

List Memorial Day Services for Iosco

Memorial Day observances are to be held throughout the nation on Monday, May 30—in cemeteries of small hamlets to large metropolitan areas—as veterans' organizations and citizens join together to pay tribute to those who made the supreme sacrifice during all of the wars of this country's history.

It will mark the first time in three years since congress designated the last Monday of May as Memorial Day that the traditional May 30 observance coincides with the "legal" holiday.

(Turn to page one, section two of this newspaper for historical featurette concerning the first Memorial Day.)

In most communities, there will be parades followed by rites at cemeteries conducted by various veterans' organizations. Programs in Iosco County are as follows:

TAWAS CITY
Veterans are to assemble at 9:00 a. m. at the new facility of Jesse C. Hodder Post No. 189, American Legion, for their annual Memorial Day parade. The building is located on North Street west of the baseball diamond.

The parade is scheduled to start at 10:00 a. m. and the route will be to First Street and then to US-23. Marchers are to turn south on US-23 and continue to the Matthews Street bridge, where a service honoring those who died at sea will be held.

The line of march will then continue to Memory Gardens Cemetery for traditional rites, including roll call and memorial prayer conducted by the Rev. John Palmer, pastor of First Baptist Church, Tawas City.

A color guard from Wurtsmith Air Force Base, along with members of Troop No. 974, Boy Scouts of America, under leadership of Thomas Pockrandt, are to join in the parade.

Tawas Area High School Band, under direction of Gene Sala-Rollin, a veteran of the United States Marine Corps during World War I, will serve as honorary officer of the day.

Com. Hugh Prescott urged any and all veterans to join in this annual observance. All veterans' families are requested to furnish names of veterans who have passed away recently by calling 362-4495.

Open house at the new post facility is planned following the parade. Refreshments are to be served.

EAST TAWAS
The Memorial Day observance at East Tawas may mark the last time that the American Legion Hall on Newman Street will be used for this purpose. This old frame building, which was originally the headquarters for the local unit of the Grand Army of the Republic comprised of Civil War veterans, may be sold and replaced at some other location by a new building, if everything goes according to plans of Audie Johnson Post No. 211, American Legion.

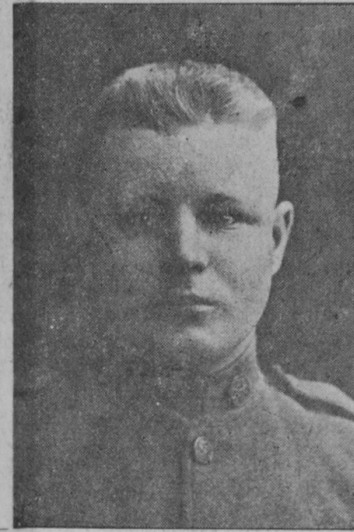

Starting time for the parade to be conducted by Audie Johnson Post has been changed to 12 o'clock noon. Marching units of Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 5678, girl scouts, boy scouts, cub scouts, the Tawas Area High School Marching Band, the American Legion and American Legion Auxiliary are to be included.

Stepping off from the American Legion Hall promptly at 12 o'clock noon, the parade is to proceed down Newman Street to the Michigan Waterways Commission Dock for services honoring those who gave their lives at sea.

Marchers are to return to the American Legion Hall where they will be transported to Veterans' Cemetery for services. The Rev. Fr. Francis Murphy of St. Joseph's Catholic Church is to be guest speaker.

Sergeant-at-arms for the program will be Russell Meyers with Willard Dillon, officer of the day.

Table Action on Land Transfer

Action on a proposed property transfer between Tawas Area School and Whittemore - Prescott Area School was tabled for further information Monday night by Tawas Area Board of Education.

Mrs. Harold Busch of Sherman Township appeared before the board of education and reported that the Iosco Intermediate School District had turned down the transfer request, according to past policy. She said, however, that the request was being appealed to the state.

The Busch property located on Whittemore Road is presently included in the Whittemore-Prescott Area School District, but Mr. and Mrs. Busch's daughter attends Tawas Area School District as they own other property in this district. She requests that their property in Sherman Township be transferred to this district in order that they may take an active part in school affairs.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Giori and Bernard Lorenz, who reside on the western side of Sherman Township and are included in this school district, request their property to be transferred to Whittemore-Prescott Area School District. They said Monday night they were closer to Whittemore-Prescott Area School and wished to be transferred to that district in order to be able to vote on school matters.

Mrs. Busch said that the three families could go to Lansing with the problem, but that it would cost money and she felt that legal precedent had been set during the recent exchange of property between Whittemore-Prescott Area School and Hale Area School Districts. She said that the Whittemore-Prescott board approved this new transfer.

About four years ago, boards of education of both school districts attempted to reach a solution to straighten the mutual boundary line in Sherman Township. A compromise line between the two districts could not be settled at that time.

Supt. Robert Halle said Monday night that the proposed transfer could result in a more jagged boundary line and he felt that the board of education would require additional time before any action could be taken.

At the present time, the families involved are not paying tuition for children sent to other schools because parents own property in both districts. It is expected that new legislation will change this law. The Giori and Lorenz families each have five school-aged children and the tuition cost would be prohibitive. Those units in which the children presently attend school receive state aid money.

In other business, reports were given on the science curriculum in elementary grades, junior high school and high school. Reports for elementary grades were given by Prin. Herman Rollin and Michael Dobrinski, instructor; reports from junior high school were given by Prin. Robert McDonald and Edward J. Barry, instructor, while Prin. John Alexander and Larry VanWagoner, instructor, presented the high school report.

A proposal to place the question of raising the per diem paid to the board of education before voters at the June election was withdrawn on recommendation of Halle. The superintendent said that the state law regarding establishment of per diem for school board members was ambiguous and that the school's attorney recommended that such action not be taken due to a proposed change in the law.

The law permits boards of election and other elected bodies to raise their per diem, but the increase can only be paid to new members coming on the board. The local board had sought to increase the rate from $5 per meeting established when schools were reorganized in 1953 to $10 per meeting.

CEMETERIES across the land will be the scene of Memorial Day programs next Monday as veterans and families of veterans carry out a tradition of more than 100 years in decorating graves of deceased comrades and predecessors of earlier wars in the nation's history. It will be a time of solemn remembrance as the bugler's sounding of "Taps" echoes over graves such as the one pictured above.—Tawas Herald Photo.

County Allocates Funds to Projects

Three important allocations from federal funds totaling $102,097 were made Wednesday by the Iosco County Board of Commissioners.

Approval was given to an allocation of $35,000 from anti-recession funds to be placed in a capital project fund for the Iosco County Medical Care Facility; the Tawas Industrial Development Corporation was granted $37,097 from federal revenue sharing money and the county purchased the former L. G. McKay home, garage and front court at East Tawas at a cost of $30,000, using federal revenue sharing money.

