

Council Asks Bids on Two Lot Options

Seeking to recoup all or part of the city expense involved in taking options to purchase two parcels of property, which were once suggested for an office building-parking lot complex west of the county building, Tawas City Council Monday night decided to sell its options to the highest bidder. The council had given consideration to purchasing property presently owned by Roy Bergeron and George Prescott and had taken options on the property. It had been proposed to utilize the land for a parking lot and sell a portion of it for construction of a private office building.

After months of controversy, the project was finally dropped when adjacent property owners indicated they did not wish to become involved in a special assessment district to finance the parking program.

Discussion by councilmen Monday night indicated they were not interested in purchasing either of the two lots for future city use and it was felt the property should remain on the tax roll.

Options on the two parcels of land cost the city $2,000 each. Sealed bids are to be accepted until August 2. Actual purchase price of the Bergeron property is $33,000 and $37,000 for the Prescott property.

In other business Monday night, plans were made for Thursday night's special hearing to be conducted by the council concerning rezoning of a parcel of land at the corner of Fifth Avenue and North Street for the proposed location of a new nursing home.

Requested by Provincial House, Incorporated, and Zion Lutheran Church, owner of the property, the site is the proposed location of a 117-bed nursing home. The property is presently zoned residential A and the hearing is to determine a change to residential C, allowing multiple family dwelling.

All property owners within 300 feet of the project have been notified of the public hearing.

Changing the zoning of this property to allow construction of the nursing home, which would have an actual valuation in excess of one million dollars and would be on the tax roll, has been recommended by the city planning commission.

The council also took action on another recommendation of the planning commission to change zoning on a parcel of land directly south across North Street to allow construction of an apartment house project for the elderly.

A public hearing is to be held Thursday, July 15, on rezoning this property from residential A to residential C.

Also to be considered by the council is the proposed vacation of Fourth Avenue between First Street and North Street, asked by the developers, Kenneth Myles, Jerry Cotter and DeShano Homes. It was stated at Monday night's meeting that two of the property owners reside on Fourth Avenue and had submitted letters that they were agreeable to the proposed vacation of the street.

The 85-foot-wide street would have angle parking on either side and the center would be left open for traffic.

Also to be considered July 15 is the proposed closing of German Street from River Street to the Tawas River, proposed by Kenneth Gentz and Alta Boos, property owners involved. The city is to reserve a storm drain easement.

Funeral Today for W. D. Nunn of East Tawas

Wallace D. (Mike) Nunn, 67, executive director of Tawas Area Chamber of Commerce, died Sunday, June 20, at his hunting camp in Wilber Township.

Funeral services are to be held Wednesday, June 23 (today), 2:00 p. m., from Grace Lutheran Church, East Tawas, with the Rev. Robert Haskell officiating. Burial is to be in the Gerrish Township Cemetery, Roscommon.

Born April 21, 1909, at Hale, he was a member of the Michigan Department of Conservation from 1931 to 1941, serving first as a towerman, conservation officer, assistant supervisor of the Roscommon regional office and later as an oil field inspector for the Mt. Pleasant region.

He left the department to establish a hardware store at East Tawas in 1941 and operated it until his retirement 28 years later.

He was a member of the Isosco County Road Commission for 15 years, from 1950 to 1965, and served as chairman for a number of terms.

In 1964, he was appointed by Gov. George Romney to the four-man Department of State Highways Commission, was reappointed to a six-year term in 1967 and served as vice chairman.

During his service on the commission, he became director of the Michigan Good Roads Federation, a member of the American Association of Highway Officials and the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission.

He was awarded the Michigan Minuteman Award in 1967.

He attended Bay City Central High School, then attended Ohio State University and Michigan State University.

He is survived by his wife, Edna; a son, Michael E. Nunn; a daughter, Mrs. Shirley Parkinson of Cadillac; one grandson; a sister, Mrs. Mina Fuhrman of Apache Wells, Arizona.

ET Evaluates Jones House for Museum

Evaluation of city-owned residential property at the west end of the East Tawas Park for possible use as a picnic area, museum and library was authorized Monday night by the East Tawas Council.

Mavor Robert Bolen explained that the Isosco County Historical Society had been named by the late Joseph Barkman to receive his collection of historical artifacts, formerly located at his lumber yard.

The historical society, working with Harris Barkman of East Tawas, is currently seeking federal and state funding to aid in the construction of a museum-community center project.

