

Herald Subscribers to Get Bonus on June 30

Publishers of The Tawas Herald announce this week that regular subscribers of this newspaper will receive a special bicentennial bonus the last week in June.

A special 16-page historical section is to be included with the regular issue on Wednesday, June 30.

"A limited printing has been made of this bicentennial edition and will be going to regular subscribers of this newspaper," states Nelson E. Thornton, co-publisher. "Because of the expense involved, the special section will not be included in news stand sales."

Thornton said, however, that persons subscribing to the Herald by June 28 at the regular rate of $4 per year in Iosco County and $5 a year for those residing out of the county, would receive a free copy of the special section.

A special subscription blank is printed on another page of this week's issue giving details of the bonus offer.

The historical section to be published June 30 includes reprints of 16 bicentennial featurettes which have appeared in this newspaper since January. A total of 26 featurettes have been published by this newspaper since January 7.

All of the featurettes concern historical events of the Iosco County area and have been written by Neil Thornton, Herald editor. Old newspaper files, personal diaries, correspondence and recollections of early day residents have provided research material for the articles and much of the information has never before been utilized for historical purposes.

Old pictures from the editor's personal collection are used to illustrate the stories.

Articles printed in the historical section include: "Riviere aux-

Sables," "1886 Diary Identifies Solitary Hunter," "Lion Editor of the Shore," "Logging Era was Dangerous," "Early Travel Provided by Steamship and Stagecoach," "Paddy's Famous Trip," "Preachers in the Pineries," "Golden Age of Farming," "Last Hurrah for White Pine," "Iosco's Brief Romance With Sugar," "Salt Will Save Us," "The Fight Against Demon Rum," "Mike Murphy, Man of Many Hats," "4,000 Men Turned Out for Road Bee," "Harnessing the AuSable" and "Lindy Arrives at Camp Skeel."

The publishers said that a number of inquiries had been received since the start of the series concerning republication at a future time.

"Our special bonus offer on June 30 should provide an excellent opportunity for our readers to acquire a worthwhile memento of the nation's bicentennial observance," said Nelson Thornton. "All regular and new subscribers will receive a free historical section on June 30 which will be an instant collector's item."

Whittemore Opens Local Observances

Bicentennial activities in Iosco County get off to a fast start next week with the Whittemore summer festival and will be followed the next week with programs in three other communities.

"We think we have something in our program for the enjoyment of all ages," states Albert (Bud) Wrathell, president of Whittemore Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the program.

The summer festival program opens Friday noon with the midway at Whittemore Park. A talent contest and crowning of the festival queen is to be held at 7:30 p. m. at the elementary gymnasium.

Saturday's program opens with a parade at 1:00 p. m., starting from the St. James Catholic Church grounds. Route of the parade will be south on M-65.

A cake walk is to be held Saturday, 2:30 p. m., at the Whittemore park, which will also be the location of children's games at 3:30 p. m. Summer festival races (See PROGRAM, page 6.)

AARP Chapter Originated July 4 Bell Ringing Idea

A simultaneous, nationwide ringing of bells on July 4 will herald the advent of America's third century.

Churches, schools, fire stations and millions of home owners from Maine to Guam are expected to provide a joyous background for the official ringing of the Liberty Bell in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, at 2:00 p. m. on the nation's 200th anniversary.

This program has a local angle as the idea for ringing all bells on July 4 was originated more than a year ago by the Iosco Lake Shore Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons.

