'Joe' Still Giving

Scholarship Trust Established in Will

A trust fund established by a man who did not have a high school education will soon benefit worthy young people of the Tawas area in providing financial assistance to continue their formal education.

The late Joseph Barkman of East Tawas, long time businessman, was known during his lifetime for his humanitarian contributions to this community. He continues to give of himself even though he died two years ago this month.

Included in his last will and testament was a provision for establishing the Joseph Barkman Scholarship Fund, to be financed by the residue of his estate. More than $70,000 remains in a trust fund administered by a scholarship committee.

Members of that committee include John Lippert, president of Peoples State Bank; James Sloan, Iosco Department of Social Services; Thomas Pintkowski, guidance counselor at Tawas Area High School; Harris Barkman, brother of the deceased.

Appearing before Monday night's meeting of Tawas Area Board of Education, Pintkowski explained guidelines which have been established for the scholarship fund. He said that young people interested in a scholarship must make application before February 1. Scholarships are to be awarded on need, ability and citizenship of the student. If the successful applicant receives a scholarship from other sources, the Barkman scholarship would be withdrawn and the money would go to another student's education.

Pintkowski emphasized that money from the scholarship would be paid directly to the college and would not go to the student. The scholarship would be for one year only and a student would be required to reapply in order to continue receiving financial assistance. Academic standing of the student would also be checked to see if he is qualified to continue receiving the scholarship.

Harris Barkman told the board of education that the scholarship would be an outright grant and not a loan. A student interested in vocational training—plumbing, air conditioning, barber, etc.—would also be eligible for a scholarship, as would children without parents and foster children.

Pintkowski estimated that interest from the trust fund would provide approximately $6,000 annually for the scholarship program. A needs analysis based on a family financial statement would determine the amount of assistance to the student, along with his academic potential and citizenship.

The guidance counselor said that he had announced the program to all seniors and that application forms would be available in December.

During his lifetime, Joseph Barkman was known in the Tawas area for always being first to contribute to worthy causes. He also made financial contributions to individuals which were never publicized and, before his death, he was honored as Tawas' man of the year. In addition to establishment of the scholarship fund, his last will and testament disposed of his entire estate to worthy causes. He contributed his collection of historical artifacts to the Iosco County Historical Society, along with a contribution of $10,000.

In a resolution adopted at the meeting, the board of education recognized "the human contribution of the late Joseph Barkman" and, on behalf of the school district, community and future recipients of the fund, extended gratitude to the Barkman family.

Detroit and Mackinac Has New Vice President-Finance

Roger Moffatt, former vice president of finance for the Anslu Corporation, fire extinguisher manufacturer, Tuesday assumed the newly-created position of vice president-finance for the Detroit and Mackinac Railway Company with general offices in Tawas City.

He will also have direct responsibility for not only the D&M and its divisions, but all affiliated companies. "Mr. Moffatt has had wide experience in the financial field and will be able to give this company, along with the affiliated companies, much needed direction in all financial and accounting subjects," stated Charles A. Pinkerton Jr., chairman of the D&M's board of directors.

"We are very glad to have him here and we screened many people during our six-month search to fill this much-needed position," said the board chairman.

Originally a resident of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, Moffatt served 8½ years with the Anslu Corporation at Marinette. He graduated from Marquette University in 1959 with a bachelor of science degree in business administration.

Moffatt said Tuesday morning that this was his first experience with a railroad. Although more of a coincidence than a planned career path, his family has a long association with railroads, his father having been a railroad brakeman most of his life.

Moffatt and his wife, Janice, are parents of five sons ranging in age from 13 to 21 years. They are residing at 1236 Tawas Beach Road.

Future Planning Urged for County Building Expansion

A recommendation by representatives of the Tawas City Businessmen's Association to expand the county building site for future needs is being taken under advisement by the Iosco County Board of Commissioners.

Appearing before last week's meeting of the commission were John N. Brugger, Hugo J. Keiser and Carl B. Babcock.

Noting recent discussion concerning plans for expanding county building facilities, the businessmen pointed out that the city had hired the services of a professional planner a number of years ago and a master plan for future development had been adopted by the city council.

Included in that plan was future utilization of property west of the county jail for county purposes.

The opinion was expressed by the businessmen that property presently owned by George A. Prescott and Mrs. Mary Bergeron should be purchased by the county for future utilization. The City of Tawas City had discussed purchasing this property in past years for parking purposes and for construction of an office building.

Because of county growth, the businessmen emphasized that expansion of office space at the county building would provide only temporary relief and that long range planning was needed. It was recommended that a professional planner be hired by the county for this purpose.

