with McIntosh at bottom left. Bidding down to the wire for the grand champion and then buying the reserve champion owned by Barbara Erickson, 16 years old, Burleigh Township, was Carl Adams, representing Farmers and Merchants State Bank. He paid the second highest price of $1.95 per pound and is shown at right with Miss Erickson. Seven more head of cattle were auctioned off, along with three hogs and four sheep. The sale was the best in the history of the fair.—Tawas Herald Photos.

Council Has No Objection to D&M's Fence on Court St.

Reversing itself from two weeks ago, Tawas City Council said Monday night it did not oppose the plan of the Detroit and Mackinac Railway to construct a fence on its right-of-way down the middle of Court Street.

Councilmen pointed out that the city and the railroad had always cooperated closely and the city wished to work out a solution. It was pointed out, too, that it would be difficult for the city to oppose construction of a fence when the railroad has a legal right-of-way in the city street obtained in 1883.

City Mgr. Reginald Bublitz reported that he and Mayor Herbert Cholger had met with Donald H. MacLeod, vice president and general manager of the D&M, and learned that the railroad was concerned with possible damage to its tracks from truck traffic as well as the safety of its operation.

A letter from the railroad two weeks ago stated that due to the new location of Kroger's Store adjacent to Court Street, there would be a definite increase in truck and car traffic on Court Street, "which will compound the hazard to our safe operation."

The fence, to be constructed of welded railroad track, is to be located eight feet, six inches, from the center line of the rails on each side of the track.

After the fence is installed, the city is to make a decision if the street would be changed to one-way traffic, which has been considered in the past.

It was also reported Monday night that the railroad was considering leasing the property to the city at the former location of Fuelgas Company along the Tawas River and Dead Creek as the site for a trailer park or fishing park.

Edward J. Barry, who headed up the river reclamation project this summer, has prepared a rough draft for development of a small park. He said that very little grading would be required and that the project would consist mainly of cleaning the area.

One of the problems for a trailer park would be that the property is not served by sanitary sewer and information was not available Monday night if such service would be required by the health department.

Barry said he would prepare one or more proposals to present to the railroad for its consideration. He believed that federal money was available for the work.

Rain Again Delays Legion's District Baseball Tourney

Rain continued to plague the Tenth District American Legion junior baseball tournament held in the Tawas. Tuesday's championship game was suspended in the fifth inning and the tournament is to be decided Saturday at Midland.

Meeting for the title will be Midland Contracting of Bay City which held a 7-2 lead over Midland Berryhill Post when the rain came Tuesday. There were only two outs at the time the game was suspended and umpires ruled it incomplete.

Midland Contracting was the only undefeated team in the double elimination tournament. Audie Johnson Post team from East Tawas was eliminated Sunday after its second defeat against one win.

The tournament was scheduled to start Friday afternoon, but rain postponed all games. Fields were still wet Saturday and Sunday and Monday was used to make up lost ground from postponements.

Trucks Using Bridge Ticketed

Undersheriff Basil O'Dell reported Monday that a number of operators had received citations for driving trucks over the Sixth Avenue bridge in Tawas City, contrary to signs posted at the bridge prohibiting truck traffic. One of the first drivers cited was an employee of the City of Tawas City, said O'Dell.

Hoffmeyer, 54, Pleasant Ridge, lost control of his motorcycle on private property; Theresa M. Sargent, 14, Saginaw, struck corner of dwelling with motorcycle. All were treated at Tawas Hospital.

Mark D. Essenburg, 21, Richmond, was treated Saturday at Tawas Hospital after his car flipped end-for-end on Rollways Road. Charles L. Drew, 20, and Patricia Southern, 19, both of Flint, passengers in a car driven by Jerry N. Ervin, 19, Flint, were treated Saturday at Tawas Hospital following a crash on Essex Road.

Commission Being Held by State Boundary

Merger Hearings Opened Last Night; Continue in TC Tonight

Admitting that it does not yet have full, factual answers to any one of many questions "that surround this bridging of decades," a consolidation committee composed of private citizens Monday asked citizens of the Tawas to avoid voicing negative opinions concerning consolidation until all facts are known.

On the eve of boundary commission hearings, the committee said at a press conference Monday that "it cannot be over emphasized that no individual or body could possibly have enough facts or defined issues upon which to make a sound decision until the proposed charter commission has completed its work."

The committee's statement said that "then and only then will the citizens and only the citizens decide yes or no on consolidation based upon the final issues and facts."

The committee's statement was to have been read at a public hearing held Tuesday night at the East Tawas Elementary Unit and again at a hearing to be held tonight (Wednesday) at the American Legion Hall, North Street, Tawas City. Other statements are to be heard at both hearings conducted by the state boundary commission.

The consolidation committee's statement presented Monday urged that the "established process which will grind out the issues and facts be allowed to continue and the citizenry be given the opportunity to weigh the issues and register their voices. We ask that political motiuations and petty jealousies be put aside in allowing these points to surface for analysis."

The committee's introduction to its report stated that "history shows that the Cities of Tawas City and East Tawas were born in strife, jealousy and mistrust." The report stated it was embarrassing to note that since that turbulent start, "events have occurred over the decades pitting neighbors and friends against each other."

Asked the committee: "Why not unite from this point forth? Given the opportunity to build the future community on this beautiful bay, would anyone suggest two cities?"

The committee said it was its conviction that consolidation would improve the community's ability to respond in an orderly manner and that consolidation must be approached from the benefits of long range, planned goals as opposed to immediate, radical changes.

Although not singling out any individual or organization, the committee said it found it "disheartening, even reminiscent of those historically documented hasty judgments of past generations, that position statements have been made even before the issues and facts have been logically defined. We are encouraged that many citizens have expressed surprised reaction to such statements, asking that fact-finding and issue-searching be allowed to continue.

The committee's position paper made general statements concerning bonding, federal and state grants, police protection, fire protection, planning, governmental efficiency, existing and future debts and area image.

Brent Babcock, Tawas City attorney who spearheaded the petition drive, said "we are only beginning to find answers and we plan to pursue the quest for authoritative answers." He felt that negativity concerning consolidation at this point was premature.