The residence, purchased by East Tawas a number of years ago from Dr. Harold Jones, has been considered as a prime location for such a center.

In other business, an amended operational budget submitted by Paul Ropert, superintendent of public works, was approved by the council. General fund revenue of $273,870 has been increased to $281,645 and expenditures have been increased from $268,870 to $281,645. Included was a $7,275 transfer from federal revenue sharing.

The superintendent of public works was authorized to advertise for a four-wheel drive unit for the fire department. The new truck would replace one presently in service. The latter would be turned over to the department of public works.

A complaint received concerning grass and weeds on residential property was turned over to the ordinance committee.

With the expiration of CETA funds June 30, the parking meter man employed by the city is to become a member of the regular city payroll during the summer months.

CETA Positions Expire June 30

Due to the expiration of CETA Title Six and Title One funds on June 30, Isosco Board of Commissioners has ordered that all positions under those programs be vacated effective on that date.

All incumbents having the required length of employment would be eligible for unemployment benefits from the supplemental unemployment act.

Positions and employees assigned to the Trio Council on Aging within Isosco County would be transferred to Title Two in order to prevent serious disruption of the senior citizens program, pending outcome of the millage proposal to go to voters later this summer.

This action was taken Wednesday following discussion with John Benford, the county's CETA director. The county is to receive $47,000 in Title Two funds for the next year, but funds are subject to new guidelines.

The commission authorized expansion of the equalization department staff by the addition of two new appraisers. Denise Brown and Benford were appointed to those positions, with wages to be paid from federal revenue sharing funds through December 31, 1977. A vacancy in the equalization department is to be filled.

Susan Lyons was promoted to the position of CETA coordinator, replacing Benford. No action was taken on a request from Oscoda-AuSable Chamber of Commerce and Tawas Chamber of Commerce for the county to underwrite the cost of purchasing a county promotional booklet.

Discussion was held on continuance of the Isosco County Transportation System, which utilizes vans to provide public transportation. While it was stated that about 1,600 persons are transported each month, fees received amount to $135 a week and the program is not self supporting.

A study is to be made to determine the cost of operating the system for the remainder of the year.

Discussion was held on possible use of the county garage building at Hale as a community center, once the building is no longer used by the road commission. William Woreley, Fifth District commissioner, is to meet with township officials concerning the matter.

A disaster plan submitted by Harold W. Schmidtke, county emergency services coordinator, was approved by the commission. A resolution was asked urging congress to fund civil defense activities and to include nuclear as well as nuclear disaster preparedness. (See COMMISSION, page 4.)

Unloading on US-23 Causes TC Discussion

Possible solution to the lack of an unloading zone on US-23 in one area of the business district was discussed Monday night by the Tawas City Council and Sheriff George Westcott.

The council had asked the sheriff's department, which provides police service to the city under contract, to enforce a ban on truck parking in the area between Mathews Street and Whittemore Street.

Councilmen had expressed concern over the unloading of trucks at Lad's Padd, where it was said drivers often park vehicles in the traffic lane to unload supplies for that business. It was felt that such double parking was dangerous and in violation of city ordinance.

The sheriff said he had contacted drivers and found that it was practically impossible for a truck to use alleys on either side of the building, due to the narrow width. Several suggestions were offered by councilmen on how trucks could use the alley.

It was generally felt that the owner of the business should contact the owner of an adjacent parking lot to determine if some arrangement could be made whereby trucks could pull off the street for unloading purposes.

Businessmen are to be asked to notify the city manager when cars are in violation of the parking time limit along US-23. The sheriff's department was asked to utilize its radar car along US-23 in order to slow traffic due to the summer driving hazard.

The council approved a five-year lease with RO Enterprises, Incorporated, for operating the fast food service concession stand. (See COUNCIL, page 4.)

Bicentennial Observance Opens Rain Threatened, but Sky Cleared for Whittemore's Week-End Event

Bicentennial activities in Isosco County were kicked off last weekend with Whittemore's annual summer festival. Although rain and high wind hit the area Friday night, the program on Saturday and Sunday enjoyed perfect weather conditions and large crowds were in attendance.

Picked Friday night as the festival queen was Wanda Biggs, with Judy Youngs and Julie Alejski as first and second runnerups. Members of the court included Denise Partlo, Alice Avram, Rosalie Bassi, Julie Webster, Julie Adrian and Sandra Ecker.

