FALL DAYS are becoming crisper as daylight hours shorten and the season will soon turn to winter. There was a bountiful harvest on Iosco County farms and the land will "rest" for a few months to be renewed for another growing season in the spring. Thoughts of some area residents will turn to the deer hunting season and winter sports. For others, winter means only costly heating bills; some residents will head south for the winter.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Would Expand Iosco County's DART Transportation System

Proposed expansion of the Iosco County DART bus transportation system is being proposed by the Trio Council on Aging and the Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation. A three-bus system is presently in operation.

In a presentation to the county board of commissioners Wednesday, Mrs. Lee Hicks, Trio Council director, said that a preliminary design system for six full-time buses had been developed by the department of state highways and transportation.

First year costs for this new system would amount to $227,700, which includes $96,000 in capital outlay to be paid by the state, $2,000 in capital outlay paid by the county and start up operations of $6,500.

Cable Firm 'Unaware' of Local Complaints

Stanley Wooten, manager of the Oscoda office of General Television of Michigan, Monday night told members of the Tawas City Council that he was not aware of "any big problem" with cable television service in this community.

The council had requested Wooten to appear before the council concerning complaints over cable television reception registered with individual members of the council. The firm operates in this area under federal license and a city franchise.

Wooten stated that the firm is presently realigning amplifiers which boosts the television signal received by cable subscribers, numbering between 600 and 800 in this community. He said this would account for loss of pictures at certain times. He said, too, that additional equipment was being installed on the main antenna to improve picture quality. Repairs are expected to be completed within 30 days.

Cable subscribers with complaints should contact the firm's Oscoda office, according to the council.

Fall Cleanup

Present Site Plan for New Kroger Store

Plans for a new Kroger Store in Tawas City were revealed at Monday night's meeting of the Tawas City Council. Site plan for the new 143 by 176-foot structure has been approved by the city planning commission.

At its last meeting, the planning commission recommended to the city council that it vacate a portion of River Street which separates two parcels of land for site of the new store.

Requested by Dr. John D. Le-

Clair, owner of the property, the present 18-foot paved portion of River Street would be widened to 30 feet with blacktop surface. The west 20-foot strip of the 60-foot-wide right-of-way would be vacated as well as a 10-foot strip on the east side of the street.

The widened portion of River Street would continue as a city street, but the vacated portions would be used for parking.

A public hearing on the proposed vacation of portions of the above street is to be held Monday, November 1, 7:30 p. m., at the city hall. All interested persons will be heard. The proposed new store building, to be constructed directly north across US-23 from the present Kroger Store, would have 25,168 square feet of floor space.

The 143 by 176-foot building would be located on the westerly side of the property, which has frontage on both US-23 and Court Street between Wheeler Street and extending the width of one lot east of River Street.

A parking lot for 185 cars would have four entrances, one off US-23, one off Wheeler Street, one off Court Street and one off River Street. Court Street would provide an alternate route to First Street or M-55, avoiding traffic on US-23. The site plan shows that parking would be provided north of the curb and sidewalk along US-23 from Wheeler to River, as well as along both sides of River Street and on lots east of River Street recently obtained from Jesse C. Hodder American Legion Post and the former Cavell residence.

The block bounded by Wheeler and River Streets was once occupied by three large residences owned by the Prescott family and have since been razed.

Council Rejects Fence Offer

Richard Learned, owner of Learned Ornamental Iron and Fence Company, Tawas City, successful bidder recently to provide a new chain link fence across the outfield at the baseball diamond on North Street and First Street, Monday night asked the city council to purchase fencing which he had ordered for the project.

The city park board had authorized advertising for bids to install the fence and, after accepting Learned's low bid of $1,881, installed, recommended that the city council authorize the purchase. After discussion at its last meeting, the council voted five to two not to purchase the fence at this time.

The fence had been under consideration for several years by the park board and federal revenue sharing money was to have been used to finance the project.

At the last meeting, councilmen expressed the opinion that further study should be made at the baseball field to determine if a fence across the outfield was desirable. In addition, it was felt that the baseball field property might be moved to some other location at a future time and that the present property could be used for other city purposes, perhaps as a fire hall-library complex, or possibly even a new city hall.

Learned said he had assumed he had received the bid and had ordered the fencing, which was now on hand. "I am sitting here with a whole lot of fencing that I can't use," stated Learned. He said that the fencing was of the industrial type and not for residential use.

He said he would sell the fence to the city at a cost of the uninstalled price, $1,596, less 10 percent.

Learned said that he had not understood that the request to bid on the fence was a "speculative" arrangement and, had an estimated cost been requested, he would have given one to the city.

Mayor Herbert Cholger, along with members of the council, pointed out that the park board had authority to accept bids and make recommendations, but the city council was the final authority on a capital purchase for the city.

"If you were not authorized by the city council to purchase the fence, you made a mistake," said the mayor. The council rejected Learned's offer to purchase the unfenced fencing. The opinion was expressed that the city does not have adequate funding to stockpile fencing, as requested.

Learned asked the council to remove his name from the list of bidders for city purchases.

Propose Addition to MC Facility

Iosco County Department of Social Welfare has proposed that the county make application for federal public works funds to construct a proposed 70-bed addition to the Iosco County Medical Care Facility.

Roy Bergstrom, medical care facility director, told members of the county board of commissioners Wednesday that there is a need for 50 long-term care beds and 20 self-care beds in this county, even if Provincial House, Incorporated, carries through with its proposed private nursing home in Tawas City. The county medical care facility presently has 64 beds and is filled to 100 percent of capacity.

If approved for public works funds, designed to relieve unemployment, the project would be funded 100 percent by the federal government. Architectural cost, however, would be borne by the county.

Bergstrom said that plans would be developed in such a way that a second floor could be added in the near future.

List of Potential PW Projects Narrows; Application Planned

Tawas City's list of potential applications for federal public works funds has narrowed after the city manager and the city's engineering consultant reviewed regulations pertaining to qualifications of projects.

City Mgr. Reginald Bublitz told members of the city council Monday night that all regulations are still not available and it appears that applications must be submitted between October 25 and November 1 for final federal action on December 15.

