

Expect Murder Trial to Continue Through Friday

Murder trial of Johnny Heard, 28, former airman at Wurtsmith, was to resume this morning (Wednesday) before Circuit Judge Allan C. Miller.

Testimony in the case started December 13 and continued until Friday of last week, then resumed on Tuesday of this week.

Heard is charged with the March 26, 1976, murder of Mrs. Lorraine J. Kenan, owner of a party store north of Oscoda.

Heard is presently serving a sentence at the federal penitentiary, Milan, after being convicted of defrauding the government by claiming his girl friend as a military dependent.

Garbage Collection Routing Approved; but Few Objections

Approval of new garbage collection routing was approved Monday night by the East Tawas Council, subject to approval of the city attorney.

This matter was turned over to the city clerk for study last month after the city's garbage contractor was ticketed by city police for operating its truck on the wrong side of the road.

As an alternative to making a double trip on each street, a plan was developed whereby home owners in certain areas would carry their garbage bags across the street for pickup by the collector.

Two citizens were on hand Monday night to oppose the extra work of hauling garbage bags by home owners, but it was felt by the council that the proposed new routing would be legal, safer and cost less money than operating a truck on each side of the street.

In other business, the superintendent of public works was authorized to purchase Christmas turkeys for employees.

Ronald Klinger reported for the volunteer fire department that a new low profile tank had been installed on the department's water tanker, allowing that piece of equipment to be stored in the fire barn.

A special meeting was to have been held Tuesday night with the park board, John Lippert of Peoples State Bank and Michael Freil, city attorney, to discuss a proposal by Tawas Kiwanis Club.

The Kiwanis Club proposes to purchase beach frontage at the McKay property and then resell the property to the City of East Tawas as a means of financing park expansion. The dwelling on the property has been purchased by the county for a museum to be operated by the county historical society.

Sale price of the beach portion of the property is $40,000. Under the original agreement, L. G. McKay Jr. would return $5,000 on the original purchase of the property for use in improving the property.

North Street Storm Sewer is Completed

Construction has been completed on the new storm sewer along North Street by the Tawas City Department of Public Works, with assistance of subcontractors.

City Mgr. Reginald Bublitz reports that the storm sewer already has a good test due to rain over the week-end and is showing excellent results in removing standing water from North Street as well as intersecting avenues.

The Fourth Avenue area between First Street and North Street has long provided a drainage problem and the storm sewer is expected to correct that situation.

At Monday night's meeting of the city council, Vernon Blust requested the council to consider installation of tile and covering a ditch on the lower end of North Street. This drain had been constructed a number of years ago and is to remain in service.

Bublitz said he would have the engineer look at the area and make a recommendation concerning the size of main to be used. About 200 feet of tile would be required to reach the river.

First Water Main Break of Winter Fixed Monday

Tawas City experienced its first water main break of the winter on Monday. The break was repaired in a short time.

City Mgr. Reginald Bublitz said there was just enough frost in the ground to set off electrolysis, and a static shock wave snapped a cast iron main at the foot of North Street and east of the river.

Despite the fact that water was shooting 25 feet into the air after the main was uncovered, the department of public works crew made the repair without cutting off water service. A stainless steel patching clamp closed the break.

Static shock waves cause numerous breaks in the old cast iron water mains here each winter. When originally installed 40 years ago, a suitable cushion of sand was not provided and the main was constructed directly in the clay.

As the cast iron ages, electrolysis weakens the main at various points and static shock waves running through the clay snaps the main.

Provincial House Gets Water Service from New TC Main

A new water main on North Street finally went into service Monday following testing for leaks, sanitizing and sample tests for purity.

This main is part of the over-all area water project serving Tawas City, East Tawas and Baldwin Township which has been under construction since early summer.

The project was to have been completed October 1.

Testers for GGL Contractors are currently attempting to locate a small leak on North Street between Ninth Avenue and Harris Avenue.

One of the first users hooked to the line was Provincial House, Incorporated, which is constructing a nursing home on North Street east of Fifth Avenue.

Merit Pay Ordered for City Employees

Payment of a six percent cost-of-living increase to hourly and most salaried employees was authorized Monday night by the Tawas City Council.

Turning final action over to City Mgr. Reginald Bublitz, who is to make a determination as to the actual amount of increase each employee is to receive, the council's resolution instructed that determination to be made according to merit and as an incentive for employees.

On recommendation of Councilman James Lansky, the city is to discontinue the practice of giving the last working day off prior to Christmas Eve, effective in 1978. As an alternative approved by the council, the employee will receive his birthday off or some other day he specifies. Lansky was of the opinion this would avoid having a short crew in the event of a storm the day before Christmas.

During discussion, Councilman Robert N. Rollin said he had a meeting with employees to learn their wishes. He said that the men wanted a deadline of no construction after November 1, a wage payment of time and one-half for work before 8:00 a. m. and a cost of living increase.

The city manager said that the November 1 deadline would be impractical as the construction season is short and actually lasts until November 15. He said, too, that the city presently pays its employees time and one-half for overtime, based on an eight-hour day and a 40-hour week.

Bublitz said that late construction this year was an exception as the city took on the project of building a storm sewer on North Street to save money. He felt that the city should contract future projects of this size.

Rollin expressed the opinion that one or two employees were abusing the city's sick leave policy, which allows an employee 12 days a year sick time, accumulative over a period of years up to 45 days.

The city manager said he would meet with the two employees mentioned for corrective measures.

Councilman Jerry Cotter said there was some dissatisfaction on the council and among citizens concerning work of certain members of the department of public works crew and he felt any cost of living increase should be on a merit basis.

Councilman Charles Landon expressed the opinion that some employees were using city equipment improperly and a correction should be made.

The city manager said that the six percent cost-of-living increase would represent approximately $6,100. The city manager is to make a determination as to the amount of increase each employee is to receive. Hourly and most salaried employees would be included. The pay increases would be retroactive to October 16.

Excluded from the increase were the treasurer and the city assessor. The treasurer has not served a full year at that position and action was deferred until April. Salary of the city assessor is to be acted upon at a later time.

Under a separate resolution, the council approved a monthly increase of $50 for the city manager. Mayor Herbert Cholger expressed the opinion that the city manager was presently getting a good salary, plus use of a pickup truck, which was worth about $3,000 annually.

Authorize Hiring of City Foreman to Fill Vacancy

Approval of hiring a foreman for the department of public works was given Monday night by the Tawas City Council. The position has been vacant for about a year.

Since retirement of Arthur Wegner, two crew chiefs were appointed to handle supervision. It was felt, however, that a foreman should be selected from the crew or to advertise and fill the position.

Opinions expressed during the meeting were slightly contradictory—some councilmen felt that an office secretary should be hired to allow the city manager to spend more time in the field; others felt that a foreman should be hired to allow the city manager to spend more time in the office.

