

Tawas Area Welcome Perchville Visitors

Ice conditions on Tawas Bay appear to be perfect for the silver anniversary celebration of the Perchville USA Festival to be held this week-end. Fishermen have reported only spotty results from the ice thus far this season, but conditions improved slightly two weeks ago and festival officials are hoping for an upswing this week-end.

Headquarters for most festival events will be the Michigan Waterways Commission Dock at East Tawas. Because of recent storm damage, the outer section of the dock has been closed to the public for safety reasons, but this will have no effect on the festival program.

Leading off the week-end will be a stag perch fry at the Tawas Golf and Country Club and a doe fish fry at Lixey's Restaurant, both starting at 6:30 p. m.

Coronation of the Perchville king and queen Saturday night at the Holland House will highlight the week-end program.

Reigning over the event will be Debbie Beyer of Tawas City, a local beautician who was selected for the honor from a group of 10 contestants. Debbie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Beyer of 1522 Douglas Drive.

Named to the queen's court were Rande Starling, Cindy McKinney and Joanne Gumbert. Debbie is a 1973 graduate of Tawas Area High School and graduated from the Bayshore Beauty Academy, Bay City. She is an employee of Carol's Curl Corner, East Tawas.

King of the festival will be Joe Clark of Detroit, who helped kick off national publicity for ice fishing on Tawas Bay 25 years ago through Life Magazine.

A 9:00 a. m. flag raising ceremony at the Michigan Waterways Commission dock will kick off events on Saturday.

At 9:30 a. m., the chili kitchen at the East Tawas Community Building will open and Perchville activities start on the ice at 10:00 a. m.

The program includes a skydiving exhibition by Rick Carter, Edward Collier and Patty McKay, all residents of the Tawas area, at 11:00 a. m.; a blooper ball game on skates will pit teams from Oscoda and Tawas at 12 o'clock noon; a polar bear swim featuring Robert Jones and his Iosco Hotel Polar Bear Club, recognized as the largest group of inland water swimmers in the world, will start at 2:00 p. m.

The polar bear king and queen are to be crowned at 2:30 p. m., followed by a demolition derby at 3:00 p. m. and a second skydiving exhibition at 4:00 p. m.

The annual Perchville banquet will start at 6:30 p. m. at the Holland House, followed by a high school dance featuring live music at the community building at 7 o'clock.

A flag raising will again open events Sunday at 9:30 a. m. and the chili kitchen opens at 10:30 a. m.

Sunday afternoon activities will be a skydiving exhibition at 1:00 p. m., a polar bear swim at 1:30 p. m., a demolition derby at 2:30 p. m., judging of the fishing contest at 3:30 p. m., judging of ice sculptures at 4:00 p. m. and awarding of prizes by the Perchville queen at 4:30 p. m.

Four carnival rides will be available for children on Saturday and Sunday.

Two large 40 by 80-foot tents will be located on the ice housing concession stands for the convenience of visitors. One tent will house concessions operated by Tawas Area Tennis Club, Iosco Sheriff's Posse, Tawas Kiwanis Club, Iosco Sportsmen's Club, Little Braves Booster Club of the Tawas City Elementary Unit, East Tawas

Lions Club, Oscoda Keyettes, Tawas Area Senior, Tawas Area Promotions, Incorporated.

Schools Expect Another Cut in State Aid Money

Because of the continued drop in sales tax received by the state general fund, Supt. Edward J. Barry of Tawas Area School predicted Monday night that schools could expect another cut in state school operational aid.

Last month, Tawas Area School lost $12,700 in state aid when the legislature scrambled to stave off a general fund deficit caused by repeal of the sales tax on food and drugs.

Barry said that state's general fund had dropped four percent per month and, by April, expects the legislature to cut state transportation aid.

Should this happen, it will be a severe blow to Tawas Area School as transportation costs have increased from $84,000 to $141,000 since implementation of the split session requiring double bus runs. He expects transportation costs to increase next year.

Another problem facing schools, said Barry, is that many property taxpayers are late this year in making payments to city and township treasurers. He believes that the property tax collection this year may not reach 70 percent, as compared to around 87 percent in normal years. Should this be the case, the school would not be able to meet its financial obligations. He said that necessary legal steps would have to be taken now to borrow on anticipated taxes to avert a financial problem.

Barry said that eight school superintendents of Northern Michigan had met and developed a proposed amendment to the 1975-1976 school aid act. It is expected that the present state aid act will be amended and superintendents of the northern half of the Lower Peninsula are in hope that their proposed amendment will be considered.

The proposed amendment would give state aid credit of $5 per child for each $100 below state average median family income. This would amount to an increase of about $87 per student in Tawas Area School.

The board of education authorized the administration to conduct a school census in this district. At one time, an annual school census was required by state law but was dropped about four years ago. Census information is necessary for elementary school planning each year.

A report from the administration indicated that the school enrollment level was fairly stable this term. Since the fourth Friday count in September, 85 new students have entered the school and 82 students have left school. A minor problem does exist in the elementary school, where 41 new students entered and 25 students moved elsewhere.

Possibility of a serious drop-out problem was indicated by a report from Prin. John Alexander. He said that in 1973-1974, 49 students out of a total high school enrollment of 821 had dropped out of school, representing a rate of 5.9 percent. This was 1.9 percent higher than the previous year.

