Cities to Accept Appraisal Bids

Hiring a professional appraisal firm as a means of eliminating inequities in property assessments is under study by city councils of East Tawas and Tawas City.

Appearing before city councils of both communities Monday night was Glen Mask of GEM Surveys, St. Clair, the firm which conducted a complete property appraisal for Iosco County eight years ago.

Mask is to submit a bid to each city council on February 17 for conducting the appraisal work in each community. Included would be updating the card filing system prepared eight years ago.

In addition, GEM Surveys conducts a state-approved training school for tax assessors and included in the bid package would be provisions to train an assessing officer for each community.

At the present time, Wilbur C. Roach of East Tawas serves as assessing officer for East Tawas and recently agreed to serve another year as Tawas City's assessing officer. As an alternative to hiring a professional firm to perform the appraisal work, the East Tawas Council is considering the possibility of using federal CETA funds to hire a man to work under Roach.

Because of equalization factors placed on residential properties in both communities last year by the state tax commission, inequities in tax assessments exist as the penalty was across-the-board on all residential properties. Newer residences were at or near the state equalized valuation, but assessments on older homes had not kept pace with market values which have risen during the past three years.

Tawas City was the first local unit to be appraised by GEM Surveys eight years ago and the old county board of supervisors hired GEM to conduct a complete reappraisal of the county following the work here.

FHA Funds Lag, City to Apply for Bonding

After awaiting approval for more than a year on an FHA loan to finance cost of constructing loops in the city water systems to improve distribution, the City of Tawas City is to petition the Iosco County Department of Public Works to handle bonding arrangements for the project.

Mayor John N. Brugger reported to the council Monday night that the low-interest FHA loan was now three to five months away from being approved, but he said that the bond market had greatly improved in recent months and believed the city should study this alternative method of financing.

It was pointed out that interest over a period of 40 years under the FHA loan would be $76,000, $1,000 more than the principal. Selling bonds on the open market to be paid over a period of 15 years would result in saving approximately $40,000 in interest.

Another factor detracting from the proposed FHA loan is the fact that the city has purchased most of the materials needed for construction and they are stockpiled at the city garage. The city contemplates use of federal CETA funds to hire employees to work on the project this summer.

City Atty. Kenneth Myles is to appear before the county DPW to make application for a revenue bond program.

The proposed loop system in the water main would improve distribution at various points in the city, including Tawas Area School and the Iosco Medical Care Facility.

Also being considered for construction this year is the force main to connect the Second Avenue lift station with the sewage disposal plant. This project, costing an estimated $41,000, was approved two years ago by voters. The city is to make application to the Municipal Finance Commission to sell revenue bonds to finance the construction.

Charter Provision Clarified by City

Property owners protesting special assessment districts to construct sewers, who cited a provision of the city charter to recall a member of the city council, were told Monday night that the charter provision in question did not apply to the appointment of an elected alderman.

Mayor John Brugger told a group of citizens attending the council meeting that the appointment of Edward Savage last year to fill a vacancy on the city council was perfectly legal and within the authority vested to the council by the city charter.

Brugger said that city aldermen are elective and not appointive officers and, when a vacancy occurs on the council, the remaining members have responsibility of electing or appointing someone to fill that vacancy within 30 days. He cited Section 5.6 of the city charter as the authority.

Property owners claimed that naming Savage to fill the vacancy was a violation of Section 5.1 of the city charter. Savage, who was defeated in the last general election, was named by the council last year to fill the unexpired term of Chester Smyczynski, who resigned.

The charter provision cited by the property owners states: "No person who holds or has held the office of mayor or councilman shall be eligible to hold any appointive office in the city until one year has elapsed following the expiration of the term of office for which he was elected."

The mayor, who served on the commission which prepared the city charter, pointed out that the provision in question applied only when an elected officer would be appointed to such an office as city manager, clerk-treasurer and fire chief.

The property owners said they were "not trying to make trouble for the council," but had the legal right to know that all provisions of the charter were being followed by the council.

Property Owners Offered Rebate

As a means of lessening the tax burden to property owners in three special assessment districts, the City of Tawas City is to pay a rebate of $100 to each property owner who changes over from a septic tank system to the new sanitary sewer when it is completed.

This action was taken by the city water board at a special meeting Thursday night and approved Monday night by the city council.

In announcing the water board's action, Mayor John Brugger said the rebate would add another $5,000 to the total cost of the three sewer projects to the city at large. He said that with $60,000 in general obligation bonds, the actual cost to the city at large would be more than 25 percent of the total. In addition, the connection fee normally levied against each lot is not to be charged in the special assessment districts.