City Clerk Rachel McCreedy expressed the opinion that a job description should be prepared if an office secretary is hired. She felt that the city manager should manage the city and someone else should be responsible for operation of the department of public works.

Councilman James Lansky expressed the opinion that the council may have gone the wrong way last year when a foreman was not hired and felt that DPW may now need one.

City Mgr. Reginald Bublitz felt that a foreman was needed by the city, but he pointed out he did not feel that city organization was as bad as implied.

Bublitz is to contact the present crew chiefs, Burt Binder and Richard Pfeiffer, to determine if they would be interested in the foreman's position. The city manager is to make a report at the next meeting.

In other business at the last meeting of the year, the city manager reported that the library would be moved into its new quarters as soon as carpeting is installed.

Appointment of H. R. (Jim) Hilbert to the water board was approved by the council.

The city manager reported that the cemetery board plans to develop 140 new grave sites representing one row in the new north section which has 1,467 graves. The cemetery board felt that the 140 sites would suffice until sold and the city would have more control by this method.

Bublitz said that new sectional markers would provide for a more improved method of identifying graves.

No concrete curbs are to be constructed in the new section and the cemetery board is in favor of requiring head stones to be installed flush with ground level. This would provide easier maintenance of graves.

The city manager reported that assistance was being sought from drafting students at the high school to prepare plans for a cemetery entrance incorporating the names of the three cemeteries.

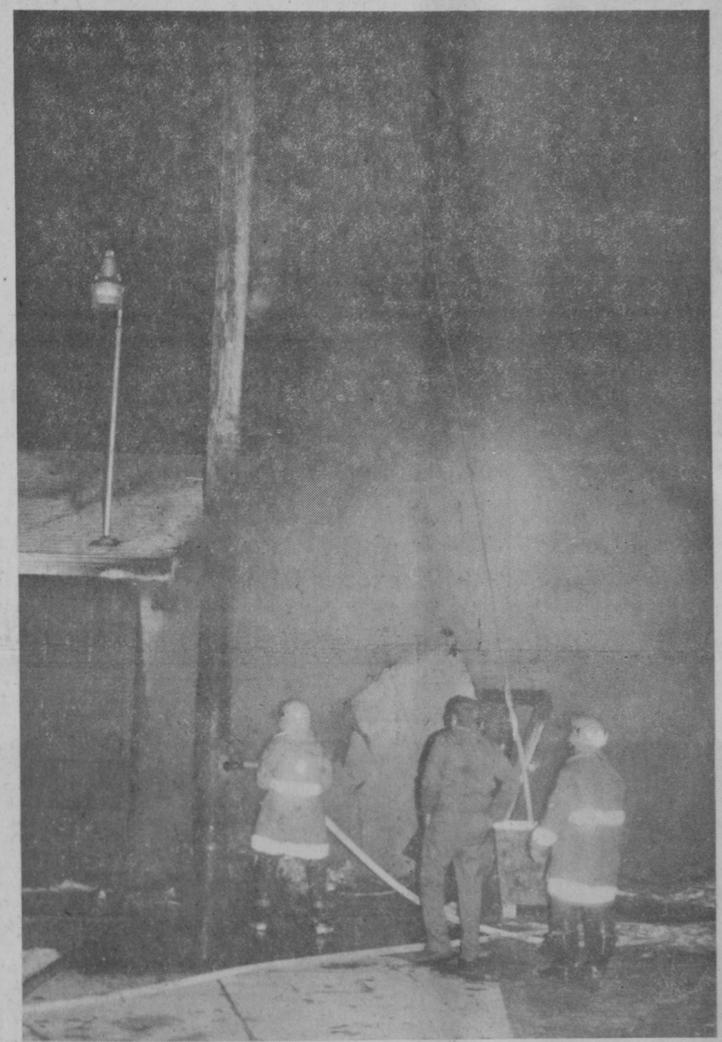

The council approved a planning commission recommendation to retain Vilcan, Leman and Associates to prepare design layouts for the business block between Mathews and Whittemore Streets. Cost of the service is to be $950.

Minutes of the planning commission also indicated that a letter was to have been sent to Mrs. Elmer J. Burrell concerning her property along M-55. The owner had requested the property to be rezoned for multiple housing, but the planning commission has requested specific plans for land use of the property. It was felt that a blanket change of zoning would not be in keeping with the zoning ordinance and the master plan for the area.

A letter was read from the Tawas City Businessmen's Association asking Tawas City to cooperate with the City of East Tawas in proposed construction of a joint garage for the two communities. Action was tabled on the matter until word is received from the East Tawas Council.

Approval was given to purchase four citizens band radio units and a base station from Tawas Two-Way Radio, low bidder. The city manager reported that the bid price was $462.05, including installation. The units are to be installed in two dump trucks, a salt spreader and the city manager's truck. The base station is located at the city hall.

Due to the legal holiday on Monday, January 2, next meeting of the city council is to be held Monday, January 9. A special meeting is to be held January 16 to discuss city equipment and the second regular meeting is to fall on January 23.

ELECTRICAL SPARKS were jumping when this picture was snapped Friday at the Yankee Peddler Warehouse at Baldwin Centre. East Tawas Volunteer Fire Department answered a call there shortly before 6:00 p. m. A wooden shed attached to the rear of the concrete block building was demolished, but there was no damage to the main building or its stock, owned by O'Connor's Pendleton Shop, East Tawas. Last summer, the shed was one of several commercial buildings in the area scorched when vandals set fires next to the buildings. No arrests were made.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Cross Connection on Industrial Well Requires State Approval

Tawas City Council's discussion of water board minutes Monday night indicated that Tawas Plating Company had drilled a well near its plant on Industrial Avenue for a private water supply.

City Mgr. Reginald Bublitz reported that the state health department would make a determination as to a proposed cross connection at the industry, utilizing the municipal water supply and the new well.

Bublitz said that the industry had an annual utility bill of approximately $30,000, one-half of which is for sewer. If the well is permitted, the industry would provide a meter on the well in order to determine the water rate.

Minutes of the water board indicated that it planned to construct a high chain link fence around the new water tower on Sixth Street as soon as weather permits in the spring. This action had been recommended by the council to prevent unauthorized climbing of the water tower.

It was also reported that the water board authorized purchase of turkeys for fulltime city employees for Christmas.

In other business, the council authorized renewal of a contract with Weinlander, Fitzhugh, Bertuleit and Schairer to serve as the city auditor.

The council authorized a letter be sent supporting Tawas Chamber of Commerce in its efforts to encourage the state highway commission to consider widening US-23 from Standish to Alpena. The state announced earlier that it had dropped plans for future construction of an expressway along the route.

Hansel Ziehl was appointed to fill a vacancy on the city planning commission.