The queen and her court were honored guests during Saturday afternoon's parade through the community, which featured the Isosco County Sheriff's Posse, old-time vehicles, horse drawn wagons and carriages and a number of floats. Mrs. Almena Ruckle, 87, the oldest member of the Whittemore Women's Club, had the honored position on that club's float. All of the ladies were dressed in old time costumes.

Children's games, a midway and cake walk featured the program.

Saturday afternoon, while a capacity crowd was on hand for racing Saturday night at Whittemore Speedway. The program ending Saturday afternoon featured harness racing.

Tawas Area's Week-Long Program Starts With Train Run

Tawas area's week-long observance of the bicentennial is scheduled to start Saturday, June 26, and a late program addition by the Detroit and Mackinac Railway promises to be a highlight.

The program is scheduled to start at 10:00 a. m. Saturday with a "nostalgia run" through the Tawas by the D&M's restored steam locomotive, pulling a train of old time rolling stock. Included will be a restored wooden passenger coach, a flat car and the little red caboose which was once displayed in the Tawas City Park and has since been restored by the railroad.

Although the train will not be open to public transportation, members of the Tawas Area Bicentennial Committee dressed in costumes from another era will be guests of the railroad and are to ride on the flatcar. The flat car is being equipped with railings and seats for the trip, which is to start from Alabaster Junction, known as the Campbell Grocery. Presently used as a warehouse, Mr. and Mrs. Borosch have assisted the student council in cleaning the building and loaned antique furniture for display. Miss Amy Savage, chairman of the project, assisted by members of the student council, have collected old pictures and antiques for display purposes.

As part of the bicentennial observance and continuing through the summer, Tawas Point Light-house near Tawas Point State Park is to be open to visitors Wednesday afternoons.

A listing of daily activities of the observance appears on page 4, section 1, of this week's edition. Throughout the program June 26 through July 4, the student council of Tawas Area High School will have its old time general store museum open on Mathews Street, Tawas City. There will be an old quilt and antique display at the Ladies Literary Clubrooms, East Tawas, July 3-10.

The site of the old time general store, owned by Mr. and Mrs. William Borosch and donated for this use, was constructed originally by Emil Buch, an early day grocery store owner. It was later owned by Benjamin Sawyer and was last purchased through the Tawas to Alabaster Junction, known as the Campbell Grocery.

TODAY'S Meditation

from The World's Most Widely Used Devotional Guide

The Upper Room

(Read Matthew 6:1-6) "Good deeds are conspicuous; and even when they are not, they cannot remain hidden. (1 Timothy 5:25, RSV)

Consider our reaction to John, who always reminds everyone of all the good things he has done. "That's nice. He's on an ego trip. Big deal-blowing his own horn." His bragging becomes monotonous. He has probably even exaggerated his claims.

On the other hand, consider George. It was almost by accident that you discovered some of the fine things he has done. And you suspect there is probably more that you don't even know about. Chances are that he has understated his case.

If we do good deeds, according to Paul, they cannot remain hidden. Though not immediately, our good will eventually catch up with us. And there is no hiding it from God.

It is like the illustration Christ uses. The hypocrites in the synagogues want everyone to know their generosity. But "they have their reward—if you can call it that. The advice of Jesus is for us to give humbly and sincerely, "in secret." This cannot be hidden—it will be conspicuous, where it counts the most. "And your Father who sees in secret will reward you."

PRAYER

Our Father, help us to want to do good because of our love for You and not for what others will think about us. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY The good that we do will catch up with us.—John William Zehring (Richmond, Indiana)

A folk dance group from the Province of Hessen in West Germany, which appeared here in 1974, is scheduled for a return engagement Tuesday and Wednesday, July 6-7, 8:00 p. m., at Tawas Area High School Gymnasium.
The "Landjugendgruppe Erksdorf," translated to the Country Youth of Erksdorf, are from a rural part of Germany where the Brothers Grimm collected folk tales from the peasantry. All in the group are farmers, other than those who work in the factories of Stadt Allendorf.