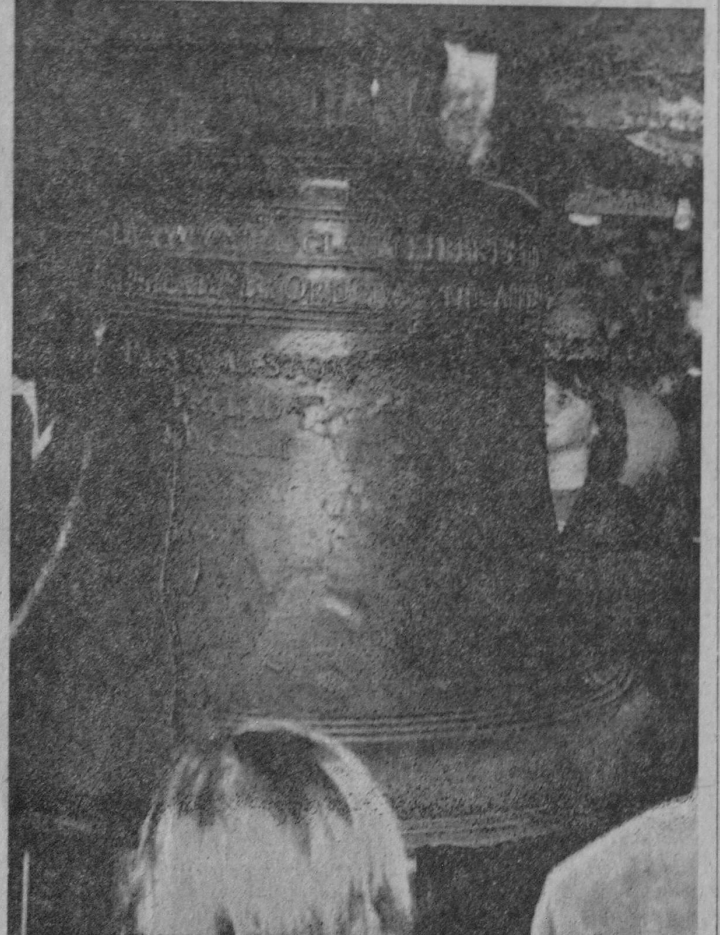

Maud V. Braman, who spearheaded the local organization's movement to give the idea national attention, urges all local churches to participate in the program.

John W. Warner, director of the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration, said he had found wide spread public interest in a symbolic unified commemoration of the historic event.

"We hope to let freedom ring out around the world, louder than it has ever been heard before," he declared, adding that Americans living or visiting abroad also will be asked to join the salute.

Television and radio stations will broadcast the sound of bells from various areas for two minutes in conjunction with the ringing of the national Liberty Bell, amplified electronically because of the crack in it.

The Liberty Bell was moved New Year's Eve from Independence Hall to a new national park across the street, for better viewing by larger crowds.

THE LIBERTY BELL at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, will be rung at 2:00 p. m. on July 4 to herald the advent of the United States' third century. Ringing of this famous bell will be joined by thousands of other bells across the land. This picture was snapped during Tawas Area High School Band's recent trip to Philadelphia.

Tawas Area Voters Turned Thumbs Down on 14 Mills

An operational tax proposal calling for 11 mills renewal and three mills additional—a 5.6 percent increase over last year and one of the lowest in recent history—was soundly defeated by Tawas Area School District voters in Monday's annual school election.

The above proposition lost, 1,194 against the proposal to 814 ballots in favor. A little over 2,000 voters went to the polls or cast absentee ballots in the election, about 700 less than the number who voted in a special school election March 29 that called for a proposed building program.

An advisory ballot submitted by the board of education asking approval of a $1,545,000 middle school addition was also turned down, 1,399 to 611. The proposal asked a debt levy of 1.1 mills for the next 20 years and would have eliminated the split shift arrangement in the middle school and high school, which was adopted three years ago due to the lack of classroom space.

Monday's decision by voters appears to have settled the issue of a building program for some time, but not operational tax millage as it would be practically impossible to even open schools with 9.25 allocated taxes, while the 11-mill renewal was said to be insufficient to meet the district's needs for next year. The loss of state membership aid, along with normal increases due to inflation, have all added to the problems of school financing.

In expressing his personal disappointment over the outcome of the millage and debt limit proposals, Dr. Robert Halle, superintendent of schools, said that the administration and board of education would now have to go back and cut the 1976-77 budget in order to submit a new proposal to voters.

He said that a re-evaluation would have to be made of extra curricular activities offered students and the community at the schools, along with cuts in other areas. One item which would come up for immediate consideration, he said, would be to eliminate the purchase of three or four new school buses, badly needed due to excessive wear on the bus fleet caused by the additional transportation required for split shifts.

Presumably, the new proposal would ask for a renewal of 11 mills, plus voter option on additional millage to include finances for other programs and extra curricular activities.

Halle said that the administration and board of education would have to reconsider its past thinking and to develop new recommendations concerning a building program in order to get off the split shift arrangement, which has now been soundly defeated twice in a little over two months.

The first proposition submitted to voters in late March asked permission to bond the district for $2,060,000 for 20 years to finance construction of additions to the existing school. After that defeat, an auditorium and gymnasium were eliminated and the proposal was pared to $1,545,000.

"A lot of us are in deep despair for the children and we will have a whale of a job ahead of us," said the superintendent. "Unless we can get more people interested, we will have to further limit this school's program, which is already below the standards of most other schools."

Halle said that the first order of business on Monday, July 12, after administering oaths of office to two new board of education members selected in Monday's election, would be to re-evaluate Monday's millage proposal.

Curry - DeWyse Named to Board

Monday's six-candidate race for two seats on Tawas Area Board of Education provided some pre-Fourth of July fireworks in one of the closest contested elections in district history.

Robert Curry, Tawas Township farmer and implement dealer, polled the largest number of votes with 799, followed by 648 ballots favoring Randall DeWyse, East Tawas insurance agent, for the second position.

