Teacher Sues TA for Additional Pay

A veteran Tawas Area School teacher, Robert Reasner, has filed suit in Iosco Circuit Court against the school district seeking $1,600 which he claims the district owes him over his base salary of last term.

Reasner teaches a building trades course and in 1975-76 had six contact hours with students. He claims that the contract negotiated with the union representing teachers provides for five hours as a full load, allowing two hours of preparation and school related activities.

Under the union's contract with the school, when a teacher is given an extra class assignment for the entire year, the teacher is to be paid $1,600 over the base salary.

Part of the responsibility of the building trades teacher is to handle bidding procedures and to contract for the purchase of materials. He claims that he utilized the hour for school related activities the previous year for procurement of materials.

Reasner claims that because of the six-hour class load in 1975-76, he was entitled to an additional $1,600 over the base salary.

TRAFFIC on M-55 was detoured Monday in Tawas City following a cave-in during boring under the highway for construction of the area's water expansion project. The bore was completed Friday but seepage of ground water caused a washout. As a result, the contractor had to cut through the blacktop road surface and fill the trench.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Little Voter Interest Shown in Tawas City Primary

Only 230 voters turned out for Tuesday's primary election in Tawas City, representing 22.1 percent of the city's registration list of 1,040 persons.

Names of six candidates for the city council elected in the primary election are to appear on ballots for the November general election. Also a candidate in that election will be Mayor Herbert Cholger.

Three top vote getters in Tuesday's election were James J. Lansky, 146 votes; Hugo J. Keiser, 124 votes; William L. Ezo, 103 votes. Ezo and Lansky are incumbents, while Keiser is a former councilman, charter commission and planning commission member.

Next in line was Arlene J. Dillon, who had 84 votes, followed by Lyle E. Healey, 61 votes, and Jerry J. Snoblen, 56 votes.

The seventh candidate, Francis J. Carey, received 20 votes and was eliminated from running in the general election when voters are to elect three councilmen from the six-candidate slate picked Tuesday.

Ground Breaking Held for New Nursing Home in Tawas City

Ground breaking ceremonies Thursday afternoon celebrated the beginning of construction for a Provincial House nursing home at 400 West North Street, Tawas City.

The new 120-bed skilled nursing facility, which has been under construction since July 5, will be owned and operated by a Lansing-based firm which owns and operates 15 other nursing homes throughout Michigan.

Tawas City Mayor Herbert Cholger turned the first shovel of earth in the ceremony. He was followed by Edward Davison Jr., the subcontractor providing sitework, excavation, roof and sheet metal for the facility. Jeffrey Poorman, vice president of finance and development for Provincial House, Incorporated, turned the last shovel of earth.

Poorman told guests gathered for the ceremony at the construction site that the facility is expected to be open for patient admissions in March 1978. It will employ from 80 to 100 people, most of whom will be hired from the local area. In the next few months, Provincial House will begin a recruiting program for nurses, aides, maintenance, laundry and housekeeping personnel qualified to provide a high level of service to the nursing home patients.

The new nursing facility will provide 24-hour skilled nursing care, medication control, diet control, physical therapy and other rehabilitative and restorative services, as well as complete supervised activity program.

According to Poorman, the Provincial House emphasis is on keeping patients active and interested in life and where ever possible on restoring their health to the point that they may return to their own homes.

Reimbursement opportunities for care provided in the new facility will include Medicare, Medicaid, Blue Cross, idemnity health insurance and private payment plans. Poorman explained that this is in keeping with Provincial House's policy to make long term health care available to all persons who need it, without regard to their method of payment.

The facility is primarily being financed by an FHA mortgage loan in excess of one million dollars, secured through the Peoples State Bank of East Tawas and the National Bank of Detroit.

Design architect for the facility is Manson, Jackson, Kane, Incorporated, Lansing. General contractor is P. H. I. Construction Company, a subsidiary of Provincial House, Incorporated, plus several local subcontractors.

OK Construction on D. Durant Park

Authorization was given Monday by the City of East Tawas for Scheuener Construction, Alpena, to commence preliminary work on the new Dewey Durant Park.

The Alpena firm was low bidder May 26 on the project, but a number of items in the development had to be eliminated due to the lack of money.

Work is to start this fall on earth moving, construction of a 102-car parking lot and a softball field.

The work is being financed by an appropriation of $14,000 from city park funds and $15,000 appropriated by the County of Iosco from federal revenue sharing. The project is to receive a $41,000 grant from Bureau of Outdoor Recreation funds and $12,000 from BOR funds will remain to be used next year.

City Clerk Clyde Soper, who has taken an active role in bringing this project to a conclusion, said Tuesday that future plans call for construction of six tennis courts, three additional softball fields, restrooms, concession stand, ice skating rink and warming shelter.