The group, in their late teens and early 20s, perform polkas, landlers, waltzes, quadrilles and other German country dances. The authentic folk dances include those they have learned from their ancestors and others from the surrounding regions.
The group was founded in 1925 and, after many performances in the Province of Hessen, the dancers took part in the Berlin Olympic Games of 1936 as part of cultural arrangements. After World War II, one of the first performances of the group was a folk dance festival for American soldiers near Frankfurt.
In the following years, the group contributed to international understanding, touring European countries. The group spent 14 days in the United States in 1974.
The young dancers in their native dresses won the admiration of those who watched the program and the hearts of their host families at Saginaw, Cadillac, New Buffalo, the Tawas, Frankenthum and Three Rivers.
Homes are needed for housing the group July 6, 7 and 8 and persons interested should contact Robert E. Heinritz, telephone 362-4089.

Cancel League Games, Need Help from Fathers

Tawas Knothole League has been canceled due to parental apathy, according to Dennis Chandler, athletic director. All baseball fields are to be closed effective next week due to the lack of parental interest.

"When one asks why, my reply will be: 'Where were you when your boy was at bat during last week's game, with the bases loaded and two outs?; where were you when your boy made that spectacular catch and saved the game?' where were you when your boy struck out and needed the encouragement to help him go back to the outfield?; where were you when the game was delayed for 45 minutes due to no volunteer parents to help umpire the game?"

"Oh, let the coach help umpire the game" or "let the coach and manager do the umpiring; they know the game," you say. Have you ever tried to show a 10-year-old what he is doing wrong or praise him when he is doing something right if you have to spend your coaching time behind the plate trying to be impartial?"

Chandler said that apathy of parents is growing at an alarming rate in the Tawas and "I would like to know when it is going to stop." He said a boy is only a 10 or 11-year-old once and some of the greatest moments of his life are being shared between him and his coach and, unfortunately, dad may not be involved.

The athletic director said the league has had a great deal of difficulty finding umpires and coaches for teams. He said that excuses range from "I don't know anything about baseball; mothers make me nervous when they attend the games or I am just too busy."

Chandler said that many of the coaches and umpires do not have children in the league, but are willing to spend many hours a week with the youngsters.

"Not only do the coaches need parental support and interest, but, more importantly, your boy needs it," declared Chandler.

"Unless parents want the suspension of the Tawas Knothole League to become a reality, then make this summer one which your boy will remember—spend some time with him during his baseball experience," said Chandler.

Army Worms Again Make Appearance in Iosco Area

After a major outbreak last year, the army worm has again been found in the area this year. The cooperative extension service reports that it cannot predict when an outbreak will occur, but farmers are advised to check crops closely.

Plenty of lead time is required in order to protect crops from this pest. Farmers should check for larvae in stands of small grains, where margins of leaves may be chewed, or where small, green pellets may be found under leaves.

The army worm larvae is cylindrical, up to two inches in length, greenish to black in color and has a pale stripe down each side. It has a definite head, six jointed legs just behind the head and 10 fleshy legs near the rear.

Farmers should call 846-4111 if worms are spotted in a field. Spraying materials will be recommended.

Interest is increasing in the use of aircraft for treating cereal crops for insects. This method requires the same attention to proper timing of treatments, through application and choice of pesticides as does control by ground equipment.

Bicentennial Activities

Hale Area Program Finalized

Final plans have been completed for the bicentennial celebration July 2, 3 and 4 in Plainfield Township, according to Mrs. Berkeley Bernard, Hale Area Bicentennial Committee chairman.

The program opens Friday, July 2, with a box social at the Plainfield Township Hall, Hale, 6:00 p. m. An old fashioned hoe-down is to be held at 8:00 p. m. at the township hall grounds. Crowning of a bicentennial princess is to be held at 9:00 p. m.

The program Saturday, July 3, features a parade starting at 11:30 p. m. Muzzle loading rifle marksmen are to hold an exhibition starting at 2:00 p. m., location to be announced. There will be a parade of boats on Long Lake at 2:00 p. m. and a talent show is to feature the evening program at 8 o'clock.

The program Sunday, July 4, will feature the annual firemen's barbecue and picnic, followed by ringing of bells at 2:00 p. m. to celebrate the signing of the Declaration of Independence. A "76 and over" birthday party is to be held at 4:00 p. m., followed by a dance on the township hall grounds at 8:00 p. m.

Fireworks will provide the grand finale at dusk. There will be displays of antiques and early crafts Saturday and Sunday at the township hall.

