

Campers Responsible for 60 Acres of Fires

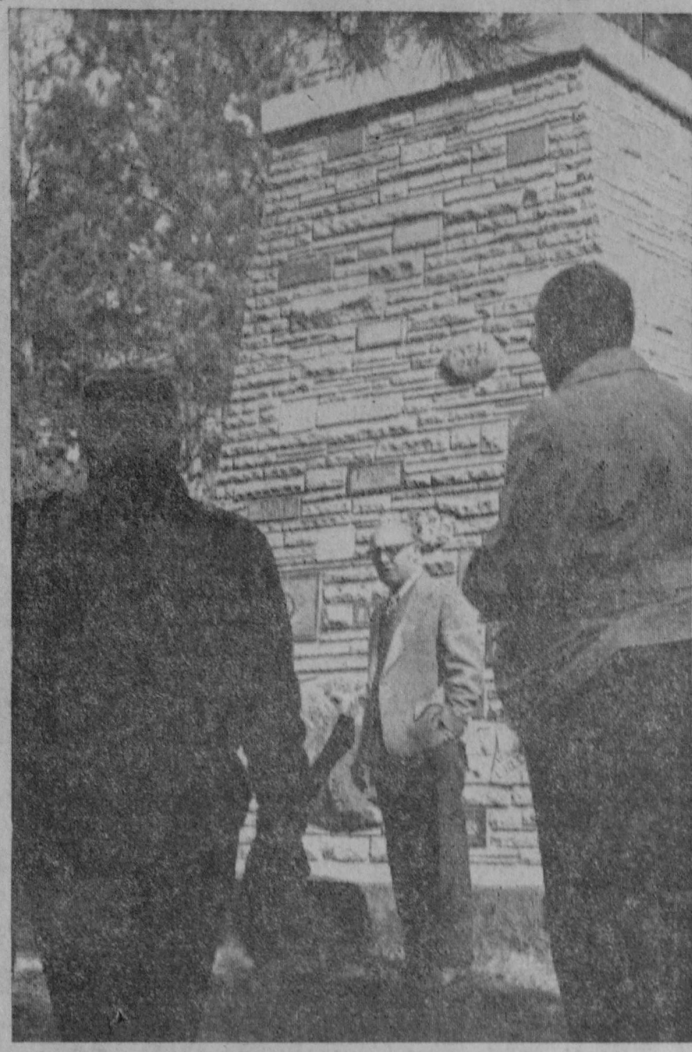

Careless campers were responsible Saturday for two fires which raged through Huron National Forest northwest of the Tawas, burning 60 acres of timbered land. Included were 25 acres in the Buck Creek plantation east of Whispering Pines and 35 acres of hardwood southwest of Whispering Pines on Monument Road.

The District Forest Ranger's office at East Tawas said Monday morning that campers involved in the Buck Creek fire would be assessed a charge of approximately $200 for fire suppression costs. Depending on damage to the red pine in the Buck Creek plantation, the campers may face an additional charge for damage to the resource.

The forest service spokesman said that the burned over area consisted of approximately 4,000 red pine trees which are included in one of the oldest plantations in the forest. The plantation was thinned a number of years ago and trees are 50 to 60 feet in height. The campfire blamed for the blaze apparently was left unattended. Four members of the Tawas

Ranger District's fire fighting crew fought the blaze using a bulldozer and plow. Assisting was the Oscoda-AuSable Township Fire Department and East Tawas Fire Department, along with a number of volunteers. While this blaze was being battled, a second fire was reported five miles southwest of Whispering Pines. This fire apparently was caused by a campfire which crept into leaves in a hardwood area. The Plainfield Township Fire Department brought this blaze under control using its large tanker truck. But for the prompt action of the forest service, assisted by area fire departments and volunteers, both fires could have burned out of control.

Angry Over Classified Placed by Rollin

Council Supports City Manager

City Mgr. Reginald Bublitz was given an overwhelming vote of confidence Monday night by the Tawas City Council following his report that a member of the council had submitted a classified ad to the Municipal League Review seeking applications for the position of city manager.

Bublitz told councilmen that he had received telephone information from the magazine published at Ann Arbor that two letters had been received requesting publication of the classified. The first, signed by Jerry Snoblen for Tawas Concerned Taxpayers, was rejected by the publication due to its policy of not giving free space unless signed by an authorized official. The second letter, said Bublitz, was signed by Councilman Robert N. Rollin.

Other members of the council reacted angrily over the disclosure that a fellow councilman would attempt to place such an ad after the city manager had been given a "vote of confidence" at an executive session held April 17.