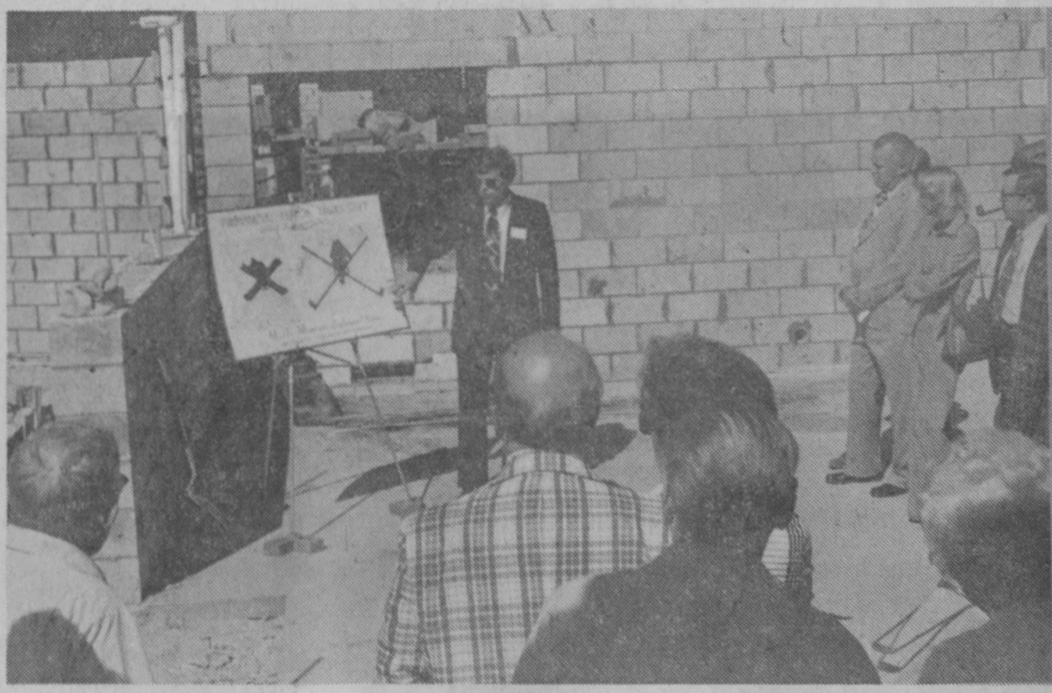

The park property comprises about 15 acres, about one-half of which will be developed in the preliminary stage.

Employees of Hospital Reject Union

Employees of Tawas Hospital rejected a proposal to have United Steel Workers represent them in collective contract bargaining by an 80-53 vote Friday. The election was conducted by the National Labor Relations Board.

"To those of you who supported the hospital, I would like to extend my gratitude for the confidence you have shown in the hospital and the administrative staff," said Donald W. Snyder, hospital administrator, in a letter to employees following the election.

"To those of you who felt that you could not support the hospital, I would like to extend the opportunity to put this election behind us and all join together. I am confident that by new, improved and continued communication on the part of all of us that we can make Tawas Hospital an even better place to work," stated the administrator.

Storm Sewer Work Starts Next Week

Work is to start next week on the first phase of constructing a storm sewer to serve the North Street area in Tawas City.

City Mgr. Reginald Bublitz reported Tuesday that the first step would be to build a storm sewer on Fourth Avenue to connect with the main sewer line running along the south side of North Street.

The Fourth Avenue project separates the two apartment house complexes now under construction at Manitou Village. This work would be completed first in order that the street can be compacted for hard surfacing at a later time.

The city crew is to construct the storm sewer project which consists of 3,200 feet of main. The storm sewer is to enter the Tawas River with a 30-inch main, then extend west 1,262 feet before tapering to a 24-inch main. The main then tapers to 18 and 12 inches at its outer end.

The project is being financed by an allocation from the city council of $29,000 from street funds and $16,000 from federal revenue sharing. It is expected that the work will be completed in late November.

Cars Damaged When Trucks Lost Loads

Iosco County Sheriff's Department investigated two accidents last week in which motor vehicles were damaged by loads being accidentally dumped off trucks.

Windshields and front ends of four automobiles were damaged Thursday when the rear gate of a tractor-trailer unit hauling gravel opened on US-23, Alabaster Township. Officers said the tail gate opened as it crossed railroad tracks entering United States Gypsum Company's plant.

The truck was driven by LeRoy Isetts, 38, Augres. Damaged cars were driven by Lois E. Cotsman, Terry B. Davis, Donna M. Gingerich and Patricia A. Herring.

A similar accident Thursday afternoon saw a car driven by Mona C. Peters, 24, Detroit, sustaining a damaged hood and grill when part of a load of lumber fell from a passing truck. The truck was owned by Schreck Lumber Company, East Tawas, and Neil F. Mochty was the driver.

East Tawas to Discuss City Garage and Land Purchase

City council meetings next week in Tawas City and East Tawas are to be delayed until Tuesday night due to the Labor Day holiday.

At East Tawas, the council will hear a report on a proposal to convert the old road commission garage into a facility for city, school and county purposes, plus a proposal to purchase 40 acres of land in Baldwin Township.

City Clerk Clyde Soper reported Tuesday that local representatives met recently with John Surka, energy consultant for Michigan Consolidated Gas Company, to consider energy saving steps which could be incorporated into the old road commission building.

No decision has been reached as yet, but consideration has been given to using the building for city garage purposes, as a storage area for buses in the county transit system and for a bus maintenance garage for Tawas Area School. Offices could be used for school or city purposes.

The building is surplus to the needs of the county road commission since construction of the new garage and headquarters on M-55. The East Tawas Department of Public Works will need a new garage next year as the present garage is to be used as the location of a parking lot in the new boat ramp project.

Because of the age of the structure and the fact that approximately $5,000 was required to heat the building last winter, the proposal is being studied carefully by the three agencies.

The second matter to be considered by the council is an offer to sell to the city 40 acres of land near the old East Tawas dump. This property is owned by the Kunze Estate, which is now in the process of selling extensive holdings in the area.

Included is a large tract of land near Tawas Lake which was once considered for purchase by the state. The property contains a large stand of second growth white pine.

