

City Manager Suggests Three

Council to Select Projects for Possible Federal Funding

Consideration is to be given Monday night to a number of ideas suggested by the city manager as potential projects for full funding under a new Federal Public Works Act designed to assist the nation's faltering construction industry.

Michigan's allocation under this act, originally established at 240-million dollars and since lowered to 157-million dollars, has excited communities throughout the state and a flurry of applications for funds is expected.

Included in the criteria for determining eligible projects is the number of unemployed construction workers in a project area.

Although it is believed that this area's unemployment rate is around 12 1/2 percent, actual figures concerning the number of unemployed construction workers here is not available as yet.

In the meantime, local communities are making hasty efforts to prepare necessary engineering for potential projects. The city manager attended recent meetings at Bay City and Midland to learn necessary requirements. A project must have a valuation of more than $100,000 and should require no longer than two years to complete.

Among projects suggested by Bublitz was the city's $400,000 share of the Edmands water plan between this city, East Tawas and Baldwin Township; a city hall, fire hall, library complex, costing approximately $250,000; a bridge replacement program costing $185,000; street construction, costing approximately $200,000; construction of a new storm sewer system, costing around $150,000.

Bublitz said that a city hall complex probably had the best chance of any of the above named projects for funding, but he doubted if architectural plans could be obtained in the required 90 days. Another problem would be location as federal funds could not be used for site acquisition. The city has an option on the Prescott-Bergeron property located west of the city building, which expires this month, and the site has been suggested as the possible location for such a complex.

Residents attending Monday night's meeting delayed from September 6, Labor Day, pointed out that discussion was presently being held concerning consolidation of the Tawas and consideration should be given to a centralized site. It was also suggested that consideration be given to a convention center.

Bublitz was of the opinion that the water project bridge construction and storm sewer system probably had the best chances for approval, inasmuch as preliminary engineering had already been obtained.

The city has received a proposal to construct wooden bridges over the Tawas River at Whittemore Street and over Dead Creek at Sixth Avenue. Material for the Whittemore Street bridge would be $32,000, depending upon use of the present center span, and materials for the Sixth Avenue bridge would be $21,000. Installation would require an additional 50 percent. Bublitz said that a bridge over the river at North Street would bring the entire project to around $185,000.

Chamber Hires New Executive Director

Roger W. Jackson, 66, of East Tawas, a salesman for 45 years, came out of "retirement" this week to take over as the executive director of Tawas Chamber of Commerce. He succeeds the late W. D. (Mike) Nunn.

In a press conference Monday morning at the chamber of commerce office, Duane Walters, chamber president, said that the board of directors had been looking for a replacement since Nunn's death earlier this summer.

Walters said that five candidates had been considered for the position and believed that Jackson would be well qualified due to his many years of experience as a salesman and his activities in many fields.

Born at Lexington, Massachusetts, Jackson attended high school in that community, the New Hampton Preparatory School and the University of Rochester, New York.

He was a grocery salesman for 13 years, then went with the General Electric Corporation, where he served in various capacities at Pittsfield, Massachusetts; Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania; Detroit; Los Angeles, California, and Dallas, Texas.

Because of illness, he moved to East Tawas in 1967 with his wife, Berthena, having owned a cottage here since 1951. After being "retired" for about eight months, Jackson returned to employment as a salesman for Newman Visual Education, Incorporated, Grand Rapids, a firm which provides audio-visual equipment for schools, industry and churches.

He sustained a heart attack and retired from that position two years ago.

Jackson has taken an active part in community affairs, being a member of the Tawas Area School Citizens Advisory Committee, was a chaperone during the recent trip of Tawas Area School Band to Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, during the bicentennial observance and serves as president of Tawas Area Rotary Club.

He and his wife are parents of two children, Roger H. Jackson, 20 years of age, and Judith Ellen, 16, a student at Tawas Area High School.

Walters said that major responsibility of the new executive director will be to assist the community in obtaining federal and state grants for development, stimulate civic interest, as well as to stimulate county-wide support of a county-wide tourist promotion and other activities of the local chamber of commerce.

One of his first duties will be to review work of the former executive director and to implement programs already under way. The chamber of commerce presently has 205 members and it is hoped that the membership rolls will grow to about 300. The chamber of commerce has an annual budget of $15,000, which includes the salary of the director.

Walters said that the salary and expense account for the new executive director were still being finalized.

Subsoil Provides Trouble for City

Tawas City's participation in an area water project received a serious blow Monday when engineers reported that the site picked for construction of a 500,000-gallon water tank lacked the proper load bearing criteria and an alternate would be required.

City Mgr. Reginald Bublitz told members of the city council Monday night that core drilling samples taken at the city garage on Fourth Street revealed that the proposed site had an inadequate subsoil structure and would not support the weight of an overhead storage tank.

As a result, the city must quickly decide on one or more alternate sites for the water storage tank. One site suggested Monday night was the industrial park on Ninth Avenue, for which the city's portion of the project is primarily intended.

This site, along with any other suggestions, is to be considered at next Monday night's regular meeting of the council.

