The body of a 20-year-old Saginaw man, Robert Lohr, who drowned May 28 in a sailboat accident south of the Tawas Point Lighthouse, was recovered Saturday on Tawas Point about one-quarter mile away from where the accident took place.

Iosco County Sheriff's Department said that the body was found on shore by a camper at Tawas Point State Park.

Lohr, a student from Western Michigan University, drowned when he lost his grip on a capsized sailboat. The sailboat overturned during a storm which hit the area.

Forest W. Bowman, 20, Saginaw, was rescued following the mishap by marine officers of the sheriff's department and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, who were dispatched to the scene. The two men held onto the twin-hulled boat owned by Bowman for about an hour before Lohr lost his grip.

East Tawas OK's New Fire Pact With Baldwin

A new fire protection agreement with Baldwin Township was adopted Monday night by the East Tawas Council and submitted to the township for ratification.

The agreement, replacing one adopted in 1966-67 and is to expire soon, calls for the township to pay 53 percent of the fire department's annual budget of $26,398. The township's share is $14,038.46 in two annual payments.

The percentages of payment, based on assessed valuations in each unit, showed a slight decrease for the township, which paid $4.4 percent under the old contract.

The new budget for 1977-78 reflected an increase over the previous year's budget of $22,208.

In other business, the council accepted a recommendation from its street committee and authorized a section of Maple Drive in the Tawas Lake area to remain open. This street had been opened during recent sewer construction and counter petitions were received from adjacent property owners, one asking the street to be closed due to the traffic hazard and the other petition requested the street to remain open to provide egress to property.

Fred Francis, representing the senior citizens, appeared before the council and stated the group objected to increasing rent of the community building from $5 to $10 for its meetings. The matter was referred to the park board.

Dr. E. W. Phillips and Edward J. Barry appeared before the council and requested support of their efforts to obtain federal or state funding for development of bicycle paths in the city. The council endorsed the program.

A letter from Eugene Fernet and Norman Klenow, members of the volunteer fire department, thanked the council for making it possible for them to participate in emergency medical training at Tawas Hospital.

The council adopted a resolution congratulating Peoples State Bank on its 50th anniversary.

A bid was received from only one dealer, Zubeck Motor Sales, for furnishing a pickup truck to the city. Two proposals from that firm were referred to the finance committee, but the council may re-advertise for bids.

In order to conform with regulations regarding expenditures of anti-recessional money, the council allocated $6,400 to Spicer Engineering Company for preparation of sewer plans. The money had been earmarked in April for the city's retirement fund, but it was learned that such an expenditure did not conform with federal regulations.

Council Defines Default—Two Candidates 'Scratched'

No Need for Primary Election

As the result of a four to three vote Monday night by the city council, which defined language of the city charter, a primary election tentatively scheduled for August 2 to select candidates for the November general election has been canceled.

This action at 11:00 p. m. came after an absent member of the council was called at his home and asked to come to the meeting to break a tie vote.

Prior to the vote, nearly three hours had been spent by the council in discussing an opinion submitted by City Atty. Kenneth J. Myles, requested several weeks ago by the council, relative to the question "if a candidate is delinquent in paying his taxes, is he in default to the city?"

A motion passed by a majority of the council stated: "The council defines the meaning of default in the city charter as including but not limited to, nonpayment of delinquent taxes after the penalty date."

The motion was adopted by the following roll call: Yes—Councilmen Charles Landon, James Lansky, William Ezo and William Groff; No—Councilmen Jerry Cotter, Robert N. Rollin and Mayor Herbert Cholger.

A counter motion submitted by Cotter, stating that "delinquent taxes are not included in default as used in the charter," lost by the same roll call vote.

Votes on both questions had ended in deadlock earlier in the evening and were not settled until the arrival of Groff.

Prior to the vote, Rachel Sue McCready, city clerk, had requested the council to define default as stated in the city charter. She pointed out that action was necessary as two candidates for the August 2 election were delinquent in paying property taxes.

She indicated it was her own opinion that the two candidates, Jerry Snoblen and Lyle Healey, did not meet council eligibility requirements as prescribed by the charter as they were delinquent in paying property taxes. If so, she pointed out that there would be only five candidates and a primary election would not be required.

"If I am going to decide the qualifications of a candidate, I am going to decide in my own way. If you are going to decide, you are going to decide as a group," Mrs. McCready stated. "I am not obligated to be pressured by threat—I think it is a matter of principle. Perhaps I should resign before you make your decision."

Members of the council said they did not wish to see Mrs. McCready resign and the vote was taken. In his opinion directed to the council, the city attorney stated that Chapter 5, Section 5.1 (b) provides: "No person shall be eligible for any elective or appointive city office who is in default to the city. Section 5.1 (e) provides that the council shall be the sole judge of the election and qualifications of its own members."

Court Action is Threatened

In his written opinion, Myles said that Black's Law Dictionary defines "default" in part as "an omission of that which ought to be done, specifically the omission or failure to perform a legal duty, to observe a promise or discharge an obligation." He said Webster's New World Dictionary defines "default" as a failure to do something or be somewhere as required, failure to pay money due, failure to do something or be somewhere when required, to fail to make payment when due, to fail to do or pay (something) when required.

Myles cited a recent Michigan Court of Appeals case testing a councilman's qualifications to hold office in the City of Sylvania, Lake. The trial court dismissed the plaintiff's complaint, taking the position that the city council, in accordance with the charter, was the sole judge of eligibility and qualifications.

The court of appeals, in dismissing the case, concluded that "it is settled law in Michigan that where constitutional or statutory provisions give a legislative body the authority to make this decision (eligibility and qualifications of its members) it is determined that the circuit court was without jurisdiction to issue a writ of Quo Warranto."