(Read Psalm 62:5-8)

"Trust in him at all times, O people; pour out your heart before him; God is a refuge for us." (Psalm 62:8 RSV)

As I was recovering from an illness, one day I sat watching the world through the screen door on the front of our house. As I watched, I saw a delicate white seed caught against the screen. As the breeze caught and tried to lift it up and away, the seed seemed to cling to the screen as if its very life depended upon it.

It occurred to me that we sometimes hold just as tightly to things which cannot possibly give us life. The wind of the Spirit tries to lift us up to new heights and carry us to distant horizons of life, joy and love. Yet in our fear, we cling to that which seems so safe and secure. If we are willing to let go and let the Spirit of God carry us where He would have us go, how many more wonders we would see, how much more strength we would have, how much wider our vision would be.

CONSUMERS POWER COMPANY has made property available to the public along the AuSable River in Iosco County, but the firm is having serious problems with vandalism to its property and trespassers at its hydroelectric installations.

Power Company Has Big Problem With Trespassers

Trespassing on Consumers Power Company land may be dangerous and, in some cases, is illegal, warns John Wessels, the company's district manager for the Tawas District.

Wessels said increased littering, fence cutting, burning and vandalism has occurred on company property throughout the state.

"Consumers Power established programs back in the 1920s to allow campers and the out-of-doors types to use our property for various recreational activities," Wessels said. "Unfortunately, some of these would be sportsmen are trespassing on property that is clearly marked 'no trespassing' and some of these people are bent on destroying facilities and equipment, along with trees, on this property."

Wessels warns that the company, working through local law enforcement agencies, will apprehend trespassers and stands ready to prosecute violators. Wessels said that to help ensure reliable and safe electric and gas service, the company does not allow access to company-owned land where generating facilities are located.

Consumers Power employees are instructed to deny permission to anyone seeking to hunt, trap, hike, fish, camp or ride off-the-road recreational vehicles on these lands.

Similarly, Wessels said, the company does not allow anyone to camp or ride off-the-road recreational vehicles on existing electric and natural gas transmission line corridors.

Despite the limitations on certain lands, Wessels said the public is invited and encouraged to use company-owned property on the AuSable, Manistee and Muskegon Rivers. Camping is permitted only in specially developed campgrounds on the riverlands. Fishing sites are maintained and boat launch facilities provided.

Consumers Power leases 50 of its sites to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources or local park and recreational agencies to provide and maintain outdoor recreational facilities.

Jordan - Ruth Wedding Held at St. James Church

In noon rites Saturday, August 27, at St. James Catholic Church, Whittemore, the Rev. John Tupper officiated at the double ring ceremony uniting Ruth Marie Ruth and Patrick A. Jordan in marriage. Francis and Ann Jordan provided musical selections.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ruth of Florida. Her husband is the son of Mrs. Clarence Jordan of National City and the late Mr. Jordan.

The former Miss Ruth was escorted to the altar by her brother, Karl J. Ruth. She wore a gown of chiffon with long flowing sleeves, accented with lace. Her fingertip veil was edged in matching lace and she carried a bouquet of white daisies and blue babies breath.

DEER HUNTING FORMAT OF 1977

Michigan's 1977 deer season is expected to be another good one, according to the Department of Natural Resources. Firearm hunters who plan to get in on the November 15-30 action should note the map above, especially if they're interested in the Hunter's Choice option. Remember—all Hunter's Choice applications must be postmarked by September 30 this year. The DNR will issue 128,385 Hunter's Choice permits statewide, plus an additional 9,710 Limited Landowner's Permits for farmers. Check your 1977 hunting guides (available from license dealers) for details.

Labor Day Traffic Should Set Record

Michigan's Labor Day week-end should be the third record travel holiday this year as motorists are expected to drive 680-million miles over the four-day period. The previous Labor Day week-end travel record was the 660-million miles Michigan motorists rolled up over a similar 78-hour period in 1976.

Both this year's Memorial Day and Fourth of July week-ends were record-breakers, too, and they set the stage for what could be a 10 to 20 percent increase over last summer's record bicentennial travel.

Over-all for 1977, state officials are predicting travelers will spend 4.07-billion dollars while on trips in Michigan. That would be four percent higher than last year's 3.9-billion-dollar direct expenditure for travel and tourism in the state.

Since tourism is Michigan's second largest industry behind manufacturing, this rise in expenditure will mean much to the state and the local area.

While 1975 and 1976 were bad economically for Michigan, the tourist industry registered increases both years. Last year's tourism bonanza generated 200,000 jobs and 131-million dollars in tax revenues for the state treasury.

Statistics show 15-million to 20-million people vacationed in Michigan last year, making it one of the six most visited states. An additional two-million visitors are expected this year.

During the first seven months of this year, the Michigan Travel Bureau received 16 percent more inquiries about vacations in Michigan compared to 1976.

Peak travel periods during the Labor Day week-end should be between 7:00 and 10:00 p. m. Friday, when motorists start their journeys, and between 2:00 and 10:00 p. m. Monday, September 5, during the homebound rush.

Motorists are cautioned to observe the gas saving, life saving 55-mile-per-hour speed limit to help reverse this year's trend toward higher holiday death tolls. Thirty-one persons died on Michigan highways over the Memorial Day week-end and the death toll for the July Fourth holiday was even higher—32.

