City's Engineer Presented Recommendations

Special consideration toward amending construction plans for three proposed special assessment sewer districts in Tawas City was to have been given last night (Tuesday) by the Tawas City Council.

This action was taken following a public hearing a week ago concerning establishment of the districts and at which time the council heard objections raised by property owners concerning individual assessments and construction costs.

Following that hearing, City Mgr. Reginald Bublitz met Wednesday with the staff of Edmands Engineering Company, the city's engineering consultant, concerning several possible alternatives.

In one instance, engineers believe that a slight change in the route of the sewer main in District No. 1 could be justified. At the hearing, Joseph Barkman, owner of three lots in Block Nine, Porterfield's Addition, expressed the opinion that the value of his lots would not justify an expenditure of $1,200 for each parcel to provide sanitary sewer.

An alternate route through the alley in Block 12 was checked carefully by engineers concerning involvement in future extensions. The city manager said that if a working easement of at least 20 additional feet, along with the existing 16 feet in the alley can be obtained from Robert Noble, owner of Block 12, the change could be justified.

Considerable discussion was heard a week ago concerning the variance in cost estimates in District Nos. 2 and 3, both located on the northwesterly side of US-23 south of the river bridge. Preliminary estimates list the cost at $24.81 per foot for District No. 2 and $33.14 for District No. 3.

The estimated cost in both districts is higher than the $21.45 per foot cost for District No. 1, due to the fact that only one side of the sewer main would be used and only one side of the street would be participating. In addition, part of the higher cost in District No. 3 can be attributed to reaching the necessary depth to serve the Margo Street area, which is not being considered in the present construction.

As a result of discussion with the city manager, the city's engineering consultant now believes that Districts Nos. 2 and 3 should be combined with the Margo Street project and the cost for the entire area be recomputed as one package, thus offering a slight reduction to property owners in the present District No. 3.

In addition, engineers said it is common for the city at large to share a greater proportion where only one side of a street is serviced by a sewer main. Instead of only a 10 percent participation by the city, the council is to consider a 15 to 20 percent participation in this particular area.

The city manager said that cost estimated by the engineer and presented at the hearing had a built-in inflation factor, due to the fact that these contracts would not be let until next year. All costs for construction of sewer mains have been based on bids received recently by other communities in this region.

Bublitz said Thursday that, because of the fact that the project was (See SEWER, page 6.)

EMPLOYEES of the East Tawas Department of Public Works installed Christmas decorations on electrical poles along Newman Street Wednesday, but colored lights are to be used sparingly due to the energy crisis. A decision was to have been made at last night's meeting of the Tawas City Council regarding installation of Christmas decorations. City Mgr. Reginald Bublitz said Monday that street decorations and a lighted tree may be omitted this year due to the energy crisis.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Iosco County Is Within Gas Tank Driving Distance

Despite its close proximity to downstate metropolitan areas and well within the "one tank of gasoline range" for Sunday drivers, Iosco's winter tourist industry is expected to be hit hard by the nation's fuel crisis.

Although the president's request that gasoline service stations close Sundays on a voluntary basis for the present, Sunday driving may be curtailed by motorists once the full impact of the fuel crisis is felt.

This will put Northeastern Michigan tourist centers in about the same position as they were during World War II—scarcity of gasoline and tires, coupled with the lack of parts for cars in the 1940s, meant that those tourists who did travel on week-ends rarely traveled beyond Iosco County. As a result, this area's tourist accommodations expanded rapidly.

In addition to the gasoline crisis, Gov. William Milliken requested emergency energy-saving legislation Monday that would allow him to curtail some business lighting and even business hours, under declaration of a severe energy shortage.

The governor announced the acceleration of mass transit programs in urban areas and efforts to extend Amtrak railroad service to Northern Michigan.

The governor asked the legislature to give him the broad powers for the energy crisis before adjournment of the current session on December 14.

He asked for immediate passage of a bill allowing him to lower state speed limits to 50 miles an hour, a step he said would save an estimated 250-million gallons of gasoline each year. The national congress is being asked to impose a nationwide 50 mile-per-hour speed limit for cars and 55 mile-per-hour limit for trucks and buses.

President Nixon said Monday that America's energy crisis is a temporary problem that can be overcome by making the nation self-sufficient and putting it in a position "where nobody can cut our lifeline."

Industrial stocks took the fifth largest loss in history Monday, plunging more than 29 points on the New York Stock Exchange, as investors believe that programs designed to meet the energy crisis may lead to a national business recession.