Roy Bergstrom, director of the medical facility, said that the money would be placed in an interest-bearing contingency fund and earmarked for building and equipment maintenance and replacement. Previously, $31,000 in Medicaid assets had been placed in a contingency fund for such a purpose and interest of $1,800 has been earned during the periods.

"Establishment of this contingency fund is a good business move," said Bergstrom, "as it will mean that the county will not have to dip down in the future to raise funds for such an expensive item as roof replacement." The building is 11 years old at the present time.

Funds granted to the Tawas IDC will pay for the new water system which is being extended along Aulerich Road in front of the industrial park and will serve the county airport.

The purchase of the McKay property is part of an arrangement with the City of East Tawas. The building and garage will be utilized for a county museum and the city is to purchase the remainder of the property for city park expansion.

Total cost of the property was $70,000. When the offer was made last January, L. G. McKay said he would donate $5,000 to be used for altering the house for public purposes.

Bublitz Recommends Water Storage Study at High School

Expansion of municipal water storage facilities in the municipal system, coupled with a new main leading from the water filtration plant, is expected to partially solve Tawas Area High School's low water pressure problem, but two alternatives were suggested Monday night by the city manager of Tawas City.

Despite expected improvements when work on expanding the area's water supply system is completed, Reginald Bublitz, city manager, told members of the board of education Monday night that friction loss on the school-owned main leading from the west city limit could still pose a problem.

The board of education had called upon Bublitz to offer advice concerning a recent request from a private developer to tap into the school's water main leading from the west city limit and extending about three-quarters of a mile to the high school. The board of education had expressed concern that an additional customer on the school's line could compound low water pressure at certain times at the high school.

Alternatives suggested by Bublitz included construction of a loop system to provide two different sources of water, along with installation of a pressurized water storage tank at the school capable of holding 2,000 to 5,000 gallons. The latter suggestion seemed to be the most appropriate because of its lower cost.

History of the water main along Plank Road was outlined by the city manager. He said that when the school was constructed in 1956, the city extended its water and sewer mains on Harris Avenue to the city limit. From that point west, the school district contracted with the city for construction of the mains.

Using the city crew, the project was constructed at a cost of $5 per foot of eight-inch sewer main and $3.50 per foot of six-inch water main. By using the city crew, the school district saved approximately $30,000 for the work.

The city manager pointed out, however, that serious problems had arisen during the ensuing 20 years because of the fact that enrollment at the junior and senior high school had increased from 650 students to around 1,000 students. Water demand in the city has also increased and that is the reason for the expanded system.

The city manager said that the school had water pressure ranging from 38 to 40 pounds in 1956, but this drops drastically at certain times due to increased usage and friction loss. He did not feel that the seven homes along Plank Road hooked into the school's line had caused any material change in the water pressure. He said, too, that no problem had been experienced in the sanitary sewer line serving the school as it had been designed to handle a much larger capacity.

Because of the problem of frequent water main breaks in this area during the winter, which has resulted in occasionally closing the school for a day, the city manager said.

Council OK's City Planner Contract

Following discussion with the city planning commission Thursday night, Tawas City Council authorized renewal of a contract with Villican-Leman and Associates, Incorporated, to provide professional planning services.

Renewal of the contract with the Southfield firm had been tabled by the council in order to learn more about services provided by the professional firm.

During discussion it was pointed out that the Southfield firm had assisted the planning commission in developing a master plan for the city in the 1960s. About seven years ago the firm was hired to update the plan and has since been utilized on a consultant basis.

Members of the planning commission pointed out that the master plan developed 10 years ago had actually been followed quite closely, although there has been some deviation. It was felt, too, that professional advice was required when questions arise over zoning ordinances.

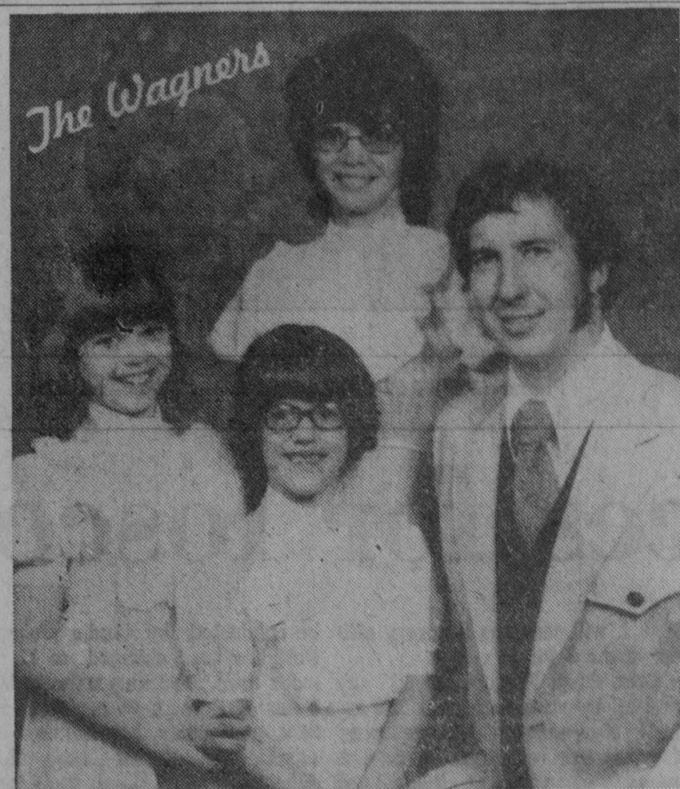

Because of the need for improving communications between the council and planning commission, it was decided to hold a quarterly joint meeting.

Primary Winners--

John Webb Jr., Republican, and Robert Pember, Democrat, both from Plainfield Township, will be candidates for the Fifth District seat on the county board of commissioners in the special election to be held June 28. According to unofficial results in Tuesday's primary, Webb received 196 votes and Pember had 82 votes in three of the four units. Other candidates included Lyle Long and Warren B. Oakley Jr., Republicans, and Wade J. Forshee, Democrat. Units involved were Plainfield, Reno, Grant and a portion of Oscoda Townships.

TERESA SULLIVAN, a senior at Tawas Area High School, received the John Phillip Sousa Award during Saturday night's concert by the high school band. She has been first chair oboist for three years, a band officer for four years, has participated in solo and ensemble festivals for four years and named to the district honors band for the past three years. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sullivan of Tawas City. In 1971, her brother, Gary, received the award. She is shown above with Gene Salamony, band director.—Tawas Herald Photo.