The city garage site had been under consideration since the water expansion project involving Tawas City, East Tawas and Baldwin Township was suggested a number of years ago. The project has received federal-state funding and awaits opening of construction bids.

Bublitz said Monday night that core drilling samples at the city garage site revealed that the subsoil structure was "mucky" and would not bear a heavy load.

This overhead storage tank, along with one at the Tawas Area Industrial Park in Baldwin Township, would provide pressure on each end of the area's water distribution system.

East Tawas is to have an underground storage tank located in the center of the system.

Bublitz said that the site for an overhead storage tank must measure at least 100 by 100 feet and that residential dwellings must not be located in close proximity. He said that engineers had selected the city garage site in the original planning stage of the program, but it actually was not desirable due to space problems on that site.

The site should be located in the general area of the city garage due to construction plans and it is hoped that the subsoil of the industrial park will prove adequate for load requirements. If not, the city may be required to expend an additional $20,000 or more to construct footings down to bedrock at the city garage or an alternate site.

State Money Approved for Fishing Pier

Repair and improvement to the fishing pier in the city park took one more step toward realization this week with announcement from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources that the fisheries division was making a $76,000 allocation to the project.

A cooperative program between Tawas City and the DNR, the project has been under negotiation for several years. The city has already expended about $30,000 on the project as its proportionate share and has submitted final engineering plans for approval.

According to latest information at Monday night's council meeting, the project would be funded after October 1.

Included in the state's share would be surfacing of the dock, completion of steel piling to the shore, installation of railings and seats. The city would be responsible for maintenance and engineering costs of approximately $1,000.

In other business, the council established October 27, 28 and 29 as public hearing dates on new real estate property assessments established during a recent appraisal conducted by Gem Survey of St. Clair. The firm, which conducted the original property appraisal more than 10 years ago, was hired by the city to reappraise property.

Ronald Turner, city assessor, worked closely with Gem Survey during the reappraisal and he, along with members of the St. Clair firm, are to meet with property owners interested in learning about recommended valuations. Members of the city's tax board of review, John Hosbach, Arthur Zielh and Roy Bergeron, have been invited to attend the hearings.

Hours for the hearings are to be (See COUNCIL, page 4.)

Tawas Area Board Endorses 'Yes' Vote on Proposed Iosco Skill Center

Tawas Area Board of Education adopted a resolution Monday night supporting a "yes" vote on the proposed Iosco County skill center which will be placed before the voters of Iosco County Intermediate District on Thursday, September 23.

In past elections on the skill center, Tawas Area Board of Education had withheld support due to problems of financing the local school district and during campaigns for local operational millage proposals.

The board's resolution favored a favorable vote on the proposal due to the opportunity such a facility would afford youngsters in vocational training as well as to relieve space needs in local schools.

In other business, the board of education accepted the resignation of Carl Brien, former assistant band director, who has been hired as band director at Petoskey High School.

Teaching contracts were accepted with Lynn Kosto, high school art, replacing John Walton, and Karen Strughold, elementary special education, replacing Grace Woodburn.

The board of education approved an increase in salary to administrators of not more than five percent, which includes all fringe benefits, the same increase approved for teachers and non-certified personnel.

As yet, the offer has not been accepted by unions representing the latter two groups and contract negotiations may go to fact finding.

Prin. John Alexander reported on the driver training program and said that some students were still awaiting completion of training under actual driving conditions. Negotiations are being made to obtain cars.

At the suggestion of the board of education, evaluation forms for teachers are to be standardized for elementary, middle school and high school grades.

A report on the athletic budget by James Papefus, athletic director, indicated that an expense of $9,000 would be needed. The board of education authorized a transfer of $6,000 from the general fund as the amount budgeted.

The superintendent reported that the board of education is to certify the amount of taxes to be spread for school operation during September. A total of 21.75 mills of taxes is to be spread, including a county allocation of 9.25 mills, 12 mills voted and one-half mill for debt retirement.

A tentative enrollment total of 1,908 students was announced as of Monday, which compares to 1,972 students on the fourth Friday count last year. The decrease represents the approximate figure which was projected earlier in the year by the administration.

Season Tickets Now on Sale

Tawas High School varsity football season tickets are now on sale and may be picked up at the high school.

Council Approves Deed for New American Legion Hall

Unanimous approval was given Monday night by the Tawas City Council to deed a 90 by 180-parcel of land at the southwestern corner of the baseball field on North Street as the site for a new American Legion hall.

This action followed granting of a zoning variance Thursday night by the zoning board of appeals. The variance had been recommended by the planning commission as being more desirable than rezoning the property from residential to business.

Under consideration for a number of weeks, the council had previously indicated it would make property available at the athletic field for the proposed new building. A new building is to be constructed for Jesse C. Hodder American Legion Post by Dr. John D. LeClair in exchange for that organization's present building and two lots on River Street. The present site is to be the location for a new commercial development.