Water Board Members Recommend Uniform Sewer Tax Assessment

A plan to equalize front foot costs to property owners in proposed special assessment districts for sewer construction was submitted last night to the city council by the Tawas City Water Board.

The plan, which calls for equalizing all special assessment costs at around $20 per front foot, was developed Monday night during a long discussion between members and City Mgr. Reginald Bublitz.

Members of the water board were confident that the plan would be acceptable to property owners as well as the city council, which makes the final decision on establishment of the sewer districts because of public necessity.

Basically, the water board's proposal would delete District No. 3 from the 1973 financing program and combine it with the Margo Street District for financial consideration after January 1. Because of the limitation on bonding the city for more than $200,000 in any one year, the Margo Street District was to have been established after January 1. District No. 3 comprises property abutting US-23 on the northwesterly side of US-23, 264 feet northerly of Woodward Street southwest to Elms Avenue.

Engineers have estimated that cost of sewer construction in District No. 3, consisting of 1,970 feet of eight-inch sanitary main, would result in a per front foot cost of $38 to property owners. This extremely high cost is due to the nine-foot depth required to serve property in that area, plus the fact that the line would serve only one side of the street.

During discussion, member of the water board came to the conclusion that property owners in the same general area should not be penalized because of sewer depth, particularly when it is necessary to maintain that depth to serve the Margo Street District and the latter district could not be served without construction of the former.

As a result of this reasoning, the water board recommended to the city council that the district with the deep sewer main be combined with the district having the shallow main and all property owners share the cost equally.

The Margo Street District comprises 4,405 feet of sewer main. The city's engineering consultant has estimated that the per front foot cost to property owners in the new combined district would be from $19.25 to $20, thus reducing the $38 per front foot cost to property owners in District No. 3.

In addition to the above, Bublitz found that one large parcel of proposal would be omitted from District No. 3 when boundaries were originally established. Because of the fact that there is a December 31 deadline for establishing special assessment districts this year and the legal date to notify this property owner may have passed, the water board recommended that establishment of District No. 3 be delayed until after January 1.

If adopted by the council, all of the special assessment sewer districts would be constructed during 1974. Total estimated cost of the project is $40,000, of which approximately $40,000 would be borne by the city at large.

Besides finding the additional property, which actually lowered the front foot cost from $38 to $30.03 in District No. 3, the water board believed the council should give consideration to a 15 or 20 percent participation ratio by the city at large, rather than 10 percent, because the sewer serves only one side of the street.

The estimated $20 per front foot cost in the combined districts now compares favorably with the cost to property owners in the other two proposed districts. In District No. 1, comprising the River and Spring Street area, the front foot cost is $21.45, while in District No. 2, located along US-23 from Hale Street to the Hobby Lot, the estimated cost is $21.55 per front foot.

The water board expressed opposition to extending the sewer main up the alley in Block 12 of Porterfield's Addition, rather than to follow the engineer's original plan of constructing the sewer in the street right-of-way. Water board members said that the area to be served is not now developed, that the requested change would only complicate financing in the future to serve lots in Block 9 and that there would be no actual savings to the owner of Block 12.

In other business Monday night, the water board recommended that the city council adopt a new resolution establishing membership of the water board. When the council adopted a resolution 25 years ago, it provided that the board be composed of five members and the fire chief, who has voting privileges. Since a vacancy now exists on the water board, members believe that the board should consist of an odd number, possibly four members and the fire chief, in order to eliminate the possibility of a tie vote. Under terms of the city charter, councilmembers are prohibited from serving on the water board. The mayor pro tem and one councilman had formerly been members, but have been replaced.

The next regular meeting on December 24 has been canceled because of the holiday. If a meeting is necessary to take action on matters concerning the special assessment districts, a session would be called by the city manager for December 18.

The water board authorized the purchase of Christmas turkeys for city employees.

GOAL of the Tawas-Whittemore-Hale Community Chest was met last week and volunteers painted the "thermometer" at the Tawas Chamber of Commerce office, along with those at Hale and Whittemore, to signify the successful

Tawas A. Chamber Opens Membership Drive Today

Starting Wednesday (today), every businessman and community leader in this area may expect to be personally contacted regarding membership in the Tawas Area Chamber of Commerce.

A team of membership solicitors, headed by R. O. O'Neil of Consumers Power Company and Ronald Korthals of Arliss Woodward Real Estate, will lead a group of over 35 local merchants and professional men in this project. Each solicitor will be well prepared to answer any and all questions regarding the functions of the chamber.