"I don't understand it—it makes me mad," declared Councilman Jerry Cotter, whose motion on a resolution censuring Councilman Rollin for his actions was seconded and later withdrawn in favor of a second resolution giving the city manager another vote of confidence.

Councilman Cotter expressed the opinion that Rollin had violated the city charter; Councilman William Ezo expressed the opinion that the council "has found that we cannot depend on the confidentiality of discussion during an executive session." Councilman Charles Landon expressed the opinion that Rollin had overstepped his boundaries as a councilman; Councilman James Lansky stated that the council acts as a body in matters concerning the hiring of a city manager, according to terms of the city charter.

According to discussion at Monday night's meeting, an executive session had been held following the April 17 meeting to discuss the salary of the new city clerk, Mrs. William McCready, who was appointed to that office by the council on recommendation of the city manager. It was disclosed that Bublitz had stated at the executive session that he had earlier considered resigning from his position unless a new city clerk was appointed. Bublitz, in addition to his regular duties as city manager, had served as acting city clerk since the resignation of Mrs. Mary Byrd following an altercation with Tawas Concerned Taxpayers over alleged election irregularities.

Councilman Cotter said that Bublitz had stated at the executive session that he did not intend to resign and that the city manager had been given a vote of confidence.

Councilman Rollin told members of the council that they had misunderstood his intentions in submitting the classified ad. He said that he was concerned that there may be a future vacancy in the city manager's position and said he only desired information concerning salaries and qualifications for a city manager, should a vacancy occur.

Mayor Herbert Cholger stated his opinion that Rollin was within his rights as a citizen and councilman to obtain such information pertaining to the city manager's position and that such information could be placed on file should a vacancy occur. The mayor said he had been contacted by Rollin concerning rejection of the original classified submitted by Tawas Concerned Taxpayers to the Municipal League Review. "I told him to do what you want to do, either verbally or by letter," said Cholger.

The city manager charged that he had been "under constant harassment" from Tawas Concerned Taxpayers, that he viewed the methods being used as "scare tactics" and that he considered the classified signed by Councilman Rollin as seeking applications for his position.

It was stated that the first classified was worded: "Wanted City Manager." It was later changed to: "Due to a possible vacancy, I would like applications for city manager."

During discussion from the floor, Snoblen stated that he had told Bublitz some months earlier that the city manager's position was "vulnerable" due to the salary being paid for the position. He said that he had signed the original letter on behalf of the Tawas Concerned Taxpayers following a meeting of that group and that he had been under the impression that any private organization could place a classified in the Municipal League Review. He said that the group wished to find out what the cost would be for hiring a good city manager. Snoblen expressed the belief that he could have signed the letter requesting the classified, inasmuch as he is a paid member of the water board, having been appointed recently by the council.

Councilman Cotter expressed the opinion that anyone desiring information pertaining to salaries paid to other city managers, along with qualification and job descriptions, could obtain the information by means other than advertising for applications to fill the position.

A motion by Lansky "fully supporting Bublitz as city manager and an expression of confidence in support of his job" was adopted by a five to one roll call vote, following Cotter's withdrawal of a motion to censure Councilman Rollin. Voting in favor of the motion were Mayor Cholger, Councilmen Cotter, Ezo, Landon and Lansky. Rollin voted "no" on the motion.

Bublitz served from May 1954 to December 31, 1971, as city superintendent and, under terms of the city charter which became effective January 1, 1972, he was appointed city manager, the chief administrative officer of the city government.

AN EXPERIMENTAL EXCURSION TRAIN was run Sunday by the Detroit and Mackinac Railway carrying Rotarians from Tawas City to Alpena and return. Management of the railroad is studying the possibility of similar excursions by organizations. The railroad has purchased and restored steel coaches during the past three years. The last excursion train run on the D&M was during the 1962 East Tawas centennial observance.—Tawas Herald Photo.

East Tawas Budget Calls for 14.5 Mills

A preliminary budget calling for expenditures and income of $295,117 was presented Monday night to the East Tawas Council by City Supt. Paul Ropert.

Under the proposal, the budget would be financed by a tax levy of 14.5 mills, an increase of 2½ mills over the previous year. The added taxes would go to the debt service fund for financing the sanitary sewer project to service Tawas Lake and the city's share of the proposed water expansion program with Tawas City and Baldwin Township.

Major income noted in the budget included $168,365 in operational taxes, $58,000 in state shared revenue, $12,000 from a fire protection agreement with Baldwin Township, $10,000 from parking fees and fines, $6,200 from interest on investments, $15,000 from equipment rental, $5,000 from interest, penalties and tax collection fees.