Appearing on behalf of Councilman Robert Rollin, Alpena Atty. Roger Bauer said he did not have the opportunity to read Myles' opinion prior to the meeting and, at that point, could not take issue with the charter provision which provides that the council shall be the sole judge of the election and qualification of its own members. He said he would research this point and answer at a later date.

Bauer did indicate, however, that he took issue with the council's definition of default. He said he had checked with the attorney general's office that afternoon and learned that a 1974 opinion had reaffirmed a 1935 opinion stating that a failure to pay property taxes is not a default under a city charter.

Reviewing this attorney general's opinion, the city attorney had pointed out in his letter that "the attorney general's opinion cites no Michigan authority for that position and is, of course, not binding on Home Rule Cities." He indicated that the attorney general's opinion is not precedent as a court decision would be.

"All court decisions say that the decision of the qualification is vested in the common council under the charter and that the common council decides what is and what is not a default."

Bauer expressed the belief that the city charter did not define default and said any action could be declared unconstitutional. He declared that an attorney general's opinion has the force of law and warned that "the council might find itself facing a lawsuit if it does not allow a candidate to run for office."

Councilman Rollin, who was cited several years ago by the council for violation of this same provision of the city charter, but paid his property taxes within the prescribed 30 days following an order of the council majority to do so, took the position Monday night that delinquency in paying taxes was not wrong and not in violation of the city charter.

"If I decide to go to court, what is going to happen if we do not have a primary election and the court rules against the city?" asked Rollin.

Councilman Charles Landon expressed the opinion that candidates should pay their taxes before they run for office. He said it was a matter of principle and "I would not have the nerve to run if I had not paid my taxes," he stated.

Mayor Cholger said he adhered to the same principle, but he felt that default and delinquent were words which did not have the same meaning. He said a person "who can't catch up on his taxes should not be prevented from running for the council."

Councilman Cotter expressed the opinion that "it was not the council's business to advise a candidate if he is qualified for office." He believed the eligibility requirement test was actually in the hands of the city clerk. He believed, too, that it was not the responsibility of the council to become involved in the possibility of an expensive lawsuit which could set a precedent in Michigan and he desired to avoid such a possibility.

Snoblen, who was present at the meeting with Healey, pointed out that he had been appointed to and presently served on the water board while being delinquent in paying his taxes. He said that the council did not follow its interpretation of the charter, as the section cited also refers to appointive officers.

As the result of Monday night's action, no primary election is to be held. Candidates for the three four-year terms include Ezo and Lansky, incumbents who will have completed their elected terms on December 31. Groff, whose term expires at the end of the year, chose not to be a candidate for re-election and did not file nomination petitions last week.

The three other candidates meeting eligibility requirements include Hugo Keiser Jr., Arlene Dillon and Francis Carey.

Special Election to Pick Commissioner

A special election is to be held next Tuesday to fill a seat on the Iosco County Board of Commissioners which has been vacant for the past four months.

Vying for the position held by the late William Wereley are Robert Pember, Hale, Democrat, and John D. Webb Jr., Reno Township, a Republican.

Voting to fill the District No. 5 vacancy will be Grant, Plainfield, Reno and Precincts No. 2 and 5 of Oscoda Township.

The two candidates were successful in the recent primary election held in the district.

Burleigh Township voters are being requested to approve a two-mill tax levy for five years from 1977 to 1983 to be used for roads and bridges.

Two propositions are being submitted to Sherman Township voters. The first seeks one mill for three years for fire protection and the second seeks one mill for three years to be used for roads and bridges.

Commission Solicits More Projects

Iosco Gets CETA Fund Deluge

When eight applications were submitted by local units three months ago for Title VI CETA funds, Iosco County Board of Commissioners were concerned that only enough money would be received for just one project—to provide manpower to conduct a countywide reappraisal of property.

The commission's fears were unfounded, however, as the county was approved last week to receive a deluge of Title VI CETA funds—$750,000 in all. The county commission is now attempting to interest local units of government to submit projects to utilize the funds between June 27 and September 1978.

In addition to the above program, Iosco County received an allocation of $159,237 in Title II money which is to extend 18 job slots to September 30, 1978. This, too, was a surprise as the preliminary indication was that Iosco would receive $53,000.

Nancy Wade, CETA coordinator, told commissioners Friday that additional job slots would now be open under this program.

Joseph Fox, commissioner from Tawas City, said that the state is now expected to follow Iosco County's lead in limiting individuals to one year of employment under the CETA programs. He said the programs were primarily designed to provide job training and not to provide "career" CETA employment.

Miss Wade said that approximately 400 applications were on file for CETA jobs, although the list is not currently up to date and that applicants would be contacted individually to determine if they were still interested in employment.

The principal project in the Title VI funding, costing $245,000, will be to provide 28 job slots in the tax equalization office. This additional manpower will be utilized to conduct a complete reappraisal of real estate for taxing purposes. Not included in the program will be Tawas City and East Tawas, which hired a professional firm to conduct the work.

A program is to be conducted by John Rose, tax equalization director, starting Monday of this week to train CETA workers as appraisal clerks and to provide field work for the survey. Considerable success has been achieved by this department during the past year in training CETA workers in this field.

Another project approved in the remaining $486,184 is the Tawas River reclamation project, which is designed to clean and remove debris from the river, as well as to renovate stream banks to the high water level.

This project received a high priority from the commission because of the fact that the city paid for its own property reappraisal and is not included in the county project.

Ten persons are to be hired under this program, according to Edward J. Barry, who prepared the plan for the City of Tawas City. He and several other school teachers have offered to volunteer their services to help supervise the work at no cost to the city or CETA.

