East Tawas Hires Building Inspector

Raymond Bremer, East Tawas' new building inspector, met Monday night with the East Tawas Council and is to take over the position effective immediately. The position had formerly been held by City Supt. Paul Ropert, who retires December 31.

Bremer is to meet Thursday night with the city planning commission to discuss possible revision of the BOCA building ordinance.

In other business, Councilman Jacob Montgomery was appointed to investigate means of eliminating duplication and confusing street names in Baldwin Township, which is served by the city's fire department.

It was reported that six different streets in the township include pine in the name and that it is often confusing for firemen when answering a call. It was felt that changes should be made to protect lives and property.

Montgomery is to meet with township officials, along with representatives of Consumers Power Company in an effort to eliminate the present confusion.

Authorization was given to advertise for sealed bids on city owned lots in Eastland Subdivision on Airport Road. Councilman Ralph Western and his committee are to handle the sale.

A contract was accepted with Hager Sanitation Service calling for a 10 percent increase over last year's garbage collection contract. The contract is retroactive to September 1.

The superintendent of public works was authorized to purchase a new salt spreader.

The city is to exercise its option for purchase of a parcel of land at the intersection of Emery and Lincoln Street from L. G. McKay for the site of the city's new underground water storage tank.

A public hearing is to be held Monday, October 18, on the proposed vacation of Nelson Street north of Provoast Street.

Barbier Motor Sales was granted permission to erect two large signs at its place of business.

Permission was granted to students of Tawas Area High School to conduct a "snake dance" on Newman Street Wednesday night as part of the football homecoming program. The East Tawas Police Department is to cooperate in the program to be held from 7:30 to 8:30 o'clock.

Two Bound Over on Murder Charge

Frederick G. Tomkins and Gary H. McLellan, both 35, Bay City, were bound over Friday by Dist. Judge J. Richard Ernst to stand charges of murder in Iosco Circuit Court. They are charged with the slaying of Danny R. Christian, 27, whose body was discovered September 16 after he had been missing for four days. They are being held at the Iosco County Jail.

New CPA Firm is City Auditor

The firm of Weinlander, Fitzhugh, Bertuleit and Schairer, certified public accountants, has been hired by the City of Tawas City to conduct the annual audit of city records.

The Bay City firm recently purchased Harold Knight's auditing business at East Tawas.

Bud Rick of Oscoda, who had been hired as city auditor, requested to be relieved of the work.

T. City Has New Garbage Collector

Tawas City had a new garbage collector effective Tuesday morning.

As the result of action Monday night by the city council, a little less than two years remaining on a three-year contract with Houghton Sanitation Service was assigned to Hager Sanitation Service, Tawas City.

Leon Houghton, who had signed a three-year contract with the city on June 16, 1975, for garbage removal, stated in a letter to the city council that he wished to withdraw from the contract due to health and other reasons.

Houghton's letter to the city asked that the remainder of the contract be assigned to Hager Sanitation Service. Annual cost to the city is $12,248.

The former contractor had experienced maintenance difficulties with his compactor truck and verbally requested assistance from both D. E. Crowl Refuse Service of Oscoda and Hager to assist with garbage collections in Tawas City. Crowl told the council Monday night that he had performed the service for two weeks and desired the contract.

Mayor Herbert Cholger expressed the opinion that the matter of which firm was to fulfill the remainder of the contract was legally Houghton's business and the council had the responsibility of either accepting or denying the transfer. After a unanimous vote by the council, the city manager was instructed to make an assignment on the original contract to Hager.

James Hager, who was present at the meeting, said he would accept the contract assignment at the same annual rate. He presently contracts for sanitation service with East Tawas, Wurtsmith Air Force Base, Harrisville and Lincoln. He operates a fleet of five trucks.

Council Gives Vote of Confidence

TC's Contract Still in Force With Sheriff's Dept.

A letter submitted last week to the Tawas City Council, indicating that a contract between the city and Iosco County Sheriff's Department for police protection would be terminated January 1, has been withdrawn by Sheriff George Westcott.

At the conclusion of discussion with Sheriff Westcott Monday night, the city council gave him a unanimous "vote of confidence" for police protection provided by his department.

Westcott said he had submitted his contract termination letter to the city because of statements made at the last meeting "sounded like the council was unhappy" with the service provided by his department.

Councilman William L. Groff said that if the sheriff was going to be unhappy with anyone, it should be with him and not the remainder of the council.

"I expressed an opinion about police protection and suggested the possible investigation into a consolidated police department with East Tawas," said Groff.

The sheriff's department has provided police protection to the city under an annual contract for the past two years. Prior to that, the city had operated under a two-year arrangement whereby the city's two patrolmen were supervised by Sheriff Westcott, who was formerly the city police chief.

Westcott told the council Monday night that, due to discussion at the last meeting, it appeared as though if the contract between the city and county was terminated, it might make it easier for the city to make a move.

"I have no regrets over the police service provided by the sheriff's department and I have no regrets over my past association with the city council—I am not unhappy with the city council," said Westcott.

The sheriff said, however, that if the city council is receiving complaints from citizens concerning police protection, "I am not getting them." He said it would be impossible for any police department "to go out and get every speeder"—citizens would not even want that—and that he, along with members of his department, had spent many hours of work on patrol and on investigation in the city.

He said that any member of the council was welcome to ride in one of the patrol cars to receive first hand information concerning police protection. The city shares night patrol with three different cars, one on the west side of the county and two on the east side.

Councilman Charles Landon expressed the opinion that the council should hold more meetings with the sheriff in order to fully discuss any problems which may be encountered in police protection.

