Official Ground Breaking Aug. 25 for Provincial House Nursing Home

An official ground breaking ceremony for Provincial House, Incorporated's, new nursing home in Tawas City is to be held Thursday, August 25, at 4:00 p. m. Located at the intersection of North Street and Fifth Avenue, considerable progress had been made on the 120-bed unit since actual construction began July 5. The skilled nursing facility, being financed by an FHA insured loan in excess of $1,000,000, is scheduled for completion in March 1978. Provincial House's construction division, PHI Construction Company, is general contractor on the project. Patrick J. Callihan, president of the Lansing based firm which operates 15 other nursing facilities in Michigan, said that the Tawas City facility would incorporate improvements developed at the firm's other facilities over the past decade. The nursing home is being built in an X-shape with four patient wings meeting at a central nursing station. From this central hub, nurses on duty will have a direct view of each patient doorway.

Board Inspects School Facilities

Inspection of two elementary buildings was made Monday night by Tawas Area Board of Education as preparations are under way for the start of the 1977-78 school term on Tuesday, September 6. With the start of school less than four weeks away, administrators reminded students in grades nine through 12 that class schedules and locker assignments may be picked up August 24-29. Students new to the community are encouraged to register as soon as possible at appropriate elementary or secondary school buildings. During Monday evening's tour of the East Tawas Elementary Unit and Tawas City Elementary Unit, board of education members inspected maintenance work completed at the buildings during the summer. Included was a project at the Tawas City unit gymnasium where brick work around the entrance at the southeast corner of the building was replaced by a contractor. In addition, the gymnasium's interior received a new coat of paint. Supt. Robert A. Halle said that the custodial staff had completed installation of weatherstripping on doors at both units in an effort to conserve heat this coming winter. The board of education is to inspect maintenance work at the high school during its next meeting August 22. The fall term for teachers and staff starts with orientation on Thursday, September 1.

RICHARD DODGE

Hale A. Principal Going to Sanilac Co.

Richard Dodge, who has been principal at Hale Area High School for the past eight years, resigned from that position Monday night to accept a new job as principal of the Sanilac County Skill Center near Sandusky. "This has not been an easy decision to leave the Hale area; in fact, it has been a difficult one from a personal standpoint," said Dodge. He said, however, that a challenging opportunity had been offered in this new position. The skill center constructed by the Sanilac County Intermediate School District serves seven school districts, has an enrollment of 600 students and has a staff of 40. Dodge said that the real challenge is the fact that the school has been in operation only two years and has had two different administrators during that time. During his eight-year tenure at Hale Area School, Dodge took an active part in the school's construction program and has received recognition for his implementation of modular scheduling and a teacher evaluation program. Hale Area School has become accredited during his employment there. Prior to coming to Hale, Dodge had a background in vocational education in Flint schools and work in his new position will include curriculum, supervising personnel and public relations. Dodge, his wife, Lyn, and their two sons will be moving to Sanilac County, but they expect to retain their Londo Lake home as summer residents. His last day of employment at Hale Area High School will be August 18.

Schools Prepare for Opening Day

Action by Tawas Area Board of Education Monday night dealt mainly with preparations for the opening of the fall school term. Bids on furnishing baked goods were accepted from Schaffer Bakery of Lansing and Grocery Baking Company of Grand Rapids; milk bids were accepted from Wilson Dairy and London Dairy; gasoline bids were accepted from Barber Oil Company and Total Products. Bids were opened from Forward Oil Company and Raleigh Brothers for furnishing lubricants, oil and antifreeze for the school bus fleet. A bid of $175 per month was submitted by Hager Sanitation for removal of trash from the schools. The board of education granted a one-year leave of absence to Catherine Butch in order for her to complete work on a master degree. She is a second grade teacher and joined the staff in 1974. At the request of Richard Learned, who served on the citizens advisory committee, students are to be polled to determine interest in a course in Spanish. Learned said that the committee recommended offering Spanish rather than French. Supt. Robert A. Halle said that the school presently does not have a qualified Spanish teacher, but he felt that hiring one was on the horizon. A letter from the Michigan Department of Education notified the school district that appeals concerning denials of transfers between districts by the Iosco Intermediate School District had been dropped by individual property owners in Sherman Township. At the request of Sec. Robert Curry, Board Pres. Clare Herrieman appointed a three-member committee to work with administrators on expansion of the school's food service program. The board of education authorized hiring of Janet Skinner as the district's new speech therapist. She had been employed for the past two years by the intermediate school district. The intermediate district has discontinued its speech therapy program, but will continue to provide funds to local units for this service.

