AuSable River Stories Published

Thanks to the perseverance of his granddaughter, a dream of William H. (Billy) Ellis of Oscoda has finally come true.

Mr. Ellis died in 1958 at the age of 95, but he would have admired the handsome hard-bound book which was published last week. Stamped in gold leaf on the book is the title: "Pick-Ups and a Horse"—Ellis.

A noted story teller around Oscoda's old town pump, Ellis put down on paper in manuscript form a "story of facts that came up in the work that I've done in the lumber camps, on the AuSable River and on the old AuSable and Northwestern Railroad."

In 1935, Ellis completed the task and submitted his manuscript to a number of authorities in the state for reading. Some of the comments were encouraging, but other comments contained some kind criticism. It is not known if he felt it was too much of a job to revise his manuscript, but it was never published.

Ellis, like the majority of his contemporaries, had the equivalent of only a fourth grade education and his literary style was not polished. Some of the more sympathetic reviewers recognized that, despite Ellis' poor grammar, his work had a certain charm and, more importantly, had historical merit.

His son-in-law, the late Edward H. (Bert) Stickney, helped to organize the manuscript and drew a map to spot locations. The manuscript remained with the Stickney family and, in 1968, Ellis' granddaughter, Mrs. John (Mary Jane) Hennigar of Oscoda, decided that her grandfather's book should be published.

Mrs. Hennigar submitted several chapters for reading and comments to members of the Isosco Historical Society, received encouraging words but no financial assistance and decided to undertake the publishing task herself. Her husband assisted in the project by combing the AuSable River region for old pictures. Mrs. Hennigar, who had worked in the Oscoda Township Library and had experience working in a newspaper office, began the task of adding some necessary dates and explanations to the manuscript, but made only a few revisions.

As the project moved slowly to completion after five years, Mrs. Hennigar used her artistic talents to provide pen and ink sketches to illustrate various chapters and the cover.

Because of the expense involved and limited sales potential, publication of first person accounts concerning Michigan's lumbering era have been rare during recent years, but state historians, libraries, collectors and amateurs specializing in the lumbering era always welcome such a find. The book contains factual information concerning operations of lumbering camps, boom companies and railroads in the AuSable River region, filling in voids which have been neglected in other publications.

Ellis' book, published 17 years after his death, should have strong

Mayor Robert C. Bolen, who has served in that office since 1972 and was first elected to the city council in 1964, filed his petition for reelection.

Other candidates include Grace C. Pelton, treasurer, and Clyde Soper, clerk.

Seeking re-election to the city council are George F. Staudacher, First Ward; James E. Crowley, Second Ward; Jacob C. Montgomery, Third Ward.

Footings of Tax Rolls Show City Valuation Adjustments

Tax boards of review which met last month brought in combined real estate and personal property valuations of $13,983,950 for East Tawas and $10,046,150 for Tawas City, according to Robin Allain, county tax equalization director.

The county tax department is now in the process of footing assessment rolls of other units of the county and the annual equalization report is to be submitted to the county board of commissioners on Tuesday, April 15. Individual governmental units have until April 7 for completion of assessment reviews.

According to East Tawas' report, real estate valuation in that community in 1975 totals $12,390,200, as compared to $10,356,100 last year. This difference included a $29,850 loss for residential, a plus adjustment of $1,472,730 for residential and $196,020 in new construction bringing the residential valuation total to $9,934,000, as compared to $8,295,300 in 1974.

Changes in other categories included a plus adjustment of $342,690 in commercial and new commercial construction of $35,310 for a total commercial valuation of $2,402,100, as compared to $2,024,100 in 1974. A $400 adjustment was made to industrial bringing that total to $3,000 and a $16,800 adjustment brought the timber cutover total to $50,900.

Personal property at East Tawas has a total valuation of $1,593,750, as compared to $1,350,625 in 1974. In the commercial category, there was a $9,500 loss, a plus adjustment of $111,775 and new construction of $47,600 for a total of $1,073,100 in commercial property. The utility personal property had a plus adjustment of $93,250 for a total of $520,650 in that category.

Real estate valuation in Tawas City totals $8,392,600, as compared to $7,055,300 in 1974. The new commercial total of $2,514,800 includes a plus adjustment of $290,170 and new construction of $50,430. The industrial category had a $17,900 plus adjustment to bring that total to $237,800.

The residential real estate valuation in Tawas City stands at $5,636,400, as compared to $4,657,600 in 1974. The report indicated a $13,400 loss in this category while the plus adjustment amounted to $916,470. There was $75,730 in new construction.

