

County Rejects PW Application

Terming proposed expansion of the county medical care facility as being inappropriate at this time, Iosco County Board of Commissioners Wednesday turned thumbs down on an application for federal public works funds.

Iosco Department of Social Services had requested permission to submit a letter of intent for federal public works funds to construct an addition to the medical care facility.

A resolution from the county board of commission rejected the proposal "due to the uncertainty and extremely remote possibility that federal public works funding would be available for expansion of the medical care facility."

In addition, the commission stated there was an absence of documentation for expansion, considering the imminent construction of a 117-bed facility by private sources, plus the incurrence of a $5,000 obligation by the county for architectural services. "Consideration of an application at this time for an expansion project is not warranted," stated the resolution.

It is expected that Provincial House, Incorporated, will make an announcement shortly concerning construction of its private nursing home in Tawas City.

In other business, the commission accepted the resignation of Robert K. Foster effective November 18. Foster, who served as commission chairman, was elected November 4 as supervisor of Oscoda Township.

Little Theatre Plans Workshop

The Tawas Little Theatre will meet Thursday, November 11, 7:00 p. m., at the Tawas Area High School. Cast members and anyone interested in working on costume, scenery, lighting, props or publicity committees for the upcoming production of "The Wizard of Oz" are asked to attend. Times and places of the workshops individuals signed up for during auditions will also be discussed.

"Wizard of Oz," the world famous musical comedy, based on a fanciful tale of the same name that has been delighting generations of children and adults, will be presented at the Tawas City Elementary School by the Tawas Little Theatre for three performances beginning January 21.

The version to be presented here is not the old 1902 version but an up-to-date version prepared by Frank Gabrielson, author of the popular "I Remember Mama" series on television.

Based on a successful movie adaptation of 1939, it includes all the song hits of that version including "We're Off to See the Wizard," "If I Only Had a Brain" and "Over the Rainbow." This production is being directed by Louis Pfeiffer and Margaret Carroll. Choreography is being handled by Betty Kubicak.

Chorus Sponsors Citrus Sale

Tawas Area Chorus members are sponsoring a citrus sale November 5-26. All Tawas chorus students will be taking orders for this fresh Texas fruit. Delivery of the fruit will be made on December 11, in plenty of time for those people who would like to order extra boxes as Christmas gifts for friends and relatives.

Fruit may be ordered through any of the chorus members who will attempt to contact every home in the Tawas. Contact Mrs. Bernard Look at 362-5256; Mrs. George Paitl, 362-3837, or Mrs. Daniel Bergh, 739-8674, to place orders.

Funds raised from the sale of this fruit will be used to purchase equipment to be used by the vocal music departments of the Tawas Area Schools.

School Projects Delayed for Plans

School administrators were instructed Monday night by Tawas Area Board of Education to obtain additional information on specifications and to more fully develop plans for proposed expansion of parking facilities at the high school and completion of a storage building.

Due to the wide variance in bids submitted for improvements to the driveway in front of the school, board of education members believed that administrators should check over information to determine if all contractors were bidding according to the same specifications.

The need for widening the east and west driveway entrances on the property, as well as expansion of the driveway facing M-55 to allow angle parking of buses during loading and unloading, was emphasized by Edward Poppe, transportation director.

Poppe said that angle parking of buses was being considered as a safety factor to eliminate "stacking" of buses in the present driveway. Since the start of the term, bus runs have been expanded from 18 to 31.

Supt. Robert Halle said that widening of the east and west entrances would require removal of two trees, one of which is dead.

Every effort is to be made to protect existing trees between the driveway and M-55.

Also under consideration is expansion of the parking lot on the south side of the property to make room for additional buses, along with improvement to the driveway surface in the back of the building.

The opinion was expressed by Trustee Willard Dillon that the school should consider additional classrooms before money is expended on additional parking.

The superintendent said that $3,000 had been budgeted this year for site improvement and the board of education must make a decision on what is desired.

It is expected that work would now be delayed until spring in order to allow time for development of plans and specifications.

The superintendent reported that two bids had been received on completion of a storage building at the rear of the high school. This structure was constructed two years ago and interior improvements are to be made for maximum storage use of athletic equipment, custodial supplies, tools for bus maintenance and a bus repair area.

Because of the wide variance in bids, complete plans and specifications are to be developed for consideration at a later date.

TA Space Needs Discussion Set

A discussion on school space needs is to be held Monday, November 22, 7:30 p. m., at the next regular meeting of Tawas Area Board of Education. The meeting is to be held at the high school and the public is invited to attend.

