Blaze Sent Two to Tawas Hospital

An East Tawas couple was in satisfactory condition at Tawas Hospital Tuesday morning following a fire Monday night which gutted their home at 411 Main Street. Treated for burns to the hands and face was Barney Brooks, 55. His wife, Ilene, 50, sustained smoke inhalation. Mr. Brooks had returned home from the hospital only two days previous to the fire.

East Tawas firemen said the two victims had to be assisted out of the burning dwelling. Mrs. Brooks was taken to the hospital by ambulance and Mr. Brooks was transported to the hospital by a patrol car.

The blaze, which apparently started in the rear portion of the house, was discovered about 10:35 o'clock by a neighbor, who turned in the alarm to the fire department. Fire Chief William Look Jr. said Tuesday morning that the blaze apparently was caused by faulty electrical wiring.

Firemen were hampered by dense smoke which poured from the burning structure. A portion of Tawas City Department of Public Works is to conduct its annual cleanup Thursday. Trucks will pick up discards left at curbside. A second cleanup is to be held Thursday, May 6. The city council asks all home owners to participate in the campaign.

the dwelling is of two story construction and is believed to be about 75 years old. A double thickness of vertical wall sheathing of pine lumber hampered firemen as did a number of false ceilings.

Fire seemed to be most intense at the rear of the structure, where paint cans and an outboard motor were stored. It is believed that an explosion was later caused when fire reached the paint materials or a gasoline lantern stored in the building.

Twenty members of the volunteer fire department were at the scene until 2:00 a. m. Tuesday.

Chief Look estimated the loss at approximately $20,000.

Tawas City Water Board

Seeks Clarification of Responsibilities

Clarification of responsibility pertaining to management of the water and sewer department by the city's water board is being sought by the Tawas City Water Board.

During discussion at Monday night's regular water board meeting, members expressed the opinion that the city council may have exceeded its province on a matter which water board members felt should have been turned over to that department for action.

Delano Myles, water board chairman, along with Jack Bronson and Jerry Snoblen, members, expressed the opinion that, inasmuch as the water board was held responsible for matters pertaining to that department, decisions concerning water and sewer matters should be made by that department.

The question concerns the recent authorization by the city council for the department of public works to clean out a privately owned sewer line at city expense. Water board members expressed the opinion that precedent should not be established by the city concerning privately owned sewer lines and insist that such precedent has not been established.

"A review of the city ordinance establishing the water board clearly defines the duties of its members," said Myles. He said that copies were being made available to each member of that board and the city council as a means of clarifying the matter.

In other business, the board authorized the city's engineer to update a map showing all water and sewer lines constructed in the city.

At the board's regular meeting May 24, members are to make an inspection tour of the waste water treatment plant, the four sewer lift stations and the water pumping station which connects Tawas City with East Tawas' water system.

City Mgr. Reginald Blubitz reported that a resolution accepting the city's share of the cost of financing expansion of the water service in the Tawas and Baldwin Township is to be presented next Monday night to the city council. The resolution is required by Farm Home Administration under terms of its 40-year, low interest loan to the three units of government which will be combined with two federal grants to finance construction of the system.

The city manager reported on his attendance at a meeting of the American Waterworks Association at which new national drinking water standards were outlined by the Environmental Protection Agency.

Copies of the water department's proposed budget for 1976-77 were presented for study and action on adoption of the budget is to be taken at next month's meeting.

Smelt Run Good, but Few Dippers

Water in streams entering Saginaw Bay finally shot above the 40 degree mark last week-end and a silver horde of smelt began its annual run up the Whitney Drain, Tawas River and other tributaries of Lake Huron.

While there was a crowd of about 9,000 persons at Whitney Drain and another 2,500 in the Tawas area a week ago, only a few hundred dippers enjoyed the excellent run Friday night.

The weather turned cold Saturday night and rain whipped by a strong wind ended most of the dipping. There was only a handful of fishermen at the Tawas River mouth, although the East Tawas Park was filled with campers.

Last week-end's crowd was not expected to be as large as the Easter holiday, when traffic on US-23 moved at a crawl. State police said that crowds, generally, have been well behaved, in spite of the fact that 17 arrests were made in two nights, April 16-17.

White Cane Week Slated in Tawas

East Tawas Lions' White Cane Sale will be held Friday and Saturday on the streets of the Tawas.

Proceeds from this sale are used to purchase eye glasses for persons in the community, along with donations to the Leader Dog School at Rochester and purchase of canes or talking Bible records for the blind.

Locations in the Tawas area will be manned by the Lions Club. Members will be identified by their Lions Club hats and aprons.