Park Dock to Close During Construction

Tawas City Park dock will be closed to the public during construction which is scheduled to start August 22, but City Mgr. Reginald Bublitz said Tuesday that the closing is not expected to inconvenience sport fishermen. After weeks of excellent fishing for perch, success at the dock has tapered off during the past week and facilities there have not been used so extensively as in the past. During a preconstruction meeting last week with K. G. Marks, Incorporated, Port Huron, a tentative date of Monday, August 22, was established as the day to start this $59,523.80 project. Actual start of construction will depend on delivery of steel sheet piling, which is expected August 18. The city manager said that if delivery of materials is received on time, installation of sheet piling at the dock should be completed by September 5, followed by construction of culvert extensions. The project is expected to be completed by September 15, with cleanup to be finished by September 19. Bublitz said it will be necessary to close the dock during construction in order to protect the public against injury. This project is being financed by a grant from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

High Wind-Hail Damaged Crops

A high wind accompanied by hail caused extensive damage to crops and property in Western Iosco County and Eastern Ogemaw County late Friday afternoon. Residents of one area believed the damage was caused by a small tornado. Rain helped crops in most of the county and crop damage was confined to the area north of M-55-M-65 junction where fields were hit by hail and high wind. Corn was stripped from stalks by the hail and oat fields were damaged. At the Walter Redmond farm, located one-half mile east of M-65 on Carpenter Road, a roof was blown off the barn, along with damage to doors and windows at the house. A 12 by 60-foot mobile home had just been moved to a site on Carpenter Road by William Redmond and the wind picked it up, turned it over and flattened it against the ground. Continuing east on Carpenter Road, the high wind moved the Daniel Ranger home about six inches on its foundation and hail stripped paint off the house. Tops of trees were twisted off at the Melvin Ott residence and one tree

Police Investigate Four Area Fires

Michigan State Police at East Tawas are continuing their investigation into fires at four area business places over the week-end. In each case, fire broke out Saturday night or early Sunday morning in trash piled against the buildings and is believed to be the work of arsonists. State police said no damage was caused to the buildings. Hit by fire were the Kroger Store and Freeley's King's Market, both in Tawas City; the Yankee Peddler, Baldwin Township; McDonald's Restaurant, Oscoda.

ARTISTS AND CRAFTSMEN displayed their work during the 17th annual Tawas Bay Waterfront Art Show on Saturday and Sunday. A number of the artists and craftsmen gave demonstrations during the two days which proved interesting to the hundreds of visitors.—Tawas Herald Photos.

Annual Tawas Bay Waterfront Art Show Was Success

Despite a heavy rain Friday evening which drenched exhibitors as they were setting up displays at the Tawas City Park and rain late Sunday afternoon which curtailed the awards program, the 17th annual Tawas Bay Waterfront Art Show was an outstanding success. Perfect weather greeted the show Saturday and most of Sunday as exhibit areas of the park and at the Iosco County Building were jammed both days. Jeffrey B. Havill, judge for the show, commented that he was impressed with the strength of the fine arts in this show. "A strong show depends upon a balance between crafts and fine arts such as I saw here," declared Havill, who is assistant professor in the department of art, Alma College. "The Tawas Bay Arts Council is to be highly commended on the quality of this exhibition," said Havill. "As with all festivals and shows, jurying work is a difficult and a necessary subjective task. I think that among the categories, painting and drawing were most strongly represented." As an added note, Havill made special acknowledgement of the friendliness and courtesy of all involved, both organizers and participants. This year's show was limited to 725 artists and craftsmen with work juried and limited by categories. As a result, the show enjoyed the highest quality of exhibits in its history with exhibitors registered from Michigan, Ohio, Kentucky, Florida, Arizona, Wisconsin, Texas and New Mexico. Receiving the award for best of show was Paul Wolber, Parma, for his acrylic paintings. Awards and cash prizes were presented to the following winners at the end of the show by Mary Brown, president of Tawas Bay Artists: Oil Paintings—William Adair, Midland, first prize; Mathew Voisin, Ottawa Lake, second prize; John McCann, Lapeer, honorable mention. Acrylic Paintings—Clark Most, Midland, first prize; Mary Putnam, Lapeer, second prize; Jean DeWard, Novi, honorable mention. Pleads Guilty to Defrauding Air Force

He admitted claiming military dependent benefits for his girl friend's children by representing her as his wife. TODAY'S Meditation

from The World's Most Widely Used Devotional Guide

The Upper Room

(Read Genesis 1:1-10)
"In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth." (Genesis 1:1)

As our five-year-old son sat looking over his baby pictures, he mused, "God is taking a long time to make me a man so I'll get used to it."

Many adults are so used to the orderly ways of God that it takes a child's fresh insight to call them to their attention. God goes about the business of uninterrupted creating, obeying His own laws. Oak trees do not pop overnight out of acorns, nor grown men out of infants. The Creator God brings forth His creation step by step in natural order. There is no creation gap. He is neither hesitating nor hurrying, but renewing, redeeming, perfecting. God is taking a long time to make persons and oak trees, river beds and islands, diamonds and moon rocks.

When we observe the length of time creating takes, it is astonishing to realize that what we are witnessing is the Creator God's perfect faithfulness to His creation.

PRAYER
O Creator God, your creatures are grateful for your gift of time, for your place in your creation and for your unfaltering presence. In Jesus' name. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

Seek Recipes for State Pork Title

If an individual has an old family pork recipe to make on the grill or enjoys improvising while cooking on the patio, here is an opportunity to show off culinary skills and become Michigan's outdoor pork-cooking champion.