To determine how much insulation you'll need to save money on heating and air conditioning bills, use the charts prepared by the CertainTeed Home Institute. First, determine on the map which climate zone your home is in. Then, on the charts select the heating and cooling costs closest to those in your area. You'll find suggested insulation levels for your climate zone and utility rates expressed as R-Values. R-19 is the equivalent of 6 inches of fiber glass batt insulation. R-38 is 12 inches of fiber glass batt insulation. For additional information, write to the CertainTeed Home Institute, P.O. Box 860, Valley Forge, Pa. 19482.

Exchange Student Enrolls for Senior Year at TAHS

Here only a week, one of the first shocks for Marie Renson was the amazing appetites of American teen-agers—"they eat too much," she believes. Most parents probably agree with her.

Marie will be spending the next 11 months in this country and it will be interesting to note if she acquires a taste for the products of the American fast food chains.

A native of Liege, Belgium, Marie will be living with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Werth of 401 Margo Street, Tawas City. Werth is a supervisor at Tawas Industries, Incorporated.

The Werths and their two children, Linda, 15, and Robert Jr.,

five years of age, have been getting acquainted with Marie since she arrived here August 23 as a participant in the Rotary Club's student exchange program. She will be living with two other families during her stay here.

Mrs. Werth said the family was excited about Marie's visit and that she was anxious to meet the Werths' oldest daughter, Melanie, who is a college student and will be home over Labor Day.

Marie's home city has a population of 258,000 people and her father, Paul, is an engineer for a bus company. Her brother, Bernard, 19, attends the University of Liege and worked in the tobacco fields of Ontario, Canada, during the past summer. She has a sister, Joelle, 14 years of age.

The Werths have been amazed over the number of subjects which Marie studied as a junior in her last school term. Included were French, English, German, Dutch, Latin, Greek, mathematics, chemistry, physics, history and geography.

She is an active girl, enjoying tennis and bicycling and is a member of the Tawas Area Bravettes basketball team.

Marie said she had a great desire to see what Americans are really like and that is the reason she enrolled in the exchange program. As a high school student and a member of the community, she will be afforded the opportunity.

There Is No Substitute For Medicare Cards

Metal or plastic cards sold by some manufacturers are no substitute for official Medicare cards, according to social security officials here.

"The Social Security Administration mails official Medicare cards to people who have the protection," a spokesman said. "You should always show your official card when you receive services covered by Medicare. "It's a good idea to carry your Medicare card when you're away from home," he said. "If you lose it, you should immediately ask the people at any social security office to get you a new one."

Medicare helps pay the health care expenses of people 65 and over, of disabled people under 65 who have been entitled to social security disability benefits for 24 consecutive months or more, and of many people with permanent kidney failure.

The program is explained in detail in Your Medicare Handbook, which is mailed to people who have the protection. Copies are available at any social security office.

The Social Security Administration is an agency of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

Hale Men Hope to Cash In on Energy Crunch by Building Wood Stoves

Two Hale area men hope to capitalize on the current energy crunch by establishing a new industry for the manufacture of wood burning stoves.

"We are now attempting to get public reaction to two new prototype stoves which we have designed with the idea that, if our product is accepted by the public, we can manufacture them immediately," states Douglas Powers, Hale area businessman.

Powers and William Smith have formed a new firm, D&W Stove Fabricators, which is a subsidiary of Powers Aluminum Center on M-65.

The two men have selected the names, "Big Brute" and "Brute," for their new products.

The new units were designed by Smith, who has been a metal fabricator for 18 years. The prototype stove is now being used to heat Powers' warehouse.

"If our product is acceptable to the public, we can get into immediate production," said Powers. "We can make an addition to our warehouse for a small manufacturing plant—it may even mean some jobs in the Hale area."

The prototype model now on display burns logs up to 26 inches in length, while the smaller stove would burn logs 18 to 20 inches in length.

The stoves are of all steel construction, lined with fire brick and have cast iron adjustable grates. The units are equipped with special heat baffles to cut heat loss and have a present automatic fan control.

The stoves are designed to serve as an independent heating source or may be incorporated into existing plants, utilizing present furnace hot air ducts or hot water systems.

Powers said that the new type of long burning wood stoves which was introduced in recent years has proven particularly adaptable in this area due to the readily available supply of wood.

He thought the manufacturing field for wood stoves was wide open here due to this fuel supply.

FIELD NOTES RECORDED WORK OF Government Surveyors

Not much is known about the men who penetrated Northeastern Michigan shortly after statehood, but work in their own handwriting is photographically recorded in the vault of the Iosco County Register of Deeds office.

This featurette concerns what little is known about the federal government surveyors, who tramped through the wilds of Northern Michigan starting 140 years ago to bring the first "civilization" to lands formerly held by the Indians.

The original owners of Northern Michigan, who ceded their land to the federal government in the 1819 treaty, knew nothing of individual land ownership and could care less. The Chippewas inhabiting the peninsula cared only to know the best places to hunt and fish; where the beaver, muskrat, otter and mink could be trapped; where the juicy wild plums and other fruits were thickest in season; the location of salt licks, sugar maple trees and other places where natural foods were provided by the Great Manitou.

Were not the sacred rocks on the shores of Hubbard Lake and Thunder Bay, or the refreshing Iargo Springs along the AuSable owned by all of Manitou's children?

It was not that way for the white man. Land ownership was one of the compelling forces which brought these people of European descent to the shores of North America after the original discovery. And proving ownership of land was dependent upon the science practiced by the skilled surveyor.

(It should be noted that surveying was an honorable profession and practiced in young manhood by none other than the "father of our country," George Washington.)