Alexander said that the split session which went into effect during the 1973-1974 school year may have been partially responsible for the increased rate, but said he was unable to determine if this is true.

The highest drop-out rate was registered by 12th grade boys, 9.5 percent, as compared to 4.8 percent in 1972-1973; 11th grade girls had a drop-out rate of 8.3 percent, compared to 6.6 percent the previous year; 11th grade boys dropped out at a rate of 7.4 percent, compared to 6.5 percent.

Alexander said he was surprised over the drop-out rate for 10th grade boys, 9.3 percent in 1973-1974 as compared to 3.2 percent the previous year.

Committee Reports ESY Not Feasible

Based on reports from trips to Cadillac and Northville, the Extended School Year Committee reported Monday night that ESY—the 45-15, four-track system—is not feasible for Tawas Area School.

Investigation of ESY had been placed in the hands of a 10-member committee in early January by the board of education. Following its majority action Monday night the committee considered itself officially disbanded.

In summarizing the report, Mrs. Gordon Dunham, secretary of the committee, stated:

"We agree that such a program is an ideal educational theory, but because of the following four main reasons it will not solve our problems here:

"1. It is still in the experimental stage and most schools are using a modified form, not the four-track 45-15 plan.

"2. It is costly to instigate and would necessitate either many more classrooms or multiple entries for required subjects.

"3. Scheduling may be impossible for a four-track, 45-15 system as it was in Cadillac.

"4. Our high school student body is not large enough for this program unless we were to drastically cut our curriculum offerings."

Leaving Snow Along Roads Is Dangerous

A petition from a Hale resident, Norma J. Johnson, has asked the Iosco County Road Commission to stop "unnecessary" plowing of road shoulders in order to allow use by snowmachines.

In her letter to the road commission, Mrs. Johnson expressed the opinion that grading of shoulders was costly to taxpayers as well as prohibiting use of highways for snowmachine travel. She said that many businesses depend on the extra business brought to the area through snowmachine travel.

The road commission pointed out that its first responsibility was to the motoring public and that snow allowed to melt on the shoulders often results in a hazardous condition for traffic. In addition, the road shoulder area provides a parking place for disabled vehicles.

It was also pointed out by the road commission that an excessive amount of snow left on road shoulders causes damage to the roadway, because of the penetration of moisture.

Another member of the ESY committee, Mrs. Thomas Huck, stated that while ESY was theoretically sound as enhancing educational quality, the committee found that it was 10 percent more costly than the traditional system, required more space due to scheduling problems, met with poor public attitude and poor staff attitude.

"If the atmosphere—money, space, etc.—for researching this educational theory is right, some forms of ESY have been highly successful," said Mrs. Huck. "However, the school system must be approaching the experiment from a strong position in regards to finances and public support to allow leeway for failure and research."

Mrs. John Oberlies, another member of the committee, reported to the board of education that the Northville School was financially able to operate both the traditional school year and ESY, under an experimental federal project. She said that any advantages gained in ESY are lost due to impossible scheduling.

The extended school year concept had been studied here three years ago as an alternative to a building program to relieve overcrowded conditions. Following that original study, the concept was dropped and a building program was placed before the electorate.

Voters rejected the proposed building program and the school adopted a split session arrangement to relieve overcrowded conditions in classrooms. The split session, with high school grades attending classes in the morning and middle school grades (six through eight) attending afternoon session, has been in operation for the past two terms.

Because of objections voiced by some parents and students over the split session, the board of education asked that the extended school year concept be studied as an alternate to a building program.

Hale School Funds Cut, but Budget Still Balanced

A cut of $5,978.08 in state educational funds was noted Monday night by Supt. Wayne Case of Hale Area School. The reduction amounts to three-quarters of one percent in total tax money received by the school.

This cut was caused by the reduction in sales tax received by the state general fund. Because of its high valuation per pupil, Hale Area School does not receive any state aid membership money and

Four Persons Sentenced by Circuit Court

Vote Upgrade of Water Rate; Renew Water Main Talks

At its annual meeting Monday night, the joint East Tawas-Tawas City Water Board unanimously voted to upgrade the water contract through which Tawas City purchases water from East Tawas and to proceed to develop a 12-inch force main on Westover and Cedar Streets as outlined by the engineers.

Under its 30-year contract with East Tawas, Tawas City has been paying 21 cents per thousand gallons of filtered water. It was reported at the meeting that East Tawas' cost of producing the water is now 25 cents per thousand gallons.

Construction of the 12-inch force main, which would provide a more adequate supply to Tawas City, has been under consideration for a number of years. At the present time, water is furnished to Tawas City through a six-inch main.

The current engineering report calls for construction of the new force main by 1979. Possible speeding of that construction through an increase in water purchase rate by Tawas City is to be considered.

Both cities are making a cooperative bid to obtain federal funding to assist with construction of necessary water storage facilities.

Water rate upgrading and the proposed new force main will be studied by water boards and councils of both communities.

Gordon Huck was re-elected president of the joint water board and Delano Myles was elected secretary. Other members include Joseph Hennigar, Paul Ropert, John N. Brugger and Reginald Bublitz.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:
The article in last week's Tawas Herald by Mr. Johnson certainly deserves a lot of credit. It is wonderful to have a man in our area so concerned about our country's welfare. If we would all conserve on energy, there wouldn't be the shortage there is now.