Running a close third was the Rev. Alfred W. Saulsbury, who was only 10 votes off DeWyse's pace with 638. Fourth highest total went to James Russo Jr. with 591, followed by Mrs. Eleanor Pfeiffer's 566 and 369 for Robert Roach.

Curry and DeWyse are to replace Earl B. Davis and Mrs. Helen Payea, who finish out their four-year terms on June 30. First official board of education meeting to be attended by the two new members will be Monday, July 12.

Both of the new board members are graduates of Tawas Area High School, Curry in 1961 and DeWyse in 1963, and both were standout football players in their high school days. Both men have children of school age. Curry's father, Waldo, is a former member of the board of education.

The 19-member election board worked Monday night to nearly 12 o'clock midnight as tabulating results on three different ballots required longer than the normal time for a school election.

Hale Area Renews 14.75-Mill Tax Levy

Voters of Hale Area School District approved renewal of a millage proposition submitted Monday during the annual school election, 524-338. There were 868 persons going to the polls with six spoiled ballots.

In a four-way race for two vacancies on the board of education, Charles Millard and Frank Leiva were elected with votes of 480 and 386, respectively.

Other voting saw Thomas Clark receiving 338 votes and Frank Smith received 336.

The two-year operational tax proposal approved by voters will provide 14.75 mills.

"It was a big victory for us here at Hale Area School," said Supt. Wayne Case. "The winning margin was a real vote of confidence and, judging from the turnout of senior citizens, it was real positive action by our elderly residents as well as others."

Two years ago, three different votes were required in the same millage proposal before it was adopted.

W-P School Picks Board Members

Whittemore - Prescott Area School voters Monday named Ronald Horn and Richard Dahne as new members to the board of education.

Horn was top vote getter with 168 ballots cast in his favor while Dahne was second with 147 votes. Ronald Gawne ran a close third with 132 votes, while Norman Miller followed with 99 and Lawrence Everitt had 78.

WATER PRESSURE at the city hall was around 47 pounds when this picture was snapped Tuesday afternoon. City Mgr. Reginald Bublitz said he had asked several large water users to stop the sprinkling of lawns and the pressure jumped four pounds in a short time.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Tawas City Plagued by Low Water Pressure in Drought

Continued severe drought conditions Monday again saw a drop in Tawas City water pressure during peak demand Monday night, but the department of public works expressed hope that rain predicted for Tuesday night would materialize.

Lower water usage over the week-end brought some relief to water-starved areas of the city, particularly below the US-23 bridge where there was difficulty in flushing toilets, but water pressure again dropped Monday when the temperature zoomed.

Reginald Bublitz, city manager, said Tuesday afternoon that an experiment was being made in the control of the pump on the city's deep well to add water volume. This 200-gallon-per-minute well was put into service last week to supplement the normal water supply received from the East Tawas filtration plant.

Bublitz said that he had readjusted the control on the deep well Tuesday morning to gain maximum efficiency. He said, however, that a fine point could be reached in the control where the well would "take over" the system, thus overpowering the supply from East Tawas. If that happens, he said the standby well would defeat the purpose of maximum operation.

During the current dry weather, Tawas City is consuming approximately 400,000 gallons of water daily, as compared to 260,000 gallons daily during normal periods. Pumps at the booster station near Schreck Lumber Company and the deep well on North Street are running almost constantly and could be damaged through overheating if the drought should continue.

"Our principal problem is that we do not have enough storage, but that should be corrected once the additions to the water system are completed," said Bublitz. He was referring to a 500,000-gallon overhead storage tank, along with a new force main, which is included in an area water expansion program scheduled to be completed next year.

In the meantime, the 50,000-gallon storage furnished by the bowl of the standpipe behind the city hall is not sufficient to provide adequate water storage. Bublitz said that water pressure at the city hall was at 45 pounds Monday noon, which is only about 10 pounds below the normal pressure, but peak usage was expected later in the day.

The city council last week urged residents to be conservative in the use of water and asked that lawn sprinkling be voluntarily curtailed in order that normal residential use would not be reduced in some areas of the city at the outer ends of water mains, where there always is a problem with low water pressure.

A survey by the city manager indicated that some water users had not curtailed lawn sprinkling. "In some instances, I found that some customers sprinkling lawns were allowing water to run off and into the gutter," said Bublitz. Should a soaking rain not materialize to relieve the drought condition, the city may be forced to place restrictions on water usage. "We are doing all we can to relieve the situation, but we may have to patrol the city and enforce a ban on lawn sprinkling if cooperation is not shown," said the city manager.

TODAY'S Meditation

The World's Most Widely Used
Devotional Guide

(Read Psalms 8 and 19:1-5)

"O Lord our Lord, how excellent is thy name in all the earth!" (Psalm 8:1)

The history of India says that the Aryans, when coming to India, crossed the great Himalayas. Seeing the majesty and the glory of the mountains and forests green and bright, the people joined in adoration of something which they did not really know. God's work in nature speaks silently, calling us to halt, to think and to examine.