City Mgr. Reginald Bublitz said there would not be enough time in the three months remaining before the end of the year to develop any new police department or to consolidate services with another department.

Councilman Robert Rollin felt the city "should stay where we are at present if it is acceptable to Sheriff Westcott" and to give him a vote of confidence.

RAY KESLER, retired school superintendent, heads up the 1976 Tawas-Whittemore-Hale Community Chest drive which opened Monday morning with a kick off breakfast at Tawas Golf and Country Club. Council Again Tables Fence for Baseball Park Outfield

A four to two roll call vote Monday night saw the Tawas City Council table action recommended by the park board for construction of a chain link fence across the outfield of the baseball diamond at the corner of North Street and First Avenue.

At its last meeting, the park board again recommended that the fence be installed. In August, the park board accepted a low bid of $1,881.75 and submitted its action to the council for approval.

Discussion by the council following park board action indicated that the matter should be studied further before such an expenditure is made. Although the park board had considered the fence for a number of years, councilmen believed that future use of the property be considered before the fence was constructed.

A motion by Councilman Charles Landon and seconded by Councilman William Groff to construct the fence was defeated. Voting against the proposition were Councilman Jerry Cotter, Robert Rollin, James Lansky and Mayor Herbert Cholger.

In other business, the council directed that an investigation be conducted to determine the number of property owners in the city who are not complying with city ordinances requiring that a hook up be made where sewer and water service is provided.

Following discussion with Martin O'Driscoll, chairman of the river mouth harbor committee, the city manager was appointed as an ex-officio member of the committee to help coordinate activities.

O'Driscoll expressed the opinion that the river mouth harbor and launching area operated by the city was a potential money maker for the community. He believed that a portion of the $1,322 in net proceeds for operating the ramp should be used for dredging the river mouth, should it be needed this fall. He said there was only about two weeks of salmon fishing remaining, but the water level of the lake had dropped about two feet in the last two weeks and there was only 18 inches of water over the sand bar at the river mouth entrance. O'Driscoll is to make a complete report at the next meeting concerning the committee's viewpoint toward improvements to the launching ramp and dredging.

Roger Jackson, executive secretary of the chamber of commerce, was appointed to the committee which is to meet this week with the county board of commissioners concerning possible interest in a proposed convention center for the area. The city is considering an application for federal funds to construct such a facility.

A letter from the attorney for Truman Barbier indicated that a lawsuit would be commenced against the city within 60 days in regard to Barbier's assessment in a recently created special assessment district to construct a sanitary sewer main along US-23. According to terms of the city ordinance, the city based the assessment on a front foot cost. Brent Babcock, attorney for Barbier, said his client was contesting the assessment as it was made without regard to benefits, that the shape of the property was unusual in that it had a wide frontage and Tawas - Whittemore - Hale Community Chest opened its annual fund raising campaign Monday morning with a kick off breakfast at Tawas Golf and Country Club. The drive is to extend through October 15 with a goal of $17,311.

"If the United Fund is going to work, a good many people are going to have to give of themselves," Ray Kesler, drive chairman told committee chairmen and workers. "If a few people do a lot of work the drive may be successful; if a lot of people do the work the campaign will be successful."

Miss Clara Bolen, vice president of the community chest, introduced committee chairmen, including Carleton Merschel, residential; Ronald Gawne, business; Robert O'Neil, industrial; Kenneth Myles, professional; William Weryley and Leon Putnam, governmental and institutions, $460.

FINANCIAL REPORT OF HALE AREA SCHOOLS

Hale Area Schools finished the 1975-76 fiscal year with a balanced budget of $94,836. Revenues were $1,152,562 and expenditures were $1,057,726.

This completes the second year under the Bursley Bill for which we received no membership state aid. According to the State formula, we are a wealthy district, but, in reality, we are a land rich and money poor district.

The people who make up the Hale Area School District are very proud of their schools and have come to expect the best possible education for their children.

During the year, we received full University of Michigan Accreditation for our Secondary School. In our Elementary School, many hours were spent testing and placing individuals on programs to improve their reading proficiency. The growth shown at the end of the year made it all worthwhile.

Judge Issued Two Restraining Orders on Union Picketing

Two temporary restraining orders were issued Thursday by Circuit Judge Allan C. Miller enjoining Local 486 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters from picketing the entrance of Jefferson Trucking Company on September 30 or to interfere with movement of vehicles at the National City plant of National Gypsum Company.