Prospects for 100 percent federal funding under this program "do not look as good now as they did in the beginning," stated Bublitz.

A review of numerous projects under consideration revealed that bridge construction probably would best fit in the time table for submitting an application, but timing is still a problem.

Although storm sewer construction would qualify under federal regulations, the city would be required to pay the cost of final engineering plans immediately. A special council meeting may be called this week to authorize Edmands Engineering Company to complete the plans, which could be used at a later date should federal money not be received.

The city manager said that the bridge replacement program probably had the best chance for approval as plans for wooden bridges are readily available. However, the bridge project would require approval by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources. The last time Tawas City filed plans for bridges at Matthews Street and First Street, approval was not received from the DNR for seven months. It was thought that state approval could be expedited by the city manager hand carrying the application to Lansing, along with possible assistance from area legislators.

Under consideration is replacement of bridges over the Tawas River at Whittemore Street, a bridge over Dead Creek at Sixth Avenue and a new bridge over the river at North Street.

It was felt that plans could be expedited for a fire hall-library-city hall complex application by contacting local suppliers of metal buildings to determine if such plans were available. This is to be done by the city manager.

Bublitz said that a street resurfacing program would probably not comply with regulations as it would be impossible to start construction during the winter months. State approved plans would also be required.

The city manager was of the opinion that Tawas City would have a good standing in the point scoring system used to approve applications, if preliminary work on applications can be completed in time.

Larcenies included the following complaints: David Bird, Tawas City, theft of a citizens band radio from a car; Harold F. Britt, Pigeon, theft of a citizens band antenna from a truck parked in Tawas City; Stephan Baldwin, Long Lake, two bank books stolen from a car; Louis Stopyak, East Londo Lake, theft of a canoe; Plynm Shellenbarger, Hale, theft of a dog.

Only 10 Percent of Goal Reached

As of Friday, Irene Dickey, executive secretary of the Tawas-Whittemore - Hale Community Chest, reported that approximately 10 percent of the $17,311 total goal had been reached.

Expectations are high for the current week and Ray Kesler, chairman, has extended the drive beyond the October 15 deadline in the hope that the goal will be met during the next week.

First to report with completed returns was Grant Township. Norma Worsham, chairman, and her three workers, Rita Armstrong, Colleen and Dale Frank, made returns on Friday and exceeded the expected goal for the Grant Township area.

Additional workers are needed for the campaign. If interested, telephone the community chest office, 362-8324, any afternoon on Monday through Friday.

For those persons who have not been contacted for a pledge, contributions will be accepted at the chamber of commerce office or a telephone call will bring a volunteer.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

The following is based on a circuit court case in Iosco County on September 29-30.

Four pieces of property that had been surveyed for more than 40 years (only 15 is the law) were changed enough to almost destroy one of them. These properties were surveyed two times a very long time ago and three dwellings and one business building had been built more than 20 years ago. One house with an attached garage had a common boundary with the business building.

The survey line was established between the business building and the house more than 40 years ago. Tall pine trees, about a foot in diameter, along with a Consumers Power pole placed exactly on the survey line, with old iron stakes a few inches from the pole, are still there as mute testimony of the intent of the property owners. The owners were well satisfied with the line for more than 20 years.

The opposing lawyers, to influence the court, talked about non-existing ditches between the two driveways. Each driveway had gravel on its road bed and this raised the driveway a matter of three or four inches and that is the only thing that ever resembled a ditch.

The decision of the court was based on this statement: "Long established occupational lines are not to be disturbed by recent surveys,"—Daley vs. Gruber, 1960; Tarrants vs. Goudie, 32 Michigan, 432-436.

Now that the property lines have been moved west, there is no yard space between the house and the new survey line of 1973. All zoning boards require from four to 20 feet of yard space; the court even disregarded this item. The garage will have to be torn down and the driveway will have to be moved because the survey stake and the cement monument marker will be in the place where the front and rear wheels on the right side of the car would have to occupy while going into the garage.

All that was gained by the court case is that a cost of more than a thousand dollars has already been charged for lawyer fees alone. Very likely there will be much greater losses, because of the cost of removing the garage, possibly building another if a permit could be obtained, repairing the end of the house where the garage had been attached and a loss of not being able to sell the house, which had been in the final stage of a sale before the last two surveys in 1973 blocked the sale. Now it cannot be rented or sold without a great deal of unexpected expense.

Each home will be contacted by only one group of children so individuals are urged to give generously.

Film Showing Set at TC Church

A midwestern insurance salesman, highly successful in his secular business but only moderately competent as a witness to his Christian faith, decided to incorporate sales principles in his witnessing. He shared what happened with free lance writer, Bernard Palmer, and the result is the motion picture, "Master Controlled," which will be shown at First Baptist Church, Fourth Avenue at Second Street, Tawas City. The presentation on Sunday, October 24, is scheduled at 7:15 p. m. and will be preceded by an all-church supper at 6:30 o'clock.

The 60-minute color drama follows the experiences of Brad and Deb, typical of the young laity in the evangelical church. They want to witness, to deny religious phobias in any dimension and together discover what can happen when the Christian is controlled by a power outside himself.

Tawas Little Theatre Sets Stage Tryouts

Parts will be available for both children and adults. Also needed are a piano player and an assistant director.

Casting of roles for both children and adults present an excellent opportunity for family involvement in a community theatre atmosphere.

Workshops will be held to assist cast and crew in basic techniques of make-up, costuming, simple choreography, etc.

Public Hearing on New College Bill

A public hearing on a bill that would place every resident of Michigan in a community college district will be held on Friday, October 22, at the Capitol at Lansing.

The hearing on Senate Bill 1080, the Community College Redistricting Bill, will be held at 10:00 a. m. in the senate appropriations room (302).

The intent of this legislation is to place every Michigan resident in a community college district so that students attending community colleges in the district in which they live would pay resident tuition rates. Out-of-district tuition rates would only apply to students coming from another district.

Presently, if a student lives outside a community college district, he or she must pay a higher rate of tuition because in-district residents support community colleges with a property tax.