(Read John 14:12-17 and Luke 24:49-53)

"Greater works than these will he do, because I go to the Father." (John 14:12 RSV)

A humble farmer saw the city beginning to expand in the direction of his property. As he saw the end of his days approaching, he called his children together and exacted their promise that they would never sell the farm until it was worth a million dollars. In time, real estate developers paid the heirs a million dollars for this choice location.

In a somewhat similar although much more significant way, Jesus told His disciples to expect greater events than those they had shared during His ministry. He was sending the Holy Spirit to extend His ministry beyond the boundaries of their previous experience. The pages of the New Testament and church history record the fulfillment of this promise.

Ascension Day means many things about the person and significance of Jesus Christ. Amid all these meanings is a central truth: Through the ministry of the Holy Spirit, Christ gave His disciples of succeeding generations a greater potential for reconciling the world to God's love than had ever been known. What a heritage comes to us because Jesus went to the Father!

PRAYER

Almighty God, we thank You that the ministry of the Holy Spirit continually reminds us of the life and work of Jesus. Direct us in responding with deeds of love and mercy in Your name. Amen.

Bravettes Won One Game Out of Four

Tawas girls salvaged one win in four softball games played last week. The Bravettes lost Thursday to Ogemaw, 16-7 and 19-3, the day to Oscoda, 18-8, in the first game on Friday. Tawas won the second game, 15-13.

Kim McKenzie and Ronda Ha each had two runs batted in during the first game with Ogemaw. Paul Larsen had a single and a triple. Hall had two hits in the second game and Ogemaw was held to only two hits. Many walks and errors aided the winners' cause.

In the first game Friday, Joyce Hatcher and Laurel Minard each had two hits. The second game went one extra inning and Hatcher was the winning pitcher in relief. Barb Stonehouse hit a grand slam home run. Karl Allen had a triple and a homer.

Last game of the regular season was to have been held Tuesday with Tawas hosting Gladwin. A pre-district game is to be held Friday at Tawas.

DAR Installed New Officers

The Tawas Herald received the bicentennial certificate authorized by the National Society, DAR, for its masthead display of the United States flag and for a 16-month series of historical articles by W. Neil Thornton, editor, who accepted the award for the newspaper.

Mrs. Worthy T. Boyd, chapter regent, installed the following newly-elected officers: Mrs. Howard K. Beck, AuGres, chaplain; Mrs. Allen Dunsmore, Hale, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Frederick C. Nash, AuGres, treasurer.

Mrs. Boyd's report of the 86th Congress of the NSDAR, which she attended in Washington, D. C., included news that the chapter had won gold honor roll listing for the second consecutive year. The coveted award is made only to chapters which fulfill exacting requirements of membership increase and activity, participation in national and state projects, and which maintain a balanced program of historical, educational and patriotic service in their communities.

Members welcomed a new associate, Mrs. Rolland P. Lee, East Tawas, and enjoyed a show and tell program of heritage items. Mrs. Beck and Mrs. Walter Pendred Sr., both of AuGres, assisted the hostess.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

As you recall last week, May 14-21, was proclaimed as Michigan Week—a week to recognize and to promote Michigan in a manner that shows the world we are proud to live here.

We have a multitude of areas in which to take pride in our state; Glacier results, famous Indian treaties, Soo Locks, automobiles, Ralph Bunche (the first Black Nobel Prize winner), the first woman to enlist in the Union Army, founding site of the Republican Party, Ty Cobb and the Detroit Tigers and our own Myles Main; from Mackinaw Island to our AuSable River Queens; from Charles Lindberg to Ernest Hemingway and Charleston Heston to the Great Lakes and our own Tawas Bay; our forest, gypsum, oil, iron ore and so much more.

We in the Tawas area do have our own little corner of the world or state to look after and I would like to congratulate all of our people for their individual effort, interest, enthusiasm, ideas and just plain work necessary for keeping their buildings, lawns, vacant lots and gardens looking good.

In my work I have the opportunity to travel to many communities in Michigan and I often hear people make the remark that "Tawas must be a pleasant place in which to live because it is so neat and clean, in addition to having the Tawas River and Tawas Bay." We can hardly blame one if he should be envious.

His Chimney Sweep Hobby Provides Important Service

Has Fun Promoting Safety

When Larry Hemsall of the Flint area visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Hemsall of East Tawas, last week-end, he was accompanied by his wife, Carol, and their children. He also brought along his tails, top hat and some specialized equipment.

Hemsall did not attend a formal dinner—he is a chimney sweep by hobby, one of an estimated 100 people in the nation who are bringing a dying trade back to life.

"The chimney sweep as a trade died out in the 1880s," explains the 39-year-old designer at AC Spark Plug. He decided to make chimney cleaning his hobby when he could not find anyone in Genesee County to clean his chimney.

Because of the energy crunch, more people are using their fireplaces. If chimneys are not cleaned periodically, there is a hazard of starting a chimney fire.

(Although statistics are not available, area fire departments noted an alarming increase in the number of wood stove related fires last winter. Causes included chimney burnouts, improper installation of equipment and over heating. One Isosco County fire which started from a wood stove claimed four lives.)

Hemsall recommends cleaning a fireplace after each six cords of wood are burned. The worst thing one can burn in a fireplace is wet or green wood, or paraffin-coated sawdust logs, states Hemsall.

Chimney fires start when creosote, a gummy substance from the burning wood that collects inside the chimney, is ignited by sparks. The chimney's draft can push the fire up to blast furnace conditions of about 3,000 degrees, which accounts for the tornado-like sound in a chimney during a burnout.

"This melts the mortar. The molten cement is caught in the draft and shoots up and out of the chimney on the roof, or goes through the chimney into the attic and starts a fire," said Hemsall. "A chimney fire could be burning for two or three hours before it is noticed by someone inside a house."

"Hemsall did not just pick up a brush, tails and top hat and label himself a chimney sweep. He learned the trade from some of the masters. He recently attended the National Chimney Sweep Convention at Portland, Maine, where he learned some of the tricks of the trade.

Although chimney sweeping is a hobby for Hemsall, many people across the nation have given up their regular jobs to revive the old trade.

Being a chimney sweep is the perfect outlet for him to provide a community service and to have some fun. Hemsall likes to do his cleaning from the rooftop because "there is more show and flare." His family is also having fun with his hobby.

His son, Shawn, 11 years of age, assists his dad in carrying some of the necessary brushes and other gear when they climb on top of a roof. "But Shawn is not my 'Oliver Twist"—chimney sweeps do not climb down chimneys any more. There are few flues which would be large enough and it is just too dangerous."

Hemsall uses a variety of imported Norwegian wire brushes and flexible rods to accomplish the cleaning. Before starting work, the draft is closed and a drop cloth placed in front of the fireplace to collect the soot. An industrial type vacuum is used to complete the chore.

