

Final Festival Slated This Week

THE ANNUAL PAUL BUNYAN FESTIVAL at Oscoda is scheduled to open Thursday and continue through Sunday. Many special events are planned during the festival including a parade on Saturday, open house Thursday at Wurtsmith Air Force Base, carnival rides at Paul Bunyan Park and little theatre presentations. This event traditionally closes summer festivals in Iosco County. Paul Bunyan will be there, too.

FINAL TERMS for the purchase of the east side of the mouth of the Tawas River by the City of Tawas City were finalized last week, according to a report from City Mgr. Reginald Bublitz. Although the transaction has not been officially closed with the estate of the late Joseph Lubaway, owner, Grosse Ile, Bublitz said that a meeting had been held with the family's attorney and that a sale price of $30,000 had been established. Lubaway was instrumental in establishing the Tawas Yacht Club here in the 1920s, which originally owned the property. The city has long desired ownership in order to develop public facilities at the river mouth.—Tawas Herald Photo.

May Designate Court Street One Way After Council Study

Designation of one-way traffic on Court Street following installation of a new fence along the Detroit and Mackinac Railway's right-of-way for 1½ blocks is being studied this week by the City of Tawas City.

City Mgr. Reginald Bublitz told members of the city council Monday night that "it looks like it should be a one-way street," due to the possibility of traffic accidents.

The city manager asked all councilmen to inspect the street for a discussion on possible solutions at a later time. In the meantime, the city manager is to obtain traffic control signs to designate the south side of the street one way with east bound traffic only from First Street to M-55.

The council went on record two weeks ago indicating it did not oppose installation of the new fence for protection of the railroad company's tracks. The letter to the railroad emphasized that the city wished to work with the railroad for "mutually acceptable solutions to various problems which may be encountered, the same as has been done in the past."

A crew of the D&M commenced work Monday morning on installation of a steel rail fence which would provide a clearance along the tracks measuring approximately eight feet, six inches from the center of the rails.

OK Settlement With 'Capt. Mac'

East Tawas Council Monday night authorized payment of $4,000 to Gordon MacAndrew as consideration for relinquishing his lease to lake bottom property at the foot of Wadsworth Street east of the state police post.

the water and reached from shore by a causeway.

In past months, the city council had objected to purchasing the lease and had studied several alternatives in plans for the boat launching facilities.

The authorization opens the way for a solution to construction of a launching ramp-parking lot project to be financed by state and local funds.

Varying opinions had been given by state officials concerning settlement on the lease, but the state has insisted this was a city problem.

This project is expected to start next spring and city officials said that a settlement with MacAndrew avoided a possible 12-month delay due to proceedings necessary along a court route.

Clerk Clyde Soper said the council adopted Monday night's motion authorizing the settlement "with reluctance."

MacAndrew had previously indicated that he would accept $4,000 for his state permit to use the lake bottom. He had formerly operated his charter fishing business from an old commercial fish house which had been built on piling over vacated the street. Under such a vacation, the street is divided between the two adjacent property owners. The city owns property on one side of the street and deeded its half to Thomas Zerod, owner of record. Shotwell said that the adjoining property owner, Dr. John LeClair, had indicated he would deed his half of the property to his client.

Under an 1883 agreement with the city, the railroad was permitted to construct its tracks down the middle of Court Street starting behind the county building and extending in an easterly direction to a point beyond Tawas Hospital.

A letter from the railroad in July indicated that with the new location of Kroger's market adjacent to Court Street from Wheeler Street east for slightly more than one block, "there will be a definite increase in truck and car traffic on Court Street, which will compound the hazard of our safe operation."

The railroad has indicated that a 1941 state clearance statute provides for safe operation of a train. In addition, the railroad has indicated that the fence is necessary to prevent heavy trucks from hitting the rails and knocking them out of alignment.

The south lane of Court Street from First Street to M-55 is approximately 20 feet in width and was sealcoated a year ago. With installation of the fence at the rear of the Kroger Store, the street has been narrowed to a width of 15 to 16 feet, which is sufficient for only one lane of traffic.

The city is to give consideration to developing the north side of Court Street for a west bound lane.

Asks Council to Reconsider Purchase of Commercial Lots

A request for the city council to again give consideration to development of two parcels of land west of the county building for a parking lot and office complex was heard Monday night.

State Rep. George A. Prescott, who owns one lot and is the agent for an adjoining lot owned by Mrs. Roy Bergeron, told councilmen that he had been considering development of the property for an office building and parking lot.

He indicated that he intended to attend the next meeting of the planning commission to present his site plan for nine office rental units.

Prescott said he had hired an architect to develop a site plan, but he now felt that the property should be owned by the city. He said that the Iosco County Board of Commissioners had made an offer for the property but said, "I do not think the county should get it, as that would not benefit the city."

The city had this property under option at one time and had considered its development for an office building and parking lot. Prescott said he would honor the same price under the old option of $70,000 for both parcels of land, with credit of $4,000 which the city lost when it did not follow through on its original option. Eliminated from the new agreement, he said, would be a provision in the original option that provided him with rent free office space for five years.

Mayor Herbert Cholger said there was a need for parking in the area and felt it was something for the council to think about. The matter was taken under advisement.

In other business, the council vacated a portion of Fifth Street in order to clear title for a property owner. Vacating the one block section of street east of Ninth Avenue has been under consideration for about a month.

The problem originated about 100 years ago when a property owner constructed a house in the middle of the street. In 1953, the city wished to develop Industrial Avenue and made a trade with the property owner. The transaction apparently was never recorded.

Vacation of the property was delayed two weeks in order for a review of records to determine if the city had paid any consideration in the land exchange. City Mgr. Reginald Bublitz said that the city had paid $600 to the late Frank Sands in the land exchange.

James Shotwell, attorney for the petitioner, said that the city had received a considerable amount of taxes for the property over the years and believed that the city had no right to compensation for closing the street.

Unanimous action of the council

vacated the street. Under such a vacation, the street is divided between the two adjacent property owners. The city owns property on one side of the street and deeded its half to Thomas Zerod, owner of record. Shotwell said that the adjoining property owner, Dr. John LeClair, had indicated he would deed his half of the property to his client.

Would Utilize Old Footbridge for Children

Utilization of a footbridge once attached to the old Mathews Street bridge is under consideration by the Tawas City Council.

According to information presented Monday night by the city manager, the department of public works is considering the installation of this iron and wood structure over Dead Creek at Ninth Avenue west of Brooks Auto Parts.

City Mgr. Reginald Bublitz said that installation was being considered under the use of CETA employees. Edward J. Barry, who has directed a river reclamation project this summer, has studied the creek and has recommended Ninth Avenue as a location for the footbridge.

Although Ninth Avenue stops at Dead Creek, Bublitz said the creek had been relocated down Third Street in that area and there would be plenty of room for installation of the bridge on city property north of the creek.

The intent of installing the footbridge at that point is to shorten the walk for children on their way to the Tawas City Elementary Unit.

In other business, a proposal was read from Vilcan, Leman and Associates, Incorporated, Southfield, for four different projects requested by the city. The matter was turned over to the planning commission for consideration.

street parking in the block between Mathews and Whittemore Streets, $1,900; update zoning map according to amendments, $530; review existing zoning ordinance, $600.