After a delay of a little more than a month, the city council is to open bids March 3 for the sale of $227,000 in special assessment bonds and $60,000 in general obligation bonds to finance the sewer project. T. A. Forsberg of Okemos, low bidder on the project last October, extended his bid for a third time to coincide with the opening of bids on the bond sale.

City Mgr. Reginald Bublitz reported Monday night that he had met with a private contractor from Oscoda concerning a possible new bid on the project. This action had been suggested by property owners who had protested cost of the project.

Bublitz said that the Oscoda contractor had not given the city a price estimate, stating that the only possible savings would be if sewers were constructed at less depth.

Vernon Eckstein and Fred Wright, property owners in the special assessment district, expressed the opinion that the $19 per front foot assessment was too costly for property owners.

Ald. Robert N. Rollin expressed the opinion that much had happened to the national economy since the sewer project was first discussed nearly two years ago. He felt that construction should be delayed for a year to determine what funds might become available from the federal government to aid with the project. He said that many people were without jobs today and believed that it was not fair to people to add the extra tax burden at this time.

Mayor Brugger expressed the opinion that the city council had exercised sound judgment "in putting this project together," relying on the expert assistance of its engineering firm in planning. He said that federal funds were not available at this time and doubted if federal funds ever would be available for construction of sewer extensions.

The mayor said there were property owners who have an urgent need for sanitary sewer and, if the project is delayed to accommodate some property owners, the mayor wondered where the obligation would rest if there is a sudden outbreak of hepatitis or some other disease caused by faulty septic tank systems.

Brugger said the construction cost for this project was not out of line with similar districts in the state and the actual cost of septic tank systems to property owners over a period of years would be far greater than the special assessment for sanitary sewer construction.

"There would be a lot of happy people if you would delay this project for a year," said Eckstein. Arthur Povish and Arthur Zielh, both residents of the city, expressed the view that a qualified contractor should construct the sewer because of its extreme depth at some points. Wright expressed the view that the city crew could do some of the shallow sewer work to lessen the total cost.

A public hearing is to be held Monday, February 17, on the proposed 30-year franchise to Consumers Power Company. The public is invited to attend this meeting and voice any objections concerning the franchise.

Snowmachines Not Allowed on Streets

First reading on a new ordinance prohibiting operation of snowmachines on city streets except under special permission was read at Monday night's meeting of the East Tawas Council.

East Tawas' present ordinance allows use of city streets by snowmachines, but Donald Docking, city police chief, has pointed out that the ordinance is contrary to an opinion of the attorney general.

The attorney general's opinion, read at Monday night's meeting, states that snowmachine use is prohibited on city streets except for special occasions which receive prior approval of the city council and police department.

In other business, Tawas Area Promotions, Incorporated, was given permission to close the parking area at the city garage during the Perchville Festival. The site is to be used to check automobiles entered in the demolition derby.

The council is to investigate platting a series of building lots on city property along Airport Road. The city owns 40 acres of property in that area and the council believes the site should be divided into lots and sold for housing development.

Sand Lake Carnival Set for Week-End

Two demolition derbies, a polar bear swim, an auction sale and games for children will feature the annual Sand Lake winter festival to be held Saturday and Sunday, February 8-9.

Sponsored by the Sand Lake Men's Association, chairman of this year's event is Vincent Wade. Headquarters for activities is the recreational area near the Grant Township Fire Hall.

Saturday's program starts at 12 o'clock noon with outdoor games for young and old, an auction sale from 1:00 to 2:30 p. m., a powder puff demolition derby at 3:00 p. m. and cross cut sawing contest at 4:00 p. m.

Robert Jones and his Polar Bear Swimming Club of Tawas City will be a featured attraction starting at 12:30 p. m. Sunday, followed by the men's demolition derby at 2:00 p. m. and awarding of prizes at 3:00 p. m.

Wilbur C. Roach and Neal R. Miller were reappointed to four-year terms on the city board of canvassers.

Possible closing of the Michigan Waterways Commission Dock to public use is being investigated by the city. A recent storm damaged one section of the dock and city officials have expressed concern about the possible hazard to persons walking on the structure.

The city currently awaits word from the Michigan Waterways Commission concerning the availability of state matching funds to carry out the third phase of the federal-state modernization and expansion of the dock and harbor facilities.

According to the latest word from the district office of the Army Corps of Engineers, bids on the project are to be opened in June and construction is scheduled to start in August.