That same year, stone and brick were purchased for the foundation from William Grant of East Tawas at a cost of $1,850. Nothing more was done until August 1867, when the supervisors spread a tax of $1,000 to raise money to carry on further work. The project was halted temporarily, however, during a major controversy over construction of a road to reach the plains.

Residents of Tawas Township were divided about equally on location of the proposed Plank Road, those in the western half favoring the location which eventually was selected as the route, while the eastern half favored a route along present day Monument Road.

This feud was to smolder for several years and eventually saw the eastern half forming Baldwin Township in March 1869. In the meantime, the two factions were at odds over construction of a new courthouse and the building became a pawn during discussion of the proposed road.

In October 1867, supervisors proposed to secure a loan of $12,000 to build a brick structure. A vote on the question was taken in January 1868, but the proposal failed by a vote of 190-162. By late February, the basement walls had been completed and in March the people voted on the question of a $7,000 loan to finish the work, this time utilizing wood frame construction. This proposal, too, was defeated, the vote standing 173-167 against the measure.

A third election was held in April of 1867 and the proposition finally carried by a large majority, 263 in favor and only 134 against it. Bids for construction were received and a contract was awarded to Orlando Newman of East Tawas for $9,500. The work was completed and the building was accepted by the county on February 17, 1869.

A description written by James O. Whittemore in September 1868 stated: "The new courthouse is now well on towards completion. This is indeed a magnificent building and would be an ornament to any city in the land. Its situation is on high land near the bay shore and, overlooking the

COURTHOUSE CONSTRUCTION

During its 119-year history, three different buildings in Tawas City have served as the seat of county government. Construction of a courthouse provided a major controversy in the county's infancy, but the building completed in 1869 served for 85 years before being replaced in January 1954.

When Iosco was founded in 1857, the legislative act provided that the "county seat of said county shall be established by the board of supervisors at Ottawas Bay." Tawas City, founded by the Whittemores in 1854, was the only community then located on the bay and became the county seat.

The first building to house county offices was the original Whittemore store, constructed in 1854 on the lake shore just east of today's Coyle's restaurant. The location was appropriate as members of the Whittemore family held most of the county offices.

"The building was nicely furnished inside and out and of considerable architectural beauty for such a small structure," an old-timer recalled in a letter to The Tawas Herald in 1917. "However, public spirit has never been a characteristic of Tawas City, or this old landmark might have been preserved."

In the upper room was held the first county court, the first meeting of the county board of supervisors and offices of the county clerk, register of deeds and judge of probate. It also served as the office of the Iosco County Gazette founded by the Whittemores in 1868, and later as the first office of The Tawas Herald.

By the mid-1860s, county government had outgrown the cramped quarters furnished by the building. On March 13, 1863, Charles H. Whittemore and James O. Whittemore gave Lots 8 and 9, Block A, in Tawas City for a county building site. These two parcels, along with adjoining property contributed by Henry F. Wells, were accepted by the county board of supervisors and the site still serves the county.

That same year, stone and brick were purchased for the foundation from William Grant of East Tawas at a cost of $1,850. Nothing more was done until August 1867, when the supervisors spread a tax of $1,000 to raise money to carry on further work. water, renders it conspicuous from all parts of the bay. Grand in proportions and beautiful in design, it is the pride of our county."

The basement of the structure was built of limestone from Kelly's Island in Lake Erie and walls were nine feet in height and two feet thick. The basement contained the jail and an apartment for the sheriff. Two large cells, surrounded by massive stone walls, were located in the basement. The cell walls, ceiling and floor were lined with heavy oak timbers which were filled with spikes, "driven in every direction so that it will be impossible to bore or saw through," stated Whittemore. The oak timbers did not prove to be a deterrent to prisoners as at least two escapes were 1789: One man to lead America.

It's time to pull together. One government, not thirteen. Our Constitution has been approved. Our capital is New York City. Our Electors have unanimously decided. The one man worthy of the job of leading this new nation is George Washington. He has fears. He has humility. He writes, "I walk on untrodden ground." But he also has our gratitude, our trust and our faith. We give him a triumphal journey from Mount Vernon to the capital. Arches, cheers, songs, streets strewn with flowers. Still, he trembles as he stands on the balcony of Federal Hall on the 30th of April. He takes the first oath of office and adds his own words: "I swear, so help me God."