Members of the committee include Benjamin Brewer, Marlin Eaton, Edward Barry, Duane Walters, Randall DeWise and Del Myles. Brewer and Myles were appointed by the Tawas City Businessmen's Association while Eaton and Walters represent Tawas Chamber of Commerce.

Parking Lot-Sanitary Landfill Proposals Contested

Co. Commissioners At Odds Over Revenue Sharing Split

Iosco County Commissioners completed their tour Wednesday of projects proposed for federal revenue sharing, but no decision was made concerning actual allocations, if any—in fact, the meeting turned into verbal donnybrook. The matter is to be discussed again at a meeting to be held today (Wednesday).

According to a report by Carlton Merschel, acting chairman, $122,000 of the $426,000 in revenue sharing to be received by the county through July has been committed by earlier action of the commission, which leaves $304,000 to be disbursed. How that remainder is to be allocated appears to be the big question.

The commission has committed $12,000 to the Iosco-Arenac Regional Library for work on the headquarters building at Alabaster, $30,000 for purchase of the former McKay residence at East Tawas for a county museum, $38,000 for the water project to serve the industrial park in Baldwin Township, along with $8,000 to Plainfield Township and $35,000 to Oscoda Township, which was approved for appropriation in 1976 but never spent.

A list of potential projects compiled following Wednesday's tour included $40,000 for bridges over the East Branch of the AuGres River on Carpenter Road and National City Road, $75,000 for one year of operation of the Iosco Sanitary Landfill, $50,000 for development of the Oscoda-AuSable Industrial Park, $41,000 for the Dewey Durant Park at East Tawas, $30,000 for purchase of the Tawas River mouth, $6,100 for moving a power line at the county airport, $10,000 to refurbish the social services building, $25,000 for the county airport and $25,000 for work on the county building.

Also inspected during the tour was the AuSable River Park at the mouth of the AuSable River, the old bank building at Hale which has been suggested as a museum, a proposed swimming pool project at Plainfield Township Hall and a tennis court at Tawas Township Hall.

In addition to the above, Merschel pointed out that a sum of money equal to one year of the present subsidy paid for operating the medical care facility must be set aside if the county accepts a proposition from Provincial House to operate the county's facility.

Jack Allen, Oscoda commissioner, expressed the opinion that $75,000 should be allocated to Oscoda businessmen to relieve their present tax burden in repaying a $200,000 loan for development of parking lots in that community.

This drew an immediate response from Merschel and Joseph Fox, who felt that such an allocation would not be in the spirit of the intent of this program as the parking lots had been constructed by individual businessmen and would only benefit property owners. They also questioned the legality of such an allocation.

Allen responded by stating that he was seeking an attorney general's opinion to determine if it was legal for the county to turn management responsibility of the county medical care facility over to a private firm.

Another stumbling to a final allocation may have been provided by John Webb Jr., who believed that an allocation of revenue sharing money should be made to those units which do not utilize the present county landfill. He suggested, too, that allocations should be made according to commission district based on population.

Still to be considered is expansion of office and vault space at the county building. Only $25,000 for this work was provided under one suggested split of the money and it is felt that the amount would be insufficient to accomplish the project.

East Tawas to Apply for CETA Funds

Authorization to apply for CETA funds for a river reclamation project and construction of a hiking trail was given Monday night by the East Tawas Council.

Edward J. Barry, who headed Tawas City's highly successful river reclamation project, is to make application for funds to clean the river from the M-55 bridge to Tawas Lake. In addition, he is to make application for DNR funds to finance a perimeter hiking trail at the Dewey Durant Park.

In other business, the city received a proposal from Thomas Jacques for a city forestry program. The matter was turned over to the finance committee and park board for evaluation.

The council's street committee and Russell Small, surveyor, are to make a determination as to the street right-of-way along Maple Street at Tawas Lake.

William Smith, superintendent of public works, reported that $63,000 had been received in payment from 169 of 199 potential sewer customers in the Tawas Lake area. The money is to pay for interest and bond payments on the recent sanitary sewer construction project.

The council approved holding a sidewalk sale on August 5-6 and agreed to permit a collection drive for Cystic Fibrosis campaign starting September 19.

Frank - Trudell Marriage Solemnized at IHM Church

In 3 o'clock rites, Saturday, July 30, at Immaculate Heart of Mary Church, the Rev. Fr. Lawrence Boks officiated at the double ring ceremony uniting Jean L. Trudell and Jerry L. Frank in marriage. Judy Smolinski and Cheryl Riley vocalized to the accompaniment of Miss Riley on the guitar.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Trudell of East Tawas. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Frank of Tawas City.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride appeared in a white gown of silk organza and Venice lace styled with a flared skirt extending to a chapel length train. Blue satin ribbon inter-woven, outlined the waist and neckline and formed the cuffs on the Bishop sleeves. To complete her attire, she wore a lace edged waltz length veil secured to a Juliet cap. Her bouquet was of white roses and pink and blue chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Richard Jones, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore an ivory gown with blue floral A-line skirt and a lace trimmed ivory jacket. Bridesmaid Tammie Anshuetz wore an identical pink gown. Wristlets of chrysanthemums and roses enhanced their attire. Christina Nelkie was flower girl. She was dressed in white trimmed in blue. She carried a basket of flowers.

William Glidden of Oscoda was best man. George Brendly was groomsmen and Mark Nelkie was ring bearer. Wayne Frank of Sault Ste. Marie, brother of the bridegroom, and Richard Jones of Oscoda seated guests.

Pink and blue decorations trimmed the Eagles Hall, East Tawas, where a reception was held for guests from Frankenmuth, Livonia, Detroit, Bay City and Florida. Mrs. Trudell greeted guests in a long, sleeveless gown in melon. Mrs. Frank chose a blue floral gown. Both wore corsages of pink roses and carnations.

Following a short trip to Northern Michigan, the couple will spend 10 days touring New York before returning to reside at 565 Townline Road, Tawas City.

Showers honoring the bride were given by Ellen Glidden, Kay Hofacer, Patricia Anshuetz, June Brendly, Sharon Whitko, Mrs. Jones and Jane Nelkie, all sisters of the bride and her husband.