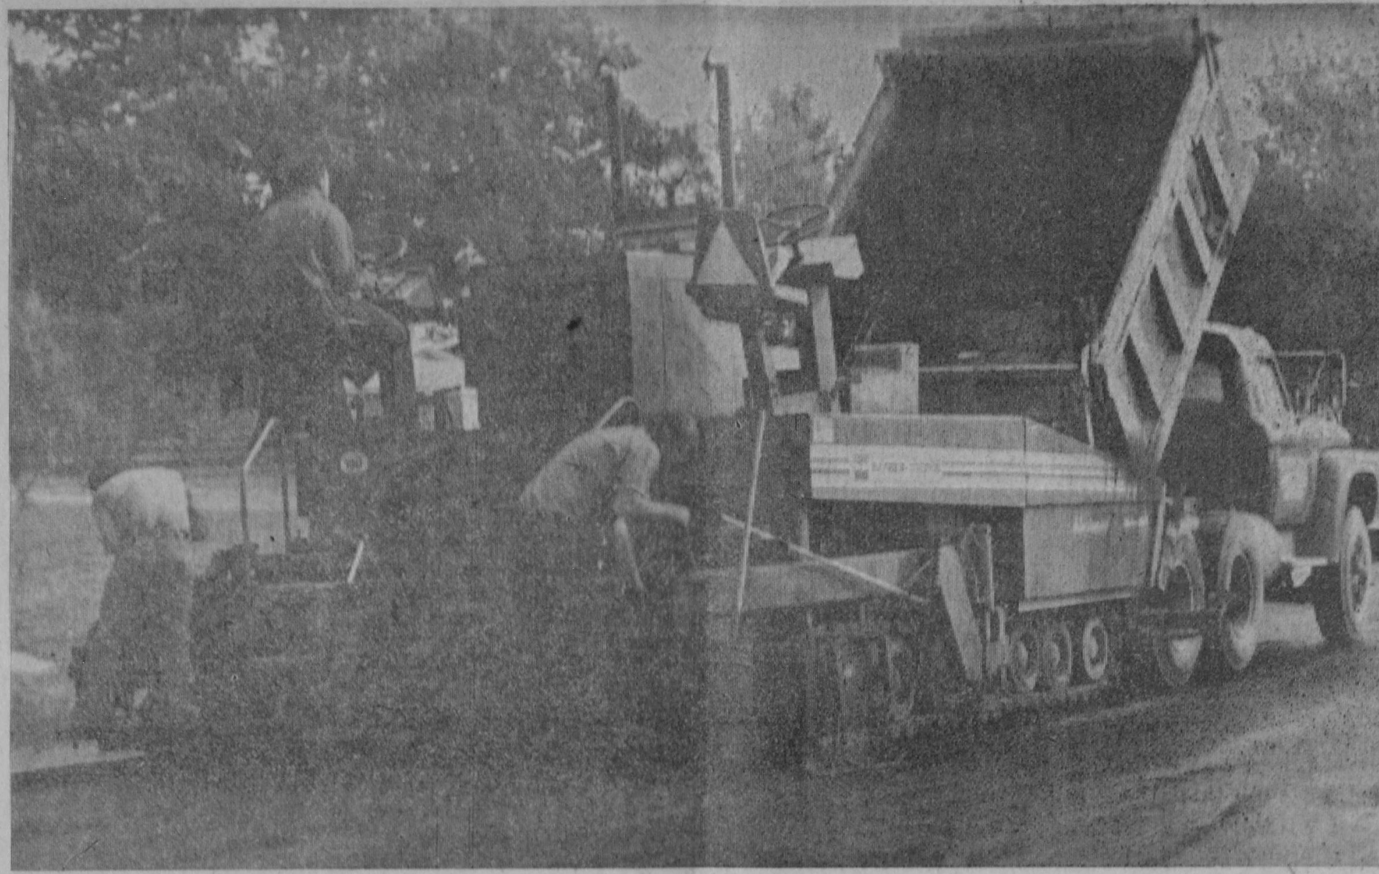

A work contract between drivers and Jefferson Trucking Company was scheduled to expire at midnight on September 30 and the trucking company had four tractor-trailer units scheduled to leave that day from the National City plant.

Terms of the work agreement prohibited a picket line from forming prior to expiration of the union contract. Jefferson's complaint stated that union drivers failed to appear on schedule Thursday, apparently for the purpose of keeping trucks on the premises in order that the exits could be blocked by pickets that evening.

The second order issued by Judge Miller enjoined the Teamsters to "cease, desist and refrain from preventing National Gypsum Company from receiving trucks and equipment of authorized transportation units onto the premises of the National City plant and from interfering with free egress and ingress at any of its gates and entrances."

A show cause hearing is to be held Wednesday, 2:00 p. m., in which the judge ordered the Teamsters to show why the temporary restraining order should not be made a preliminary injunction.

WORK started Tuesday on the construction of four streets in Tawas City with plant mix black top. Contractor for the project is Central Paving of West Branch. These pictures show work on Harris Avenue, from Second Street to the city limits (Plank Road). Other streets included in the program are Fifth Avenue, from First Street to M-55; First Avenue, from Anna to M-55; Second Street, from Eighth Avenue to Harris Avenue. The city's seal coating program is also expected to start this week.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Iosco - Ogemaw Members Attend Final Meeting

Final session of the Northeast Community Mental Health Services Board as a seven-county entity was held Thursday night on the eve of Iosco-Ogemaw as a new and separate board.

A study committee named August 26 by board resolution to see to an equitable distribution of budget, programs, assets and liabilities, plus the guarantee of staff positions, completed that work and approval Thursday was unanimous. Verbal resignations were accepted from two Iosco and two Ogemaw members, three of whom will serve the new board. Those resigning were Charles Smith of Oscoda, whose service dates back 18 years to the days of the old Child Guidance Clinic Board; Hiram Rose of Rose City, who had been chairman of Northeast and is the new chairman of Iosco-Ogemaw, a member for eight years;

Mary Jane Burdett and Dennis Chrvia, both of Iosco. Only Smith will be retiring.

On the basis of budget requests for continuation of programs in the new fiscal year, the split agreed upon gives Northeast 70.2 percent of funding and Iosco-Ogemaw receives 29.8 percent.

In addition, Iosco-Ogemaw is to pay 39 percent of the sum Northeast is eventually required to refund to the state. Each board is to be responsible for real estate leases within its geographical limits.

The entire arrangement is subject to review by the State Department of Mental Health. Northeast has been the largest unit in the state, geographically, and the concept of Iosco-Ogemaw splitting away has been an eventual goal for almost two years.

Traverse City State Hospital Seeks Patient Christmas Gifts

Although it may seem a bit early, it is not too early to begin planning for Christmas at Traverse City State Hospital. The institution has a large number of patients and a great amount of time and effort in behalf of those patients are required to insure a "Merry Christmas" for all of them.