Monday night was the last meeting to be attended by William L. Groff as a member of the city council. He had served as a councilman for the past five years, but did not choose to run for re-election. He is to be succeeded the first meeting in January by Hugo J. Keiser.

CHRISTMAS GOODIES

Feel the heat from the oven warming body and soul? That's part of the warmth of sharing your kitchen time and talents at Christmas. Making home baked goodies — such as Christmas Cut-Out Cuties and Two-Way Friendship Fudge — also beats braving the cold while Christmas shopping.

And, homemade gifts are so much more personal. The common ingredient in these 2 treats is quick or old fashioned oats, which has won approval from holiday bakers for the nut-like goodness it contributes.

Mixing and stirring, rolling and cutting — fingers fly to make Christmas Cut-Out Cuties. Appropriately sprinkled with red and green tinted sugar, they can be your favorite holiday shapes — bells or ornaments, angels or elves. Two-Way Friendship Fudge comes in chocolate or butterscotch so people can get to know each other while they discuss the attributes of each flavor.

To gift wrap, pack these goodies between layers of wax paper. Like all Christmas presents, they deserve the same fragile care as the friendships they deepen!

Winter Here Today—Kroger Stores are Stepping Up Efforts to Conserve Energy

As winter officially arrives, Kroger Food Stores across the nation are stepping up their efforts to save energy.

"Kroger's local efforts are part of a year-around, in-depth, company-wide energy conservation program," said David A. Burt, vice president of the company's Michigan marketing area which operates stores here. "Energy-saving is necessary—to make sure schools, homes, factories and businesses will continue to get essential energy supplies, to control escalating energy costs and to help hold down food prices." Kroger has been an industry leader in the implementation of innovative energy conservation measures during the past several years, Burt noted.

For example, the recycling of heat generated by refrigeration equipment to provide heating and hot water for Kroger Food Stores is saving approximately 500,000 kilowatt hours of electricity or two-million cubic feet of gas on an annual basis in a typical supermarket. These heat reclaim systems are now used in approximately 70 percent of the company's 1,175 supermarkets (including all new and remodeled stores built since 1969) and plans call for their installation in all stores.

"Kroger will invest about 750,000 dollars in 1978 for these and other equipment modifications designed to further reduce energy consumption in stores," Burt said. "During last winter's severe weather, retail merchants in some parts of the country were ordered to cut hours with resulting loss of work for employees, inconvenience to customers and, unfortunately, little, energy-saving. The fact is that an energy-managed supermarket such as Kroger will use about the same amount of energy closed as when it is open."

The major use of energy in a supermarket is for refrigeration equipment, which must stay on 24 hours a day to protect food, Burt explained. Some store lights always are needed, open or closed, for security and safety reasons and for stocking of shelves. Parking lot lights and checkout equipment account for less than one percent of a store's energy requirements. The significant energy savings has already been made, of course, in the heating and hot water provided for the store through the heat reclaim system.

In addition to recycling of heat, other important aspects of Kroger's Energy Management Program have been the installation of more energy-efficient lighting, the elimination of unnecessary lighting and the reduction of wasted power through better equipment maintenance and through equipment modifications and improved building insulation. (These modifications have names like "anti-condensate heater controls," "air conditioning control modifications" and "demand defrost systems.") They supplement more direct methods like turning out lights and turning down store thermostats.)

In Bellevue, Kentucky, across the river from Kroger's national headquarters in Cincinnati, Ohio, company engineers use a Kroger Store as a test site for all new systems or equipment which offer energy-saving potential.

"Energy is needed to grow, process and distribute food at every step from the farm to the supermarket," Burt pointed out. "The Federal Energy Administration has estimated that as much as 8.5 percent of the price of food is due to the cost of energy. And rates are rising rapidly. Kroger's energy costs, for example, rose eight-million dollars last year despite a reduction of 9.5-million kilowatt hours in the company's usage of electricity. Continued energy conservation is a must."

Look For The Surprise!

There are lots of good things to eat in this dessert that promises some ooh's and aah's. Start with Jell-O brand peach flavor gelatin, then add a cream cheese ball rolled in nuts and sliced peaches.

Peach Cheese Dessert

- 1 can (8-3/4 oz.) sliced peaches
- 1 package (3 oz.) peach flavor gelatin
- 1 cup boiling water
- 3 tablespoons (half of 3 oz. package) cream cheese, softened
- 1 teaspoon milk
- 1/4 cup finely chopped walnuts

Drain peaches, reserving syrup. Add water to syrup to make 1 cup. Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add measured liquid and chill until thickened. Meanwhile, combine cream cheese and milk; blend well. Shape into 5 small balls and roll in nuts. Spoon half the gelatin into 5 dessert dishes. Arrange 2 or 3 peach slices and 1 cheese ball in each. Chill again, if necessary, until set but not firm. Top with remaining gelatin. Chill until set, about 2 hours. Makes 3 cups or 5 servings.

Tough OH Falcons Had No Trouble Beating TA Braves

Coach Paul Becker would like to forget about the final score in two games last week, but he expects his young Braves to make a good account of themselves during the 1977-78 basketball season.

Tawas opened the week December 13 by losing to its arch rival, Oscoda Owls, 77-62, then lost to Ogemaw Heights, 56-35.

Friday night's game with Ogemaw Heights pitted the Braves against the Falcons, defending NEM champion and an experienced team which is expected to repeat as the title holder in 1977-78.

The Braves just could not buy a basket in the first half against the Falcons. Tawas was able to get off 61 shots during the night, but could only complete 13 field goals for a 21 percent shooting average.

The Falcons were as hot as Tawas was cold, meshing 25 of 47 shots for a 53 percent shooting average.

Ogemaw jumped off to a 15-4 margin in the first quarter, scored 18 points to Tawas' four in the second quarter and outscored Tawas, 16-10, in the third quarter. Both coaches substituted freely in the final quarter and Tawas held a 17-7 margin.

The Braves did not have one player in double figures and three Falcons hit for more than 10 points. Davison led the winners with 15.
 The game earlier in the week saw Oscoda jumping off to a 14-13 lead in the first quarter, but Tawas came back with a 24-23 edge in the second quarter to tie the score at halftime. After that it was all Oscoda as the Owls moved to a 21-15 scoring edge in the third quarter and outshot Tawas, 19-10, in the fourth quarter.

Tawas had three players in double figures led by Kevin Grace with 14 points. Keith LaHaye meshed 13 points and Bill Shelton had 10.

Leading the way for Oscoda was John Crooks, who had 21 points. Close behind was Greg Bissonette with 20 points. Ricki Toppi contributed 12 points and Bill Shelton had 10.

According to a report from the league, Tawas is second behind Ogemaw Heights in team scoring with an average of 68 points. Grace has the best shooting percentage in the conference with 15 of 21 shots for 71.4 percent. He is the fourth highest scorer in the league, averaging 16 points.