City Council's Hopes for Grant Dashed, but OK Continued Study of Complex

After holding to a slim hope for six months, Tawas City officials learned last week that the community would not receive any federal public works funds in the latest distribution. Tawas City was not alone in the matter, as not a community in Iosco County received public works funds.

City Mgr. Reginald Bublitz reported Monday night to the city council that only five communities in Cong. Philip Ruppe's 27-county district were picked to receive funds. All of those communities were in the Upper Peninsula.

The city filed two applications last December for public works funds administered by the Economic Development Administration. The city received word later that its application for a $199,000 grant for storm sewer financing had been rejected by EDA.

No official word was ever received from EDA concerning the city's second grant to aid in constructing a city hall, fire hall and library complex. City officials held to the hope that EDA would give consideration to this application under a new appropriation by congress.

With hopes for any federal assistance dashed, the council's special committee is to continue its investigation into remodeling the present building.

John Dye, Oscoda architect, appeared before the council Monday night and presented two tentative plans for remodeling the building. Although stating that many new codes and regulations had been adopted since the building was constructed in 1924, he said the building was basically sound.

Both plans called for the purchase of additional land on the southwest side of the building for a 40 by 47-foot fire station. Included would be a rearrangement of the building with a new entrance, new offices, new front, a 24 by 32-foot library and 36 by 24-foot meeting room.

The "economy" plan would cost around $100,000 and the second alternate with fire station recreation room, office communications room and other additions would cost $135,000. Cost of the additional land necessary was not included.

Dye emphasized that the present fire hall arrangement was not fire resistant because of openings between that area and the council chamber. He said that use of the basement did not comply with the barrier free code.

Additional property would be provided at the rear of the building once the water tower is replaced by a new tower included in the water expansion program now under construction.

Councilman Jerry Cotter reported that, following discussion with the fire department, the committee favored the present location for any new complex. The council is awaiting information from its planning consultant concerning its recommendation.

It was pointed out, too, that the Tawas are considering consolidation of the communities and the building may be surplus to the proposed new government, although fire hall and library facilities could possibly be used.

The city manager reported that the present location of the library in the Buch building had been sold to Robert Buffmyer, who has also purchased the former Lang's Dairy

Bar and cabins, along with the building at the corner of Lake Street and Mathews Street, which once housed McLean's Store.

Bublitz said that a short term lease probably would be offered to the city for the library, but the council would have to make plans for other quarters in the near future.

The city expects to receive its new fire truck shortly. Present quarters will house two trucks, but the old truck to be converted into a tanker would have to be stored elsewhere.

Things to Do In Case of Tornado

Jane Churchill, safety chairman, Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary No. 5678, urges each and every person to clip this article out and post it as a constant reminder of what to do in case of a tornado. Remember it could save your life as well as your loved one.

If the Tawas area is under a severe weather warning or thunder storms or tornado warning or watch, the upper most thought should be how to save lives as it may be your own. When the sky turns an ugly dark color and a whirring or roaring noise is heard, heed the warning signs. In the season of severe weather, following these tips will help:

Seek safe places for shelter, such as modern steel reinforced office buildings, storm shelters, caves, root cellars, bank vaults, interior corridors, basements, etc.

Keep away from windows as flying glass can cause serious injury; poorly supported roofs, such as auditoriums and gymnasiums; the upper stories of office buildings; house trailers, and parked cars.

A parked car can be a dangerous place. Violent winds can turn a car over and over crushing occupants.

If one is driving, attempt to escape by driving at right angles to the path of the storm. If there is no time and no underground or up-right shelter available, seek protection by lying flat in the nearest depression, ditch or ravine. If trapped in flat open country, staying in the car can be better than no protection at all. Remember to keep windows open enough to allow for pressure differences to help keep them from breaking, resulting in injury from flying glass.

If in an office building, stand in interior hallways on a lower floor. In factories, workers should move quickly to the section of the plant offering the greatest protection. In homes, a basement usually offers the greatest safety. Where there is no basement, take cover under heavy furniture in the center of the house against strong inside walls. Covering oneself with a rug, blanket, etc., provides some protection from flying glass or debris. Opening windows and doors on the side of the house away from the tornado helps equalize air pressure. If in a mobile home that does not have a community shelter, find a suitable place for protection.

If at school, know its emergency plan. All should have one. Go to an interior hallway on the lowest floor. Avoid school buses as they can over turn and fatally injure those on board or waiting to board.

Listen to the radio or television for weather conditions and keep informed as to what is happening and where and heed the warnings that are given out. Listen for the warning to be lifted. Call the National Weather Service only to report a tornado as the staff is far too busy to take calls that have no meaning.

If out in a boat, heed the warnings. Land and go to the nearest sheltered area or shore if there is time to do so. Water spouts or funnels can be dangerous.

When a tornado watch is announced in the area, make sure a shelter is ready to use at a minutes notice. Keep the radio or television turned on to keep informed of weather conditions. Keep calm—do not panic.

When a tornado warning is announced for the area, open a window on the east side of the house. Go to the shelter area.

When a rotating funnel shaped cloud in the distance is seen, call the local police to report it so the information may be relayed to others.

After the storm is over, keep away from loose electrical wires. If your home is heavily damaged, turn off the main gas valve, be alert for flash floods and keep away from rescue areas as one's presence may be a hindrance to those who need help.

Keep calm—do not panic! The life you save may be your own!

Rearranging the Furniture of Life

by Harriet Miller

Alex Haley was talking about risks the other day, not about roots. He reminded some people at a conference that his willingness to risk a change in career gave us Roots, a book that has had a powerful effect on millions of Americans.

Haley pointed out that the people who emphasize security and scoff at risks have forgotten that it was the risk-takers who were the models for the established modes of life. "There is something to be said for the responsible maverick in society," said Haley, "the one who creates something."

Haley spent 20 years in the Coast Guard before he became a writer. Even then, he was concerned about the changes that come in a lifetime and the care that people take to prepare for them.

In a survey of retired military men that he conducted while he was still in the Coast Guard, Haley asked what advice they would give people who were planning to retire. Says Haley, "In very moving ways, the majority wrote that people should prepare for retirement. They said they were sorry that they hadn't. One day they were in the military, the next day they were retired. They hadn't prepared for the shock."