When Gen. Lewis Cass made the treaty with the Chippewas under control of Chief Kishkawkie at Saginaw, the federal government obtained about six-million acres of land beginning just north of where Kalamazoo now stands and running northward to the head of Thunder Bay River and embracing all of the lands from that unsurveyed line eastward to Lake Huron.

This vast tract of land was practically unexplored—original maps published by the French, for instance, show a high range of mountains running down the center of the state; another example of the relatively unknown aspect of Northern Michigan was that the original explorers described the land as being swampy, unhealthy and uninhabitable. This information printed in guidebooks of the early nineteenth century set back the development of Michigan for several decades.

It is known that the Williams brothers of Saginaw, who represented the American Fur Company in trading with the Indians, had established an outpost at the mouth of the AuSable River. Louis Chavalier entered a claim for land in Iosco County situated at the "River Aux Sables" in 1823, but relatively little information is known of the man other than his claim was recorded in the United States Land Office at Washington, D. C.

Before Northern Michigan could be opened to settlement, the land had to be surveyed. Government surveyors were ordered into this wilderness to run lines, establish town lines and section corners to conform to the white man's system of private land ownership, in an area which previously had been only Indian hunting grounds.

According to one source, this survey commenced at White Rock in Huron County, where the border of the newly-acquired tract first touched the Lake Huron shore. Working northward, it was two decades after the treaty at Saginaw that surveying parties reached this section.

The earliest date recorded by these government surveyors in field notes now on file in the Iosco County Register of Deeds office is 1837—the year Michigan achieved statehood. That year, one Lewis Clason, deputy United States surveyor, and his crew surveyed and marked town lines in the area now comprising Iosco County.

None of the lands had been set off into counties as yet and it would not be until 1840 that the outline of Kanotin County appeared in the state records. It was only an outline on a map as the region would not be inhabited until 1849, and then only by a few fishermen at the mouth of the AuSable River. But, in 1843, the county received the new name of Iosco.

The field notes of Clason give no indication where the surveyors started their work, but the survey party made its way here from Detroit by boat and, in all probability, established a headquarters camp on the shores of Tawas Bay. From this point, they would work inland.

An account elsewhere concerning Clason's mode of operation indicates that cache pits for necessary staple supplies were located at strategic points inland; when the survey crew worked westward away from the shore, these supply line pits were used for temporary camping spots while town lines were laid out through the wilderness.

Field notes in Clason's own handwriting indicate that many areas of Iosco County were extremely swampy and, where every ounce of supplies had to be packed in on human backs, it can be assumed that not many luxuries graced the valley of the hardy surveyors. Wild fruits, venison and fish—the food of the Indians—were easily obtained and this fare supplied by nature, added to the staples of flour, tea, coffee, gave a varied and healthful diet.

There were no comforts of life for the surveying party and, during spring and summer, there was the bothersome hum of clouds of mosquitoes and other insects; at night, the men were serenaded by the howling of wolves and other animals of the forest.

It is difficult to imagine 140 years later, but once a sailboat pulled anchor at Detroit and headed up the lake, the rest of the world ceased to exist—an occasional settlement or shack might be seen along the shoreline, but after crossing dangerous Saginaw Bay, not even those rude outposts of civilization broke the monotony of the lonely shoreline.

Entries in the original field notes of Clason make occasional mention of items of historical importance today in Iosco County. For instance, in Section 12, T21N, R6E, (now Sherman Township), Clason noted an Indian Trail leading from the mouth of the "River AuGrais" cruising northward to the "River Sable." Other surveyors noted Indian trails along the banks of the latter river.

In another note concerning lines run in T22N, R8E, Clason said: "The above lake and the river making out of it is called by the Indians, 'A-SHET-TI-MO-YAWK.' He was referring to Tawas Lake and Tawas River.

Later crews surveyed the land into sections according to field notes in the register of deeds office. One John Mullet contracted with William Johnson, surveyor general, for this work in Iosco County. On one page, Mullet certified that "I have vigilantly surveyed and subdivided into sections, T23N of R6E," now comprising Plainfield Township.

Preceding Mullet to Iosco County by one year was J. F. Munro, who surveyed section lines in T21N, R7E, now called Alabaster Township. When the work was completed on August 29, 1843, Munro recorded other names of his surveying party, James H. Little, Guy H. Caslon and Charles Fields.

At least two relics from the survey of the 1840s have survived to this day. On display in the office of Calvin Norton, Tawas District ranger, United States Forest Service, East Tawas, is a bearing or witness tree and a cedar section line marker.

The Myths of Widowhood

by Harriet Miller

"Why didn't someone prepare me?" actress Nanette Fabray wanted to know when she was widowed suddenly about three years ago.

Nanette Fabray's question is asked by thousands of people every year. Yet no preparation in the world can eliminate the shock and loss of widowhood, which happens more often to women than to men.

The possibility and problems of widowhood may seem remote to a woman whose days are consumed by the details of running a home, furthering a career, or both. But the cares of widowhood can be thrust upon a woman in a matter of minutes. And the new status is guaranteed to change her life in every conceivable way.

The average American widow is 56 years old. She can look forward to more than 20 years of life, usually as a single woman. Ten million women in this country are widows today; they are 12 percent of all American women aged 14 and older. The chances that a woman will outlive her husband are three out of four.

Yet, with all of the company, the widow remains alone. She is often treated as a helpless invalid one day and as a social outcast the next, as a martyr for a month and as a second-class citizen thereafter. She is expected to sell her home to someone who really needs it, to live on a reduced income without embarrassing anybody by it, to provide just enough love to her children without either smothering or neglecting them, and, for heaven's sake, to be practical about getting rid of his golf clubs and cuff links. Above all, she is not to talk about her feelings and her fears.