In other business, Mayor Robert Bolen instructed a council committee to meet with property owners involved in improvements to a city parking lot between the city garage and Hester's IGA to determine proportionate share of financing the project.

The city had expended $4,300 in development of the parking lot under verbal agreement with four property owners involved. It was stated that verbal agreements had been obtained from Hester's IGA and Lixey's Restaurant on 40 percent cost sharing by each of those two businesses, but no firm commitment has been received as yet from two other property owners.

City Clerk Clyde Soper reported on a recent workshop meeting he attended concerning application for grants from the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation. The city is to file application next month for a possible grant to assist with development of the Dewey Durant Park north of Franklin Street.

The city had made application for a grant to aid in this project two years ago, but federal funds were not available at that time. Soper is now preparing a new detailed plan for utilization of the property which would eventually provide two softball fields, four tennis courts, a comfort station, four shuffleboard courts and parking lot.

As the initial project, Soper is preparing a plan costing an estimated $80,000 which would provide one softball field, two tennis courts, an entrance off Franklin Street and parking. He said that the plan would be submitted one month prior to the filing deadline in the hope that the initial project would qualify for federal funding.

Council committees appointed by Mayor Bolen were approved as follows: Budget and finance — Jacob Montgomery, James E. Crowley, Gerald Klenow; health — Robert Johnson, Montgomery, George Staudacher; insurance — Klenow, Johnson, Staudacher; lands and buildings — Staudacher, Ralph Western and Johnson; ordinance — Western, Klenow, Crowley; streets and sidewalks — Crowley, Western and Montgomery.

County Workers Accept Contract

A two-year contract calling for a 23-cent-an-hour across the board wage increase for the first year was adopted April 27 by county building employees, represented by United Steel Workers, AFL-CIO.

Ratification by the Iosco County Board of Commissioners is expected to take place today (Wednesday) or at its May 19 meeting.

Final bargaining between representatives of the United Steel Workers and a professional negotiator hired by the county took place April 27 with a member of the state mediation board presiding over the session.

According to terms of the agreement, wages to be paid under the second year of the contract are to be 97.7 percent of the recommended civil service rate, or slightly less than $1,000 above the first year's total wage package being paid to all county building employees.

The wage increase accepted by county building employees for the first year of the contract was identical to the last offer made by the county commission prior to negotiations going before a state mediator and represent wages used to prepare the county's 1976-77 budget adopted two weeks ago. Under terms of the previous offer, the wages to be paid under the second year were to be 95 percent of the recommended civil service rate, but final bargaining increased that rate by 2.7 percent.

Ratification of the county board of commissioners' final wage offer with sheriff's department personnel, represented by the Teamsters Union, is to go to a vote of its membership this week.

Flag Raising Program Features Muzzle Loaders

Robert Jones, president of the First Colonial Militia of Walden Forge, announces that a flag raising ceremony is to be conducted Saturday, 10:00 a. m., at the new Tawas City post office.

Organized earlier this year, the group is composed of persons interested in shooting muzzle loading firearms and will take part in various local programs during the nation's bicentennial observance.

Jones said the organization holds shooting matches each Sunday at his property on M-55 west of Tawas City. Each member will be garbed in authentic frontiersman costumes from the colonial period during Saturday's flag raising ceremony.

A CAR owned by Charles Pomerville, 64, Augres, was damaged extensively Monday afternoon when it caught fire while traveling along US-23 in Tawas City. Investigating sheriff's department officers said the engine apparently flooded with gasoline after turning onto US-23 from M-55. The Tawas City Fire Department was called to put out the blaze. Damage to the car was estimated at $850.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Out-of-Court Settlement Reached in TC Sewer Case

During discussion at Monday night's meeting of the Tawas City Council, it was reported that an out-of-court agreement had been reached in a lawsuit brought against the city by a Tawas City couple.

The lawsuit, filed last October by Mr. and Mrs. Warren Kehoe, had asked relief from paying a special sanitary sewer tax assessment totaling $1,900.

It was stated at Monday night's meeting that the Kehoes had accepted an offer of $300 as an out-of-court settlement with the city, of which $100 represented the sewer connection fee received by all property owners in the special assessment district.

A discussion on bills indicated that the fee submitted by Kenneth Myles, representing the city's interest in the case, amounted to $1,483. On recommendation of Councilman Jerry Cotter, the bill is to be forwarded to the water board for its recommendation.