Haley's concern for older people and their ability to make changes in their own lives prompted him to attend the Life Cycle Planning Conference, where he, along with other notable speakers, expressed his concern.

The conference was called to discuss the limitations and potentials of the "three boxes of life"—education, work, and retirement. Principal among the ideas exchanged was the notion that each of the boxes is not mutually exclusive, and that every person should strive to arrange or intermingle the broadest aspects of life in the manner most suitable and desirable for the individual.

Not everyone at the conference agreed on how such personal life-styles should be worked out. John H. Filer, chairman of the Aetna Life and Casualty Company, thought, along with some personnel directors from major corporations, that forced retirement was desirable. He said one should arrange one's stock investments in advance to plan for an adequate retirement income. He did not confront the problems of most people, the ones who cannot or do not own stocks.

Filer was also concerned that discretionary retirement—employers deciding that some people can no longer handle their jobs adequately—would result in law suits. He apparently saw no similarity between discretionary retirement and discretionary firing, which goes on everyday everywhere in the working world.

On the other hand, Sen. Alan Cranston (D-Calif.) said that "I personally believe that there should be no mandatory retirement age for any individual."

Secretary of Commerce Juanita Kreps, who opened the conference with a measured, thoughtful statement about employment, answered all of the questions that are usually raised by the people who want to retain mandatory retirement.

Secretary Kreps said flatly, "There are never enough good jobs. There never have been, there never will be. . . . That more people are looking for jobs means that we must pay more attention to the rate of job creation. It is hard to single out any one group and say that they are 'extra.' We will get nowhere until we talk about how well people work. It is important that age not be the factor determining whether people get the good jobs."

In the end, it was Robert M. Ball, former commissioner of the Social Security Administration, who described what should be our real goal. "Give people choice and opportunity," said Ball. "Choice and opportunity should extend to the oldest person among us."

"Choice. Rehabilitation. Functioning. Opportunity. Freedom." I hope someone was listening to him.

(Harriet Miller is the executive director of the non-profit, non-partisan National Retired Teachers Association and American Association of Retired Persons.)

Tawas Indies Won Over Lincoln, 16-3

Tawas Indies banged 16 hits Sunday to down visiting Lincoln, 16-3. Tawas had a total of eight doubles during the afternoon.

Brad Potts, winning pitcher, struck out eight batters, walked six and gave up six hits. Craig Kilbourn, starting and losing pitcher, struck out four batters and walked 10.

Lincoln scored one run in the first inning, but Tawas came back with two in the bottom half of the inning on a single, two walks and a double by Francis Jordan.

The Indies scored two more runs in the second inning with two walks and a single by Earl Parsons. The winners scored single runs in the third and fourth inning, then pushed two runs over in the sixth inning and the same number in the seventh.

The roof caved in on Lincoln in the eighth inning when Tawas scored six runs on five hits.

Earl Parsons belted five hits in six trips to the plate for the winners, including three doubles. Dale Revord and Clarence Jordan each had two hits in three trips, while Pat Jordan had two hits in four trips to the plate.

Bridge Program Being Considered by City Council

A bridge construction program during the current year is to be given consideration by the Tawas City Council.

At Monday night's regular meeting, City Mgr. Reginald Bublitz reported that Graham Brimhall Company of Covert had prepared proposals for replacing three bridges. This firm provided wooden bridges over the Tawas River at Mathews Street and First Street.

Cost of the proposed bridges was as follows:

Sixth Avenue over Dead Creek, 40-foot span with 28-foot clear roadway and 12-inch abutments, $44,000; Whittemore Street over Tawas River, 64-foot span with 28-foot clear roadway and 12-inch abutments, utilizing the existing center pier, $58,000; North Street, 40-foot span, 28-foot clear roadway and nine-inch abutment, $45,000.

Mayor Herbert Cholger said he favored construction of a new bridge on Seventh Avenue and one on North Street. Cholger felt that a new bridge on Seventh Avenue would relieve the traffic on the Sixth Avenue bridge which is presently closed to trucks. Both bridges could be constructed at the same cost, although additional road work would be required on Seventh Avenue. The mayor also believed that North Street should be considered for a bridge due to new development by Provincial House, Incorporated, and Manitou Village Apartments.

The city manager said that the budget allocated a little more than $40,000 for a street program this year. He said the money could be used for building one bridge or continuing with street construction.

In other business, no objections were heard concerning the vacation of a portion of Fifth Street. The former Frank Sands dwelling, thought to be nearly 100 years old, was constructed in the street. In the 1950s, Sands gave a deed to the city for a new street, Industrial Avenue, but no action was ever taken by the city or the property owner to correct the title.

The property has since been sold and the new owner has requested the vacation. Further action is tabled during an investigation to determine if the transaction between the city and Sands was a trade, or if the city paid a consideration for the site of Industrial Avenue.

Tawas Bay Waterfront Art Show Saturday and Sunday in Tawas City

Seventeenth annual two-day Tawas Bay Waterfront Art Show will be held Saturday and Sunday at the Tawas City Park and Iosco County Building. Hours are from 9:00 a. m. to 9:00 p. m. on Saturday and 9:00 a. m. to 5:00 p. m. on Sunday.

This show has gained the reputation of being one of the top summer attractions in Michigan, with its beautiful setting on Tawas Bay. The show is open to all amateur and professional artists and craftsmen, exhibiting only original items of their own design.

Included are original drawings and paintings, handmade jewelry, sculpture, pottery and ceramics, silk screen, print making, photography, hand tooled leather, macramé, batik, weaving and creative candles.

The show is limited to 225 exhibitors and work of artists will be juried and limited by categories.

Mary Brown, president of Tawas Bay Artists, sponsoring organization, reports that more than 200 exhibitors have registered from Michigan, Ohio, Kentucky, Florida, Arizona, Wisconsin, Texas and New Mexico.

As a special treat for exhibitors and spectators, Tawas Area High School Symphonic Band will perform Sunday, 3:00 p. m., on the tennis court at the park. Immediately following will be the presentation of awards, ribbons and cash prizes to exhibitors.