Included in the bill is a provision that would allow a community college board of trustees to impose an additional tax of up to 1 1/2 mills on real estate without a vote of the people.

This legislation represents a significant change in the community college districts. If a community is not presently included in a community college district or if the district levies less than 1 1/2 mills for community colleges, enactment of this bill could cause property taxes to increase.

All persons interested in this concept are urged to attend the public hearing and let their feelings be known.

Waterfront Convention Center Development Has Possibilities

Discussion Wednesday over the possibility of filing for federal public works funds to construct an area convention center brought out the information that a privately financed center is under consideration.

Among those appearing as a committee appointed by the city council to meet with the county board of commissioners in regard to a federal application was L. G. McKay, Tawas businessman.

McKay said he had been "toying" with the idea of seeking location of a Holiday Inn on his Tawas Bay waterfront property in Tawas City. He announced that he had hired the services of an Ann Arbor land use planner to look at the property and the planner was making an on site study Wednesday.

McKay said that should his plan for a Holiday Inn not materialize, he would give serious consideration for use of the property as a publicly financed convention center being considered by local officials.

In his remarks before the county commission, McKay pointed out that his parcel of land from the Kroger Store to the Tawas City Park—which includes the former Barkman Outfitting building and the former McKay Chevrolet Sales, but excludes Fletcher's Texaco Station, contains more than 700 feet of frontage on Tawas Bay and is one of the most unusual parcels on Michigan Great Lakes waters.

He believes that Tawas Bay is one of the best bodies of water on Lake Huron for a development such as he has in mind. "There is really nothing like it for good swimming, safe boating, sail boating and fishing," said McKay. He said that Saginaw Bay at Bay City and Au Gres is not adaptable, the water of Lake Huron is too cold at Oscoda and Harrisville and there is too much industrial pollution at Alpena and Cheboygan. "We have the best water on the Great Lakes here at Tawas and, up to this point, we have really not made complete utilization of it," he stated.

McKay declared that he was going to use his property "to the best of my ability." He said he was willing to utilize the land for a convention center, perhaps under a lease arrangement with local government. He urged the committee appointed by the city council to remain active in its efforts to secure a convention center.

He pointed out, however, that should he "land" a Holiday Inn, a convention center is usually incorporated in the over-all design of such a facility, the extent of which is determined on the number of rooms provided.

Parking is one of the big problems attending a convention center complex, stated McKay. He said it was for this reason he had hired a professional planner to make a study of his property.

Although the property seems to be of adequate size for both construction of a facility and parking, McKay said he was continually being surprised when attending conventions in other areas. "The amount of blacktop required for a large convention center is enormous," he stated.

After a study is completed on land use, McKay said he would be meeting with city officials to determine possible use of that portion of the city park containing tennis courts for parking purposes in conjunction with his property. McKay said he could visualize a Holiday Inn overlooking Tawas Bay which would make use of the waterfront for small craft and would be a great asset to the entire region. He pointed out that the area has a number of natural and physical attractions—Tawas Point, Huron National Forest, the AuSable River, the AuSable River Queens and Lumbermen's Monument, along with golf courses, restaurants, shops and other business places, but he said that more attractions were needed to make this area a truly outstanding convention center.

"A drive of one-half hour from Tawas will take one to practically any point in Iosco County and the importance of such a facility to the entire area is easily recognized," said McKay.

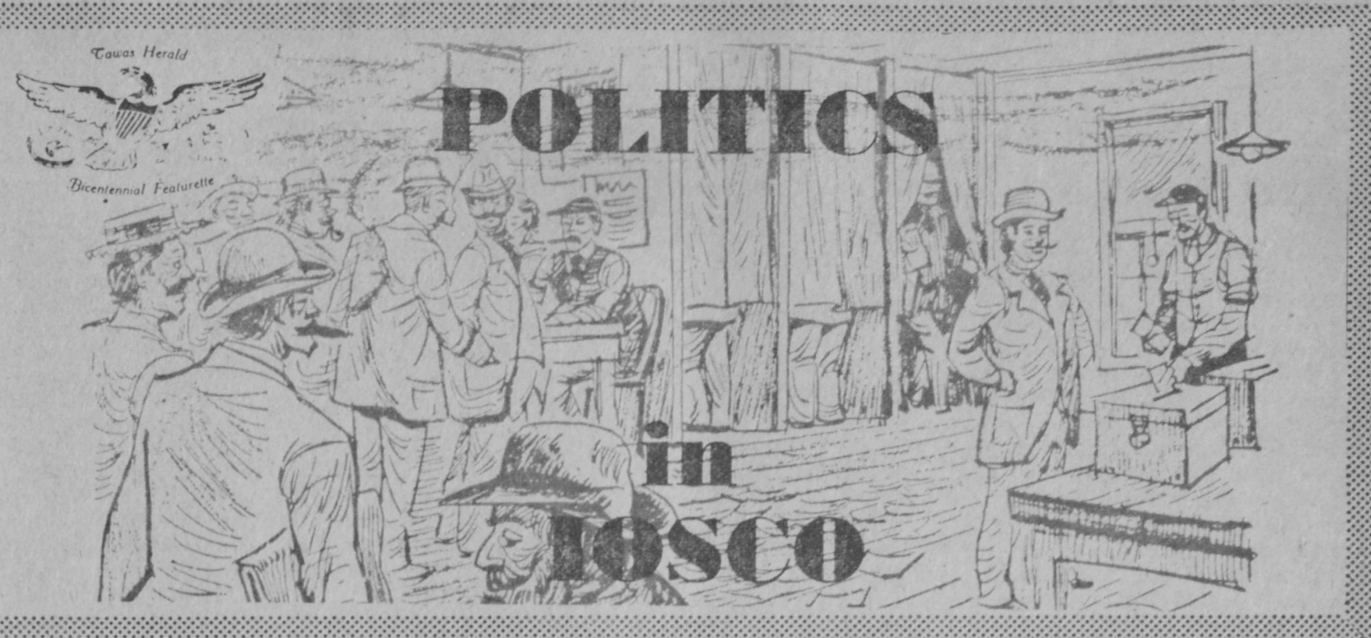

City representatives along with county commissioners reacted to McKay's remarks with enthusiasm and pledged support in any way possible toward his undertaking.