How many people, even though the weather is beautiful, never hang a stitch of clothes on the line? I agree that the clothes dried in a dryer are softer, but a few minutes on air in the dryer helps a lot and the smell of clothes dried outside is something to be desired.

We all could cut down on the wattage of bulbs and turn them off when not in use. If we would all sacrifice a little and conserve a lot, we wouldn't need these nuclear plants which are questionably safe for our atmosphere.

Since the gas used in aerosol cans is destroying the ozone barrier between the earth and the sun, why do we use them? Only for convenience. This is the reason our gardens are so wilted when the sun shines, even though there is plenty of moisture in the ground. Let's all write our congressmen to have them banned.

God gave us this good earth, the air we breathe and the water we drink and it's up to us to take care of them.

The Upper Room

(Read Luke 4:40-44)

He laid his hands on them one by one and cured them. (Luke 4:40-44 NEB)

Several women were sitting on a bench waiting their turn for treatment at a Christian hospital in West Africa. One of them had come from her village 150 miles away; another had traveled 100 miles; and a third, about 50 miles. A missionary who knew that government hospitals were not far from their homes asked them why they had come so far when they could have gotten the same medicine from one of these hospitals.

One of the women replied, "Yes, the medicine may be the same, but the hands are different."

In the mission hospital they found that, in addition to the healing medicine they needed, there was an atmosphere of love and sympathetic understanding. This made the difference, made it worthwhile to travel so far for treatment.

It is always love that makes all the difference in what we do for others.

PRAYER

O Lord and Master, help us always to be ready to respond to any appeal to help others in need, but guide us to help with that love and understanding which makes all the difference. In Thy spirit, help us to pray as Thou hast taught us, "Our Father who art in heaven, hallowed be Thy name. Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory forever. Amen."

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

Christ is our source of love, the added factor that enriches all our service to others. — Leonard W. Juby, England.

Kindergarten Pupil Writes Third Book

Lenny Bates, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Bates of Austin, Texas, and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Lake of Tawas City, started his mother at the age of 18 months by reading the numbers printed on a yardstick.

Now six years of age, this remarkable kindergarten student recently completed his third book, written and illustrated in crayon. He also constructed a cardboard camera complete with "film," a longnecked giraffe made from paper rolls and a cardboard nativity scene, sprinkled with glitter.

His mother, the former Lorraine Lake, a 1964 graduate of Tawas Area High School, thinks her son picked up a lot of information from television but states that he actually taught himself to read and write without instruction.

Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Balliet of Hale announce the engagement of their daughter, Vicky, to John Jackson, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Jackson of Rock.

Miss Balliet is a graduate of Hale Area High School and currently resides in Belleville. Her fiancé is a graduate of Rock High School and is employed by Com-Share, Incorporated, in Ann Arbor. A May 3 wedding is being planned.

Booster Club Collected $420 in Campaign

Tawas Braves Booster Club reported Friday that a total of $420 had been collected in the recent "Give For Gary" fund-raising project. The majority of money was collected in canisters placed in area business places during the Christmas season.

The money collected was sent to help defray costs of hospitalization and therapy for Gary Loeffler, a senior at Unionville High School who was seriously injured during his last varsity football game.

In a letter of appreciation from his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Loeffler of Sebawaig, it was stated that Gary has been transferred to Saginaw Community Hospital for rehabilitation. He is starting to use his voice and seems to know everyone. His right side is spastic and his left side is paralyzed.

'Little Braves' Stage First Fund Raising

Tawas Area "Little Braves" will make their fund-raising debut Saturday and Sunday, February 15 and 16, at the Perchville USA Festival. They will sponsor a chili kitchen at the East Tawas Community Building as well as a concession stand on the ice.

All proceeds from these projects will go directly to the Tawas City Elementary School. Herman Rollin, principal, stated that funds will first be used for new playground equipment desperately needed at the school.

The school children urge the public to stop at Perchville wherever there is a "Little Brave" on display and lend support for this worthy cause.

Braves Surprised Saints, but Faltered in 68-66 Thriller

Tawas Area Braves surprised the visiting Bay City All Saints squad by leading the scoring for two quarters Saturday night, but then lost their bid for an upset, 68-66, when they were unable to cash in at the free throw line.

The Saints, now 16 and one for the season, had shellacked the Braves, 92-57, in their first meeting of the year, but the Braves turned in one of their better games of the season before a packed house.

The Braves went out in front, 19-14, in the first quarter and held a slim, 32-30, margin going into the lockerroom at intermission. Tawas went cold in the third quarter and Bay City tied the score at 54-54 at the buzzer, but the Braves came back to again take the lead.

With one minute, 19 seconds to go in the game, Bay City held a five-point lead and a bucket by Randy Scales narrowed the gap to two points. A hook shot by Jeff Hemphill rolled off the rim with seconds to go and the Braves missed an opportunity to send the game into overtime.

Tawas was able to connect on only 16 of 28 foul shots during the night while Bay City won at the foul lines with a mark of 14 out of 17 shots. The Braves were hot from the floor during the first half, connecting on 50 percent of their shots, but then faltered in the second half for an over-all 25 of 58 shots during the night.

The Braves had four players in double scoring figures with Mark Elliott leading the way with 20. Hemphill meshed 18, followed by Mooney and Scales with 10 points each.