Objections to granting of a variance to allow construction of the building at the baseball field were heard at last Thursday night's meeting of the zoning appeals board. Earl Authier, a resident of the area, along with Dennis Cholger, representing Emanuel Lutheran Church, expressed the opinion that parking on the site would be insufficient.

Carl Babcock, chairman of the zoning appeals board, pointed out that floor space of the building requires 18 parking spaces under the zoning ordinance and that space for 32 cars would be provided, along with overflow to the parking area of the baseball field.

Hugh Prescott, commander, said the post was attempting to do something for the community by locating on city property to release property for commercial development which would be taxable. He assured those attending that the post would chaperone its activities, that the building in the new location would help to create recreational programs of various types sponsored by the post. He said that other locations had been reviewed but were not as favorable as the baseball field site.

The variance was granted by a four to one vote of the zoning (See VARIANCE, page 4.)

TAWAS AREA LIONS CLUB buried its bicentennial capsule late Tuesday afternoon in the front lawn of the county building. The capsule, weighing 150 pounds, is to be opened during the tricentennial observance of the nation's independence in 2076. Included in materials sealed in the stainless steel box fabricated by Bopp-Busch Manufacturing Company is a letter of transmittal to the people 100 years from now, the declaration of independence signed by more than 3,000 persons last July 4, communications from the county

River Aux Sables Chapter to Mark Constitution Week

Plans for observing Constitution week, September 17-23, and an address on "The Framing of the Constitution," featured a recent meeting of River Aux Sables Chapter, DAR, at the Arenac County Historical Museum, AuGres.

Schools and churches in Arenac, Iosco, Ogemaw, Alcona and Montmorency Counties have been asked to join the national observance, annually sponsored by the Daughter of the American Revolution.

Libraries in the area will offer special reading materials, and the AuGres library will display an antique two-volume history of the 18-76 centennial celebration, according to Mrs. Frederick C. Nash, chapter chairman of Constitution Week.

Atty. Frederick C. Nash is a former general counsel for the United States, described the chain of events leading to the final framing and adoption of the constitution on September 17, 1787.

Calling it an "almost impossible job," Nash said that only a delegation of such unusually able men could have reconciled state jealousies and ordained so effective a national government. "It is important to remember that ratification of the constitution was by specially called conventions of the people, themselves, and not by their state governments," he said.

Mrs. Worthy T. Boyd, chapter regent and DAR state chairman, American heritage committee, conducted the meeting. A tour of the museum planned by Mrs. Walter Pendred, chapter member and a museum founder, followed luncheon served by hostesses, Mrs. Howard K. Beck and Mrs. James V. Zeder.

Local Dogs Make Good!

IOSCO COUNTY ANIMAL SHELTER on M-55, administered by the sheriff's department, received letters of commendation this week from Leader Dogs for the Blind at Rochester upon graduation of three dogs furnished locally. During recent weeks, the school at Rochester has accepted 15 of 20 dogs furnished by the local animal shelter. Russell Hamm, assistant animal control officer, said the three dogs pictured above with their masters had been donated by persons leaving the area or were unable to afford to purchase dog food. In line with the shelter's policy of trying to locate homes for animals turned over to the county, it was felt that dogs with the proper qualifications would serve a useful life as a Leader Dog. The shelter has limited facilities for maintaining animals and all efforts are expended to find new homes for them. According to a letter from Leader Dogs for the Blind, three more deserving blind persons have been placed back in the mainstream of life because of the generosity of donors. From left are James A. Wiesburg of Michigan and "Frosty," David Rose of Indiana and "Silver," Andrew B. Freeman and "Sam" of Pennsylvania.

Oscoda Seeks to Quiet Title on Property

Oscoda Township has filed suit against the heirs of a former Ausable River lumberman to quiet title on a parcel of land occupied by the township for 65 years and occupied by a building occupied by the township's water department building since 1952.

Named as defendants in the suit were members of the Yockey family, heirs of Elizabeth and Christian Yockey. The suit involves Lot 10, Block 10 of the Village of Oscoda.

In 1911, the township claims it took adverse possession of the premises and has occupied it since that time. In 1917, the township remodeled the original stable owned by Yockey and constructed a building which was leased to the Josco County Road Commission. The building was later remodeled for the water department.

The defendants claim title to the premises by virtue of a deed dated November 13, 1908.

PERCH FISHING RESULTS on Saginaw Bay continued to be excellent over the week-end, judging from fishermen checking in at the Ninth Avenue boat launching ramp in Tawas City. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rock of Oscoda are shown here with a nice catch of fish late Sunday afternoon. Fishermen reported, too, that salmon were beginning to hit in Tawas Bay and it is expected that fishing results on coho and chinook salmon will begin to be productive this week.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Council

from 1:00 to 5:00 p. m. daily on the first two days and from 7:00 to 9:00 p. m. on the second day. The hearings will be held at the city hall.

The council accepted the low bid of Lake Construction Company, Indian River, of 56 cents per square yard for prime and double sealcoating of streets and a price of $17.95 per ton from Central Paving Company, West Branch, for installation of plant mix blacktop.