But in making us to have dominion over the works of His hands, God has shown His greatness and glory to be still higher and more challenging. It made the psalmist fall at God's feet and say, "O Lord our Lord, how excellent is thy name in all the earth!" He saw that God had a great purpose and goal for our lives.

God has placed many gifts at our disposal, to be used for our good and for the good of others. In making us to have dominion over all that He has made. God had revealed what great things we are capable of and what great potentials we have for fulfilling His will.

When we commit our life into God's hand, we ourselves become wonderful works of His grace, greater even than His works in nature.

PRAYER

O Lord, we praise Thy name for Thy greatness. Help us ever to live in Thee and for Thee. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

DAR Had Conservation Theme at June Meeting

Conservation was the theme when River Aux Sables Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, met for a picnic luncheon and nature trail hike at YMCA Camp Mahn-Go-Tah-See, Hale.

Homer Roberts, resident camp director and Audubon Society representative, told the group that the current battle to save the Kirtland's warbler represented a new environmental philosophy.

"The warbler isn't important for its beauty, song, or economic value, but as a symbol of man's interest in trying to reverse the trend to extinction of any species," Roberts said.

Mrs. Worthy T. Boyd, chapter regent, will head a delegation from the chapter to a Michigan DAR conservation program in the Huron-Manistee National Forest near Cadillac on June 23.

At that time, Mrs. Eldon A. Behr, a Lansing resident and recent visitor to this area, state regent, will begin tree thinning in the DAR Memorial Forest under direction of the National Forestry Service staff. Members will tour the adjoining 14-mile multiple use area.

"It will be the first harvesting of about 1,000 acres of pines planted by DAR in Michigan's national forest," Mrs. Boyd said.

The chapter voted a contribution to the state DAR fund for teacher scholarships in the Higgins Lake conservation school and accepted the gold honor roll certificate of the National Society DAR, awarded for outstanding achievement.

The award is the 11th won this year by River Aux Sables Chapter, which has doubled its membership since organization less than two years ago in Tawas City.

Reed Aims to Establish New Record

Michael Reed of Tawas City, driving his King's Knight drag boat, set a new Eastern National Drag Boat Association record June 6 at the Holloway Reservoir, Columbiaville. Reed's boat was timed at 77.14 miles per hour, which bettered the old record of 75.59 miles per hour.

Reed is now making improvements to the hull of his craft and is aiming to set a mark of 79.9 miles per hour in the next races to be held July 11-12 at Columbiaville. He said that the above speed is the breaking point between amateur and professional classifications.

If he reaches his goal, Reed said he plans to compete in the top elimination class and would seek top honors among the 10 boats in this class.

Members of his pit crew are Jerry Manzer of Clio and Jerry Stoner of Flint. His racing is supported by a number of area business firms.

WORKERS in Tawas Area School District's annual election did not complete the counting of ballots until 11:45 p. m. Monday. Members of the election board are shown above in the polls located in the cafeteria of the high school building.—Tawas Herald Photo.

After Monday's defeat at the polls concerning financing the operation of schools, along with voter indication that they were not in favor of a debt levy for new school construction, Tawas Area Board of Education and administrators have indicated that a re-evaluation must be made to its budget before submitting another proposal to voters.

Without a doubt, this is going to cause much gnashing of teeth on the part of some taxpayers and absolute dejection for some parents and even children, while there will be some persons who will be smiling—it all depends on whose "bull is being gored."

It is the hope by the publishers of this newspaper that a millage proposal can be developed that will be satisfactory and meet approval of the majority of voters, without drastically cutting the school program. Schools probably will be forced to continue on split shifts, but this may be remedied at some future time.

It is easy to sit back and criticize governmental spending at local, state and federal levels, but it is difficult to actually reduce costs—ask any housewife!

Some of the people who insist that schools return to "basics"—reading, writing and arithmetic—quite often forget some of the advantages they enjoyed in an entirely different society and many people seemingly wish to return to the "old way." Not everyone, we will wager, as that would mean that most children would conclude their education at the eighth grade; another example would be that persons would retire only when they get too feeble to work as, returning to the old way, there would be no social security; there would be no social welfare, no aid to dependent children, etc.

In the matter of education, some people point the finger at individual aspects in the school curriculum, notably "extra curricular activities," and say that cuts should be made. Presumably, this would mean a reduction in expenses of athletics, bands, community education (a catchall term for a number of programs for all ages), etc. As an example, who does not enjoy our band during its partici-ation in school functions, as well as in the many parades and other community activities?