The contest will consist of two divisions, one for men and one for women. The women's division will provide cash prizes, trophies and engraved plaques. The men's division will offer the same prizes and awards. The first place winner in the men's division and his wife will also enjoy an expense-paid trip to compete in the National Pork Cook-Out King's Contest in the spring of 1978 and will have the use of a Broilmaster outdoor gas grill for one year.

Finalists must be available to prepare their recipes for the cook-out at the Michigan State Fair on August 30. Deadline for receiving entries is August 22. Recipes must be typed or printed with complete mailing address and telephone. Successful finalists will be notified immediately. Entries must be sent to: Pork Cook-Out Contest, Howard Camden, Cook-Out Contest Coordinator, 32969 Hamilton Court, Farmington Hills, MI 48018.

Any cut of meat may be used that is commonly found in the local supermarket or meat market.

This is a contest only for amateurs. Professional cooks or chefs are not eligible. Cooking time cannot exceed three hours. Four finalists will be selected from each division.

Recipes must not have been previously published nor have won another division.

Judging is based on originality, flavor, appetizing appearance, ease and practicality of preparation on outdoor grill.

The cook-out is sponsored by the Michigan Pork Producers Association.

Medical Info. May be Listed on License

Starting next week, all Michigan drivers will be able to obtain special medical information and organ donor stickers which are designed for attaching to the backs of their driver licenses.

According to Sec. of State Richard H. Austin, whose office is issuing the new labels, "These will enable drivers to carry crucial medical care information where it is immediately available in case of an accident or emergency. Law enforcement officers, para-medics, ambulance crews and hospital personnel are all accustomed to checking driver licenses for basic information about persons involved in accidents or other emergencies."

Austin added, "The labels also include an 'anatomical gift' section, for persons who wish to donate eyes, kidneys, skin, bone marrow or other organs after death." Austin's office has added a box on the front of all new driver licenses, where the driver can indicate whether medical or organ donor information is included on the back.

He said, "From now on, all drivers will automatically receive the labels by mail, in the same envelope with their photo licenses." Drivers whose licenses are not due to be renewed for some time may obtain labels at any secretary of state branch office.

The new medical information and organ donor labels were provided for by the state legislature in Public Act 358 of 1976, the "Anatomical Donor" law.

What's Cooking in Michigan

By CARL OLSON
Michigan Department of Agriculture

The Michigan Department of Agriculture has figures on production of snap beans, cabbage, carrots, celery, sweet corn, onions and tomatoes for fresh market. Figures are not available, however, on summer squash or zucchini.

From the amount of squash and zucchini I have been offered by friends who grow it in their backyard garden patch, it must be a prodigious volume.

My wife and I recently tried a recipe which combines these vegetables with either Michigan heavy cream or yogurt and now our supply is not keeping up with demand. Scrub one pound each of small yellow summer squash and zucchini, trim the ends and slice into quarter-inch rounds. Dry the slices on a paper towel and saute them in two tablespoons sweet Michigan butter. When they are lightly browned and almost tender, sprinkle with salt and pepper and pour one cup of either yogurt or heavy cream over them.

I might add that the yogurt adds a special tartness to the dish that I think is great.

After adding the cream or yogurt, sprinkle lightly with salt, white pepper and a little nutmeg to taste and simmer all for 10 minutes or until the squash and zucchini slices are tender and the liquid is reduced.

Season with additional nutmeg, transfer to a heated vegetable dish and serve with snipped dill on top.

Incidentally, Country Carousel lists lots of places individuals may go to either pick-your-own or buy fresh fruits and vegetables. For a free copy, write Country Carousel, Michigan Department of Agriculture, Post Office Box 30017, Lansing 48909. It is great if one does not have gardening neighbors.

Paced by the home run hitting of Earl Parsons and Wayne Revord, Tawas Indies finished the season Sunday with a 6-5 victory over visiting Alpena.

A ninth inning homer by Parsons provided the winning run after Alpena tied the game in the seventh inning.

Tawas drew first blood in the game when a walk, a single by Parsons, another walk and an error accounted for two runs. Alpena came back with one run in the second on a single, a bunt, a walk and a run scored before the tag was made in a run down. Alpena pushed two runs over in the third with two singles and a double.

The Indies unlimbered their long guns in the fifth inning when Parsons and Revord hit round trippers. Tawas scored its fifth run in the sixth on a double by Bernie Link and a single by Parsons.

Alpena tied the score in the seventh inning on a single and a home run by Al Kamowski.

Brad Potts was the winning pitcher, allowing nine hits, five walks and he struck out 10 batters. Dennis Smith was the loser for Alpena. Tawas nicked him for 11 hits and five walks. Smith struck out five batters.

Boundary Commission Wants More TA Merger Information

As the result of two hearings last week, the State Boundary Commission has asked officials of Tawas City and East Tawas to amplify responses to questionnaires concerning actual costs of a proposed new city as compared to costs of operating the present two cities.

This was brought out at the final hearing held Wednesday night at the American Legion Hall in Tawas City. About 75 people attended that hearing.