Here are some of the most common myths and realities of widowhood:

Myth No. 1: The Widow as Rich. Everyone knows that as soon as he died, she inherited his money, stocks, real estate, insurance, pension, and Social Security.

Truth No. 1: The Widow as Struggling. Almost 24 percent of all widows fall under the official poverty line, many for the first time in their lives. Others find they have to change their style of living dramatically to match their reduced circumstances.

According to some surveys, fewer than 30 percent of all husbands even bother to leave a will. This means, in many states, that the wife stands to get only one-third of his estate. Most pension plans are meant only for retirement; less than 3 percent of widows receive anything from such plans, and usually they get only death benefits. Social Security payments are hardly consistent with a middle-class income. And not everyone buys insurance or buys it in sufficient amounts.

Myth No. 2: The Widow as Martyr. Most women meet widowhood courageously. They act as though nothing has happened and go on with life as usual.

Truth No. 2: The Widow as Confused and Alone. There is no such thing as a "strong" widow. For a time, she is stunned, shocked, scared, shaken, staggered, and perhaps even suicidal, but she is almost never strong. She may appear to be, and her friends will all tell her and each other how strong she is, but that is only to cover their unease.

One Maryland widow remembers that she was offended by the constant solicitation. Four years later, people were still being "kind" to her. All she wanted, she says, was someone to say, "Come sit down and let's talk." No one ever did.

Myth No. 3: The Widow as Available. Single again, she's footloose and fancy free. She can go where she pleases, do what she wants.

Truth No. 3: The Widow as Social Pariah. Find a merry widow and you've probably found a woman who has poisoned her husband.

In society's eyes, widows are just not very nice to have around.

Because of them, there is either an empty chair at the table or you have to fish around for a spare man. They burst into tears at inconvenient moments. And they are tainted by death.

These attitudes communicate themselves sooner or later to the new widow, who is usually at a loss to know what she did wrong or how to make it right again.

What she did wrong, of course, was to marry a man who would die, and the only way to correct that would be to remarry. However, since only seven in 100 women aged 56 and over remarry, the widow has to look for a more practical solution to the pariah problem.

Myth No. 4: The Widow as Perpetual Widow. Widowhood is a career. Her role is to memorialize him. For her there is no future.

Truth No. 4: The Widow as a Single Woman. Probably every new widow goes through an identity crisis. She is no longer a wife and her life has ceased to include her husband's work, his friends, his interests. She is faced with the need to make a life for herself as a single woman, without the experience to know how to do this.

Learning to be single takes time. The grief period commonly lasts about a year, and is also a transition period. The process of becoming single has already begun, the widow realizing in her mourning, as well as in the details of her everyday life, that she is basically alone and must learn to rely on herself. It is a time for her to summon all of the resources—emotional, intellectual, and psychological—that will help her achieve her new status.

Recovery from widowhood consists of finding options for the future and making choices from among them. Eventually, these choices begin to define the life of a new person, a single woman who has learned to live independently and often well.

IN THE SERVICE—

Attended Summer Training Camp

Cadet William R. Sneddon, son of Mrs. Urith E. Sneddon, Colorado, Springs, Colorado, is attending summer training at Camp Buckner, West Point, New York. He is a third classman (sophomore) at the military academy.

The training includes familiarization with weapons, survival techniques, tactical skills, field engineering and leadership development.

Sneddon is a 1976 graduate of William Palmer High School. His father is ret. USAF Capt. William R. Sneddon, Oscoda.

Selected for SAC Competition

Senior Amn. Richard W. Albright, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Albright of Beacon, New York, has been selected to represent his unit in the Strategic Air Command's (SAC) 1977 munitions loading competition.

Airman Albright is a weapons mechanic at Wurtsmith Air Force Base with the 379th Bomb Wing which will participate in the command-wide competition, dubbed "Giant Sword." Each of SAC's 20 bomb wings will be represented in the September 12-21 meet, being held at Ellsworth Air Force Base, South Dakota.

Teams will consist of a five-person munitions load crew, an aircraft crew chief, a six-member security police element and a team officer and noncommissioned officer.

Using only simulated weapons, munitions loading will be accomplished on four different aircraft—a B-52D, G and H model and a FB-111. In addition to the two loadings, the teams will be evaluated on the condition of their equipment and by a written test.

Each security police element will be evaluated on security situations, written tests and M-16 rifle firing.

The competition is designed to improve loading proficiency and security police skills, to aid in developing new concepts and to enhance esprit de corps.

Airman Albright is a 1974 graduate of Beacon High School. His wife, Gwen, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Gowenlock, Oscoda.

Americans will use about twice as much paper and wood in the year 2000 as they use today—over a ton a year per person. To meet the demand, concerned young people 9-19 in the national 4-H forestry program are thinking about the future of America's forests and doing something about it. Encouraged by International Paper Company, 4-H'ers learn practical forest management skills under the supervision of the Cooperative Extension Service.