Barber Shop Quartet Meeting

"The wheelbarrow market must have taken a boom since the election on account of the numerous bets to be paid by the loser wheeling the winner in a barrow for the edification of the public."

This news note in the November 13, 1896, issue of The Tawas Herald points up a generally recognized fact: Despite modern electronic communications and millions of words written about candidates in the nation's press, today's voters generally take a rather blasé attitude toward politics.

People of today are a little too sophisticated to get emotionally involved in a presidential election—national pollsters have helped to take care of that with usually correct pre-election predictions—and what voter would subject himself to the humility of wheeling another between the Tawas in a wheelbarrow to pay off an election bet?

The last time that happened was in November 1932, when the late Edward Libka of Tawas City settled his election wager by wheeling Henry Patterson in a wheelbarrow from Mathews Street to the D&M car shop and back, a distance of about four miles. Libka was placarded with the legend, "I Lost on Hoover."

To say that Iosco County residents took their elections seriously would be to put it mildly. In one election held in the 1870s, for instance, the City of AuSable's election board apparently did not care for the results of an election. A fire broke out in the election polls and all of the ballots were destroyed shortly after the count was made, but before figures were officially recorded. Firemen were mystified as to how the blaze could have been confined to the paper ballots. In another election at AuSable, the ballots simply disappeared on election night.

Few people realize today that the secret ballot was once unknown in Michigan politics. One of the important early reforms was the adoption of the Australian ballot for voting in elections. Previous to the passage of laws in 1889 and 1891, each party provided ballots on which were printed the names of its candidates. With this system, it was easy for political bosses to see how each man voted and to punish him if he used the wrong ballot.

A secret ballot had been demanded for years, but men who profited from controlling elections vigorously opposed any change and declared that it was cowardly to sneak behind a curtain to vote. "Every red-blooded American," they asserted, "should be proud to

A GRAPHIC ILLUSTRATION of a major change in voting procedures is demonstrated here by D. Keith Papas, Iosco County clerk. He is shown holding one of the large general election ballots which voters will receive November 2. At the lower left is a strip of three identical "tickets," listing state and local candidates, which were cut apart and used by voters in the 1870s. Today's ballots are printed at the expense of local government; prior to laws of 1889 and 1891 adopting the Australian type of ballot used today, individual candidates or parties bore the cost of printing and distributing ballots. There was no voting secrecy or "split" tickets in the latter system which led to election control by political bosses. —Tawas Herald Photo.

let everyone know for whom he cast his ballot."

Laws of 1889 and 1891, bitterly opposed by an influential minority, provided for a ballot printed by the state or local government which contained the names of all candidates. The voter marked his ballot in a booth, folded it and saw the clerk deposit it in the ballot box.

This law made it more difficult for bosses to control the vote. Later election laws provided that only an "X" could be used to mark a ballot, outlawing unusual marks placed on ballots by voters, which supposedly could be counted later by political bosses in order to pay for votes.

Another change in elections has been the disappearance of political torch light parades, a means of arousing local interest in a national election. No torch light procession was complete without a number of transparencies held aloft on poles—a box like frame covered with white cotton cloth or paper on which had been printed some catchy phrase like "A full Dinner Pail," used in the McKinley-Bryan campaign of 1896.

The election that year brought about one of the most unbelievable incidents in Iosco County's political history. Edward V. Esmond, a prominent Plainfield Township Democrat, believed in and advocated the free coinage of silver and was a supporter of Bryan. He delivered a rip-snorting lecture at a large Democratic rally held at AuSable.

Republicans in attendance called Esmond's views on the silver question "insane" and, on July 6, 1896, Sheriff Thomas Cox took Esmond into custody at Hale, delivered him to the prosecuting attorney in Tawas City and he was hustled off to the Traverse City State Hospital "without proper examination by two physicians or hearing in probate court," as was later alleged.

Esmond was held at Traverse City for four weeks until the embarrassed superintendent of the institution decided Esmond was not insane. Upon his release, Esmond immediately went to Lansing to lay facts before the governor regarding the allegation that political "pull" was the cause of many detentions in state institutions and he delivered several lectures on the subject during his stay at Lansing.

Despite considerable publicity and support by Lansing newspapers, Esmond never gained satisfaction or redress from Iosco County officials.

Local newspapers, too, had a great deal to do with arousing interest in elections. In a Republican dominated county, the press of Iosco usually espoused the policies and candidates of the GOP—but not Michael Murphy or Len J. Patterson, early day editor-publishers of The Tawas Herald, who were dyed in the wool Democrats and vigorously supported their party. Political word "fights" were numerous between early day journalists, much to the entertainment of readers.

Before the days of the primary election, nominees for party offices were chosen by local party conventions and the caucus often became a place of great strife. Supporters of each candidate were on hand and great excitement often preceded the final nominations. The outcome of many nominations was often decided in the local saloon, where free liquor often flowed freely at caucus or election time. This was the reason for the law which once closed liquor establishments on election day. The law has since been repealed.

Despite some drawbacks in the caucus system, something was lost in the local political scene when party caucuses were discontinued by state law in 1964 and Tawas City held its first primary election to name candidates for city offices in 1965. (The 1970 city charter eliminated party politics entirely from city elections and candidates

IN THE SERVICE—

Participates in NATO Exercise

Army Pvt. Gordon G. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Smith, Tawas City, is one of the thousands of American and Allied troops who took part in NATO Exercise Reforger 76 in Germany.

Reforger 76 was two separate major field training exercises conducted in the States of Bavaria and Hessen, Germany. It included participating elements of NATO forces of the United States, Belgium, Canada and Germany.

Different from past reforgers, this year a United States based unit was deployed to Europe with its equipment instead of picking up equipment already stored. Belgium, Luxembourg and the Netherlands are playing an active part in receiving and deploying equipment from areas in their countries.

Private Smith is regularly assigned as a finance specialist in the 101st Airborne Division at Ft. Campbell. He is a 1975 graduate of Tawas Area High School.