Supt. Robert Halle said Monday night that a work session would be held to discuss space problems and alternatives to solve them.

In other business, James Russo, chairman of Tawas Area Citizens for Education, announced that the group would meet Wednesday night (tonight), 7:30 p. m., at the high school.

Bids for the purchase of three school buses were opened by the board of education. Bids for bus chassis were: Zuebe Motor Sales, Dodge, $10,343.32 each; William Look and Sons, Incorporated, GMC, $10,681 each; Wieland Corporation, Bay City, International, $10,126 each; Inglis Ford, $11,640 each. Bids on bus bodies included: Superior, $7,121; McFadden Wayne, $7,115; Bluebird, $7,354.

Christmas vacation was established from Friday, December 24, to Sunday, January 2. There will be no school on December 24 and classes resume on Monday, January 3.

Approval was given to sell two non-operating vehicles, a 1968 Ford bus and a 1962 Dodge four-wheel drive truck. Authorization was given to advertise for bids.

The board of education authorized use of school buses to transport fifth graders to the Shrine Circus January 15, at Saginaw. Shriners are to pay for the cost of gasoline and drivers.

Coaches Inexperienced, but Basketball Enthusiasm High

Inability to obtain experienced high school coaches was attributed by administrators Monday night to a number of factors—lack of interest by staff, low turnover of teaching personnel, the difficulty in finding coaches to match openings in academic job slots.

Discussion concerning coaching was brought up Monday night by Randall DeWise, trustee of the board of education, who questioned the administration's decision to hire two young coaches with little experience to head the school's basketball program. However, DeWise quickly pointed out that he was not questioning the ability of the coaches being proposed for hiring.

Supt. Robert Halle said that the administration had a difficult time finding people who would take the positions and he was pleased to have someone willing to volunteer.

Robert McDonald, junior high school principal, and a former track coach, said that one of the problems faced by all schools in the state was the lack of turnover today in teaching staffs. He said that Tawas Area School's problem was not as difficult as some other schools in the state, which have many former coaches retired from athletics and have remained in the teaching profession.

"Coaching requires a considerable amount of time and people naturally get tired after a few years," said McDonald.

"Coaches wear out, too, and the pay for these positions today has not kept pace with salaries for regular teaching jobs—perhaps all that extra work is not worth it," said McDonald.

John Alexander, high school principal, pointed out that English and French teachers normally are not coaches and his primary responsibility is to hire new teachers to fill academic subjects. "If a coach has the qualifications for these job openings, he would get the nod," said Alexander.

The recommendation of Principal Alexander, Athletic Director James Papenfus and the superintendent was accepted by the board of education appointing Paul Becker as head basketball coach, David Busha as junior varsity coach and Thomas Pinkowski as freshman coach.

Becker was the ninth grade coach last year; Busha, who replaces John Walton, who left the district, is a substitute teacher and was an assistant football coach this fall in his first year; Pinkowski, school counselor, had been an assistant coach in prior years and has long been interested in high school athletics.

Hired as eighth grade coaches were the Rev. Fr. Lawrence Boks, pastor of Immaculate Heart of Mary Church, and Robert Erickson, a high school social studies teacher.

Principal Alexander said that students were enthused about prospects for the school's basketball program for 1976-77. "We have a record number of youngsters turning out for the sport this year. Our girls are doing well, too, in keeping community focus on basketball for the coming winter."

Area Hunting Camp Owner Mauled by Two Trespassers

Mark Defibaugh of Baldwin Resort Road, a retired Tawas Area School teacher, was severely beaten November 3 by two archers, who had been trespassing on his hunting property in Baldwin Township.

Defibaugh told investigating state police that he drove into his camp at 4:30 p. m. to check on the cabin and found two bow and arrow deer hunters on his property. Defibaugh asked the hunters to leave his posted land and was attacked.

Although not hospitalized, Defibaugh was knocked to the ground, kicked in the stomach and was unconscious for several minutes.

State police were notified and checked the area, but the two hunters fled the scene.

Parents of elementary students should call the elementary school for an appointment.

Political Campaign Over---Excellent Turnout in County

After 22 months of campaigning, election year 1976 is now history. In one of the closest presidential races in history, about 80,000,000 voters—representing 53 percent of the country's voting age population—went to the polls, despite predictions to the contrary by national pollsters.

A new team, Pres-Elect Jimmy Carter and Vice Pres-Elect Walter F. Mondale, will head the nation's administration for the next four years as the Democratic Party regained control after eight years of Republican occupation of the White House.