The council authorized the city manager to select streets under the sealcoating program according to the available money. The city had originally budgeted an expenditure of $8,736 for sealcoating this year, but addition of several streets brought the cost to more than $11,000. The city manager is to determine if sealcoating of the additional streets is desirable at this time and, if so, the manner of financing to be used. One method may be to utilize slightly more than $5,500 in funds designated as this community's share of federal revenue money allocated by the county board of commissioners.

The council accepted a sealed quotation from William Brown, insurance agent, as his bid for providing insurance to the city. The city is to ask for bids on insurance for awarding at a later date.

Authorization was given to accept a charge from the Josco County Department of Public Works for its administration of the water improvement project for Tawas City, East Tawas and Baldwin Township. The charge would amount to one percent of the total construction cost and this city's share would be about $4,000. The proposed fee was approved last week by the East Tawas Council.

The council authorized installation of stop signs on First Avenue at Roberta Drive and on Bay Drive in front of the residence of Robert Rollin. It was felt that the signs would aid in slowing traffic on these two streets.

The council approved the annual maintenance contract with the Michigan Department of State Highways totaling $17,370 for work performed by the city.

The city manager was authorized to contact area financial institutions for financing of the proposed new fire truck.

Sheriff's Dept. Lists Complaints

Three breakings and enterings, five larcenies and three vandalism complaints were investigated during the past week by Josco County Sheriff's Department.

Cabin breakings and enterings were reported by Richard Brown, Jose Lake Road; Lolla Holm, South Branch; Herman Hage, Long Lake.

Larcenies were reported by Thomas Gorney, Bay City, a quantity of fishing gear stolen from a camper at Foote Dam; Harold Goedecke, Miller Road, Tawas City, theft of 10 bales of straw; Anthony Koulchar, National City, gasoline tank from boat; Clifford Hendricks, Indian Lake, theft of a tent and sleeping bag; Thomas Gardner, Grant Township, theft of a tarpaulin; Scattered damage to windows from BB shot was reported by William Blackmore, Tawas City; Leo Sweat, Jose Lake; Douglas Ferguson, East Tawas.

Two Taylor men, Mark J. Kulka, 18, and Gary A. Bergum, 19, were arrested early Saturday morning following an incident at Oasis Bar, Oscoda Township. It is alleged the men were ejected from the building following an altercation over a pool game. Later, a window in the front door was hit by pellets from an air gun.

IN MEMORIUM

In memory of Richard L. Stock, who passed away two years ago, September 18th.

It's only a grave that needs my care,
But the one I love is buried there.

The call was sudden, the shock severe,
I never thought such grief was near.

The pain of parting without a goodbye,
Shall remain with me until I die.

Some will forget him, now that he's gone,
But I will remember him, no matter how long.

Sadly missed by his wife,

Cardinals Won Season Opener

Whittemore-Prescott Area Cardinals started the 1976 football season off in fine style Friday night by defeating one of its archrivals, AuGres-Sims, 20-14, before a large home opening crowd.

The Cards built up a 20-0 lead in the third quarter then held AuGres off after a fourth quarter rush by the Arenac County squad.

Albert May rang up 81 yards in 15 carries for Whittemore. The Cards had 418 yards to 283 yards for the losers. The Cards also had a 22-7 edge in first downs.

Scott Walker had 19 tackles, John Wright accounted for 12 stops and Ron Harris had 11 for AuGres.

in 11 carries during the night, plunged one yard in the third period to make it 20-0 before AuGres got on the scoreboard.

Eugene Kauffman, AuGres quarterback, went four yards for the first touchdown, then ran the point after touchdown. He followed that up with a 77-yard pass to Brian Smith in the final period.

Jeff Touseley, senior halfback, was the running star for the Braves in this non-conference game. Touseley scored a tying touchdown in the third quarter and then scored a six-pointer in the overtime period.

JEFF TOUSLEY Scored two Tawas touchdowns.

Braves Lost First Overtime Game to Meridian

Tawas Braves lost the opening game of the 1976 football season Friday night, 14-12, but it took an overtime performance by the Sanford-Meridian High School squad to pull out the victory.

Jeff Touseley, senior halfback, was the running star for the Braves in this non-conference game. Touseley scored a tying touchdown in the third quarter and then scored a six-pointer in the overtime period.

Down by two points after Touseley's second touchdown, Tawas tried a two-point conversion and failed.

Bill Fillmore had a big night for the winners, passing for two touchdowns and then connected on the all-important two-point conversion in overtime.

Completing seven of nine passes for 58 yards during the night, Fillmore connected with Larry Sasse from 10 yards out in the overtime. He then tossed a two-yard pass to his brother, Don, for the two-point after touchdown to win the game.

Meridian's first touchdown came in the second quarter on a 16-yard pass from Fillmore to Bob Van-Nortwick.

"Inexperience showed in our first outing when we had a first down, goal to go and could not score with three minutes left in the game," said Head Coach Dick Look of the Braves. "The kids played their hearts out and we are hoping that the game with Boyne City here Friday night will give us time to get things together before the conference opener in two weeks."