A request for one-hour parking on Mathews Street and Lake Street is to be discussed with the Tawas City Businessmen's Association. Robert Buffmyer, who has purchased property at the corner of Mathews Street and Lake Street, made the request.

At the present time, there is no parking limit on Mathews Street and parking is limited to two hours on Lake Street. It was felt by the council that parking could be limited to one hour on Mathews, but due to the location of a beauty shop and physician's office, it was felt that two hours would be necessary for parking on Lake Street.

Approval was given to transfer a lease from Robert Brugger to Reta Simmons for the concession building at the city park. Brugger had held a five-year option on the property which is to expire in 1980. Under the original lease, the owner has an option to renew the lease for five years.

The city manager reported that the city pier would be closed to public use for one month starting August 22 during reconstruction. He said, however, that the closure would only be enforced during daytime hours and fishing would be allowed after the work day. Depending on the weather, the project is to be completed September 19.

Canvassers Uphold Election of Whatley by Only One Vote

Election of Forrest R. Whatley as the new county commissioner for District No. 2 was confirmed Tuesday afternoon in a recount of ballots cast a week ago.

No change was found in the final total which had Whatley winning over David S. George by only one vote, 23-22, according to County Clerk D. Keith Pappas.

George had been nominated in the primary election and Whatley ran in the general election as a sticker candidate.

Acting on the canvassing board were Orlo J. MacMurray, Penny Oates and Arden Charters.

The new commissioner is to take the oath of office today (Wednesday), replacing Donald Griffin, who resigned from office.

When Whatley takes his seat on the commission, it will be the first time that the commission has had a full five members since the illness and death of William Wereley on February 27. John Webb Jr. was elected to succeed Wereley on the commission.

The attorney for the losing candidate challenged three ballots which had been cast in Whatley's favor. In each instance, the voter had spelled the candidate's name in error, but election board and the canvassing board ruled that intent of the voter was obvious.

Council Held First Reading of New Sewer Use Ordinance

First reading of an ordinance regulating sewer use and connections was held Monday night by the Tawas City Council. Second and final reading is to be held at the next meeting.

Under terms of the ordinance, all property owners served by sanitary sewer would be required to connect to the sewer system within 90 days of adoption of the ordinance.

According to the ordinance, use of septic tanks would be permitted only in areas not served by sani-itary sewer.

Minutes of the water board read at the meeting indicated that discussion was held on ways and means of creating funds to eliminate delinquency by the city in its water payment and to provide funds for its obligations.

As a result, the board ordered that water and sewer connection charges be paid upon completion of application for such service. Water and sewer connections would be installed within 10 working days on existing water and sewer mains, weather permitting, between April 1 and December 1.

Should outstanding water and sewer connection charges remain unpaid prior to March 1, 1978, the outstanding charges are to be placed on the tax roll for collection.

City Mgr. Reginald Bublitz said that a survey is to be made to determine the number of connections which would be required under the mandatory hookup to sanitary sewer.

Plant Interested in Locating at Expanded Industrial Site

Information last week from Joseph Fox, Iosco County commissioner, revealed that the area was making a bid for a new industrial plant which has the potential of employing approximately 300 persons.

Fox said that information received at a meeting of the Tawas Area Industrial Development Corporation indicated that a plant was interested in locating on 25 acres being proposed as an addition to the Tawas City industrial park.

The commissioner said that this was the only site in the area which would have water and sewer facilities present. He said the proposed plant consisted of approximately 50,000 square feet of floor space.

It was indicated that a number of communities are vying for the plant. Fox reported that several other plants were considering locations in this area.

Study Shows Young Teens Most Overlooked Age Group

One out of six male youths will wind up in juvenile court.

More than 16 million Americans are "young adolescents" from 12 to 15 years old, and according to Dr. Joan Lipsitz of the Learning Institute of North Carolina, they are "the most overlooked age group among minors in America."

That is the major conclusion in Dr. Lipsitz' new book Growing Up Forgotten just published by Lexington Books, a division of D. C. Heath and Company.

Between 12 and 15 years of age, Dr. Lipsitz notes, most young people experience rapid physical growth and the onset of puberty. They start to rely primarily on others their own age instead of their families for attitudes and values.

Although early adolescence is a critical period of growth and change second only to early childhood, researchers estimate that 70 percent of the young people go through it without major problems. For the 30 percent that do not, however, the results can be painful.

Schools, families, youth organizations, juvenile justice agencies, and other social institutions that deal with young adolescents often operate with out-of-date or confused notions about needs and potentials of these young people.

Dr. Lipsitz offers these facts to show the results of the "lack of fit" between young adolescents and the social institutions that serve them:

- Suicide is now the fourth leading cause of death among adolescents, drug abuse peaks during seventh and eighth grades, and children under 15 are the only age group that has recently shown an increase in first-time admission rates to mental hospitals.
- One out of nine young people, and one of six male youths, it is forecast, will be referred to the juvenile courts before their 18th birthday.
- Youth-serving agencies, particularly those with long-standing traditional programs like Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, are losing about half their young members when they reach age 12. Major reasons, according to one study, were childish activities, domineering adult leaders, and no opportunity to share in decision-making.
- The chaotic fragmentation of research and services, "the report concludes, "is a surface manifestation of a dangerous underlying social confusion about how we want to grow up in America. The dialogue had better begin."

VALCRAFT DIVISION repeated Saturday afternoon as the championship tug of war team in the contest sponsored by Tawas Area Promotions, Incorporated. The championship team defeated Herrick Plumbing in the final match and won the cash prize of $250 for the second year in a row. Contests were held at the Michigan Waterways Commission Dock, East Tawas, in conjunction with a corn roast.—Tawas Herald Photos.

THE BOOKSHELF

THREE MEN FOR EVERY WOMAN

The decline of marriage dowries and the first step toward improving women's rights in America had their roots in early Colonial Days.

Writing in D.C. Heath and Company's new college history text The Great Republic, author Bernard Bailyn observes that the Colonial immigrants were predominantly men. In Virginia in 1625, more than 75 percent of the settlers were men and 25 years later it was still 6 to 1 in favor of men.

"Even in New England," writes the Pulitzer Prize winning historian, "where immigration by family was more common, there were three men for every two women in the middle of the century."

By contrast, there were 91.3 men for every 100 women in England at that time.

The scarcity of women in the Colonies reduced the importance of dowries and "probably contributed to the gradual improvement in the legal, social, and psychological status of women," according to the author

ANNOUNCEMENT was made Tuesday by Marshall Wood, right, that construction would start immediately on a new $75,000 building for Tawas Furniture Center, which was destroyed by fire on June 25. Financial arrangements were completed Monday with Peoples State Bank. Looking over plans for the new steel structure are Wayne Pollard, left, representing the bank, and Larry Rose of O. S. Rose Builders, Incorporated, contractor for the building. The new building will extend 140 feet along US-23 in Alabaster Township at the site of the former building. Wood said the showroom of the new building will feature an open fireplace. A paved parking lot will be included in the construction, which is expected to be completed by the middle of November. Since the fire, the firm has been located temporarily in the former McKay auto body shop on US-23 south of Tawas City.—Tawas Herald Photo.