Harris Barkman, president of the Tawas Area Chamber of Commerce, stated, "The success of this membership drive is crucial to all local business and the community to overcome and meet head-on the critical problems in the months ahead.

"The chamber needs and asks the cooperation of every citizen to strengthen and maintain the impetus of our growing cities. The chamber of commerce stands ready to meet its responsibilities to promote planned community action; to enhance the economic growth and progress of the Tawas area as well as to contribute to its general well being."

Barkman said he hoped that every individual contacted will grant these solicitors, who have taken valuable time away from their own business, without compensation, the courtesy of a few moments to be apprised of the chamber's efforts in behalf of the total community.

Starting Saturday, December 1, the chamber of commerce office, located at 402 Lake Street, Tawas City, telephone 362-3832, will be open during business hours daily, except Sunday, under the guidance of the new executive vice president, K. W. Williams.

Any person interested in chamber activities or membership not contacted by the membership solicitation teams is cordially invited to call or drop in at the office to get acquainted.

Students Arrive at School in Dark and Leave in Dark; No Bus Change Seen

Recommendations by the Michigan Department of Education concerning ways schools are to meet the current energy crisis are to be reviewed at the December 10 meeting of Tawas Area Board of Education.

Supt. Edward J. Barry said Tuesday that he was going to recommend to the board of education that no change be made in the bus transportation policy.

"Because of the split session inaugurated this year by Tawas Area School and the fact that some students arrive at school while it is still dark and others do not arrive home until after dark, it would be unsafe to walk along highways," said the superintendent.

He said that he was recommending that the present bus policy be maintained until such time that law stipulates otherwise. "If our buses run out of gasoline, we are just going to have to depend on buying gasoline from local service stations," he stated.

Barry said that Tawas Area School buildings are served by natural gas and, for the present, it appears there will be enough heating fuel for the current winter. He said that turning thermostats down to 66 degrees, as recommended, would result in a poor educational program. For the present, no decision has been made on this recommendation.

The superintendent reported that superintendents of Northern B Conference schools were to meet Wednesday (today) to discuss ways in which gasoline usage may be lowered. In Tawas' case, all spectator buses have been discontinued by the school, although the athletic booster club may sponsor spectator buses. If so, the board of education ruled at its last meeting that spectator buses could not utilize the school's gasoline supply.

Clearing Site for Federal Project

WORK STARTED last week on removal of an old house at 304 Bay Street, East Tawas, for a new federally-sponsored housing project for the elderly. One of the last projects being financed by the federal office of Housing and Urban Development, 30 high-rise housing units are to be provided at this location. Contractor for the project is Gregory Construction Company of Bay City. The old dwelling presently located at 304 Bay Street was constructed during the peak of the lumbering era, judging from materials being salvaged by Richard Shover and his son. Shover said Tuesday that the original builder did not use two by four-inch studs for the outside walls. The exterior wall consists of two by six to two by 10-inch white pine planks standing on end with a covering of siding.—Tawas Herald Photos.

Annual open house at the Tawas City Elementary Unit is to be held Wednesday, December 5, 7:00 to 8:30 p. m., and judging from the response by parents to similar events for the middle school and East Tawas Elementary Unit, next week's program should be well attended.

Administrators of Tawas Area School described the November 13 attendance at the middle school open house as "just super." There were approximately 600 persons in attendance, representing from 60 to 70 percent of parents of students attending grades six through eight.

"The school has been encouraged by this fine participation by parents," stated Supt. Edward J. Barry. "Interest in the school and its operation is necessary and this response has been most gratifying.

Parents are invited to bring their children to the open house at the Tawas City Elementary Unit, although there will be no individual conferences with teachers as such conferences were held earlier this fall.

Those attending will have the opportunity to meet teachers and to view displays of textbooks, as well as to hear explanations and participate in discussions on the school curriculum and program.

Deer Hunter Found Human Skeleton in National Forest

Investigation continues this week by Michigan State Police in an effort to identify a human skeleton found in Huron National Forest north of the AuSable River last Wednesday.

Officers at East Tawas said that a deer hunter found parts of a human skeleton, including the skull, jawbone, some ribs, a few other bones and some clothing remnants.

Police were unable to determine if the skeleton was of a man or woman and they estimated it had been in the woods for at least four or five years. The remains were taken to the state police crime laboratory at Lansing.

The skeleton was found five miles east of M-65 and four miles south of the Iosco-Alcona County line.

Officers said the skeleton had been stripped and bones were scattered about by a wild animal.

in the range of small contracting companies, bidding should be competitive on these projects.