Tawas City's personal property valuation totals $1,653,550, as compared to $1,501,800 in 1974. The major change in this category was in utilities, reflecting a $102,700 plus adjustment to bring the total in that category to $608,400. Commercial personal property totaled $790,600, as compared to $724,600 in 1974, had a loss of $5,300, a plus adjustment of $32,690 and new construction of $38,650. The industrial personal category had a minus adjustment of $16,950 bringing that total to $254,550.

Allain said that the final report on these two units, along with other reports yet to be received, would have some slight changes when the footing report is presented to the board of commissioners. He said that some errors in tabulations by the boards of review had been detected in his office.

PRESENTING the gavel to Roger McIntosh, new president of Tawas Chamber of Commerce, is Harris Barkman, who had served in that office for the past four years. Besides its regular promotion of area recreational activities and business, McIntosh said the chamber would continue its support of US-23 improvement, assist the area in its regional water concept and promote the state planting of fish in Tawas Bay, to name a few of the activities supported last year by the chamber.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Two Juveniles Under Court Supervision

Two 16-year-old juveniles from the Tawas area involved in an armed robbery March 21 at Strauter's Market west of Tawas City continue under supervision of Isosco Probate Court following a preliminary hearing held last week.

Probate Judge William H. McCready said the juveniles have been turned over to the care and custody of their parents, under court supervision, during continuation of investigation by his office.

The juveniles were apprehended by sheriff's department officers minutes after one subject, wearing a ski mask, held three persons at gunpoint in the store and demanded money from the cash register. A paper bag containing $375 taken in the robbery was recovered in a car driven by one of the subjects.

State law prohibits publication of the names of juvenile offenders who remain in the custody of the probate court.

Circulate Petitions on Board Decision

Contents of a petition to be presented Monday, April 14, to Tawas Area Board of Education questioning the board's decision not to renew Supt. Edward J. Barry's contract for 1975-76 was released this week by Mrs. Louis Pfeiffer of Tawas City.

Mrs. Pfeiffer, who appeared at the March 24 meeting and requested to be included on the agenda for the next meeting, said that names signed on the petition consist of taxpayers, parents and concerned citizens, "who care about the education of the young people of our community."

At its last meeting, Mrs. Charles Schreck, board president, explained that the matter is presently in the hands of attorneys for the school and Mr. Barry and, as a consequence, board of education members were not at liberty to discuss the situation.

Opinions expressed in the petition praised Barry for "noticeable changes taking place within the school district" during his term as superintendent, including: "teachers seemed to suddenly really care," "the future here at Tawas Area definitely was not as dim as before," "our administrators seemed happier and more receptive to all concerned and appeared to be working with a newly-found unity," "almost every department, at one time or another, was affected towards 'thinking progress,' due to the confidence, poise and spunk shown us by our new superintendent."

The petition questioned why no reasons were given, following unanimous board action in executive session, for not renewing Barry's contract. The petition expressed the opinion that the public has a right to be informed.

Hiring and firing of public school administrators has legally been the exclusive prerogative of elected boards of education and the petition apparently questions this action. Litigation on one such suit is pending in a Thumb area court.

The plaintiff claims that the car was driven in a reckless, careless and negligent manner and that he sustained permanent injuries in the crash.

Federal Grant Approved for Forest Roads

A $560,000 public lands highway funds grant has been received by the Isosco Road Commission. The decision by the federal highway administration to fund the project was announced by Cong. Philip Ruppe.

The funds will be used to reconstruct Monument Road from approximately its intersection with Kobs Road to Lumbermen's Monument and River Road from Lumbermen's Monument to M-65.

Actual construction will entail widening and resurfacing the existing roadway, with some new vertical alignment between Camel Road and Gordon Creek.

Allocation for this project comes from the two-billion dollars in impounded federal highway funds recently released by President Ford. Two stipulations were attached to the funds that the construction be authorized not later than July and that the project be under construction within 45 days after authorization. The funds are to assist in an immediate creation of new jobs.

This grant represents the culmination of an intensive effort by the Isosco County Road Commission to obtain federal assistance for reconstruction of these two roads. The road commission felt that, since Monument and River

RR Crossing Projects Get Tentative OK

Tentative approval has been received on a federal grant to assist in reconstruction of nine railroad crossings in this county, according to a report Thursday by James Delahanty, engineer-manager of the Isosco County Road Commission.

Total cost of the project, estimated at approximately $80,000, would be financed through a 90 percent federal grant. The remaining 10 percent would be split by the road commission and the Detroit and Mackinac Railway.