David Smith Promoted by AF

The United States Air Force has promoted David E. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Smith, National City, to the rank of staff sergeant.

Sergeant Smith is serving at Pease Air Force Base, New Hampshire, as an avionics systems specialist.

The sergeant is a 1968 graduate of Tawas Area High School, Tawas City.

Kundinger Now Master Sergeant

Robert L. Kundinger, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Chester J. Kundinger Sr., Oscoda, has been promoted to master sergeant in the United States Air Force.

Sergeant Kundinger, a special purpose vehicle technician, is assigned at Wurtsmith Air Force Base, with a unit of the Strategic Air Command.

The sergeant is a 1955 graduate of Arthur Hill High School, Saginaw.

Participated in Track Meet for the Blind

Elizabeth Miller, student at the Michigan School for the Blind in Lansing, participated in the annual track meet for blind students, sponsored by the North Central Association of Schools for the Blind at Northern Illinois University, DeKalb, Friday and Saturday, October 8-9.

Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allan C. Miller, was one of 300 students from the 12-member, state-residential schools participating in the meet. Each school sent both a boys and a girls team to compete in regular track events including running heats, shot-put and high jumps.

The visiting students and their coaches were hosted by the staff and students in the departments of special education and physical education at NIU.

Reports for Household Workers Due by Nov. 1

Quarterly wage reports and social security contributions for household workers are due by November 1, according to social security officials here.

"If you pay a household worker $50 or more in cash wages in any 3-month calendar quarter for work around your house, you must send a report of the wages and the social security contribution to the Internal Revenue Service within one month after the end of the quarter," a social security spokesman said.

Quarters are January-February-March, April-May-June, July-August-September, and October-November-December.

Wage reports and social security contributions for the third quarter of 1976 are due by November 1. The date would be October 31, but that falls on a Sunday this year.

The reports may be filed on a form available at any Internal Revenue Service office—Employer's Quarterly Tax Return for Household Employees (for Social Security).

Under the current social security contribution rate, the employer and the employee each pay 5.85 percent of covered wages.

Social security contributions help build retirement, disability, survivors, and Medicare protection for 1½ million household workers, including maids, cooks, cleaning women, gardeners, handymen, and babysitters, according to the spokesman.

People who employ household workers can get a free copy of the leaflet, Social Security and your household employee, at any social security office.

questions and answers

Q. What must I report to social security after I start getting SSI payments?

A. Report changes in your income, resources (things you own), living arrangements, and marital status. Your eligibility for SSI will be reviewed by social security periodically to make sure you are getting the right payment amounts. But it's up to you to report any changes between those reviews.

Q. I'm 65 and when I retired in February, I told social security my earnings from my part-time job wouldn't go over the $2,760 limit for the year. However, I got a raise and now expect to earn $3,300. Should I notify social security?

A. You should notify social security about your earnings change without delay to avoid getting benefits you would have to pay back. If you earn over $2,760 in 1976, $1 in benefits will be withheld for each $2 in earnings over $2,760. But no matter how much you earn for the year, you can get your full social security benefit for any month in which you neither earn over $230 nor do substantial work in your own business.

Q. I'm a student and hope to get a temporary holiday job. Do I need a social security card for such a short period of work?

A. You need a social security number if you plan to work in a job covered by social security (nine out of 10 jobs are covered). If you don't have a social security number, you should apply for one soon at any social security office.

Q. My husband's job provides three-fourths of our family income and my job one-fourth. Since my children aren't dependent on me, could they get social security payments on my record if I became disabled or die?

A. Unmarried children under 18 (up to 22 if full-time students) or unmarried sons or daughters who became disabled before 22 can get monthly social security benefits when either parent gets social security benefits or dies after working long enough under social security.

Local Leaders Get Additional Time on Impact Statements

Informal public hearing on the two draft environmental impact statements released September 3, originally scheduled for October 13, has been rescheduled for Monday, November 8, at the Oscoda Area High School Auditorium. The presiding officer has the option of continuing the hearing on November 9, if necessary.

Local civic leaders in the Wurtsmith Air Force Base area requested the delay in order to allow them more time to prepare their statements.

The public comment period on both statements has correspondingly been extended. The public now has until October 24 to submit written comments on the statements to Dr. Billy Welch, special assistant for environmental quality, office of the secretary of the air force, or the chairman, Environmental Protection Committee, Headquarters, Strategic Air Command (DEP), Offutt Air Force Base, Nebraska.

Purpose of the informal hearing is to assure that all relevant environmental factors and all socio-economic assessments were considered and fairly stated in the draft statements. Both written and oral comments made by individuals and group spokesmen will be reviewed by the decision makers in Washington when they assess the environmental consequences and alternatives of the proposed action.

Col. William M. Klesert, Wurtsmith AFB commander, will be briefing officer at the November 8 hearing. He will present a summary of the environmental statements and process and then answer any questions those present may have. The hearing will then be turned over to the presiding officer, Col. Harold W. Gardner, chief trial judge of the USAF Trial Judiciary, Washington, D. C.

At the hearing, individuals will be allowed up to five minutes and group spokesmen will have up to 10 minutes for oral comments. Written statements, in addition to or in lieu of oral presentations, will be accepted and are encouraged at the hearing.

Copies of the draft environmental statements are available at libraries in the Tawas area, Oscoda and at Wurtsmith. Copies may also be obtained by writing to the Office of Information, Wurtsmith Air Force Base, Michigan 48753.

UNEMPLOYMENT AND WELFARE—Jobs have to be provided for all local residents. By encouraging industry it would reduce unemployment and our welfare rolls.

SCHOOL FINANCING—Financing schools by property tax must be changed. Schools should be financed by state money with local control remaining in school district.

SMALL BUSINESS AND FARMERS—A program to encourage small business to stay in business and old farms to go back into production. A program for small farmers is a must because we do not want our farming industry to be controlled by large farmers like the oil industry.

Numerous Third Parties Have Fallen Along Political Roadside

Voters in the November 2 general election will again receive a "bed sheet" ballot, but an even larger paper ballot would have been required had the state elections commission not petitioned the court for a ruling on the eligibility of third parties.