He said, however, that regardless of competitive bidding, the cost of sewer construction here would be higher than for any previous project. The main reason for this is because previous sewer extension work has been handled by the city work force using city equipment and without a profit motive, as is necessary for a private contractor to remain in business.

The proposed sewer project is too large to be handled by the city crew and equipment. Total estimated cost is $240,000 with 730 feet of 10-inch sewer main, a river crossing and 3,494 feet of eight-inch sewer in District No. 1, comprising the River and Spring Street area; 1,170 feet of eight-inch sewer in District No. 2, from Hale Street southwesterly to the Hobby Lot, and 1,970 feet of eight-inch sewer in District No. 3, comprising property on the northwesterly side of US-23, some 264 feet northerly of Woodward Street in a southwesterly direction to Elms Avenue.

In addition to discussion on the sewer project at last night's special meeting, the council was to open bids from local contractors for hauling sand to the city park as part of the state's beach nourishment experimental project.

Miss Sutton was transferred to St. Mary's Hospital Saturday, November 24.

Bravettes Beat Pinny, Lost to Gladwin Girls

Tawas Area Bravettes defeated Pinconning girls' team, 78-12, on November 16, then lost to the undefeated Gladwin team, 46-36, last Friday night.

The Junior Bravettes won, 62-9, over Pinconning and turned in a 37-18 win over Gladwin.

Holding Gladwin to its lowest score of the season, the Tawas team turned in a good defensive game by keeping the Gladwin girls from shooting from the inside.

Tawas led early in the first quarter until two offensive fouls were whistled against the Bravettes. The Tawas girls regained their composure and, in the fourth quarter, staged a battle until the last minutes of play when Gladwin could not miss the bucket.

Debi Clark led Tawas with 14 points, followed by nine points for Donya McKenzie, seven points for Linda Kobs, four points for Liz Ballor and two points by Julie Youngs.

Leading scorers for the Junior Bravettes in the Gladwin game were Mary Jane Williams, 15 points; Cheryl Myles, 10 points; Shellee Davison, four points; Kim Marx, Vickie Davison, Cindy Zenser and Crista Morrical, two points each.

Spent Slug Hit Hunter in Big Toe

Board Acted Monday Night

Oscoda Drops Athletics

As the result of a four to three vote Monday night by the board of education opposing a third millage vote, Oscoda Area School District has adopted a major cutback in its school program for the remainder of the 1973-74 term.

Included in the cutback will be the elimination of all athletics, instrumental music and class plays, plus elimination of some auxiliary services, teachers' aides and nurses. There will be a change in study halls and teachers are expected to take over some work formerly handled by aides. In an effort to reduce the cost of substitute teachers, principals and counselors will be filling those spots.

Regardless of the above cutbacks, school officials are of the opinion that a deficit of approximately $200,000 will not be balanced.

Following defeat at its most recent millage election, teachers of the district proposed Monday night to the board of education that a proposal

LOWER MICHIGAN'S lumbering era was fast coming to an end when a shift in international politics saw construction of one of the state's largest and most modern sawmills at East Tawas, replacing two mills which had gone up in smoke as the supply of local timber dwindled. When Canada removed its tariff on white pine logs, Holland and Emery Company constructed this huge manufacturing complex to handle logs rafted across Lake Huron from Georgian Bay. The "boom" lasted less than five years as another shift in international politics cut off the log supply from Canada.

Industry Was Built on Shift in Politics

Log Rafting 'Boom' Proved Bust

Northeastern Michigan's white pine era was coming to an end in the last decade of the nineteenth century when international politics intervened to give Lake Huron shore towns their last boom in the lumbering business. But the fortunes of politics proved a poor foundation upon which to build a lasting industry—the boom of 1893 turned into "bust" within five years.

As the 1890s dawned, saw mills hummed at the mouth of the AuSable River and on Tawas Bay, but the region's supply of white pine was nearing an end. Millions of feet of lordly pine trees had been felled, hauled to banking grounds and floated down the AuSable, AuGres, Rifle and Tawas Rivers to be quickly transformed into lumber through the hungry jaws of mills at AuSable-Oscoda and the Tawas.

The end of the lumbering business had been predictable through accurate measurement of the region's standing pine, but so boundless had been the forests and so thick the stand of pine timber that lumbermen had believed that the supply was limitless and the timber would never be cut out. Such a belief was not unnatural as the same result has held true for many natural resources being harvested—before and since.

Tawas Bay's lumbering business had an early start with the Whittemores in the 1850s, but it was not until the late 1860s that the lumber manufacture moved into a gigantic scale all along the Huron shore and the major share of the virgin white pine forest was harvested in less than 20 years.