Here in Iosco County, 72 percent of the voters went to the polls on election day. D. Keith Pappas, county clerk, reports that this is not a record as 76 percent of the voters turned out four years ago and slightly more than 80 percent voted eight years ago, but the percentage of voters is still above the state and national averages.

Helping to create added interest for the presidential elections were four state propositions, one county and a number of local propositions, plus sticker candidates at the county and township level.

Only one proposal survived the test of state voters and Iosco County voters were in agreement, adopting Proposal A to ban throw-away beer and soft drink bottles and cans, 7,297 to 2,937. The three other state proposals lost here by wide margins, but a county proposal to eliminate work of the county tax allocation board for the next five years won in a squeaker, 4,846-4,781.

Two sticker candidates fell by the wayside at the county level, but there was plenty of excitement at the township level.

Alabaster Township voters selected two new officers for its board. Robert H. Crawford won over J. Harry Rapson, 137-67, for supervisor. Rapson, the incumbent, lost in the primary and ran on stickers. John H. Weible won over Leona Benson, 129-102, for township treasurer. Mrs. Benson, the veteran incumbent, lost in the primary election for the second election in a row and failed on her second try as a sticker candidate.

Hope Rescoe was re-elected clerk over Jeanne L. Fairfield, 117-115, but a recount will be held in this race. Fannie M. Walstead was re-elected trustee without opposition, as was Harry Wellna, constable.

A write-in candidate, Thomas Trakey, received three votes and qualified as a second constable.

In Burleigh Township, two incumbents with opposition were re-elected. Martin Siegrist won over Melvin B. Wrathell for the supervisor's post, 199-62; Leona Chipps won over Arthur Parkin for trustee, 162-87. Re-elected without opposition were Darrell Colvin, clerk; Peggy Bassi, treasurer.

Burleigh Township voters approved a one-mill tax proposal for five years for a new fire truck, 152-127, but rejected another tax proposal for roads and bridge maintenance.

Ray Kesler will be the new supervisor in Plainfield Township, defeating Robert W. Pember, 777-535. Betty Timmer upset Frances Hansen for the clerk's position, 723-578. Two township proposals were approved by voters. Proposal A asking approval for alcoholic beverages at the township hall was approved, 671-609, while a second proposal asking one-mill of taxes for two years to operate the fire department was approved, 850-400. Sherman Township voters returned John Jordan to the office of supervisor as a sticker candidate. Jordan received 79 votes to 65 for George Strauer and 28 votes for Walter Murringer, a write-in candidate. Harold Parent was re-elected clerk over Mildred V. Letienne, 107-82; Harvey E. Smith defeated Dale Wood for the treasurer's position, 113-78.

There was big excitement in Wilber Township where write-in candidates defeated all but one incumbent officer. Al Mochty Jr. won the supervisor's position from B. William Olsen, 149-89; Opal Mallon won over incumbent treasurer, Francis J. Block, 161-77; David Thompson defeated John Newberry, 141-96. Betty Cross, clerk, defeated Ronald Armstead, a sticker candidate, 119-68.

Grant Township voters re-elected Olen Herriman over Ronald Ponke, 275-178. Voters approved three different proposals by substantial margins for fire protection, garbage removal, road maintenance, highway improvement and reappraisal of property.

In Oscoda Township, Maxine F. Bissonette defeated Stanley L. Kowalski for treasurer, 1,438-1,141. In Reno Township, James Dobson defeated John Webb Jr., a write-in candidate, 134-14, for supervisor. Webb was the incumbent and lost in the primary. Winona Redmond defeated Laura Kaiser, 131-51, for treasurer.

George A. Prescott received Iosco's 5,821 votes and was re-elected in this district to the house of representatives over Patrick Flynn, Democrat, 5,821-4,078. Philip Ruppe won the congressional post over Francis Brouillette, Democrat, receiving a 5,910-3,766 margin in Iosco County.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor: I was invited to be among a group to visit the Bright Horizons center. This school for special children is a cheerful building. The interior is inviting, the play area when finished will be very nice for the students.

As we visited each room, all children were busy. You could tell from their attitude and appearance, they are happy with their teachers and well cared for. When children look at you with a clear face and a smile, you can see "all is right with their world."

Staff members are well educated in their chosen field, competent and work with the children foremost in their minds.

We had a good lunch, the teachers ate with and assisted the children and coaxed some when necessary. They were quiet and gentle with them at the meal and that is an important factor in their work. I enjoyed my visit very much.