Bill Harris topped the winners with 24 points and was followed by Rasdorf, who had 20.

The Braves, now with a record of nine wins and seven losses for the season, improved their conference record by defeating Gladwin Friday night, 70-58. This was Tawas' eighth NBC victory against three losses. The Tawas Junior Varsity trimmed Gladwin, 58-44.

Mickey Haglund was the top Tawas varsity scorer with 18 points, followed by Hemphill's 16 and Mooney posted 15 points. John Kern's 20 points for Gladwin was high for the night.

The Braves have four games remaining in their 1974-1975 schedule, traveling to Pinconning Tuesday night (last night) and are to travel to Carrollton Friday night. The Braves' five-game conference winning streak was snapped by Carrollton in the first meeting between these two teams on January 14. Carrollton is in second place behind the conference-leading Essexville Garber Dukes.

The Braves play host to Alpena High on Tuesday, February 18, and then close out the regular season by playing host to Garber on Friday, February 21. This final match could prove to be the key game in the schedule as the Braves will be

Cards Lost Two Games Last Week

By DORNACE BELLVILLE

Whittemore - Prescott Cardinals continued their long search for a third victory of the season as they dropped games to Posen and Saginaw St. Peter and Paul last week.

The Cards never had a chance against Posen February 4, falling behind, 20-8, in the first quarter and then trailed the rest of the way. Joe Smith, Steve Pickett and Rick Durfee hit double figures for the losers with 14, 12 and 10 points, but it was not enough. The Card Junior Varsity lost, 74-43.

Friday night, the Cards played the perfect host to Saginaw St. Peter and Paul by sending them home with two victories under their belts. The Card varsity trailed all the way in this one. Whittemore-Prescott was down by three points at the end of the first quarter, but trailed by 15 points at intermission and never threatened after that time.

Coach DeShano's boys hit on 47 percent of their shots from the floor, but did not get enough chances as the Crusaders controlled the backboards. Troy Farro led the Cards with 21 points; Smith and Durfee had 14, and Terry Wier had 11 points.

The visiting junior varsity ran all over the Little Cards, 64-35.

The Cardinals travel to Alcona Friday night to take on the winless Tigers and then play host to the Hale Eagles Tuesday, February 18.

In memory of Frieda F. Kindell, who passed away February 14, 1974.

The years may wipe out many things,
But this they wipe out never.

When we were all together.
We miss you.

In memory of our husband and father, Albert W. Draeger, who passed away one year ago, February 12, 1974.

He bid no one a last farewell,
He said goodbye to none.
His loving heart had ceased to beat
Before we knew it, he was gone.
Every day we sadly miss him,
Deeply we feel our loss.
Lonely we are without him.
Help us, God, to bear our cross.
Wife, Josephine; children, and grandchildren 7-1p

Perchville Marks 25th Year, but Ice Fishing is Old Sport

Residents of the Tawas are observing the 25th anniversary of Perchville this week-end, but organized winter sports activities here actually date back to 1938 and even earlier.

The Perchville USA Festival on February 14-16 is an outgrowth of the Silver Valley Winter Sports Carnival, which commenced in 1938 as the East Tawas Winter Sports Carnival.

Organized winter sports in the Tawas had their start two years earlier, in 1936, when the Detroit and Mackinac Railway operated a successful one-day snow train from Bay City to the Tawas. Visitors to the community were entertained with sleigh rides, fishing and dancing.

Winter sports activities here, although unorganized, date back practically to the original founding of the communities. Fishing through the ice has always been a popular winter sport and, at one time, fishing villages were erected on the ice outside of Tawas Bay where lake trout were caught commercially. Until the late 1930s, the most popular form of winter sports on Tawas Bay was ice boating and many local residents today recall when the ice was dotted with the sails of 40 or 50 ice boats each winter.

The first Perchville Festival was held in January 1964 and the Tawas had two winter events for two years until the Silver Valley Winter Sports Carnival was discontinued after the 1965 season, having completed its 27th year of operation. The principal reason for discontinuance of the winter sports playground in Huron National Forest was the fact that the Tawas are not in Michigan's snow belt and money required for the purchase of a snowmaking machine was not available.

Ice fishing activities on Tawas Bay, which always had been featured in winter sports programs here dating back to the original snow train in 1936, had their first organized promotion in 1950 and this is the reason for the 25th anniversary celebration in 1975. That year, Harold Gould, then an East Tawas druggist, conceived the name of Perchville for the tiny "village" of ice fishing shanties which, for years, had been spotted by local residents on the ice of Tawas Bay each winter near the coast guard boathouse.

It was Gould's idea to have local business places sponsor construction of fish shanties for use of downstate visitors. He commenced a campaign through the Tawas Chamber of Commerce to interest businessmen in the project and it proved to be an immediate success.

On January 6, 1950, the new fish shanties, several constructed to resemble buildings housing local business firms, were paraded through the Tawas and then out to the then new village of Perchville on the ice of Tawas Bay. The new ice fishing village nearly died three days later when shanties were blown from the ice by a severe gale, but damages were repaired and shanties were replaced along platted streets.