Development of railroads speeded logs to the mills and the supply of standing pine soon evaporated like the exhaust steam hanging above mills equipped with the latest innovations in the lumber manufacturing industry.

AuSable had a rude awakening when, in the year 1890, the Gram mill burned and the giant Potts Company failed. The following year, the Penoyar mill was dismantled and moved to the Upper Peninsula. In 1892, the Gratwick, Smith and Fryer mill at Oscoda sounded its whistle for the last time. The Lounds, through an expensive extension of their narrow gauge railroad far into the interior, still had a substantial supply of pine, cedar and hardwood and were to continue operation until the fire of 1911.

The same bleak prospect hung over the heads of millmen of the Tawas—the supply of local timber was fast dwindling. C. H. Prescott and Sons of Tawas City had enough timber near Long Lake to keep their mill operating for another 15 years, but Wenona Salt and Lumber Company, the last in the line of successors to the Whittemores, was pinched for logs. At East Tawas, two of its mills burned and upwards of 200 men were thrown out of work. Sawmills in the 1890s were prone to turn into ashes, much to the discomfort of insurance firms, once the supply of timber was cut.

Time was running out on Tawas Bay's lumbering business and millmen were again looking westward—toward the untouched stands of pine in Idaho and the Pacific Northwest; others moved entire mills to Upper Peninsula lumbering centers to continue the white pine slaughter for a few more years.

East Tawas was fortunate to have a man of vision when, in 1890, a shift in national politics suddenly changed the entire lumbering business on Tawas Bay. That man proved to be Temple Emery and the political shift was revision of the American lumber tariff.

For years lumbermen had looked longingly at the vast stands of white pine in the watershed of Georgian Bay, but great problems were involved in the successful realization of such a project. Not only did the Canadian government impose a heavy export duty on pine saw logs but, as yet, no safe or economical means of transporting logs across such large bodies of water as Lake Huron had been devised. The first obstacle was removed by revision of the American lumber tariff in 1890; the second was overcome by technical improvements in the method of lake rafting.

Emery, who had been identified with the lumbering business at East Tawas since 1878 and was the only local lumberman solvent enough to withstand the financial crash of 1879, had control of not less than one hundred mill board feet of white pine along the Wahnapiatae River in Canada. In 1896, Emery rushed to completion a huge barge which would transport logs across Lake Huron to the company mill at East Tawas.

But transportation by barge proved expensive and lumbermen concentrated their efforts toward development of a safe and economical method of raft towing. The solution proved to be surrounding a mass of logs with a "bracelet" of large diameter logs strung on a chain.

DEVELOPMENT of a new method of log rafting provided a practical means of towing saw logs from Georgian Bay across the wide expanse of Lake Huron to East Tawas and other manufacturing centers along the shore. These men are using long augers to bore holes through logs. A "bracelet" was formed by chaining the logs together and hundreds of logs floated in the enclosed area.

With removal of the export duty on Canadian saw logs in 1890, the door was opened to Michigan lumbermen for this new supply of logs. Emery made a proposition to the people of East Tawas in the fall of 1892: In consideration of the gift of the site of the two burned mills, he would guarantee that by the middle of May 1893, a large saw mill, salt block, shingle mill and dry kiln would be in operation. The proposition was accepted by taxpayers, the site was purchased and deeded to the Holland Emery Lumber Company, a new firm composed of Nelson Holland of Saginaw and Emery, who served as president.

Work began immediately on moving Holland's large mill and salt block at Saginaw to the new site. New machinery was purchased and more than a dozen buildings were constructed making this plant one of the largest and most modern lumber manufacturing centers in the state. The company had a paid up capital of more than $250,000. In addition, the Holland and Emery Lumber Company was instrumental in forming the Holland Hotel Company, said by the local editor to have one of the finest hotels in the north and constructed at a cost of $35,000.

Mill men of East Tawas believed they now had sufficient pine to supply mills for the next 15 or 20 years. So well had the work been systematized that the saw logs were delivered to the mills at even less expense than those cut from the Michigan pine forest, according to one observer.

The rafting season on the lakes usually lasted from late May until early October. During the spring, logs were driven down rivers and streams emptying into Georgian Bay and Lake Huron and run out into storage booms. With the arrival of a tug and an empty boom, logs were emptied into the boom and formed into a raft. Many of the rafts attained large proportions and probably the largest soon on Lake Huron during the 1890s was one towed from Georgian Bay to Tawas Bay—it contained 91,700 logs, scaled 10,000,000

Schools Cooperate in Graduate Survey

Local schools are cooperating with the Michigan Department of Education in a survey of 1973 graduates. The purpose of the survey is to help determine the effectiveness of existing high school programs and their relationship to the graduates' initial employment.