The art show judge will be Jeffrey B. Havill, who presently is assistant professor in the department of art, Alma College. He holds a master degree from the University of Wisconsin, a bachelor degree from Beloit College. He studied German art and language at Schiller College, West Germany.

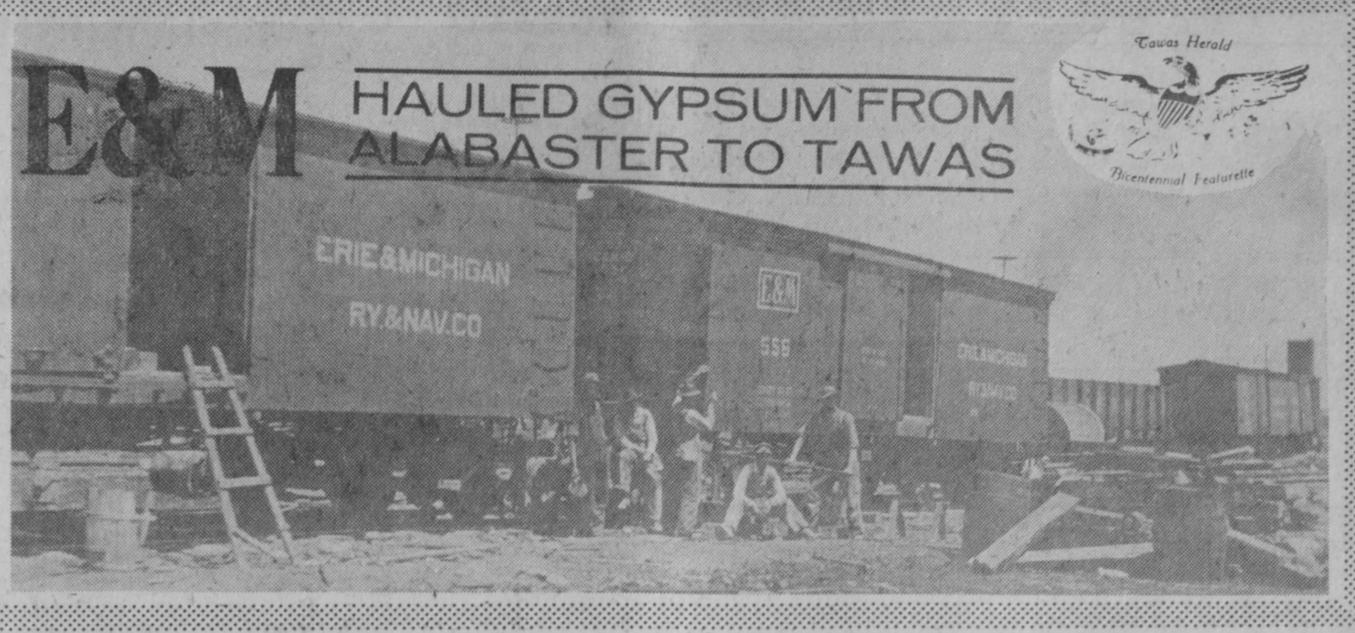

His media includes sculpture, drawing and design. His many one-man shows have made him an award-winning artist in Michigan and nationally.

Tawas Area Keyettes and volunteers from the community will assist Tawas Bay Artists. Herbert Blust is stage manager.

Iosco County was once the location of the shortest railroad in Michigan, perhaps in the entire country, according to Robert Ripley's "Believe It Or Not." No claims are being made here, but the Erie and Michigan Railway and Navigation Company, which did not own its roadbed, probably had the longest name of any railroad in the state.

Old-timers of the Tawas area will immediately recall the E&M, which hauled gypsum rock from the Alabaster quarry of United States Gypsum Company to Tawas for 40 years or more. Its veteran steam locomotive No. 8 was familiar to two generations of residents; it had a tall smoke stack and its shrill whistle made music to many an old-time railroader's ear.

The railroad started at the USG plant on the shore of Saginaw Bay at Alabaster and headed north toward Tawas City. The right-of-way extended a total distance of four miles to Alabaster junction, where it joined the Detroit and Mackinac Railway Company's main line.

The entire route of the E&M comprised 8.3 miles, all of which was over D&M tracks. The D&M had always owned the roadbed of the Alabaster line, which it constructed in 1898, and after operating it for a number of years, it was leased to the E&M in 1907. This was a rather unusual arrangement for the E&M, as the originating carrier received the major portion of the freight revenue while the D&M, upon whose tracks the trains traveled, received a lesser amount.

An official of the gypsum company, making his first trip over the line years ago, remarked to A. A. Bigelow, general superintendent of the E&M and train conductor: "I've often wondered where this railroad got its name. Now I know, after traveling over it. The first half is a railroad and the last half must be the 'navigation' part because it is rougher than the Great Lakes."

Established to haul rock and manufactured gypsum products from Alabaster and to transport supplies to the plant, the E&M had the exclusive business of the gypsum company. That fact was eventually to lead to the railroad's demise.

The first announcement in the Herald pertaining to organization of a new railroad indicated that the E&M would construct its rails from Grand Rapids to Tawas. That project never came to pass due to the expensive construction which it would have entailed. The announcement also might have been a ploy used by the promoters to encourage the D&M to lease its tracks.