In the August primary election, voters were asked to designate which of the so-called third parties were desired on the November general election ballot. Four parties were listed including Socialist Labor, Socialist Worker, Communist, United States Labor Party and Libertarian Party.

The only party not receiving enough votes to qualify for an election vignette and designation on the ballot was the Communist Party, although this party will appear on some ballots in the down state area.

A further complication arose when the state supreme court determined that the independent candidacy of Eugene McCarthy will appear on the ballot for president and, until another supreme court ruling, the matter was further complicated by the fact that the American Independent Party considered splintering into two factions, each requesting a separate listing on the ballot.

In the latter case, the state supreme court ruled that the American Independent Party would appear on the ballot, but if it splintered into two groups, no names would appear on the ballot.

These court decisions concerning third parties were necessary because of the mechanics of the voting system: While paper ballots can be expanded to meet the requirements for larger ballots, being limited only to the size of a printing press, present voting machines can only handle up to nine different party designations.

The nine parties listed on the November general election ballot in Michigan are as follows: Democratic, Republican, American Independent, Human Rights, Socialist Labor, United States Labor, Libertarian and independent candidacy, which the supreme court ruled was not an actual party, but allowed Eugene J. McCarthy to run for president.

Eight political parties appeared on the general election ballot four years ago and few people probably even noticed the other parties strung out to the right end of the ballot. Some, like the Socialist Labor and Socialist Workers, along with the Communist Party, are familiar names which appear year after year; others mean nothing to the average voter.

The Human Rights Party, which sports a rhinoceros as its emblem, was new to the ballot four years ago. New parties this year include the United States Labor Party, which has an earth moving machine as its emblem; the Libertarian Party, which is designated by a black arrow within a square, and Eugene McCarthy's emblem, which utilizes an American flag with a bicentennial '76 theme.

While these unfamiliar parties attract little attention for Iosco voters, down through the years a few have had a significant role in national presidential elections.

Probably the best remembered third party in American political history was the Progressive or "Bull Moose" Party of Theodore Roosevelt. In 1912, Roosevelt, who had retired from the presidency, became disenchanted with policies of Pres. William Howard Taft and sought the Republican nomination. When he did not receive approval of enough delegates at the regular national convention, Roosevelt—a "bull moose" in politics and, hence, the special designation—organized his own party. Republicans that year were split between Taft and Roosevelt, enabling a former Princeton University professor, Woodrow Wilson, to win the general election.

There have been some other notable elections in which a third party played a definite role in choosing a president, the most recent being the American Independent Party formed by George Wallace in 1968, which splintered the Democrats and severely hampered Hubert Humphrey's efforts in the South.

Some other significant third parties included Strom Thurmond's Dixiecrats of 1948 and Robert LaFollette's Progressive Party in 1924.

Other parties which attracted considerable attention during the early years of this century included the Prohibition Ticket, which gathered many voters into its folds and elected candidates to many state offices around the country—but never a president;

the Socialist Party under Eugene Debs, which attracted nearly one million votes in 1920; another party of long standing is the Socialist Labor Party, which was renamed from the Working Men's Party formed in 1877.

Some of the parties which fell along the wayside over the years include the American Labor Party, Commonwealth Party, Farm Labor Party, Liberty Party, Peace Progressives, Workers Party, Proletarian Party, Freedom Now Party, Constitutional Democrats, Protestant United Party, Independent Progressive, The Third Party, New Politics Party, etc.

Third parties are not expected to have much effect on the outcome of the November 2 presidential race between Gerald Ford and Jimmy Carter, despite the fact that a one-time presidential nominee is running under special designation.

An Apple a Day . . .

... May or may not keep the doctor away. But crisp, crunchy apples are one of the nicest parts of fall. Even though controlled atmosphere storage has made apples available year-round, they still taste best when munched outdoors, on a crisp October afternoon, with leaves falling.

Jonathan, McIntosh, Northern Spy and Delicious are the "big four" apple varieties in Michigan. Jonathan is the most versatile Michigan apple; is excellent for eating fresh and making applesauce. Both Jonathan and McIntosh are good for baking, pies and in salads.

Red Delicious apples are excellent for eating fresh and in salads; good for applesauce. Northern Spys are excellent for pies, sauce and baking. Many people think it is the best pie apple.

Here is an apple recipe to try.

APPLE-CHEESE COBBLER
4 cups apples, pared and sliced
1/3 cup sugar
1 tablespoon quick-cooking tapioca

1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup water
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 cup flour
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
2-3 tablespoons shortening
6 tablespoons milk
1/2-1 cup shredded sharp cheddar cheese

Combine first seven ingredients in a saucepan. Cook over low heat, occasionally stirring gently, until apples are almost tender.

Preheat oven to 425 degrees Fahrenheit.

Mix flour, baking powder and one-fourth teaspoon salt thoroughly; mix in shortening with pastry blender and fork until well blended. Stir in milk slowly.

Turn dough out onto a lightly floured surface and roll into an eight by 10-inch rectangle. Sprinkle with cheese. Roll as for jelly roll and cut in one-half inch slices.

Pour hot apple mixture in 1/2 quart baking dish. Arrange dough slices on top of apples. Bake 20 to 25 minutes or until lightly browned. Makes six servings.

DALE BRUMFIELD, who served from 1962 to 1976 as a member of the Hale Area Board of Education, retired from the board effective July 1 and was honored last night (Tuesday) at a dinner party given by the board of education. He had served at different times as president and treasurer. Brumfield is to remain as a member of the Iosco Intermediate School District Board of Education.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Smokey Says

Not playthings—neither for adults or children. Use care with fire starters.

Nobody likes higher gas bills. Including us.

This winter, the prices we must pay our suppliers for Natural Gas are going up. These price increases to us will mean higher prices to you. That's as much a concern for us as it is for you, because we're very much aware of the problem of paying higher gas bills.

How much are bills going up? If the weather is the same as it was last year, bills for most customers will be up an average of 30%. But of that 30% increase, Michigan Consolidated keeps nothing of the additional money you pay. No extra profit . . . nothing to meet increases in our other costs. Every penny will go toward the higher prices we'll have to pay for the Natural Gas we supply you.