Leading ground gainer for the Braves was Touseley who had 64 yards in 20 carries. Mike Lear had 15 yards in six carries while Mark Fisher had 16 yards in 11 carries.

Leading receiver for Tawas' passing game was Revord, who caught two passes for 33 yards. Touseley caught two passes for seven yards and Bruce Glancy caught one pass for 12 yards.

Tawas had a total of 146 yards during the night and the winners had 158 yards. Glancy punted five times for 176 yards. Both teams had eight first downs each.

Thursday night's battle between the Junior Braves and Sanford-Meridian Junior Varsity ended in a 0-0 tie. The entire game was played in the rain.

Smith in Line for City Supt. Job at E. Tawas

William S. Smith was appointed September 7 by the East Tawas City Council as the new assistant superintendent of public works. He is to serve a six-month probationary period.

The appointment moves Smith in line as the successor to Paul Ropert, who retires as city superintendent effective December 31.

Initial salary of the assistant superintendent was set at $10,500 and is to be increased to $12,500 as of January 1.

In other business, Ropert reported on a recent workshop held at Midland regarding the 1976 public works funding bill established by the federal government and indicated that a new city garage is a prime project for such funding.

The finance committee is to meet with the city superintendent to revise the city's building permit fee schedule and to establish a wage schedule for the proposed position of building inspector. Authority was given to appoint an inspector from the names of applicants on file.

Building applications were approved for Dale Bertch, Ella Clements, William Cronk, Mark De-Beau, Leslie Frasee, H. E. Glosop, Burton Graves, Charles Gross, John McMurray, Q. Stave and Wayne Vaughan.

Application by Barbier Motor Sales to install a new sign was referred to the ordinance committee.

First reading was held on proposed ordinance No. 236 prohibiting fishing or loitering on the Tawas River bridge.

First reading was held on proposed ordinance No. 237 which would prohibit the consumption of alcoholic beverages on public property other than for people duly registered in the city park trailer camp.

Authorization was given to paint the exterior of the city hall.

The superintendent reported that the electrical cost of operating pumping stations throughout the city has doubled and that this increase would call for an evaluation of present water and sewer service charges.

High bid of $852 from William Scales was accepted for purchase of the 1975 police patrol vehicle. A second bid submitted by Norman Klenow was for $850.

DNR Research Paper Reveals Plight of Saginaw Bay Perch

An important research paper on "Population Changes in Saginaw Bay Yellow Perch" is now in its second draft by Randy L. Eshenroder, fisheries biology executive, Alpena Great Lakes Fisheries Station, for presentation in its final form before a joint meeting of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources.

Eshenroder's research into yellow perch of Saginaw Bay has drawn upon previous studies of this species as well as his own research since the early 1970s.

When completed, the paper will be of major interest to conservationists, as well as to the local region because of the importance of the yellow perch both to the sports angler and commercially. As an example, the scarcity of yellow perch has seen the commercial price to restaurants for filleted fish increase to more than $3 per pound locally.

Eshenroder's original research deals primarily with the commercial perch fishing industry since the addition of new gear (nylon gill nets) followed by abandonment of the size limit on perch in 1966 and the consequence of those events.

Saginaw Bay's surface area is divided about equally between a shallow inner bay and a deeper outer bay (Tawas Bay is included in the latter). The waters were greatly enriched during the 1940s and 1950s from industrial-urban and agricultural sources. Some recent improvements in water quality have been observed since the late 1960s.

According to the report, yellow perch landings were high, averaging 545 metric tons, at the turn of the century, but declined thereafter to an average of 210 metric tons from 1917 through 1963. At the end of this time period, the stock was large, but so slow growing that landings in the commercial fishery were depressed under the existing size limit.

"Addition of new gear and fishing effort and abandonment of the size limit in 1966 produced a yield of 545 metric tons, the largest catch reported in 50 years," writes Eshenroder. "Landings declined gradually after 1966 and by the early 1970s, were as low as 104 metric tons.

"Survival declined in the late 1960s, while growth increased. Yellow perch stocks in the outer bay were severely depleted by the late 1960s and those in the inner bay were much reduced. Fishery productivity has for several decades, and perhaps longer, been dependent upon the development of strong year classes and these became less frequent in the last 10 years.

"The rate of regularity of the spring warming is apparently related to year class strength and it is hypothesized that the reduced stocks may be more sensitive to environmental factors. Overfishing is, however, the primary cause of the recent changes in the stock."

In his paper, Eshenroder describes the Saginaw Bay watershed, the climate, the chemistry, plant and animal life and the bay's diversity of fish fauna.

Annual commercial landings of yellow perch are traced from 1891, the first year of record, to the present day. In 1972, the gill net fishery was closed by regulation as a protective measure and restricted use of trap nets is permitted in the lower bay.

Considerable information in the paper concerns fishing gear and regulations, the history of growth of perch, age composition and year class strength, as well as the spawning stock and the effects of species changes.

Eshenroder notes that sports angling in the outer bay declined severely following expansion of the gill net fishery in the mid-1960s and removal of size limits.