But, by the same token, it all depends upon the point of view one takes on how he is personally affected; others point their fingers at other types of governmental spending and say that too much money is being spent for law enforcement, construction of water and sewers, social services, operation of senior citizen centers—the list is endless.

We can all wish for lower cost of government—the publishers, too, would wish to be relieved of some of the ever increasing burdens of costly taxes and governmental paperwork—but we need to be realistic. Some of the service or demands which seem to us to be too costly, cumbersome or even unnecessary, are wanted by others and deemed necessary—as we said, it all depends on one's point of view.

For our own part, it is not the local taxes that hurt financially, it is the increase in federal and state income taxes, social security payments, along with a multitude of hidden taxes which hurt. We can see where nearly every dollar of our local taxes are spent—city, county and schools—but it is the federal and state taxes which are assessed without a vote and over which we have little say, which are most discouraging to pay. Yet, no reasonable person can say that government—any government—can operate without taxes.

Again, it boils down to one's point of view on how taxes should be spent. Being parents, who have supported schools for years with our taxes, we believe schools and education of children are of prime importance, regardless of some of the criticisms which are heard from time to time. It is rather evident that some cuts are going to have to be made in school spending—we hope that key areas of the school program are not going to be hurt in the process, but that, too, depends upon one's point of view. After Monday's election, we cannot see how anyone can support the local level this year, over any new tax spending programs at which the voter has control.

Kesler Heads Study on Plainfield Hall

Ray Kesler, a veteran area educator, was named Wednesday night to head a committee to investigate expansion of facilities at the Plainfield Township Hall. His appointment was made by Bruce Hewitt, township supervisor, during the regular monthly meeting of the township board.

Kesler, who retires this month as superintendent of Whittemore Area High School and is a resident of the Hale area, told the township board that federal funds were available to assist communities in expansion of local facilities and he would study the possibility of making application for funds.

Kesler said that the Hale Area Chamber of Commerce had discussed the proposition and felt that the township hall should be made available for community functions other than township business, as well as a community center for wedding receptions.

It is believed that an addition to the hall for township offices would free the main portion of the building for community activities, including a senior citizens center and a library. It was reported that both the township library and senior citizens drop-in center would soon have to move elsewhere due to the use of the present locations for other purposes. The drop-in center is located in a surplus portable classroom furnished by the school and the library is in rental quarters.

During discussion, it was pointed out that use of the township hall for wedding receptions probably would require a change in the present policy of prohibiting alcoholic beverages on township property. The township board passed this regulation a number of years ago.

Members of the township fire department were present at the meeting and requested that the organization be allowed to establish a beer tent on township property during the bicentennial observance. It was stated that proceeds would go toward the purchase of new equipment for the department.

Peter Holly, principal of Hale Area Elementary School, was present at the meeting and suggested that the township board, chamber of commerce, fire department, Lions Club and other organizations "sit down and discuss future development of the township hall and property."

With its available facilities, Plainfield Township has one of the finest centers for a community its size in the state. The township hall, Iosco County fairgrounds and Hale Area School are all located in one large block of contiguous property. Also located in the same area is the township fire hall and the Iosco County Garage, which will be made available in the near future with construction of a new county garage on M-55 near Lake Road.

Holly said the Hale Lions Club was interested in establishment of a park in the general area of the township hall and has suggested that an architect be hired to develop plans to make full utilization of publicly owned property to provide for improved parking and egress.

Kesler said that an important aspect of the development of the township hall would be a facility for senior citizens. He indicated that federal funds are probably available for such a project if a drop-in center is included.

Two Receive MTU Degrees

Michigan Technological University awarded 900 degrees at spring commencement Tuesday, May 29. Dr. Ivar Glaever, 1973 Nobel Prize winner in physics, delivered the commencement address.

The degree recipients from Iosco County are: Steven A. Nichols, bachelor of science in medical technology, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elwin E. Nichols, Tawas City; Michael W. Brandt, associate applied science degrees in electrical and electromechanical engineering technology with high honor, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Brandt, Oscoda.

Program

are to be featured Saturday, 7:00 p. m., at Whittemore Speedway.

Sunday's program will feature a barbecue chicken or ham dinner at the school grounds, served by Whittemore Chamber of Commerce. There will be harness racing, 2:00 p. m., at Grabow's Raceway, followed by a pony pulling contest.

Grand finale for the summer festival will be a fireworks display at 9:30 p. m.

Wrathell said that members of the chamber of commerce are "keeping their fingers crossed for some good weather this year." The program last year was marred when a violent windstorm hit the region and caused cancellation of much of the program.

The summer festival is the "off-spring" of one of Iosco's oldest events. Whittemore sponsored a Fourth of July celebration for many years until the community began concentrating its efforts more than 25 years ago on building the program at Whittemore Speedway.