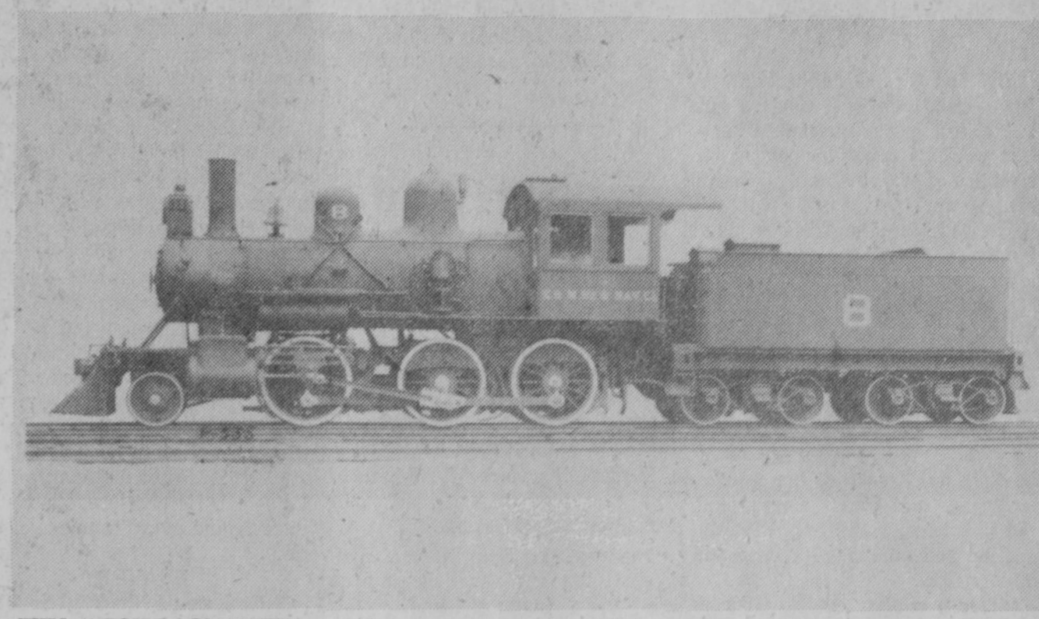

On July 26, 1907, the Herald reported that "the United States Gypsum Company has purchased a 40-ton engine for its railroad, the Erie and Michigan, and within a few days would be running regular trains between the village of Alabaster and the Tawas."

"The E&M commenced running its regular trains between Alabaster and East Tawas this week," reported the Herald on August 30, 1907. "The passenger coaches will be here within a few days. The train crew consists of H. M. Barnes, conductor; Fred Miller, brakeman; Frank Allen, a former D&M employee, engineer, and Will Curry, fireman."

At a meeting of the board of directors of the E&M on September 21, 1907, T. G. Winnett, was elected president, with offices at Bay City. Winnett was general passenger agent of the D&M. C. W. Luce, who had been general superintendent of the D&M, was appointed general superintendent of the E&M.

The E&M actually was involved in water transportation, too, according to this report in the October 18, 1907, issue of the Herald: "The office of Capt. P. F. Powrie, superintendent of the boat line, has been removed from Alabaster to Port Huron. The general offices at Chicago have been removed from the Marquette Building to the Tribune Building."

Principal stockholders of the

THIS 40-TON LOCOMOTIVE provided the motive power for the Erie and Michigan Railway and Navigation Company for many years. Purchased in 1907, locomotive No. 8, shown in this builder's photo, had a distinctive sounding whistle which was music to the ears of many Tawas residents.

E&M were Sewell Avery and S. S. Jenkins. Avery, president and chairman of the board of United States Gypsum Company, had his start in industry at Alabaster. By owning stock in the railroad which provided transportation for his plant at Alabaster, Avery was earning money at both ends.

An immense tonnage of gypsum products was hauled by the E&M during its 41-year history, the greatest coming during the first 21 years of its existence when a plaster mill was in operation at Alabaster. Previous to the establishment of the railroad, these products went to market by boat for nearly 40 years. Following a dispute with the D&M, Avery directed that a new tramline and dock be constructed at Alabaster, which was completed in 1928, and a large share of the plant's product is shipped by water.

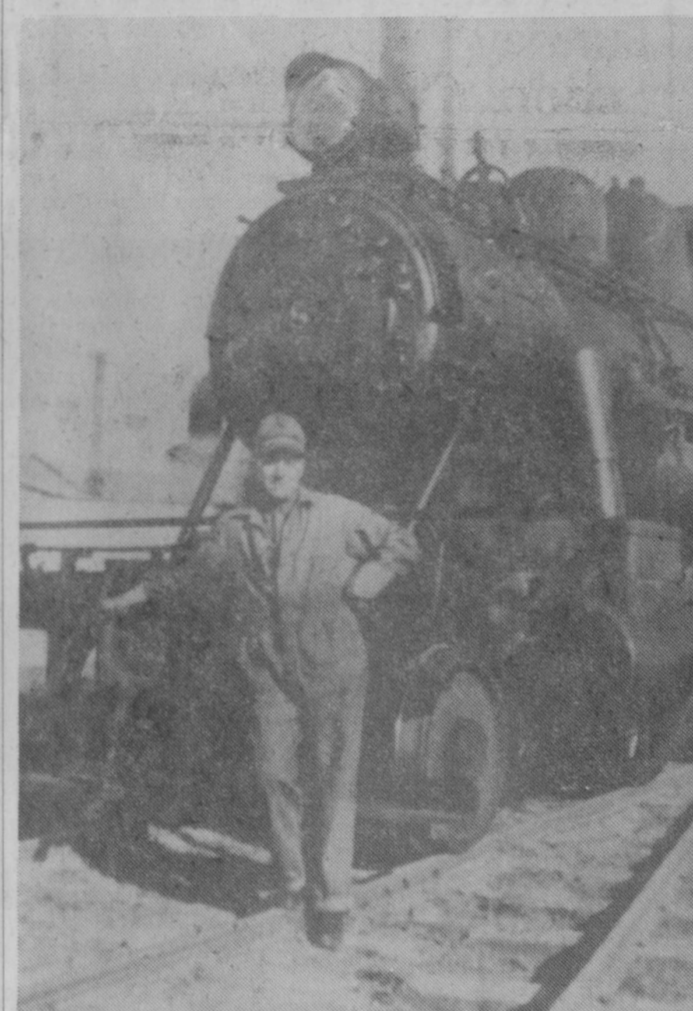

Some of the early employees of the E&M included John Bay of Tawas City, superintendent; Bruce Walker and Leonard Fox, station agents at Alabaster.

Passenger service was apparently operated on a hit or miss proposition by the E&M for a number of years and Tawas City youngsters, who were friends of the operating crew, had the summertime thrill of riding in the locomotive during trips to Alabaster and return.

The E&M continued to haul gypsum rock from Alabaster to Tawas as a highly profitable operation until December 1, 1948, when the line was taken over by the D&M.