Crossings would be reconstructed at the following locations: Britt Road, south of Michigan Gypsum Company; National City Road, National City; Sand Lake Road, McIvor; Townline Road, west of US-23; Aulerich Road, Industrial Park, Baldwin Township; Old US-23, AuSable Township; River Road, west of the AuSable River; Lodge Road, Capehart Housing Area, Wurtsmith Air Force Base; F-4 (old M-171), north of VanEtan Creek.

Asphalt and wooden structures in the crossings would be removed, ties and rails would be brought to the proper grade and the crossings would be resurfaced with asphalt. Guard rails would be installed at three of the crossings.

The work would be undertaken during the summer months, with the road commission performing part of the project and the remainder by the railroad.

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor:

My appearance at the Tawas Area Board of Education meeting March 24 is now, of course, history. However, I feel that for some reason or other the board deliberately set out to upset my appearance. Well, thanks to having the media on hand, the general reasons for my appearance were made known to the general public. In view of this fact, I feel that all was not lost. But, in any event, it would seem to me that I was "out-of-order," which according to school policy, in fact, I was.

However, at this time I feel I must defend myself by stating flatly that not only was I told that I was to appear on the agenda (for that meeting), but was called back for authorization after the board president had been notified, for final confirmation. I have accepted previously and been accepted on the agenda under these same circumstances. In fact, I have NEVER been placed on the agenda, in any other manner.

Obviously a last minute change was made in the agenda, for one reason or another. I feel I might have at least been extended the courtesy of informing me of this change in the agenda. I believe I deserved this courtesy in view of the fact that I have, in the past, tried to aid our school system in every way I could for approximately 10 years running. Furthermore (to my knowledge) I have never given the board of education any reason to think that my motives were other than sincere, and at least in the best interest of Tawas Area Schools. I felt that I had valid reasons for asking to appear before the board (in part or on the agenda), in the past, and was treated fairly each and every time, until now. I felt this request was also valid. However, now I must relate to all concerned, that I feel I was not treated fairly in this particular instance.

Had I been extended the courtesy of appearing on the agenda, I feel many items regarding this particular issue would have been clarified. (These clarifications would have also been picked up by the attending media, I am sure.)

In any event I will still try to be placed on the agenda at the next regular school board meeting, April 14, attempting to get the same answers.

I still strongly believe the board of education should feel obliged to consider their responsibilities to the voters that respected them and admired their judgment enough to put them on the board to represent our opinions, or at least act in the best interests of our young people. In this particular instance, I do not think the board members are giving any heed whatsoever to our opinions.

In brief, we are not, I repeat not, demanding anything of the board, except giving our opinions just a little consideration, before such final decisions are made.

I would feel just as strongly about any person or issue within the entire system, under these circumstances.

Sincerely,
Eleanor Pfeiffer

10 COST COMPARISONS MORE ON LABELS

Per Pound vs. Per Serving

Round steak at $1.49 per pound. Arm chuck steak at 99¢ per pound. They really cost the same! At least, they do if you're figuring price per serving rather than price per pound—and that's one good way to make a choice at the meat counter, say Michigan State University consumer marketing agents.

Because of differences in the amount of bone, fat and gristle in various cuts of beef, the number of edible servings you get differs. For example, you'll get 3-4 servings from a pound of round steak, but only about 2 from a chuck roast with bone.

Suppose you're debating between arm chuck at 99¢ per pound and round steak at $1.49 per pound; you'll find they both cost 50¢ per serving. The reason: arm chuck yields only 2 servings per pound; round steak yields 3.

Or, a sirloin steak at $2.99 per pound costs $1 per serving, since you get about 3 servings per pound. But a porterhouse steak, also at $2.99 per pound, costs $1.50 per serving—because you only get 2 servings per pound.

Kitchen Arithmetic

If you look up the current prices listed in your newspaper's meat ads and use the chart below, you can easily figure how much you pay for an average serving of each kind of beef. Although you won't likely compute these costs while in the grocery store, a little figuring with newspaper in hand at home will give you a grasp of price differences when you do shop.

Two Helpful Guides

The freshness date and nutritional label you see on many processed meat products can be helpful buying guides, says Mary Zehner, Michigan State University consumer marketing specialist.

Because your nutritional needs differ depending on whether you're an adult, a youngster or an expectant mother, nutritional labels can't be precise for every individual. But you can still use the nutritional label as a basic buying guide.

Just Another Hassle?

Nutritional labeling may seem like just another hassle—especially if you have your 3-year-old in the grocery cart while you shop, or your time in the store is tight because you work full time away from home.