Plant Bicentennial Maple Tree Seedlings at Tawas Point Park

As part of centennial-bicentennial tree planting day in Michigan proclaimed by Gov. William G. Milliken, the Tawas joined scores of other communities in the state to set a special crop of small sugar maple trees into the ground.

Grown from seeds taken last fall from 100-year-old maples planted near Niles by a farmhand in 1876 commemorating the nation's centennial, the seedlings were distributed by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources to almost 200 local bicentennial organizations for planting and appreciation by future Michigan citizens during the years of America's third century.

Under sponsorship of Tawas

Area Bicentennial Committee, the seedlings were planted at Tawas Point State Park and are to be transplanted to other locations in the Tawas in a few years. The eventual home of the trees will be Tom Dillon Park at East Tawas and the Tawas City Park.

In cooperation with the DNR, the School of Forestry at Michigan

State University was responsible for raising the seedlings by an accelerated growth process in the university's greenhouse.

Governor Milliken, in his executive declaration for the observance, made these comments about the event:

"The bicentennial celebration commemorates the past and looks to the promise of the future. The birth, growth and rebirth of the trees of our land are a classic symbol of this feeling of continuity, stability and hope."

"It also is fitting to pay tribute to those who, in 1876, were moved to express thanks that their country, founded on the principles of freedom, which had passed 100 years—even as we this year are celebrating 200 years."

Among participants in the commemorative tree planting Friday was the governor himself, who planted one of the special seedlings on the capitol grounds.

Taking part in the ceremony at Tawas Point State Park were Mrs. James Machleit, bicentennial program chairman; Mayor Robert Bolen, East Tawas; Mayor Herbert Cholger, Tawas City, and William Stark, park manager.

Republicans Said: HE'S DAFT OVER SILVER!

A presidential election year brings out the best and the worst in politics and plenty of excitement is still in store for voters during the 1976 election year. But, modern campaigning and political tactics, with a "Madison Avenue" approach, seem pale when compared to the presidential campaign of 1896—when gold vs. silver and high vs. low tariffs were only two of several major issues in a heated campaign.

Pick up any history of the United States and the 1896 campaign pitting William McKinley and his Republican "machine" vs. William Jennings Bryan, the bombastic Democratic candidate, will provide the reader with an insight into old-time politics.

Here in Iosco County, the Free Silver Campaign of 1896 brought about one of the most unbelievable political maneuvers in local history. At the start of the campaign, an outspoken political leader was whisked off the campaign trail by his opponents, his political views were called insane and he was committed to a mental institution! Yes, Iosco County took its politics seriously 80 years ago.

At the whirlwind center of Iosco's political controversy was Edward V. Esmond, prominent Plainfield Township farmer and a former township officer. Although not a candidate that year for any office, Esmond was a local Democratic leader and an outspoken advocate of bimetalism and the free coinage of silver espoused first by Populists and later by Democrats.

Esmond, like most Midwestern farmers, had been a loyal Republican—he was a member of the credentials committee for the Iosco County Republican convention of 1884 and supported Republican planks which originated the Homestead Law and other legislation benefiting agricultural interests. He, along with other farmers, lost their gratitude for Republicanism when opponents pointed out that monopolists, who controlled railroads, money, grain elevator rates, the price of barded wire, twine and binders, also controlled the Republican Party.

On July 6, 1896, the Democratic convention at Chicago, Illinois, heard Bryan, with almost evangelical fervor, close his pitch for the nomination by stating: "Having behind us the producing masses of the nation and the world, supported by the commercial interests, the laboring interests and the toilers everywhere, we will answer their demand for a gold standard by saying to them: You shall not crucify mankind upon a cross of gold."

Esmond, who read Bryan's famous "Cross of Gold" speech in the daily press, had already jumped on the Democratic band wagon with both feet, even though the Democrats were to find out later that it takes more than speeches to win real victories; the monetary question was simply overemphasized by the orators and the real issues were not debated.

Although not a polished speaker himself, Esmond was a real believer and he delivered a rip-roaring lecture during the local campaign at AuSable. "I being neither a party politician nor a seeker after office, I can lose nothing by telling you the truth; neither can I gain anything by lying to you; therefore, what I have to say I will endeavor to keep within the bounds of truth," Esmond told his large audience.

He then went into a lengthy dissertation on the monetary question facing voters and he proceeded to point out in a rather scholarly fashion that the United States treasury and its $135,000,000 in gold reserves was actually controlled by the bank of J. P. Morgan and that large profits were being made by Morgan and Britain's House of Rothschild through speculation in American gold.