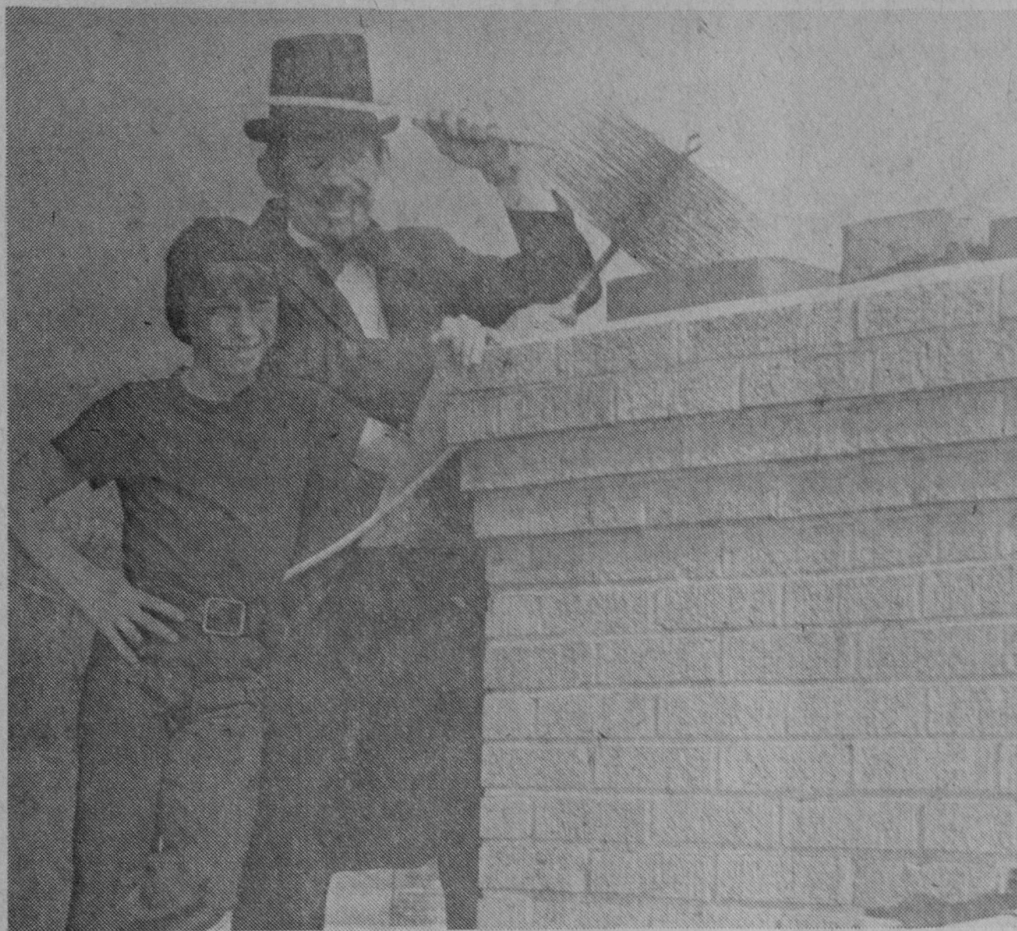

Hemsall cleaned chimneys Saturday in the neighborhood of his parents' residence, including one at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Richter.

Rabbit's feet, horse shoes, four-leaf clovers and chimney sweeps all have one thing in common: They are supposed to bring good luck. According to an old English custom, if a chimney sweep stops by a wedding reception to kiss the bride, it is supposed to bring the couple good luck.

Recently, a Swartz Creek couple had the good luck of a chimney sweep bestowed upon them at their wedding when Hemsall made his appearance at the couple's wedding reception—wearing his tails and top hat.

Not everyone can be a chimney sweep. "One has to be safety-minded and a ham," said Hemsall. "I am having a lot of fun with my hobby."

LARRY HEMSALL of the Flint area has an unusual hobby—he is a chimney sweep. He is shown above with his son, Shawn, during a chimney cleaning operation at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Richter of East Tawas. Hemsall, who wore a top hat and tails, said the traditional garb of the chimney sweep originated in England. "The sweep was a lowly job and he often accepted old clothing from his rich customers, which may account for this attire," said Hemsall.—Tawas Herald Photo.

No Clamor in Northeastern Michigan for Expressway

A highway department planner said last week at a Standish hearing that there had been no clamor for a US-23 expressway from residents along the route from Standish to Alpena.

Just the opposite is true as he said that a petition would be circulated in the area from the Tawas to Alpena and possibly south requesting a four-lane US-23 instead of a new route.

Harold Rappuhn, transportation planner for the state highway department, avoided giving credence to the four-lane possibility, although he indicated US-23 could be upgraded.

He indicated this upgrading meant such things as "paving shoulders, improving intersections, possibly removing some trouble-some or danger points."

Rappuhn also indicated there was little evidence that an expressway would ever be needed north of Oscoda and said that careful consideration had to be given to the use of existing US-23 when planning any new structure.

The highway department, he said, cannot justify maintaining parallel routes, but noted that it was looking at improving the structure only because it was a recreational route that handled large volumes of traffic during week-ends.

Because of energy shortages, he emphasized the point that free-ways were no longer being built indiscriminately.

ager felt that the school should have its engineer investigate a pressurized water storage system. He estimated the cost would be in the neighborhood of $4,000.

As is the case with Tawas City's purchase of water from East Tawas, no provisions can be made between the city and school to guarantee a certain amount of gallons or water pressure.

He felt that some of the problem would be alleviated with the new system for the Tawas and Baldwin Township, but he is unable to determine what effect those changes would have on the end of the line at the junior and senior high school.

Bublitz believed that an alternative water storage proposal should be considered at the school due to the possibility of future expansion of the junior and senior high school. He said that the Tawas City Elementary Unit's water supply was adequate.

Former Resident Died Monday at Killbuck, Ohio

A former Tawas City resident, Frank W. Frantz of Killbuck, Ohio, passed away suddenly Monday, May 23, at Pomerene Memorial Hospital. He and his wife, the former Frieda Lempke, resided here following his retirement as a ship fitter at Detroit.

He was born December 17, 1907, in Niagara Falls, Ontario, Canada. Funeral services will be held at the Berlin, Ohio, Mennonite Church with burial in the Berlin Cemetery. Elliot-Hartline Funeral Home, Millersburg, Ohio, is handling arrangements.

Besides his wife, he is survived by two sons, David W., Allen Park, and Donald F., Rogers, Arkansas; two daughters, Mrs. Aden (Dianne) Wengerd, Walnut Creek, Ohio, and Mrs. David (Susan) Westerdale, Monroe; 12 grandchildren; one great grandchild, and two half brothers, Alvin and Charles Frantz, Wisconsin.