Some of the additional information requested included a list of present city officers, along with an estimate of time spent on jobs and compensation; a list of employees of each department of public works and office staffs, along with time spent on jobs and compensation; a list of capital equities of each city; a comparison of costs of present police protection and the cost under a new city for police and fire protection and other services.

Answers to these and other questions will be difficult to provide, but the boundary commission spokesman pointed out he could not come back to the area to gather this information.

The boundary commission said this information was necessary before the commission could reach a decision regarding its approval or disapproval of continuing the complicated process leading up to a vote on a proposed charter. Such information had been requested from the petitioners, but had not been provided.

Hearings were conducted in both Tawas City and East Tawas by David Calhoun, chairman of the state boundary commission. Two other state members included Ervin Rosian and James Smith. Local members appointed by the probate judge included J. N. Brugger of Tawas City and George Stalker of Baldwin Township.

At Tuesday night's hearing, Mayor Robert Bolen of East Tawas entered testimony opposing the consolidation. Reasons cited by the mayor and the East Tawas council included differences in administrative and operational procedures between the two communities, differences in service equipment operation, added operational costs through increased personnel and higher wages paid for a larger city, differences between the two communities in financing basic services.

Although not singling out any individual or organization, a position paper submitted at each hearing by a consolidation committee composed of private citizens took issue with the mayor and council. (A report on that paper was printed in last week's Tawas Herald.)

The committee's statement read into the record said it found it disheartening "that position statements have been made even before the issues and facts have been logically defined. We are encouraged that many citizens have expressed surprised reaction to such statements, asking that fact finding and issue searching be allowed to continue."

Brent R. Babcock, a Tawas City attorney and a resident of Alabaster Township who spearheaded the petition drive, testified it was his opinion that the two city administrations were not doing as well as one single administration could do on Tawas Bay.

Marlin Eaton, who read the position paper for the citizens' committee, commented that it seemed to him that area growth problems in the very near future could be better handled by one unified body. He felt that future planning could be better handled by one unified body and suggested that, although it did not appear that either city was over staffed with personnel, there was some duplication in each city and efficiency of present staffs would perhaps improve under one administration.

Mayor Herbert Cholger of Tawas City recommended that a thorough examination be made before "snide remarks" are cast at consolidation. As food for thought, the mayor indicated he believed it would be a good investment for citizens of each community to invest in the other community, "if the only cost required is to provide equitable representation, public services as required and assurances concerning outstanding financial obligations."

Testifying as a private citizen, Edward J. Barry pointed out that while there has never been a successful consolidation vote in this state, Tawas Area School District was the first in the state to consolidate under a 1952 legislative act.

Other private citizens testifying Wednesday night included Vernon Blust, who questioned how individual citizens would gain by consolidation, that there had been no testimony concerning an actual savings of money and he felt that consolidation would actually result in higher taxes.

In response to a letter submitted by the citizens' committee from First of Michigan Corporation stating that a single city would be in a better bonding position, Kenneth Myles, attorney, pointed out that every bond issue adopted in Iosco County in recent years had utilized the full faith and credit of the entire county totaling $150,000,000.

Myles also expressed concern about not considering portions of Baldwin, Tawas and Alabaster Townships in the proposed consol-

PINE PLANTATIONS 20th CENTURY MIRACLE

Pine plantations of the Huron National Forest are often taken for granted by the thousands of summer visitors, who ride or tramp along its picturesque trails. Those plantations are one of the marvels of the twentieth century and should be protected against wanton damage by man.

Pressure on the forest by a never-ending crush of wheeled vehicles, coupled with unthinking humans who damaged maturing pine trees, resulted in the closing off to public access—except by foot—of the beautiful Silver Valley and Gordon Creek areas northwest of the Tawas.

The young people of the late 19-60s and early 1970s, who seemed to be so ecology minded, probably did not realize what they were doing when their motorbikes cut new trails through the forest. The sandy soil supporting vegetation of the forest was just too fragile to take this abuse and hundreds of acres of public land were closed off to permit a "healing" process.

In addition, motorbikes have caused considerable damage to embankments along Monument Road, despite the fact that warning signs have been posted by the forest service. Grass has been planted on the embankments to prevent erosion, but all the work is for nothing if the fragile soil is cut by deep tire tracks.

A recent newspaper article noted that attitudes of people—young and old—concerning proper use of public property seems to be changing from the dark days of the 1960s and early 1970s, when countless thousands of dollars of damage was caused to national forests, alone. If there is a change for the better in the public's attitude, it will be a great boon to preserving our natural resources for the present day and for future enjoyment.

Michigan paid no less a price for entry into the twentieth century than many other areas of the Eastern United States; but it made the payment at a higher rate of interest. For underlain as it is by vast deposits of glacial sand, there is little spontaneity in the regeneration of vegetation, once it has been carelessly stripped away.

Early government estimates, based on surveyor's findings, placed the standing pine timber in Michigan at the amazing figure of 150-billion board feet. In 1897, the eminent lumber historian of the Great Lakes States, George Hotchkiss, stated that more than 160-million board feet of pine had been cut by 1897, with only six-billion feet left standing, mostly in the Upper Peninsula.