Become a Tawas Hosp. Volunteer

With the long winter months stretched out ahead, individuals with spare time are urged to become hospital volunteers. Tawas Hospital Auxiliary in-service volunteers need assistance from 3:30 p. m. until 5:30 p. m. Anyone who is available for a longer period of time would be helpful.

A hospital volunteer is a special kind of person who is dedicated in helping others, providing many extra services that supplement the basic essential functions of the professional staff; services that add to the comfort, care and happiness of the patient.

As an example, a volunteer might deliver the papers, supply reading material, read to a patient, write a letter or just talk to a patient if he or she feels up to it. Delivering trays and numerous other things that are both beneficial to the patient makes a volunteer achieve satisfaction.

Contact Jane Churchill at 352-4525 to discuss volunteer work.

Sunday School Telethon Theme at ET Church

Sunday School Telethon is the theme of the November Sunday school emphasis at the East Tawas Assembly of God Church. It began on Monday evening with a workshop at the church with Sunday school and children's church workers being instructed to call every member of their class on Saturday and remind them of the Sunday school and children's church that is held each Sunday morning at 10 o'clock and 11 o'clock respectively.

During the following weeks of November, teachers and class members will be asked to tell an absentee they were missed, and tell a friend he or she is welcome to meet them in class on Sunday.

The Sunday school and children's church are a vital part of the Christian education program of the East Tawas Assembly of God Church. Christian education and the study of the Bible are considered a very essential part of Christian growth and development.

There are classes for all age groups nursery through adult. Sunday school begins at 10 o'clock. The children's church is held every Sunday morning during the 11 o'clock worship service for children, ages three through eight.

The Rev. Edward J. Fairbanks invites everyone to attend the East Tawas Assembly of God Sunday School during the month of November.

George Kirkham has written a book entitled "Signal Zero." This is the true story of a college professor who was challenged to apply his idealistic beliefs to a policeman's daily life. Temporarily leaving his academic position to become a street cop, his experiences are illusion-shattering.

Braves Closed Season With Loss to Carrollton, 28-6

Tawas Braves lost their third straight game Friday night to end the season with a record of five wins and four losses.

Carrollton Cavaliers made it two in a row over the Braves, 28-6, as Bob Jaremba set a new school record with four touchdowns. Last year, the Cavaliers upset the Braves in the last seconds of play and Tawas shared the NBC crown with Oscoda.

Going into the season the Braves fielded a well-balanced squad, but lacked bench strength. Several key injuries against tough opponents changed the season around after five straight wins. The Braves lost the season opener.

It was all Carrollton Friday night as Jaremba scored on runs of three yards, two yards, one yard and 12 yards.

Mark Fisher scored Tawas' only touchdown of the night on a five-yarder.

Carrollton picked up 17 first downs to Tawas' seven and outrushed the Braves, 327 to 221 yards. Fisher completed three of nine passes and the Carrollton squad intercepted one aerial. Tawas had only one fumble during the night and lost it.

Leading defenders for the Braves were Brian Bradley with five solo tackles and 10 assists, Mike Lear with nine solos and seven assists, and Mike Glancy with four solos and four assists.

Gladwin High School won the NEM Conference Friday night by defeating Whittemore - Prescott, 45-18. The Cardinals trailed, 15-12, at the half, but Gladwin scored shortly after the third quarter opened. Ken Horn of the Cardinals got the Cardinals back in the game with an 85-yard kickoff return, but Gladwin came right back with another touchdown to stay in front.

Hale Eagles Lost, 28-0, to Hillman

Hale Eagles lost their second straight game Friday night and ended the season with a conference record of three wins and three losses.

Visiting Hillman, conference champion with an undefeated record of six games, proved to be too much for the Eagles and registered a 28-0 victory. The victory was the eighth of the season for the visitors against only one loss and its defense allowed only 24 points during the season.

The Eagle defense played up to par during most of the first half, but the hard-running Hillman squad ground out four touchdowns and a safety.

Kurt Sheldon scored a pair of touchdowns for the winners while Kurt Bleech and Bill Hubert each scampered into the end zone for six-pointers. Hubert was credited with a safety when Hale was stopped in its own end zone after making a good stand against Hillman.

Hale threatened to score on only one series during the night, reaching the 13-yard line, but the drive was stopped at that point.

Bleech led all ball carriers with 103 yards and ended the season with 661 yards in 134 attempts. Sheldon added 77 more yards in the air.

Leading defenders for the Eagles were Ken Anderson with 12 tackles and Greg Green with 11 stops, a pass interception and a fumble recovery. Other top defenders included Kelly Wilson, 10 tackles; Bill Bernard, nine tackles; Brian Kreiner, eight tackles; Gary Williams and Fred Lewis, six tackles each.