Commend Rose on Elks Project

Iosco Intermediate School District staff and administration recently commended Harry Rose, a member of the Tawas Area Elks Lodge, who heads the Michigan Major Projects for Iosco County.

This project is dedicated to assisting handicapped children and their families, taking many forms like the purchase of custom designed wheelchairs, protective head helmets, providing money for speech and language summer camp at Central Michigan University, hospital beds, etc. Rose has frequently and generously spent many hours locating and traveling long distances across the state to purchase items listed above. He also took part in the planning, organization and arrangement of a Christmas party for 100 handicapped youth within Iosco County, in cooperation and with support of other local Elks.

The school district personnel expressed appreciation for Rose's inward feelings, dedication, caring and common sense in dealing with children, setting high standards to be emulated by community members as well as educational professionals.

'Freedom Is' to Premiere on Television June 29

Tell anyone about a new television show that is billed as a "Bicentennial Special" and you will probably be greeted with some indifference. But add the fact that the show is paid for by children; that it uses the talents of some of today's top stars, that it is the fourth prime-time family special from a religious organization, that it is highly entertaining and the indifference will change into great interest.

"Freedom Is" premieres June 29 on WNEM, channel 5, 7:30 p. m. While it is being hailed as a bicentennial special, the show no doubt will be back in future years as a well-deserved "Summer Classic."

"Freedom Is" stars Jonathan Winters, Richard Roundtree, Edward Asner, Joseph Cotten and Dan Daily. The music was written by Grammy-winner, Jimmie Haskell.

The show is produced by Lutheran Television, the communications arm of the International Lutheran Laymen's League and the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod.

"Our synod was determined not to pass up the opportunity presented by America's bicentennial," commented the Rev. Robert E. Beyer of Zion Lutheran Church, Tawas City. "Frankly, however, the budget was just not there."

According to Pastor Beyer, Lutheran Television enlisted the support of the children of the Missouri Synod. The children came through with over $150,000 enabling Lutheran Television to carry a message of freedom to families in America.

"The presentation goes one step beyond the ordinary 'founding of our country' approach," commented Pastor Beyer. "It demonstrates growth of freedom in our country over the years. The ever-popular heroes of Lutheran TV's previous specials, Benji and Waldo, are taken back to the signing of the Declaration of Independence. The issue of slavery becomes dominant in congress. But with the British anchored in the harbor and an urgent decision to be made, the slavery issue is put aside. The relationship between Benji and his new-found friend, Jason, a slave, helps focus in on the real issue of freedom."

At the end of the show, Benji explains, "I'm helping freedom grow." This becomes the message to be carried into homes around the country on an attractively designed t-shirt decal being offered free of charge by Lutheran Television. The decal allows children to show that they want to be a part of improving human relations around the world. As Pastor Beyer puts it, "This show not only entertains but also points out that, although we've come a long way, we still have a long way to go. It will take everyone pulling together to get there."

MEMBERS of the student council at Tawas Area High School began cleaning an old building in Tawas City last week for use as a museum during the bicentennial observance. Under direction of Miss Amy Savage, left, an old time general store is being set up in the former Campbell Grocery on Mathews Street. Assisting with the project at right is William Borosch, owner of the building.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Complaints of Barking Dogs, Resort Signs

15 Years Ago—

June 21, 1961—Monday's meeting of the Tawas City Council was enlivened by controversies ranging from the nuisance of barking dogs to resort owners who post rate signs along US-23. Complaints were turned over to Jerry Cotter, city attorney, for study and recommendation.

June 22, 1951—Iosco County Board of Supervisors approved revised plans for a new county building. In 1948, voters approved a two-mill tax levy for 10 years to construct a new building, but no authorization was given to bond the county. The two mills of taxes raise about $25,000 a year and another election may be necessary if a new county building is to be built at once.

Tawas City Council adopted an ordinance making it unlawful for any person under the age of 21 to possess intoxicating liquor within the city limits.

Marks on logs pulled out of Smith Creek near Hale have been identified as follows: EVE, Edward V. Esmond; CHP, Charles H. Prescott; HRB, Henry R. Buck, 'dent'/'cat' on was made by Robert H. Buck of Hale.

Family Living Education

CHILDREN AND DECISION MAKING

Including children in decision making provides them with an opportunity to feel a sense of power in asserting their individuality in making choices. While deciding which shirt to wear, what kind of cereal to eat or what television program to watch children can learn a sense of independence and responsibility for the decisions they make. With a living pace as fast as today's, many times busy parents do not think to involve children in making family decisions. With a little effort, parents can provide opportunities which help children grow with confidence in their ability to make choices and express their opinions on how problems are to be solved.