To meet CETA project specifications, those employed will receive training in stream ecology, pollution causes and other areas involving fish and wildlife habitat. Assisting will be the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, the Soil Conservation District and the United States Forest Service.

It is hoped that college students and others interested in stream ecology will make application for employment, although all must meet requirements of the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

Under the plan, work would begin at the M-55 bridge and continue to the river mouth. Land owners are to be contacted for per-

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor: On behalf of the school district, I would like to express appreciation to the citizens that turned out to vote on the June 13 school election. The voter turnout indicated a substantial interest in the school district.

School board members as well as the staff were pleased about the outcome of the millage renewal question. Even though there was some opposition to the millage renewal, it does represent about half of the school district's cost for the coming year and was a basic minimal request.

It is hoped that the results of the election indicate support for the direction the district has taken during the past school year. This basic direction has been one of:

1. Providing a regular school day for all students.
2. Increased emphasis on providing a stronger academic program.
3. Additional staff emphasis on the enforcement and handling of student discipline.
4. Maintaining the cost of operating the school district at as low a level as practical and feasible.

It is expected that the board and staff will continue to place further emphasis on the above matters during the 1977-78 school year.

I would also hope that the parents and residents of all ages in the community will continue to remain actively involved with the schools, its programs and activities during the 1977-78 school year. Your participation and involvement is not only welcome but also essential to keeping the school "yours."

Bob Halle, superintendent

TODAY'S Meditation from The World's Most Widely Used Devotional Guide

(Read Hebrews 11:1-7)

"Why art thou cast down, O my soul? and why art thou disquieted in me? why thou in God: for I shall yet praise him for the help of his countenance. (Psalm 42:5)

In the short time that I have been in college, I have already experienced a frustrating disappointment. I had considered myself to be a good Christian. But during this time, I began to have second thoughts about faith in God. I could not help but wonder why He had let such a thing happen to me. I was confused and never at peace with myself.

Then, I re-read the story of Jesus. I realized that He had many disappointments but He never lost His faith in the heavenly Father. Even as He hung dying on the cross, He continued to trust God.

I realized that our disappointments are relatively small compared to what Jesus had to overcome. Yet, we throw our hands into the air and say "I quit" whenever things do not go as we would like them to. We should observe Jesus as an example of never ending faith and strive to be like Him. When we do we will find the courage and strength we need to live.

PRAYER

Dear Lord, forgive us for the weaknesses in our faith. May we realize that You have a wonderful plan for each of our lives. Help us to strengthen ourselves spiritually and always to have faith, just as our Savior, Jesus Christ, did. Amen.

Cruise Here from Detroit in Sailboat

Richard Harting Babcock, his wife, Verla, and two sons, Curt and Dean, of Livonia are at the Michigan Waterways Commission Dock this week. They cruised up from Detroit in their sailboat, Comanche.

The original Comanche was a 40-foot sailboat owned by N. C. Harting. It cruised and raced extensively on Saginaw Bay about 75 years ago. Richard is a great grandson of N. C. Harting, who operated the Iosco County Abstract Office for many years. Carl and Brent Babcock are his cousins. Winifred Hatton, also of Tawas City, is his aunt.

Richard is the proud owner of a silver trophy won by the Comanche in 1900. The crew of that Comanche included N. C. Harting; sons, Richard and Nick Harting, and son-in-law, Rasty Babcock. The trophy came to him from his father, Harting Babcock, whose uncle Richard Harting had given to him years ago. The present Comanche is a 30-foot Islander.

Hale Church Scene of Smith - Gale Wedding

Hale United Methodist Church was the scene of the double ring ceremony Saturday, June 18, uniting in marriage the former Rosemary J. Gale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow P. Gale of Long Lake, and Bruce F. Smith, son of the Edward B. Smiths of Little Long Lake.

The Rev. Willis Braun performed the 4 o'clock ceremony which was followed by a reception for guests from Flint, Detroit, Petoskey, Harrison, Lansing and Kenosha, Wisconsin, at the Holland House in East Tawas. At the organ was Mrs. Gerald Wyatt with Marcy Humphrey as vocalist.

The bride descended the aisle on the arm of her father in a white organza gown with illusion lace. A small lace cap secured the floor length veil of matching lace. She carried a yellow rose encircled with white daisies.

Mrs. Ronald Manor of Orchard Lake, twin sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Her gown of yellow dotted Swiss featured a scoop neckline and long sleeves. Yellow carnations and babies breath made up her bouquet.

George Walz of AuGres was best man. Thomas Gale of Rochester, brother of the bride, and Robert Smith, son of the bridegroom, served as ushers.

Mrs. Gale chose a gown of aqua and yellow print with a yellow carnation corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a yellow gown. Her corsage was of white carnations.

Following a week-long trip to Northern Michigan, the couple will reside at 429 State Street, West Branch.

A pre-nuptial shower honoring the bride was given by Mrs. Emery Preston and Connie Preston of Flint.

Not Worth It—

The Herald editor has to agree with Councilman Jerry Cotter — he hates to see Tawas City's charter become a "cause celebre" for the State of Michigan, for it is quite certain that the state attorney general's office will become a party to any lawsuit.

It was expected that Monday night's discussion would center on a different aspect of the charter—possible revision of a provision concerning the prohibition of elected officials to receive pay from the city for any position other than that which they were elected.

Instead, the main discussion centered on an entirely different matter—the definition of default as pertaining to delinquent property taxes owed by candidates or elected officers. The question erupted three years ago, but no one will accept the logic of the other fellow.

The matter had to be settled Monday night in order to determine candidates for the primary election. Action was necessary and it is unfortunate that challenges of court action preceded the final vote.