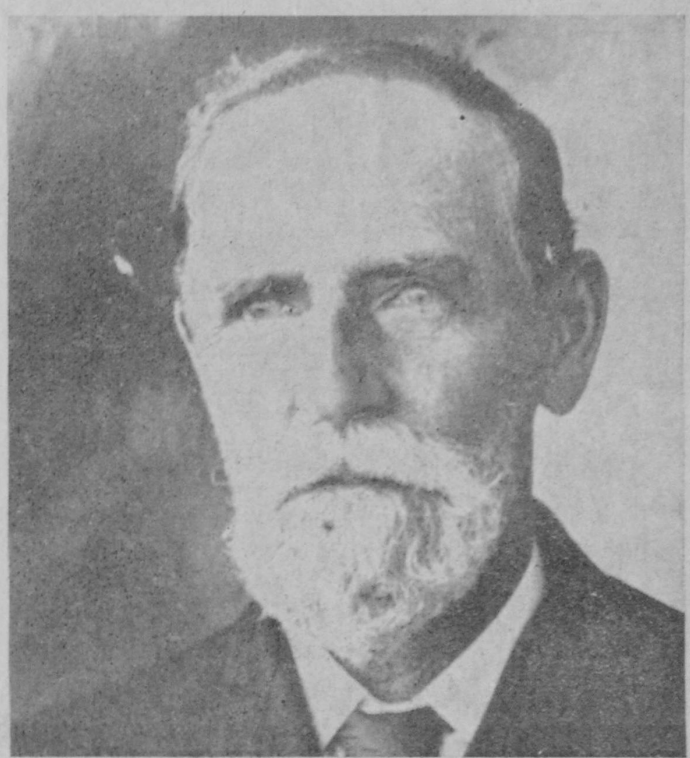

The next day, Republicans in attendance at the meeting called him insane and, in July 1896, he was taken into custody at Hale by the Republican County Sheriff, brought to Tawas City and, without the prescribed examination by two physicians or hearing in probate court, Esmond was hustled off to the Traverse City State Hospital.

He was held at Traverse City for four weeks until the apologetic superintendent of the institution declared he was not insane and released him.

Upon his release, Esmond did not seek an immediate redress for the wrong committed against him—he caught a train for Lansing to lay facts before Governor Pingree regarding the abuse of inmates in the insane asylum, as well as alleging that "political pull" was the cause of many detentions. He delivered several lectures on the subject during his stay at Lansing and received testimonials from Democratic members of the legislature setting forth their belief in his reliability and the injustice of his detention. He also appeared before the house and senate committees on state asylums.

An article in a Lansing newspaper stated that while Esmond was chairman of the board of supervisors, he bitterly fought and eventually defeated a scheme of some of the mill owners at AuSable and Oscoda to saddle the expense of Pinkerton detectives upon the county, hired by the mill owners to quell a strike among mill workers at AuSable-Oscoda in 1884. "The enmity this engendered resulted in getting him confined," stated the newspaper.

Returning to Iosco, he sought criminal action against local officials. Denied satisfaction, he again went directly to the governor with his problem, but months of political maneuvering resulted in Esmond warning that if the governor, "through political policy shall refuse to order an investigation of this matter, I may possibly show him before I get through that I am not an ignorant mossback with my hair full of hay (See SILVER, page 6.)

seeds—I have always stood for my rights as an American citizen."

Esmond never gained satisfaction, although residents of his township and the county, as well as prominent individuals throughout the state, stood by him. A joint resolution was offered in the state legislature for his relief "on account of being illegally confined in the Northern Michigan Asylum." The resolution empowered the auditor general to investigate, adjust and settle any claim against the state, not exceeding $500.

Said one person testifying in his behalf: "It seems the test of sanity is strict adherence to the GOP, and this seems to be the status of Esmond's insanity. It seems pretty high handed rule that allows the sanctity of one's private home to be entered and a citizen of this state to be taken therefrom without any process of law whatever—who can be safe from the caprices or whims of officials and when may such liberties end?"

McKinley won the presidential election and Esmond continued to play an active role in local politics, although his outspoken views mellowed in later years. On February 17, 1897, he received a letter from the then Mayor Pingree of Detroit, who stated he "wished there were more men with backbone such as you in this state."

Esmond lies buried today in Evergreen Cemetery east of Hale.

Have You Lost Your Social Security Card?

Lost your social security card? You can get a duplicate by notifying any social security office, according to social security officials here.

"You can usually get a duplicate card faster if you've kept a record of your social security number and give it to us when you report your loss," a spokesman said.

"Your duplicate card will have the same social security number on it," he said. "Your social security number is yours alone and remains the same for life."

A social security card is issued with two parts, perforated so the card itself—the smaller part—can be detached and carried in purse or wallet.

"The card you carry is the part you show to an employer to be sure he correctly copies your name and social security number into his records," the spokesman said.