Man's need and desire for white pine lumber had stripped the northern half of Lower Michigan of its virgin pine sawtimber in a matter of only three decades. It should be pointed out here, however, that the "plains" of Iosco County south of the AuSable River never supported great stands of white pine. The soil there for even that hardy tree species was just too sandy and the best stands of white pine were found on the heavier soil used for farming purposes after clearing.

Utilization of a natural resource—be it lumber, fish or what have you—usually leads to overproduction and that fact held true for Michigan's white pine. Despite the fact that many fortunes were made during the era of "green gold," during periods of peak production when markets were glut-ted with lumber, much of Michigan's white pine sold for practically nothing and countless lumbermen went into bankruptcy.

One of the great tragedies of that era is that the lumbermen actually realized that their own boundless energies would one day put them out of business and a natural resource would disappear.

"The fact that our vast resources of pine timber are rapidly disappearing in consequence of the immense and yearly increasing supplies demanded by the mills is now fully appreciated," it was reported in the 1870 annual statement of the salt and lumber business of the Saginaw Valley and "The Shore."

"And though the absurd procrastinations of the croakers in 1860—that at the rate of manufacture at that time, the timber supply would surely be exhausted in 12 years—was little heeded, the careful calculations of practical men determine that, at the present rate, the supply will be cleaned out within the next 16 years, are worthy of candid consideration."

The above statement, printed exactly as it appeared 107 years ago in a publication widely read by lumbermen, should dispel any modern myth that Michigan's lumbermen believed they would never see the end of the white pine industry.

It should be noted, however, that while the word conservation had been coined long before 1900, it really was not put into practice until the twentieth century; therefore, Michigan's lumbermen cannot be blamed entirely for man's foolishness concerning destruction of a natural resource—man is still repeating some of his past mistakes.

A new enlightenment concerning conservation took place in this country in the early 1900s and was nurtured and promoted by such great naturalists as John Muir, who became a friend of President Theodore Roosevelt—perhaps the greatest conservationist of them all. Through Roosevelt's leadership, the United States Forest Service was established in 1905 and this single act is one which holds great promise for the future.

In his annual report for 1903, J. D. Hawks, president of the Detroit and Mackinac Railway and a noted local conservationist, reported an increase in passenger earnings from $73,122 in 1896 to $224,769 for the past year.

"It is believed," said Hawks, "that our towns have ceased to go back and are all showing a steady and permanent increase in population, due to the introduction of other industries in place of the pine lumber industry."

A report in The Tawas Herald noted that "besides stimulating

J. D. HAWKS, president of the Detroit and Mackinac Railway, was interested in providing a second growth of pine in Northeastern Michigan. The railroad's tree nursery was located at Tawas Beach.

the development of various industries along the road, Hawks is doing all he can to work up sentiment for a second growth of timber. Considerable attention is now being directed to forestry in Michigan, but until forest fires are stopped by law, it is hopeless to expect much progress in raising second growth timber. No better chance for studying a second growth timber can be had in Michigan than at Tawas Beach, where the company has kept out fires for several years."

Although it is not generally realized, the D&M also pioneered the raising of pine seedlings at its nurseries at East Tawas for transplanting on public lands.

The Huron National Forest had been established in 1909 by President Roosevelt and William B. Piper, forest ranger at East Tawas, reported in 1912 that forest planting in Northern Michigan was in a very early stage of development. The state had been working for a number of years and the forest service had just begun.

"Although Northern Michigan, as all know, has had a great reputation for its timber, comparatively little of this timber grew on lands at present held by the state and even less on lands now held by the federal government," said Piper, who was the second ranger on the Huron.

"In the early days, all Michigan was open to settlement under the homestead law. The settlers and timbermen took up and patented the land with the best timber and

A FEW young stands of white pine still remained in Northeastern Michigan after 1900, but practically all disappeared into the jaws of sawmills or were destroyed by fire. A timber cruiser at center is estimating the number of board feet in this stand.

Graduates from Aviation Course at Pensacola

Marine 2Lt. Thaddeus G. Wasilewski, whose wife, Margaret, is the daughter of Joseph Ahearne of National City, was graduated from the navy's Aviation Indocination Course (AIC).

During the four-week course at the Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Florida, trainees studied basic aerodynamics, aviation physiology and engineering. They also studied land and sea survival techniques and participated in an extensive physical fitness curriculum.

AIC is the first step in the naval flight training program leading to designation as a naval aviator.

A graduate of Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University, Daytona Beach, Florida, with a bachelor of science degree, he joined the United States Marine Corps in June 1976.

Finishes Infantry Officer Course

2Lt. Ronald L. Rousseau, whose wife, Judy, lives at Saginaw, recently completed an infantry officer basic course at the United States Army Infantry School, Ft. Benning, Georgia.

Students received instruction in leadership, personnel, intelligence, map and airphoto reading, operations, logistics, tactical communications and equipment and weapons. This training is designed to prepare students for the duties and responsibilities of a company grade officer.