AN OLD IRON and wooden walkway which was salvaged when the Mathews Street bridge was replaced a number of years ago has been installed as a footbridge over Dead Creek on Ninth Avenue. This picture was snapped Wednesday afternoon after department of public works and CETA employees moved the bridge from its storage spot at the city garage about two blocks away to its new location. Concrete footings are to be poured and the bridge is to be moved to its permanent location. A number of wooden beams in the structure are to be replaced. When completed, the bridge will permit youngsters to cross directly to grounds of Tawas City Elementary Unit, saving several blocks of walking.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Markets Overflow With New Harvest

By CARL OLSON
 Michigan Department of Agriculture

This is a great time of year to be writing about Michigan fruits and vegetables. It is harvest season and markets are overflowing with produce fresh from the fields. Among my late-summer favorites are peaches. I really miss them when they are not available. Incidentally, Michigan is usually around sixth in production among the 50 states, with the crop running between 40 and 60-million pounds annually, says the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

A great fruit for just eating out of hand, peaches are also versatile in the kitchen. One intriguing dessert my wife and I have prepared is Michigan Caramelized Peaches.

Peel six or seven peaches and cut into thick slices. Put them aside in a colander for about two hours to allow excess juices to drain. They will darken a little but it does not matter.

Place the fruit in a deep pie dish, leaving at least one inch of space above the peaches. Now whip 1 1/2 cups of Michigan Grade A heavy cream until thick. Add one tablespoon of vanilla and continue beating until the cream is very firm.

Spread the whipped cream over the peaches and place the dish in the freezing compartment for two hours.

Here is the interesting part. Pre-heat the broiler and sprinkle 1 1/2 cups of brown sugar over the top of the whipped cream. It should not be less than one-half inch thick and should completely cover the cream. Place under the broiler no more than four or five inches from the heat and broil for two or three minutes or until the top is hot and crunchy. Needless to say, serve at once.

Region 7-B Employment and Training Consortium announces funds still available for "special projects" under the Emergency Jobs Program Extension Act of 1976 under Title VI of CETA. Funds are still available for utilization in Clare, Gladwin, Gratiot, Iosco, Isabella and Midland counties.

A "special project" shall mean a definable task or group of related tasks which will be completed within a definable time period, not exceeding twelve months, which has a specific public service objective, and which results in a specific product or accomplishment when completed and which would not otherwise be accomplished with existing funds.

Region 7-B intends to contract with several qualified agencies throughout the counties to operate special projects. The employees of these special projects will be hired by the individual agency and will be on its payroll and be entitled to the same rights and benefits as its other regular employees. Employees of special projects will be persons who are long-term unemployed (15 weeks or more), unemployment compensation exhausted, or welfare recipients and whose family income is 70% or less of the lower living standard income level. Region 7-B will reimburse project operators for the cost of participants' wages to a maximum of $10,000 per participant per year plus fringe benefits to the extent they do not exceed those paid to workers earning $10,000 a year. In addition, project operators may use 5% of their grant allocation for administrative costs.

Organizations interested in operating a special project may acquire a Pre-Application Proposal by contacting Roberta Volker, Administrative Director at:

15 Years Ago—

August 29, 1962—An estimated 5,848 youngsters will be returning to their classroom studies September 4 in Iosco County's four school districts. Oscoda Area School will lead with about 3,000 youngsters, preschool registration at Tawas Area School finds 1,458 youngsters enrolled, Hale Area School will have a total enrollment of about 460 and Whittemore-Prescott Area will have an estimated 930 students in all grades.

Dentists of the Tawas have cooperated with the athletic department of Tawas Area School by making impressions of each football player's teeth. These impressions are being used to make mouth guards to conform with a new state regulation. Bryan Wernert, sophomore, has charge of making the guards.

The East Michigan Tourist Association reports that businessmen along the state's older roads must learn to live with the new freeways which carry increased traffic at a high rate of speed. In order to continue in competition, businessmen and communities not located near an interchange must make an ef-

Water safety aides during the Red Cross swimming instruction completed this week on Tawas Bay were David L. McKeehan, Michael Putnam and David Frank. Also helping was Ronald Langlois. Douglas Evans was the instructor.

25 Years Ago—

August 29, 1952—Whittemore's four-lane main street paving project is nearing completion, according to the state highway department. The four-lane slab on M-65 has been opened for local traffic.

M. H. VanOrnum of the Chicago office of the United States Gypsum Company has taken over his duties as works manager at the Alabaster plant. He succeeds K. M. Wright, who had been here for the past 16 years.

The new bridge over Hale Creek south of Hale on M-65 has been opened to traffic. The bridge was constructed this summer by B. H. Sargent at a cost of $53,777.

The Bay Theatre in Tawas City is being remodeled for services for the newly-established Immaculate Heart of Mary Catholic Church. During the past few days, the building has been renovated, redecorated and suitably arranged for church services by men and women of the new parish. First services are to be held Sunday, September 7.

An apportionment of $151,703 was made by the Federal Bureau of Public Roads for blacktopping 7½ miles of the AuSable River Road between Oscoda and Foote Site, according to E. H. Stickney, township supervisor.

A special election is to be held September 30 in the Tawas area to vote on school reorganization in those districts, according to Russell A. Rollin, county school superintendent.

35 Years Ago—

September 4, 1942—Consumers Power Company has discontinued its store in the Leslie Building, Tawas City, on account of the present war emergency. Miss Ruth Alstrom, clerk in the store, has been transferred to the Bay City office.

A ninth inning home run by Rolie Gackstetter broke a 2-2 tie as Tawas City defeated Rhodes, 3-2, in the playoff game for divisional honors in the Northeastern Michigan League. McCoy was the winning pitcher. The locals are to host Standish next week.

Hale is sponsoring a war bond and stamp dance at the community building. Walter Campbell and his Flint WPA Orchestra will furnish music.

Howard Malcolmson of Beaverton will teach science, mathematics and serve as coach at Tawas City High School. Chester Robarts is the new shop teacher and Miss Vera Senab, a graduate of Northern Michigan College, will direct the band and teach English.