City Clerk Clyde Soper said that assurances had been given from the state that matching funds would be made available, but due to the delay in completing the planning phase, it is not known if state funds would be forthcoming this year.

Bank Approves Stock Dividend

The 48th annual meeting Tuesday of Peoples State Bank shareholders saw unanimous approval of a 10 percent stock dividend to shareholders of record, thus allowing the bank to operate with capital of $880,000.

The meeting, held at the Holland House with 43 shareholders in attendance, was conducted by L. G. McKay Jr., chairman of the bank's board of directors.

Pres. John D. Lippert gave a short update of the bank's activities during 1974, including the possibility of establishing a branch office at Oscoda. To date, the bank has not received regulatory approval for the branch.

William Dillon of the bank's accounting firm of Arthur Andersen and Company presented audited financial statements of the corporation as of December 31.

Re-elected for another year's term on the bank board of directors were McKay, Lippert, Harold J. Knight, Howard G. Look, Richard M. Harris, Charles H. Schreck, Paul P. Chevis and Hugo J. Keiser.

After the annual meeting, the following officers were renamed at the bank's organizational meeting: Lippert, president; John E. Hombach, vice president and trust of-

On behalf of the board, McKay stated that he was extremely happy with the growth and earnings of the bank during 1974 and "expected even better growth in 1975."

Bob Reynolds Cancels Visit

Bob Reynolds, WJR-Radio sports announcer, who was to have crowned Miss Debbie Beyer as the 1975 Perchville Festival queen, informed festival officials Monday that he would be unable to be here next week to participate in the program.

Reynolds, who has officiated at the crowning of winter sports queens here on numerous occasions, said that a last minute change in his schedule prevented him from attending this year. Name of the person selected to crown the queen is to be announced next week.

MSU Market-to-Table Meat Series

2: GRASS-FED & BABY BEEF; PROPOSED GRADING CHANGES

Baby Beef: The Newcomer

Although most cattle marketed during the coming months will be mature grain-fed beef, here's what to look for and expect from the small amount of grass-fed and baby beef you may find at the meat counter, according to Michigan State University ag. economists and meat specialists.

Baby Beef

On the hoof: Baby Beef—also known in various regions as California Calves, California Baby Beef, Light Beef, Heavy Veal or Heavy Calves—are animals marketed at one year old or younger. Recently weaned, the baby beef have grown on a diet of milk and grass until they weigh 350-600 pounds. They can properly be referred to as calves.

At the meat counter: Baby Beef or calf resembles veal in size; that is, the cuts are small. The lean may be pinkish or light red; the fat covering is thin (1/8" to 1/4"). There may be some marbling (flecks of fat in the tissue) in baby beef. The meat is very tender and mild-flavored.

Because the meat is young, baby beef may behave like veal when cooked, tending to lose moisture quickly the longer it is cooked.

In a few stores, baby beef is separated from regular beef in the display case. But in most stores, you won't see baby beef labeled as such, and you'll never see beef labeled as grass-fed or grain-fed, says James Price, MSU meat specialist.

Instead, the main difference at the meat counter, as far as the label is concerned, will be how the various types of beef are advertised, graded and priced.

Baby Beef generally grades Good; some of it grades Choice.

As for price, retailers may be able to offer baby beef at a lower price than Choice grain-fed beef. Beef producers receive 10-15¢ less per pound for baby beef than for more mature, grain-fed cattle. Not all of that price reduction reaches the consumer, however; in packing plants that are equipped to handle full-sized carcasses, it will cost more per pound to process the smaller carcasses.

Grass-Fed Beef

On the hoof: Grass-fed Beef—also known as Forage Beef—are marketed at 1-2 years old. They graze on range or pasture grass until they weigh 600-1,000 pounds, says MSU Ag Economist George Dike.

At the counter: Grass-fed Beef has less fat covering and less marbling than grain-fed. There is little evidence that the eating quality is harmed by less fat covering. The reduced marbling may reduce flavor and juiciness somewhat, but should not mean less tenderness.

In tender cuts from the rib and loin—such as T-bones, club steaks and rib-eye steaks—there may be just as much marbling in grass-fed beef as in grain-fed.

The color of the fat in grass-fed beef may be cream or light yellow, due to a color pigment in the grass the cattle feed on. Since this fat is usually trimmed or cooked away, there's no effect on the meat except in appearance.

Grass-fed beef would grade mostly Good or below; however, the packer and retailer who handle the beef seldom ask for the USDA grade label; instead, you'll often see this beef advertised under an Economy or Thrifty Cut label.

