previously, to get medicare hospital insurance you had to be 65 or over and either eligible for social security payments or have a certain amount of social security work credit," Carr said. "Under recent amendments to the social security law, people 65 or over who were not eligible before may now purchase medicare hospital insurance protection. To get this protection, however, they must also sign up for the medical insurance part of medicare."

"This new provision is designed to extend hospital insurance coverage to people 65 or over who have little or no work credit under social security and are unable to get comparable insurance through private companies," Carr said.

The initial premium for hospital insurance will be $33 a month plus $6.30 a month for medical insurance. "The protection will begin July 1 for people who sign up before June 1," Carr said.

"This year, you can sign up as late as August 31," he said. "If you delay past May 31, though, coverage will begin later. If you delay past August 31, you can sign up in the first three months of any year."

Medicare hospital insurance helps pay for hospital bills and many related expenses.

The medical insurance part of medicare helps pay doctor bills and other medical expenses not covered by the hospital insurance. It is funded by individual premiums and by general revenues.

For people who become 65 after June 1—who are not otherwise eligible for hospital insurance, there is initially a seven-month period to apply for both the hospital and medical insurance parts of medicare. "You can apply during the three months before you are 65, the month of your 65th birthday or the three months thereafter. But you must apply in the three months before you are 65 to get coverage beginning with the month you become 65," Carr explained.

Starting in July, medicare will also be extended to workers under 65 who have been getting monthly disability payments from social security or railroad retirement for two years or more and to many people with chronic kidney disease.

Medicare is administered by the Social Security Administration of the United States Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The Bay

City social security office is at 1009 North Madison. The phone number is 893-9579.

This is just one of the efforts of local scouts in connection with project SOAR, Save Our American Resources.

Bricks for the boys to distribute have been donated by Joseph Barkman and Edward Davison.

Bricks in tanks take up space so less water is used per flush. In an experiment in Cherry Hill, New Jersey, 17,000 residents put bricks in their tanks and claim to save 34-million gallons of water a year. Standard tanks hold eight gallons of water, more than twice the amount needed to flush. New toilets hold 3½ gallons.

Persons interested in finding out more about this project may call Harold French, Mrs. Erich Wiese or Mrs. C. H. Collins.

Funeral Held for Paul Starck

ALLEN SIEGRIST, Whittemore, has completed a working scale model of a Civil War cannon. The cannon, which weighs about 70 pounds, has a steel barrel turned in Siegrist's shop. The wooden wheels and carriage were handcrafted from "scratch" and Siegrist used a blacksmith forge to "sweat" the iron rims on the two wheels.

The muzzle loading field piece uses black powder to propel a round lead ball. The bottom photo shows the cannon in action, with smoke pouring from the muzzle. A percussion cap mechanism is fired with a lanyard. The project required about 60 hours to complete.—Tawas Herald Photos.

Braves Split Two Games Friday

Tawas Area Braves split the decision in two baseball games Friday with Alpena High School. The visitors won the first game, 15-8, and the Braves won the second game, 6-4.

The Braves jumped to an early lead in the first game, but Alpena scored 10 runs in the fourth inning on seven hits, two walks and an error to put the game out of reach.

The game featured three home runs by Alpena, all coming with a stiff wind blowing toward the outfield. Svenko had four hits to lead the Braves, followed by Wayne Eue's two hits. Randy Scales was the losing pitcher.

Randy Potts was the winning pitcher in the second game and Dave Mielock came in to assist on the mound. The two pitchers did not allow a hit in this game shortened by darkness, but were in trouble with walks.

Tawas had five hits in the game, with Janego, Potts, O'Driscoll and Mielock all belting doubles.

Leading batters for the Braves and their slugging averages are: Potts, .500; Svenko, .415; Janego, .400; Eue, .375; Scales, .333.

Games this week include Gladwin on Monday, Alpena on Wednesday and Essexville-Garber on Friday.

Burger-Pro Tastes Like Real Thing

It looks like ground beef. It tastes like ground beef. Nutritional authorities give assurance that it contains the same amount of protein. It is called "Burger-Pro" meat loaf and it costs 10 percent or more less than regular ground beef.

Detroit is getting its first chance this week to sample the ground beef-vegetable protein "burgers" which have been creating national attention as a way to attack the protein crisis and cut meat costs without sacrificing nutrients or flavor.

Kroger's Burger-Pro meat loaf is a mixture of 75 percent regular hamburger and 25 percent textured vegetable protein (TVP). TVP is made from soybean flour, which is extruded to the size and shape desired. In this case, the granules approximate ground beef in shape and size.

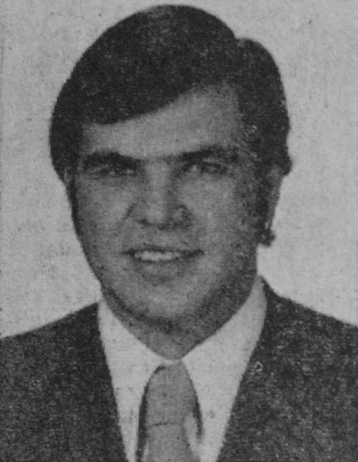

Burger-Pro meat loaf browns and cooks like regular ground beef and may be used in any recipe where regular ground beef might be used. There is somewhat less shrinkage, so patties and meat loaves come out a bit plumper than normal. The dry soy protein, as prepared before mixing, is virtually tasteless. It takes on the meat flavor during cooking. A delicate degree of seasoning has been added to the vegetable protein to enhance its blending qualities with the flavor of beef.

Burger-Pro meat loaf will be included in Kroger's ground meat information program. Signs posted at each store's meat department will tell shoppers that Burger-Pro meat loaf contains beef, water, textured vegetable protein and seasonings, with an aim of only 23 percent fat content, seven percent less fat than the state limit for regular hamburger.

The soybean is the most common source of protein used in these new foods. Science Service, Incorporated, of Washington, D. C., says that weight for weight, the protein content of soybeans is greater than that of meat, eggs, milk, wheat and all other grains and legumes. Soybean protein closely resembles animal protein.

Senior Citizens Month Marked During May

"Older Americans in Action" will be the theme as the nation observes Senior Citizens Month in May, according to John Carr, social security district manager in Bay City.

In proclaiming Senior Citizens Month, President Nixon said the theme "points our attention to the basic fact that most older people are not mere onlookers in our society, nor are they society's wards. They remain vital, versatile and highly-valued contributors to the quality of American life."

"Social security is active in helping older Americans remain active and involved," Carr said.

According to Carr, social security now pays over 2½-billion dollars a month in retirement benefits to about 18-million people. "Payments have increased more than 50 percent since 1969," he said. "Recent changes in the social security law have increased payments to widows 62 and over and to workers who delay retirement past 65."

In the future, social security payments will generally increase automatically with the cost of living, according to Carr. "And nearly everyone 65 and over can get medicare," he said.

Nixon said Senior Citizens Month must be a "time for strengthening those human bonds which will ensure older Americans an active and honored place in our families, our communities and our nation."

"If senior citizens have suggestions or questions about social security," Carr said "we invite them to call, write or visit any social security office. Every month is Senior Citizens Month at social security."

The Bay City social security office is at 1009 North Madison Avenue. The phone number is 893-9579.