TC Appeals Board OK's 90-Day Delay

Tawas City Zoning Board of Appeals gave a property owner 90 days to obtain and present assurances of financing for construction of a home, or it would order removal of a mobile home.

Permission had been granted about four years ago to Robert Haight, owner of Acapulco Beach Cabins and Apartments, to install a mobile home on his property while making financial arrangements to develop his motel and construct a new home. An extension of time was later approved. During a hearing held August 10, Haight expressed his position and efforts toward obtaining necessary funds to build a home on the property. Two adjacent property owners objected to location of the mobile home on the property.

Unanimous action by the appeals board gave Haight 90 days in which to make financial arrangements.

Two Persons Hurt in Iosco on Motorcycles

The Sty (ouch)

...how to make it go away!

A common—and often rather uncomfortable—eye affliction is the sty. Here are some facts on sties from the American Association of Ophthalmology, which represents many of the nation's medical eye physicians and surgeons.

STIES

A sty is a small boil or abscess caused by an infection of one of the tiny oil-producing glands located at the base of an eyelash. It can occur on either the upper or lower lid and is quite common. The source of the infection is usually a staphylococcus organism.

A typical sty begins with an awareness of sensitivity to light, excessive flowing of tears, and the sensation that there is something in the eye that doesn't belong there. Soon the lid begins to swell and becomes red, and there is a painful tenderness as the sty comes to a head.

Ordinarily the head of a sty points outward. In a less common type of eyelid infection, the involved gland is on the inside of the eyelid, and the sty points inward. This type of internal sty is more painful than the common external variety.

A sty should not be neglected. Most can be treated rather simply. The patient is instructed to apply hot compresses to the affected eye for 10-15 minutes three or four times a day. In addition, he should apply antibiotic eyedrops every two hours. With this treatment, the sty is often absorbed. Sometimes, as the sty comes to a head, it will become yellow at its point. Continued application of heat may result in the spontaneous rupture of the abscess, and as the accumulated pus is discharged, the pain will subside.

Apart from the discomfort it causes, the most serious aspect of a sty is that the infection might spread to other parts of the eyelid and to the eye itself. Accordingly, if the sty does not seem to improve after 48 hours of treatment, the physician often asks the patient to come to his office where he can open the sty and drain it under sterile conditions.

The person who develops one sty often has frequent recurrences. Some physicians take measures to help reduce recurrences, such as the application of antibiotic ointment to the eyelids.

A disorder which is often mistaken for a sty is a chalazion—an inflammation of one of the glands on the inner surface of the eyelids. This is not a painful condition. It takes the form of a slowly swelling mass which progressively enlarges.

If the hard lump does not become absorbed after the use of hot compresses and medication, the chalazion is usually removed, under local anesthetic, by the doctor.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,

I have read the letter to the Editor from Chester Denstedt, relative to the Provincial House taking over the operation of the Iosco Medical Care Facility.

It is a patient's viewpoint and judgment seasoned by many years of residence together with over twice as much experience in various privately owned, profit motivated private nursing homes such as Provincial House. What better way is there to make a true comparison? The letter not only served to compare, but was very explicit as to the many diverse services and advantages the Iosco Medical Care Facility provides over others.

Although I was moved to write in a similar vein, without repetition, I would like to add my judgment as a visitor and those other many visitors I have talked to over a period of over five years. I, too, have experienced as a visitor and next of kin to a patient, many years contact with better private nursing homes and feel qualified to make a fair comparison. I was, and still am, impressed constantly with the dedication of the entire staff and compassionate interest in the patients who are treated as individuals. There is a constant encouragement to try, rather than just sit and have no interest in others or what is going on around them. Each patient is helped to create a small hobby when possible, and all supplies are given.

Another example is nourishment provided according to a special medical need rather than a general division of diet such as diabetic and non diabetic. I have sadly observed the serving of a meal that consisted of mainly stuffed boiled cabbage to all patients, regardless of their condition. That is an example of volume buying and lower operating costs, with misery for many patients who cannot eat coarse unappetizing food, or who eat because there is nothing else and suffer later. The trays at the Iosco Medical Care Facility have a well balanced meal and are always different and pleasing. These patients are people who have worked to make the world better for us and due to circumstances usually not under their control are now dependent on us to make their last days tolerable.

I have read that the commissioners intend to make a very hurried and careful deliberation of this matter and I hope and pray they will consider all possibilities of conflict between public and private interests and advantages of the present operation over the phantom goal of lower costs.

With the present trend toward an older population, it would seem that we need greater and more of operations like the Iosco Medical Care Facility with skilled care, rather than the usual unskilled nursing homes or their managerial procedures.

Sincerely,
Louise Beroset

382,000 Adults, Disabled Before 22, Get Payments

Over 382,000 adults who were disabled in childhood are getting social security payments, according to social security officials here.

Monthly benefits are paid to disabled adult sons and daughters of workers getting social security retirement or disability payments—and of deceased workers who worked long enough under social security.

"The benefits are paid to people whose disability began before age 22," a spokesman said. "Usually they haven't been able to work long enough under social security to get benefits on their own work

They get about $53 million a month in social security payments, he said.

Under the social security law, people are considered medically disabled when they have a severe physical or mental impairment and are not expected to be able to do any substantial work for a year or more.

Disabled people under 65 get Medicare coverage after they've been entitled to social security disability benefits for 24 consecutive months.

Disabled people may be eligible for supplemental security income (SSI) payments if they have little or no income and limited resources. About 2.1 million blind and disabled people get over $238 million a month in Federal SSI payments. The program, run by the Social Security Administration, also makes monthly payments to people in financial need who are 65 or over.

"People can get information about childhood disability benefits and SSI by calling or writing any social security office," the spokesman said.

The Social Security Administration is an agency of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

Tomatoes--Harvest-Time Bargain

By CARL OLSON
Michigan Department of Agriculture

Now is the time to buy fresh vine-ripened Michigan tomatoes. Full of vitamins A and C, low in calories and packed with essential nutrients, they are a harvest-time bargain during August and September.

Our state generally grows about 40-million pounds of tomatoes for the fresh market, according to Michigan Department of Agriculture figures, and production is valued at close to six-million dollars annually.

As I am sure you are aware, the tomato is actually a fruit even though most people treat it, and classify it, as a vegetable. In France, it is sometimes called pommes d'amour - "love apples."

While tomatoes are great just sliced and served either with salt and pepper or sugar, do not stop there. You can fry them in a light batter or stuff with various ingredients and bake. They are also great hollowed out with cold chicken or tuna salad inside.

Here is a quick, easy and different recipe you might want to try sometime. Slice six ripe Michigan tomatoes in half, crosswise and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Mix one-half teaspoon curry powder into a cup of mayonnaise and spread this, generously, over the tomato halves. Place under a hot broiler for about three minutes until the mayonnaise turns a light golden color, then serve immediately.

Remember, too, this is a great time of the year in Michigan for fresh salads. All the "makings" are now available—lettuce, tomatoes, cucumbers, celery, green peppers and the rest.

Just thinking about all that crunch makes me hungry.

Ground Breaking Thursday for Million-Dollar Nursing Home in TC

A groundbreaking ceremony for the new Provincial House nursing home at 400 West North Street, Tawas City, is scheduled for 4:00 p. m. Thursday, August 25. An invitation to the public is extended by Patrick J. Callihan, president of Provincial House, Incorporated, the Lansing-based health care company which will own and operate the 120-bed nursing facility.