We recognize that the reasons for these higher bills may be difficult for you to understand. But today it costs more than ever to find and produce Natural Gas. After investigating these costs, the Federal Power Commission, which establishes the price for all the gas that comes into Michigan, authorized producers to begin charging as much as 200% more for their gas at the well. In addition, the price for the gas we buy from Canada at prices set by the Canadian government is increasing significantly. But in the long run, we believe higher producer prices now will lead to more gas supplies being discovered and brought into production, and will help to insure the continuance of an adequate supply of gas for our homes, stores and places where we work.

We're telling you this now, so you can plan ahead for your higher bills. You can help to reduce your gas consumption and save money by insulating, dialing down and making sure your gas appliances are in top working order. Although it may not be possible to actually reduce your gas bills, you will be saving money by using less gas. You may also want to join our Budget Payment Plan and reduce your peak mid-winter bills by leveling out your remaining payments between now and next July.

Michigan Consolidated is dedicated to the task of keeping Natural Gas your best energy value and insuring that we maintain adequate supplies well into the future. We'll also continue to research and develop cost-saving programs that will be to your benefit. We do care about your tomorrow.

Politics

for city offices now file nomination petitions and are chosen at a primary election without respect to any political designation.)

National elections always brought out great interests locally and the courthouse in Tawas City has traditionally been the scene of much election night activity—after telephone communications reached the region. Prior to the telephone and the earlier telegraphy system, results of an election were often not known locally until the receipt of a downstate daily newspaper—and it often required days of waiting before a presidential winner was determined.

With the advent of telephone communications, the local practice was to set up a large "tote board" in the corridor of the courthouse and the county clerk would post results of national and state elections as they were received. County Clerk Russell H. McKenzie always had a large board on one wall of the main corridor in the old courthouse in the 1930s and early 1940s upon which were posted the latest results.

Although the "tote board" in the county building has disappeared, the county clerk's office is still the central headquarters for receiving results for local races on election night.

In recent years, attendance at the county building has diminished considerably on election night—voters with the least inclination toward politics remain in their homes to watch and hear national presidential results over television. Through the use of modern electronic computers, accurate projections on presidential races are given over television long before voters even mark their ballots in some western states—and long before paper ballots are counted locally.

Election night interest today at the county building is limited to local and state races and, with a number of "sticker" candidates listed in township elections and one at the county level, plus interest in state races and local millage proposals, election night '76 on Tuesday, November 2, should see the county building corridors packed with political die-hards.

Despite the millions of words spoken and printed during the months preceding the election, the battle will be over on November 3. Yet in no country in the world have elections ever been marked by a greater degree of good will than in the United States—a tribute to the good sense and love of the American people.

The following words printed in The Tawas Herald following the 1896 presidential campaign are still worthy of consideration: "America is the one country in which all believe that the ballot is the instrument of a freeman's will and in which all loyally and heartily abide by the result."

WITH THE DEVELOPMENT of the photo engraving process in the 1880s, political candidates made wide use of portraits in newspaper advertising and other campaign materials. A few of these old-time political "cuts," which have withstood the rigors of many campaigns, are shown here. The political picture in campaign advertising is still popular today.

Tawas City Residents:

Property Appraisal Review

Scheduled October 27-28-29

Tawas City residents interested in reviewing property appraisals recently completed by Gem Survey for tax purposes are invited to attend public hearings at the city hall on October 27, 28 and 29.

Representatives of Gem Survey, City Tax Assessor Ronald Turner and members of the board of review will be available for discussion.

Hours for the first two days of the hearing will be from 9:00 a. m. to 12 o'clock noon and from 1:00 to 5:00 p. m. On the third day, hours will be from 1:00 to 5:00 p. m. and from 7:00 to 9:00 p. m.

New property appraisal cards have been prepared by the St. Clair survey firm, which conducted the city's first appraisal more than 10 years ago. The council authorized a new survey earlier this year when Turner was hired as city assessor for both Tawas City and East Tawas.

Each property owner has received by mail a statement showing the valuation on real estate proposed by the tax assessor using information supplied by Gem Survey following a complete reappraisal conducted in the city.

The new assessments would be used as the basis for determining 1977 taxes. At the present time, all real estate in the city receives a factor of approximately 12 percent which is multiplied against current tax assessments. This factor was brought about through the equalization process at the county level in which the state tax commission determined that the factor was necessary to bring Tawas City assessments up to state equalized valuation.

As a result of this over-all factor, some property may have an assessment in excess of actual state equalized valuation at the present time and it was for this reason that the city council determined that a complete reappraisal was required.

"THANK YOU"

Iosco Co. Voters to Decide Pegged Millage Proposal

One local proposal to go before voters at the November 2 general election has received little publicity; in fact, the proposition was overlooked when ballots were ordered and a "rush" order had to be placed in order to meet voting requirements.

The proposition in question concerns "separate tax limitations" and was authorized by the county board of commissioners on recommendation of the Iosco County Tax Allocation Board.

This may be the first time in history that taxpayers can vote for a tax issue that will not cost them any money, but it will need some explanation, for taxpayers who do not understand a proposal usually vote against it.

What the county board of commissioners propose is to "fix" the millage under the control of the tax allocation board for a period of five years. This would mean that the 15 mills of taxes which are distributed annually by the tax allocation board would remain unchanged for the next five years.

Members of the board of commissioners feel that "fixed millage" is mighty important for it would save money by simply eliminating the cost of the tax allocation board, save money by not having the county and school boards spend time developing a tentative budget for the tax allocation board and then redoing the work at a later date when each knows how much money will be received, eliminate inflated budgets prepared for allocators which would tend to curtail spending.

Having the tax limitation pegged at specific amounts would mean that schools and the county would know the exact amount of millage to be received from the annual allocation of 15 mills of taxes. It is emphasized that there would be no increase in the millage rate if this proposal receives voter approval.