The new ice fishing colony proved to be an immediate hit with outstate fishermen and Perchville received its first national publicity when a photographic feature story by Joe Clark, noted Detroit freelance photographer, appeared in Life Magazine on February 21, 1950. This publicity was quickly followed by national newspaper coverage by the Associated Press and Mort Neff was here that month to film ice fishing activities for his Michigan Outdoors program.

In later years, Perchville was featured in Ford Times and numerous other national magazines. Publicity of Perchville was climaxed on New Year's Day of 1956 when an eight-minute "live" segment was featured over NBC's Wide World television program hosted by Dave Garroway.

Since 1964, Perchville has had its "ups and downs" and new shanties were constructed to replace those original shanties of 25 years ago. Two years ago, sponsorship of the event was taken over by Tawas Area Promotions, Incorporated.

Iosco Hotel Polar Bear Club Holds World's Record

"Well, it is a sport you don't have to practice for," said Robert Jones in describing human polar bear swimming to a reporter for the Christian Science Monitor, an international daily newspaper published at Boston, Massachusetts.

Jones, who is president of the Iosco Hotel Polar Bear Club, with a membership of about 60 and the world's largest winter swimming group, holds a Michigan and possibly a global endurance record for winter swimming.

"Polar bear swimming is all psychological," Jones was quoted as saying in the January 6 issue of the Monitor. During last year's Perchville Festival, Jones stayed in 36-degree lake water for a period of 28 minutes, more than three times longer than the previous world's record.

According to naval records, states David Owens, diving director at the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institute, accidental exposure to water of about that temperature can lead to exhaustion and unconsciousness in about 15 minutes. "Psychological preparation has a lot to do with one's endurance," he noted.

For human polar bears, preparation is more important than courage. "Ordinarily," said record-holder Jones, "we go in whatever we are going to swim in and wander around for about two hours. By the time we jump in, the water feels like a warm bath."

The Iosco polar bears usually have a heated shelter beside the hole they cut in the ice. The water temperature is always in the middle 30s. That is usually well above the air temperature, a fact which accounts for the water's feeling of relative warmth.

If the swimming itself is fun, the getting out often requires an act of will. "You have to psyche yourself up sometimes," admits Jones. "I had to come out once when there was a wind and the chill factor was 47 degrees below zero."

"I was instantly a sheet of ice," he recalls, "but I thawed out soon enough."

The world's first Polar Bear Club was organized in New York City in 1903 by Bernard McFadden, health culturist, and some 50 or more clubs probably exist across the United States.

Members of the local club, who performed Sunday during the Sand Lake Winter Carnival, will again take to the icy water of Tawas Bay during the 25th annual Perchville USA Festival. Membership blanks will be available on the ice Saturday and Sunday for those persons wishing to join in the swimming.

Apparently there is more to polar bear swimming than getting one's picture in the newspaper and Jones is interested in keeping his Tawas City club as the world's largest . . . any takers?

R. K. Nelson Rejoins State Department of Corrections

Richard K. Nelson, deputy administrator of the Michigan Office of Criminal Justice Programs (OCJP) since January 1972, resigned his post effective February 3 to become deputy director of field services for the Michigan Department of Corrections. Nelson formerly served as parole and probation officer in Iosco County for the department of corrections.

Prior to resigning his post effective last week, Nelson had served as acting administrator of OCJP, a division within the Department of Management and Budget, which is responsible for administration of the federal crime control act of 1973 in Michigan. The agency makes awards of federal anti-crime grants to local communities and state agencies based on annual state criminal justice plans.

Prior to assuming the post of deputy administrator, Nelson served as director of program planning at OCJP, a job he held for one year. He joined the agency in October 1969 as program manager for corrections. In 1970, he was named director of regional affairs, a position he held until 1971.

For the past year, he has been working with the governor's advisory commission on criminal justice as director of the goals and standards project.

He earned a bachelor degree from Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant, in 1953 and a master degree in social work from Michigan State University, East Lansing, in 1967.

After working for the Michigan Department of Social Services for a short time, he was employed with the Michigan Department of Corrections from 1950 to 1969.

A native of Grayling, Nelson and his wife, Barbara, live at Lansing. The couple's two children attend colleges in Michigan.

MSU Market-to-Table Meat Series

3: MEAT RETAILING TRENDS

Great Strides

Compared to other sections of the grocery store, the meats department has long been the "wasteland" of the supermarket's informational geography, says John Allen, Michigan State University professor in food systems economics.

Unlike mayonnaise jars or soup cans, meat packages provide few, if any, recipes or ideas for preparation or for complementary dishes.

Most homemakers learn food preparation in their own home kitchens while growing up—a sort of "street knowledge" of cookery, Dr. Allen says. And the result is that most consumers know how to prepare very few of the nearly 300 cuts offered at the meat counter.

"The meat industry has hardly begun to tap the potential for advising consumers in meat preparation. And since you spend 1/3 of your grocery dollar on meats, surely you should be offered help in preparing the chops, flanks and stew meats you buy."

The Coming Decades

Here are a few of the improvements you may see during the coming decades:

As for merchandising and production efficiency, retailers are just beginning to make great strides.

Better Labels

To take the irritation out of choosing from such fanciful meat labels as "California Roast," "Patio Chops," and "London Broil," a nationwide Meat Identification Standards Committee has designed a uniform meat identity program. The result is easier-to-understand meat labels.