According to Bruce Vickey, career education director of Iosco Intermediate School District, the survey will also be used to determine the effectiveness of the schools' role in assisting their graduates to establish a career in the world of work. The intent here is to do a more effective job matching graduates with their first employer after graduation. Particular emphasis will be given to matching the vocational education graduate in an occupation compatible with his or her vocational training, Vickey said.

The survey also attempts to determine the relationship between first employment and the school assistance the graduates received in getting their first position.

Free Firewood Obtainable Under Federal Permit

Kenton P. Clark, forest supervisor, Huron-Manistee National Forest, has announced that permits are being issued to individuals to obtain free firewood from certain national forest lands.

Treaties of a fuel shortage have created quite an interest in firewood, according to Clark. Many permits have already been issued for cutting wood on lands which have recently been logged. Clean-up of dead and down timber will not only provide more pleasing aesthetics, but will also reduce the potential for a large fire if a fire should start in the cut-over areas.

Permits may be issued for as much as 10 cords. The wood is for personal use only and cannot be resold. Only dead trees and timber fallen to the ground may be cut.

Clark pointed out that anyone in this area wishing a permit should contact Tawas district ranger, East Tawas, telephone 362-4477.

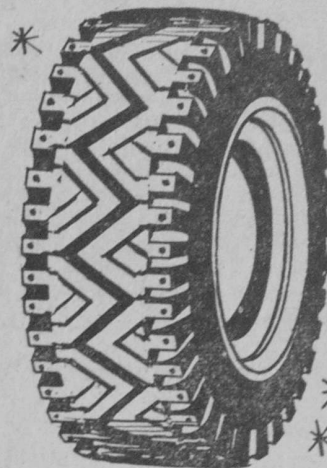

Requests for a free-use permit should include the amount of firewood desired and the general area where it will be cut. If an individual does not know of an area that he prefers to cut in, he will be given a map showing a cut-over area he can cut in.

All district ranger offices are open Monday through Friday, 8:00 a. m. to 5:00 p. m., except for national holidays.

Surveys are to be mailed from local high schools to their 1973 graduates. Graduates are requested to return completed surveys to their high schools as soon as possible. The high schools will collect and forward the surveys to the Michigan Department of Education in Lansing where they will be compiled by computer and the results returned to the local schools sometime in January. Graduates can assist local schools and the Michigan Department of Education in improving educational programs locally and state-wide by participating in the survey.

STEAM TUGS were used to tow huge rafts of logs across the open water of Lake Huron and one of the largest recorded rafts was brought to Tawas Bay. Utilizing this naturally sheltered harbor, rafts were broken up into smaller ones to provide logs for mills along the shore.

RAILROAD LOGGING METHODS were responsible for speeding the end of Michigan's lumbering industry. Narrow gauge railroad lines were thrust far into the interior of the state to tap stands of white pine, thus providing a more efficient means of transporting logs to the mills. This was one of the Shay geared locomotives utilized by H. N. Loud and Sons to bring logs to AuSable-Oscoda and other Huron shore manufacturing centers.

TEMPLE EMERY Invested heavily in a new mill at the end of the lumbering era.

Remember the first time you picked up a wool blanket with a label that said "100 percent virgin wool—machine washable?"

A few years ago, such a thing was unheard of. Woolens could not be machine washed because they shrank. Everybody knew that. Today, washable wool is a reality. What happened? For one thing, synthetics happened and the consumer quickly got used to clothes that did not need a lot of special care at laundry time. Why buy wool that has to be dry cleaned or hand-washed and spread flat to dry when you can buy a garment made of a synthetic that can be tossed into the washer and dryer?

The task was to bring wool into line with consumers' demands for convenience so that it could compete with synthetics. Researchers first tackled the basic question, "why does wool shrink?" They found that the surface of wool fibers is covered with overlapping scales all pointing in one direction. When the fibers get wet, they get soft. The fibers slide along each other and the scales lock and hold the fibers together. The result is shrinkage.

What was needed was a coating applied to the fibers that would not change the softness of the fibers but that would cover the scales so they would not catch on one another. The fibers could then slide back to their original position. The search for such a coating was successful and the result was these wonderfully washable wools that provide consumers with the convenience and easy care they demand.