The editor, who happened to serve on the charter commission, agrees in principal with the charter provision and the definition made Monday night by the council. It is too bad, however, that this matter could not have come to a head earlier. The thinking of "both sides" have legitimate reasoning behind them and both needed to spread a little oil on the water to calm the waves.

The die has been cast, however, for another hassle—this one may cost considerably in attorney's fees.

Hale Pony Team Lost to AuGres

In a real pitchers' duel, the Hale Eagles Pony Team came out on the short end against AuGres, 4-0. The first inning set the pattern for the game as Aaron Nunn of Hale led off with a strike out. Kurt Wilson and Glenn Thornton then grounded out.

In the bottom of the first, Thornton struck out the side while allowing one AuGres batter to reach first base on an error. AuGres' Keith Bessinger fanned out two of three Hale batters in the top of the second and Thornton again put AuGres down swinging.

AuGres found Hale's weak spots in the third and fourth innings when it pushed across three of its four runs, all unearned. The only extra base hit was a double for AuGres in the fifth inning. Bessinger received the win for AuGres as he allowed one hit, struck out 11 and walked two. Thornton lost his second game in as many starts. He struck out 11 while walking one batter. The Eagles' lost their opening game to Whittemore, 23-10.

Coach Dave Runyan was pleased with his team's performance against AuGres. "We came a long way since the Whittemore contest, especially in the field. The kids were quite nervous against Whittemore as it was not only the first game of the year, but the first game ever for most of the boys," he stated.

Hale was scheduled to play Skyway Lake Monday evening.

FRESHMAN PITCHER Brad Potts from Tawas made the most of his rookie season at Ferris State College. Brad stepped into the starting rotation on the 20-18 Bulldogs, who won the NAIA District 23 baseball crown for the second consecutive season. He finished the season with a two-win, one-loss record and a 4.59 earned run average covering 33 and one-third innings on the mound. The former Tawas Area prep star had his best outing in the Great Lakes Conference game against Northwood. Potts pitched the Bulldogs to a 5-1 victory, yielding only five hits against the hard hitting Northmen.

Four Vandalism Complaints Were Investigated

Four vandalism complaints and two larcenies were investigated last week by Iosco County Sheriff's Department.

Kenneth Thibault, Tawas City, reported the theft of six outgoing checks which he had placed in the mail box in front of his home. Hale Hardware reported the theft of a six-horsepower outboard motor which was taken from a pontoon boat displayed in a fenced area behind the store.

Robert Miller of East Tawas and Dorothy Koptis of National City reported damaged mail boxes. Hazen Warner of Sand Lake Road reported that a mercury vapor yard light had been damaged by a .22 caliber rifle slug. Gary Packard of East Tawas reported that the windshield and fender of his automobile had been damaged in an act of vandalism.

mission to improve banks of the stream. The DNR is to assist with planning fish habitat cover.

This project has been funded for $24,328 and is to start June 27. Federal guidelines did not allow for an expenditure of $1,860 for materials, although it does provide for the purchase of hand tools, protection gear and for leasing of boats.

Only one other project remains on the commission's current list. That was submitted by Burleigh Township for CETA workers to develop a township park.

Oscoda Township and Plainfield Township had submitted projects to employ CETA workers for property appraisals, but both of those units indicated that the projects would be dropped if the county's total reappraisal was approved.

Projects submitted by the Iosco County Road Commission, Tawas Point State Park and a Tawas City forestry plan were scratched because of noncompliance with the Title VI criteria. It was reported Friday that the forestry project in Tawas City could still be funded using Title II CETA funds.

East Tawas submitted a project for the Dewey Durant Park, but this was dropped when the city took bids from contractors to accomplish this work.

Federal Grant Would Pay for Alpena College Courses at AB

Many military wives and dependents, civil service employees and area residents qualify for a federal grant, which does not have to be repaid, which would pay for all or part of their expenses in attending Alpena Community College at Wurtsmith Air Force Base.

Under the Basic Grants program, a qualified student usually receives between $200 and $1,400 a year to be used toward college expenses, tuition, books, supplies, babysitters or gas expenses.

Basic Grants are awarded on the basis of financial need, roughly defined an income of $12,000 or less for a family of four.

An area resident with an income of $8,000 and two children received money to pay for the majority of his college expenses.

Applications for the Basic Grant to attend Alpena Community College during the next semester are available from the college office at Wurtsmith AFB, Building 228. Additional information is available by calling 739-3467.

Indies Won Two Games from Harrisville Nine

Tawas Indies won a pair of games Sunday over visiting Harrisville. Brad Potts was the winning pitcher in each game, although he needed relief from Clarence Jordan in the fifth inning of the second game.

Collecting seven hits off Don McMaster, the Indies turned back Harrisville, 6-2, in the first game. The Indies belted 12 hits off the slants of Brad Jordais and Wayne Steiner to win the second game, 12-6.

Tawas opened a long afternoon by scoring five runs in the first inning on four walks and four singles. The Indies picked up a single run in the fourth inning on an error, a double by Wayne Revord and a sacrifice fly by Earl Parsons.

Harrisville scored one run in the first inning on a hit batsman, a single and a double. The visitors pushed one run across in the fourth inning on a walk, two errors and a stolen base.

Top hitters in the first game were Francis Jordan and Clarence Jordan, each with two hits.

Tom Gracik was the top batter for Tawas in the second game with three hits in four trips to the plate. Pat Jordan belted two hits and Wayne Revord had a home run.

During his afternoon on the mound, Potts struck out 13 batters and walked seven.

Next game for Tawas is Sunday, June 26, with Prescott playing a double header here. Game time is 1:00 p. m.

New TC Water Rates to Help Finance Project

In order to provide necessary funds to pay the principal and interest on the city's share of the cost of the expanded water project now under construction and to operate and maintain Tawas City's water system, the water board authorized an increase in water rates effective July 1.