THE MODERN SWEEP has dispensed with sending small boys down chimneys to perform the dirty task. Instead, Hemsall uses a wire brush with flexible handle to accomplish the chore.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Amazing Transformation at

Tawas River Trailer Park

An amazing transformation has taken place during the past two months at Tawas River Trailer Park under the guidance of its new owners, Edward Brenner and Robert Buffmyer, who purchased the business February 1.

"It has been a real pleasure to hear the many fine comments from local businessmen and residents concerning our improvements," stated Buffmyer. "We believe that our efforts will help to make the Tawas a finer place to live and visit."

"We extend a cordial welcome to everyone to come in and see what has been done," stated Brenner.

Although not much work was accomplished during February and March due to the cold weather, the past two months have been busy ones for the new owners.

Included in the general beautification of the park has been the elimination of many older trailer units, tree trimming, sodding and new regulations requiring residents to maintain property.

The trailer park, which has 85 permanent lots, has 100 newly developed overnight camp sites, a new canoe rental service, new boat launching ramp, a new 24 by 48-foot office building and game room, an improved commercial laundramat, 30 new picnic tables, playground equipment and charcoal grills.

Brenner said he was particularly proud of the new game room which is open to the public, as are other facilities listed above. The game room includes pinball machines, a pool table, juke box and a pay telephone. Ice machine and soft drink machines are located nearby.

The trailer park is located on 10 developed acres and 15 all new 12 by 50-foot and 12 by 60-foot rental units were recently installed. Permanent mobile lots are available from time to time, but trailer storage has been eliminated.

Brenner said he was not through yet with his brushing project as an additional six acres lying along the south side of Nunn Road are to be developed.

The trailer park has 1,300 feet of river frontage, which has been cleared and improved, as well as two canals, one 65 by 500 feet and the other measuring 50 by 400 feet. Improvements have been made to public restrooms and all lots have been numbered for easier location of residents by visitors.

"The Tawas River is a major asset to this area and we intend to continue our improvements along the river banks," said Buffmyer.

"Fishing was great during the past winter and spring as more than 300 pike and trout were caught on tipups through the ice. Perch and trout fishing has continued to provide plenty of action during the past few weeks."

Installation of new signs on I-75 and on US-23 at Standish help to advertise the business as well as the Tawas.

Brenner has been a resident of Tawas City for the past 10 years. Owner and operator of Great (See PARK, page 6.)

NO ONE can say for certain just where and when the idea of Memorial Day originated, but it is plain that the observance originated with the loss of 700,000 men of the Blue and Gray during the Civil War, coupled with the death of President Lincoln at the close of the war.

Among those communities claiming to be the first to observe Memorial Day are: Warrentown, Virginia, where a memorial service was held over the grave of a Confederate hero on June 1, 1861; Charleston, South Carolina, where a memorial service was held on May 1, 1865; Columbus, Georgia, where women of that city decorated graves in the spring of 1865; Waterloo, New York, where Union veterans decorated graves at the cemetery on May 22, 1866.

Although it is impossible to definitely establish an exact priority in the origination of this day, it is possible to trace a succession of events which led to the observance of what may be called the "first" Memorial Day as it is now celebrated.

In April 1866, the women of Columbus, Mississippi, held memorial services in the cemetery of that town and decorated not only the graves of the Confederate war dead, but also those of some Union soldiers buried there.

The following year an item appeared in a New York newspaper stating that the women of Columbus had shown their impartiality "by strewing flowers alike on the graves of the Confederate and of the National soldiers." Among those who read the item was a young lawyer of Ithaca, New York, Francis Miles Finch, who was inspired to write the seven verse poem, "The Blue and the Gray." The poem achieved instant popularity and was reprinted in newspapers throughout the country.

Meanwhile, on April 6, 1866, there had been organized at Decatur, Illinois, a group of Union veterans, who took the name of the Grand Army of the Republic. Within a short time, thousands of men who had worn the blue were members of the GAR.

In 1868, the national commander of the GAR was Gen. John A. Logan of Illinois, a member of congress. His wife had been included in a group of dignitaries from Washington, D. C., which had toured the battlefields around Richmond, Virginia. In spite of the desolation of the region, they noticed the numberless Confederate graves, many of which were still decorated with flowers and bunting from the previous spring.

Returning to the nation's capital, the group told Logan of what they had seen and he immediately set out writing an order for GAR posts throughout the country. Receiving unanimous agreement from his national staff, General Logan issued his now famous General Order No. 11.

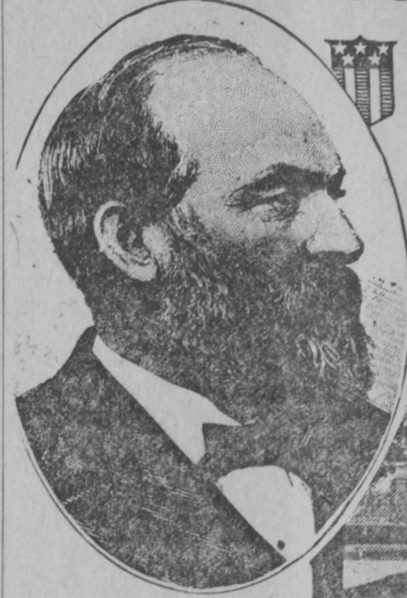

In part, that order designated May 30, 1868, for the purpose of "strewing with flowers or otherwise decorating, the graves of comrades who died in the defense of their country during the late rebellion and whose bodies now lie in almost every city, village, hamlet and churchyard in the land."

The order specified no form of ceremony, "but posts and comrades will, in their own way, arrange such fitting services and testimonials of respect, as circumstances may permit."

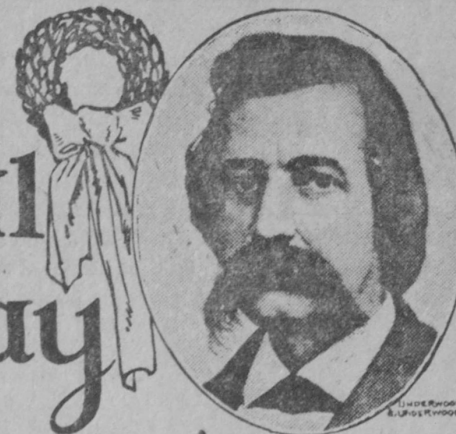

As a result of the order, formal exercises were held at Arlington, Virginia, later the site of the national cemetery, on May 30, 1868. The principal ceremony was the decoration with flags and flowers of the monument to the "Unknown Dead," a memorial that had been erected to the memory of 2,111 unidentified dead found on two battlefields.

The principal address was delivered by James A. Garfield, who was elected president of the United States 12 years later. As yet, the terms of Memorial Day, or Decoration Day, had not been linked with the observance of the national cemetery, but the idea spread rapidly. It was recorded on May 29, 1875, that "the national floral decoration of graves of our dead soldiers has become a national custom."