At a glance, you can tell the type of meat (such as Beef), the primal cut—where it comes from on the animal (such as Rib), the common retail name (such as Standing Rib Roast) and the suggested method of cookery (such as Roast, Broil).

Retailers who want to use unique names for cuts can do so, in addition to the fundamental label. The new program is voluntary, but already nearly 1/2 of the nation's grocers are using it—8 of the 10 major chains, and many independents.

Packed Like Turkeys

A whole carcass of beef arriving at each store will be a thing of the past within 10 years, Dr. Allen says. Instead, carcasses will be cut at central points and shipped to individual stores, saving the costs of labor in "back rooms."

Actually, with centralized cutting, consumers wouldn't even need to see the meat before buying it. Before you shake your head at that idea, Dr. Allen says, consider turkey packaging:

In the past, shoppers had to see and sniff turkeys to assure their freshness and proportion of fat-to-meat. Today, you know without looking that the turkey you buy will be of uniform quality. The package often has built-in guarantees of success: self-basting and a tab that pops out to signal the meat is done. There's been the same marketing progress with canned hams.

Why not market beef in the same progressive way? The center cut could cut out the fat and bone, freeze the meat, package it in a cardboard box (for improved storage quality), label it according to standardized quality and grade, then ship it to the store, Dr. Allen suggests.

Institutional food services have long used frozen meats. The advantages include better use of fat and bone trim, less rewrapping and less meat shrinkage, more efficient use of labor, a more uniform and sanitary product, more retail meat cuts from the carcass and a chance to upgrade less-demanded cuts.

"We need a study to compare the costs of energy used and labor saved, but it appears that everyone would benefit from marketing and buying frozen beef."

Do consumers like frozen beef? A Kansas State University taste panel showed that most consumers feel freezing doesn't harm the eating quality of beef—its tenderness, juiciness or flavor.

One drawback is that most shoppers don't think the beef looks appealing when frozen.

The Protein Department

Instead of a Meat Department, retailers should design a Protein Department, Dr. Allen advises. Arrange food items to suggest what to buy to accompany meats and offer low-cost protein substitutes.

"After all, meat is only an ingredient; the shopper's goal is a finished dish and a complete meal. The consumer would benefit and retailers would meet sales goals by merchandising 'success at the dinner table' rather than individual food items."

In-Store Movies

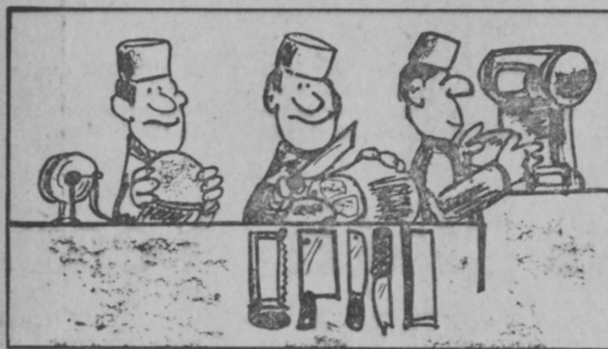

As for improved education, above the meat counter of the future, you may see a Julia Childs-type closed-circuit TV program demonstrating how to use the featured special of the week—chicken breasts or butterflied pork chops.

Already in one large Chicago supermarket there is a Consumer Booth manned by two food preparation experts. Besides informational handouts, the experts show methods for preparing various foods.

Such a service becomes economic as supermarkets become larger (the one in Chicago has 80,000 square feet of food), lending a certain human touch to what could be a cold atmosphere.

Good-Times Checkout

"And why not offer shoppers a way to make use of the boring and sometimes exasperating wait in the checkout line? Offer handouts or over-the-counter slide shows on the price outlook for the next couple weeks, ways to prepare meats, nutrition tips and ways to cope with rising food costs?"

SS Earnings Report Available at No Cost

People can get a report on the earnings credited to their social security record free of charge by calling or writing any social security office, according to John Carr, social security district manager in Bay City.

"You don't need to pay anyone to help you get a statement of your earnings," Carr said. "Just ask any social security office for a 'Request for Statement of Earnings' post card. Fill in your name, address, date of birth and social security number. Sign, stamp and mail the card. Social security will send you a statement of earnings credited to your record free of charge."

Earnings credited to the worker's social security number build retirement, disability, survivors and medicare protection for workers and their families. The amount of monthly social security payments is based on the worker's average earnings over a period of years.

The Social Security Administration is an agency of the United States Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The Bay City social security office is at 1009 North Madison. The phone number is 892-3554.

Tawas Point Development Under Study

15 Years Ago—

February 10, 1960—Michigan Department of Conservation has urged the state legislature to appropriate $29,250 to purchase 140 acres formerly owned by the United States Coast Guard on Tawas Point. Although the county is interested in obtaining the property for a park, the board of supervisors has indicated that it is eager to see the property developed into a public recreation site—either by the state or county.

Hale Area School will vote on a $200,000 bond issue for improvements to school facilities. An additional four mills of taxes would be levied to finance an addition to the present building housing a study hall and library, science classroom and equipment, an agriculture-drafting room, a new room for manual training, renovation of the gymnasium and a new heating plant. A second proposition would levy one mill of taxes to complete construction on a lighted athletic field.

Installation of six automatic pin-spotters was completed Tuesday at Tawas City Recreation.