The new rate is 50 cents per 1,000 gallons of water, plus the meter size and ready to serve charge. This new charge will represent a 12 to 15 percent increase for home owners.

In addition, a 100 percent surcharge is to be levied on water usage to all nonproperty tax paying water customers.

City Mgr. Reginald Bublitz told members of the city council Monday night that large water users would no longer receive a "break" in water bills. As example, he said that Tawas Plating Company's bill would be increased approximately 39 percent.

The provision of the surcharge for nonproperty tax paying water customers means an increase in rates for all public buildings, including the county building and jail, Tawas Hospital, medical care facility and schools.

The new water rates are designed to raise an additional $14,000 to $15,000 annually to help finance this city's share of the Tawas City, East Tawas, Baldwin Township water expansion program.

In other business Monday night, the council met with a representative of Edmands Engineering Company to discuss proposals under the step one sewer grant which are to be presented at a public hearing Thursday, 7:30 p. m., at the city hall. A decision is to be made at the hearing by Tawas City, East Tawas, Baldwin, Tawas and Alabaster Townships concerning plans for secondary sewage treatment on a regional basis.

The council authorized billing insurance companies for service rendered by the fire department when called to an automobile fire.

The July 4 meeting of the council has been changed to July 11 due to the national holiday.

Matters concerning vacation of a portion of Fifth Avenue and discussion on a charter amendment were tabled until the next meeting.

A meeting is to be held Thursday, 6:30 p. m., by the council's building committee. Invited to attend were Nelson Thornton and Leonard Hosbach, who were appointed by the Tawas City Businessmen's Association to assist with planning for a new city hall-fire department complex or remodeling of the present city hall.

TA Gymnastics Clinic Proved Exciting for Area Youngsters

Seventy-five children from the Tawas, Hale and Whittemore enjoyed their first real taste of gymnastics during a special one-week program conducted last week at Tawas Area High School.

The program was sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. William Schupbach and family, with assistance of physical education personnel from the school district.

When Schupbach moved to Tawas City 1½ years ago to become the new sales manager for the Valcraft Division of Valeron Corporation, he and his wife found that the school district did not have a gymnastic program. Their daughter, Jody, 14, had been deeply involved in school gymnastics at their former home at Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

The Schupbachs' three other children, Valerie, Julie and Pamela, had participated in high school gymnastics and all had become involved in this form of athletics when they entered the University of Iowa. Julie received a full scholarship to the university for her gymnastic abilities.

Today, "Pam" teaches gymnastics at the University of Iowa, while her married sister, Julie Georend, serves as an elementary coach at Kennedy High School at Cedar Rapids.

"We really felt there was a need for gymnastics here at Tawas and not just for our youngest daughter," said Mrs. Schupbach. A former physical education teacher herself, she offered her services to the local school's community education program and began handling a gymnastic program after school.

"The response to this program from parents has been fantastic, but we have run into a space problem," said Mrs. Schupbach. The school district's gymnasium at the high school, along with two elementary gymnasiums, are in constant use during the school year which does not leave much room or time for her classes in gymnastics.

"We hope to find a location where we can conduct regular classes. The program is excellent for children and it is fantastic how fast the younger children of this area have progressed after brief instruction in basic gymnastics," she stated.

As a special treat for area youngsters, two of their older daughters, Julie and Pam, spent last week with their parents and conducted day-long classes from Monday through Friday, finishing with a program Friday night attended by parents and friends. Julie brought two of her students, Sue Woods and Ann Hastings, with her from Cedar Rapids to assist with the instruction.

"We are teaching basic gymnastics with an emphasis on safety," stated Pamela Schupbach last Thursday. "A number of the children who have had previous experience are participating in advanced gymnastics, but it is important to start at an early age in order to gain flexibility."

Joseph Dissette of the elementary school's physical education department is assisting in the in-

Former 4-Hers are Eligible for Scholarships

Eight college scholarships totaling $5,000 are available to present or former county 4-H youths. The scholarships are funded by the Milwaukee Road, the Chicago and Northwestern Transportation Company and the Edwin T. Meredith Foundation.

Three of these scholarships require candidates to submit a paper on some phase of marketing and transportation of forest products. A paper on some phase of agricultural commodities must be submitted for the other $500 scholarship.

Two $1,000 scholarships will be awarded to two prospective college freshmen by the Edwin T. Meredith Foundation.

These eight scholarships are among more than 270 educational grants valued at about $250,000 offered in 1977 through the National 4-H Council.

WW II GAS MASK PLANT

"GIVE 'EM BOTH BARRELS" was a World War II slogan emphasizing the need for increased production in defense plants. The snapshot at top right shows O. W. Rowley, president of Rowley Assembly Company, in front of the gas mask plant located in the Orville Leslie Ford Sales, Tawas City. Rowley later established a pallet factory at Vanderbilt, which is still operated today by his family.

ELMER WERTH, president of Tawas Industries, Incorporated, Tawas City, had his start in industry 35 years ago when he was associated with Rowley Assembly Company in the production of gas masks. Werth holds a sample of the gas masks, which were turned out by a force numbering more than 200 women at peak production.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Thirty-five years ago, the United States was still shoring up its coastal defense against enemy air attack. Only six months had elapsed since the Japanese devastated Pearl Harbor, but America's hopes had been brightened somewhat with General Doolittle's spectacular raid on Japan in April 1942.

As a reprisal for the Doolittle raid, Japanese warplanes struck at the American base at Dutch Harbor, Alaska, with two attacks within six hours of each other. The fact that fighter planes accompanied bombers on their raids indicated that the Japs came from aircraft carriers, since the nearest enemy island was 1,400 miles away—far beyond the range of fighter aircraft.