It takes time for clubs and civic organizations, churches and schools to formulate plans in order to participate in the Christmas effort at the hospital. This effort has been going on since 1956 and has guaranteed that every single patient in the hospital will get an assortment of desired gifts.

Organizations within the commitment area of the hospital, which includes all of the northern half of the Lower Peninsula for adults and that same area plus all of the Upper Peninsula for children's services, are now urged to begin to make plans to take part in the Christmas activities for the hospital's patients.

Volunteers will begin wrapping gifts about November 15 and the task must be completed no later than December 20. The hospital would like to receive as many of these gifts as possible by the November 15 date. Gifts must be sorted and made ready for wrapping. Gifts should not arrive later than December 10, if at all possible. Gift wrapping paper and ribbon should be included.

Each year, lists of all patients on the wards with the items they desire are indicated. The hospital tries to provide gifts on the basis of this list as much as possible.

Gifts do not have to be expensive, but they must be new. Service groups, clubs, churches, schools and other groups and individuals are invited to take part in the 1976 Christmas program.

The hospital usually runs short of men's gifts. For this reason, it is suggested that men's service organizations concentrate on gifts for men and school children might concentrate on gifts for children. Christmas gifts should not be wrapped. Such items as toiletries for both men and women, inexpensive items of clothing for all ages from nine to 92, books, games, puzzles, smoking materials, fruit, candies and a host of other items are just a few suggestions.

Additional information can be obtained by contacting the Community Relations Department, Box C, Traverse City, Michigan 49684. Gifts which are sent to the hospital should be addressed in the same way and should include the name and address of the club or organization so that a letter of acknowledgement may be sent.

CB Monitoring Program A Success

The first three months of the state police CB monitoring program, June, July and August, were a great success. In all 2,960 calls were received from truckers and four-wheelers; 828 for violations and 2,132 for other kinds of problems and dangerous conditions. In most of these cases, state police were able to respond with either its own units or those of other agencies.

Some of the statistics for the three months were as follows:

Driving under the influence of alcohol—243 CB reports, resulting in 77 arrests, 11 warnings and 61 referrals to other police agencies.

Speeding—348 reports, resulted in 195 arrests, 19 warnings and 21 referrals to other police agencies.

Non traffic misdemeanors—75 reports, resulting in 10 arrests, 11 warnings and 20 referrals to other police agencies.

Felonies—33 reports, resulting in two arrests and 19 referrals to other police agencies.

Fires—137 reports, service rendered to 75, 48 referrals to other police agencies.

There were also 535 assists to motorists.

State police posts constantly monitor Channel 9 and mobile units listen on Channel 19. When a CB call is received with call letters, decisions are made quickly on how the problem should be handled. A state police car may be sent, or the sheriff or local police may be notified. The nature of the call is noted, along with police reaction and the subsequent outcome.

Iosco Seeks Hearing Delay on Wurtsmith Impact Statement

At its first meeting September 28, Iosco County Economic Steering Committee joined a similar

Oscoda organization in asking for a delay on an informal public hearing on the two draft environmental impact statements dealing with Wurtsmith Air Force Base.

Donald Griffin of Oscoda, a member of the Iosco County Board of Commissioners, who chaired the county meeting, said the scheduled hearing October 13 permitted only limited time for the area to respond to a "potential action having such economic magnitude."

A letter sent to Dr. Billy Welch, special assistant for environmental quality for the secretary of the air force, stated that action of local base officials in advising the county board of commissioners that data gathering efforts of last June amounted to a "routine update."

"Local officials were left with little cause for concern that a proposal of such magnitude was imminent. Finding now that such information gathered under most uncontrolled conditions is to be used for such a serious decision makes it imperative that a delay be granted in order that a more factual presentation may be made," stated the letter.

The concern being expressed by local officials arises from the impact resulting from selection of Wurtsmith as an alternative to the closing of Kincheloe Air Force Base in the Upper Peninsula. The situation is doubly severe since Wurtsmith is also designated as an alternative to the proposed reduction of Loring Air Force Base, Maine.

In a letter to Gov. William G. Milliken, the county steering committee stated: "We are very concerned that the impact of the proposed action, on a state and area already carrying a disproportionate share of the nation's economic woes, has not been properly evaluated."

The letter stated this opinion is based on recently reported data that Michigan received only 65 cents per $1 return on the flow of dollars to Washington, while other states enjoy a far more attractive return.

Presently scheduled October 13, 7:00 p. m., at the Oscoda Area High School Auditorium, the two statements, entitled "Proposed Closure of Kincheloe Air Force Base, Michigan" and "Proposed Reduction of Loring Air Force Base, Maine," identify the closure of Wurtsmith as an alternative under consideration to both proposals.

A news release from the air force states the purpose of this hearing is to assure that all relevant environmental factors and all socio-economic assessments were considered and fairly stated in the draft statements. Both the written and oral comments made by individual and group spokesmen would be reviewed by the decision-makers in Washington when they assess the environmental consequences and alternatives of the proposed action.

On October 5, 6, 7 and 8, air force environmental authorities from the Strategic Air Command will be in the Oscoda-Tawas area to explain to interested groups the statistical methods used in obtaining the data contained in the draft environmental impact statements. Air force authorities would assist groups, as required, in preparing any data they may have for submission at the informal public hearing, or written submission during the public comment period, which ends October 25.

Requests by groups and organizations to meet with these authorities should be sent to the information office at Wurtsmith, or call Captain Nye at 739-2011 extension 2058 or 2128.

Griffin stated Wednesday that the county steering committee has been informed that a decision is to be made on the matter in February.