Homes provide a wonderful testing ground for children to develop the skills needed for careful decision making. Parents can be helpful to children just by providing opportunities for children to express their thoughts and to give opportunities for participating in choices where they can contribute their ideas and opinions. The first step in helping children build confidence in their ability to make decisions is to offer them appropriate opportunities to practice these skills. Here are some ideas of when you can include your child in helping make decisions:

While shopping for clothes, help your child decide what colors or styles he likes. "Susan, here is the kind of shoes you need. Do you like the green or red ones?" Or, "Billy, would you like this kind of shirt with pockets or would you rather have the kind that has the designs on the front?"

"Which kind of gelatin do you like best, strawberry or lime?" "Would you rather have rice or noodles with our dinner tonight?"

Family outings can be planned with children being asked for their opinions on where they would like to go. "We are all free to go someplace this Saturday, what do you think would be fun to do?"

Household routines can accommodate children's special needs. "Would you rather set the table before or after your television program?" Tasks can be expected to be accomplished but parents can find ways of helping their children find the best times to do them. Allowing children to participate in decision making can lead to conflict between family members. Parents need to be able to mediate individual choices by helping children make compromises when faced with conflict. By being adaptable and by seeing how differences can be settled, parents will help children learn to be considerate of other people in any group that they may deal with in the future. By respecting their children's opinions, they will also be giving their children a sense of being independently capable of making choices that effect how they will be able to deal with any situation that may confront them.

recorded later, one in 1878 involving the defendant in the most famous murder trial in the county's history.

The first floor of the courthouse above ground contained a spacious hall, running through the center, with large and well lighted rooms for all the county offices except the sheriff, whose room was on the second floor. Opening from three of the offices were three record vaults of brick, said to be made thoroughly "fireproof" by an air space of four inches on all sides and guarded by double doors of boiler iron. The vaults rested upon foundations of brick and stone built up from the ground and would stand independent of the rest of the structure in case of fire.

The courtroom on the second floor was furnished in grand style with chandeliers and was described by Whittemore as being a "spacious, lofty and very pleasant room, with its charming view of the winding shores of the bay stretching out until lost in the dim distance; and in front, the ever-changing surface of Lake Huron, with its moving panorama of arriving and departing sail craft and steamers."

Whittemore commented that the room is "too pleasant and the view from the windows too lovely for one to be occupied with dry details of attachment, replevin and garnishment and musty legal wrangles."

The outside view of the courthouse was very striking, with its lofty front, its porticos front and rear, its arched windows, a handsome triplet east window and its beautiful dome surmounted by a flagstaff.

Almost immediately after its construction, many people felt that the courthouse was not fireproof, that public documents and records were insecure. It was also felt that the courthouse was poorly adapted for a jail housed in its basement. Up to 1875, the county had spent about $18,000 on its construction.

In 1875, Walter B. Dietrick, known locally as the "tree planter," set out the shade trees in front of the courthouse. Dietrick, who died at Oscoda in 1891, also set out the beautiful maple shade trees which still line the streets of East Tawas.

The present county building site has served as the location of the circuit court in Iosco since 1869, although a legislative act passed in 1891 saw two terms of court being held each year in the O'Toole Block, AuSable. Splitting sessions of the court lasted until March 1895.

In addition to providing quarters for the circuit court and other governmental functions, the building served as a center for community and social activities. The courtroom was often used for school programs, graduation exercises, meetings of county organizations and political gatherings. The 12 steps leading up to the main entrance provided a handy place to pose large gatherings and numerous photographs have survived to this day showing members of the board of supervisors, participants in political conventions, the entire students bodies of local schools, etc.

The basement of the courthouse never proved to be a practical location for the county jail and a separate jail building was later constructed. Need for the separation was emphasized in 1878 following the escape of Henry B. Farrington of AuSable, who was being held there while awaiting trial on a charge of murder. Farrington overpowered a guard in one escape and tunneled his way out of the building on another occasion. Farrington was later recaptured by Sheriff Lyman B. Smith and sent to the state prison, from which he later escaped.