By neutralizing Alaska and knocking out American air bases, Japan hoped to protect its flank, delay indefinitely the possibility of American invasion via this route and shut off communications and supply lines to Russia in the event of a Nipponese attack on Siberia.

Within 24 hours of the Dutch Harbor assault, Japan attacked Midway Island, nearest American base to Japan, but the growing American air and naval power began to manifest itself.

In the meantime, America's civilian population had a bad case of the jitters: If the Japanese could attack Alaska, why not California and other West Coast states? The problem was very real in 1942 and American cities began to fear the possibility of a bombing or gas attack by the enemy.

Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain warned the Axis on gas warfare and asserted that Britain was better equipped than Germany for this type of combat, which had proven so deadly to troops of both sides during World War I. Nazi precautions, he warned, concentrated on large scale shelters rather than on individual protection, as in Britain. Only a portion of the German people owned gas masks, while in Britain, each person possessed a mask.

Here in the United States, the situation was far more critical. The other combatant nations had been gearing civilian populations for an all out war for years, but America's civilian defense measures were far behind. To close that defense gap, the federal government began contracting for the manufacture of gas masks.

On June 12, 1942, The Tawas Herald announced that Rowley Assembly Company had leased a portion of the ground floor of Orville Leslie Ford Sales building in Tawas City for work on gas mask assembly.

"The necessary equipment is now being installed and production will start next week," stated the Herald. "The building has been divided and the Leslies will use the salesroom and part of the basement for their sales and garage business."

Rowley Assembly Company had been organized by local businessmen, with O. W. Rowley, East Tawas grocery store owner, in charge. "He will devote his entire time to the new project of producing gas masks under a subcontract," stated the Herald.

The Herald announced that from 75 to 100 girls and women would be required for this assembly work.

Rowley had the complete cooperation of the community's newly formed industrial committee. Associated with Rowley in the new company were Henry Klenow, Roscoe Legg, W. D. (Mike) Nunn, John Lasky, Elmer Werth and Nathan Barkman.

"This organization is now working to secure small plant and sub-contracts for this locality," stated the Herald. "Nathan Barkman is devoting as much time as possible to this work."

A number of buildings were available for light manufacturing, including the paint shop of the Detroit and Mackinac Railway. "Placing these building into use will mean much to our entire country," stated the Herald.

Werth, president of today's Tawas Industries, Incorporated, traces his involvement in industry back to the gas mask plant. In 19-38, he was associated with his brother, Harold, in construction of the Shady Lane Dairy at East Tawas.

Werth had charge of the milk processing plant and managed the business for his brother, but left that business when he and his associates formed Rowley Assembly Company.

"I really did not expect the new assembly plant to become a full time occupation for me, but labor was scarce and I wound up as a foreman on one shift on the gas mask assembly line," recalls Werth.

Before the new plant could go into operation, the neophyte industrialists had to learn something about the business—no one had any experience, whatsoever.

"Several of us went down to Pontiac to meet with representatives of Baldwin Rubber Company, prime contractor for manufacturing gas masks. We had no equipment and no knowledge of what it took to get in the assembly business, but I came up with a crude idea for a fastener to hold the gas mask on the head of the wearer—it was similar to the hook used on a curtain rod," said Werth.

Returning to Tawas, the men immediately set to work to devise equipment to assemble gas masks. Charles Rouiller, local carpenter, (See GAS MASKS, page 6.)

 instruction, along with Mary Jane Williams, a 1977 graduate of this high school. Disette said that youngsters currently receive four weeks of gymnastics in the schools PE program. Children learn basic tumbling and the school has a balance beam, a vaulting horse and trampoline. The high school program has a set of parallel bars and a wrestling mat.

 Julie, who was a member of the first girl's gymnastic team at the University of Iowa, said that a gymnastic program moves rapidly once it is introduced into an area. Much of this interest can be attributed to television coverage of the Olympic games and collegiate competition.
 "We hope that suitable quarters can be found for a gymnastic program in this area. Many more children can become involved in this sport than in basketball or football, it has a good carryover after graduation and it is really a worthwhile program," said Mrs. Schupbach.

FAMILY LIVING EDUCATION

BY SUSAN LAMBRECHT
County Extension Director
SHOP AROUND FOR CHILDREN'S SLEEPWEAR

The recent controversy about TRIS, the flame-retardant finish used on some children's sleepwear, has left questions in many consumers' minds. So here are some suggestions from Bernetta Kahabka, extension specialist in human environment and design at Michigan State University.

You may want to choose sleepwear made from inherently flame-retardant fibers. Such fabrics naturally resist flame. The fabrics from which they are made do not need any further chemical finishing.

Kahabka advises consumers to check the fiber content of children's sleepwear. "Look for general fiber names such as modacrylic, matrix and vinylon," she says. The names will often be listed along with brand names. The letters SEF with a fiber name indicates that it is a self-extinguishing fiber."

Some polyesters, nylons and rayons are also produced inherently flame retardant when they are in the solution state before being processed into fibers or filaments and eventually made into cloth. Kahabka advises consumers to be sure that these fabrics are labeled as such.

The United States Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) has banned the sale of any children's clothing containing the flame-retardant chemical TRIS. If you have purchased but not washed any TRIS-treated children's garments or uncut fabrics, you are entitled to a full refund of purchase price.

The commission position has been that already-washed (three times or more) TRIS treated garments are not banned because they do not present a substantial risk. However, there is a difference of opinion among CPSC members, producers, scientists and lawyers about this. It leaves you to ultimately make the decision as to whether you will continue to use the washed TRIS-treated sleepwear.

to Improve Phone Service July 5

Improved long distance service will become available to telephone users in seven Continental Telephone-served communities this year. The first will be Sand Lake Heights on July 5 with others scheduled to follow in August, September and October.