"A number of outer bay ports such as Tawas had been noted for their recreational fisheries, especially in the spring when thousands of anglers gathered to fish the perch spawning run. The lost revenue from these fisheries must have had a substantial impact on those port cities, which were small and oriented towards tourism.

A FISHERIES biology executive for the Alpena Great Lakes Fisheries Station, Randy L. Eshenroder, contends in a new research paper that, with wise management, expansion of the yellow perch stock is foreseen. An exceptional year-class appears to have been produced in 1975 and, if afforded reasonable protection, these young fish could greatly augment the spawning stocks.—Tawas Herald Photo.

"In 1970, outer Saginaw Bay was closed to commercial perch fishing and, since that time, angling has improved, but remains well below that seen in the 1950s," reports Eshenroder.

Saginaw Bay's yellow perch stock has twice fluctuated between abundance and scarcity in this century. The earlier period of scarcity was believed to have resulted from overfishing and the most recent instance appears to have a similar basis.

"In the 1950s and early 1960s, Saginaw Bay perch were abundant enough that growth suppression was limiting the commercial fishery with the size limit then in effect," writes Eshenroder. "Removal of the size limit in 1966 might have been beneficial had there not been a change in fishing effort.

"However, a higher market price for yellow perch precipitated an intensified effort, particularly in the outer bay, where a new fishery, employing gill nets, developed. Depletion was rapid in the outer bay; in the inner bay, where reproduction was stronger, the stock declined, but not as severely as in the outer bay.

"Manipulation of the size limit without control of fishing effort proved then to be disastrous. In addition to the eventual decline in commercial yield, the recreational fishery in the outer bay was eliminated.

"Now fishing effort is under some restraint. Gill nets were declared illegal fishing gear in 1972 and the remaining trap net fishery operates under limited entry. The water quality data suggests some recent improvement for Saginaw Bay and, with wise management, expansion of the stock is foreseen," concludes Eshenroder.

Americans have been collectors of historical memorabilia for generations—some call it "junk" today—but many valuable artifacts of interest to the modern professional historians would have been lost forever had it not been for many dedicated amateurs.

A case in point might be the portable writing desk upon which Thomas Jefferson prepared his original draft of the Declaration of Independence 200 years ago. The desk fell into the hands of a private collector after Jefferson completed his important work and it is now one of the cherished possessions of the nation's heritage.

There are many other examples of the important place filled by the amateur collector, the most notable locally being the late Joseph Barkman, who spent a lifetime collecting items of local historical interest, displayed them in his business place for inspection by the public and then, under provisions of his will, left this vast collection to the public. The Osceola County Historical Society was named as the vehicle to carry out terms of Barkman's gift to the public and efforts are now being made to establish a local museum.

Through this interest in collecting has grown a specialized breed of amateur historians—those who concentrate on one particular field of collection and research. As a result, some notable papers have been written and published in book form concerning various facets of American history—from Indian artifacts and lore through a multitude of subjects.

Because of the prominent role the lumbering industry played in Osceola's early history, there are a number of amateurs interested in the artifacts remaining from that industry. Armed with metal detectors and even scuba diving gear, collectors have searched through old lumbering camp sites, which have rotted away over the years, or probed lake bottoms in their quest.

Vast amounts of those artifacts are enjoyed in the homes of collectors and numerous items have been donated to museums around the state.

Of particular interest this past summer have been a number of large white pine logs, which "popped" off the bottom of Tawas Bay and washed up along the shore. This newspaper received two inquiries concerning the identity of marks or brands stamped into the ends of the logs and there lies a most fascinating subject for amateur historical research which has not yet been completed.

An office clerk's failure to close a vault door in the H. M. Loud mill can be blamed for the loss of records now deemed important to Osceola County and Northern Michigan's history.

But who could blame the clerk for making a hasty exit from the two-story frame building in Au-

LOG MARKS maintained law and order during Michigan's early lumbering days by proving ownership on the thousands of logs driven down streams each spring. The men above were employed by a booming company and sorted logs according to end marks.

Sable's business district on July 11, 1911? Flames from sawdust and bark-covered streets of the mill town were licking angrily at the office and the clerk had good reason to be concerned about his family and home on the opposite side of town.

At the time, destruction by fire of Osceola Boom Company records stored in the Loud vault was insignificant, for all of AuSable and most of Osceola were laid waste by one of the most devastating fires in Northern Michigan history.

The clerk's haste to reach his home has probably left a never-to-be-filled gap in historical research, for ledgers of the boom company contained the only known registry of log marks used on the lower AuSable River.

This gap, however, could be filled at some future time if a log scaler's note book is ever uncovered. The possibility does exist that such a record book is hidden in the vast collection of the Michigan Historical Commission at Lansing, the collection of the University of Michigan, other universities or even in private hands. Some student writing a research paper might someday unravel the mystery concerning Osceola log marks.