Gov. William G. Milliken, Sen. Robert W. Davis, Rep. George A. Prescott and Herbert Cholger, mayor of Tawas City, are among the dignitaries who have been invited to participate in the ceremony.

According to Callihan, the new Provincial House will be capable of caring for 120 nursing and convalescent patients of all ages. As a skilled nursing facility, it will offer a level of care between that available at a general hospital and at the patient's own home.

The complete program of restorative care to be provided enables the individual to realize his maximum potential as a member of the nursing home's community, or as a member of his own community upon his return home.

"In our 15 other nursing homes throughout Michigan, Provincial House strives to offer a good quality of life to the patients entrusted to our care," Callihan explained. "This quality is derived from the environment of the facilities, themselves; the staff which provides patient care, and the attitudes which prevail in our homes. We look forward to bringing this quality of life concept to residents of this area who require our services."

Design of the home is an X-shape, with four patient wings meeting at a central nursing station. Most of the rooms are semi-private, with three extra large rooms to be shared by three patients; private rooms can be arranged. The facility features two day rooms, a sitting room, television and crafts rooms and a 3,100-square foot dining and recreation area.

Provincial House spokesman anticipates completion of the facility in March 1978. When it is fully occupied, between 80 and 100 employees will be required to staff the home, including professional nurses, nurses aides, dietary aides, maintenance and housekeeping personnel.

Election Board Named for City Primary

Nine election workers have been named for the Tawas City odd-year primary election to be held Tuesday, August 30. Candidates are to be elected to three openings on the city council, along with the office of mayor, for the November general election.

Inspectors are to receive $2.50 per hour worked and chairmen in each precinct are to receive an additional $5. Election inspectors are to attend an instructional meeting Thursday, August 25, at the city hall, reports Rachel McCready, city clerk.

Election board inspectors are as follows:

Precinct No. 1—Dorothy Libka (chairman), DeEtta Beebe and Bobbie A. Kehoe; Precinct No. 2—Helen Mick (chairman), Joyceanne Beck and Kathaleen Stephan; Precinct No. 3—Wilma M. Ruppert (chairman), Frances K. Beaubien, Betty Kuerbitz.

Anyone interested in working on future elections may make application at the city hall.

Open House Thursday at WurtSmith

Final preparations are being made for the open house at WurtSmith Air Force Base scheduled for Thursday, which coincides with the opening of the Paul Bunyan Festival at Oscoda.

The annual attraction features aerial training mission demonstrations of the B-52 Stratofortress bomber and KC-135 Stratotanker, as well as displays of many of the aircraft flown by the United States Air Force.

Gates are open to the public starting at 10:00 a. m., followed by aircraft uploading demonstration and security police sentry dog team performance at 12 o'clock noon.

A fire equipment demonstration will be held at 1:00 p. m., followed by continuous movies through 4:00 p. m. A B-52 training mission starts at 4:00 p. m. A flag lowering and closing ceremony will be held at 5:00 p. m.

Iargo Springs, literally "many waters" in the Indian tongue, take rank with the rarest of the scenic wonders to be found in Lower Michigan and until 1925, but few of those who toured annually through the Huron National Forest knew of their existence.

According to tradition, government surveyors in the 1840s marked a large pine tree which stood at that time on a high sand bank of the AuSable with the name, "Iargo Springs." One source states that the surveyors learned the name from Indians living along the river, but another authoritative source states there were no Indians living along the river at that time.

In any event, the popular version is that the big tree was cut down during the lumbering era and the place stood unmarked until late 1925 when W. Harry Price, then president of the Iosco County Pioneer and Historical Society, caused a stone marker to be erected. Price was county treasurer and a Tawas resident then of 42 years.

According to Price, it was at this spot that the Indians used to gather for tribal pow-wows in past centuries and the Indians believed that the water held some sort of miraculous or curative property, so they drank freely of the springs when they gathered there.

Seven crystal springs arranged in fan shape gurgled out of the hillside in three main streams and four smaller ones. The pure water, icy cold, flows over beds of white and varicolored stones into the great AuSable River.

Iargo Springs is located along River Road and a portion of the old Saginaw to Mackinaw Trail of the Indians and traced by government surveyors in maps of that era. This route of the Indians along and across the AuSable River through Iosco County is shown on records in the Iosco County register of deeds office.

In 1925, it was necessary for one to make a steep descent down the high sand bank of the AuSable River without benefit of a railing. Later a stairway was constructed and improved by men of the Civilian Conservation Corps and the United States Forest Service during the 1930s. Standing on top of the bank, one can hear the rush of the springs 150 feet below.

Iargo Springs became an immediate tourist attraction after its rediscovery in 1925. The stairway constructed by the CCCs was in use for about 30 years when it finally fell into disrepair and was replaced during a cooperative work bee led by Oscoda Township residents in the mid-1960s.

The stairway is again being replaced in 1977 under a cooperative program between the Iosco County Park Commission and Consumers Power Company, owner of the land. Manpower to reconstruct the stairway is to be provided by CETA employees and materials were donated by the power company.

Very little has been written concerning the Indians of the county. Original name of the county was Kanotin, who was an Indian chief of the Ottawa tribe of Grand Rapids referred to in a treaty with the United States. The name may also be derived from the Chippewa tongue. This purely Indian term designated by the legislature in April 1840, was supplanted by Iosco on March 8, 1843, a term of doubtful meaning and selected by Henry R. Schoolcraft.

"Water of Light" was the meaning given to Iosco by Schoolcraft, but it had been a favorite name with him. In 1838, he published a poem entitled "Iosco, or the Vale of Norma," reminiscent of his childhood home in Albany County, New York. A year later, he published translations and adaptations of Indian tales. Among the stories is one entitled, "Iosco, or a Visit to the Sun and Moon." This is an Ottawa tale said to have been told him by a chief, who was present at the Treaty of Greenville in 1795.

The sparse population of Indians in Iosco County prior to the arrival of the first fishermen at AuSable in 1848 was scattered along the AuSable River. The few Indians trapping and fishing in this region belonged to the Saginaw band of the Chippewa tribe.

According to the late Fred Dustin of Saginaw, noted authority on Michigan Indians, the Saginaw Treaty of 1819 reserved 8,000 acres of land on the "east side of the River AuSable, near where the Indians now live." It was the intent of that treaty that the lands be held forever by the Indians and it promised to pay $1,000 in silver annually to the occupants.

The AuSable reservation was never surveyed and Dustin believed it was to have been at or near the mouth of the AuSable River.

On August 2, 1855, the Treaty of Detroit was signed, whereby unsold lands in Isabella County were allotted to individual members of the tribe. As it turned out, most of the Indians lost their property through tax sales and swindlers, according to Dustin. The treaty completed the Indian land cessions with the United States in Michigan and the AuSable reservation was nullified by it.

The late Alfred R. Weir, former probate judge who resided at Oscoda, wrote in 1926 that a large island in the AuSable River had been used extensively by the Indians for years as a burial ground.