"The remaining larger part should be kept in a safe place as a permanent record of your social security number," he said.

People's earnings from jobs covered by social security are credited to their social security number to build retirement, disability, survivors, and Medicare protection for themselves and their families.

People should apply for a social security card several weeks before they need the number for a job, according to the spokesman.

The Social Security Administration is an agency of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

questions and answers

Q. My husband died recently and even though I am over 50, I had to go back to work to support myself. A month ago I was involved in an automobile accident, and now it looks as if I won't be able to go back to work for a long time. I don't know if I've worked long enough under social security to get benefits on my own record, but what about my husband's? He worked for many years.

A. When you contact your social security office the people there will take an application and determine if you are eligible for disability benefits on your own work record or on your husband's. A disabled widow may qualify for disability benefits as early as age 50 if she becomes disabled within 7 years after the death of her husband. Generally you must be severely disabled and not be expected to be able to work for a year or more.

Q. When I told a friend that I intended to apply for social security disability benefits, she said I might be able to get benefits for my grandchildren, who live with us. Is this true?

A. A child may be eligible for benefits on a grandparent's social security record if the child's parents are disabled or deceased and the child was living with the grandparent and receiving at least one-half of his support from the grandparent for the one-year period prior to the time the grandparent qualified for benefits.

AuGres Woman to Observe 101st Birthday on Thursday

Ida Sproule of AuGres will be 101 years old on Thursday, June 17. Mrs. Sproule was born near Toronto, Canada, but came to Michigan in 1876 with her parents, William and Sarah Hill. Her father was a home builder, postmaster and telegrapher in AuGres and developed the first phone system there.

After completing the eighth grade, she took and passed the teacher's examination in Standish and taught school for a short time. Mrs. Sproule stopped teaching to learn telegraphy and assist her father in the telegraph office and post office.

The former Ida Hill married Herbert Sproule in 1898 in her parents' home where she still resides. They had one child, Quinton, who died in 1966. Quinton's widow, Mary Sproule, also resides in AuGres. Herbert Sproule, who died in 1947, was a partner in the Sproule Hardware Company in AuGres for many years.

Recalling her childhood, Mrs. Sproule remembers Indians coming to her parents' door. The Indians would reach out, take hold of her mother's dress and shake it while holding out baskets which meant they wanted to trade the baskets they had made for clothing that her mother had made.

Also as a child, she remembers going to Bay City with water with her oldest sister, Lilly, and her husband, Fred Twining. Twining was a lumberman who founded the Village of Twining. In the spring, he would poll rafts of logs to Bay City with his tug and Mrs. Sproule would ride along. She recalls, "What a beautiful sight of bright lights when entering Bay City at night." After selling the logs at the mill they would take in a show for five cents and then head back to AuGres.

Mrs. Sproule remembers the first car in AuGres owned by Mr. Dygert, the mailman. The first time she saw the little red car, she was driving a horse drawn buggy. She had to stop the horse and tie him to a fence until the car passed by.

Mrs. Sproule relates, "I have enjoyed a wonderful long life which has been very good to me. I have lived through some hard times but a strong trust in God has never let me down."

At 101, Mrs. Sproule still lives by herself but her daughter-in-law and her grandson, Donald, visit her nearly every day. Since she has outlived most of her savings, she depends on social security and supplemental security income to provide her with a regular monthly income. Mrs. Sproule states, "I depend on these two programs for the necessities of life and I am very thankful for them." Although she is covered by Medicare and Medicaid, Mrs. Sproule has been in such good health she seldom has to use them.

The program chairman said that entries are needed for the talent show to be staged during the bicentennial. Joseph VanderVeen is chairman of the show and he desires participation by persons of all ages. "We are particularly looking for some old-time fiddlers," he stated.

At a general committee meeting held last Wednesday afternoon at the senior citizens' drop-in center, final plans were made for the program.

"A complete schedule is to be announced next week and we know we are going to have an outstanding program," said Mrs. Bernard. "But, we know that it is going to take a lot of manpower to carry out the program successfully and we need some volunteers."

When mail comes in, whether it's by coach or rider, the post office will hold it until it's called for. We'll let the sender pay the postmaster in advance, or let the addressee pay when he gets his mail. Someday, we might come up with a better way than having the postmaster write on the letter whether postage has been paid or not. Maybe something like a little sticker we can paste on an envelope. For now, we're just glad to get our mail.

error and a home run by Lamay. Tawas scored its lone run in the sixth inning. Francis Jordan opened with a walk, but was forced at second base on Mike Glancy's ground ball. Haglund walked and was forced at second base on Bernie Link's ground ball, Glancy scoring on the attempted double play.

Pat Jordan had two singles during the game to pace the losers. Tawas plays host Sunday, June 20, to Prescott.