"Nonetheless, a little time spent looking at labels may help you serve more nutritionally-balanced meals," Miss Zehner points out.

"Use the nutritional label to find out which foods are plentiful in which vitamins, minerals, and other nutrients. Then plan your menu to include a good balance from the four basic food groups.

How to Read It

All nutritional labels follow a standard format. The label must list: 1) size of serving (1 cup, 2 franks, 3 oz.) and number of servings per package, 2) calories per serving, 3) grams of protein, carbohydrate and fat per serving, and 4) percentage of the U.S. Recommended Daily Allowance (USRDA) of protein and seven vitamins and minerals per serving.

Other optional nutritional information may also be on the label.

To figure cost per serving, divide local price-per-pound by servings-per-pound. For example: $1 per pound ÷ 2 servings per pound = 50¢ per serving.

KIND OF BEEF	SERVINGS PER POUND
Hamburger, ground beef, liver, boneless stew meat, cube steak, flank steak, heart, eye & heel of round, kidney, beef tenderloin.	4 to 5
Round Steak	3 to 4
Sirloin Roast, Boneless Chuck Roast, Rump Roast, Tongue	3
Rib & Chuck Steak, Rib Roast with Bone, Chuck Roast with Bone, Porterhouse Steak	2
Sirloin Steak, Boneless Rib Roast	2½
Short Ribs	1 to 2

For a complete list of servings-per-pound of all meats, including poultry, pork and processed meats, obtain a free single copy of E-658-I "How Far Will Your Meat Go?" MSU Bulletin Office, Box 231, E. Lansing, MI 48824.

The USRDA is the standard used by the Food & Drug Administration for listing the nutritive values it has established for protein, vitamins and minerals needed each day for a well-balanced diet.

When two similar products are priced differently, check for a nutrient listing. If the nutrients are listed, compare the two products. Perhaps one is priced higher because it contains more of some nutrients. On the other hand, if the nutrients listed are about the same for both products, the low-cost one could be a bargain.

Hieroglyphics?

Many processed meat labels now carry a stamped-on freshness date. For the most part, such dates are no longer in hieroglyphics. Instead, many firms are now using meaningful terms such as "To Be Sold By May 28" or "Full Flavor 7 Days Beyond May 28."

That doesn't mean that if a product is dated May 28, it will automatically be spoiled on May 29," Miss Zehner says.

The date on the package allows you several days to use up the product. In other words, there's a sort of built-in customer-use factor.

Also, the date on the package isn't a guarantee of freshness, but rather a guide to freshness. If the product is mishandled during transport or by the grocer or by you, it could spoil sooner than it should.

To help make the date on a processed meat package meaningful, be sure 1) you store the product in the coldest part of your refrigerator, 2) you don't leave your groceries in a warm car while doing other shopping and 3) you keep package lids secure after opening.

One of the greatest benefits of freshness dates is that they help the grocer rotate his products. He may offer products that are nearing their "last date of sale" as low-priced specials.

MICHIGAN'S MOTOR VEHICLE CODE applies only to the highway entrance at the city hall in Tawas City (above) and not to the fire hall doors or ramp leading to Lake Street (US-23), according to an opinion by Kenneth Myles, city attorney. At a recent meeting of the city council, a question was raised concerning possible violation of the state code because parking was allowed on both sides of the fire truck ramp leading to the highway. Myles said the code clearly refers to the highway entrance and not to doors of the building or the ramp. He said, too, that any attempt by the state to regulate parking through the motor vehicle code would be unconstitutional, unless the title to the vehicle code was revised to include parking lots.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Change Street Designations In Baldwin

In a move to eliminate confusing street designations, Baldwin Township authorities have filed a list of road name changes on the county map. A major change saw the US-23 area north of East Tawas redesignated from Tawas Centre to Baldwin Centre.

Included in the list of changes were several streets which had counterparts in the Tawas.

The name of Oak Street has been changed to Parkside in the coast guard village, Blackfoot Drive off Baldwin Resort Road and Pleasant Drive off Media Drive.

Pine Street has five new designations: Iroquois Lane, Valley Road, Birchcrest Drive, Zudell Court and Gowen Road.

Other new designations include: Ottawas has been changed to Indian Trail and Huron Street, North Street has been changed to Chippewa Avenue, Huron Street has been removed from the map, Lakeview has been changed to Wolverine, Evans has been changed to Kirtland Drive and Winona Street, AuSable has been designated as a continuation of Iris, Arbutus has been changed to Lochmoor and one section has been designated as a continuation of Crescent Drive.