"There were hundreds of graves on the island, which would lead one to believe that, in the early days, large bands of Indians must have been living in this section of Iosco," wrote Judge Weir in 1926. Before construction of Cooke Dam in 1905, the judge had made numerous canoe trips down the river and had camped on the island.

In a letter dated in 1927, Judge Weir said he had "talked with several of the Indians recently and find that they know very little about the matter. They say that there was a settlement of Indians on the AuSable as well as the settlement on Pine River and that within the recollection of some of the older Indians, the island burying ground was used by the Pine River Indians for burying their dead."

The island was located about one-half mile upstream from Cooke Dam and at present is entirely covered by water.

A few place names in Iosco County are of Indian origin. The two Tawas, Tawas Lake and Tawas River took their names from Tawas, a chief who long lived in the vicinity of Saginaw and later on Tawas Bay. There are a number of contradicting statements concerning the origin of the word, "Tawas," but research by the late Edna Otis of East Tawas and printed in her book, "Sawdust Days," gives an excellent account and is generally accepted as establishing the origin of Tawas.

According to an 1875 Smithsonian Report, the Indian name of Tawas Lake was "A-SHET-TI-MO-YAWK."

A paragraph printed in a January 1888 issue of the AuSable Saturday Night quoted John Tadgahsong, chief of Indian tribes near AuSable, as saying that his forefathers had lived between the Indian Islands on the AuSable and the Pine Rivers for 400 years.

The so called Indian reservation north of Oscoda is not a reservation but a settlement. Judge Weir explained as follows in a letter written September 30, 1925:

"When the Indians gave up their land on the AuSable River they moved east and took up homesteads on government lands in Sections 2 and 3, Town 24N, R8E, in Iosco County, and in Sections 34 and 35, Town 25N, R8E, Alcona County, receiving patents for same, which should be of record.

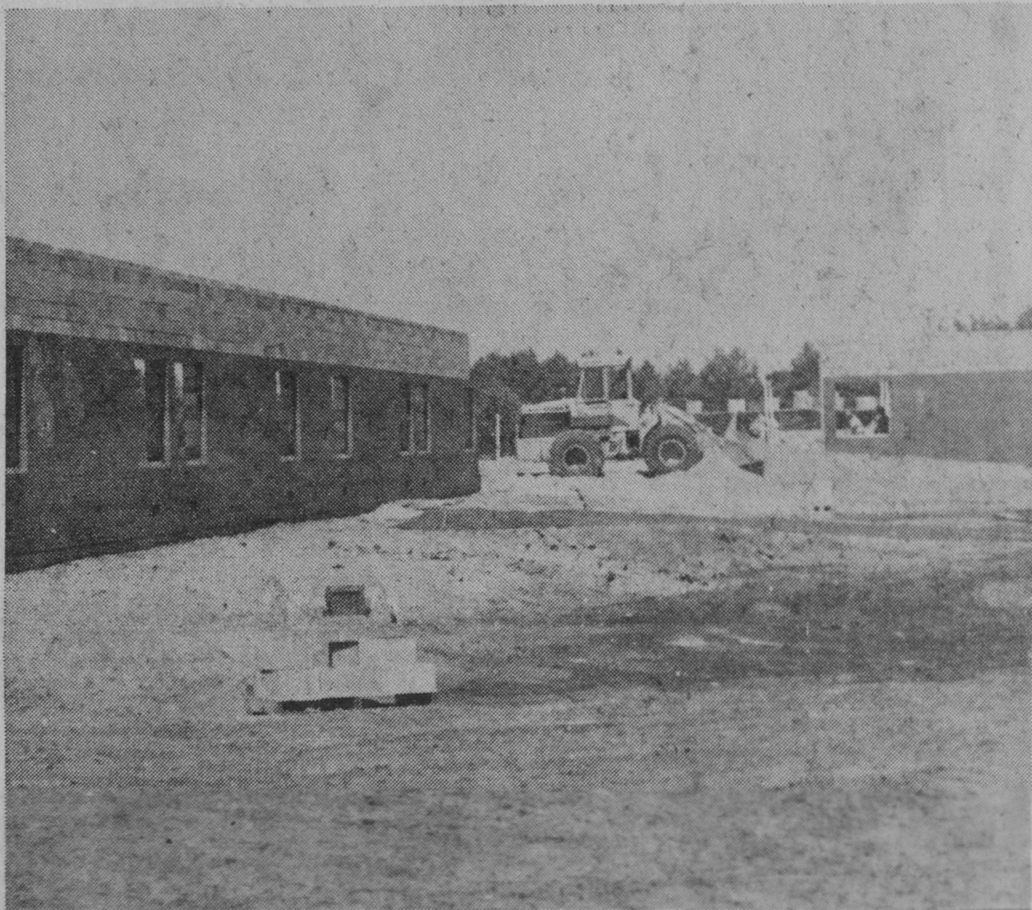

"There are two churches in the settlement, a Methodist and a Baptist. The Methodist Church is located on the northwest corner of Section 2, Town 24N, R8E, Oscoda Township, of which the Rev. Simon Greensky is pastor; the Baptist Church is located on the southwest corner of Section 34, Town 25N, R8E, Mikado Township, and is not now used for church services. John Tadgahsong was pastor of this church; he still lives in the settlement but is too aged to preach.

"The Indians have a cemetery which is located on the southeast corner of the southwest quarter of southwest quarter of Section 2, Town 24N, R8E, Oscoda Township. The Indian population in Oscoda Township is 24, about half adults.

"There are two schools available for Indian children and I believe that all children living on the west side of Section 2 go to the Mikado School one mile north of the line and all living on the east side of Section 2 are, with other children, transported by bus to the Oscoda School."

The Methodist Indian Mission mentioned above observed its centennial in 1976.

It is hoped that at some future date representatives of the Indian settlement near Oscoda will compile a complete history of Indians living in that area.

Most people now paying rent for a family of three or four are astonished when we show them how just about the same monthly payment can be used to own their own home. So many of our homebuyers tell us they wish they had visited us sooner — before their rent receipts piled up, and before they realized they had nothing to show for all that money. Look at our beautiful sixty-foot models with up to 1440 sq. ft. of easy living — low maintenance features. We offer three bedrooms, 2 full baths, dining room, living room, family room, kitchen and basement, with a wide range of optional features such as . . . Seven (7) exterior elevations, four (4) colors of aluminum siding, a built-in wood burning fireplace, a choice of heating plants, and an attached garage package, to mention only a few. And, when you add privacy and security to all that we offer, ask yourself what you are getting for your rent money. (Not to mention cleaning deposits, pet deposits, damage deposits — perhaps even nuisance deposits for your children?) Compare today . . . and see how good life can be with us.

Mystery Trip Slated Aug. 24 by Senior Citizens

Seventy-one members and two guests, Joyce Putnik of Lapeer and Christopher Anschuetz, attended the regular meeting of Tawas Area Senior Citizens Wednesday, August 10, at East Tawas Community Building. Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Barringer were welcomed as new members.

The afternoon of fellowship began with group singing and the pledge to the flag. Edward Siefert Sr. offered the table prayer preceding the sack lunch.

Announcement of a mystery trip was made for Wednesday, August 24. John Reynolds, who is in charge of arrangements, will accept reservations until Saturday, August 20, at 362-2810. Members will meet at Tawas United Methodist Church parking lot at 10:00 a. m. A sack lunch may be carried or a buffet luncheon will be available for a fee.