Officers of the E&M in 1948 included E. E. Wilhelm, general manager, and J. J. Walsh, auditor, both of Chicago, Illinois. A. A. Bigelow of Tawas City was general superintendent.

When taken over by the D&M in 1948, the E&M employed eight men: Bigelow; Felix Stepanski, station agent at Alabaster; Walter Moeller, engineer; Edward Berzinski, fireman; William Rapp, foreman; Allen Alverson and Edward Pfeiffer, maintenance crew.

WALTER MOELLER was the last locomotive engineer on the E&M. He started with the firm in 1919, advanced from fireman to engineer in 1928 and continued in its employment until the line was absorbed by the Detroit and Mackinac Railway in 1948. He then worked for the D&M until retiring in 1965.

Provincial House Proposal to Get Complete Review

A proposed contract for operation of the county medical care facility by Provincial House, Incorporated, was received Wednesday from the Lansing-based firm by the Iosco County Board of Commissioners.

During the concluding minutes of Wednesday's session, following an inspection tour of the county, Carlton Merschel, acting chairman, pointed out that members had no opportunity to review the proposal and that extra copies had been prepared for individual study and consideration at a later time.

Merschel emphasized that a complete investigation would be made concerning Provincial House's proposal, as well as a complete review of the medical care facility's financial picture and past operation would be made before any action is taken. He indicated, too, that hearings may be held to get the public's viewpoint.

"Our immediate concern is the concern of people," stated Merschel. "Any discussion concerning the medical care facility can get a lot of people upset and it will require cool heads to study the pros and cons in order for the commission to arrive at what it believes to be the correct decision."

Merschel said, too, that "personal feelings must be tempered by practicality. The medical care facility cannot continue to operate in the red unless the public is willing to come up with the money," he stated.

After the commission reviews Provincial House's proposal, a meeting is to be held with Roy Bergstrom, director of the medical care facility, to "hear his side of the story." Both Bergstrom and members of the commission have insisted that Harold Knight, certified public accountant, be present in order to comment on finances. Merschel said Wednesday that Provincial House, which is building a new nursing home in Tawas City, will be a direct competitor with the county facility. According to available information, the private firm's cost per patient is approximately $10 less than the cost at the medical facility. In all probability, the above figure will be disputed.

In addition, it was pointed out that the medical care facility had been using state depreciation funds for actual operating expenses until that practice was ordered stopped last year by the board of commissioners. The county allocated approximately $30,000 in anti-recession funds to build up the facility's depreciation account. Later, the county commission authorized use of tax money to operate the medical care facility due to a deficit in funds.

The county commission is to investigate the exact amount that the county is subsidizing the medical care facility from the county treasury. That figure was not available at last Wednesday's meeting.

Commissioners said Wednesday that should there be a reduction of patients at the medical care facility after the new private nursing home starts operation, the county deficit each month would continue to grow and "it might shake up taxpayers."

In its preliminary presentation two weeks ago, Provincial House said it could operate the county facility in a more efficient manner, "delivering quality health care for a reduced health care dollar" through mass purchasing and various nursing home management techniques.

The Lansing firm proposed to manage the county medical care facility for six percent of the gross revenue. The firm guaranteed that (See PROPOSAL, page 6.)

TODAY'S Meditation from The World's Most Widely Used Devotional Guide

(Read Psalm 118:1-9)

"God has said, 'I will never leave you; I will never abandon you.'" (Hebrews 13:5 TEV)

My wife was teaching phonics to a group of first grade children. The children were experiencing difficulty in understanding various sounds. A number of children raised a hand, desiring immediate assistance from their teacher. One young boy grew impatient and held up a sheet of paper with the letters SOS printed on it. Those letters communicated the message, "I need help and I need it now!"

SOS is an internationally recognized signal for distress used by ships, aircraft or anyone making an appeal for help. There are times when each of us, in facing crises in life, cries out for help beyond that which human beings are able to supply. In times of deep distress, how grateful we should be that there is saving help. Our God has said, "I will never fail you nor forsake you." The Bible assures us that when our strength falters, God is ever present to support us in our troublesome circumstances. Moreover, He continues to sustain us each and every moment of our life.

PRAYER

O God, we are thankful that You are our helper. When we raise our cries of distress, we know You hear and respond. We thank You for Your help and sustaining presence. Amen.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

In behalf of Mr. Denstedt's letter of July 27 to you. How true! And I wonder also what Provincial House could do compared to the care, etc., that the Iosco Medical Care Facility is doing for the patients that are there?

The patients are kept so clean, their rooms, in fact the whole place is immaculate. Whenever you go in there, the administrator, nurses and aides, all of the help are supreme. In fact, I believe the commissioners, board members and taxpayers should think twice and if it comes to a decision by vote, I think the taxpayers should be given a chance to vote on the upcoming issue.

Iosco County people wake up. You know as well as I do that these people need Iosco Medical Care Facility.

Politics and money talk and it does not matter about the amount of care and time that goes for these people, commissioners and board members do not always go for the best interest of the community. Iosco County should not give up what is under its control to please the whims of a few at the cost of the well-being of the people involved.

A letter of the calibre of Mr. Denstedt's and noteworthy should have made the front page. Mrs. C. J. Seacord

Assist Livestock Growers

Iosco Approved for Emergency Feed

Harold Cholger, chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, announced Iosco County has been approved for emergency livestock feed for the program period ending September 1. The Emergency Feed Program is designed to give assistance to eligible livestock owners by sharing the cost of feed for eligible livestock. The assistance is designed to help preserve foundation herds and to prevent widespread selling off or destroying of herds due to natural disaster.

Eligibility to participate in the program is determined by the ASC committee on a farm-by-farm basis.

To be eligible, a producer must have suffered a substantial loss of feed normally produced, have insufficient feed for the program period, be required to make feed purchases in quantities larger than normal, operate a farm in the county, not receive assistance for the same loss under other federal programs and producer must have owned livestock for six months.

Cholger has requested producers in the county to inventory their feed supplies and report to the county office. Producers who do not have adequate feed for the program period which ends September 1 should contact the county office immediately. Cholger stated the committee will need to know producers situations for the entire fall and winter feeding period before they can determine the need to request an extension. Producers who will not have adequate feed for the fall and winter feeding period are asked to report to the county office so we can determine if the program will be needed.