Answers to Social Security Questions

Question: In a few weeks, I will be changing my job and moving to another state. Should I notify a social security office of my new address?

Answer: No, not unless you are getting social security checks. Social security does not keep an up-to-date record of your mailing address until you start getting benefits. Regardless of where you work or live, social security keeps one central record of your earnings in work covered by social security. You use the same social security number in any state and your number and name are enough to credit your earnings to your record no matter where you are.

Question: I am a widow with five young children. I expected my social security checks to stop when I went to work full time, but I still get the same amount every month. Why?

Answer: With five young children, your family is still entitled to a maximum family benefit amount based on your husband's earnings. Since your five children continue to collect social security, your family keeps getting the same monthly amount, the family maximum, whether you work or not. Stopping your check and increasing the monthly amount paid to each of your children could cause an interruption in your family's payments. For this reason and to save administrative costs, the checks continue in your name.

Question: I am retired and my 18-year-old son, who gets monthly social security checks, will finish high school in June. After graduation, he wants to take a training program in heavy equipment operation. Will he still be able to get monthly checks while he is taking this training?

Answer: Possibly. Your son's student checks can continue until he is 22 as long as he is in full-time attendance in a vocational school or program supported by the state, local or federal government and he remains unmarried. You should get in touch with any social security office to see if your son's training program would qualify him for student benefits.

Question: My children and I have been getting monthly social security checks since my husband's death last year. He had been in the army since 1952. Someone told me that there was a change in figuring social security benefits for military service. Is this true?

Answer: Yes. A new provision of the law gives additional military wage credits of $100 per month for active military service after 1956. You must apply to receive this additional credit. You can do this at any social security office.

Gas Company to Refund Money to Its Customers

Michigan Consolidated Gas Company has announced that it will make a refund of approximately 2.5-million dollars to its customers during December.

Hugh C. Daly, president of the utility, said the refund will average about $1.25 for customers who heat their homes with gas and 25 cents for non-heating residential customers. Commercial and industrial customers will also share in the refund. He said the Michigan Public Service Commission has approved the company's proposal to return the money to its customers as a credit on their December bills.

Daly said the refund results from a temporary decrease in the rates of Michigan Wisconsin Pipe Line Company, the utility's principal gas supplier. The pipe line increased its rates November 1, 1972, under rules of the Federal Power Commission, which provides for refunding if upon final order the commission sets lower rates. Michigan Consolidated passed the higher wholesale costs on to its customers at that time, under refund provisions established by the MPSC.

On July 24, the FPC ordered a slight temporary reduction in the pipe line's rates, going back to November 1, generating the refund. The pipe line reduction enabled Michigan Consolidated to immediately reduce its rates about one-half cent per thousand cubic feet. However, the rates went back up to their previous level on September 1, following an order from the FPC to Michigan Wisconsin to alter its rate schedules.

Senior Citizen Homestead Exemption Forms Available

It is almost time for Michigan's elderly citizens—65 years of age or older—to start preparing to take advantage of part of the tax reduction that was voted for them by the state legislature earlier this year.

In fact, in many instances, it will not be necessary to wait until next year to file for their property tax refund. This can be done as soon as the person knows how much his or her property tax and "household income" will be for this year. Property tax statements in Iosco County are due to be mailed around December 1.

"Household income" is all income received by the claimant and spouse, including social security, retirement benefits, disability payments, any public assistance given in cash, pensions, annuities and workmen's compensation.

Under the new law, the amount of relief a senior citizen will receive on his "homestead"—the place of his actual residence—will be based on a sliding scale. If the household income is less than $3,000, the state will refund all the property tax. If between $3,000 and $4,000, all property tax over one percent will be refunded; if from $4,000 to $5,000, the rebate would be all taxes paid in excess of two percent; between $5,000 and $6,000, the rebate is based on three percent of income; if more than $6,000, property tax in excess of 3.5 percent is rebated.

As an example, a person with total household income of $5,400 would be able to deduct $162 or three percent and subtract that from the property tax paid.

Renters may consider 17 percent of their annual rent paid as property taxes and figure their refund the same way. The maximum credit or rebate for either taxes or rent is $500.

Property tax relief will be received as a credit against state income tax liability. If the property tax relief exceeds the income tax liability, the claimant will receive a refund just as income tax refunds now are received.

Those who do not have to file an income tax can apply for their property tax relief directly on a simple short form (MI-1040CR) to be provided by the state treasury department. The forms are also available through such places as banks, post offices, city halls and branch offices of the state department. Township supervisors and city officers have the forms and help in filling them out.