HIGH WINDS over the week-end raised havoc with smelt nets set in Saginaw Bay. Larry Rose, commercial fisherman, shown at far left, inspects the nets after they were returned to shore Monday morning. The nets collapsed and the fishermen were unable to tend them until after the storm. The nets were being cleaned above at the Ninth Avenue launching ramp on the Tawas River. The nets apparently were not damaged, but the fishermen lost their catch.—Tawas Herald Photo.

NEW SHOWROOM of McIntosh-McKay Chevrolet-Cadillac was being readied Monday morning for the grand opening to be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday. The 26,000-square foot building has been under construction since last August.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Dealership Has New Name; Opened for Business Monday in New Building

A sparkling new building and a new name greeted customers Monday morning at McIntosh-McKay Chevrolet-Cadillac Sales Company at its new location on US-23, Baldwin Centre. Finishing touches were being put on the 26,000-square-foot building, where a grand opening is to be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday, April 30, May 1-2.

After 60 years and three months under the McKay name, an announcement was made Monday that the new name of McIntosh-McKay had been adopted. Roger McIntosh has been general manager and a stockholder in the firm since he came here February 8, 1971.

Last week was a busy time for employees of the firm in the move from the old location at 325 Lake Street in Tawas City. From 12 to 14 truckloads of parts were moved to the service department, along with an inventory of 94 automobiles, office equipment, equipment and tools.

"We extend an invitation to all residents of the area to visit our grand opening this week-end," said McIntosh. "The grand prize to some lucky visitor will be an all-expense-paid trip for two people to the place of their choice—Nassau, Las Vegas, Nevada, or Toronto, Canada."

There will be free coffee and other gifts for visitors. Ground was broken last August 8 for the new building when L. G. McKay, president, officially turned over the first shovelful of earth. Contractor for the work has been Davison and Son Builders, Tawas City.

The 150 by 180-foot metal building has a brick and stone exterior, asphalt paved drives, a fenced area for car security and is located on five acres of land.

The interior has a 60 by 80-foot showroom capable of displaying six cars, a 40 by 60-foot service reception area, a 120 by 150-foot service area with body and paint shop, along with parts department, all under one roof. The new building, probably the most modern facility in the country, features a beautiful showroom with carpeted floor, a fireplace and lounge area for customers.

New equipment added to the service department is a Sun diagnostic computer. There are 28 persons employed by the firm. The firm was established January 16, 1916, by the late L. G. McKay Sr. and was first located at East Tawas. L. G. (Ladd) McKay joined his father in the business in May 1946 after serving with the armed forces during World War II. The dealership was moved into a brick and block building constructed that year at 325 Lake Street in Tawas City.

The firm's history has been one of constant growth and is one of the oldest—if not the oldest—Chevrolet dealerships in the country. The Cadillac line was established in 1949. Two major expansions had been made at the former location before the move into the new building.

Hale School Asks Renewal; Lower Debt Retirement Tax

At a special meeting held Monday night, Hale Area Board of Education formally adopted a resolution asking only for renewal of 14.75 operational mills at the June 14 annual election.

"Budgeting will be tight during the 1976-77 term, but we are not asking for additional millage at this time," stated Supt. Wayne Case.

The superintendent said that the district's increase in valuation is expected to meet the school district's $1,093,449 budget, but much depends on the same allocated tax rate as received last year from the county.

The revenue budget also assumes that the state will not reduce its categorical aid in the new term as it did in the 1975-76 term. When the state cut its aid to schools, Hale Area School's transportation and special education money was cut. Because of its high valuation and low number of students, Hale Area School receives no state membership aid under the current formula.

Because of the fact that the district's valuation has increased, the school's debt retirement tax rate will be reduced by one mill this year.

In other business Monday night, 24 teachers were recommended for continuing tenure and the salary of one teacher was frozen under terms of the tenure act.

Tawas Hospital Asks Permit to Buy X-Ray

Tawas Hospital wants to replace some of its X-ray equipment and has petitioned the state for approval of the project.

State and federal regulations require that hospitals must have prior approval before making a capital investment of $100,000 or more for equipment or construction. The hospital's administration has applied to the Division of Health Facility Planning and Construction of the Michigan Department of Health for a certificate of need.

Hospital sources have estimated the cost of the project for the diagnostic radiology unit at $130,000, with an additional $10,000 to $20,000 to update the electrical system to handle the new equipment.

Providing approval is granted, the new equipment should be installed and ready for use some time during the summer.

Two Persons Filed for Posts Being Vacated by Veterans

Two persons have filed nominating petitions for the two vacancies on Tawas Area Board of Education, but at least four other persons have obtained nominating petitions and may file them before the May 17 deadline, according to Dr. Robert Halle, superintendent of Tawas Area School.

Filing petitions have been the Rev. Alfred Saulsbury, pastor of Christ Episcopal Church, and Randall DeWyse, insurance agent.