At present, only station-to-station calls from non-coin telephones can be customer dialed. Beginning July 5, the following long distance calls can be dialed direct: Station-to-station, person-to-person, credit card, collect, bill to third number and calls from coin telephones.

The company is spending approximately $82,000 in 1977 to expand long distance service from seven of its exchanges. An additional four exchanges are presently scheduled to receive the service in 1978.

"To direct distance dial a person-to-person, credit card, bill third number, collect or coin telephone call to another city in the 517 numbering plan area, a customer will simply dial "0" plus the desired telephone number," according to Richard Skiff, commercial manager of the company. An operator will momentarily come on the line to determine the type of call.

There will be no change to direct distance dial station-to-station calls. Other exchanges scheduled to receive the service are Sixty Lakes and Whittemore, July 12; Hale, August 10; Glennie, August 15; Pinconning, September 10, and Hope, November 15.

Continental Telephone of Michigan operates approximately 40,000 telephones through 30 exchanges. About 7,000 customers are served from the seven exchanges scheduled to receive the new DDD service in 1977.

Gas Masks

was hired to produce 200 small wooden presses which were used to vulcanize eye pieces into the rubber gas masks and Roy Leslie, a practical genius with machines, developed a stamping press to manufacture fastener devices.

"Girls, girls and more of the same are in demand at the Rowley Assembly Company plant in this city," the Herald proclaimed on August 14, 1942. "The firm is now employing 125 persons in assembling gas masks and the plant is taking an important part in defense production."

Rowley, president and general manager of the company, reported that the plant was now reaching peak production, with three shifts working a 24-hour day. He said that the company had been assured of an additional contract which would call for increased capacity as fast as facilities and equipment could be made available.

In urging women and girls to sign up for employment at the plant, Rowley said that the company would "require a good many more women and girls to take care of the new order. Applications for employment should be filled at the office as early as possible."

Rowley Assembly Company received a second contract from Baldwin Rubber Company in November 1942 and total payroll by the local firm reach 262 persons as production was stepped up tremendously.

Prior to the new contract, the local plant had been operating only part time for a few weeks due to the shortage of materials. "Baldwin Rubber Company of Pontiac has had difficulty in securing the materials necessary for the manufacture of gas masks due to the fact that the reclaimed rubber used is classed as a critical material," stated the Herald. "However, a substantial amount has been allotted to them so they, in turn, will also start in full production within the next week. As soon as the first masks are partially completed at Pontiac, they will be transported here for assembly work."

The manufacture of gas masks for the civilian population of this country was to continue into 1943 at a rate of 42,000 units every 24 hours produced at the Tawas City plant. In the meantime, the local civilian population participated in wartime practice "blackouts" on orders of Sheriff John F. Moran.

"Every citizen must realize this is a very serious matter and that all air raid wardens and auxiliary policemen are required to report all violations during the 15-minute air practice period," warned the sheriff.

The fortunes of war turned for the United States and its allies in 1943 and the assembly of gas masks was soon to end. Before the plant went out of existence, the Herald noted that an "E" flag was now being proudly displayed at its improvised headquarters in the Leslie garage. "One-hundred percent of its employees are purchasing 10 percent or more of their wages in War Savings Bonds," reported the Herald. The newspaper also noted that employees presented Mrs. Rowley, plant bookkeeper, with a new desk.

On November 12, 1942, the Herald reported that the newly-reorganized Rowley Manufacturing Company had leased the Tanner Lumber Company mill at East Tawas and was again in war production through the manufacture of wooden boxes for the government.

Werth, who was part of the new organization, recalls that the new contract called for manufacturing eight-foot wooden boxes for Pontiac Motor Company. The boxes were used for the shipment of machine guns and a later model was used to ship torpedos.

"It is hard to imagine now, but we purchased clear western pine at a rate of $20 per 1,000 feet for use in the manufacture of those expendable boxes," said Werth. Twelve to 14 men were involved in the manufacturing operation.

After that contract was completed, Rowley moved his business to Vanderbilt and Werth joined Nathan Barkman and Al Kirkendall in forming Tawas Manufacturing Company. The new firm established an assembly line at the Edgewater pavilion located on the present site of Tawas Bay Aerie No. 2588, Fraternal Order of Eagles.

This opened a new era in light manufacturing for the Tawas area as the new firm produced oil filters, which still provides major employment in the Tawas area.

In 1945, Tawas Manufacturing Company moved to the Case Building in Tawas City, was reorganized as Tawas Industries, Incorporated, on June 27, 1946, and moved to the old Adams garage building at East Tawas.

In the spring of 1950, Tawas Industries, Incorporated, completed construction on its new plant on

First Street in Tawas City. Its incorporating officers included Joseph Warren, president; Nathan Barkman, secretary; Werth, vice president, general manager and treasurer.

Over the years, Tawas Industries, Incorporated, has enjoyed considerable growth, which has included three different additions to its block-long plant in Tawas City. Several years ago, the firm expanded to a new building on the old fairgrounds property behind the Detroit and Mackinac Railway yards.

With 35 years of manufacturing experience behind him, Werth commented only last week that the nation's current energy crunch may have a drastic effect on Michigan's industrial picture. Major expansion by the automobile industry is moving to states having a warmer year around climate due to the added overhead caused by expensive heating fuels.

The high cost of transportation is a serious factor for small industrial operations in Northern Michigan and Werth's firm recently purchased a third truck-trailer unit to transport completed oil filters to downstate manufacturing areas.