Expect Record Long Distance Telephoning

Michigan Bell is predicting state residents will make a record number of long distance calls on Christmas Day. The company is expecting holiday well-wishers will make 820,000 long distance calls within the state and 530,000 calls to places outside Michigan, including about 3,000 calls to countries overseas, according to Howard L. Haight, local Michigan Bell manager.

Because of the anticipated record number of calls on Christmas Day, traditionally the phone company's busiest holiday of the year, Michigan Bell is advising customers to schedule their holiday calls during the less busy hours, Haight said.

"Early morning or late afternoon calls have a better chance of going right through on Christmas Day," he said, "which means one will be better off phoning before 10:00 a. m. or between 3:00 and 6:00 p. m."

Callers can avoid the rush by phoning before 6:00 p. m. on Christmas Eve or Monday. "And if one does not have the phone number needed for a long distance call, get it from information before the holiday rush," Haight said.

Since Christmas is on Sunday this year, he said, long distance calls placed Monday, a legal holiday, will be cheaper than normal. And the regular week-end rate, also cheaper, will apply Saturday and until 5:00 p. m. Sunday.

For the lowest possible rates, "dial your own calls," he said. "Direct dial rates, no matter what the hour, are lower than operator-assisted rates."

Michigan Bell is rearranging 300 long distance circuits, two-thirds of them in the Detroit metro area, to handle holiday traffic in Michigan.

Michigan history buffs and professional historians have noted an amazing quantity and variety of photographs depicting the early days of Iosco County. Few counties this size can equal its visual collection of early day lumbering, railroading and marine pictures, along with scenes of pioneer life. There are a number of reasons for this phenomena, which are considered in this featurette.

Probably the first and foremost reason is the picture collection mania of the late Joseph Barkman, long time Tawas businessman. Efforts of other collectors aided Mr. Barkman in his endeavors.

In his last will and testament, Barkman left his entire collection of historical artifacts and pictures to the Iosco County Historical Society, which will serve as the nucleus for a county museum to be located shortly in the former L. G. McKay Sr. residence at East Tawas.

Comprising the heart of the Barkman collection are hundreds of photographs snapped by A. G. Emery, early day East Tawas commercial photographer, who was an outstanding portrait artist.

Emery operated his photographic studio on Newman Street from about 1890 to 1910 and, during those 20 years, the glass eye of his big studio camera recorded the likenesses of hundreds of Iosco residents.

He did not limit his photographic efforts to the controlled north skylight of his studio, but lugged his big eight by 10-inch glass plate camera around the county to record scenes of the waning lumbering days, farming, railroad races, activities of the railroad, main street scenes—capturing a full spectrum of life.

On November 6, 1903, The Tawas Herald had this to say about Emery the photographer:

"Believing the people of this section to be interested in all that goes to raise the standard of art excellence in our city, we would call to your attention some very interesting and exquisite specimens of photographic art.

"Recent advances in the manufacture of materials and in the methods of photographic portraiture enable Emery to present a collection of rare beauty and unquestionable taste and richness in a new line of Collodio-Carbon pictures, which are remarkable for their fine texture and the manner in which all delicate tones and fine details are brought out."

Due to ill health, Emery apparently left East Tawas sometime after 1910 and left several large FAMILY GROUP pictures provided the "bread and butter" work of early day photographers. This picture, reduced from an original eight by 10-inch glass plate negative, shows the soft light provided by the skylight in the roof of A. G. Emery's studio. Painted backdrops were fashionable for the era. Each face has been individually retouched to remove any blemishes.

wooden boxes of glass plate negatives stored in a building on Newman Street owned by Barkman's father.

In his later years, Barkman said that no one had ever given much thought to the old plates, other than one early attempt to remove the photographic emulsion with the idea of selling the high quality glass. Fortunately, the silver nitrate and albumen image on a glass plate is tough and not easily removed, but Barkman always regretted that salvage experiment as many of the plates contained choice views of the area and were totally destroyed.

The wooden boxes, measuring about three foot square, were stored in the Barkman lumber yard office and forgotten until about 1949. Barkman opened a box one day, removed several of the glass plates and had Harvey Watson, East Tawas commercial photographer, prepare several prints.

Barkman was so pleased with the results that he continued to have photographic prints made from plates for nearly 20 years, displaying them in his office. These Emery pictures brought a deluge of pictures from attics and trunks around the community during several centennial observances. Copy negatives of the pictures were made and prints added to Barkman's collection.

It is interesting to note that an event which took place shortly after the turn of the century had a great deal to do with recording early day life on the photographic plate. On October 20, 1905, The Tawas Herald reported:

"There is said to be a new fad nowadays. It is the fashion of having pictures of buildings of the city that are of any interest, such as the courthouse, water works plant, school buildings, etc., printed on postal cards which are used to write to friends outside the city. Some, also, have pictures of their own residences on the cards. It is a splendid way to advertise the place and could well be copied."

The idea was copied to such an extreme that picture post card collectors of today have such a wide range from which to choose that most serious collectors must specialize in certain fields—city halls, courthouses, railroads, street cars—otherwise, one would be swamped with pictures!

Starting in 1905, photographic studios of the Tawas area featured racks of picture post cards and offered a wide variety of views. Because of the fact that small town newspapers just could not afford the cost of expensive engravings in those days and publishing a picture was a rarity, post cards actually provided the photo journalism of that day.

Photographers including A. C. Brown of Tawas City and A. Bradshaw of AuSable did not limit their picture taking to buildings, but recorded scenic views, athletic events, homecomings, major fires—nearly everything that would be seen today in a newspaper's picture coverage.

In addition, Brown also copied early views of the area and printed them on the picture post cards. This was an important contribution as it saved many valuable pictures and, due to the large volume of post cards issued, prevented those rare early views from becoming lost.

The "fad" of the early 1900s has (See PHOTOGRAPHERS, page 6.)

WHAT'S COOKING IN MICHIGAN

Almond Bars A Taste Treat at Christmas

By CARL OLSON Michigan Department of Agriculture

I know a lot of people have had carrot cake but have you ever combined potatoes and almonds for a taste treat?

No, it is not a vegetable dish at all, it is Norwegian Almond Bars and a treat around our house during the Christmas holidays.

Sift together two cups of flour, three-fourths cup sugar, and one teaspoon each baking powder and salt. Cut into this three-fourths cup Michigan butter until well mixed. You will have dry, fine particles at this point.

Press three-quarters of this mixture into an ungreased 12 by eight by two-inch pan and bake in a 375 degree oven for 10 minutes.

Meanwhile, blend one-half cup of cold mashed potatoes with 1 1/4 cups of fine confectioner's sugar, 1 1/2 cups of ground almonds, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon cardamom, one teaspoon of water and one egg white.

Mix well and spread over the partially baked crust.