Carlton Merschel, commission chairman, said that participation by the city council and planning commission would be more than welcome in discussions. He said that proposed additions to the county building would satisfy only immediate needs.

Merschel said the commission would have to develop priorities for expending federal revenue sharing funds. He said that items included in the priorities should include approximately $68,000 for improvement to F-41, airport expansion, county building expansion, to name only three projects.

Hunters Got Wet During Opening Day Drizzle

Opening day of deer hunting season Tuesday saw crisp weather in the early morning hours, but a drizzle which began shortly after 10 o'clock lasted most of the remainder of the day.

First local hunter to report success was Randy Erickson, who bagged a nice four-point buck in Alabaster Township. Donald Watson of Sunset Motel, Tawas City, made short work of the season by shooting a four-pointer shortly before 8 o'clock in Tawas Township.

The largest deer brought to the Herald office on opening day was a nine-pointer shot by Lyle Groff. He shot the 174-pound buck south of Tawline Road.

Iosco County Sheriff's Department officers were busy late Tuesday afternoon investigating the deaths of two hunters, both apparently being heart attack victims. One victim was Ernest Peck of Lorenz Road. The other was William Verkinnes of Flint.

All schools of the county were closed Tuesday for the first day of hunting. A number of local manufacturing plants were operating shorthanded due to the hunting season.

Sheriff's Dept. Lists Weekly Complaints

Four larcenies and three vandalism complaints were investigated last week by Iosco County Sheriff's Department.

Larcenies were reported by Arthur Wade, Little Long Lake, theft of a dog house; Stevens RV Sales, Tawas City, outboard motor stolen from boat; Eugene M. Wegner, First Street, Tawas City, battery stolen from vehicle; Nelson Ulman, 238 West River Road, battery charger, three tires and a rim stolen from garage; Brenda K. Binder, Tawas City, jacket stolen from locker room at Iosco Medical Care Facility.

Vandalism complaints were reported by Ronald J. Greene Sr., Grabow Road, two head of cattle killed by gunfire; Waldemar W. Bischoff, Miller Road, bullet hole in front window; Bert Karry, 5765 M-55, piece of firewood thrown through window.

Opening Day Success

VETERAN HUNTER Lyle Groff bagged this nine-point buck Tuesday morning on his property south of Tawline Road. The buck weighed 174 pounds and Groff said it was the largest he had ever shot. It was his second buck of the season, legal this year under a new regulation. Groff bagged a six-pointer during the archery season.—Tawas Herald Photo.

FIRST PERSON to report in with a buck at The Tawas Herald office Tuesday morning was Randy Erickson, 18, who shot this buck at 7:30 o'clock at the Shorthorn Club in Alabaster Township. Randy has been hunting for the past four years.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Reading Program Outlined by TA Principal - Teachers

Parents of elementary - aged school children will soon be receiving a comprehensive report on the reading program at Tawas Area School. The report was included in a presentation Monday night by Prin. Herman Rollin and four members of the reading department.

The report included information on school responsibility, parental responsibility, the type of program utilized and testing for results.

"Schools can do only so much," said Rollin. "One of the major problems facing schools is the time available for students to practice the skills they are taught. If a student only uses the skills of reading, while in school, there is no guarantee that the student will become a proficient reader. To learn to read well, a student must have a total commitment from the school, peers, society and home. Practice at home is the main ingredient outside school."

He said that parental involvement includes reading stories to children, discussing picture books, talking and conversing with the child, making trips and visitations that will enhance the interests of the child, supplying the child with a reservoir of manipulative items to promote small muscle coordination, giving the child a chance to experiment with various art media, stressing the importance of learning, giving the child some responsibilities, as well as to name, classify and recognize things in each child's environment.

Reading readiness, he said, is a very individual age for each child. Most children have reached this by the time they are six years old. Others will take much longer. Teachers and parents must understand these individual differences.

"It is the responsibility of both the parents and teachers to use every possible means to encourage the development of this readiness," said Rollin. "Providing an environment which brings educational experiences and exposure to books and materials which encourage the intellectual development of the child is most important."

"The most valuable asset that a child can possess is parents who are willing to give time to listen to the child read, time to share experiences and love and security in the home."

"Teachers and parents working together to develop the individual child are the best tools that a child can have to make reading a pleasure. The attitude of parents toward education in general is important; this is a part of the child's attitude. Also, how much reading the parents themselves do is observed and copied by the child. Reading to the child and showing an interest in the child's school work and projects gives them encouragement."