UNION VETERANS of the Civil War organized the G. K. Warren Post of the Grand Army of the Republic at East Tawas during the early 1880s. For years, the GAR "old soldiers" held Memorial Day rites at Veterans' Cemetery and veterans of succeeding wars have carried on the tradition.

This national observance had much to do with healing the wounds of the war and to unite to honor the nation's dead. The North and South were forgetting the bitterness of only a few short years before.

Here in Iosco County, Memorial Day was not observed until about 10 years after General Logan's order. The first recorded mention of the day was these brief words in the Iosco County Gazette in May 1882: "Decoration Day next Monday."

Union veterans of the Civil War, then residing in Iosco County, were to form a GAR post at East Tawas in the early 1880s. On June 1, 1882, the following item appeared in the local newspaper:

"We are requested to ask those who know of any graves of deceased soldiers in either Tawas or Baldwin Townships, who served in any war, to give such information to either L. B. Smith, Tawas City, or H. O. Nightingale, C. W. Gabrielle or Hugh McDonald, East Tawas."

The following week, the newspaper stated that "in every portion of the country, unusual preparations were made for the observance of Decoration Day." Particular tribute was paid to President Garfield, who had died at the hand of an assassin.

"As there are no graves of the soldier dead in this vicinity, the customary decoration with flowers could not be engaged in," stated the local newspaper's account of Decoration Day. "Flags about town were displayed at half-mast during the day and appropriate commemorative exercises were held at the Congregational Church in the evening under the auspices of Alger Post, GAR."

The Alger GAR Post had been organized at AuSable in the late 1870s and G. K. Warren Post No. 63, East Tawas, was organized on June 17, 1882, with Lyman B. Smith of Tawas City as commander. A lumberman and former sheriff of this county, Smith had served with the First Minnesota Mounted Rangers and later as a captain in the Second Minnesota Cavalry.

Each Memorial Day was set aside in sacred remembrance by members of the G. K. Warren

Post, who assembled at their hall on Newman Street to form in line and march two miles through ankle-deep dust to Veterans' Cemetery, a burial plot east of Greenwood Cemetery expressly dedicated to veterans.

For years, the "old soldiers" laid a wreath of flowers on the grave of every departed comrade, a local minister would deliver a brief patriotic address, school children would recite Lincoln's Gettysburg Address or some other patriotic poem and the post bugler would sound "Taps."

Members of the Women's Relief Corps, the auxiliary of the GAR, would serve dinner to the veterans on their return from the cemetery. The afternoon was spent in reminiscing and fighting again the crucial battles of the War of the Rebellion.

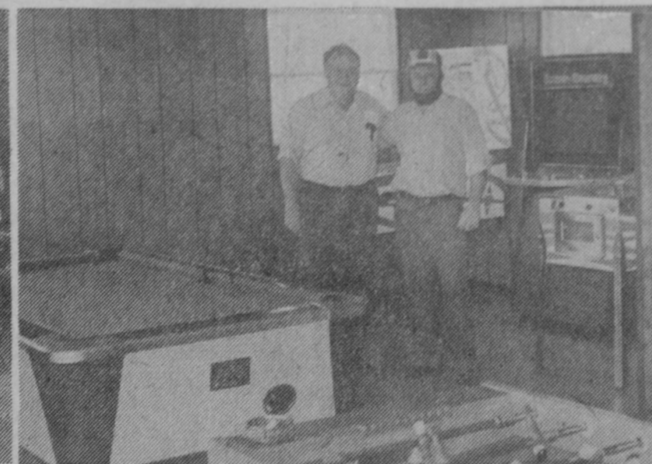

As the years progressed, new veterans from the Spanish American War were in the firing squad on Memorial Day, standing alongside the aging and rapidly depleting ranks of Civil War veterans. In 1920, younger veterans of the Great War (World War I) had organized Audie Johnson and Jesse C. Hodder American Legion Posts at East Tawas and Tawas City and had charge of the annual rites, which have remained practically (See Memorial Day, page 2.)

DONALD GRIFFIN

Election Scheduled to Pick Successor for Donald Griffin

Resignation of Donald Griffin, Oscoda, District Two representative on the Iosco County Board of Commissioners, was accepted Wednesday "with regrets" by the three remaining members of the commission.

Griffin, who submitted his resignation two weeks ago for personal reasons, said the position was occupying too much of his time and found it necessary to resign in order to spend more time with his family.

A member of the commission since his appointment in 1974 to fill a vacancy and later election to office, Griffin has been a workhorse on the commission. He had served two years as finance chairman, helped to coordinate the original CETA activities, was the county's representative on the augmented board and a leader in the fight to keep this county from being involved in the AuGres River drainage district.

At its regular session last Wednesday, the commission established July 5 for a primary election and August 9 for a special election to name a successor for Griffin. If not more than one candidate from either political party files nominating petitions prior to the June 1 deadline, the primary election would not be necessary.

The workload on individual commissioners has increased tremendously since the death of Com. William Wereley in March. A primary election was held Tuesday of this week to pick candidates for a special election to be held June 28 to fill Wereley's vacancy.

The resignation of Griffin leaves only Carlton Merschel, Joseph Fox and Jack Allen on the five-man board which took the oath of office last December. The heavier-than-normal workload for the commissioners will continue until Griffin's successor takes over in two months.

In addition, a certain amount of time is usually required for new members to learn duties of the county commissioner position.

Get Information Together First to Apply for SSI

People who plan to apply for supplemental security income payments (SSI) can save time by first getting together some information about themselves, according to social security officials here.

The SSI program makes monthly payments to people with little or no income and limited resources who are 65 or over or blind or disabled. People can get information about applying for the payments by calling or writing any social security office.

"When applying," a spokesman said, "it's a good idea to have with you as many of the following as possible: a checkbook, if you have one, to show how much you have in the bank, any savings account books, stocks and bonds, life insurance policies, automobile registration cards, last year's income tax return, W-2 forms, and evidence of all other income."

It may save time, too, according to the spokesman, if people applying for SSI payments know how much cash they have on hand and know the value of their car, if they own one.

"You should also have your social security card," he said. "Disabled or blind students 18 to 22 should have a school identification card, tuition receipts, or similar evidence of school attendance."

The supplemental security income program is administered by the Social Security Administration, an agency of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

People can get information about applying for SSI payments by calling or writing any social security office.

questions and answers

Q. I earned $2,500 before reaching 72 last May and $6,300 the rest of the year. I heard that for social security, the money I earned after 72 doesn't count against me. Since I earned under the 1976 yearly limit of $2,760 before reaching 72, do I need to file an annual report of earnings?