Remember that you only used three-quarters of the first mixture in the crust? Well, combine the remaining one-quarter with the egg yolk you have left and roll this out on a floured surface to a 10 by six-inch size. Cut the rolled dough into one-half inch strips and place across the filling.

Now pop this back into the oven and leave it there for another 20 minutes.

The combination of cinnamon and cardamom fills the kitchen with a marvelous aroma and makes this into a special Norwegian treat.

I know I am bringing some into my office at the Michigan Department of Agriculture during the holiday season for everyone to taste.

A. G. EMERY was an excellent photographic craftsman and operated a studio at East Tawas for about 20 years. He is shown here at his retouching desk.

JOSEPH BARKMAN rediscovered glass photographic plates snapped by A. G. Emery. The plates, found in 1949, had been in storage for years at Barkman's lumber yard office.

I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America and to the republic for which it stands; one nation, under God, indivisible with liberty and justice for all.

TODAY'S Meditation

The World's Most Widely Used
Devotional Guide

(Read Matthew 2:13-15)

"And he rose and took the child and his mother by night, and departed to Egypt." (Matthew 2:14 RSV)

It was our first Christmas in Egypt, and my three children and I were walking down the moonlit road to the evening service at the little stucco church.

"Aw, Mom, it doesn't even seem like Christmas!" my 10-year-old complained, scuffing up the dust. "I miss the snow and all the pretty windows," Melissa added. "And where's Santa Claus?" Troy asked.

The children's homesickness spurred my own memories of past holidays when I had rushed in haste past carolers, department store Santas and tinsel trees to accomplish all the seasonal tasks.

A donkey's bray interrupted my reminiscence and I pulled the children out of the way under some tall poinsettia trees. Donkeys were as common a sight on the road as bicycles and goats. But this time, we stopped to watch.

A brown-robed man was gently leading a donkey, on which was seated a woman holding a baby. The mother's dark cloak was pinned by her teeth across her shoulders and face to protect the child from the night air.

The children and I looked at each other and without a word hurried down the road to celebrate the true spirit of Christmas, the birth of the baby Jesus.

PRAYER

Father, we thank You for what Christmas is all about, the birth of our Savior, Jesus Christ. Amen.

People Can Appeal SS Claim Decision

A person who believes the decision made on his or her claim for social security benefits is incorrect can appeal that decision, a social security representative said today.

The first step a person can take is to ask that the decision be reconsidered. A reconsideration is a complete review of the claim to see if the original decision was correct. It is made by persons who had no part in making the original decision.

The spokesperson stressed that this appeals process applies only to claims for social security retirement, survivor, and disability benefits. There are different ways to appeal claims for Medicare hospital and medical insurance and supplemental security income (SSI), except that the SSI process also starts with reconsideration. Information about these other appeals can be obtained at any social security office.

A person who is still not satisfied with the reconsidered decision made on his or her claim can ask for a hearing before an Administrative Law Judge. At such a hearing the Administrative Law Judge reviews what has gone before in the case, states what issues have to be decided, and asks questions of the claimant and his or her witnesses. All testimony is taken under oath.

A claimant can choose whether or not to appear at the hearing, which is usually held in the same city in which the social security office is located.

If the person still disagrees with the hearing decision on his or her claim, he or she can ask that the decision be reviewed by the Appeals Council. It's up to the Council as to whether or not it will grant a review.

If a person is dissatisfied with the Council's decision or if the Council decides not to review the case, he or she can bring suit in a Federal district court.

A request for a reconsideration, hearing, or an Appeals Council review must be in writing and filed with an office of the Social Security Administration. Special forms for this purpose can be obtained at any social security office. And the people there will help complete them.

A person wishing to appeal the decision on his or her claim must make a request within strict time limits. A reconsideration, hearing, or Appeals Council review must be requested within 60 days from the date notice of the previous decision is received. A Federal court suit must be filed within 60 days of the date of the mailing of the Appeals Council's decision.

A person does not have to take all of the appeal steps. He or she can stop his appeal at any point.

Leaflets describing the various appeals processes can be obtained at any social security office. The address and telephone number of the nearest social security office can be found in the telephone directory under "Social Security Administration."

questions and answers

Q. I'm 67 years old and get a small widow's benefit from social security. I have no other income, but I do own some assets. Would they count against me if I apply for SSI?

A. A person may be eligible for SSI with resources (assets) of $1,500 or less. In determining eligibility, not all resources are counted. A home and the land adjacent to it are not counted regardless of their value. Personal effects or household goods with a total market value of $1,500 or less are not counted. A car is not counted if it has a market value of $1,200 or less, or regardless of its value, if it is used by the household for transportation to a job or to a place for regular treatment of a specific medical problem. Certain other resources also are not counted. You should apply for SSI at any social security office and the people there will tell you whether you meet the resource limit.

Q. I'll be 65 in a few months and plan to enroll for Medicare medical insurance. I won't be entitled to the hospital insurance part because I never worked under social security.

Can I buy Medicare hospital insurance?

A. Yes. People 65 or older who haven't worked long enough under social security to be entitled to Medicare hospital insurance can buy this protection by paying a monthly premium. The basic hospital insurance premium is $54 a month through June 30, 1978. In order to buy hospital insurance, however, you also must enroll and pay the monthly premium for medical insurance. The basic medical insurance premium is $7.70 a month through June 1978.

The prophecy of Zacharias, ST. LUKE, 2. "I was filled with the Holy Ghost. I was called by the Lord God of Israel; for he hath visited and redeemed his people, and hath raised up an horn of salvation for us in the house of David his servant. As he hath spoken by the mouth of his holy prophets, which have said, That we should be saved from our enemies, and from the hand of all that hate us; that the mercies of our God should be revealed to us, and that he should remember his covenant with us, which he swore unto our fathers, saying, I will send thee thy servant David, and he shall reign over us, and we shall be saved; and he shall be called the Son of David. And thou shalt be called the Son of the Lord."

Annunciation of Christ. He questioned the doctors. ST. LUKE, 1:26-38. "I am a servant of the Lord, and I have been told that thou art here, and I have come to visit thee. And thou shalt be called the Son of the Lord."

CETA WORKERS pose on the stairway leading to Targo Springs after work was completed. The stairs replaced those constructed 15 years ago.

CETA Workers Replaced Stairway at Targo Springs

Over 100 years ago and as early as 1840, according to historians, Targo Springs, a high bluff on the AuSable River, was a favorite stop for the Chippewa Indians along the Saginaw to Mackinac Trail. It is no less a favorite stopping place today although there are very few Chippewa Indians enjoying it. Instead, thousands of tourists, driving on the River Road between M-65 and Oscoda, or canoeing down the famous AuSable, are marveling at the scenic beauty and still "gushing" ice cold crystal clear springs that flow from the banks. Targo Springs means "many waters."