One basic responsibility is that of helping the child value books and reading. Research has shown that parents who read to their child and provide many books and magazines, or make use of the public library, help the child develop an interest in and love for reading.

A second major responsibility is to show interest in the child's reading. Reading is considered to be a task that all children should achieve. As with other basic tasks, children want parents and other significant people to notice their achievements.

"Look at your child's school papers when they are brought home. Show interest in your child by practicing some of the new reading (See READING, page 5.)

ASSUMING the newly-created position of vice president-finance of the Detroit and Mackinac Railway Company yesterday was Roger Moffatt, formerly of Marinette, Wisconsin. He and his family reside at East Tawas.—Tawas Herald Photo.

New Ideas for THANKSGIVING TRADITIONS!

Tradition dictates the Thanksgiving menu: basted turkey, bursting with dressing; warm from the oven homemade rolls; and your favorite pumpkin pie. After a number of years of this, however, the creative cook is ready for something a little different. Adding a few subtle flavor changes, these Thanksgiving traditions can do the trick.
 Sage 'N Sausage Corn Bread Dressing is the "stuffing" to try this year. It bakes in a casserole to speed up roasting time for an unstuffed turkey. The special grain taste of this recipe is due to the corn bread, made the traditional way with enriched corn meal. Poultry seasoning and sage further enhanced the corn bread, sausage and vegetable flavor combination. Topped with your traditional giblet gravy, this dressing recipe is one to cherish year after year.

SAGE 'N SAUSAGE CORN BREAD DRESSING
 One pan corn bread, cooled, crumbled*
 6 cups dry bread cubes
 1 lb. bulk pork sausage, cooked, crumbled, drained
 1 cup chopped celery
 1 cup chopped onion
 2 teaspoons sage
 3/4 teaspoon salt
 1/8 teaspoon pepper
 1-1/2 cups chicken broth
 2 eggs, beaten
 1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted
 Combine corn bread, bread cubes, sausage, celery, onion, sage, salt and pepper. Stir in remaining ingredients; toss lightly. Place in 3-qt. casserole; cover. Bake in preheated slow oven (325°F.) about 1 hour. Makes 2-1/2 qt. of dressing.

For those homemade rolls everyone will expect you to serve, put your creativity to work on Sesame Seed Rolls. This yeast roll recipe is especially suited to a busy kitchen — only one-30 minute rising is needed. Quick or old fashioned oats provide a hearty texture and wholesome grain flavor. Topped with sesame seed, they're a perfect pick up to the traditional Thanksgiving menu.

CORN BREAD
 1 cup milk
 1 egg
 1/4 cup vegetable oil
 1 cup enriched corn meal
 1 cup all-purpose flour
 1 tablespoon baking powder
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 Add milk, egg and oil to combined dry ingredients. Beat until smooth, about 1 minute. Bake in greased 8-inch square baking pan in preheated hot oven (425°F.) 20 to 25 minutes. Makes 8-inch square pan of corn bread.

SESAME SEED BATTER ROLLS
 1 cup milk
 1/2 cup water
 2 tablespoons vegetable shortening
 3-1/4 cups all-purpose flour
 2 tablespoons sugar
 1 pkg. active dry yeast
 2 teaspoons salt
 1 cup quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked
 1 egg, separated
 Sesame seed
 Scald combined milk and water in small saucepan; add shortening. Cool to lukewarm. In large bowl, combine 1 cup flour, sugar, yeast and salt. Add milk mixture; beat well. Stir in remaining flour, oats and egg yolk. Fill 18 greased medium-sized muffin cups about 1/2 full. Lightly brush tops with beaten egg white; sprinkle with sesame seed. Cover; let rise in warm place about 30 minutes or until nearly double in size. Bake in preheated hot oven (400°F.) about 12 to 15 minutes or until golden brown. Makes 1-1/2 dozen rolls.

TAKE THIS AD TO DINNER

More than fifty percent of the world is starving. Another twenty percent, just plain hungry. And yet, in the face of starvation, they have hope. Hope that the rains will return to the African Plain. Hope that the Asian rice crop will be bigger this year. Hope that someone, anyone, with anything to offer will come to help them fight the battle for life. Someone in the Peace Corps. They'd like to stand up for themselves, these prisoners of fate, but they're just too weak to stand up. But with the Peace Corps a flame begins to flicker. They've seen other like you before. Seen the changes you can bring. Two thousand wells on the parched earth of Sahel. Seen how their knowledge helped reduce the grain losses. Who are they? They're people pretty much like you. People with commitment and skills who've assessed their lives and decided there must be more than just having a job. They looked into themselves and knew it was time for the talk to end and the work to begin. They're very special people, these people. Totally prepared to give everything they've got. And getting back even more than they give. That's the beauty of the Peace Corps. The work is hard and the pay is lousy, and the progress comes a drop at a time. But the rewards are infinite. Join the Peace Corps and then take a good look in the mirror. You'll never look the same to yourself again.