Tawas Point Road has been changed to Tawas Beach Road, continuing all the way from East Tawas to the end of the point. Before the change, the road started as Tawas Beach Road, switched to Tawas Point Road in Baldwin Township and then changed to Coast Guard Road at the intersection with Baldwin Resort Road.

The final change saw the name of Lincoln Street extended all the way from East Tawas to Scott Road, eliminating sections called Kunze and Martindale Roads along the way.

State Police Investigate Hit and Run Auto Crash on US-23

A hit and run property damage accident, a two-car personal injury collision and one vandalism complaint were investigated last week by Michigan State Police from East Tawas.

Police are still looking for a car which received damages to the front end in a near head-on collision early Sunday morning in Sims Township, south of the Iosco-Arenac line. Donald L. Hall, 63, Oscoda, told officers that he was traveling north on US-23 and an unidentified car crossed the center line resulting in a collision. The unidentified car continued south on US-23 and turned off on Tonkey Road.

Two persons sustained minor injuries Friday in a two-car collision on US-23 at 1931 East Huron Street near the Consumers Power Company parking lot. Treated at Tawas Hospital were Richard M. Anderson, 20, East Tawas, and Charles E. Smith, 16, Tawas City. Officers said that Anderson's car pulled out in front of the Smith vehicle.

Frank Carol reported Friday that five windows had been smashed in his cottage located at 1791 Columbine, East Tawas.

Discuss Joint Police Force at Meeting Next Tuesday

A special meeting between city officials of the Tawas and Baldwin a possible combined police department will be held Tuesday, April 8, at the East Tawas City Hall.

Invited to attend the meeting has been Sheriff George Westcott, whose department presently serves the City of Tawas City under an annual contract.

The meeting has been called at the request of Mayor Robert C. Bolen of East Tawas, who said that the city has six persons employed in its police department and wishes to broaden its program to serve both cities.

Tawas City Council recently approved renewal of its contract with the sheriff's department for a period of one year. The annual cost under the contract is $25,340.

Officials of Tawas City have emphasized that the proposal to be considered by East Tawas had no reflection on the service rendered to the city by the sheriff's department over the past two years.

Persons may visit the funeral home Wednesday (today), April 2, after 12 o'clock noon.

1975 Auto Production Stalled, Survey Shows

Buyers Await Removal of 'Bugs'

Higher prices, exhaust emission controls and the state of the economy are helping keep half of Michigan's motorists who planned to buy 1975 model cars out of showrooms, if an Automobile Club of Michigan survey can be projected state-wide.

Twenty percent of Auto Club members responding to a questionnaire in the November Motor News said they normally would have purchased a new car this year. Only half of these respondents, however, said they still intend to do so.

More than 7,300 Auto Club members—one percent of the total Motor News circulation—responded to the questionnaire. Their opinions were computer analyzed and published in the magazine's March edition.

On a positive note, some members said they would buy cars in 1976 when "bugs on new equipment ordered by the government will be ironed out," as one member put it.

Survey results also suggest that new car buyers want large models and most motorists believe last year's fuel shortage was contrived, want points assessed for 55-mile speed limit violations and are confused about no-fault insurance.

Three of four persons looking for new cars said they want a full-size or intermediate model. Motor News said this seemingly refutes claims that Detroit is not building what the public wants.

Three of four motorists responding believed the fuel shortage last year was phony and 58 percent want points assessed against drivers for any violation of the speed limit.

FIRST SERVICE in the new Hale Baptist Church was held Easter Sunday and the congregation set a new record attendance, breaking the old record which had been established the previous Sunday when the last service was held in the old church.—Tawas Herald Photo.

First Service Held Sunday In New Baptist Church at Hale

An overflow crowd attended the opening service Sunday in the new Hale Baptist Church, located north of Esmond Road and west of M-65.

"Two weeks ago, the congregation set a new record when we closed the old church with 190 persons attending Sunday school and 207 persons were present for the worship service," stated the Rev. Raymond Bruce, pastor. "That record was surpassed Sunday for the opening service in the new church."

Work on the construction started in April 1974, when ground was broken, but work on laying brick did not start until early September. A tentative goal had been set for the opening service on Christmas Day, but this was delayed when it was decided that major construction should be completed before the move was made.

The new church is of colonial style architecture with a 30-foot high aluminum steeple. It contains a 40 by 70-foot auditorium-sanctuary seating 250 persons and an overflow area seating another 100 persons. The sanctuary is carpeted and the interior decor features brass chandeliers in keeping with the exterior architecture, along with new walnut-stained pews.