Two veteran members of the board of education, Mrs. Helen Payea and Earl Davis, announced earlier this year that they would retire at the end of their current terms on June 30.

Mrs. Payea was first elected to the board of education in 1964 and was re-elected to four-year terms in 1968 and 1972. Davis was appointed to fill a vacancy in December 1967 and was elected to four-year terms in 1968 and 1972.

In addition to naming two trustees at the June 14 annual election, it is expected that the board of education will ask voters to approve an increase in operational millage as well as asking for renewal of presented voted millage.

At the present time, the district receives a total of 20.30 mills for operation, which includes 11 mills voted by the people two years ago and expires this year, along with 9.30 mills allocated by the county.

TODAY'S Meditation

from The World's Most Widely Used Devotional Guide

(Read Ephesians 2:13-22)
Our commonwealth is in heaven, and from it we await a Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ. (Philippians 3:20, RSV)

I awoke one morning with a proud and happy feeling. After having been a refugee and stranger for many years and after having passed a difficult examination the day before, I had become a Swiss citizen.

My eyes fell on the Bible calendar and I read Luke 10:20: "Rejoice that your names are written in heaven."

What a wonderful lesson! It is good to be a citizen of a country with a rich tradition of freedom and Christian faith. It is infinitely better to be a fellow citizen with the saints and a member "of the household of God."

One version translates Philippians 3:20, "Our citizenship is in heaven." How do we attain this priceless possession? We must accept the sacrifice of our Lord Jesus and surrender ourselves to His love. The Lord will then build and mold us to be living stones of His holy temple.

PRAYER

Heavenly Father, our hearts sing and rejoice because we are Thy children through the redemptive love of our Savior. Give us grace to live as citizens of heaven. For His precious name's sake. Amen.

DAR Chapter Met at Home of Mrs. Ezo

A program, "Women of the Revolution," featured the April meeting of River Aux Sables Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at the home of Mrs. Steven Ezo, Tawas City.

Lives of women who served as intelligence agents, journalists, printers, soldiers and pioneers were presented by Mrs. Lloyd Wiegierink, chapter historian and United States bicentennial chairman.

The presentation included Mary Katherine Goddard, who printed the first copies of the Declaration of Independence and defended freedom of the press by refusing to name her sources of war information; and Margaret Cochran Corbin, in later years confused with Molly Pitcher.

Wounded while serving with her husband, John Corbin, she was the first woman pensioner of the United States. After extensive research, the DAR arranged to have her re-interred at West Point with full military honors, the only woman buried there.

"There is really nothing new about women's liberation," Mrs. Wiegierink commented.

Mrs. L. Stanton Bush, national defense chairman, summarized proposals in the so-called "Declaration of Interdependence," introduced by the World Affairs Council of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, early this year.

"It promulgates a new world order which would be at best, unworkable, and at worst, inimical to the best interests of the American people," Mrs. Bush stated.

Seven state and national awards received by the chapter for the past year's work were displayed to members and their guests, Mrs. Lyle Adams and Mrs. Thomas Clark, Hale; Mrs. John Duggan, Lupton, and Mrs. George Haw, East Tawas.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:
I would like this to be an "open letter" to the person, or persons, who threw that awful blue paint on the office door of Dr. Harvey Brinkman and Dr. Raymond Sutton and who have been going about town cutting tires on cars. We hope this might be a bit of "food for thought."

Take the early morning hours of April 17—local police were assisting a heart attack victim, checking on several aged persons in poor health and living alone. At 4:00 a. m., the officers were at our home assisting my husband after he had a bad fall.

Maybe some night while you are out having your so called "fun," some loved one at your home might be in the need of the service of these hard working men and, while they are checking on your doings, it may be too late to help at your home.

A grateful person on behalf of the sheriff's department,
Margaret McClain

SAFETY THE SPIRIT OF 76

Consumers Power's Job Safety Theme Nationally Recognized

Consumers Power Company's bi-centennial job safety theme is receiving national recognition, according to Gordon Huck, Northeast Division's district manager for the utility.

The slogan, promoting on-the-job safety and designed by Consumers Power employees to tie in with the nation's bicentennial, has been honored by safety officials and being used as the theme for safety campaigns by a number of utilities across the country.

The slogan, which depicts a Minuteman as part of its overall theme, is "Safety, the spirit of '76." It was conceived to promote job safety awareness among the more than 10,000 Consumers Power Company employees in Michigan, including 472 in the Northeast Division.

Its unique design, according to Huck, led it to be designated the official theme of the Michigan Safety Conference in Lansing. The conference is composed of safety officials from businesses throughout the state.

Following a request from safety officials at the Edison Electric Institute, the national organization of investor-owned electric utilities, Consumers Power okayed the use of the slogan for promoting safety by other companies. Electric firms from New York to Texas are using the theme to help reduce accidents.