It was the last game for 13 Hale seniors, Fred Lewis, Tom Bush, Green, Tim Shaw, Kreiner, Brian Denstedt, Gary Bissonette, Bernard, Anderson, Jim Wood, Jay Sestak, Reggie Sapp and Elmer Davy.

Deer hunting is one of Northern Michigan's earliest forms of outdoor recreation, first attracting downstate sportsmen to the region when isolated lumbering towns along the Lake Shore served as staging areas for hunting expeditions into the interior.

Although pioneer lumbermen in Iosco and other northern counties utilized venison to feed workmen employed in their logging operations, that form of hunting is not considered a "sport" in the sense that the meat provided by nature supplemented normal beef and pork supplies, which were shipped into the area by boat.

One of the earliest hunters of record was Charles Harris Sr., who accompanied the Whittemores to Tawas City in 1854 and was a signer of the city's first plat in 1867. Harris Avenue honors the family name of this community founder.

Harris' swivel breech muzzle loader rifle was once the prized possession of the late Harry Rollin and for years was prominently displayed in his service station-sport-

HUNTERS IN THE EARLY DAYS of Iosco County had to be a hardy lot to withstand the jouncing of heavy horse-drawn wagons, which carried men and gear over primitive roads to camps in the huckleberry brush of the back country. This

ing good shop on Mathews Street. This two-shot sporting firearm was used by Harris in his deer hunting forays for lumber camp venison.

A series of pictures snapped in Plainfield Township in the early 1880s demonstrates the role that venison and other game played in supplying food to lumber camps of the Loon Lake area. While camps on Smith Creek were being prepared for the winter timber cutting season, the men were armed with rifles and shotguns to secure a free supply of fresh meat.

One of the earliest hunting expeditions to this region for sport has been well documented through an illustrated story which appeared in the April 1878 issue of Scribner's Monthly. The author, a sportsman-writer from the Eastern United States, pointed out in his account that he was to "join a party of gentlemen, who for several years have hunted on the AuSable River."

The story described the group's trip by steamboat from Bay City to Tawas, the long ride inland by horse and wagon and their hunting headquarters at the famous Thompson farm overlooking the South Branch River in present day Plainfield Township.

"The Michigan forests abound in a variety of game," stated the article. "Bears are quite numerous and there are plenty of wolves; rabbits, Arctic hares and ruffed grouse exist in great numbers, but the elk has almost wholly disappeared from the peninsula."

"The deer of the region is the Cervus Virginianus, or common deer of America, which is distributed over a large area of the continent. It probably attains its greatest weight in Michigan," stated the magazine article.

The author went into great detail to describe all facets of the expedition, devoting considerable attention to the 12 dogs accompanying the party. Use of dogs in the hunting of Michigan's white tail deer was a common practice a century ago, but it was not without danger.

"Natives discourage hunting with dogs, if not, indeed, all hunting in which they themselves do not participate. They place meat which contains strychnine on the deer paths and, when occasion offers, shoot the dogs," stated the article.

Following publication of the story in the national magazine, the editor of the Iosco County Gazette commented in print that the state should adopt legislation prohibiting the use of dogs in hunting deer and was highly critical of unsportsmanlike hunters who followed the practice.

"Hunters going to the north woods are advised to leave their dogs at home, for the woods are said to be full of poison," warned The Bay City Tribune in 1880. "The people in that part of the state threaten to kill all the dogs taken to run deer. A hunting party which went north through this city two weeks ago with 14 dogs returned since with three."

Despite the menacing attitude of the "natives," the story in Scribner's was responsible for bringing other parties of hunters to the AuSable River valley for annual hunting expeditions and, after a direct rail route was opened to the region in 1884, a more convenient form of transportation was provided to bring increasing numbers of sportsmen to the region.

Several news items concerning area deer hunting appeared in November 1884 issues of The Tawas Herald. Stated one item: "The election has given the deer a little rest, most of the hunters from the outside having returned to cast (See DEER HUNTING, page 6.)"

MICHIGAN'S first deer hunting legislation allowed each hunter to kill five deer, later amended to three deer. The state's one buck law was not enacted until 1921. This unidentified East Tawas hunter, probably a businessman, poses with his trusty 1894 Winchester lever action rifle and his kill of two bucks and a doe.

Michigan National Leader Enforcing Support by Fathers

Michigan again led the nation during the last fiscal year in efforts to enforce child support payments to Aid to Dependent Children families.