The land, owned by Consumers Power Company, has been leased by the Iosco County Department of Parks and Recreation and is maintained as a day use area only. This past summer, it was also a job site for an out-of-school work program funded under CETA (Comprehensive Employment Training Act). The project was restoration of the steps, landings, benches and railings that led down to the river.

Steps to the Springs, 283 at that time, were built by the Civilian Conservation Corps in 1934. They were abandoned during World War II.

In May 1961, reconstruction was undertaken by volunteers under the direction of the Iosco County Parks and Recreation Commission. These steps, too, finally deteriorated with time.

The property was leased by the Iosco County agency in 1977 and work on new steps was started in July, using labor supplied by the CETA out-of-school program. All materials were furnished by Consumers Power Company.

"It was a tremendous undertaking," said Ronald Norris, assistant manager for the department of parks. "All of the old steps, railings and benches had to be removed by this crew of 13 young men. A lot of hard work went into the project, not only in pulling out old material, but in building 308 new steps, railings and benches. The heavy materials, mostly oak, had to be carried all the way to the bottom of the hill," Norris pointed out.

Norris said there was still some work to do but that the crew had to give up the third week in November because of bad weather. The project is considered 98 percent complete.

The out-of-school program, designed to serve economically disadvantaged youths, 16 to 21, with less than a high school education, allows them to work 25 hours a week, receiving the minimum wage. It is usually a short-term work assignment that will better prepare the youths for future employment.

The Title I CETA funded program is operated by Region 7B Employment and Training Consortium, Harrison. The consortium administers CETA funds to nine area counties including Iosco. The Region 7B Administrative Board is comprised of commissioners from each of the nine counties with Joseph Fox representing Iosco County. Nancy Wade, county CETA administrator, is a member of the Region 7B Advisory Council.

Freshmen Split Cage Decisions

Tawas freshman squads defeated Whittemore-Prescott in two games Thursday night after losing a pair to Oscoda on December 12. The "B" team defeated the Cardinal "B" team, 80-25, and the "A" team defeated the Cardinal "A" team, 83-30.

Earlier in the week, Oscoda won both ends of the doubleheader, 56-54 and 88-54.

Tawas' B team jumped off to a 28-5 lead in the first quarter and was never headed. The "A" team held a 14-9 margin over Whittemore-Prescott in the first quarter, but gradually lengthened its lead in the final three quarters.

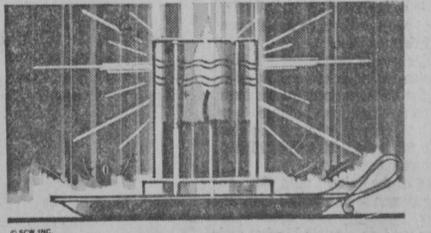

Leading rebounders for the "B" team were Revord and Proper, eight and seven, respectively, on defense, while Proper had 10 of-

been an enduring one as the picture post card business—now in full color—is still making its contribution to the art preservative at area drug stores.

Some of the pictures from early Iosco County history and copied by Brown were made from wet plate negatives exposed by A. J. Lawson of AuSable, believed to be the county's first photographer.

An item in a January 1879 issue of the Iosco County Gazette stated: "A. J. Lawson starts for the woods next Monday for camp and logging views; so if you wish your picture, call this week, sure."

Many of Lawson's original prints, exposed with the cumbersome cameras of that day, have survived for a century. Included among his pictures are views of the Prescott and Whittemore mills in Tawas City, an early view of Mathews Street, the Emery Mill at East Tawas and views along the AuSable River.

Itinerant photographers also passed frequently through the area, including S. Porter of St. Clair, whose views of the Loon Lake lumbering operations of the Smith brothers are pictorial gems. Photographic work of two black photographers, the Goodridge brothers of Saginaw, brought them to Iosco County on occasion and some of their views of lumbering operations are in the Michigan Historical Collection.

It should be noted that the "picture-in-a-minute" camera of today was not even a dream of the photographer in the 1870s; he did, however, develop his glass plates on the spot. In order to take a picture, the photographer actually manufactured his own negative by pouring the proper chemicals on a glass plate. The wet plate was then exposed in the camera, returned to a portable tent darkroom and developed before the image dried. A speck of dust in the emulsion could completely ruin the image!

George Eastman of Rochester, New York, also contributed to preserving the photographic history of this country. Eastman was to photograph what Henry Ford was to the automobile—his Kodak camera and roll film revolutionized photography, making it possible for practically everyone to snap inexpensive pictures.

These pictures from early photo albums, along with the work of the professionals, should provide some most interesting exhibits in the county's new museum, giving viewers a visual insight as to this region's history and its people—practically forgotten except for the photographic images recorded by a number of early artists.

CHRISTMAS AND OLDER PEOPLE

There is no age when it comes to holiday happiness. Everyone wants to join in the celebration. Nancy McGilliard, family and child extension specialist at Michigan State University, offers hints to make Christmas gift giving easier for older people.

According to Mrs. McGilliard, "Everyone loves Christmas, but sometimes the holidays pose a hardship on older people because they cannot get out and shop."

If one cannot get out, try catalog shopping, handmade gifts, a family tradition or heirloom passed on to the younger generation. "With today's interest, a recorded portion of the family history which can be added to from time to time would be greatly appreciated," she says.

If one does not like crowds, try shopping after Christmas when stores are less congested. Christmas is a 12-day season and all gifts do not necessarily have to be given on Christmas Day.

Older people remember the depression and it is sometimes difficult for them to purchase an item for themselves just because they like it . . . but it is something nice to do for them, Mrs. McGilliard recommends.

One of the nicest gifts for an older person is an electric blanket. Many times this age group has never used an electric blanket and it is a long remembered gift of warmth for them.

There are many other gift ideas for the elderly. A Christmas list can include plants, magazine and newspaper subscriptions and tickets for the theatre or dinner. "When giving tickets as a gift,"

SOME WORK was being done on the front of A. G. Emery's studio when this picture was snapped around 1905. None of the men in the picture have been identified.

A. G. EMERY is shown in this studio self portrait. He is reading the latest gossip in one of the Detroit newspapers.

she points out, "it is especially nice if one provides the transportation for them."

The possibilities for Christmas gifts depend on the age and interests of the person . . . just look around and remember, there is no age limit when it comes to holiday happiness.

Iosco Cooperates With State in Collecting Support Money

SECTION THREE

Wednesday, December 21, 1977

Expect County Tax Revolving Fund Approval

Iosco County Board of Commissioners is expected to adopt a resolution Wednesday (today) establishing a new tax revolving fund. Money from the fund would improve cash flow to local units of government by purchasing delinquent taxes from local units and schools.

This question was first discussed about three years ago and has been under consideration since late summer. The county commission held a meeting Wednesday with township, city and school officials to determine if the local units were interested.

All of the schools and the majority of local units expressed approval of the revolving fund as a means of reducing the expense of governmental operation.