Lyle Healey, a resident of the city, appeared before the council and read a letter criticizing the council and the former mayor concerning the lawsuit. He expressed the opinion that the lawsuit could have been avoided from the beginning.

During discussion which followed, Councilman Cotter asked if the city had offered any settlement prior to the commencement of the lawsuit in circuit court. Mrs. Kehoe, who was present at the meeting, stated that the city had offered a settlement of $250 prior to the start of court action.

Councilman James Lansky said that the city had attempted to resolve the problem out of court, but pointed out that much of the difficulty arose over the fact that the property owners had not appeared at public hearings required for establishment of the special assessment district. He expressed the belief that the city would be flooded with settlements if it chose not to fight threatened civil suits.

The original complaint listed the Tanners, Mrs. Prescott, City Mgr. Reginald Bublitz and the city as defendants.

It was reported that an out-of-court settlement had also been reached with Mr. and Mrs. Clark Tanner and Mrs. Margaret Prescott. In the summer of 1973, the Kehoes purchased a residence on Birch Street from the Tanners, who had listed their property with Mrs. Prescott, a real estate agent. The Kehoes claimed that they purchased the property with the understanding that it was served by sanitary sewer, but that it was actually served by a private sewer line.

Bay City Woman Burned in Basement Flash Fire

Rosemarie McComber, 23, Bay City, is in Saginaw St. Mary Hospital's burn unit following a flash fire Saturday which swept through the basement of her cottage south of Whittemore.

Mrs. McComber was burned over 95 percent of her body at the cottage near Towerline and Keystone Roads, Burleigh Township. Her two small daughters escaped injury in the flash fire, although one had her hair singed. Investigating sheriff's department officers said the woman had earlier tried to light a water heater in the basement. When she went to the basement several hours later to connect an electrical water system, a spark apparently caused an accumulation of gas to ignite. The home was not seriously damaged by the blaze.

(Read Matthew 28:16-20)

"I am with you always, to the close of the age." (Matthew 28:20, RSV)

It was impossible not to notice them—a tall, blond, young woman in deep mourning, holding a very small boy by the hand. They stood a little apart from the crowd who were looking at the huge marble statue of Christ which stands atop a mountain peak, with arms outstretched in blessing over the City of Rio.

Clouds scudded by, driven by erratic, gusty winds. After the statue had stood sharply outlined against the deep blue of the sky, it suddenly was wrapped in mist and completely lost to sight.

The small boy tugged at his mother's hand. "Look, Mommy, look! He was there when the clouds came. Will He be there when they go away?" The young mother threw back the heavy crepe from her face, looked up and suddenly smiled. "Yes, oh, yes, of course, darling. He will be there when the clouds move away."

That evening, as our ship set out to sea, I saw the statue once again and in my heart repeated her words: "When the clouds move away, He will be there."

Commission Adopts Report on Equalization by Director

Iosco County Board of Commissioners Wednesday adopted recommendations of the county tax director equalizing total real and personal property valuation at $195,497,137. The total includes $180,702,750 in real property and $14,766,387 in personal property.

The above total represents what John D. Rose, director of the county's equalization department, believes to be one-half of the true cash value of real and personal property in the county.

Rose said Thursday that the equalization report had been submitted to the state tax commission for its acceptance or rejection. Rose expressed optimism that the report would be accepted, despite the fact that the state had rejected equalization totals for the county during the past three years or more.

The final total to be established by the state will represent the state equalized valuation, upon which taxes are to be based later this year. Should the state reject the county's valuation total and add a multiplying factor, as it has done in recent years, the new SEV total would be used for schools only. The county's equalization total adopted last week will be used as the basis for assessing township, municipal and county taxes, regardless of tax commission action, according to a new state law which became effective this year.

Rose said Thursday that representatives of the state tax commission had audited forms in his office prior to submission of the county equalization report to Lansing. "Hopefully, the county's report will be accepted after a review by the tax commission, but we will really not know for a week or more."

In equalizing valuation last week, seven local units of government received plus factors over totals brought in by assessing officers, ranging from a high of 25.82 percent in Oscoda Township to a low of 4.17 percent in Baldwin Township. Assessed figures for seven units were accepted without change.

In Tawas City's case, an 11.12 percent factor was added to assessments adopted by the board of review bringing the total to $10,707,036, or $9,525,106 for real property and $1,181,930 for personal.

Assessments adopted by the East Tawas board of review remain unchanged, following a complete reappraisal of property by Gem Surveys. The private appraisal firm is currently conducting a similar study in Tawas City, but this work will not be completed until next year.