Stop in or call 362-3842. The office is located in the Federal Building, East Tawas.

GOD STILL LOVES YOU.

If you wandered away from Him, there must have been a reason. But maybe what you lost interest in wasn't really God at all. Wouldn't it be satisfying, getting to know God as He really is, understanding your place in His loving plan?

What's Cooking in State of Michigan

By CARL OLSON
Michigan Department of Agriculture

Let your nose be your guide when you buy Michigan cantaloupe this time of year. I like the description used in Larousse Gastronomique. "Choosing a melon," the book says, "is a delicate undertaking. A connoisseur would not dream of leaving it to someone else to choose a melon for his delectation. He smells the fruit lingeringly, he taps it lightly to discover whether it is well-fleshed or hollow. He looks to see whether it has round its stem that 'crown' which indicates that the melon is perfectly ripe and whether or not it is sweet." That is choosing a melon!

Reportedly, the melon was introduced to America by Christopher Columbus on his second voyage to the New World back in 1494. It originated in Persia (now Iran) but was named after a castle (Cantalupo) where it was first grown in Italy.

Production in our state, according to the Michigan Department of Agriculture, comes primarily from Bay, Berrien, Monroe, VanBuren and Macomb Counties although the Howell melon from Livingston County may be the best known.

While melon is thought of more as a breakfast item, it also makes a marvelous dessert. Sometime try making what I call "Melon Michigan."

Cut a medium melon in half and remove the seeds. Fill each half with fresh Michigan strawberries and sprinkle with two teaspoons of sugar and two tablespoons of cream sherry. Cover and chill for one hour.

Meanwhile, beat two egg whites with a dash of salt till soft peaks form. Gradually add one-quarter cup of sugar, beating till stiff and glossy. Spoon this atop the melon halves and strawberries.

Here is the interesting part. Put the melons on a baking sheet and place in a 400 degree oven until the meringue is golden, about five minutes. Needless to say, serve immediately. Try it, you will like it.

Senior Citizens Enjoyed Skit on School Days

Eighty-eight Tawas Area Senior Citizens and two guests, Mrs. Donald Hartley and Charles Anschuetz, were entertained Wednesday, July 27, at East Tawas Community Building with a humorous skit on school days. Routine business was attended to and prizes were awarded to Marie Uhl, Martin Slominsky, Fred Francis, Maud Randall and Lillian Martin.

Birthdays in July and August were honored with cupcakes and ice cream. A cake walk and sack lunch will be featured at the next meeting August 10.

Bill Would Aid Town Affected by Base Closing

A bill that would aid communities affected by military base closures has been reintroduced in the house of representatives with 21 co-sponsors, Rep. Philip E. Ruppe has announced.

Ruppe, who drafted the measure, introduced the bill on June 28. He then circulated it to Michigan's two senators, Robert P. Griffin and Donald W. Riegle, who introduced the bill.

The bill provides the equivalent of one year of the projected 10-year savings which will accrue to the Defense Department through the closure or curtailment of an installation. That amount would be set aside for use by the community in developing a comprehensive recovery program approved by the secretary of defense.

The Defense Department is lukewarm to the proposal since it will require defense planners to pay more careful attention to the effects of their decisions on local communities and not simply pick up and leave an area.

The air force is closing Kincheloe Air Force Base near Sault Ste. Marie on September 30. No existing government program provides a comprehensive aid formula for assisting communities to convert military installations to civilian uses.

Proposal

in the first year of the management contract, the county would not have to subsidize the facility any more than it had in the previous 12 months; in the second year, the county would not have to subsidize the facility at all, or the firm would not receive a management fee; in the third year, the facility would operate under the same reimbursement formula and at the same charges as the new Tawas City facility or it would pay the county an amount of money equivalent to property taxes for the county facility.

During the next few weeks, the proposed contract will come under close scrutiny of county officials and the interested public, who will be taking a close look at all expenditures of health care dollars.

One Bid on Grant Twp. Bridge

Red Cedar Construction Company, East Lansing, was the lone bidder on construction of a two-span concrete bridge to carry Old State Road over the East Branch of the AuGres River near Sand Lake, Grant Township. The firm entered a bid of $68,647.

Bids were opened July 26 at Lansing by the Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation on 79 different projects in the state. All bids must be approved by the state highway commission before contracts are awarded.

IF FREEZER STOPS: Some Thawed Food May Be Saved

A fuse blew, you do not know how long ago and your home freezer went off. Now, you are faced with a very important question! What do you do with food in the freezer?

The kind of food and how much it has thawed will determine whether you can refreeze it or should throw it out.

Any food showing obvious signs of spoilage should, of course, be disposed of. Melted ice cream should always be discarded. Vegetables, shellfish and cooked foods that have thawed completely should be thrown away. If these foods still contain ice crystals, refreeze them immediately and use them as soon as possible.

Red meats are safe to refreeze if they still contain ice crystals or if they are still cold, 40 degrees Fahrenheit or less, have been held at that temperature for no more than one or two days after thawing and if they show no signs of spoilage.

If the color or odor of a piece of meat or poultry is questionable, throw the food away.

Refreeze thawed fruits if they still taste and smell good. Or use them in cooking, baking or jam and jelly making, for instance. Fruits usually ferment when they start to spoil. Though a little fermentation will not make fruits unsafe to eat, it does spoil their flavor.

Thawed or partially thawed food should be refrozen as quickly as possible. The best way to freeze a large quantity is to take it to a commercial freezer-locker plant. If this is not possible, freeze as much as your freezer can handle at one time, storing the rest in your refrigerator until its turn comes.

Freeze the most perishable foods first, vegetables, poultry, fish, seafood, cooked dishes, or base your priorities on the degree of thawing that has occurred, freezing completely thawed foods first and holding partially frozen foods in the refrigerator.

Freezing, thawing and refreezing reduces the over-all quality of many foods. You may want to plan your use of refrozen foods with this in mind. You should also remember that foods may have been thawed long enough to permit some buildup of spoilage organisms. So be especially careful to thaw these foods in the refrigerator and to use them in as safe and sanitary a manner as possible.