The slogan, says Huck, is part of a company-wide drive to reduce the on-the-job accident frequency by 20 percent in 1976. It is printed on banners, posters, lapel buttons and a variety of other promotional materials displayed for or used by employees in the company's offices and plants throughout much of the Lower Peninsula.

Huck said the campaign, which was kicked off late last year by the company's president, John D. Selby, is the largest company-wide safety effort in his memory. He noted that the bicentennial-related drive has made employees more safety conscious.

A competition has been established among the company's 15 divisions and its major departments to establish the best safety performance on a monthly basis. The winning unit receives a special Minuteman trophy.

Reports for Household Workers Due April 30

Quarterly wage reports and social security contributions for household workers are due by April 30, according to social security officials here.

People who pay a household worker $50 or more in cash wages in any 3-month calendar quarter must send a report of the wages, along with the social security contribution, to the Internal Revenue Service within one month after the end of the quarter.

Wage reports and social security contributions for January, February, and March of 1976 are due by April 30," a spokesman said.

The wage report may be filed on a form available at any Internal Revenue Service Office—Employer's Quarterly Tax Return for Household Employees (for Social Security).

The social security contribution for a household employee is 5.85 percent of covered wages, and the employer pays a matching amount.

Social security contributions build retirement, disability, survivors, and Medicare protection for workers and their families. People who employ household workers can get a free copy of the leaflet, Social Security and your household employee, at any social security office.

Be sure your employer copies your social security number correctly whenever you get a job.

Hopes of 400 or more Iosco school children waiting patiently since the early morning hours on a cold November day in 1927 were crushed when their hero walked by them without so much as a flicker of an eye or nod of the head in recognition of their cheers. Local dignitaries, too, were at a loss when they were left standing at the edge of the sod runway—with speeches of welcome still in their hands, but unspoken.

But what could one say to this 25-year-old native of Detroit, who was the idol of the age—only six months earlier, he had been given a tumultuous ticker-tape parade in which 1,800 tons of confetti were strewn in his path as the City of New York prostrated itself in worship, in the excessive manner by which Americans accorded tribute to their heroes in the flamboyant style of the Roaring Twenties.

The acclaim given Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, the Lone Eagle, by Americans and Europeans had not worn off since his historically successful flight across the Atlantic Ocean. In the most publicized exploit of the 1920s, the then Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh, on May 20, 1927, took off from Roosevelt Field, New York, for Paris, France, flying alone in his single engine monoplane, the Spirit of St. Louis. The whole nation held its breath as he piloted his tiny craft across the Atlantic to land safely at Le Bourget Airport near Paris. This first nonstop transatlantic solo flight had been accomplished in 33½ hours and Lindbergh won a $25,000 cash prize for his efforts.

But, the naturally shy young aviator, who detested and actually was aghast at the jubilant welcome given him by an adoring public, only wanted to escape from the crush of mankind—the endless banqueting, the cheering of mobs of people at every stop and the endless questioning by reporters. (In comparison, the reception accorded Neil Armstrong and Edwin Aldrin, the first astronauts to set foot on the moon more than four decades later, was pale when the triumphal parade given the Lone Eagle is recalled.)

Young Lindbergh never really escaped from "his" public and, five years later, the consequence of the publicity resulted in the kidnap slaying of his son, Charles Jr., which was to haunt him to his grave.

But Bruno Haputman and that tragedy in his personal life was still in the future as Lindy landed his Curtis pursuit plane at Camp

Skeel, a spit of sand carved out of the jackpine west of Oscoda. It was Wednesday, November 9, 1927, when he taxied the biwing plane to a stop near the runway overlooking VanEtan Lake.

"He probably was deep in thought about the coming week of winter maneuvers and, perhaps, even about catching a few hours of relaxation in the north woods, when he walked by us, opened the door of the old administration building and closed the world behind him," recalls Harry Curley, a resident of Oscoda.

In 1927, Curley was a 17-year-old Oscoda High School student and his secret ambition was to be a pilot like his friends—the flying NCOs—his personal heroes at the nearby flying field of the United States Army Air Corps.

The landing field near Oscoda had been utilized for winter maneuvers since 1925, when Brig. Gen. Billy Mitchell, the foremost exponent of air power in the world, ordered the First Pursuit Group from Selfridge Field to conduct an "air battle" against an enemy invader over Northeastern Michigan. Covering a territory from Oscoda to the Straits of Mackinac, interest in this expedition, first of its kind where air forces worked independently of land forces, was so intense that The Tawas Herald reported that "many foreign governments were at Oscoda to secretly watch the trials."