A few of the better known marks have been identified—the circle L of the Louds, the K reverse K of Pack, Woods and Company, VC of Penoyar Brothers, JEP of J. E. Potts Lumber Company, all of the AuSable River; or the CHP of Charles H. Prescott, the intricate mark containing a "keystone" of Keystone Salt and Lumber Company, circle 85 of Wenona Salt and Lumber Company, one of the successors to the Whittemores, along with a number of marks which were identified as being used in the AuGres River system.

Marking hammers were in constant demand in Michigan during the 1870s and 1880s, or until railroads replaced streams as a means of transporting logs. The hammers, which had a raised design or combination of letters on one or both ends, were generally of cast iron, of from four to six pounds in weight and taking many shapes. (The only log mark in the Barkman collection was cast in brass, which was most unusual.)

By 1911, river drives had long been a thing of the past—more than a billion feet of white pine logs had spilled down the swift AuSable River and millions of feet of logs had been driven down other area streams.

Log marks, the little symbols of law and order which defended the rights of their owners during many drives, were practically forgotten for 30 years or more. Then, in 1939-40, WPA researchers for the Michigan Writer's Project dug into industry records in county clerk's offices across Northern Michigan, which resulted in Memoir Bulletin No. 4, "Michigan Log Marks," one of the most popular booklets ever published by the state and now in its fourth printing.

An unsolved mystery developed during this project when only eight firms were to be recorded in the Osceola County clerk's office and the marks registered there did not include names of the better known AuSable firms.

The mystery surrounding the missing registry comes closer to solving, however, when one realizes that booming companies controlled both of the county's major streams—the AuSable and the AuGres—and that lumbering firms operating on those streams for nearly 30 years registered their marks with the AuSable Boom Company and later with the Osceola Boom Company, or with the AuGres Boom Company, which controlled footage of logs over that river and its several tributary streams.

For all practical purposes, the mystery was solved by Henry Kimball Loud, who died at the age of 100 years in August of this year. Loud, who was the grandson of the founder of the lumbering dynasty which was so closely connected with white pine operations on the AuSable River and Northern Michigan, recalled the office clerk who failed to close the vault door at AuSable. He was in a position to have first hand information for he was superintendent of the Loud mills at the time of the 1911 fire.

As a consequence of the fire, anyone interested in Osceola log mark identification must turn to other sources—circuit court records, diaries and a few remaining old-timers who can recall the lumbering days in Osceola.

In 1971, a search was commenced in the Osceola Circuit Court records, when it was recalled that constant litigation between companies and individuals was part of the Michigan lumbering picture. A number of marks were found in these records over a period of several months search, but the work has never been completed.

In addition to the above source of information, the daily diaries and correspondence of Osceola County Sheriff L. B. Smith, for the years 1874-1879, turned up more marks. On one page of his diary is recorded the cat's head mark of Absalom Backus, who constructed the first sawmill at AuSable in 18-67.

Using the above informational sources, 89 marks used on Osceola streams have been identified. Actually, the list is not so impressive for several firms had more than one mark. There were at least 200 log marks used in Osceola County and other sources and a different means of investigation must be exhausted before a representative (See MARKS, page 6.)

THIS PICTURE shows a collection of 35 different log marking hammers used by area lumbermen and owned by Neil Thornton of The Tawas Herald. Most of the marks have been identified through more than a decade of research, but others probably will never be identified due to absence of booming company records.

Bravettes Won Two Games Over Alpena

Tawas Area Bravettes won two games Thursday night at Alpena to open the 1976-77 basketball season. The varsity won by a score of 52-45 and the junior varsity rang up a 36-12 victory.

The two varsity teams were evenly matched for three quarters. Tawas jumped off to a 14-12 lead in the first quarter and went out in front, 28-18, at the half. Alpena came back with a 12-8 margin in the third quarter.

With slightly over one minute to go in the game, Tawas held a two-point lead and then shot ahead with eight straight points, six of them from the free throw line.

Alpena stayed within striking distance in the first quarter, but Tawas changed its defense in the second quarter in an attempt to stop Phyllis Idalski, high scorer for the northern team. Idalski scored 21 points in the game, but Tawas' defensive change meant the difference in the game.

Mary Jane Williams had 19 points to lead Tawas scoring. Helen Anschuetz hooped 13 points, followed by Tara Freel with seven points. Kim Wickert had six points, Shellee Davison had five points and Debbie Taylor had two points.

Top scorers for the junior varsity were Cathy Davison, six points; Mary Ann Mooney and Joyce Hatcher, six points each.

The Bravettes were to play Tuesday night at Whittemore-Prescott Area High School.

Oscoda's New High School Being Utilized

15 Years Ago—
September 20, 1961 — Oscoda Area High School students, faculty and administration are now enjoying facilities of one of the state's newest and most unique high school buildings. Major work on the 2.7-million-dollar building was completed in time for the start of the fall term.

Orville Leslie and Sons Ford-Mercury dealership in Tawas City has been sold to William Inglis of West Branch.

Members of the East Tawas Council and Mayor C. V. Miller have not come to an agreement on a proposed city hall which has been hanging fire for many months. Mayor Miller suggested Monday night that approximately $17,400 be taken from a treasury surplus of $26,000 to pay for a new fire truck. The majority of the council is of the opinion that the surplus should be placed in a city hall building fund and took no action on the recommendation.