Under the plan, which is controlled by state law, a tax revolving fund would be established by the county. Approximately one-million-dollars would be borrowed.

After the annual spring settlement with treasurers of local units, the county treasurer's office would submit a check to each unit for the full amount of taxes owed that unit. This would eliminate the bookwork involved in tabulating and paying delinquent taxes to each unit.

Under the plan, the county would receive the penalty paid by the delinquent taxpayer, which has been increased by the state from six to nine percent. This money, along with interest earned by the revolving fund, would make the program self supporting.

Also to be considered by the board Wednesday is ratification of a new contract with county building employees represented by the United Steel Workers. Members of the union tentatively ratified the new contract two weeks ago.

It is expected that an election will be held in early January to determine if the Teamsters Union is to continue to represent sheriff's department personnel. The state labor board was petitioned to call an election on the matter. The Fraternal Order of Police is also seeking to represent the employees.

100 percent of Michigan's counties have entered into a cooperative reimbursement plan with the state to enforce child support payments by fathers.

David Bailey, director of the office of Central Registry, Michigan Department of Social Services, told Iosco commissioners Wednesday that this state is the leader to insure that fathers pay court-ordered child support, rather than to have that support come entirely from the federal ADC program.

He insists that ADC should be used only for bonafide cases where the support of children cannot be met by the parent.

Of all the child support money collected in the country, Michigan collects 25 percent of the total, or about 256-million-dollars last year by friend of the court offices in each county.

As an example of that leadership, Bailey said that Michigan's friend of the court system was established in 1919 and still was the only one in the country to enforce court orders.

Bailey said that ADC case loads were being reduced in this state as more and more fathers are paying support for their children. He said, however, that such support should be based on parental income and what the parent can reasonably pay in order to avoid making the father a "skipper." He said that support payments should not penalize the parent.

Despite cooperative agreements with all other states concerning support payments, Bailey said it was still possible for a father to "skip" his responsibility. As an example, he said that one father had been tracked through 19 states and still had not been brought to an accounting.

As a means of encouraging counties to participate in this cooperative reimbursement plan, 15 percent of the support payments collected by the friend of the court are retained by the county.

Iosco's participation is to begin January 1. The additional expense to this county, which would include $6,600 for another secretary, plus additional cost for prosecution and expenses of the friend of the court, would be borne entirely by the state. That cost would include fringe benefits paid to employees and any additional office equipment required.

While it is not mandatory to earmark funds received by the friend of the court under this cooperative reimbursement program, Bailey felt the funds should be used as an incentive for the friend of the court office to redouble efforts to collect support money.

During the past year, Iosco received $14,739 under a state incentive program. It is expected that payments to the county through the friend of the court office will total approximately $30,000 during 1978.

Students operate metal lathes and receive primary instruction in such trades as sand casting, tin-smithing, forging, arc and oxyacetylene welding. It is not expected that the class will turn out finished tradesmen, but a number of graduates have gone on to further study and employment in the various fields in which they received their initial experience in school.—Tawas Herald Photos.

OLD-FASHIONED DUMPLINGS ARE AMERICAN FAVORITE

When you think of dumplings, you have all kinds to choose from. Herbed or plain atop meat stews. Schnitz and kneppe, Pennsylvania Dutch style ham with dumplings and dried apples. Gnocchi, Italian dumplings served with a sauce. Knaidlach, Jewish dumplings steamed and served in chicken soup. Apple Dumplings, a pastry wrapped baked apple. All are American favorites. And they illustrate the variety of the different regional and ethnic influences of American cookery.

History, climate, terrain and availability of ingredients have shaped American regional cookery. And every American family has preserved it with their favorite heirloom recipes.

Old-Fashioned Apple Dumplings are an all-time favorite. The apples, "are traditionally spiced" with brown sugar, cinnamon, allspice and nutmeg with the centers of the apples filled with orange marmalade. Versatile Blue Bonnet Margarine gives that good buttery flavor to the apples as well as flavoring the tender pastry which is wrapped around the apples. Apple Dumplings are best served hot with Rum Hard Sauce, a simple mixture of Blue Bonnet Margarine, confectioners' sugar and rum.

- 1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
- 2 cups unsoftened flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2/3 cup Blue Bonnet Margarine
- 6 to 7 tablespoons ice water
- 6 large baking apples, pared and cored
- 6 tablespoons orange marmalade

OLD-FASHIONED APPLE DUMPLINGS

- 1/2 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
- 1/4 cup (1/2 stick) Blue Bonnet Margarine, softened
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon ground allspice

In a small bowl combine brown sugar, 1/4 cup softened margarine, cinnamon, allspice and nutmeg. Blend thoroughly; set aside. Measure flour and salt into a bowl. Cut in 2/3 cup margarine with pastry blender or two knives until mixture resembles coarse meal. Stir in ice water; mix well. On lightly floured board roll out dough to a 14 x 21-inch rectangle. Cut into six 7-inch squares. Place an apple in center of each square. Spoon 1 tablespoon orange marmalade in center of each apple. Spread brown sugar mixture on sides of apples. Bring up corners of dough to meet in center of apple; seal well. Place in large shallow baking dish. Bake at 350°F. about 1 hour, or until done. Serve hot with Rum Hard Sauce (below). Makes 6 servings.

RUM HARD SAUCE: Cream 1/2 cup (1 stick) Blue Bonnet Margarine until very light and fluffy (about 5 minutes). Gradually beat in 1 cup unsifted confectioners' sugar. Blend in 1 tablespoon light rum. Chill at least 1 hour.

Santa Claus Plans Visit at National City

Santa Claus will be at the H&M General Store (formerly Jordan's), National City, Saturday, December 24, at 1:00 p. m. He will leave there and go to Whittemore where he will meet children at the hotel parking lot at 2:15 o'clock.

Two from Iosco Received Degrees from EMU

Dale A. Palovich of Tawas City and Rhonda Jo Thayer of Oscoda are among the more than 1,100 students who received their degrees Sunday, December 18, at Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti. Both students received bachelor of science degrees at the 29th winter commencement held at Bowen Field House on the EMU campus.

World's Most Famous Fossil Hunter

ARCHEOLOGIST, LINGUIST AND even detective—controversial Louis S.B. Leakey was all of them.

At the bottom of a cliff in Olduvai Gorge in Tanzania, where rock and mineral deposits were formed two million years ago, Louis S.B. Leakey and his wife, Mary, uncovered fossil remains of a prehistoric member of the family of man dating back 1.75 million years. They named him Zinjanthropus. Leakey's monumental story is the subject of the season's second National Geographic Special, January 9, on Public Television stations.

"The Legacy of L.S.B. Leakey," which visits the area of Africa where Leakey and his wife studied for 30 years, is narrated by E.G. Marshall. The special is made possible by a grant from Gulf Oil Corporation, and is jointly produced by the National Geographic Society and WQED in Pittsburgh.