New teachers at East Tawas High School are Marvin E. Jones, Lucy Jensen, Shirley Gage, Warren C. Ireland, Caroline Murphy and Harry Westrich. Members of the teaching staff who are returning include C. H. Nickel, H. E. Jorgenson, Eleanor Blakely, Helen Applin, Lucy Allen, Emma Whipple and Ruth Beadle.

Surveyors

Throughout notes of the surveyors, mention is made of various trees used to mark section corners. In one instance, a 30-inch white pine tree was recorded, but other varieties included birch, butter-nut, maple, hemlock and beech. In many instances, the surveyor noted that there was no witness tree available.

Although it was illegal to remove a witness tree, a white pine used for such purposes was sure to fall before the axes of the lumbermen who followed the surveyors. It was generally felt that this region was actually unfit for habitation and that after the timber was cut, the people would move on.

Norton reports that the cedar marker post was recovered a number of years ago by James Campbell, then a surveyor at East Tawas, who was running a line for a private property owner in T2N, R5E, in present day Plainfield Township near the old Thompson farm.

The cedar post, which recorded the common corner of Sections 10, 11, 14 and 15, was found under several feet of dry sand and was turned over to the forest service office in the Federal Building. Much of the land in that area is part of Huron National Forest.

Another relic of the original survey is a two-foot section of white pine which was a witness tree and bears the mark, "Section 13." In this case, a live white pine tree was used, a flat face being blazed by the surveyor's axe and on this space the location was noted in hand-carved letters and numerals.

Norton said he had no idea of the original location as, in the course of years, the bark crowded in on this space and other information has been covered. Fortunately, the part of the tree bearing the data of the first surveyors was recovered before being completely obliterated by nature.

The hardy surveyors, whose hands blazed trails and left the first marks of civilization for others to follow in this unbroken wilderness, overcame considerable hardship to accomplish their tasks. Theirs was not a 40-hour week, as indicated by field notes in the register of deeds office. As an example, the surveyors had Christmas Day off in 1844, but they were back on the job the next day running lines near Loon Lake, which was frozen and permitted travel across the surface.

Much of the surveying work was done in late winter in order to run lines through swamps and over inland lakes. At other times of the year, lines were offset to avoid cutting large trees or when a lake was encountered.

Interestingly, notes by the surveyors also listed soil conditions of the region and much of Iosco's land was termed "sandy" and "third" or "second rate" in the field notes. Perhaps there was a reason for the inhospitable condition of the territory noted by the original French explorers.

The men who ran those surveys are long gone and practically forgotten, along with the dusky Indians, who traded their hunting lands for a little rum and $1,000 annually. Payments ceased long ago, breaking the faithful promise in the covenant signed by General Cass.

Only the field notes and a few rotten pieces of wood remain now of the work of the surveyors, who marked the original town corners and were followed by others who put the crosslines on the map of Iosco County. Their work was invaluable, however, as there could be no land ownership as we know it today without the original surveys as a starting point.

Z IS FOR ZUCCHINI

With gardens producing a bumper crop of zucchini squash, some of them can be used to make sweet pickles. Try this recipe. It is a good one for a beginning pickle maker.

ZUCCHINI PICKLES

- 1 quart vinegar
- 2 cups sugar
- 1/4 cup salt (pickling salt)
- 2 teaspoons celery seed
- 2 teaspoons ground turmeric
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- 5 pounds (5 to 6-inch zucchini, unpeeled, cut into 1/4-inch slices)
- 1 quart thinly-sliced onions (4 to 5 medium)

Combine first six ingredients in saucepan; bring to boil. Pour over zucchini and onions, let stand one hour, stirring occasionally. Bring mixture to boil again and simmer three minutes. Continue simmering while quickly packing one clean, hot jar at a time. Fill to one-half inch from top, making sure vinegar solution covers vegetables. Cap each jar at once. Process five minutes in boiling-water bath. Makes six-seven pints.

Also try one of these tasty main dishes which incorporate zucchini.

ZUCCHINI QUICK

- 1 medium onion, cut in chunks
- 1 pound ground beef
- 4 cups sliced zucchini
- 1 large tomato, cut in chunks
- 8 ounce can tomato sauce
- 1/2 teaspoon thyme
- 1/2 teaspoon oregano
- 1/2 teaspoon marjoram
- 1/2 teaspoon basil
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- grated Parmesan cheese

Brown beef and onion; drain fat. Stir in other ingredients except cheese. Simmer, covered, stirring often, until zucchini is just tender—about 10 minutes. Uncover, turn heat to high and stir until excess liquid has evaporated—three to five minutes. Pass cheese to sprinkle on top. Serves four.

CHICKEN TURMERIC

- 1 tablespoon salad oil
  - 1 quartered broiler chicken
  - 1 teaspoon salt
  - pepper to taste
  - 1 medium onion, sliced
  - 2 garlic cloves, chopped
  - 1 pound zucchini, cut in 1/2-inch slices
  - 1 teaspoon turmeric
  - 1 teaspoon ginger
  - 1/2 teaspoon curry powder
- Preheat oven to 350 degrees Fahrenheit. Brown chicken in oil; remove to baking dish. Season with salt and pepper; set aside. Drain off all but one tablespoon drippings from skillet. Saute onion and garlic three-five minutes or until tender. Add zucchini and other ingredients and toss until well-coated; add to chicken. Bake about 40 minutes, four servings, about 335 calories each.