A. Yes. Since you were under 72 during part of 1976 and your total earnings for the year were over $2,760, you must complete the report and send it to social security by April 15. Do not report earnings for the month you reached 72 or later. When you send in your report, we'll check to make sure you got all the benefits due for the year. If you have questions or need an annual report form, call or write any social security office.

Q. A young woman who's blind has been living with her mother in our neighborhood, but the mother died recently and the daughter is desperately in need of money. Can SSI help her?

A. Supplemental security income (SSI) makes monthly payments to people with little or no income and limited resources who are blind or disabled or 65 or over. The blind woman in your neighborhood may be eligible for monthly SSI payments. She should contact any social security office for information about applying for SSI payments, or you can get the information for her.

unchanged over the years. American Legion posts were organized at Oscoda and Hale, where similar Memorial Day programs are performed annually.

A number of Civil War veterans were buried in the Tawas City Cemetery, some without headstones to mark their last resting place, and one of the last remaining veterans of that war pointed out those graves to a younger World War I veteran in order that the tradition of marking each grave with a wreath and small American flag could be continued.

The World War I veteran, who walked through the cemetery with the "old soldier" is now gone but, before his death, he passed the information on to a World War II veteran. The latter is now dead, but he carried on the sacred tradition before his passing.

Today, the ranks of World War I veterans are rapidly depleting, but veterans of World War II, the Korean War and Vietnam—with Veterans of Foreign Wars and Disabled American Veterans posts assisting American Legion Posts—are carrying on the annual tradition of remembering comrades in arms dating back to General Logan's famous General Order No. 11.

In its "wisdom" of recent years, congress saw fit to change the date for the annual observance of Memorial Day, much to the disapproval of veterans' organizations, which believed that the day was originally intended to be sacred to the memory of departed veterans and not necessarily a national holiday for "fun and games."

Despite congressional action, numerous veterans' organizations across the land have continued to hold services on May 30—the traditional Memorial Day—and, this year, the national holiday coincides with the date set for the observance nearly 100 years ago.

On Monday, May 30, the spring blossoming lilacs, the patriotic addresses, the call of the dead and the sounding of "Taps," echoing through cemeteries across the land, will again bring lumps to the throats of those "who remember."

Petitions Due June 14 for City Officer Positions

Deadline for filing nominating petitions for four vacancies in city offices is Tuesday, June 14, 4:00 p. m., according to a reminder this week by Rachel Sue McCready, city clerk of Tawas City.

Three four-year vacancies on the city council, along with the two-year term of mayor, are to be filled in August. Under terms of the city charter, there are no political designations in this non-partisan election.

Since elimination of wards under the city charter, councilmen are elected to represent the city at large.

Four-year terms of William L. Groff, William Ezo and James Lansky are to expire at the end of the year. The two-year term of Mayor Herbert Cholger is to expire at the same time. Only Councilman Ezo has definitely stated that he was not going to file for re-election.

A person desiring to become a candidate need only obtain the signatures of 10 registered electors and return the petitions to the city clerk by June 14.

The city charter requires that a candidate must have resided in the city for one year, be a registered elector and cannot be in default to the city. If an appointive officer of the city, the candidate must resign from that office if elected to a new position.

DAVID A. EMERSON of Niles is one of 64 new Michigan State Police officers and has been assigned to the East Tawas post. Graduation exercises for the 90th recruit school were held May 18 at the department's training academy, Lansing.

Tent Caterpillars Are Everywhere!

It is not your imagination—tent caterpillars are everywhere this year. But it is no cause for alarm. "The damage that they have done by feeding on the foliage of trees will generally not harm the trees," says Keith Kennedy, extension entomologist at Michigan State University. "There is plenty of time for the trees to put out new leaves and go about the business of storing up food for the winter."

Although tent caterpillars will feed on a wide variety of shade and fruit trees, their favorite hosts are wild cherry and apple. The female moths lay their eggs on these species in late July and early August. The caterpillars typically hatch in mid-April, spin their distinctive tents in the crotches of the host tree and crawl out to feed on the emerging leaves. If the caterpillars are out before the leaves, they will feed on the leaf buds.

The early warm temperatures this spring brought out the caterpillars earlier than usual, Kennedy observed. Without a cloak of foliage to conceal them, their tents have been highly visible and concerned homeowners have deluged foresters, entomologists and the Iosco County Extension agent with calls and requests for help and advice.

"Because their favorite food trees are not of much economic value, tent caterpillars are not usually considered much of a problem," Kennedy says. "They will get into valuable trees, however, if they deplete their original food supply. There is no point in getting excited about the tents you see in trees along a country road, but one might want to take control measures if tents appear in backyard fruit plantings or valuable ornamentals."

If the tents can be reached from the ground, prune them out and destroy the worms by hand. If tents are too numerous, too high to reach or in places that cannot be pruned out, a spray may be used.

The safest material for controlling these and other caterpillars is Bacillus thuringiensis, a bacterial disease that affects only the worms. Although it does not kill them at once, it does stop their feeding within a few hours. It is not toxic to humans, pets or other insects (except other caterpillars).

The chemical insecticides Sevin, Diazinon and malathion may also be used against tent caterpillars. These are poisons, Kennedy points out, and should be handled with care and always according to label directions. Sevin is toxic to bees.

CP Cites New Kite Danger

A utility company official today issued a warning about a new type of kite being sold in Michigan which would be dangerous if it comes in contact with electric lines.

J. E. Wessels, manager for Consumers Power Company, said that the fabric of the kite is a metallic plastic which is a good conductor of electricity. It could possibly shock and injure the person flying it if the kite touches a power line. Wessels said the company became aware of the problem after such a kite knocked a 12,400 volt line out of service Wednesday.

"Fortunately, the youngster flying the kite was not hurt, although he was frightened," Wessels stated.

The kite carries the brand name, Silver Fighter, according to Consumers Power officials. It has a shiny, metallic-coated surface and plastic struts. It is sold in at least one state-wide retail chain.

Wessels said the management of the chain has been notified and has expressed its concern about the possible danger.