Additions to Tawas City's disposal plant went into operation last week. Cost of the project was $120,000 for additions to the sewage treatment plant and about $10,000 for a lift station on First Avenue.

Assembly Lines Depend on Electric Lines

Electricity is essential to industrial production. Without it, everything stops.

Unfortunately, Michigan is facing a real energy crunch. If electric utilities cannot obtain money from investors to build new power plants, there'll be a shortage of generating capacity a few years from now.

The problem is: our revenues haven't kept pace with inflation. Now, earnings have declined to the point where today we cannot sell our securities. That's bad for us. And it's bad for every worker in Michigan.

That's why we have asked for authorization to increase the price of electricity. Without it, we would have to stop building. And that would mean a real power shortage tomorrow.

We don't like price increases any more than you do. But we'd like power interruptions even less.

Questions On Social Security

Question: I will be 65 next March. I earn good wages and have never applied for social security benefits. I plan to keep working, but I would like to get medicare hospital and medical insurance. How do I go about it?

Answer: Call any social security office and the people there will help you apply for medicare. The application generally can be handled by phone and through the mail. You should call two or three months before the month you will reach 65 so you will have full medicare coverage the first month you are 65.

Question: My parents get monthly supplemental security income payments. What do they have to report to social security?

Answer: They should report any change—or an expected change—in wages, resources, self-employment earnings, pension payments or other income. A change of address, separation or other changes in living arrangements should also be reported. Call or write any social security office for more information.

Question: I am 63 and was married to my first husband for 18 years when he died. I remarried and after 12 years my second husband died. I would like to apply for social security widow's benefits now but do not know whether I should apply on my first husband's earnings or my second husband's or can I get both?

Answer: If both your husbands worked long enough under social security, social security would figure your benefits on the earnings records of each of your husbands and you would be entitled to the higher monthly payment. But you would not get benefits on both earnings records. Any social security office will be glad to help you with your application.

Question: How many people in the United States now have medicare coverage?

Answer: About 23.3-million people have medicare hospital insurance, including 21.5-million people 65 and over and 1.8-million disabled people under 65. About 21-million people 65 and over and 1.6-million disabled people have medicare medical insurance.

If you have questions regarding social security, contact the Bay City Social Security office at 1009 North Madison or phone 892-3554.

Lensman Who Put Perchville On Map Returns as Festival King

Joe Clark of Detroit, whose pioneering "fish eye" view in Life Magazine 25 years ago kicked off national publicity for ice fishing on Tawas Bay, returns to the Tawas this week-end as the 1975 Perchville king. Accompanying him here will be his wife. Twenty-five years have elapsed since that cold winter when Clark and his local assistants lowered a camera through the ice to the bottom of Tawas Bay to snap a picture of a perch biting a fisherman's hook at Perchville. Today's specialized equipment for underwater photography was unheard-of in 1950 and Clark's picture made history in national photographic circles. The main problem faced by Clark was to develop a watertight container to house a large press-type camera. He first attempted the use of a "bubble" fashioned out of clear plastic around a wire frame, but this contraption immediately collapsed when it was lowered into the water and Clark's camera was soaked in the process. Harry Westrich, who then operated Huron Shores Rustic Furniture Company in Tawas City, was called upon to construct a wooden box with removable glass top. Westrich's crew of carpenters worked overtime one night to complete a new wooden container and, using ordinary window putty, the box was waterproofed and window sash weights were attached to the frame for lowering the unit into Tawas Bay.

Despite numerous drenchings of the camera the next day, caused by cracking of the glass under pressure of the water, Clark made several test exposures using this primitive equipment before shooting the final picture which was used by Life.

Lighting under the water was provided by ordinary electrical sockets purchased at a local hardware, wired to the camera's flash gun and extended underwater by means of bamboo fishing poles. Large flash bulbs were used to illuminate the water under a fish shanty.

While underwater photography was new in 1950, Clark's work was not new to national magazines. Over the years, his photographs have been featured on the covers of National Geographic, Newsweek, Time, Life, Field and Stream and many other national publications.

The simplicity and common appeal of his photographs brought this hillbilly from Tennessee into the top rank of the nation's photographers, with a success story that is unusual in that the beginning was accidental.

Prefacing his photographic career, Clark said goodbye to the hills of home in the middle 1930s. With best wishes from his kinfolk and neighbors, he joined the migration to Detroit where anybody could make at least five dollars a day—when the auto plants were working.

After a couple of different jobs, a series of accidents happened to start his photographic career. His fellow workers at the J. L. Hudson Company were intrigued by his hill-inspired tales and, when it came time to return home for a vacation, they thrust a camera into his hands and told him to bring back some pictures to prove his stories.

The pictures proved an instant success on his return to Detroit and his photographic exhibit in the store caught the attention of a magazine editor, who asked for some pictures.

Clark did not think they were good enough, but the magazine thought they were tops, paid him a sizeable check for his work and assigned him to return to Tennessee to do a photographic series which appeared in Life Magazine entitled "A Mountain Wedding." That assignment led to national recognition and his long career as Detroit's Hill Billy Snap Shooter.

Valuation Moratorium Gets County's Support

Iosco County Board of Commissioners Wednesday concurred with three other Michigan counties in asking the state tax commission for a one-year moratorium on any increase to the state equalized valuation of property.