Official wording on the ballot asks: "Shall separate tax limitations be established for a period of five years, or until altered by the voters of the county, for the County of Iosco and the townships and school districts within the county, the aggregate of which shall not exceed 15 mills as follows:

County of Iosco, 4.50 mills; townships, one mill; intermediate school district, .25 of a mill; school districts, 9.25 mills. (A school district located entirely within a city or charter township shall receive in addition millage equal to the township millage.)

The above proposal is identical to the allocation made by the tax allocation board last spring and its approval has been endorsed by all governmental units concerned.

Braves Beat OH; Meet Gladwin Gs in NEM Showdown

Tawas Braves made many mistakes Saturday, but still managed to spoil Ogemaw Heights' homecoming, 25-7. The Braves are undefeated in five straight games and are to host Gladwin Friday night in a showdown for conference leadership.

Tawas lost little time reaching the scoreboard in the first half when Neil Warner scored the first of his two touchdowns during the afternoon. The conversion attempt failed and Tawas held a 6-0 lead.

Warner's second touchdown came on a 54-yard run in which he sidestepped three Ogemaw Heights tacklers.

Quarterback Mark Fisher unlimbered his passing arm on the next series and connected on three aeriels to End Bruce Glancy and two passes to End Clare Earl. He found Dennis Revord open on the endzone and hit him with a touchdown pass.

Fisher scored one touchdown on a quarterback sneak from one yard out. Jerry Grack booted one conversion out of four attempts during the game.

Tawas dominated first half action with 75 yards rushing to 36 yards for the losers. Warner totaled 100 yards in the second half. Fisher completed nine of 11 passes for 108 yards. Ogemaw completed two of three passes for 16 yards and had one intercepted.

Jim Reetz got Ogemaw's only touchdown on a one-foot plunge with eight seconds to go in the game. The Falcons now have one win and three losses in the NEM and two wins and four losses for the season.

Rex Halstead made 13 tackles and Glancy was in on 12 tackles.

Friday night's game with Gladwin could decide the NEM championship. The Flying Gs, with a record of three wins and no defeats in conference play, were upset by Clare in a nonleague game Friday night. The Braves have four conference wins.

Hale Eagles Back on Winning Trail

Hale Eagles rebounded from their first loss of the season a week ago to defeat Atlanta, 46-0, Friday night in a conference game. Hale now has a record of five wins and one loss.

It was Hale all the way at Atlanta as Tom Bush scored three touchdowns for the winners. His first six-pointer came on a five-yard play to cap a 70-yard drive, the second was a 13-yarder set up when Fred Lewis blocked a punt and the third came when he intercepted a pass and ran 70 yards.

Others scoring were Greg Green, two touchdowns; Brian Denstedt, who scored from one yard out after Hale took the opening kick of the second half and drove 60 yards; Terry Allen, a 17-yard run.

Points after touchdown were converted by Bill Bernard, three, and Mark Braun, one.

Rick Weaver led in offense with 136 yards in 13 carries. Green had 67 yards in 10 carries and Terry Allen had 60 yards in six carries. The Eagles had a total of 338 yards on the ground and picked up 30 yards in the air.

Bernard and Chuck Nichols each recovered a fumble while Bush had two pass interceptions and Kreiner intercepted one aerial.

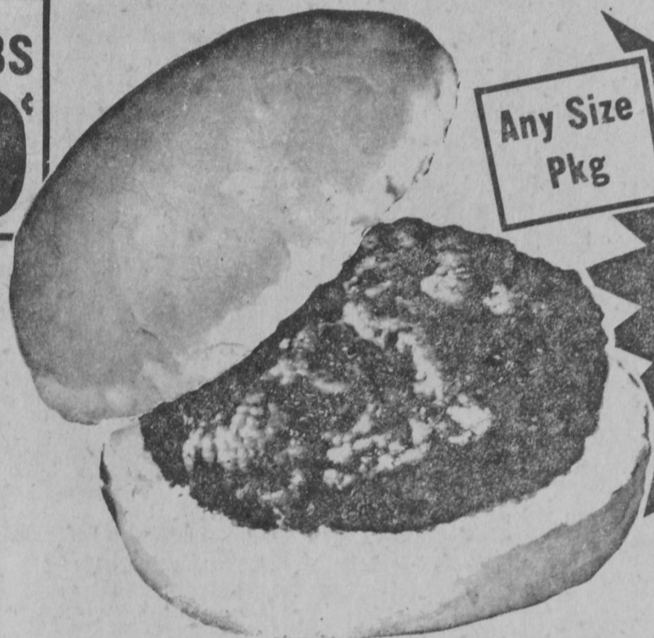

Green and Gary Williams were top defenders with seven tackles each, followed by Lewis, Wilson and Ken Anderson with six tackles inside of Atlanta's 10-yard line.

The Eagles play host Friday night to Arenac Eastern.

Iosco Agricultural Crops Had $3,026,000 Market Value in '74

The market value of all agricultural products sold by the 239 farms in Iosco County in 1974 amounted to $3,026,000, according to a preliminary report of the 1974 census of agriculture released last week by the United States Department of Commerce's Bureau of the Census. Production expenses on these farms totaled $2,513,000 in 1974. The figures are for farms qualifying under the definition first used for the 1959 census of agriculture: "A farm includes all agricultural operations conducted at any time during the census year under the control of an individual management, provided that sales of agricultural products amounted to, or normally would amount to, at least $250 for places of less than 10 acres or $50 for places of 10 acres or more."

Figures for farms with sales of $2,500 or more are shown for 1974 and 1969. These farms accounted for $2,940,000 of all agricultural products sold in 1974 and $2,611,000 in 1969. There were 146 of these farms in 1974 compared with 155 in 1969. The average size decreased from 354 to 324 acres during the five years. The value per acre increased from $172 to $335 raising the average value per farm from $60,885 to $108,543. The market value of livestock and their products on farms of $2,500 or more of sales was $2,271,000 in 1954; poultry and their products, $2,000; crop sales, including nursery products, hay and forest products, $668,000. Farms reporting less than $1,000 in sales numbered 18 in 1974. The value of agricultural products sold on these farms totaled $3,000. Leslie. East Tawas: George Hawn, Max Shott, Jennie Ward, John H. Betts, Revia Wyman, Clarence McMullen, Nadene Dotson.