The new tractor unit and trailer, costing $50,000, is powered by a diesel engine, which is expected to result in a cost savings over two other units powered by conventional gasoline engines.

In an effort to keep up with production demands for oil filters, the local plant is now working overtime while new equipment is being set up to establish a second assembly line in the firm's second plant. The new line will double the firm's production.

Light industry in the Tawas has had a significant advance since establishment of the gas mask assembly plant 35 years ago and hope for the future is still bright, despite the shadow of the energy crisis.

"THE COAST is getting ready for the Japs in more ways than one," stated the cutline under this photograph when it appeared in the June 12, 1942, issue of The Tawas Herald. Civilian Defense officials had begun distributing more than 20,000 gas masks to 10 Alameda County communities in California. Masks went to volunteer defense workers specified by the Office of Civilian Defense. That same week, the Herald noted that a new gas mask assembly plant was opening in Tawas City.

Commission Heard Local Project Presentations for Revenue Sharing

A full slate of worthwhile community projects was presented to the Iosco County Board of Commissioners Wednesday during a public hearing on the expenditure of future revenue sharing money to be received by this county.

"We wish we could say 'yes' to all of the requests, but we know that they all cannot be financed with this year's allocation of federal revenue sharing money or even the amount to be received by the county over the next three years," said Carlton Merschel, acting chairman of the commission.

Presentations made by various officials of local units of government are to be considered by the commission in developing priorities for the expenditures. Those which are not funded this year will be considered at a similar hearing to be conducted next year.

Proposals heard Wednesday included one from AuSable Township calling for construction of a senior citizen center, along with a $50,000 request from Oscoda Township to aid in development of its industrial development park.

Ray Kesler, supervisor of Plainfield Township, presented two proposals, one asking for $7,000 to aid in the purchase and remodeling of the former Ealy, McKay and Company Bank for a museum and a request for $30,000 to assist in a $120,000 swimming pool complex planned at the township hall. Application has been made for $60,000 in Bureau of Outdoor Recreation funds to assist with this project and $30,000 would come from township funds, said Kesler.

City Clerk Clyde Soper of East Tawas presented a request of $55,000 to assist the city with development of its Dewey Duran Park and purchase of lakefront property for expansion of the city park. The county has already indicated it will utilize $30,000 in federal revenue sharing money to purchase the former McKay residence as a county museum.

John Jordan, supervisor of Sherman Township, requested an allocation of $10,000 in revenue sharing funds to assist with construction of a bridge on National City Road over the AuGres River. The bridge was condemned four years ago as unsafe and the township has a contract with the county road commission to replace the bridge at a cost of $70,000.

Tim Taylor, representing Oscoda businessmen, presented a request of $100,000 to assist with paying off a loan for the purchase of parking facilities in that community. Businessmen comprising a special assessment district have a debt of approximately $200,000 to pay for a municipal parking lot.

Lowell Aspin and Mrs. Elmer Anschuetz, representing Grant Township, requested an unspecified amount of revenue sharing funds to aid the township in constructing a new bridge across the East Branch of the AuGres River at Carpenter Road.

County Treas. Edward Nelkie appeared before the commission and pointed out the need for additional office and vault space in offices of the county clerk, county treasurer and register of deeds. Due to the expanded business and additional personnel required in those offices during recent years, space is at a minimum. Overcrowded vault space is currently being used for office purposes.

Merschel said that the county planning commission was currently wrestling with space problems at the county building and that a plan was to be presented to the commission in the near future.

Commissioners said that the county would receive approximately $800,000 in federal revenue sharing money between now and September 30, 1980. They pointed out that enough projects had been submitted to spend the entire amount in one year, but emphasized that future boards could not be committed to expenditures and that only 1977 funding could be considered for the present. A decision is to be made shortly on the programs to be funded this year.

A UNIQUE bicycle seat, called the "Bummer" was named Michigan Product of the Year by the Greater Michigan Foundation. The Bummer was cited for its practicality and general appeal. Keeping the cyclist's riding comfort and anatomy in mind, the Bummer, with its hammock-like construction, does away with straddling the traditional bicycle seat. It is manufactured by Hilltop Manufacturing Company, Incorporated, New Hudson.

Flag Ceremony Featured Meeting

An outdoor flag ceremony and American eagle were featured when River Aux Sables Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, entertained husbands and guests for a pot-luck luncheon at YWCA Camp Mahn-Go-Tah-See, Hale.

Wearing tricorne hats and led by drummers, Lynn Gibbs and Robert Millard, representing Cub Scout Pack No. 990, Lake Huron Area Council, raised the United States of America flag and presented 19 flags of the American Revolution as Charles Seward described each in turn. Edward Seward was instrumental in the ceremony, which was directed by Edward Seward, pack master, and Priscilla Seward, den mother.

Homer Roberts, resident director, Camp Mahn-Go-Tah-See, described lifetime use policies of the camp which have resulted in its designation as a wild life sanctuary by the State of Michigan and conducted a tour of the nature center. Life-sized models of the American eagle and an eagle's nest illustrated his lecture.

"The eagle is making a comeback and a deciding factor has been the ban on DDT and other poisons," Roberts told the group.

A memorial service for the late Mrs. Eugene Brunk, Rose City, a charter member and chapter librarian, was conducted by Mrs. Howard Beck, chaplain.

Mrs. Worthy T. Boyd, chapter regent, announced a chapter gift in memory of Mrs. Brunk to the NS-DAR Library fund and Miss Roxanne Kenyon was elected to fill her unexpired term of office.

Mrs. Homer Roberts, luncheon hostess, welcomed new members, Mrs. Adolph Sieland, Fairview, a transfer from White Plains, New York, and Mrs. Erwin J. Wilee, East Tawas, a transfer from Detroit.