According to figures just released by the United States Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Michigan collected a total of 53.6-million dollars. Since the cost of collecting this money totaled 7.1-million dollars, the net savings to taxpayers comes to 46.5-million dollars. John T. Dempsey, Michigan Department of Social Services director, points out that Michigan was one of the first states to implement a child support enforcement program. "Our efforts have consistently been rewarded with no less than a five-to-one return on the dollars invested in enforcement." Child support collections in ADC cases are paid directly into the state treasury to help offset public assistance costs.

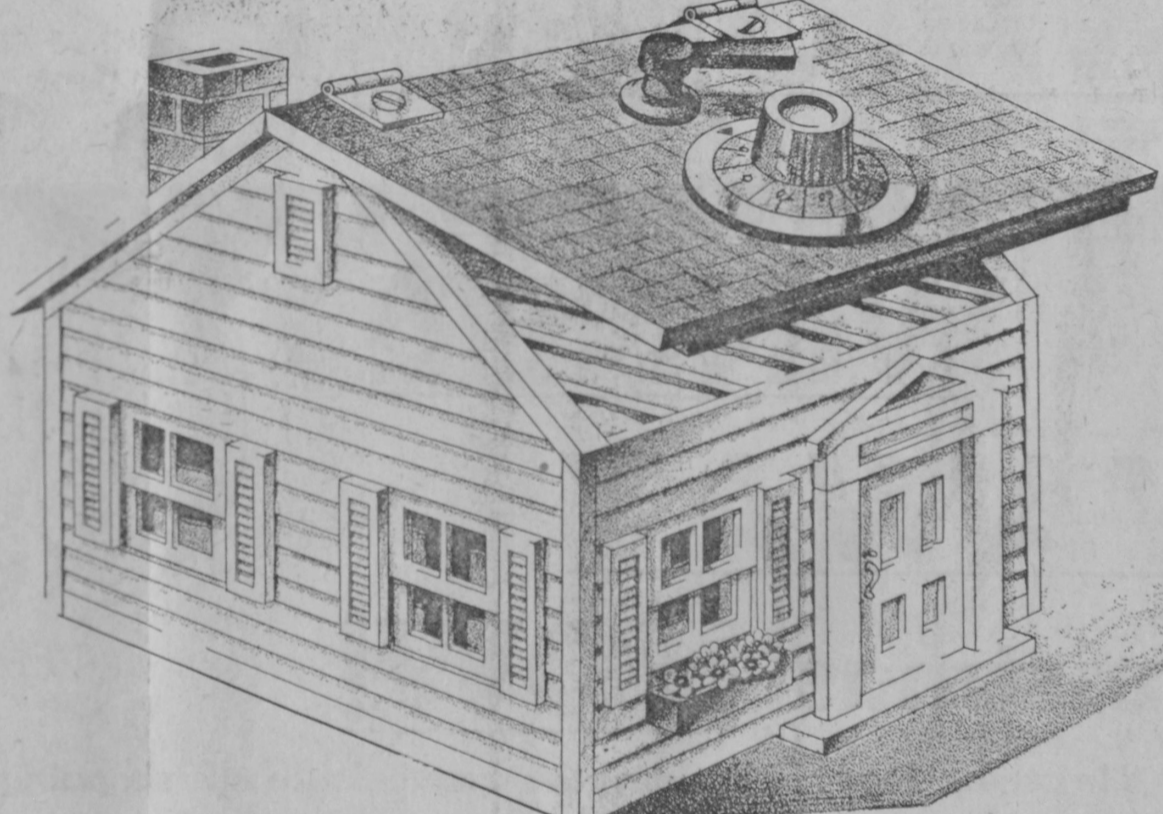

HEW estimates that about half the absent parents of ADC children are financially able to provide child support and their failure to do so costs more than one-billion dollars a year in welfare payments.

Nationally, the states reported more than 280-million dollars in child support collections on behalf of ADC families during the 11 months ending June 11. Program costs amounted to 134-million dollars with the federal government picking up 75 percent of the cost.

HEW figures also show that Michigan collected 20 percent of all child support payments in the United States involving ADC families; accounted for 42 percent of the incentive payments to ADC families and 60 percent of the incentive payments to counties.

These incentive payments are a share of the child support collections returned to counties and to ADC families themselves in return for their participation in the program.

Save up to $75 in your attic this winter.

Insulate!

Nobody likes higher Gas bills, including us at Michigan Consolidated. But because the cost of Gas we buy from our suppliers has gone up, your Gas bills will be higher this winter than they were last year.