Communities in the area of the bases named for closure or reduction action are to make extensive statements concerning economic impact and local authorities believe that additional time is necessary for this area to do likewise in submitting its position concerning Wurtsmith.

A delay of approximately 30 days has been requested.

William H. McCoy Retires from Consumers Power Co.

William F. (Bill) McCoy, 59, noted for his athletic prowess as a pitcher on area amateur baseball teams in an earlier day—he once was robbed of a no-hit performance after two men were out in the ninth inning—retired Friday after 37 years of employment with Consumers Power Company.

McCoy started his long career with Consumers Power in 1938 as a tree trimmer, later served as a fighter pilot in Europe during World War II and returned to the power company after being mustered out of the air corps as a captain.

He served 25 years as foreman of tree trimmers working out of Tawas and was later promoted to line foreman, a position which he held upon retirement.

A native of the Sugar Island Indian reservation near Sault Ste. Marie, McCoy is proud of his one-quarter Chippewa Indian heritage. His father, the late Harry McCoy, was a long-time employee of Consumers Power and the family moved to the Oscoda area in 1928 when Harry worked at Foote Dam.

"Bill" graduated from Oscoda High School in 1936 and was an outstanding prep baseball player and a member of the school's golf team. His early education was in the Indian school at the Mt. Pleasant reservation.

McCoy has had a lifetime interest in sports and he has won numerous local golfing trophies over the years. He won his first tournament prior to World War II at the old Tawas Golf Course, which had sand "greens" at the time and was owned by the late Frank Brown. "My opponent for the championship was 'Capt.' Benedict and I won first prize of $8.50, even though my opponent had a 27-stroke handicap," he recalls.

McCoy played for independent baseball teams at East Tawas, Tawas City, Oscoda, National City and Alabaster — always wearing dark sunglasses when on the mound—and retired from pitching and coaching at the end of the 1949 season.

His crack at local no-hit fame came in 1941 when he was pitching for Tawas City. He had the last man in Roadside Zoo's lineup down to two strikes and, after the catcher missed three or four foul "ticks," the batter dribbled one along the third base line which was ruled an infield hit. He struck out 16 batters that day and only two balls were hit to the outfield. "If Peterson had only booted that little dribbler . . ."

McCoy has been a fixture behind the plate umpiring Knothole League baseball games for 25 years and he pitched "blooper ball" in the local league until the time when a former Alabaster teammate heckled him with the remark that his "fast ball" had not gained much speed in 30 years. "I intend to make my return on the mound, now that my knee has healed after an operation earlier this year," he states.

McCoy started with the power company when crosscut saws were still being used to clear the right-of-way, as chain saws were not introduced until after World War II. One particularly trying time he remembers was the morning that he and the crew left Tawas to repair lines which were downed west of Harrisville during a sleet storm. "We worked day and night for a solid week and, with all that overtime, my check amounted to $127," he recalled. "We were getting 50 cents an hour and our regular take home pay was $18.70 a week, which was big money before inflation back in 1940."

He plans to get some part time employment "just to keep active," but also intends to keep in shape with golfing, umpiring junior league baseball games and get in some fishing. One of his particular pleasures is painting wild animal scenes in four by six-foot murals and he intends to expand this hobby.

Hanging on a peg at his home on West Westover Street, East Tawas, is his father's old hard hat diving suit. After leaving Consumers, his father was engaged as a professional diver in the Great Lakes salvage business and "Bill" assisted his dad on a number of diving ventures. Included was the search for the famed "lost" copper ship which was once sought in Lake Huron unsuccessfully by Julius Roth.

McCoy and his wife, the former Lucille Bischoff, are the parents of three children, Douglas, an employee of Consumers Power Company at Midland; Mrs. Thomas (Janine) Marchbanks of Bay City, and Brady, a senior at Tawas Area High School. They have three grandchildren.

Iosco Gets Study Grant for Center

A $5,400 grant to Iosco County for a youth corrections center study is included in grants totaling nearly $205,000 distributed Friday through the Office of Criminal Justice Planning.

The two-hour awards conference was held under direction of the East Central Michigan Planning and Development Region with offices at Essexville.

Iosco County's grant was reduced from the original application. The grant request of $9,000 was cut by OCJP because it felt the study could be done with $5,400.

According to the Iosco County grant, the study will cover the need for a juvenile facility to serve the detention and commitment functions of Iosco, Arenac, Roscommon and Ogemaw Counties.

The above counties have no such facility at present and use jails and commitment facilities in Saginaw and Bay City.

The grant was made on a 90 percent federal and 10 percent local matching basis.

THIS EARLY VIEW of the East Tawas Opera House Block shows Newman Street when it was "paved" with sawdust and sand. (Local sawmill owners sold the sawdust to the city for 25 cents a load.) Five stores were located on the ground floor of the building and the entrance to the opera house on the second floor was located on East State Street.

Development of a town during the pioneering stage of Northeastern Michigan, as elsewhere in the country, was a slow process over a period of years. Those towns which grew more rapidly than others were not always the ones which survived the lean years after pine timber, the region's major resource, was exhausted.

Typical of the small towns which grew from humble beginnings as a cluster of shacks around the "company" sawmill, then advanced by stages to a thriving community, is East Tawas. With such improvements as more substantial buildings, water works and expanded industry came other physical refinements in the 1880s.

Although East Tawas' main business thoroughfare was still "paved" with sawdust and sand in the 1880s and 1890s, the two-block area on Newman from Bay Street north to State Street was anchored on all four corners by imposing buildings. At the west corner of Bay and Newman was the Holland Hotel—a sign of substantiality and even luxury to challenge the best other Michigan towns could offer—and on the opposite side of the street was the Emery building, which was later destroyed by fire. At the west corner of State and Newman was the Bank Block and on the opposite side of the street was the Opera House Block.