Two wings located on each side of the auditorium-sanctuary measure 36 by 70 feet. The wings contain the Sunday school office, pastor's study, full kitchen and a 36 by 32-foot fellowship hall. The main foyer of the building has a slate floor.

The building contains 10,000 square feet of floor space and the pastor estimated that total cost of the structure would be $150,000.

"Without the total support of our congregation, the actual cost would have been considerably higher," states the pastor. He pointed out that members of the congregation had painted the interior, handled all of the cleaning and installed the sound system, which includes 33 speakers in the building and three speakers in the steeple for the chimes.

"I have been personally thrilled and pleased with this response," said Mr. Bruce.

During the Sunday morning Easter service, Mr. Bruce was assisted by the Rev. John Kerr, former pastor, who is now retired and makes his home at Hale. A special showing was held Sunday night of "Wine of Morning," a new religious film which won acclaim at a recent international film festival. The two-hour color film dramatizes the story of Barabbas the thief, where he came from and what became of him after the crucifixion of Christ.

Formal dedication of the new church is to be held over the Fourth of July week-end which will enable attendance by members of the congregation who are gone during the winter and for summer visitors.

The new building replaces one on Esmond Road east of M-65 which had served the congregation since about 1890.

Highway Beautification May be Project at Hale

Possible beautification of the M-65-Esmond Road business district as a bicentennial year project was discussed Monday night at the Hale Chamber of Commerce meeting.

This project has been discussed informally by Hale residents, who are participating in planning for the bicentennial observance in Iosco County.

One of the suggestions being studied, according to Mrs. Berkeley Bernard, who is a member of the steering committee planning the county observance, is elimination of angle parking in front of stores facing M-65 and development of new off-street parking areas. Former parking areas would be planted with grass and flowers.

Mrs. Bernard said that considerable interest is being shown in this project, although no definite decisions have been made. Township officials are to contact the department of state highways for further information concerning possible implementation of the project.

In addition, Hale area's bicentennial committee is considering the possibility of establishment of a museum in that community. Several ideas under consideration include use of the now vacant Baptist Church, or an addition to the township hall as quarters for a museum, library, senior citizen meeting area and community center. As an alternative, the group is considering development of wall display cases for historical pictures and artifacts for use in public buildings existing in that community.

Dorothy Thayer of Hale has been appointed to compile information on Indian families of Plainfield Township and the county. The group plans to develop historical displays for the 1975 Iosco County Fair at Hale.

Next meeting of the Hale committee is Wednesday, April 16.

Tawas Area Braves' Young Track Team to Open Season

Tawas Area Braves, fielding a young and inexperienced team, opens the 1975 track season Monday, April 7, by playing host to the Hale Area Eagles. The event is scheduled to start at 4:00 p. m.

The Braves are slated to open their NBC schedule on Wednesday, April 9, when they play host to Ogemaw.

Dennis Tibbetts, head track coach at Tawas Area, reports that the NBC is extremely strong this spring with last year's conference champion, Carrollton, a leading contender, along with Essexville Garber and Ogemaw. He said, too, that the Oscoda Owls are expected to furnish some surprises and could be the "darkhorse" in the running. Lettermen returning to the Braves' roster include Mark Hintz, Tim Schirmer, Mark Elliott, Mitch Lenczewski, Jim Petrach and Jeff Touseley.

Besides the 11 scheduled meets this spring, the Braves will compete in three other important events. For the first time in a number of years, the Braves will be represented at the Spartan relays at Michigan State University on April 4. Another important event will be the Alpena indoor meet on April 5, which is for northern area schools and is primarily for field events.

Competing in the Mansfield relays held at Mansfield, Ohio, on April 12, will be Jeff Touseley, a sophomore, who will run the 440. This is the largest outdoor meet in the Midwest. As a freshman, Touseley was a member of the school's mile relay team which had a time of three minutes, 32 seconds.

Resident Aids in Capture of Burglary Suspects

An alert resident of Townline Road aided police in the apprehension of four suspects in a breaking early Wednesday morning.

Iosco Sheriff's Department was notified by telephone that a suspicious car was in the driveway of a summer cottage owned by Mrs. Alice Ulman at 1812 Townline Road.

Deputies Richard Freeman and Charles Bublitz responded to the complaint and observed a van-type truck pulling out of the driveway. The truck was stopped by the officers, who noticed that a television set and radio were in the back of the van. Detaining four men in the truck, the officers checked the cottage and found that it had been entered through a window which had been smashed out on the southeast side of the building.