By filling out the refund forms early, persons may receive their rebates in time to use it to help pay their tax bill. To insure this, it is best to apply for rebates in December.

For this year only, senior citizens will get double relief, because they will still be entitled to their homestead tax exemption, which will be repealed next year. The tax relief law passed this year also provides for an income tax deduction by increasing the exemption of senior citizens from $2,400 to $3,000, but this will not apply on income earned this year.

To correct a situation under which owners of about 10,000 homes valued at less than $2,500 would have to pay taxes next year, the legislature is expected to take action to make it unnecessary for them to pay any property taxes if their income is less than $3,000.

Bus Vandalism, Gas Stealing On Increase at School

Tawas Area School is now in the process of installing locks on all of its school buses in an effort to reduce vandalism which has increased during the past several months.

John Alexander, high school principal, reported Wednesday that several hundred gallons of gasoline have been stolen from buses after the fleet has returned to the school at the end of the day.

In addition, fire extinguishers and flares have been stolen from buses.

"At a cost of $35 each for fire extinguishers, this is outrageous, not to mention the fact that it is a safety hazard when the bus must leave the school grounds before a replacement can be purchased," said Alexander.

The principal said that the odds were against officers from the sheriff's department and state police in determining the persons responsible. In a wooded area adjacent to school property, the remains of a bonfire were found and the ashes included metal from stolen fire extinguishers.

School officials and police are attempting to discover the reason for this sudden increase in vandalism, particularly at the time when bus maintenance and gasoline costs are on the increase.

"We have had occasional problems previously, but never anything like this," said Alexander. He said that residents of the area with pertinent information were being urged to cooperate with school officials and police by notifying authorities immediately.

Change Plea, Pair Get Hearing Today in 1971 Beating-Death of H. Hatton

Two men accused of the August 16, 1971, beating death of Howard Hatton, 64, Tawas City barber, appeared recently in district court at Standish for preliminary examination on a new trial.

Charles N. Woods, 28, Omer, and Frank W. Spencer, 37, Pontiac, are free on cash bond after being released from Southern Michigan Prison earlier this year.

The two had appeared on murder charges at their original trial in the fall of 1971 and were sentenced to prison on a lesser offense after pleading guilty.

Since then, they have appealed the conviction and have been granted a new trial. The men have withdrawn their guilty pleas.

Hatton was found severely beaten

Teachers May Ask Oscoda Board for Third Millage Try

Following the November 5 defeat of Oscoda Area School's operational tax proposal, the executive board of Oscoda Education Association has announced that it will ask the board of education to seek another millage election to allow the current school program to be maintained.

The latest millage election, second to be defeated this year by school district voters, ended in a tie following a recount, 1,040-1,040. In June of this year, a board proposal was soundly defeated.

In June of 1972, voters approved a three-mill proposal for three years. Since then, however, a change in the state aid formula has resulted in a deficit of approximately $200,000 for the 1973-74 school year.

Voter authorization of an additional 2.4 mills had been sought November 5 to make up for this deficit.

Should authorization for a third vote be given and even if successful at the polls, the district could have a problem in timing for collection of the special tax. Permission had been granted by the state to hold the last election after the normal deadline. The county tax department had delayed on preparing annual tax statements until after the election. The tax statements are to be mailed to property owners on or about December 1.

In the meantime, school authorities have announced cuts in the school's extra-curricular and academic programs in order to present a balanced budget to the state, as required by law.

Concert Slated December 2 at TA School

The choir will sing selections from the "Messiah" by Handel, and "Sing, Oh Ye Heavens," a Christmas cantata by Helen Jun Marth, plus many favorite holiday selections.

New Auxiliary Police Force Formed Here

George Westcott, Iosco County sheriff, announced Friday, November 23, the establishment of a new auxiliary force designed to assist regular deputies on a part time basis. The unit, to be named the Iosco County Sheriff's Auxiliary, will consist of a 24-man squad capable of functioning in independent groups of 12 or six men or as a single unit.

The sheriff's department is seeking 150 applicants from Iosco County. Selection will be made by a board composed of the sheriff, undersheriff, auxiliary captain and select deputies. Applicants accepted will range in age from 18 to 40 years. Each man will be expected to participate a minimum of four hours per week. No pay will be involved and deputies will be expected to provide their own basic uniform.

Hal Vader of Oscoda will head the squad under the supervision of Westcott and Basil Odell, undersheriff. Interested applicants may apply at the Iosco County Sheriff's Department, Tawas City, where applications and a copy of the auxiliary rules will be available after December 1.