Temporary headquarters for this mock battle was at VanEtan Lake. Ten Curtis P-1 pursuit planes (representing over one-half of the entire pursuit force of the United States), three observation planes and three "giant" Martin bombers made up the force that took part in the affray. The Herald's report on the maneuvers sounded like a page right out of General Mitchell's testimony before congress: "The effectiveness of the air service which was proven during the Great War was again demonstrated here last week. Many people have expressed themselves as believing that the United States, the pioneer nation in aviation, should not fall behind in the use of this most effective arm of defense and that the government should adequately provide for the air forces."

The 1926 winter maneuver was not the only time that the Oscoda field had held the attention of the country. The First Pursuit Group, in May 1925, developed new methods at Oscoda which were to revolutionize target practice. Gunners had developed a system which became five times more effective in hitting targets than the best experiments of the "Great War."

Maj. Carl Spaatz, commander of the First Pursuit Group in 1925, later the first chief of staff of the United States Air Force after a distinguished record as leader of the army air forces during World War II, told members of the Oscoda Aero Fan Club in 1925 that "these maneuvers can be easily adapted to practical training that will be swiftly effective in a national emergency. I think their discovery and application here at Oscoda is the outstanding advance in military aviation since the end of the war. The past accomplishments here will undoubtedly be of untold value in our national defense."

This was the setting, then, when Lindbergh arrived at Camp Skeel, named in memory of Capt. Bert Skeel. In retrospect, it is undeniable that the army air corps hoped to capitalize on the publicity received world-wide by this young aviator to gain much needed funds from congress to purchase military air hardware. There is no denying, too, that it was for a good cause, as proven by later events leading up to and including World War II.

Lindbergh took part in all the pursuit maneuvers and, according to a report in the Herald, he was equipped with a regulation Curtis (See LINDY, page 6.)

Now, we are armed with our own declaration of freedom. We have proclaimed King George a tyrant, unfit to rule a free people. Thomas Jefferson's Declaration of Independence has been approved and adopted. On July 9th, General Washington sends its message to his army in New York. Along with an order "that this important event will serve as an incentive to every officer and soldier to act with fidelity and courage..." We listen, and we are stirred. We gaze at the 4,000-pound lead statue of George III towering over us on Bowling Green. Soldier and citizen alike, we have one thought. Throw it down! Later, we realize how handy it is made into rifle bullets.

Former Bank President Sues Hartford for 3 Million Dollars

A three-million-dollar damage suit was filed Thursday in Iosco County Circuit Court by Richard L. and Louise Harwood, residents of Ohio, against the Hartford Accident and Indemnity Company. The complaint demands a jury trial.

Harwood was fired as president of Peoples State Bank of East Tawas in 1972, after shortages in the bank were uncovered. He later entered a guilty plea in federal court on charges of making false entries in bank records, was sentenced to a prison term of one to five years and was later released by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati, Ohio, while awaiting a decision on his petition asking the court to set aside his guilty plea. He was later placed on probation.

According to the complaint, on or about August 1972, the Harwoods executed a trust agreement with Hartford, creating duties and powers in holding and disposition of certain joint assets valued at or about $1,206,475.82, some items subject to certain security agreements.

The complaint states that the defendant, by its agent, Leopold P. Borrello, "knew, should have known, or acquiesced in the exercise of said fiduciary duties and powers, with knowledge of said agreement."

The complaint states that Hartford later acquired "conflicting interests with said fiduciary duties and powers, by paying a spurious bonding claim in the amount of $775,000 to beneficiary Peoples State Bank of East Tawas," under the guise of a previous to August 1972 bonding agreement between Harwood and the defendants.

The complaint states that Hartford had failed to discharge duties of trustee within the bonding standards and trustee standards of the industry; that Hartford had participated in the complete dissipation of the assets of the trust agreement, without accounting and interest to the Harwoods; that Hartford had failed to return assets with interest to the plaintiffs and had dissipated the trust while representing legal interests contrary to the interests of Harwood.

The petition asks for relief in a return of all assets or proceeds, interest from the date of the defendants' knowledge of such trust agreement, an accounting, attorney fees, costs, interest on the judgment, all no less than $1,206,475.82.

A second count states that Hartford "exercised any lawful acts in a negligent or bad faith, manner, thereby in breach of a covenant of good faith as to the plaintiffs, causing them great pain, suffering and emotional distress."

The Harwoods ask the court for compensatory damages in the amount of $2,000,000, plus exemplary damages in the amount of $1,000,000.

At the present time, a suit is pending in circuit court here in which Hartford seeks $1,875,000 in damages against directors of Peoples State Bank. The original petition, filed August 8, 1973, claims that, as a result of negligence, the bank sustained a loss of $1,781,574.95 and that $775,000 of the loss was paid by that insurance company. Harwood was named a co-defendant in that suit.