With such physical improvements came a more social or cultural order. Schools and churches, social clubs and reading societies attended themselves to the higher needs of mind and soul, while the opera house—which did not have much to do with opera—satisfied the respectable entertainment aspects of the community.

The opera house, in fact, was a particularly symbolic manifestation of civic arrival; the town that could afford a theater of a size and architecture to justify the label of opera house was a town to be reckoned with.

The era under consideration was before the days of television, radio or even moving picture houses and "live" entertainment was provided at the opera house, by both professional and local amateur talent.

The East Tawas Opera House was not of the size or elegance of such buildings in larger towns, but it filled the bill and was held in high esteem by residents of the community. The local opera house was a large public room on the second floor of a brick veneer building which was on the site now occupied by Mutual Savings and was five store fronts wide south toward William Look and Sons garage.

Stores fronting along Newman Street were owned by individual businessmen and the second floor opera house was owned privately by Milo Eastman and Alva Wood Sr.

H. Eugene Hanson, a spry 91-year-old resident of East Tawas, has vivid recollections of the old Opera House Block. It is only natural for his father, Henry Hanson, owner Hanson's Bazaar, which was located on the ground floor in the same building. Besides Hanson's store, which was noted for its fine china, cooking ware, lamps, books, stationery and toys, other stores included a grocery owned by F. E. Hale, a drug store owned by James Dillon, a meat market owned by Sam Anker Sr. and another store. The Kunze and Applin Grocery Store was later located in the Hale store.

Although the exact date when the building was constructed is not known, Hanson believes it must have been built in the late 1870s or early 1880s. Entrance to the opera house was located on East State Street and a stairway led to the large room on the second floor. A ticket booth was located at the ground floor entrance.

The large room had a stage at one end, fully equipped with scenery for stage productions and the old-fashioned curtain which was typically adorned with advertising messages from local business firms. The reserved portion of the music hall or theater was equipped with comfortable arm chairs, with a raised portion above floor level to form a balcony for general admission. Total seating capacity was about 300 persons.

In addition to use as a theater, the opera house was the scene of many a basketball game and served the town as a civic center until construction of the community building in the early 1920s. One of the problems, architecturally, was the fact that two large round pillars extended from the first floor up through the opera house floor to the roof of the building.

The pillars were necessary to provide needed floor support for the large structure, but added an obstacle during basketball games. Local players became quite adept at blocking out an opponent with either of the pillars, although many games had to be stopped when a player crashed into one of the solid structures. Another obstacle was the large stove situated near the stage and a favorite trick was to block out an opposing player with this red hot "central" heating plant.

Hanson's father managed the opera house for a number of years and it was Eugene's responsibility to keep the place clean, wax the floor and dust the chairs.

He recalls that the large hall was not very well lighted—it had only a few overhead globe lights—and the rounded stage was lighted by single bulbs and reflectors along the front edge of the stage.