Tawas Band Received First Division Rating at Festival

Competing in the class A category, Tawas Area Symphonic Band received four first division ratings from judges for an over-all first division rating in the state band and orchestra festival held Saturday at Traverse City under sponsorship of the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association.

At the state level, Tawas bands have received nine first and two second division ratings in the past 11 years. The last six of those performances have been in class A.

At the festival, bands and orchestras compete against set standards which vary slightly between classes of schools. Each band performed three numbers before three judges, then two selections before a sight reading judge. Each band is judged in 34 categories and this year, Tawas received 32 A ratings, one A-minus and one B-plus.

George Wilson, Interlochen Arts Academy, one of the adjudicators, called Tawas' performance "very nice playing, excellent control with tone and pitch, balance and blend."

A very brilliant, first rate performance." Dr. William Rivard, trombone instructor at Central Michigan University, stated: "A very artistic performance, all in all, very satisfying, a fine band."

Edward Downing, Midland, called the band a "truly outstanding ensemble. There is no doubt that you could stand side by side with any other band in the State of Michigan and play. You play challenging literature with confidence, excitement and the degree of professionalism that shows you are indeed dedicated. I know how much time and effort has been put into this."

Coming events for Tawas Area High School Band members include the annual Tag Days, May 28-29, and the spring concert featuring the concert and symphonic bands Saturday, May 29, at 8:00 p. m. The last event will be the band banquet to be held Tuesday, June 1.

Special Budget Meeting Set Monday by City Council

A special meeting of the Tawas City Council is to be held next Monday night to discuss the 1976-77 budget before the public hearing at the May 17 meeting.

According to a report from City Mgr. Reginald Bublitz, the city's new valuation for 1976 is $10,707,036, as compared to $10,624,315 last year. When discussion began earlier on a preliminary budget, it had been estimated that the property valuation would be $11,000,000.

Because of the lower figure, an additional .40 of a mill would have to be added to proposed millage of 14.50 to provide estimated revenue of $159,534.

Expenditure of federal revenue sharing funds totaling $73,900 was recommended as follows by the city manager: Payment to Gem

Surveys, $7,000; sewer payments, $21,000; repayment of a note for work done last year by the city on the park dock, $12,900; park improvements, $3,000. The above items total $43,900, leaving $30,000 for possible street construction.

With $11,000 in the street fund budget for construction and $5,000 in local streets for construction, coupled with the above revenue sharing money of $30,000, about $46,000 would be provided for a street construction program. Streets recommended for construction include Harris Avenue, from Second Street to the city limits; Second Street, from Eighth Avenue to Harris Avenue; First Avenue, from Anna Drive to M-55; First Street, from First Avenue to Harris Avenue; Fifth Avenue, from First Street to M-55.

The above construction has an estimated cost of $51,000 and the council may eliminate that portion of First Street from First Avenue to Fifth Avenue.

In other business, the council accepted a recommendation from Tawas Harbor Commission concerning establishment of an annual and daily fee for boat launchings. The annual fee is to be $5 and daily fee was set at $2.

A letter from Martin O'Driscoll, chairman of the harbor commission, stated that members had made a number of trips to Lansing in an effort to obtain state assistance in a river mouth project, but he said that no help could be expected at this time.

The harbor chairman expressed the opinion that the city should maintain safe boating conditions by dredging when necessary. Councilman Jerry Cotter expressed the opinion that tax money should not be spent in dredging the river and believed that a river mouth project should be self supporting.

Last year, the city received $1,200 in revenue from the river launching site and donations. The city spent $3,000 in dredging last year. It was felt that money collected through launching fees should go into a harbor commission budget to help pay for the expenses of dredging.

The city manager was authorized to contact the Detroit and Mackinac Railway to determine if additional land could be leased for expansion of facilities and parking.

A special meeting of the water board was to have been held Tuesday night on a petition presented by Peter A. Popp, signed by five of seven property owners south of the Tawas River bridge, requesting formation of a special assessment district to finance construction of sanitary sewer.

The council approved a request from Immaculate Heart of Mary Church for permission to blacktop two lots leased from the city for parking purposes.

The council approved an allocation of $400 to the tree planting program as matching money for participation with property owners in planting trees along city streets. A program is to be developed by Thomas Jacques, the city's forestry consultant.

The city manager reported that the fisheries division of the Department of Natural Resources had approved $72,000 for its project of completing improvements to the city park dock. After July 1, the state will start the project, which will include completion of sheet steel piling, filling the dock, installation of six-foot-wide blacktop sidewalks on each side of the dock, along with benches, new lighting and picnic tables.