Grain-Fed Beef

On the hoof: Grain-fed Beef make their final weight gains before slaughter on grain. They usually feed on grass or grain until they reach 600-700 pounds, then they're placed in feedlots until they reach 1,000-1,100 pounds.

A New Beef "Choice"

The next time you go to the meat counter, you may be getting a new "Choice" in more ways than one.

The USDA has proposed revised beef-grading standards, to reduce the amount of fat required for top grades.

The present grading system rates beef as Prime, Choice, Good, Standard or Utility. Grade is determined by the amount of marbling (flecks of fat in the tissue), the age of the animal when slaughtered and conformation (shape).

Recent research has shown marbling doesn't affect tenderness, flavor and juiciness as much as once thought. If the proposed changes are approved, you'll see less marbling in the "choice" grade.

"More carcasses which currently are graded Good, would be graded Choice," says Marjette Smith, Michigan State University marketing program assistant.

The Choice category would be broadened to include slightly leaner beef and the Good category would be somewhat smaller.

Less $$ in Feedlots

Less feedlot time would be required per animal. The average feeding time could be cut by 10 days or more, and at least 200 pounds of feed grain could be saved per animal. This would result in production savings of $22 a head. This savings might be passed on to the consumer.

Healthier Beef?

Shorter feedlot time would also produce leaner beef that would be healthier and less

At the meat counter: Most Grain-fed Beef grades Choice. It is well-marbled, and the fat is white.

The Shape It's In

Right now, the shape of the carcass is considered when deciding the grade. However, many contend that shape has little to do with the eating quality of the meat. If proposed changes are approved, shape will be removed from grading standards. In its place, yield grade (amount of meat available to sell at retail) will be made a required part of grading.

What does this mean to the consumer? "More time and cost will be needed to determine yield at the processor," says A. E. Reynolds, MSU extension meat specialist. "Some of that cost may be passed on to the consumer. For this reason, many are opposing the new grading system."

The USDA is still debating the proposed changes. But if they are accepted, the new "choice" at the meat market would be a leaner cut of beef with no significant loss in tenderness, juiciness or flavor, according to Dr. Reynolds.

Braves Pull Out Win Over Oscoda Owls at Foul Lines

Tawas Area Braves edged a much-improved Oscoda Owls quintet, 74-66, in Friday night's NBC pairings. The game was much closer than the score indicates as the Braves were leading by only one point with less than two minutes to go and cashed in on several hot shooting from the foul line.

Except for a near disastrous second period, the Braves probably would have won in a walkaway. Tawas jumped off to a 22-16 margin in the first quarter but the Braves went cold in the second quarter, limping off to the locker-room at halftime with the Owls holding a 34-30 lead.

Tawas scored only eight points in a weak second quarter, but came on strong in the third quarter to outscore the visitors, 23-14.

The Owls moved their defense out to meet the Braves in the final quarter and Tawas was hard pressed to move the ball toward the basket. The Braves outscored Oscoda, 21-18, in that final quarter and the key to the scoring edge came via the free throw line.

Trying to play catch up basketball, the Owls had some costly fouls and the Braves, normally weak at the charity line, cashed in on the free shots. Mickey Haglund, top Tawas marksman at the charity line, meshed six straight foul shots and Randy Scales hooped two foul shots in the last minute of play.

The Braves made good on 18 of 26 foul shots during the night and missed only three tosses in the second half. Oscoda was at a disadvantage during the night on calls by the officials, but completed four out of eight free throws.

Larry Sweeney, six-foot, 7½-inch Oscoda sophomore, turned in an outstanding defensive game with several key blocks on Tawas shots, but found himself in trouble with fouls. He sat out most of the second half, returning to the floor late in the fourth quarter, and Tawas took advantage of his absence.

Paced by Haglund's 22 points on six field goals and 10 foul shots, the Braves had four players hitting in double figures. Jeff Hemphill had an 18-point effort on seven from the floor and four charity tosses. Randy Scales hit the hoops for 14 points on five and four, while Mike Mooney made good on six field goals.

Leading scorer for the visitors was Bob Hobart, who had 17 points on seven field goals and three foul shots. Sweeney turned in 13 points and Mike Campbell proved to be deadly from the side court with six buckets.

The Tawas Junior Braves turned in their second victory of the season with an easy win over the Oscoda junior varsity, 76-54. Tawas jumped off to an 18-12 lead in the first quarter, outscored the visitors, 21-14, in the second quarter and rode to a 20-13 margin in the third quarter. The final quarter saw both coaches substituting freely and the Junior Braves held a 17-15 edge.