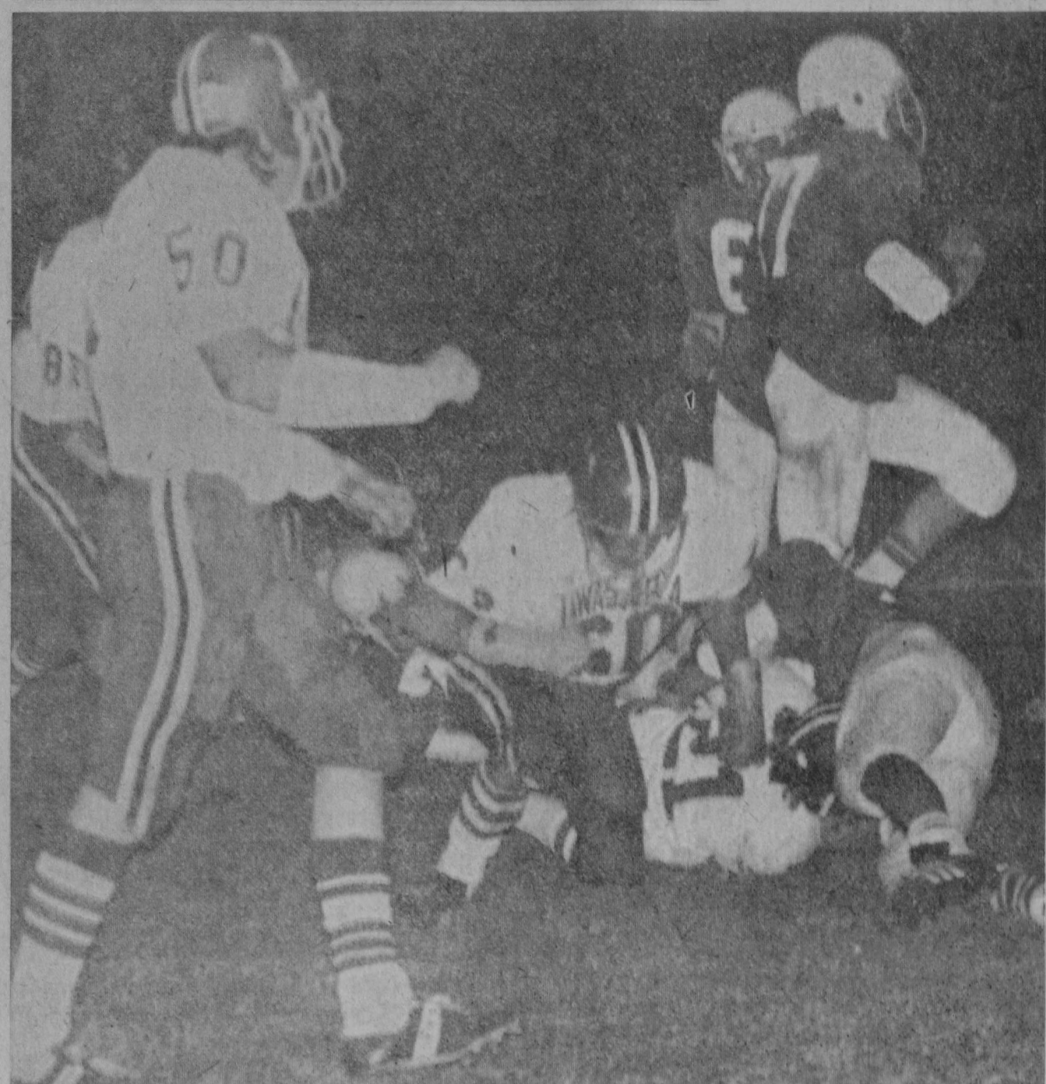

Hanson's earliest recollection of the opera house is two professional productions, "Sidetrack" and "Thoroughbred Tramp," along with "Uncle Tom's Cabin," which was a must in similar theaters before and long after the Civil War. Performers in these traveling shows came to East Tawas by train and Hanson recalls that a special train brought the company which produced "East Lynn."

This play featured Rebecca Warren as the star attraction. "When the train arrived, the director visited my father and learned that only three or four advance tickets had been sold. He threatened to leave because of this poor showing, but father threatened to sue the company if it did (See OPERA HOUSE, page 6.)"

RECALLING DAYS of the East Tawas Opera House was H. Eugene Hanson, 91, a native of East Tawas whose father once managed the business and, as a teen-ager, Eugene had charge of cleaning the hall. He is looking at an old showcard which advertised a local stage production and he recalled names of every member of the cast.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Braves Beat Cards to Remain in Tie for NEM Lead

Tawas Braves rolled to a 46-0 victory Friday over the Whittemore-Prescott Area Cardinals to remain in a tie with Gladwin for leadership of the Northeastern Michigan Conference.

Other league action saw Pinconning stunning Ogemaw Heights, 28-12, to knock the Falcons out of a three-way tie. Gladwin rolled to a 20-0 win over Standish-Sterling Central.

In the first gridiron meeting between Tawas and Whittemore-Prescott since realignment of area schools into a new conference, the Braves had too many guns for the Cardinals and rushed for 297 yards.

Jeff Tousley scored three touchdowns on runs of four, 33 and 67 yards; Jerry Gracik scored twice on a 39-yard pass from Mark Fisher and a two-yard run, plus converting four PATS from placement; Neil Warner rushed for 107 yards in five carries and scored on a 73-yard run; John Rigg turned in one touchdown and had two pass interceptions plus a fumble recovery.

Top defender for the Braves was Rex Halstead, who had 10 tackles, a fumble recovery and one pass interception.

The Cardinals, now with a record of two losses in the league, just could not mount an offense with fumbles and pass interceptions hurting their cause.

At Pinconning, the Spartans had gone three straight games without scoring a touchdown and had won only two of its previous 19 games over the past three seasons, scored on the first play of the game and rolled up 233 yards to 179 yards for Ogemaw Heights.

Gladwin rolled to its third straight win at Standish with a shutout over the Panthers, Standish-Sterling got inside the Gladwin 20 twice, but could not score.

Action returns to Tawas Area High School this Friday night when the Braves take on Pinconning in the annual homecoming game.

Hale Eagles Won Fourth Straight Game

Hale Eagles rolled to their fourth straight win and remained unbeaten this season as they turned back visiting Baldwin, 28-8, in a non-conference game. The Eagles won their only game in the North Star League and remain in first place in that circuit.

Hale scored touchdowns in each quarter with Tom Bush going over from 10 yards out in the first period and Bill Bernard kicked the first of four PATS.

Baldwin went ahead, 8-7, on a 12-yard pass from John Cox to Mike Henderson and Roger Kousar ran the two-point conversion.

The Eagles took the lead shortly before the half when Greg Green ran the last two yards in a drive to make it 14-8.

Kelly Wilson ran 40 yards with a stolen ball in the third quarter to score another touchdown and Tim Shaw ran 10 yards in the fourth quarter for the final touchdown.

Bush gained 140 of Hale's 285 yards rushing. Green and Rick Weaver had 10 tackles each to pace the defense.

New Phone Directories Ready Oct. 9

Michigan Bell's new telephone directories will be mailed here beginning Saturday, October 9.

Howard L. Haight, Michigan Bell's manager here, said the directories will be mailed in East Tawas, Tawas City and Oscoda.

The cover of the new directories has a contemporary theme, replacing the historical "personalities" on last year's books.

There are nine colorful scenes of Michigan locations, visual expressions of the state's motto imprinted at one corner: "Si quaeris peninsulam amoenam circumspice." (If you seek a pleasant peninsula, look about you.)

Again this year, there are notices inside the yellow pages that some advertised services or occupations have to be licensed or may require licenses to operate.

Also included are some consumer tips which have been researched and approved by the Better Business Bureau.

Three years ago, more than 70 percent of all jeans sold were in two or three basic western or patch-pocket styles.

Now there are pockets galore, extra zippers, decorative top stitching, rhinestone and metal studs, embroidery, quilting—even trapunto work.

If that is not enough to choose from, there are straight legs, flares and extra flares. European style and western legs. They come in 100 percent or blended cotton, polyester, nylon and acrylic.

One can spend up to $60 or more on a pair of jeans. But with so many variations, buying jeans is not as easy as picking the correct leg-length off the shelf.