Lieutenant Rousseau attended Michigan State University, East Lansing, and Delta College.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Rousseau, live at Oscoda.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

We would like to express our sincere appreciation to Sheriff Westcott for the cooperation we have received from the Iosco County Sheriff's Department. In a number of instances involving trespassers on our lake front property, your officers have handled matters with the type of professional efficiency one would expect of a police officer.

We appreciate the fact that these officers have far more serious matters toward which they must direct their efforts. We have never received the impression, however, that the officers felt our problem was a trivial one. It is because of their conscientious efforts and genuine concern in our behalf that we wish to express our thanks.

Sincerely,
Mr. and Mrs. Harold Slaski
Mr. and Mrs. Donald Howard
Rev. Neil Katterman

Dear Editor:

It was with a great deal of interest that I read the article in the Tawas Herald under the headline, "County Commissioners At Odds Over Revenue Sharing Splits."

As a taxpayer and a businessman in Iosco County for the past 40 years, it seems as though my taxes from the west side of Iosco County have been going to the wrong place. No where in the news item could I find Whittemore or Burleigh Township mentioned in their search to get rid of this revenue sharing money.

I was happy to note that Commissioner Webb had the intestinal fortitude to question the allocation to the county landfill. We taxpayers in the Whittemore area pay and operate our own. Are we to surmise that sometime in the future we will be asked to help pay for other county projects that we take no part in?

I feel that it is time that the taxpayers of western Iosco County start writing a few letters to the commissioner that was elected to represent them.

Sincerely,
Arden Charters

Tawas Women Host Tourney August 13-14 at East Tawas

Second annual Tawas Women's Little Invitational Tournament is scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, August 13-14. Play will begin at 9:00 a. m. Saturday with games at Newman Street field and Dillon Memorial Park continuing both days.

Teams will be represented from Gladwin, Pinconning, Prescott, Skidway Lake, Essexville, Spruce, Standish, Hale, Hubbard Lake, Alpena and Harrisville. Championship game is to be held at 3:00 p. m. Sunday at the Newman Street field.

County Commission Still Trying to Split Revenue Sharing With Units

Iosco County Board of Commissioners continued its discussion Wednesday on a proposed split of revenue sharing money among local units, but no final decision was reached.

Carlton Merschel, acting chairman, recommended that the board consider allocations of $10,000 to Sherman Township for a bridge, $15,000 to Grant Township for a bridge, $20,000 to East Tawas for the Dewey Durant Park, $15,000 to Tawas City to aid in purchase of land at the river mouth, $35,000 to the Oscoda Industrial Development Corporation to aid in road construction and $25,000 to Plainfield Township as matching funds for a swimming pool complex.

Merschel believed that Plainfield should give consideration to using this money to assist in converting the former county garage building into a senior citizens center. He felt, too, that $100,000 should be reserved for county purposes, including $4,700 for the animal shelter driveway, $6,100 for Consumers Power Company to move a line at the airport, $75,000 for the sanitary landfill and $5,000 to redecorate and remodel the social services building.

Immediate approval was given on the allocation to Consumers Power Company, which is to replace an overhead line with an underground cable at the airport.

The commission is to study Merschel's proposal and the matter is to be discussed again.

Commissioner Jack Allen of Oscoda believed that the allocation to Oscoda's industrial park should be upped to $50,000. Commissioner John Webb felt that more time was needed to study the matter, that money should be set aside for future building needs and that Merschel's proposal was not equal to all districts.

Allen expressed the opinion that each unit should handle the cost of contracting for a landfill, rather than to have the county pay the cost. Webb agreed, but thought that the county should continue the contract for one more year.

Commissioner Joseph Fox, finance chairman, expressed the opinion that the "give away" of the county's revenue sharing funds had backfired and all commissioners agreed that it would probably be the last disbursement of revenue sharing funds to the local units from the county.

The county has $426,000 in revenue sharing money available and it is believed that approximately $100,000 should be set aside for enlarging offices and vault space at the county building.

Previously, the commission committed $12,000 to the Iosco-Arenac Regional Library for work on the headquarters building at Alabaster, $30,000 for purchase of the former McKay residence at East Tawas for a museum, $38,000 for the water project to serve the industrial park in Baldwin Township, along with $8,000 to Plainfield Township and $35,000 to Oscoda Township, which was approved for appropriation in 1976 but never spent.

Representatives of both Tawas City and East Tawas appeared Wednesday before the commission and asked for slightly more money than had been recommended in the above split.

City Mgr. Reginald Bublitz asked for an allocation of $20,000 to help purchase the east side of the river mouth. He said the city had received indications that state and federal money would be available for future development of the river.

Mayor Robert Bolen and Clerk Clyde Soper of East Tawas requested an allocation of $41,000 for the Dewey Durant Park. Bolen pointed out that East Tawas must raise $30,000 as its share of the boat ramp to be constructed on Tawas Bay and that it would be a facility used by many residents of the county.

Edward J. Barry appeared before the commission and asked approval of a CETA program to provide a creel census in the county. He said the Michigan Department of Natural Resources uses this information to determine where to plant fish. The DNR would train personnel under CETA at no cost to the county.

The commission gave its approval to dropping Blue Shield-Blue Cross insurance and authorized a contract with American Mutual Insurance Company for health and life insurance programs for county employees.