Tawas had four players in double figures with Dave Gartland leading the pack with 17 points. Neil Warner had 12 points, Rick

Mild Weather Spoiled Track for Skaters

Home Not Counted for SS Resources

Question: My property was assessed a few months ago and the market value of my home was listed as $24,000. Will this affect my eligibility for supplemental security income payments?

Answer: Under the supplemental security income law, your home is not counted in determining your resources if it has a market value of $25,000 or less ($35,000 or less in Alaska and Hawaii).

Question: Do I have to send in a wage report and social security contributions on all of my farm employees?

Answer: If you paid a worker $150 or more in cash for farm work in 1974, his work is covered by social security and must be reported. If a worker did farm work for you on 20 or more days during the year, figured on a time basis rather than a piece-rate basis, this work is also covered, even if he was not paid $150, and must be reported.

Question: I was eligible for medicare medical insurance last March, but decided not to take it. Now I would like to have it. Can I still sign up for it?

Answer: Yes. People who declined medicare medical insurance protection when they were first eligible can enroll now through March 31. For information about how to sign up, call or write any social security office.

Question: I am going into the hospital in February. Is the medicare hospital insurance deductible still $84?

Answer: The hospital insurance deductible under medicare is $92 for benefit periods starting after December 31, 1974. The increase keeps the deductible in line with the national average cost of one day's stay in a hospital.

If you have questions regarding social security, contact the social security office at 1009 North Madison, Bay City, or phone 892-3554.

Roads-Streets Lose Revenue As Gas Taxes Show Decrease

Michigan motorists used 4.7 percent fewer gallons of gasoline in 1974 than in 1973 and highway funds suffered an 18.5-million-dollar revenue loss, according to the County Road Association of Michigan.

The decline in road funds based on gasoline taxes already is cutting maintenance and construction programs and Earl F. Rogers, engineer-director for the association, warned that state and local highway agencies face "catastrophe" if federal plans for forced fuel conservation go into effect.

"Unless alternative financing is found, pending federal proposals to cut gasoline use will sharply reduce state gas tax revenues with catastrophic results for governmental units responsible for roads and streets," Rogers said.

Data compiled by the County Road Association show that state motorists used 206-million fewer gallons of gasoline in 1974 than in 1973. Gas sales totaled 4.1-billion gallons last year compared with 4.3-billion for the prior year.

Gasoline sales to car and truck owners in December dropped to only 337-million gallons, the lowest in seven months. This was 4.9 percent below the same month in 1973.

March proved to be the poorest month for gasoline use in 1974 when sales dropped to 292-million gallons. However, April showed the biggest percentage drop of 12.2 percent compared with the same month in the prior year.

In every month of 1974, gasoline usage was down from the comparable period a year earlier. "No one disputes the need for oil conservation at the federal level," Rogers declared. "However, the effect of any conservation program will severely reduce gasoline use and that in turn will drastically cut revenue from the state's gasoline tax."

Gasoline taxes form the principal revenue source to finance state, county and municipal road and street systems.

"Already, many counties have been forced to reduce maintenance and construction programs because of dwindling gas tax funds in 1974," Rogers noted. Some agencies have cut back snowplowing and ice removal work, raising fears that some rural routes may not be adequate for even emergency travel.

$1,000 for Fireplace

Youth Groups Aid New Church

A check in the amount of $1,000, representing the combined efforts of junior and senior high youth groups of Tawas United Methodist Church, was presented to Howard Burdett, building committee chairman, at the morning worship service Sunday, February 2, in East Tawas.

$50 to School With Most Donations to Bloodmobile

A good friend of Iosco County Chapter, American National Red Cross, has donated a new $50 bill, to be presented to the school which has the greatest percentage of those eligible donate a pint of blood when the bloodmobile comes.

In the Tawas, the bloodmobile will be here Monday, February 10, from 1:00 to 7:00 p. m., at the East Tawas Community Building. It will be in Oscoda Tuesday, February 11, from 12 o'clock noon to 6:00 p. m. at the Oscoda Township Hall.

The goal of $1,000 had been set before the church began its actual construction of the new facility in Tawas City. The money will be used for the fireplace in the youth room in the new church building, scheduled for dedication Sunday, March 16.