Leakey was sometimes called the modern counterpart of the Renaissance "universal man." Not only was he an anthropologist and archeologist, but zoologist, historian, linguist, and even a detective, handwriting analyst, and intelligence expert.

On this special the camera captures Leakey testing the theories he formulated about how early man lived: Chipping tools from rock and devising snares of cord made of tree bark. He died in 1972, but the theories of this man whom a tribal chief once called "the black man with the white face," challenge science still.

NEWS OF ENERGY

Nuclear Here Now

Just 20 years ago, in December, 1957, a small nuclear power plant began producing electricity in Pennsylvania, thereby launching the age of commercial nuclear energy.

"Since then, nuclear energy has made big contributions in medicine and naval programs, but it is in electricity generation where it contributes most to our daily lives," points out Carl Walske, president of the Atomic Industrial Forum, an organization interested in the peaceful uses of nuclear energy.

"The United States is already receiving about 12 percent of its electricity from nuclear energy, which is more than we're getting from hydro-electric plants. We have 67 nuclear stations in operation, 94 others being built, and 56 more on order. Forty-one other countries also have nuclear energy commitments: 140 operating stations, 120 being built, 50 on order, 175 more planned." Nuclear energy is clean, economic, safe, Walske says. "A kilowatt hour from a nuclear plant cost a total 1.5 cents last year, compared with 1.8 cents from coal and 3.5 cents from oil. As for safety, nuclear plants have an outstanding record." The comprehensive safety study (conducted by Dr. Norman Rasmussen of MIT and endorsed by leading engineering and scientific organizations) estimates that for the average American, the risk per year of injury, with 100 reactors operating, is only one chance in eight million. "Cars, dams, cigarettes, and many other things pose much greater risks," Walske points out. "Our growing use of nuclear energy for electricity makes sense," he says. The world is running low on oil; problems with coal are being worked out, but we have to use it efficiently; solar power's role, according to solar experts, will grow, but mainly in supplying heat, cooling, and hot water in milder climates, not for generating large amounts of electricity.

"Nuclear energy is here now," Walske concludes, "it's doing a good job and it will do more."

ONE FOR ME AND ONE FOR THEE

There's a feeling of expectation in the air—hope—good friends—good cheer! What is a better way to share the sentiments of the season than with a gift from you—your kitchen.

This easy to prepare no rise yeast dough makes up six 9-inch rolls of tender "goodness", that are filled with a mixture of nuts and DROMEDARY Chopped Dates. All cooks, novice or gourmet, will be delighted to give this gift from their kitchen.

DATE-NUT ROLLS

- 2 (8-ounce) packages DROMEDARY Chopped Dates
- 1/2 cup water
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind
- 1 1/2 cups butter or margarine
- 1 cup chopped walnuts
- 1 cup milk
- About 6 cups all-purpose flour
- 2 packages active dry yeast
- 4 eggs
- 2 teaspoons vanilla extract
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- Granulated Sugar

In a saucepan combine first four ingredients with 1/2 cup butter or margarine for filling. Cook over medium high heat stirring until thickened, about 3 to 5 minutes. Stir in nuts; cool. Heat milk and 1 cup butter or margarine until warm (120 to 130°F.). Combine 1 1/2 cups flour and yeast in large bowl of mixer. Add milk mixture; beat at medium speed 2 minutes. Add next two ingredients and 1 cup flour; beat at medium speed 2 minutes. Stir in remaining 3 1/2 cups flour, baking powder and 3 tablespoons sugar to make a soft dough. Add an additional 1/2 cup flour if necessary. Divide dough in half; cover half. Divide other half into 3 equal pieces. Roll each piece in granulated sugar to make a 9-inch square. Spread about 1/2 cup filling thinly to within 1/2-inch of edges; roll up. Seal bottom edge. Repeat with other 2 pieces of dough. Place 3 rolls on greased baking sheet and bake in a preheated moderate oven (350°F.) for 25-30 minutes or until lightly browned. Remove from baking sheet and cool. Repeat with remaining half of dough. Makes 6 (about 9-inch) rolls.

SPICY APPLE SALAD

Just the name, Spicy Apple Salad, brings to mind tables laden with good things to eat. This zesty combination of crisp iceberg lettuce and glazed, spiced apples is the perfect partner for the traditional turkey and certain to please family and guests of all ages.

SPICY APPLE SALAD

- 1 head western iceberg lettuce
- 2 teaspoons sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/8 teaspoon curry powder
- 1/3 cup corn oil
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- Spicy Apples

SPICY APPLES:

- 4 baking apples
- 1/2 cup water
- 1/4 cup Rose wine or water
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon chopped crystallized ginger

Core, rinse and thoroughly drain lettuce; chill in disposable plastic bag or lettuce "Crisp-it." At serving time, cut lettuce lengthwise into halves; place cut sides down on board and finely shred across heart to yield 6 cups. Combine sugar, salt, curry powder, oil and 1/4 cup lemon juice; toss with lettuce. Turn mixture onto platter or salad plates, top with Spicy Apples, cut sides down. Pour apple syrup over all.

Spicy Apples: Halve apples crosswise and remove cores. Place cut sides up with remaining ingredients in skillet; bring to boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer 30 minutes or until tender. Remove apples and chill. Gently boil syrup in skillet until it measures about 1/2 cup; chill. Makes 8 servings.

HOME BUYER

CLINIC
By William J. McAuliffe, Jr.

MISLEADING PUBLIC RECORDS

Evidence of land title problems is disclosed in a search of public records before completion of a real estate transaction. This precaution allows title hazards of record to be cleared up when possible so the transaction can proceed.

But what happens when a title search is performed and the complete records showing a problem are not in the public office where they are supposed to be?

This type of difficulty confronted a home buyer in a western state, who learned after closing that a mortgage made by the seller still was outstanding against the property he had purchased. Later, it was determined that the mortgage had been recorded earlier in the appropriate county office—but the corresponding page from the record books had been loaned to another office and thus was missed in the title search.

Fortunately, the buyer was protected by owner's title insurance obtained at the time of his real estate purchase. Since the mortgage was valid, the title insurer paid the lender to settle the matter and spare the buyer a financial setback and possible loss of his real estate.

As this example illustrates, the coverage of owner's title insurance includes hazards that a title search will not reveal—such as mistakes in the records, a forged deed that transfers no title to real estate and a claim by a previously undisclosed heir.

The first class date is set for Monday, January 9, and classes will run from 3:45 to 5:00 p. m. Students must plan to attend every session in order to be eligible to receive the certificate presented at the end of the course.

A limit of 15 students per class has been set. Interested students or parents may inquire about the program by contacting Rose Blackmore or Roxanne Klinger in the education department of the hospital, phone 362-3411, extension 41.