The city manager is to obtain an estimated cost on updating the city's master plan in order to determine if an application can be made this year for a grant from the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation. A master plan update is required in order to apply for the money.

The council approved installation of a crossing tube and deepening a ditch requested by Fred Wright.

Approval was given to a contract with the Iosco County Department of Public Works accepting the city's share of financing expansion of the water system in the Tawas and Baldwin Township. To finance its share, representing 39.81 percent of the total project, approximately $9,000 is to be raised by taxes and the remainder is to be financed through an increase in water and sewer rates.

A petition was presented by Lyle Healey requesting the city to investigate the possibility of establishing an alternate route to the post office parking lot. It was suggested that private property owners be contacted to determine if such a route could be developed from Mathews Street to the rear of the post office property. One portion of the property involved is owned by the city and easements would be required from two private property owners. The matter was referred to the planning commission for study.

Fire Chief Herbert Blust was present and requested that the council give consideration to replacing overhead doors on the fire department's section of the city hall. At the present time, one fire truck is parked at a different location. Discussion was held on future replacement of a fire truck and the matter is to be considered further at the budget meeting.

A report from the Trio Council on Aging stated that the drop in center at the Jesse C. Hodder American Legion Post has provided considerable service to senior citizens during the past year. The location is rented through a joint arrangement between city councils of Tawas City and East Tawas. During the past year, the center has served 6,000 meals, provided information to 849 persons, had social activities involving 913 persons, provided transportation for 813 persons and 1,314 persons had been involved in recreational activities.

Bicentennial Group Given Official Status

At the request of Tawas Area Bicentennial Committee, Tawas City

Council Monday night named that organization as an official committee appointed by the city council. A similar request is under study by the East Tawas Council.

A letter from Clyde Soper, bicentennial committee chairman, addressed to both councils, said that development of a bicentennial program in the Tawas from June 26 to July 4 had reached a point where official status was needed by the organization.

Soper's letter indicated that committee members were reluctant to continue serving due to the individual liability involved in sponsoring a program without adequate insurance coverage. He expressed the opinion that the program was designed to benefit both communities in the observance of the nation's 200th birthday and believed that private citizens should not be burdened by sponsorship of a public program.

The Tawas City Council authorized its insurance carrier to meet with representatives of the committee to prepare liability insurance coverage for various portions of the program to be held in this city.

The East Tawas Council instructed Soper, who is city clerk, to contact the Michigan Municipal League to determine what methods of insurance coverage are being provided in other communities.

Tawas Hospital Auxiliary Observes National Hospital Week—May 9-15

Tawas Hospital Auxiliary, founded in 1947, has joined in the May 9-15 observance of National Hospital Week.

Membership in the organization, now numbering 83 women, is open to all women of the area who wish to serve the hospital and to make it a little more comfortable for patients.

An auxiliary member may choose to be active or inactive—an inactive member supports the group in its money raising projects, while active members hold office, work within the hospital, assist nurses, deliver mail and newspapers. They may work outside of the hospital to chauffeur patients, run errands and tend the gift shop at the hospital.

Auxiliary workers on the floor of the hospital wear smocks and are known as "Pink Ladies." Some of the duties of these workers include carrying trays, feeding patients, making beds, taking magazines and books around to various rooms, sorting and distributing mail, reading and writing letters and visiting with lonely patients.

Members are proud of the organization's gift shop, which requires long hours of planning, buying, pricing and selling under the direction of a volunteer manager. The shop provides necessary items for patients, plus gifts for guests to purchase. Income from the shop has been one of the auxiliary's best sources of revenue. Other projects include a soft drink machine and photography equipment in the nursery.

The organization's one main event of the year is the stag and doe card party each November. Local merchants and friends lend support to the affair.

Pink ladies provided 3,446 hours of service in the hospital during 1975 and 1,500 hours were spent in patient related service outside the hospital. More than 5,000 hours were spent in raising funds, 125 hours in educational courses and 650 hours were donated in executive areas.

Equipment purchased by the auxiliary for the hospital during 1975 totaled $3,181.43. Included was a solution warmer for the operating room. This is a cabinet designed to answer heating and storage needs in the hospital's surgery, obstetric room and the emergency rooms. It provides an ample supply of flaked, sterile, distilled water and isotonic saline, ready for immediate use. It heats blankets, sheets, patient utensils and instruments.

In addition, the auxiliary purchased a pediatric crib which offers greater safety devices, durability and improvements never before available. The crib consists of chrome plated steel and anodized aluminum. The well being of a child has been carefully planned in all its features.