Various fund-raising events were held over a period of three years, but the groups raised the major portion of money from the sale of Christmas wreaths. With help and supervision from adults, the youths cut and bundled pine boughs, then snipped and wired them to form wreaths. The groups agreed that the project could not have been successful without the contribution of unlimited boughs from the Herbert Phelps farm, adult helpers and individuals who bought the wreaths.

Burdett, speaking for the building committee, said, "The youths must truly be commended for setting themselves a goal and following through until they met that goal."

Plan Worker Training Course

Assembly of God Church, East Tawas, will conduct a worker training course for church and Sunday school workers and anyone interested on Wednesday through Friday, February 5-7, and Tuesday and Wednesday, February 11 and 12. The classes will each be a two-hour session, 7:00 to 9:00 p. m., with a coffee break.

The book to be studied is "The Spirit-God In Action," by Anthony D. Palma. There are five classes for a total of 10 hours of teaching on the Holy Spirit. A worker training certificate will be issued to all who complete the course.

There is renewed discovery and emphasis on the ministry of the Holy Spirit in the church and the life of the individual. Anyone who would like to know more about the Pentecostal Full Gospel and the Charismatic move of the Holy Spirit in the world today is invited to take this course. For more information, call 362-3067. Textbooks will be available from the Rev. Edward J. Fairbanks, pastor.

TODAY'S Meditation
from The World's Most Widely Used Devotional Guide

(Read I Corinthians 15:51-58)

O death, where is thy sting? (I Corinthians 15:55)

One day a child and his father were riding in their automobile when a honey bee flew in through the window. The child had gone into convulsions when stung before. The next sting might result in the child's death.

He became hysterical because he knew the present danger. His father said calmly, "Do not worry, son. I will take care of it." He brought the car to halt at the side of the road and caught the honeybee in his hand. The child relaxed momentarily but again became frantic when the father opened his hand and released the honeybee which began to fly about in the car.

The father said, "Son, you do not need to be afraid," turning his palm toward the lad. "See, the barb of the stinger is imbedded here in my palm. I have taken the sting out of that insect and it cannot harm you."

Is not this what Christ has done for us? By His death and resurrection, He has taken the sting out of death!

PRAYER
Heavenly Father, thanks for what Your Son has done for us through His death and resurrection. Praised be His name forever. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY
Why fear death? Through Christ it has lost its power.—Claude A. Frazier, North Carolina.

Hospital patients this week include Vone Barger and Al White, Tawas Hospital; Mrs. Roger Roth, Flint General Hospital, and Mrs. William Mitchell, St. Luke's Hospital, Saginaw.

Last Tuesday, the Raiders Diet and Exercise Club held a diet food pot-luck luncheon. Fifteen members enjoyed the dishes prepared for calorie conscious individuals. Mrs. Jane Zess, registered nurse, reports that candidates for the club may attend any Monday at 10:00 a. m. or Thursday at 7:30 p. m. at the fire hall.

The Grant Township Women's Auxiliary will hold the annual election of officers Tuesday, February 11. Members are urged to attend. The flu bug has hit quite a number of area residents including your correspondent, hence the recent lack of local news.

Area people are anxiously awaiting the coming week-end when the Grant Township winter festival takes place. There will be games for all ages, demolition derby Saturday and Sunday, the famous polar bears on Sunday, lots of food and refreshments at the site of the new community building.

Late Winter Brings Danger to Michigan's Deer Herd

Late each winter, many deer are either killed or harassed until near death by dogs.

The bulk of these deer-running dogs come from the rural or outlying areas. Quite often the dog may be on the back porch in the morning but perhaps he has chased deer all night. So far this winter, snow conditions in the Northern Lower Peninsula have not hampered deer movements, but in some cases this just brings the free-ranging whitetail closer to the dog's back porch for the start of the chase.

There is not enough snow in the Lower Peninsula yet this winter for the deer to bog down in deep snow while the dog runs across the top, but anytime a dog chases a deer, for any length of time, the deer is the loser, whether it is actually caught or not. Most does are carrying fawns this time of year and a chase by dogs could double the chance of death or injury to both doe and fawn.

Offers Help in Filing for Bonus

State Rep. George A. Prescott of Tawas City is offering assistance to veterans in his district who qualify for the Vietnam veterans bonus.

Although the applications are available at 240 Secretary of State branch offices, Prescott is also making them available at his Lansing office.

"Anyone who is inconvenienced by having to go to a Secretary of State's office can write to me at the Capitol and I will be happy to mail him or her the application packet," Prescott said.

The newly-created Vietnam veteran era bonus section of the Department of Military Affairs distributed the application packets Thursday.