Macomb, Gratiot and Montcalm Counties adopted resolutions pointing out that "home owners and small business proprietors are experiencing great difficulty in paying real property taxes. It would serve the best interests of such taxpayers and citizens of the state if such tax payments would be stabilized and thereby not increase the taxpayer's burden by increasing the assessed valuation of such property."

The resolution endorsed by Iosco County petitions the governor, the legislature and the state tax commission to effect a moratorium on any increase in state equalized and assessed valuation of all real property in the state upon which additional improvements have not been made in the years 1974 and 1975.

The Iosco commission's action was substantially the same position it held last month when it adopted a starting real estate valuation base of $148,194,890—identical to the state equalized total of 1974. This action had been recommended by Robin Allain, county tax equalization director, and supported by the Iosco County Townships Association.

Robert Foster, chairman of the county commission, said last month that Iosco would take its case to the state's new tax tribunal should any attempt be made at the state level to boost the valuation.

In other business Wednesday, the commission authorized the chairman to write a letter to the Michigan Construction Code Commission requesting its assistance in enforcing the state building code until such time that this county establishes its own enforcement department.

Enforcement by the state is provided in Section 20 of the building code and the county is preparing to establish a department in the near future. Under state law, the county is required to provide such enforcement for those units which have not adopted the BOCA building code.

At the request of the Michigan Department of Labor, the commission is to investigate a charge of CETA program violations leveled by Donald Czernik, Iosco County's WIN program representative.

gram were possibly being violated here.

Czernik said he had made a request to the county board of commissioners for information regarding job openings in the CETA program and did not receive this information.

Donald Griffin, who administers the CETA program for the county commission, said that no specific violations were cited by Czernik in his letter. Both Griffin and Chairman Foster were of the opinion that the county had abided by the CETA regulations. Griffin said that all referrals for hiring had been turned over to the local office of the Michigan Employment Security Commission and that all job openings had been advertised.

Czernik said he worked directly with the head of social services and was attempting to place ADC recipients in job openings.

Leon Putnam, county register of deeds, submitted his annual report showing that the office had total receipts of $38,673 during 1974, received transfer tax of $15,235 on property sales and recorded real estate mortgages amounting to $13,381,286.

The county commission is to appeal a denial of funds by the Office of Criminal Justice Programs for continuing the Michigan Youth Service program which affects 22 counties of Michigan.

Phyllis Morriscal was hired as the clerk-secretary for the Iosco Circuit Court. Although not a member of the county employees' union, she is to receive the same benefits and the amount is to be prorated with Oscoda and Alcona Counties on the same basis as in the past for expenses of the circuit court.

Roy F. Bergstrom, director of Iosco Medical Care Facility, requested authorization to hire an ombudsman under Title Six of the CETA program. The new employee would work in the social services section. Duties would be clerical in nature and would deal with social and personal needs of patients and families.

County Treas. Edward Nelkie reported that fees being received through county offices were practically at the same level as those received during January of last year. Receipts last month amounted to $15,374, $132 higher than during January 1974. He noted a $500 increase in the tax equalization department, a $600 increase in the probate judge's office and $800 increase in the county treasurer's office. Receipts in the register of deeds office were down $900 and receipts from the sheriff's department were down $600.

Nelkie said that property tax collections were approximately three percent lower than a year ago, although the amount of taxes collected is actually higher than a year ago. This was brought about by increases in property valuation and higher voted tax rates.

Members of the commission are to attend a meeting between the county treasurer, the county tax equalization director and the Midland firm which provides computer service for processing of county tax records and tax statements. Nelkie said that taxpayers are blaming the county for many errors on tax statements and that the errors were actually the fault of the computing firm.

William G. Milliken Governor of the State of Michigan

presents this

Executive Declaration

in Observance of the 25th Anniversary of

on

February 14-15-16, 1975

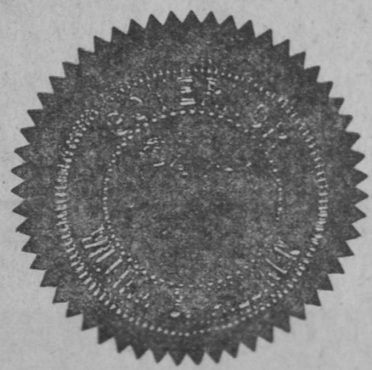

Each year the Cities of Tawas City and East Tawas in Iosco County join in a traditional observance of the winter season and the benefits of living in northern Michigan when they combine the forces of their communities to form "Perchville, U.S.A."

This unique winter festival--an event that has been nationally recognized through Wide, Wide World, T.V., national publications and trade magazines--features a "Village on Ice," providing wholesome amusement and excitement for persons of all ages. This year's festival will include ice fishing, snowmobile racing, demolition derby, parachute jumping, and polar-bear swimming.

This year marks the 25th Anniversary of "Perchville, U.S.A.," and observance will take place on February 14, 15 and 16, 1975.

Therefore, I, William G. Milliken, Governor of the State of Michigan, do hereby declare that the Cities of Tawas City and East Tawas shall jointly be known during the period, February 14 through 16, 1975, as "Perchville, U.S.A.," and encourage all citizens to recognize and support this famous Perchville Festival.

Given under my hand on this fifth day of February in the year of Our Lord one thousand nine hundred seventy-five and of the Commonwealth one hundred thirty-ninth.

William G. Milliken