The 1973 petition by Hartford claimed that the directors illegally surrendered and delegated their individual and collective duties and authority to the former president of the bank and allowed him to manage the bank without supervision.

Plan to Get a Summer Job? Get Social Security Number Now

Housewives, students, and other people who plan to get a summer job should apply now for a social security number if they don't have one, according to social security officials here.

"You should apply for your number several weeks before you need it for a job covered by social security," a spokesman said. "Applications must be screened against central files in Baltimore to make sure that a second number isn't issued to that same person. Screening generally takes several weeks."

More than nine out of ten jobs are covered by social security.

"Your social security number is yours alone and remains the same for life," the spokesman said. "A worker builds retirement, disability, survivors, and Medicare protection by work and earnings credited to his social security number. So when you get a job covered by social security, be sure your employer copies your name and number correctly from your social security card to his records."

People can get information about applying for a social security number by calling, writing, or visiting any social security office. People applying for a social security number for the first time may be asked to prove their age, identity, and citizenship.

"If you've lost your social security card, you can get a duplicate by contacting any social security office," the spokesman said. "You can get a duplicate faster if you've kept the stub that came with your social security card."

The Social Security Administration is an agency of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

fillers

If you need a social security number, be sure to apply for one at any social security office 4 to 6 weeks before you plan to use it.

If you get social security or supplemental security income checks, be sure to notify social security as well as the post office if you change your address.

Check your social security record every 3 years or so to make sure your employer reports your earnings correctly. You can get a free post-card form at any social security office to do it.

questions and answers

Q. My parents have never been through a formal marriage. They've been together 30 years now, and have raised six children. I know their marriage is considered legal under State law, but I was wondering if there will be any difference when they apply for Federal supplemental security income payments. Would their eligibility be affected?

A. People who hold themselves out as husband and wife in the community where they live are considered legally married in determining eligibility for supplemental security income payments. The Federal program generally follows State law and would give your parents the same marriage status as the State does.

Q. My wife had to be transported by ambulance from the hospital where she underwent her operation to another hospital in a nearby city for special treatments. Will Medicare help pay for the cost of the ambulance?

A. Yes, if the following conditions are met: (1) the ambulance, equipment, and personnel meet Medicare requirements, (2) transportation in any other vehicle would endanger the patient's health, (3) your Medicare carrier determines that the treatment is not available at the first hospital, and (4) the second hospital is the nearest one available for the type of treatment your wife requires.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

This is an answer to those people who have been writing letters to your paper condemning the retired citizen for the failure of the millage not passing. The first thing I want to say is this: The way one votes and the way one spends his or her money is nobody's business but his own. It seems to me that these people could find something else to do rather than run the retired citizens down. You people should be thankful that we are able to take care of ourselves.

I think if you look at the situation real close you will find that the people who voted against the millage were people who have young children and are paying for homes, cars, furniture and cannot afford to pay more taxes.

Yes, I am retired, but that did not have anything to do with the way I voted and I did not "no" because I do not see where a new gymnasium would have anything to do with a better education. I think we have gone too far from education and are thinking too much about band, sports, shops, etc. If we put reading, writing and arithmetic back in the school as it used to be many years ago, I think we will be better off. I hear that some youngsters leave school and cannot read. I do not believe this, but if it is true, then what is wrong with the school?

I do believe in a good education and any student who wants one can get it at Tawas Area. I do think that the parents have to do more than they have in the past few years. They should be more interested in what classes their youngsters are taking while in high school. If you want your youngster to go on to college you must start thinking about this while they are in the lower grades, not when they become seniors.

I have lived in the Tawas area all my life and I am 63 years old. I have three sons and one daughter who graduated from Tawas Area and all four have graduated from college, three of them with master degrees.

With the way the vote turned out, I think the people are telling the school board and administrators that they do not want all of the added things in our school. Why not ask the people here in Tawas area what they want for education instead of trying to force things through? You people should take a

Tuesday and go to East Tawas to the unemployment office and see for yourselves why people cannot pay more taxes.

County Equalization Report Slated for Adoption Today

THE FIRST CITIZEN to sign a petition calling for a vote on banning nonreturnable bottles and cans in Michigan was Gov. William G. Milliken, shown with Thomas L. Washington (standing), executive director, Michigan United Conservation Clubs, the 100,000-member organization that is sponsoring the petition drive. MUCC, the state's largest conservation organization, has set a goal of 300,000 petition signatures by June 1 in hopes of having the "bottle bill" question placed on the ballot for the November 2 election. If voters approve the proposal, a deposit would be required on soft drink and beer containers and "pull tabs" would be prohibited.

A special meeting is to be held today (Wednesday) by the Iosco County Board of Commissioners to act on an equalization report recommended by John D. Rose, director of the county's equalization department.