A further check with the neighbor confirmed the fact that the truck had been parked in the driveway and the cottage owner, who resides in Detroit, described the television set and radio and identified the items found in the van as her property.

Arrested were Mark C. Wheel-er, 21; Lloyd A. Ware, 19; Roy C. Severn, 21; Dennis W. Cameron, 21, all of Mt. Morris. Bond was set in justice court at $5,000 each and the men were to be arraigned Tuesday (yesterday) on the breaking and entering charge.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:
Three cheers for the good people of Kanawha County, West Virginia, who, for the sake of giving their children a decent education, have had the courage to buck the establishment. The one-sided fight they have been putting up to get the objectionable textbooks out of their classrooms should encourage us to believe that the spirit of Daniel Boone has not been completely erased from the American scene.
The textbook for literature in Tawas Area Middle School eighth grade is called "Counterpoint." It should be called "Cheap Language and Sadism, Incorporated."
This textbook is one of the books Kanawha County people are taking their stand against. Don't you think it's time the parents of this area took a stand too?
Opposition to these sorts of books always bewilders the "liberal" educators, who consider absolute standards of right and wrong, good and evil, to be mere superstition, so you can be sure the National Education Association wouldn't find anything good about Kanawha County parents for this is the kind of rot they have been pushing for years.

What Americans want in their children's texts is instruction in reading, writing and figuring. We parents are and should be tired of the "progressives" trying to point our children toward the sewer and declaring "this is realism" and "this is life."

Revival Starts April 6 at E. Tawas Church

Assembly of God Church, East Tawas, will begin its Spring Charismatic Revival Emphasis with the Rev. R. L. Berthume of Crystal on Sunday, April 6, at 11:00 a. m. Services will continue nightly at 7:00 p. m., except on Mondays and Saturdays, through Sunday, April 20.

The Rev. Edward J. Fairbanks, pastor, invites the public to attend these Bible-centered services.

THREE Tawas Area High School bandmen received outstanding ratings in the state solo and ensemble festival held at Cheboygan. Judy Dubovsky, standing at center, received a 98 percent rating, while Lea Russell, left, received a 92 percent rating and Amy Savage, right, received an 88 percent rating in proficiency one performances. Holly Look, seated at the piano, accompanied each of the soloists. The festival rates a student on individual accomplishments and progress on a musical instrument. "These students carry on the excellent performance tradition of Tawas Area Bands at state competition by becoming the fourth year of 100 percent first division winners," states Gene Salamony, band director at Tawas Area School.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Past Winter Set Record for Snowfall

15 Years Ago—
March 30, 1960—Snowfall during the past winter shattered all records of the three preceding years. According to Regional Blitz, superintendent of public works, 92 inches of snow fell during the past winter.

Mrs. Erma Atkinson of Hale proposes that school districts of the county consolidate to construct a new high school with grades 11 through 14.

Named to the industrial committee of Tawas Chamber of Commerce were Gordon Huck, Stuart White, W. D. Nunn, A. Don Anderson and Carlton Merschel.

25 Years Ago—
March 31, 1950—The bottom has "fallen out" of gravel roads in Iosco County and a large amount of work by the road commission will be required to put them back in condition. Farms in many sections of the county became isolated following the heavy rain. Highways M-55 and M-65 have deteriorated to such an extent that large portions of these roads are impassable.

Walter Martens is general chairman for the 1950 Perch Festival being sponsored by Tawas Chamber of Commerce. The program is to be held May 5-7.

Gerald R. Ford Jr., United States representative in congress, has been named among the year's 10 outstanding young men, as chosen in a poll by the United States Chamber of Commerce.

East Tawas 4-H Club members who won honors at Hale are Dorothy West and Gailya Werth, who were asked to repeat their demonstrations at the state meeting.

35 Years Ago—

Not Eligible for Payment on Two SS Work Records

Question: My husband and I are going to retire in a few months. I have been employed most of our married life. Can I get social security benefits on both my husband's work record and on my own?

Answer: If you are eligible for benefits on two work records, you can be paid a monthly amount equal to the higher of the two benefits, but not both. When you apply for benefits, the people in the social security office will tell you which benefit amount is higher.

Question: Even though he is disabled, my husband could not qualify for social security disability benefits because he did not have enough work credit under social security. I have been supporting both of us. When I retire, can he get any payments on my record?

Answer: Monthly social security benefits can be paid to a dependent husband starting at 62 if the wife is entitled to benefits on her own work record. When you retire, your husband can apply for benefits. Meanwhile, he may be eligible now for supplemental security income payments made to disabled people with little or no income and limited resources. Call or write any social security office for more information.