A fetal monitor was presented to the obstetric department. This machine offers the monitoring during various stages of labor of both mother and fetus. A relatively recent technique, it provides ultrasound to the obstetric team and has overcome the disadvantages of examinations and other methods previously used.

A cast cutter and attached plaster vacuum were purchased. This equipment provides a quick, effective means of removing casts and taking care of the plaster dust in complete comfort.

In addition, the auxiliary purchased a polo board which offers cervical stabilization. This board is included in the ambulance equipment and is used to firmly secure patients with cervical spine injuries and to enable the ambulance attendant to move the patient quickly and comfortably to the hospital.

Happiness to auxiliary members is knowing the hospital's needs and serving.

KKK

Iosco's Innocent Bigots

THE KU KLUX KLAN, which was formally disbanded in 1944, was reorganized following World War II. The new organization connection with the Klan which was active nationally in the 1920s.

Hidden away in some local attic or dust-covered trunk is a white hooded uniform which, to the casual observer, would appear to be a leftover from some Halloween costume party of years gone by. Like the child's "spook costume," with holes cut in an old bedsheet for eyes, ears and mouth, the hooded costume protected the wearer's face from view. The similarity between the costumes ends there, however, as the ghostly apparition provided by the old bedsheet was mere child's play; the hooded uniform was worn in a spirit of intolerance—in the style of the 1920s—which ran the gamut of violent bigotry.

The flowing white robe with visored cowl was the official uniform of the Ku Klux Klan, an organization which had no direct connection with the terrorist group in Southern States following the Civil War, but it did perpetuate the uniform of the older group, its spirit of intolerance and its thirst for violence. The distinguishing feature of the later Klan, however, was its national basis and its inclusion of Catholics, Jews, radicals and foreigners, in general, as objects of its intolerance.

This story could not have been written and published about 50 years ago, unless the editor wished to risk possible economic reprisal from members of the secret order or even awake some night with a cross burning in front of his doorstep. That actually did happen in 1927—the editor of The Tawas Herald awoke one night to find a cross burning on the lake shore in front of his establishment. Reports were received from other parts of the county that crosses were burning on hillsides.

The editor was an unlikely subject for such a demonstration by the KKK, whose very motto was "Americans for Americans," but he later learned that burning of the cross in Tawas City was not intended for anyone in particular—"it seemed it was the thing to do," a friend confided to him the next morning. Embarrassment to the new Klansmen, however, after realizing the implication of the demonstration, caused a lack of interest in the local klavern.

The Ku Klux Klan, organized in Georgia in 1915 and later expanded into a national organization, had its roots in rural areas and grew into a national rabble-rousing tirade with racial overtones; it attacked what it termed the moral breakdown of urban centers and recounted the virtues of the American pioneers—"all Protestants of Nordic stock."

Stressing white supremacy and American purity, with its mumbo jumbo rituals, the organization conducted statewide membership campaigns and gained many influential persons from all walks of life into its folds—including members of the clergy. The person selling the membership card retained $4 as his commission and this made the opportunity most interesting for a good salesman.

A few of Iosco's residents became active Klansmen, but many took on an anti-Klan attitude immediately after initiation. That was understandable as a man cannot be induced to fear the neighbor near whom he has lived many years in peace and harmony.

By 1927, the Klan believed it "spoke for the great mass of Americans of the old pioneer stock," with a national membership of four-million persons. The organization became a national political force, using scare tactics and reprisals to keep nonmembers in line.

Iosco County was host in 1927 to 1,500 to 2,000 Michigan Knights of the Ku Klux Klan on July 2, 3 and 4 at Sand Lake. The Klonvocation took on the air of an old fashioned picnic or outing at the popular inland lake resort area of this county; Klansmen were registered and, during the evening, a "get acquainted with your neighbor meeting took place," according to a July 8, 1927, report in the Herald.

As part of the program, about 75 cars went on a sight-seeing tour through the national forest and to the AuSable River. One evening was taken up with initiation work by a Saginaw degree team, which stressed lodge rituals with pomp and splendor. Officials of the organization bore such titles as Grand Dragon, Hydras, Great Titans, Furies, Giants, Kleagles, King Kleagles, Exalted Cyclops, Terrors and members were referred to as "Citizens of the Invisible Empire."

A special feature of the 1927 meeting was a parade of Klansmen and Klanswomen dressed in full regalia, marching or driving cars through East Tawas. Several hundred persons were in the demonstration and music was furnished by two Klan bands. One spectator recalls that a large United States flag was stretched flat and carried by four hooded marchers. Persons along the parade route were asked to throw coins on the flag as donations to the movement.