Rose presented a report Thursday night to local assessing officers and township supervisors calling for a total equalized valuation for this county of $195,497,137, which included $180,702,750 in real property and $14,766,387 in personal property.

The equalized total was $17,379,416 higher than the assessed total brought in by assessing officers of the various governmental units and represents plus factors being added to six of the 13 units.

Last May 1, the county commission accepted the recommendation of Robin Allain, former county tax director, and equalized Iosco at $172,041,197, but this figure was rejected by the state tax commission, which added $16,902,674 to the total.

The report submitted to the state tax commission a year ago indicated that the county had equalized at 45 percent of the true cash value, which probably accounted for the increase from the tax commission and subsequent factors being added to each unit.

In the equalization report to be acted upon today, seven units received plus factors from the county tax director to bring the real property ratio of each unit up to 49 percent or more of true cash value, as required by the state.

The seven units receiving factors include Alabaster Township, 4.37 percent; Baldwin Township, 4.17 percent; Grant Township, 25.82 percent; Oscoda Township, 27.59 percent; Plainfield Township, 5.49 percent; Sherman Township, 9.80 percent; Tawas City, 11.12 percent.

East Tawas and Whittemore.

Following submission of reports by individual units, the tax department established the following equalized totals for new construction: Alabaster, $357,777; AuSable, $298,351; Baldwin, $681,430; Burleigh, $323,720; Grant, $336,420; Oscoda, $1,502,743; Plainfield, $770,069; Reno, $215,722; Sherman, $373,917; Tawas, $361,075; Wilber, $963,736; East Tawas, $791,648; Tawas City, $188,890; Whittemore, $94,650.

Equalized totals for the various units are as follows:

Alabaster—Real property, $8,170,267; personal, $2,120,619, for a total of $10,290,886.
AuSable—Real property, $13,879,

881; personal, $894,783, for a total of $14,774,664.

Baldwin—Real property, $15,855,091; personal, $1,601,150, for a total of $17,456,241.

Burleigh—Real property, $4,169,300; personal, $184,800, for a total of $4,354,100.

Grant—Real property, $11,944,961; personal property, $1,047,071, for a total of $12,992,032.

Oscoda—Real property, $51,188,447; personal, $3,125,649, for a total of $54,314,096.

PIONEER IN POWER . . .

DURING THIS BICENTENNIAL YEAR OF 1976,
WE PAY TRIBUTE TO THE PIONEER MEN AND WOMEN WHO FIRST DEVELOPED NORTHEASTERN MICHIGAN

CAUSE FOR CELEBRATION—When this gleaming narrow gauge wood burning locomotive and string of varnished passenger cars pulled into Tawas City on December 3, 1883, it touched off a real celebration as Northeastern Michigan was finally opened to the "outer world." This 4-4-0 American type locomotive and equipment were owned by the Detroit, Bay City and Alpena Railroad, immediate predecessor of the Detroit and Mackinac Railway. Passengers could board the cars at AuSable and travel by rail all the way to Alger in Arenac County, a distance of 48 miles, where a transfer was made to the Michigan Central Railroad. Freight traffic opened on the railroad on December 11, 1883, and has been in continuous operation since that time, although the route was changed by the D&M to enter Bay City and was extended to Cheboygan on the north end. The shop buildings and station shown in the picture were located at the First Street crossing in Tawas City.

The Detroit and Mackinac Railway and its predecessors opened the Huron Shore Region of Northeastern Michigan to land transportation nearly 100 years ago. We are proud of the role played by this railroad in the development of the region since 1878. Serving business and industry is the job, today, of the D&M, providing economical rail transportation service as a working partner in the development of Michigan's progressive northland. Our modern equipment and transportation experience combine to bring the products of Northern Michigan to America's door.

FIVE MONTHS AFTER his historic solo flight across the Atlantic Ocean in the spring of 1927, Charles Lindbergh was in Iosco County to take part in the United States Army Air Corps' winter maneuvers at Camp Skeel, Oscoda.

Lindby

P-1 plane with two machine guns, one of .30 caliber and another of .50 caliber.

Although camp life for him was principally taken up with target practice at both ground targets and "sleeve" targets towed through the air by another plane, before the end of his week's stay he did "warm up" to the hundreds of persons who were on hand for this military display.

The reporter also noted that the location of the camp provided hunting and fishing in abundance, although the Herald's man did not indicate if Lindbergh had the opportunity to enjoy such an interlude for recreation and relaxation.

Twenty officers and 60 enlisted men were encamped at Camp Skeel in 1927, all under direction of Maj. Thomas G. Lamphier, commander at Selfridge. The officers gathered around a red hot pot belted stove in the BOQ at the end of the day and swapped stories with the international hero.