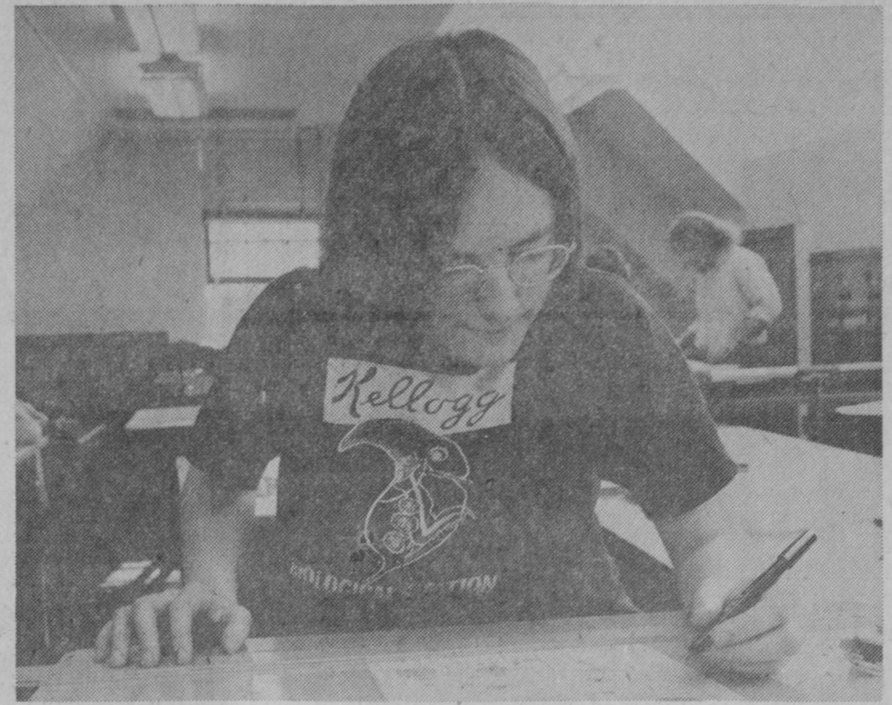

Wessels suggested that parents check their children's kites to determine if any parts are made of metal. He added that kite string should also be examined to make sure it contains no metal.

Funeral Held for Marjorie Woods

Funeral services for Marjorie Mae Woods of East Tawas were held Friday afternoon, May 20, from the Assembly of God Church in East Tawas with the Rev. Edward Fairbanks officiating. Burial was in Greenwood Cemetery, East Tawas.

Mrs. Woods was born June 15, 1911, and died Tuesday, May 17, at St. Luke's Hospital, Saginaw.

Survivors include her husband, Edwin; one son, Ralph, Tawas City, and one sister, Helen Johnson, East Tawas.

PATRICIA McKay of East Tawas, a senior at Michigan State University, has completed a course in cartography to gain background for employment in ecology. She is a zoology major.

Takes Course in Cartography at Michigan State University

"If your friends are always telling you that you do not know where it is, you might want to seek advice from Patricia McKay of East Tawas. She knows where it is, after taking a course last term in a unique cartography field at Michigan State University," reports Mary Wreford of the university's department of information services.

The new field of specialization, offered by the geography department, allows students interested in mapmaking to pursue that study at an advanced level. Jack Williams, professor of geography, said students from all branches of the social and natural sciences are enrolling in the nine courses in mapmaking currently offered at MSU.

Miss McKay, daughter of L. G. McKay Jr., East Tawas, is a 1972 graduate of Tawas Area High School. A senior majoring in zoology, she is studying cartography to gain background for employment in ecology.

In the introductory class, students learn the elementary theory and skills behind mapmaking. One of the advanced classes, taught last term by Williams, requires that students construct a map from scratch. Complete map reproduction facilities are available.

"The exercises in class are similar to the type of work a professional cartographer might be called upon to do," Williams said. "Students gather initial data and do final reproductions of their maps by photographic or other means."

Williams added that cartographers are employed in many industries. The department assists students with job placement. "Since 1975," Williams said, "all our graduates have been placed."

Oscoda Industries Received Accident Prevention Citations

The Phoenix Division and the Welded Products Division of Hedblom Industries at Oscoda have both received commendations from the Michigan Department of Labor for reducing accidents.

The Phoenix Division employs 41 people and manufactures auto parts. Operations on both shifts include stamping and bending.

The plant is now being rebuilt in stages after a fire destroyed it in 1971. Before the fire, 140 people were employed.

Safety committee members include five employees, Gene Winter, plant manager, and Joseph Gozdar, plant supervisor.

"The safety committee meets informally every day," according to Winters. "Quality control inspectors also make safety inspections every day."

The safety committee also works closely with the employees in maintenance and setup. Safety glasses are required plant wide.

Winter noted that the company doctor gives all employees a pre-employment physical and hearing test.

In 1975, the division had one lost time accident and, in 1976, there were none. There were 70 lost time days in 1975, none in 1976. Doctor cases totaled six in 1975 and seven in 1976.

The Welded Products Division employs 65 people and also manufactures auto parts.

Herbert Nedo, plant manager, said low employee turnover helps reduce accidents at the plant.

During 1975, there were nine lost time accidents; in 1976, there were four. There were 213 lost time days in 1975 and 59 in 1976. In 1975, there were nine doctor cases and in 1976 there were four.

Edward Kotnik, an occupational safety consultant for the Michigan Department of Labor's Safety Education and Training Division, has conducted safety training for employees of both divisions.

...when price is the difference.

Compare these three quality, brand name 8 HP lawn tractors. Wheel Horse, John Deere, and International Harvester. Each is known for its performance and dependability.

Now compare prices. An independent shopping survey taken in January, 1977, among dealers in over 25 major U.S. cities specifically showed, the average of the actual quoted prices for the John Deere 100 was $1364; the International Harvester Model 81 was $1286; and Wheel Horse A-90 was $1068.

In some instances, I.H. and J.D.'s average actual quoted prices were comparable or lower than Wheel Horse.

Prices do not include local taxes. Some prices were higher, some lower. Check your local Wheel Horse Sales Inc. dealer for his prices. Consistently, Wheel Horse delivers price, performance and dependability that are hard to beat.

Why pay more when you can own a Wheel Horse!

Insulator Damage Causes Concern

A Consumers Power Company official today expressed concern about recent incidents of gunshot damage to electric lines in North-eastern Iosco County.

During the past two weeks, police have investigated damage to insulators on electrical power poles in Oscoda Township. In the first instance, several Alcona County communities were without power until the damaged insulators were located and replaced.

"We are very concerned that if these incidents continue, someone could get hurt," said John E. Wessels, district manager for Consumers Power in Tawas. "Even worse," he added, "some innocent party could be harmed by losing his electric service as a result of someone damaging a power line."

The two most recent incidents occurred on a 138,000-volt transmission line which runs from Alpena to Oscoda. On April 28, a string of insulators were damaged by gunshots, knocking the line out of service. Some 1,600 customers were without electric power as a result of the incident.

On May 9, another string of insulators was found damaged by gunfire, although the transmission line continued in operation.

Aside from the inconvenience caused by service interruptions, according to Wessels, a number of public health and safety agencies such as police and fire departments, along with hospitals, could lose electric power and could be prevented from reacting to a public emergency.

Consumers Power Company wants to stop the intentional shooting of insulators and electric transmission lines. The company offers a standing reward of up to $500 for information leading to the arrest and conviction or apprehension and restitution of persons responsible for these destructive acts.