So it makes sense to stretch each dollar's worth of Gas just as far as possible, and to keep your Gas bills as low as you can. One way to do this is by insulating your home.

Once again, Michigan Consolidated is offering a low-cost Home Ceiling Insulation Program designed to conserve Natural Gas and save you money.

Since the program's introduction nearly three years ago, more than 115,000 of our customers have installed ceiling insulation, and have cut their home heating costs by as much as 17% each year. Based on expected Gas prices for this winter, this means a customer who has not yet insulated may be able to reduce his annual heating cost by as much as $75, starting immediately.

If you do the job yourself, you should be able to buy insulation for a home with 650 sq. ft. of attic space for about $125.00. That means you'll probably save enough Gas to pay for the material in less than two years. Our free Do-It-Yourself Insulation Handbook tells you how. Pick one up at any of our customer business offices or any participating retail outlet. Or call or write, and we'll mail you a copy.

If you'd rather not do the job yourself, one of our participating insulation subcontractors can. The cost? About $250.00 for homes with less than 1000 sq. ft. of ceiling area. You can pay cash. You can pay 20% down and pay the balance without interest over your next three Gas bills. Or you can make extended payments at an interest rate of 1% per month on the unpaid balance (ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE OF 12%).

So why not save money in your attic this winter with our low-cost Home Ceiling Insulation Program? We'd like to help you cut your heating costs, and we'll both be working to save our country's valuable Natural Gas supplies.

We do care about your tomorrow.

Veteran's Day to be Observed Nov. 11

In homespun twill, they faced their deadly duty on Concord Green, on Bunker Hill and at Valley Forge. In contrasting shades of blue and grey, they fought each other to cure a deep division in the American soul. In soldier's khaki, navy blue and marine green, they fought in two World Wars, unassuming heroes in search of an elusive lasting peace, and they and their sons fought again in Korea and Indo-China. They stood to the colors when their nation called. They are America's veterans. Veterans Day is their day. And the half-million men and women of the Disabled American Veterans, the DAV, are proud to be numbered among them.

EARLY DAY LUMBERMEN supplemented the salt pork fare of lumber camps with fresh meat taken from the wilds. This party of men was snapped in the 1880s at the Loon Lake dam house, located at the head of Smith Creek and owned by the Smith brothers, pioneer Plainfield Township lumbermen. The picture was taken in the early fall as the party of men prepared camps for the winter's work. George Smith, nephew of one of the owners, is seated at left and holds a double barrel 10 gauge shotgun. The gun had been given to his uncle, L. B. Smith, county sheriff, by Iosco County Republicans in 1878. A nice buck hangs on the wall at left, while a doe and two drying deer hides are on the front of the building. Wild game hanging on the wall includes seven ruffed grouse.

Deer Hunting

their votes. The sport will now commence again in dead earnest. Deer hunters continue to come in daily, some of them from Detroit."

An article dated November 6, 1884, stated: "On the first instant, James McIvor, with his favorite rifle, killed a large buck before the dogs at a distance of 35 rods and 10 feet (nearly 200 yards), aiming at the shoulder and breaking both of them. Mac likes the gun."

Another article that year indicated that catering to deer hunters was becoming an important business to local inn keepers. "Quite a large hunting party from Saginaw City, East Saginaw and Syracuse, New York, put up at the Bay Side Hotel last Tuesday evening on their return from Long Lake where the men have been spending the last two weeks enjoying a successful hunt and a pleasant time. Twelve fine deer were shot, which have been shipped to various parts of the state."

During the early days, the deer range of Iosco County was practically confined to the area along the AuSable River, reports Arthur Leitz, retired conservation officer. "When I was a youngster, deer were so scarce in Wilber Township that my father and his hunter friends had to walk all the way to the head of Buck Creek or to the Potato Knobs (present site of Lumbermen's Monument) to find some tracks. It was really something when someone shot a buck."

During the early 1900s, Michigan still had a law allowing a hunter to take three deer in one season and it was not until 1921 that the one-buck law was enacted.

A number of Tawas residents, along with the sportsmen from surrounding townships, established hunting camps in the huckleberry brush of Baldwin, Wilber and AuSable Townships in the early 1900s. Included were Emil Kunze of East Tawas, John Bay of Tawas City, James Thompson of Wilber Township, Ernest and James McDonald of Oscoda. The McDonalds put together one of the largest blocks of land, comprising 16 sections in AuSable Township and has since been split into some of the finest hunting parcels in the region.