A cake walk was enjoyed by members with prizes going to Mabel Liske and Walter Schumacher.

(Read I John 3:16-24)

"Walk in love, as Christ also hath loved us." (Ephesians 5:2)
Christ's greatest gift to us is the gift of love. In his letter to the church at Ephesus, Paul emphasized this love as a fundamental factor in building a church.

Sometimes churches forget this and operate as if buildings, organizations and public worship were the essence of all they represent. They forget that God is love and that without it Christianity can only be "as sounding brass, or a tinkling cymbal." This, in fact, is what we all become if we show no love.

Near the end of Thornton Wilder's book, "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," the Abbess muses, "All those impulses of love return to the love that made them." Without these impulses, there is little to return. We cannot lean upon love's everlasting arms if we have never known or shared it.

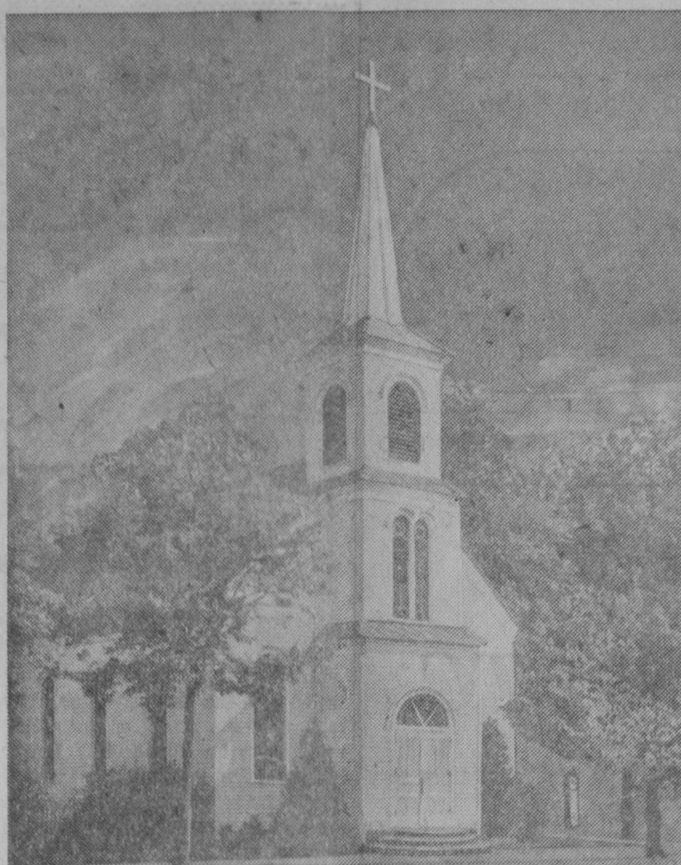

Our churches should be centers of the kind of love Paul talked about: A love that will reach forever out. But sometimes we are as cold as the stones that hold up our buildings. Why? Probably because we are, in some way, afraid. What do we fear? Rejection, maybe? But the irony is that love is the perfect way, the only way, to cast out fear.

PRAYER

Father, teach us to love one another as You love us. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

Love casts out fear and anything else that would defeat us.—Elise Newton (Camrose, Alberta, Canada)

Emanuel Lutheran Marks Centennial

Observing its centennial, special services have been arranged at Emanuel Lutheran Church, Tawas City, on Sunday, August 21.

The Rev. Waldemar J. Zarling, president of the Michigan District of the Wisconsin Synod, will preach at 8:30 and 10:00 a. m. services.

The Rev. Oscar J. Neumann, president of the Wisconsin Synod, will be guest speaker at the 3:00 p. m. service. A centennial dinner and social gathering is to follow.

Additional observances have been arranged to commemorate this milestone in the congregation's history. On Christian Education Sunday, September 11, Prof. John Jeschke will be guest speaker and on Mission Sunday, October 16, the Rev. Robert Mueller will deliver the sermon.

On August 5, 1877, the Emanuel Lutheran congregation was formed at East Tawas with the Rev. William Reuther of Bethel congregation, Bay City, assisting in the organization.

The number of persons attending the organizational meeting is not known, but some of the names shown on early records are as follows: William Boldt, August Brandt, August Dettmer, William Draeger, Fred Gaul, Gustave Gaul, Christian Goedecke, August Kobs, John Kobs, William Kohn, Ernest Scholtz (treasurer), Karl Brinkman (secretary).

Others included Karl Brandt, F. Reinke, August Luedtke Sr., August Cholcher, G. Koenig, Ernest Schoenbeck, August Kohn, Emil Buch Sr., Richard Herman, Albert and Karl Timreck.

Services were held once a month from April to October and every other month during the winter. These services alternated between members' homes in the Tawasess. When the pastor was not present, sermons were read by the deacons. Yearly dues were $5.

In 1878, a request was forwarded to the Rev. S. Klingman at Ann Arbor in which it was asked that the Rev. John Haas serve the mission. The request was fulfilled and Pastor Haas served until 1882. On September 3, 1882, the Rev. William Asall was called as the first permanent pastor of the congregation and he served until 1885.

Since then pastors have included: The Rev. Karl Mueller, 1885-1886; the Rev. William Asall, 1887-1897; the Rev. John Karrer, 1897-1900; the Rev. Albert Emmel, 1901-1906; the Rev. Carl G. Henning, 1907-1918; the Rev. August Kehrberg, 1918-1928; the Rev. Otto J. Eckert, 1928-1930; the Rev. Walter C. Voss, 1930-1936; the Rev. John J. Roekle, 1936-1951; the Rev. Paul Heyn, 1951-1954; the Rev. Leonard Newman, 1954-1962; the Rev. James F. Rockhoff, 1964 to the present.

During a period of approximately 22 months between 1962 and 1964, the Rev. J. Ruege of Lincoln served the congregation as vacancy pastor. Considerable assistance was supplied during this time by staff members from Michigan Lutheran Seminary of Saginaw. The congregation also was served approximately one year in this interim by Vicar Reinhardt Kom.

Emanuel's founding fathers were of German descent and thus all church services, as well as meetings, were conducted in that language. The first sermon in English was delivered by the Reverend East of Bay City on the occasion of the 1901 mission festival. One English service per month was held beginning in 1918.

From 1928 to 1951, two services were held each Sunday, one in English and one in German. The first congregational meeting in the English language was conducted on January 16, 1938. The last German service held here was on September 23, 1951. The Rev. G. Schmelzer of Hale was guest speaker.

In the early years, Emanuel was affiliated with the old Michigan Synod. Membership in "Joint Synod of Wisconsin and Other States" became effective in 1892. As of the beginning of 1977, Emanuel's congregation numbered 107 voting members, 478 commucant members and 602 souls. In 1880, a house was purchased and remodeled for a location to hold church services. It was also used as a temporary residence for the mission pastor. Plans for the present church building in Tawas City were approved in 1881 and construction was begun in 1882.

Cost of the structure, including cabinet work on the altar and pulpit, plus painting of the entire church, was $1,194. Borrowing of $600 by the congregation was necessary to finance the project as there were 29 voting members at the time.