Although the building apparently was well maintained over the years, there was considerable agitation following World War I to construct new quarters to house county government. Detractors of the building pointed out the need for enlarged office space and the lack of truly fireproof vaults for the protection of valuable county records. Others felt that the building's architecture was out of style and should be replaced with a structure with more modern lines.

A matter of economics entered the picture—the county simply could not afford to replace the structure—and the venerable old building continued to serve a useful life for another three decades. In 1941, the basement was remodeled to house offices of the county welfare department, but structural changes during that and previous remodeling had weakened supporting walls. As a result, the main floor of the structure soon assumed a "roller coaster" effect, which was most noticeable in the main corridor.

In 1944, the county board of supervisors hired Joseph Goddeyne, Bay City architect, to develop plans for a new building. A beautiful three-story brick building was designed, but nothing further was done due to the wartime scarcity of materials.

Plans were dusted off in 1946 by the board of supervisors and a proposition was placed before voters of the county. Three elections later, in April 1949, a building program was finally approved by voters, but there was an oversight in legal preparations and another delay resulted.

Construction costs rapidly increased and the two mills of taxes approved for 10 years proved to be insufficient to build a three-story county building. Members of the board of supervisors did not realize it at the time, but the county's property valuation was to increase at the same rapid rate to offset the higher construction cost.

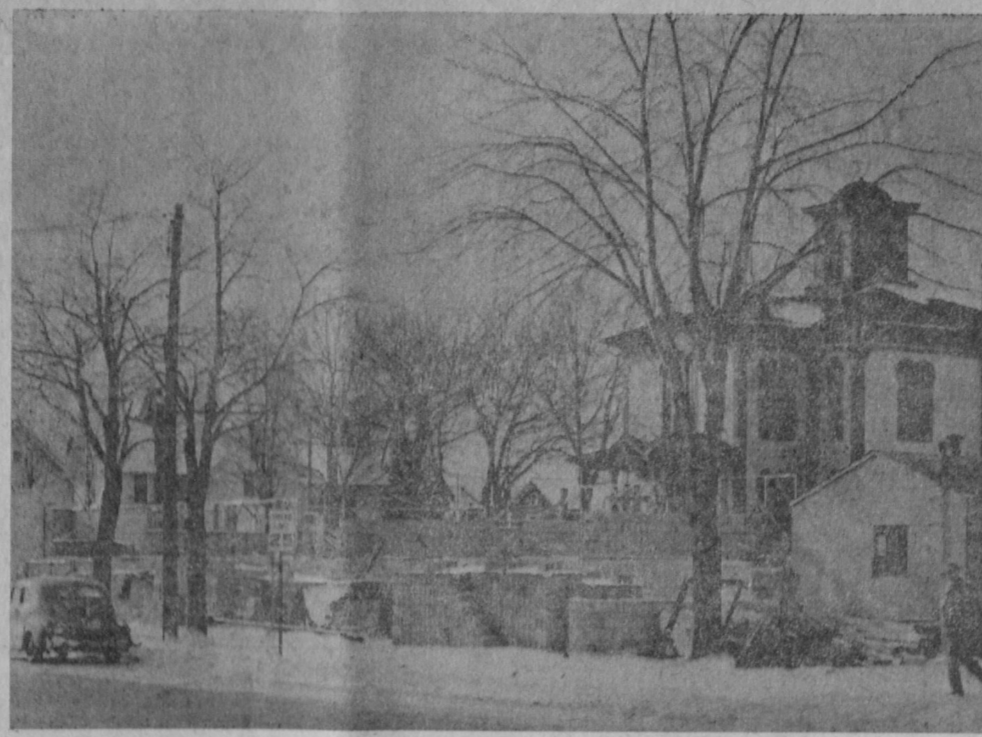

Despite objections of the Bay City architect, plans were changed to a one-story structure and voters authorized a $250,000 bond issue in April 1952.

The shade trees planted in 1875 were removed when footings for the new building were brought forward to the setback line along Lake street, thus allowing use of the old courthouse during the construction program.

The new building was completed in December 1954 by Arthur Vollmer Construction Company and county offices moved into the new structure during the first week of January 1954.

With the lapse of 22 years since its demolition, persons viewing pictures of the old courthouse constructed in 1869 now recognize its true architectural beauty—the simple, unadorned lines of the building are pleasing to the eye. Had brick been used in the original construction, the structure probably would still be around today as a registered national historic building.