Named delegates to the state constitutional convention were Herman Dehnke of Harrisville and Lewis T. Hubbs of Gladwin.

25 Years Ago—
September 21, 1951—Construction is progressing rapidly on the new gymnasium for Plainfield

Township Rural Agricultural School.

A school reorganization plan proposed for the Tawas area has been endorsed by W. F. Clapp, assistant superintendent of public instruction.

Jay Stephan of Grayling and Ted Engle of Gaylord won the Michigan canoe championship on the AuSable River.

Bert Sager, who represented the Tawas City Businessmen's Association, presented a copy of a proposed ordinance to the city council which would license so called "fly-by-night" transient merchants.

Julius Musolf of St. Johns snapped the official pictures for the golden anniversary of the Tawas City Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star.

35 Years Ago—
University of Michigan degrees have been conferred upon Eber C. Carlson, Tawas City, master of art, and Miss Marion L. Jennings, Hale, master of science.

A fire loss of several thousand dollars was sustained by Edward Mathews, AuSable commercial fisherman, when his net house burned Wednesday.

Elmer Britt, a member of the Iosco County Road Commission, was elected president of the Northern Michigan Road Commission Association.

Woman interested in the community drive for improvement of the Tawas City Park are invited to meet at the home of Mrs. Joseph Stepanski Friday night.

George Underwood, Brooklyn

Dodger scout, who has been visiting for the past two weeks at the home of Stanley Shellenbarger of Hale, has returned to his home at Cleveland, Ohio.

Class presidents elected at Tawas City School are as follows: Hugh Prescott, 12th grade; Philip Ross, 11th grade; Edward Gracik, 10th grade; Gay Young, ninth grade; Beverly Bigelow, eighth grade; Janet Musolf, seventh grade.

Cub Scouting School Night on Sept. 23

School night for cub scouting in local schools is scheduled for 7:30 p. m. on Thursday, September 23. Boys and parents are being invited to come to their neighborhood school "to join the cub scouts," according to Judge Ray King, school night chairman for the Lake Huron Area Council, Boy Scouts of America. Over 200 schools in Northeastern Michigan will be open to accept new members on that evening.

"Cub scouting is more an educational than recreational program," King said, "and parents find that the fun and activities of cub scouting all have a basis of character development, citizenship training, and mental and physical fitness."

Leaders of local cub scout packs will be present at the school night activities to explain the cub scouting program. Boys age eight through 10 are invited to attend with their parents (any boy in the third grade is eligible).

LOGS piled up along the AuSable River after a winter's work are being rolled into the stream for transportation to mills at AuSable and Oscoda. Need of marks to determine ownership of logs is quite evident by the picture.

Marks

(There is a misconception regarding the hundreds of log marks identified in the state booklet. By law, log marks were registered in each county and a confusing situation exists in that different firms utilized the same mark in one or more counties. As a result, log marks identified for Alpena County, for example, do not necessarily apply to those used in Isosco County. There are a few exceptions, however, as a number of Saginaw River lumbering firms used marks registered at Saginaw in their Au-Gres and Rifle River operations.)

Any retiree, high school or college student interested in carrying on this amateur historical research is invited to contact Neil Thornton of The Tawas Herald, Clarke Historical Library at Central Michigan University and the state archives are awaiting information concerning identification of Isosco log marks.

CREATIVITY

A lot is heard today about how important it is to encourage creativity in children, but how about encouraging creativity in adults? It seems important, too. All of us are creative in our own special ways. One may express her creativity through the way she dresses while another's creative energies are released in landscaping a yard. Could it be that the vast do-it-yourself movement being experienced has a lot to do with the need to express creativity in one's everyday life? Some experts think so.

How does one express creativity? Through painting, playing a piano or writing a poem? Through sewing a suit, decorating a cake or building a dollhouse? Through raising money for a club, dealing with children or devising a tasty meal from leftovers? Every aspect of life, no matter how ordinary, offers opportunities to exercise creativity. The extraordinary times of present day living demands that individuals find non-traditional ways to approach problems.

Here is a simple exercise to attempt to develop a creative potential. This one focuses on awareness. Walk through your house and pick up an object—anything. Take a paper and pencil and write down as many words as you can think of to describe it—its color, size, shape, texture, utility, etc. Later, check with someone else to see if they can think of a word you missed.

Oscoda area sessions will be held Tuesdays, September 21 and 28, 9:30 to 11:30 a. m., at the Oscoda United Methodist Church. Hale area sessions will be Tuesdays, September 21 and 28, 1:00 to 3:00 p. m., at St. Paul's Lutheran Church on M-65. Tawas area sessions are scheduled for Fridays, September 24 and October 1, 9:30 to 11:30 a. m., at the Tawas Area College Center, US-23.

For more exploration of creativity, contact the Cooperative Extension Service at 362-3449 and ask about the upcoming "Mark of a Creative Woman" program.