The church building interior has been remodeled on numerous occasions. The beautiful stained glass windows, which had been donated by members, were dedicated in 1929. (A window represented a substantial contribution at the time, the cost being $35 each.)

A bolt of lightning demolished the original church steeple in 1941 and it was replaced. Fortunately, no other major damage occurred. Ensuing years brought about a variety of changes in the church interior, including hanging ceiling lights, tiled floors and an Allen organ. More recent changes include a gas furnace, carpeting, new pews and a sound amplification system.

The congregation erected its first parochial school to provide Christian training for children in 1883. A larger school building was constructed in 1893 and served until 1960 when a modern school building was constructed on North Street at a cost of $63,000. The old school building was razed and the grounds were converted into a church parking lot.

Present staff of the school consists of Robert Kock as principal and Mrs. Floyd Howell as lower grade teacher. The 1976-1977 enrollment was 37 pupils.

The present parsonage located west of the church was constructed in 1903. The congregation has owned four different teacherages and the present dwelling, purchased in 1966, is located on North Street. The congregation's cemetery is situated northwest of the Memory Gardens Cemetery and was purchased in 1888. Members of the church council include, besides the pastor and school principal, LaVerne Koepke, chairman; Dean Kobs, secretary; Harold Bublitz, treasurer; Charles Kobs, financial secretary; Howard Look, assistant financial secretary.

THIS PICTURE shows Emanuel Lutheran Church shortly after it was constructed in 1882. In the foreground are tracks of the Tawas and Bay County Railroad, which were constructed on Second Street and crossed the Tawas River behind the old courthouse.

Lecture Set Aug. 21 at Tawas Church

Life, if it is to be of value, cannot be stagnant, but must necessarily be active and vibrant and spiritually nourished.

This is the main point offered in an upcoming Christian Science lecture, "The Life That is Worth Living," by Rose M. Henniker-Heaton of Boston, Massachusetts. The talk will be given at Tawas United Methodist Church, M-55, on Sunday, August 21, 3:30 p. m.

Mrs. Henniker-Heaton suggests that life's vitality does not depend on limited human approaches or circumstances but flows from what she considers a far more reliable source. This source she identifies as the Christliness exemplified by Jesus. The lecturer cites in particular healings by Jesus "radiant with his love of God."

"It is just such spiritual knowledge," she explains, "that gives us an increased sense of God's guidance and impulsion. It helps us to be more thoughtful of the needs of others and it makes life so much more worth living."

Mrs. Henniker-Heaton was educated in England, has been honored for heroism by the Royal Humane Society and has been in the full-time healing ministry of the Church of Christ, Scientist, for the past 25 years.

The lecturer, who will be introduced by Mrs. Alma Hollenbeck, second reader, is a member of the Board of Lectureship of The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston. First Church of Christ, Scientist, East Tawas, will sponsor this free lecture.

Mrs. Geraldine Lemon has opened her physiotherapy office in Tawas City.

Pvt. Allen C. Anschuetz has been selected for the Third "Old Guard" Infantry Regiment located at Washington, D. C. The oldest regiment in the army, it is the honor guard at the capital and provides a constant guard over the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

35 Years Ago— August 14, 1942—Areas immediately surrounding each of the five dams in Iosco County have been designated as defense areas, according to an announcement made by Sgt. Donald Headley of the state police post. The areas have been fenced and posted with placards. No unauthorized person will be allowed to trespass within the posted ground. Dams under the jurisdiction of the state police are Alcona, Cooke, Loud, Foote and Five Channels.

Consent of wives is no longer necessary for men from 17 to 50 years old to enlist in the United States Navy. Previously, navy enlistees below the rank of petty officer second class were required to furnish consent papers signed by their wives.

Pros. Atty. T. George Sternberg has just received an opinion from the attorney general that machines operated by a player who inserts a coin and receives free plays on lucky combinations is a gambling device. Any coin operating machines such as this are to be confiscated by the state police or sheriff.

The Iosco County Library reports that bookmobile service now has been extended to Alabaster, National City, Camp Skeeel, Tawas Point and to all schools within the County.

IN THE SERVICE—

der drill. Teamwork and self-discipline were emphasized throughout the training cycle.

Richard M. Marx Finishes Training

Navy Amn. Richard M. Marx, son of Marge Marx, East Tawas, has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center, Orlando, Florida.

During the eight-week training cycle, trainees studied general military subjects designed to prepare them for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the navy's 85 basic occupational fields.

Included in their studies were seamanship, close order drill, naval history and first aid.

He joined the navy in January 1977.

Bret B. Coughlin Completes Marine Recruit Training

Marine Pvt. Bret B. Coughlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Coughlin, Tawas City, has completed recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, California.

During the 11-week training cycle, he learned the basics of battlefield survival. He was introduced to the typical daily routine that he will experience during his enlistment and studied the personal and professional standards traditionally exhibited by marines.

He participated in an active physical conditioning program and gained proficiency in a variety of military skills including first aid, rifle marksmanship and close or-

LOIS McCREEDY, 16, left Saturday on her way to the Republic of South Africa where she will be spending her senior year in high school with a family in Louis Trichardt, a city in Transvaal Province. The daughter of Probate Judge and Mrs. William McCreedy of Tawas City, Lois is participating in the Rotary International Youth Exchange. She will be less than 100 miles from the famous Kruger National Park. She has been spending a considerable amount of time reading about the Republic of South Africa since being accepted for the program, but admitted last week that she really had no idea of what to expect when she reaches her destination about 250 miles north of Johannesburg. She has been attending a series of meetings to acquaint young people with world affairs, which should be helpful. Lois will use her hobby of photography to help bring a better understanding between the two countries. She will return home in July 1978. —Tawas Herald Photo.

Iosco Getting Close to Revenue Sharing Split

Commissioners of Iosco County are getting closer to a split of uncommitted federal revenue sharing funds and may take final action today (Wednesday) on allocations to local units. Members hope the work may be completed soon as discussions have entailed considerable time and other important matters have been neglected.

When a decision was made earlier in the year to share a portion of the county's revenue sharing money with local units, it was felt by commissioners that it would be a simple matter to adopt a schedule of allocations.

Each township and city was advised to prepare a list of local projects for potential funding and all were submitted at a public hearing. An immediate problem arose when available funds would come no where near to financing all the projects and some units did not submit projects for consideration.

As a result of the lack of funds, the commissioners began selecting projects which were deemed to be worthy of financing. This caused an immediate problem as some units were excluded in the elimination process.

John Webb, Fifth District commissioner, made his point last Wednesday that the funds should be distributed equally among the five districts, regardless of projects previously submitted.

He said that under one suggested allocation, most of the money would go to the east side of the county while the west side of the county would not receive a fair share. He felt that the funds should be distributed equally to all areas and submitted two additional requests from Plainfield Township, including renovation of the old county garage as a senior citizen center and one for an industrial park. Each project requested an allocation from $30,000 to $40,000.

The county has approximately $120,000 in uncommitted funds to distribute to the local units. Plainfield Township had been allocated $25,000 for a swimming pool complex and was told that the money could be used for any of its projects, just as long as expenditures met federal guidelines.

Carlton Merschel, acting chairman, said that there was a mistaken idea that the revenue sharing funds being shared with local units of the county were surplus to the county's needs. He said this was far from the truth as the county needed money to expand its offices and vault space at the county building. He felt it would be the "last time the county would be playing Santa Claus."