Many Oscoda residents and others from Iosco County, who were of school age in 1927, still have vivid recollections of Lindbergh's week-long visit; none, however, have taken a more active interest in Lindy's visit than Harry Curley. "I fought for a long time to interest the air force in preserving the old building near the airman's beach where Lindbergh stayed during his visit here. With a windsock flying from its roof, it served over the years as bachelor officers quarters, headquarters building, dispensary and a multitude of other uses before being torn down. It was last used as a church, but I could find no one who was interested in moving the old building to some other location and to preserve it as a museum."

Curley recalled that youngsters of Oscoda would scour the field for spent machine gun ammunition casings after the aerial maneuvers. "One year, the air corps sent a convoy of men to Camp Skeel to police up the field. They dug a hole in the ground and buried all the brass which had been picked up during many hours of work but, after the trucks left for Mt. Clemens, the kids from Oscoda dug up all those empty cartridges and took them home."

Curley said that he and his Oscoda chums were on particularly friendly terms with three noncommissioned officers, James Streetmiller, James Campbell (teleg-rap-her) and First Sgt. Claude Sorman, who served as base commander during the absence of a commissioned officer. Curley and his friends stayed overnight with the enlisted men at Camp Skeel on several occasions.

After his brief respite at Van-Ettan Lake, Lindbergh collected $250,000 from the New York Times for his story on the flight across the Atlantic. He married the former Ann Spencer Morrow in 1929 and his book, "We," became a best seller, the royalties for this publication adding more personal wealth gained by his historic 1927 flight.

The life history of this noted American is too well known to be repeated here, but area residents, who were school kids in 1927 and on hand to greet Lindy at Van-Ettan Lake, followed his later aviation exploits, which continued through the 1960s, with more than mere casual interest and joined with the nation in grieving for the Lindbergh's baby in the tragic 1932 kidnapping.

Lindy was the most famous person in history ever to visit Iosco County and today, nearly 50 years later, a picture of the young man with the boyish grin and his fellow army air corps officers gathered around a pot belly stove, along with snaps of the now vintage Curtis pursuit planes, are prominently displayed in the officers club at Wurtsmith Air Force Base, successor to Camp Skeel.

RESERVE A STATE PARK CAMPSITE

AVOID THIS

ENJOY THIS

These versions of two common occurrences at Michigan State Parks offer the camping family a couple of important things to think about as warmer weather approaches. Last year, the scene at the top happened to 71,000 families. They were turned away from the state's 80 state parks because all the campsites were taken. But about six million lucky ones, like the fellow relaxing in the other scene, were able to spend enjoyable vacations because they beat the rush to the campground door. Included were 31,726 families who "reserved" their sites through the DNR's successful Campsite Reservation System. The program works at 65 of Michigan's most popular state parks (the list is available at all DNR offices) and is in effect from May 1 through September 30. Fifty percent of the campsites in these parks are available by reservation (the other 50 percent are available on a first come-first served basis) through requests made directly to the park. Application forms are available from all parks and most DNR offices statewide, but requests must be for minimum four-day periods and must be made at least 15 days in advance of the desired camping period. Full payment for overnight camping, plus a $2 reservation fee, must also be made in advance. Avoid the "Sorry, full..." sign; enjoy the pleasures of state park camping. Write the DNR's Parks Division office in Lansing (48926) for more information.

CHOOSE GOOD GARDEN SITE

Starting a vegetable garden this year? Michigan State University horticulturists advise that selecting a proper garden site is probably the most important factor in successful gardening.

If only limited space is available, one has to make the best of what he has. If there is a choice of garden locations, choose a spot that offers the best combination of these factors:

Soil: A loose, fertile, level, well-drained soil is best. Heavy clay soil may be improved by mixing peat moss and sand into it. A sandy soil can be improved with peat moss or other organic matter. Vegetables grown in a poorly drained spot are likely to grow poorly and suffer from more disease problems than plants in well-drained soil.

Mini-climate: A garden on high ground will have a longer growing season than a garden in a depression where frost tends to settle in early. A low spot may also have poor air circulation.

Sunlight: Most vegetables require full sun all day for best growth. Avoid garden sites near a building, trees, shrubs, fences or other objects that will shade crops.

Freedom from competition with other plants: Trees, shrubs and weeds compete with garden vegetables for water and soil nutrients. If tilling new ground, avoid a site that is matted with quackgrass. Quackgrass is a perennial grass that is very difficult to eradicate in one year. If the only possible site is choked with it, spend this season clearing it out and put off vegetable gardening until next year.

Water supply: A water supply near the garden will make it much easier to water crops during dry times.

Convenience: Ideally, a garden should be near one's house so work can be done in it when you have a few spare minutes. A rented plot some distance from home is better than no garden at all, but it may be difficult to get there with everything needed to work it—including enough time to make the trip worthwhile.

Something else to be aware of is how the site was planted last year.