"Not many of the local members took part because the KKK is an invisible movement," reported the Herald, "and thus, wherever there is a parade, the local remain invisible."

Some of the local Klansmen, however, did take part in the parade and were nearly laughed off the street when recognized. One local politician, since deceased and who will remain anonymous in this article, was immediately recognized when he clomped along Newman Street. "Why there's Charlie," was the immediate response of spectators standing along the curb. That marcher and others immediately dropped out of the parade and disappeared.

Principal speakers at the Klonvocation held later that night at Sand Lake, which included burning a cross at a climactic moment, were from Detroit, Saginaw, Bay County and even Washington, D. C., assisted by "local invisibles." A secret language was used in the ritual, which added to the mystic aspect of the proceedings.

To conduct its hate campaign, the Klan used high pressure sales tactics to increase its strength and its coffers, selling the traditional white robes to its initiates, along with watch fobs, rings, stickpins and pocketbooks. Sales of regalia and klavern equipment netted large profits for the movement, much of which found its way into the pockets of its high officers.

The Klan took an active part in the national presidential election of 1928, which pitted Herbert Hoover, a Republican, against Alfred E. Smith, a Democrat, and one of the most popular governors in the history of the State of New York. The Klan pounded on the theme that Smith was a Roman Catholic and "would be controlled by the Pope," along with his anti-Prohibition views, but the radio probably beat the "Happy Warrior" and not the Klan. Fundamentalist Americans, generally, were afraid of anyone who had a New York Tammany Hall background and there was no mistaking Smith's Lower East Side speech pattern when he was heard over the radio.

Hoover won the election with 444 electoral college votes to 87 for

Smith; here in Iosco County, the traditionally Republican vote was given to Hoover, 1,870 to 550, but he suffered an ignominious fate a year later when the Wall Street crash precipitated the Great Depression.

The Ku Klux Klan did not spawn or originate bigotry and intolerance in the United States—it only helped to sustain the seeds which were there and are still there—but it is to the credit of this community that the spirit of the KKK never really penetrated the area to any degree. The 1927 episode is the only recorded activity locally of the secret order.

After the 1920s, the Klan lost headway and was formally dissolved as a national body in 1944, because it could not pay $500,000 in back taxes to the federal government. After World War II, and particularly since integration of schools, Klan groups began to appear again in the Southern States, but all denied any link with the old Klan. Its national terrorist activities have apparently been laid to rest and the country is better off because of it.

ORGANIZED following the Civil War, the Ku Klux Klan was a secret organization which was revived in the 1920s.

1776: We lose more than New York.

General Washington forced the British troops out of Boston all right. But he hasn't fared so well in New York. British General William Howe has a military force far bigger and far more experienced than our militiamen. We're disastrously defeated. Our morale is destroyed. We begin a long and dismal retreat. But we have some very special young officers among us. Like Nathan Hale, who offers to risk his life as a spy. He'll act the role of a schoolmaster. Penetrate the British lines. And find out what Howe's next strategic movements will be. We learn later that it may not have been necessary. Howe is a lukewarm enemy. A not too adept general. And he feels smug about his New York victory. Think we'll give up now, and the whole thing will be over. Hale is caught. And as he stands about to be hanged, he utters some words we'll never forget. "My only regret is that I have but one life to give for my country." We lose Nathan Hale. But we'll keep his courage with us. ♀

THE TREES planted as seedlings in 1928 have now grown to a height of 30 to 50 feet and the United States Forest Service plans to start thinning the plantation to promote future growth. In another 40 to 50 years, future generations will enjoy a towering red pine forest on land which was once considered worthless.—Tawas Herald Photo.

REDEDICATION of the Kiwanis memorial and plantation in Huron National Forest was held Friday morning, Arbor Day. The Rev. Alfred Saulsbury, a Kiwanian, is shown next to the memorial giving the invocation to open the program. The plantation, covering approximately 20 square miles, was originated in 1928. The 12,400 acres of red pine provide an important ecological benefit in restoration of top soil and retention of water, as well as beautifying the area through renewing a great natural resource.—Tawas Herald Photo.

MEMBERS of Tawas and Oscoda Kiwanis Clubs started a project of thinning the area around the memorial and will beautify the grounds by planting rhododendrons.—Tawas Herald Photo.

KIWANIANS used chain saws and axes to accomplish the thinning project near the memorial. Seedlings planted 48 years ago today measure six to eight inches at the ground level and have a significant timber value. Some of the trees removed Friday will be utilized for lumber.—Tawas Herald Photo.