Previously, the commission committed $12,000 to the Iosco-Arenac Regional Library for work on the headquarters building at Alabaster, $30,000 for purchase of the former McKay residence at East Tawas, $38,000 for the water project to serve the industrial park in Baldwin Township, along with $8,000 to Plainfield Township and $35,000 to Oscoda Township, which was approved for appropriation in 1976 but never spent.

Tentative agreement has also been reached on allocating $4,700 for the animal shelter, $75,000 for possibly the last year of operation of the county landfill and $5,000 to redecorate and remodel the social services building. It is generally agreed that $100,000 should be set aside for enlarging offices and vault space at the county building.

Allocations suggested two weeks ago from remaining funds of $120,000 were revised slightly and are to be considered at today's meeting. There are two additional allocations, including $5,000 to assist with bridge replacement in Reno Township and $10,000 to AuSable Township for emergency water purposes.

Items unchanged in the suggested new split include $10,000 to Sherman Township for bridge replacement, $15,000 to aid Tawas City in purchasing land at the river mouth, $35,000 to the Oscoda Industrial Development Corporation to aid in road construction and $25,000 to Plainfield Township.

East Tawas' share to aid with development of the Dewey Durant Park was reduced from $20,000 to $15,000 under the suggested split, while a $15,000 allocation to Grant Township for bridge construction was reduced to $10,000.

Commissioner Joseph Fox commented that he expects to receive late requests for funds from three other units, Alabaster, Whittemore and Burleigh Township, which could be submitted today for consideration of the board.

Fox pointed out, too, that past policy of the commission had been to use revenue sharing money to aid in industrial development of the county and felt that the Oscoda industrial park deserved a $50,000 allocation.

This view was supported by Robert Foster, supervisor of Oscoda Township, who attended the meeting. Foster said he was not getting involved in the matter, but pointed out that Oscoda and AuSable Townships have 38 percent of the population and valuation of the county. He said that the original intent of sharing the federal money was to aid economic development of the county by providing jobs. He emphasized he was not asking for any specific percentage for his township.

The appropriation to AuSable Township is a last minute emergency grant to that unit to aid in a serious water problem. A number of years ago, an industrial firm disposed of a quantity of highly toxic chemical cleaner in a holding tank or septic tank system. The chemical has infiltrated into private wells, endangering public health. The company has changed hands at least twice since the incident.

Terry Palmiter, township supervisor, told commissioners that emergency funds were being sought from the federal government to aid in construction of a water system. Palmiter said he was satisfied his unit would benefit from the allocation to the industrial park and would not have asked for additional funds had there been no emergency.

BUILD HOUSE WITH ENERGY SAVINGS IN MIND

With rising fuel prices and the threat of fuel scarcity, it is important to build your home with energy conservation in mind.

"Three-fourths of residential energy is used to heat the home and water," says Dr. James Boyd, Michigan State University extension specialist in housing. "Insulating the home is the first step toward saving fuel."

Three and one-half inches of insulation should be placed in the walls and six or more inches in the ceiling. Polyethylene, placed inside the wall before plasterboard is applied, will serve as a vapor barrier. A vapor barrier between the dwelling space and insulation is essential to keep the insulation effective. Insulation will also keep heat out in the summer.

"Weatherstrip all doors and windows so they fit tightly," advises Doctor Boyd. Storm windows are a must in Michigan. An enclosed porch, entry or vestibule will help keep out the cold wind during the winter.

Install enough windows to give the light you want, but remember, heat will escape through large picture windows and glass doors.

If oriented correctly, windows for sun in the winter and shade in the summer can be utilized.

Locate windows on the south side of the house. Install an overhang so it shades the house when the sun is high and lets in heat when the sun is low.

A light colored roof will help keep a home cool in the summer, not absorbing the heat as much as a dark roof.

Installation of a light colored roof is recommended because the amount of heat a dark roof would absorb in the winter is not significant. Michigan has only a few hours of sun each winter day.

Place grass, rather than concrete, outside of windows. The sun does not reflect off grass as much as it would off concrete. Shade trees also help keep the house cool in the summer.

Because energy is getting so scarce and expensive, check carefully on the types of fuel available before selecting one.

To save energy and money on your hot water bill, design your house so the hot water pipes are as short as possible. Locate the kitchen and bathrooms directly above the water heater or back to back in one story houses.

If energy continues to become more scarce and expensive, it may be advisable to insulate hot water pipes.

Late Summer Best Time to Establish New Lawn

By KENNETH KERNSTOCK
Extension Agricultural Agent

Mid-August to mid-September is the best time to establish a new lawn in Michigan, according to turfgrass specialists at Michigan State University. New lawn can be seeded in the spring, they note, but weeds are likely to be more of a problem then. A lawn can be sodded anytime during the spring, summer or fall.

Follow these tips for successful lawn establishment:
Improve soil if necessary. Add two to three inches of peat or sand to a heavy clay soil and one to two inches each of peat and clay soil to sand. Mix the added materials with the existing soil to a depth of six inches.

Have a soil test run. Cooperative Extension Service office will help arrange for the test and interpret the results.

Till the soil, removing rocks, building debris and other objects. Grade it, if necessary, to correct high or low spots and to make the ground slope gently away from the home and other buildings. Eliminate steep slopes whenever possible, they are difficult to establish and maintain. The soil line before sodding or seeding should be 1 1/2 to two inches below sidewalk, curb or driveway grade level. If soil is not lower than the concrete, sod or thatch will soon build up and overhang sidewalks, etc.

Follow the recommendations of soil test for lime and fertilizer. Work them into the top two or three inches of soil.

Roll the seedbed to firm it, then rake the surface to provide a loose, smooth seedbed.

Seed the lawn. Use one to two pounds of bluegrass per 1,000 square feet. A combination of three or four improved bluegrasses plus one-third creeping red or chewing fescue is recommended. Use a mechanical seeder to insure seed is spread evenly. For best results, divide the recommended quantity of seed for the area into two equal parts and seed twice, first across the area from east to west, then from north to south. Turfgrass seed is very lightweight, so seed on a calm day. Mixing seed with Milorganite or a similar material will help extend the seed for more even distribution.

Rake the seed lightly into the top one-fourth inch of the seedbed. Do not bury the seed—it needs light to germinate. After raking, roll to firm the soil.

Mulch with 60 to 80 pounds of straw for every 1,000-square feet of lawn or it may need watering several times a day.

Water daily for three to four weeks. To prevent puddling and erosion, water lightly. This daily irrigation is probably the most important step in establishing a lawn, the specialists point out even a few hours of drought can kill young grass seedlings.

When the grass is 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 inches tall, remove about half the mulch and apply one-half pound of nitrogen for every 1,000 square feet. Water the fertilizer into the soil to prevent its burning the foliage.

begin mowing the new turf when the grass is 2 1/2 to three inches tall. Mow to a height of 1 1/2 to two inches.

To avoid damaging the tender grass seedlings, hold off on broadleaf weed control with chemicals until the grass is well established. This is usually at least five to six weeks after the first grass emerges or wait until spring, if the weeds are not too thick. Most broadleaf weeds do not germinate in the fall.