Question: Both my husband and I work full time. Because we also have two young children, I would like to know more about social security protection for my family. Is there a booklet I can get?

Answer: Yes. Call any social security office and ask for a free copy of the booklet, "Social Security Information for Young Families." It explains the social security and medicare protection you are earning for your family.

Question: My husband and I separated about eight months ago. He is going to apply for supplemental security income payments. Can I get the payments as his wife?

Answer: Under the supplemental security income law, couples separated for six months or more are considered to be individuals. You cannot get supplemental security income payments as a wife, but you may be eligible for payments as an individual. Call or write any social security office for more information.

If you have any questions regarding social security, contact the Bay City Social Security office at 1009 North Madison or phone 892-3554.

(Read Job 19:23-27; 1 Corinthians 15:12-22)
I know that my redeemer liveth. (Job 19:25)

Walking along our quiet street, my husband and I reached a circle of silent children. As they turned their sober faces toward us, we saw at their feet the limp body of a yellow puppy. John knelt and felt the little blood-spattered creature.

"He's not very dead, is he?" a boy pleaded.

"I'm afraid so," was the gentle reply.
Those who loved Jesus knew that sad Friday that He was "very dead." Despair gripped them, for He was dead as other men. Was He, after all, but a man inexpressibly dear but deluded, and the kingdom only a dream? That was Calvary without the knowledge of the coming Easter morn.

We, too, have faced earthly finality in the death of loved ones; but because Easter followed Calvary, we do not sorrow "as others which have no hope." Through our tears we affirm, "to be with Christ . . . is far better" and look toward reunion.

Christ's death and resurrection can transform life and illuminate death for all mourners. He will implement His promise, "Because I live, ye shall live also."

PRAYER

Our gracious Father, with joy we thank Thee for Christ's sacrifice and His glorious resurrection. Help us to live rejoicing in the Easter Fact. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

Death is not the end, and resurrection is only the beginning.—Lillian Reeves, Vernon, British Columbia, Canada.

WINNERS in the recent turtle race held by Whittemore Cub Scouts were, from left, Loren Partlo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Partlo, third place; Phillip Trotter, son of Mrs. Barbara Trotter, second place; Robert Nichols, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Nichols, first place. The boys voted by secret ballot for the best looking turtle. Nichols won that event with a red, white and blue turtle, representing the United States flag. Four TA Students Going to Tournament

Tawas Area High School will be represented by four students at the regional forensics tournament Saturday, April 12, at Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant, under the direction of Charles Bailey.

In order to qualify for the regional meet, students must have taken first places at the recent district tournament held in Fairview. Tawas had four first-place winners out of nine categories, more than any other team in the district, plus third-place winners in two categories.

Placing first were Roxanne Brainard, girls' oratory; David Kubisiak, boys' oratory; Sarah Alexander, informative reading; Judy Williams, story telling. Taking third places were Eric Haglund, boys' extemporaneous reading; Laurie Forrest, Judy Hintz, Vickie Lardie, Janet Tenbusch, John Rutherford, Donna Brugger and Roberta Roach, multiple reading.

Consolidated Gas Seeks Rate Increase

Seeking its first general rate increase in three years, Michigan Consolidated Gas Company last week asked state approval of a new rate structure which would boost industrial and commercial gas costs by 62-million dollars, while raising the typical home heating bill 60 cents a month.

Some 70,000 customers using small volumes of gas for domestic purposes including cooking and water heating would receive an average reduction of about four percent in gas bills under the proposed rates.

The company said the higher commercial and industrial rates would bring prices to these customers more in line with the cost of gas to residential users.

The company's industrial rates would remain substantially below the cost of oil and coal to industrial and commercial customers, the company said. The new rates would also be comparable to those charged industrial customers by utilities serving most of the metropolitan areas of the country, but would be below current industrial gas costs in many other areas of the country.

Michigan Consolidated's present industrial rates are virtually the lowest in the country and its industrial and commercial users have continued to receive their full gas requirements while industries in many other areas have suffered drastic curtailments.

The total increase requested by the company is 66.4-million dollars. The average heating customer would receive an increase of about $7.58 a year under the proposed rates.

Hugh C. Daly, president of Michigan Consolidated, said the company needs prompt rate relief to remain financially healthy and raise the money necessary to finance a 1.5-billion-dollar construction program in the next 10 years. This level of construction is required to provide the energy needed to maintain job opportunities in Michigan, he said.