FAMILY LIVING EDUCATION

By SUSAN LAMBRECHT
 County Extension Director

CLEANLINESS DISCOURAGES HOUSEHOLD PESTS

As does the use of Insecticides and Rodenticides.

Summertime, and the living may be easy for unwanted houseguests, such as ants. However, these perennial pests are less likely to stay where they cannot "freeload" meals easily! Now is the time to maintain a high level of cleanliness to discourage ants, flies, mosquitos and other household pests from home building on your property.

The first line of defense is keeping ants and other insects outside. Be sure screens fit tightly and have no tears. Check that windows and doors fit snugly, too. Use caulking compound, weather stripping or modeling clay around crevices in entryways, foundation, water and radiator pipes and cracks around sinks, toilet bowls, baseboards and between floor boards.

Discourage insects from building nests by wrapping garbage securely, keeping garbage cans tightly lidded, and occasionally scrubbing the cans with suds and water. Where pests have set up home, treat with a suitable insecticide, being careful to follow label directions.

Inside the home, be sure to keep food out of reach as much as possible. Scrape and wash dishes right after a meal or snack. Store leftovers and dry goods in containers with tight-fitting covers. Use a sudsy sponge frequently to wipe countertops, appliances and the outside of storage containers. Wash around water pipes, sinks and toilets; behind drawers and wash-tubs; shelves and storage places, especially in the kitchen and bathroom. Scrub up baseboards, window frames and cracks and openings in walls, floors and cupboards. Crumbs, spills and food smears are an open invitation to come for dinner.

Do not overlook the floor. Wash away spills promptly and sweep up crumbs as often as necessary.

Garbage is a gourmet delight to household pests. Try not to leave any food peelings or leftovers open to invasion. Small amounts can be securely wrapped or placed in bags and sealed. Always rinse bottles, jars and cans, especially, if collected for return to the store or disposal at a local recycling center. Keep wastebaskets and kitchen garbage cans clean, too. Empty the contents when necessary but at least once every day. As a special tip, line trash baskets with special bags, grocery bags, plastic bags or newspaper to make it easy to empty them and to keep them clean.

Should ants find their way into a home, get rid of them right away. Treat the nest with liquid insecticide; if outdoors, destroy it by pouring on boiling water or ashes. Keep these pests out by spraying an insecticide on outside walls, cracks and openings and indoor surfaces. In the kitchen, put insecticide on cracks with a small paintbrush so that it does not spread to utensils or food!

Adhere to basic safety precautions when using insecticides or rodenticides. Keep these and other chemicals in a safe place—away from children and pets. Do not store near food, under sinks or in medicine chests. Keep children and pets out of a room when using these products. After working with sprays or liquids, wash face and hands and change to clean clothing. Then wash the clothing before re-use.

Plantations

stole much of the timber from the lands that were not worth patent-

ing. The best lands for agriculture have been held or sold by the original patentees, while the poorer lands that were patented have reverted to the state on account of nonpayment of taxes. Only the poorest and sandiest lands were left in the hands of the federal government. Part of these now form the Michigan and Marquette Forests. The result is that the state has the medium lands to protect and reforest and the federal government has the poorest lands," wrote Piper.

One of the great problems facing state and federal foresters was to find seedlings which could be planted on the sandy soil and which would withstand the scorching summer sun. Several experimental areas were sown to Norway pine seed and "thrifty little pine seedlings" were noted by Piper in May and early June and promised well; "but, as was the case of broadcast seed, the hot sun of the last of June and early July scorched them so that today hardly a seedling can be found in the seed spots."

HARRY GOODALE, 90, of Tawas City planted the first seedling in the Buck Creek plantation in 1911.

In the early part of May 1911, 28,000 two and three-year-old white pine seedlings from the Michigan Agricultural College were planted. "White pine needs a soil less sandy than that of the 'plains' and more shade than can be had there," wrote Piper after the first summer.

A thousand Norway pine transplants from the state college were planted near the white pine, along with 1,000 Scotch pine and 2,000 western yellow pine from the D&M nursery at East Tawas. In the autumn of 1911, 500 white pine and 500 western yellow pine seedlings, three years old, from the D&M, and 2,000 Norway pine seedlings, three to six years old, from Minnesota, were planted.

As a result of this experimentation, the foresters finally developed a seedling with a lateral root system which would support itself on the sandy soil. In order to accomplish this, a foundation of clay was used in the nursery beds at East Tawas which prevented the roots from penetrating downward.

One of the great problems in raising the transplanted seedlings was the lack of protection from the summer sun. According to Piper's report, "Forest Planting in Northern Michigan," this was overcome by the use of jack pine limbs scattered on the ground to provide natural shade for the seedlings.

"It is too early after planting to say how these are going to develop, but with all the fall rains that occurred shortly after the planting, the result should be good," noted Piper.

The forest ranger's prediction came true. Those Norway pine seedlings planted in 1911 at the head of Buck Creek provide the oldest plantation in the Huron National Forest and is now rapidly maturing into a beautiful stand of pine. Harry Goodale of Tawas City, who will be 91 in December, planted the first tree in that plantation.