Deer hunting as a statewide sport started to come into its own in the 1920s with development of highways through Northern Michigan. Prior to development of the automobile, deer hunting was not indulged in by the average hunter, who confined his sport to rabbit and other small game. Except for those living in the deer country, big game hunting involved too much time, expense, energy and hardships.

Recreational pursuits changed with the development of good roads and the automobile, which brought the "frontier" to the city dweller's back yard. The automobile eliminated heavy packs, sleeping on the ground or riding all night in a horse drawn wagon to catch a boat or train.

In the early days of this county, deer were rarely seen near the Tawas. As a youngster growing up in Wilber Township, Leitz recalls that William Wendt Sr. of Tawas City, an avid hunter and sports fisherman, would walk to the Leitz farm about five miles distant and then hunt all day. Armed with his lever action 45-90 Winchester rifle, Wendt would stay on a fresh track left in the snow in the farming area and would often track the animal until it reached the AuSable River—a distance of about 12 miles.

During the more than 35 years Leitz served as a conservation officer, starting in 1928, range of the deer and numbers comprising Iosco's herd changed rapidly due to natural causes. As forest land matured with lessening amounts of browse, the deer moved into wooded areas near farming country where food was more plentiful.

The deer herd rapidly expanded in size and into areas where white tails had not roamed for years. "In 1928, deer rarely were seen south of M-55," said Leitz. He attributed the large deer population today in Alabaster Township to a fire in 1929 which burned off 3,000 acres of brush land west of United States Gypsum's quarry.

The deer herd of Iosco County probably reached its peak in 1941, but hundreds of deer died that winter of starvation in AuSable Township when natural food supplies proved insufficient. Improved fire protection measures over the years, coupled with an ever-expanding number of deer camps, saw the deer habitat decline as forest and brush areas matured.

Popularity of deer hunting has increased tremendously since World War II and, while federal state forest lands today are not as productive as during the late 1930s, pulpwood cutting operations in recent years have improved the deer habitat.

Many large blocks of land assembled by hunting groups in the 1930s have since been sold off for numerous individual hunting camps. The valuation of timber cutover or recreational property continues to increase each year, along with property taxes.

The hunting shack of the 1920s and 1930s has given way to modern cabins and all season dwellings, equipped with the latest conveniences of urban living.

The contrast between modern day and old time hunting practices were noted more than 35 years ago by R. E. Prescott of Lincoln in his "Historical Tale of the Huron."

"Any reader of middle-age," wrote Prescott in 1940, "can remember when deer hunting was the sport of the hardy few who not only endured, but enjoyed, primitive life in the deer camps—and in those days camps were primitive—a log hut chinked with moss, or perhaps a tent, with cedar boughs and a few blankets for a bed and a fire in front for cooking and heat."

In a nostalgic tone, Prescott commented: "The hunters got their deer in those days and they earned them." Times and hunting practices have changed, but the comradeship in a modern hunting camp probably has not changed since the winter nearly 100 years ago when the sportsman-writer from the East joined "a party of gentlemen" for a deer hunting trip on the AuSable River.

POSING WITH A BLACK BEAR killed on the outskirts of East Tawas around 1905 were two veteran hunters of the early days. William Sims at right dealt bruin a death blow with the axe and Jack Sims, left, backed him up with his Winchester repeating rifle. This was not a particularly sporting proposition, for Sims was surprised by the bear while cutting wood.

The new 1952 DeSoto is on display today at Cowan Motor Sales, Tawas City.

35 Years Ago— November 14, 1941—Every fire line and road in the woods will be guarded Saturday morning by alert red-coated nimrods. There has been every indication that the usual number of deer are in the woods and that hunters, about 177, 759 in the state, will have a good season again this year. Last year, hunters killed 51,713 bucks and nearly 800 bears.

With an increasing demand of "Food for Defense," Iosco County farmers are being asked to do their part in increasing the milk production of dairy cows by approximately eight percent. It is also hoped that the number of cows in milk will be increased by approximately four percent.

Local committee workers are asking Iosco County people to recall the work of the American Red Cross in the first World War, pointing out the growing of national defense. Mrs. D. Arthur Evans, chairman of production work for the Iosco County Chapter, states that more than 263 garments have been completed by women of the county for civilians in the war torn countries of Europe.

Members of Jesse C. Hodder Post, American Legion, and their wives, held their annual autumn party in the shelter house at Silver Valley. A supper of army "slum," baked beans and pumpkin pie was served. The "slum," prepared by Post Cook Leonard Bouchard and his KPs, was enjoyed by all.