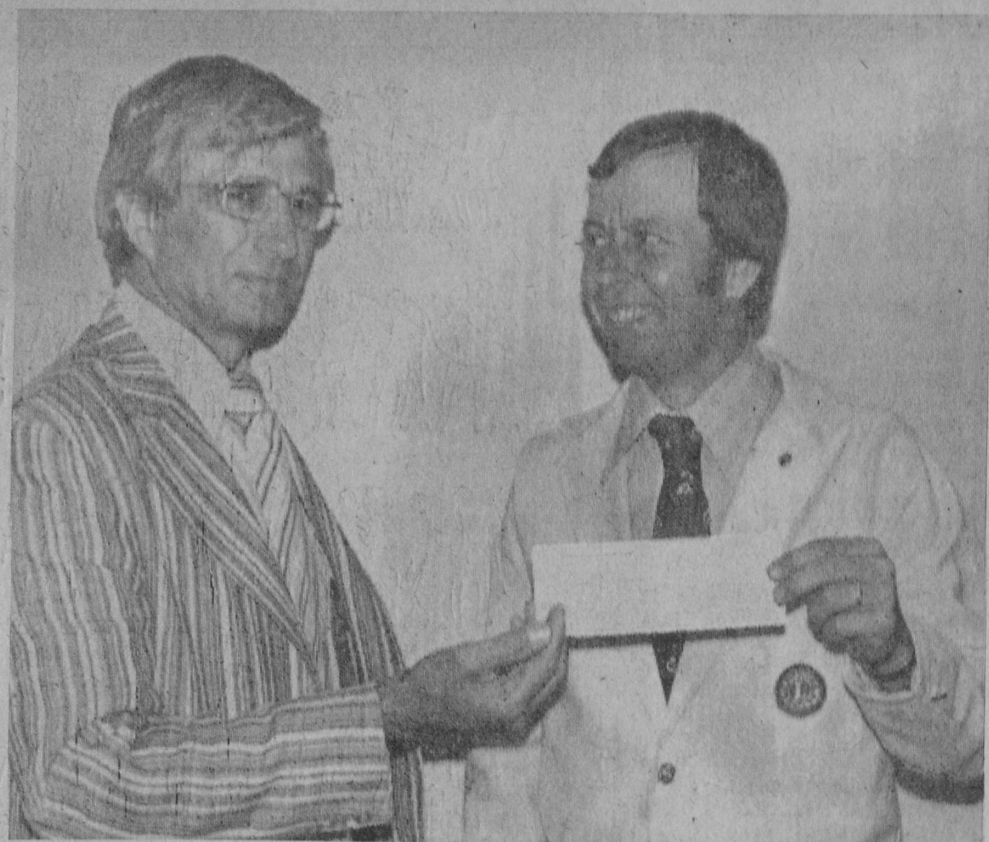

Although these blends are not as soft or absorbent as 100 percent cotton denim, when tested for strength, blends proved almost three times as strong as similarly priced cottons and about one-third stronger than cotton denim selling for double the price of the blend.

In addition, look for other signs of durability in the way jeans are made. Seams should be double-stitched with close, even stitching that will not give way under pressure.

Pocket openings should be reinforced with rivets and bar tacks. Then make sure fasteners—snaps, buttons and zippers—are securely attached.

For less shrinkage, choose jeans which have been sanforized. Size change of sanforized jeans is less than one percent.

Jeans are the "uniform" that young Americans of both sexes have adopted for comfort, durability and fashion.

not fulfill its contract. They went on with the show and played to a full house—people just did not have time to buy tickets in advance and probably had to pinch a few pennies to buy their tickets," he stated.

One of Hanson's favorite shows was Hi Emery's Minstrels, which brought the first automobile to town as a publicity stunt. The little open car powered by a "one lung" engine led the band in a parade down Newman Street prior to the show. The car had to remain on sawdust-covered Newman Street as other roads in the area lacked even that improvement.

Besides serving as a theater, the opera house was utilized for school programs, graduation exercises and wedding receptions. "The building had a marvelous dance floor, but it was not too sturdy as my father often had to remove china from shelves in his ground floor store to prevent any damage. The entire building shook when there was much jumping above during a basketball game," he recalled.

Hanson also took part in a number of local talent productions staged at the opera house, including "A Soldier's Sweetheart," presented by Baldwin Lodge, IOOF. Hanson played the part of the soldier and is shown in the picture accompanying this feature.

An old show bill tells of the production, "Little Goldie," which was given in the 1890s as a band benefit. The program was under the management of Squire A.

the second floor and only thin partitions separated stores on the ground floor.

A fire broke out in a restaurant occupying a portion of the present site of Look's garage on October 25, 1925, and sparks from that fire were carried by a high wind and dropped through an open roof ventilator in the Opera House Block. The sparks apparently ignited scenery on the stage and the second floor was soon a roaring inferno.

The entire block of buildings between East State and East Westover was wiped out by the fire, with the exception of an old frame building which housed a pool hall.

By then, the old opera house had about lived out its usefulness as a public meeting hall—the community building had been constructed and offered more modern accommodations. Stores on the ground floor were either wiped out of business or moved to new locations. Included was Hanson's Bazaar operated by Hanson's mother after the death of his father, which remained in business for another five years at a different location.

Hanson felt that the beautiful brick structure may have been jinxed from the start. "The framework toppled over and had to be rebuilt during its original construction and, without firewalls, it just did not stand a chance in the 1925 blaze," said Hanson.

The opera house days were numbered, however, as stage productions were a thing of the past—A. J. Berube's motion picture theater offered modern entertainment, even if the shows were silent—an era had ended.