(The Buck Creek plantation was thinned seven years ago and, according to Tawas District Ranger Calvin Norton, should again be thinned before too long.)

From the original experimentations by Piper and men of the United States Forest Service, along with the cooperative efforts of the Michigan Agricultural College and the Detroit and Mackinac Railway, pine seedlings of several varieties were developed which would grow on the sandy soil of the Huron National Forest. Extensive plantings were made in the 1920s and the work was expanded in the 1930s through establishment of the Civilian Conservation Corps.

The greatest concern of the United States Forest Service today is the threat of fire. While insect damage could pose a serious problem in the future, a far more serious problem can be caused by man. Under the right conditions of dry weather, with several fires burning at one time, all the work of hundreds of men during the past 66 years could be wiped out in a single day.

Man has accomplished something which apparently the Creator did not even intend—a pine forest on the sand "plains" of Iosco County. Given another 50 years of growth, the pine seedlings planted in 1911 and subsequent years, nurtured by both man and nature, should be recognized today and in the future as one of the greatest accomplishments of man in conservation.

BEAL NURSERY at East Tawas provided thousands of pine seedlings for transplanting in the Huron National Forest. This picture was snapped in the 1930s when seedlings were transplanted by the Civilian Conservation Corps.

Hearings

ation. The boundary commission chairman pointed out that only the area of the Tawas that had been included in the actual petition was under study for consolidation. Myles pointed out, however, that water and sewer services had been extended to those areas, along with fire protection, "and it seems to me they should properly be considered in any merger," said Myles.

The boundary commission chairman indicated this was not a proper question for this hearing, reinforcing his earlier position which prohibited Hugh Prescott from testifying because he is a resident of Baldwin Township. The chairman indicated that including areas of outlying townships could be considered at a later time.

Commissioner Rosian took issue with that viewpoint, however, declaring he thought it was important to consider because of the fact that such township areas were presently being serviced on the fringe of the two cities. In instances where shopping areas are constructed some distance from cities and do not receive benefit of services from the municipality, the township should be protected, said the commissioner. The latter point was not in question here.

The executive secretary of the boundary commission pointed out that annexation and consolidation do not follow one path. In consolidation, every area has a veto vote and every political unit has input and at least one member of the charter commission; under annexation, the area annexed is not represented on a charter commission and a vote on annexation may not even be required.

Councilman Jerry Cotter took issue with a statement made by Commissioner Smith at the hearing Tuesday night at East Tawas, in which Smith commented that he had worked at the A&P Store at East Tawas in 1941, owned a cabin in Alabaster Township and it was his opinion that "Tawas City looked like a dying town" because of its downtown business district.

Cotter suggested to Smith that he check out the business area of Tawas City and look at the expansion in recent years. He felt that the commissioner should apologize for his statement.

This set off a verbal donnybrook for a few minutes as Attorney Myles then demanded that the chairman either disqualify Smith from sitting on the commission or order him to make an apology.

Commissioner Rosian pointed out that a commissioner who had knowledge of a community was required to put such information on record. The executive secretary pointed out that the chairman could not disqualify any member from sitting on the commission and he was not sure if a commissioner could be disqualified by anyone.

Probate Judge William McCreedy questioned the "observation powers" of Commissioner Smith, pointing out the fact that several million dollars in new construction was taking place in the community. Councilman Cotter commented that he "was not in the habit of being insulted."

In closing the matter, Commissioner Smith said that he made the statement the previous night when a comment was made concerning a "dynamic community." He felt the word was inappropriate.

Dr. Carl Weber, a resident of Tawas City, who operates his dental practice at East Tawas, said he agreed with Commissioner Smith concerning Tawas City. He said he had lived here for eight years and wondered why there were two communities. He found there were two factions concerning consolidation: "Newcomers are in favor and a few older people are opposed to it."

Weber felt there was too much duplication in the two cities and said he had some "real bad gripes" about Tawas City while more progress had been shown by the other town. He said that residences in Tawas City were substandard except in Elms Gardens and North Park Acres and that the city council had not prevented cheap housing from entering those two subdivisions. He also stated he was "afraid" to enter city hall.

Following the two hearings last week, a third hearing is to be held within 30 days. After collecting information and evaluating it, the commission is to reach a decision if the petition for consolidation warrants continuance.

Within 45 days after issuance of facts by the commission, a petition signed by five percent of the residents of the two communities may be submitted to the commission asking for an immediate vote to overrule the commission. Each community would vote independently and if a majority in either community voted "no," the consolidation movement would end at that point. If the vote was affirmative, the process of establishing a charter commission would commence.

If no petition is filed for an election and should the boundary commission approve continuance of the consolidation process, a charter commission would be elected. According to population, East Tawas would have five members and Tawas City would have four members.

Once elected, the charter commission would have two years to draft a home rule charter and have it adopted by the people. The last chapter of the charter would provide for election of officers for a single home rule city.

If disapproved by the people, the charter could be revised and a second vote taken. If disapproved the second time, the entire consolidation process would come to an end. The entire process from petition to adoption of a charter requires from one to three years.