Brownies Make Craft Kits

As a community service project, Brownie Troop No. 219 with Barbara Sharma and Patricia Shotwell, leaders, in cooperation with Tawas Hospital Auxiliary, are putting together craft kits for children admitted to the hospital.

The craft kits were designed to occupy the children's time with a volunteer, so as to give parents some time during the day to take care of other responsibilities. The kits were presented Friday, November 11, after which the girls were shown a film strip of hospital procedures and were given a tour of some of the areas.

Iosco Historical Society Meets Thursday Night

Iosco County Historical Society will meet at the Iosco County Building Thursday evening, November 17, at 7:30 o'clock. All members and interested persons are invited to attend.

MEMBERS of Brownie Troop No. 219, Tawas area, made an important contribution last week to Tawas Hospital. Shown presenting craft kits for children patients in the hospital are Jennifer Kovac and Lynette Knight. Mary Humpula, RN, who has charge of orientation for first graders at the hospital, accepts the contribution. The craft kits include cutout dolls, games and other items to entertain children during a stay in the hospital. Other members of the troop are shown in the background.—Tawas Herald Photo.

questions and answers

Q. I'm getting social security disability checks and have a chance to work part time. Would my benefits be cut off if I make this attempt at working?

A. Your social security disability benefits would stop if you recover or show you can do substantial work despite your impairment. If you are testing your ability to work and show no significant improvement in your condition, your benefits may continue during a trial period of up to 9 months. Then if it's decided you're able to do substantial work, your benefits will be paid for an adjustment period of 3 more months.

Q. I get both social security and supplemental security income checks and recently rented out a room in my home for $80 a month. How will this affect my benefits?

A. It will not affect your social security payments as only earnings from work can affect them. Rental income may affect your SSI, however. You should report it promptly to social security.

Q. I was going to retire in December at 65 but changed my mind and probably won't retire until I'm 72, if ever. How will this affect my social security later on?

A. If you're eligible for social security benefits, they will be increased 1 percent for each year between 65 and 72 you delay getting checks. But you should apply soon at any social security office to get Medicare starting at 65.

Have a question about social security and its retirement, survivors, disability, or Medicare benefits? See your telephone directory for the phone number and address of the nearest social security office.

Poster Girl Proves There's Hope for Children with Birth Defects
by Arthur J. Saulsbury, M.D.
Vice President for Medical Services
The National Foundation-March of Dimes

The disfiguring disease rickets was finally conquered more than 50 years ago with the discovery that vitamin D brought about striking cures. Under this regimen a child's distorted and softened bones would strengthen and straighten.

But gradually doctors noticed that while the vast majority of children with rickets were cured by this treatment, others weren't. Not until 1937 was it found that some patients needed at least 100 times the normal dosage of vitamin D. Then it was clear this type of rickets was due not to a deficient diet, but to some other problem.

Researchers learned that these children had vitamin D-resistant rickets, an inherited disorder, traced to a defective gene on the X chromosome.

Patients with this birth defect of body chemistry do not retain calcium or phosphates from foods. Because these minerals are necessary for normal bone formation, rickets result.

Denise's fight
Denise Nankivell, 1978 March of Dimes National Poster Child, has vitamin D-resistant rickets. Her father, uncle, and grandmother also have it. When Denise was six months old, her legs started to bow. Tests at The Milton S. Hershey Medical Center in Pennsylvania confirmed vitamin D-resistant rickets.

At age two Denise had surgery to straighten her legs. She wore casts and braces to prevent her legs from bowing. Initially, doctors thought she would need to wear braces through adolescence, but Denise responded to treatment so well that her braces have been removed for a four-month trial period.

Denise takes large doses of phosphate and vitamin D daily. This treatment allows of her children—boys or girls—have a 50-50 chance of receiving the faulty gene.

Problems and outlook
Most children with vitamin D-resistant rickets never grow to normal height for several reasons. Often diagnosis and treatment is started after deformities and growth retardation have become serious, especially for children with no clear family history of the disorder.

Also, it is very difficult to maintain medication in the growing years. If vitamin D overdose occurs, treatment may have to stop and not be reinstated until active rickets reappear so that the benefits of therapy are lost. In severe cases, patients show little benefit from doses of vitamin D high enough to risk kidney damage.

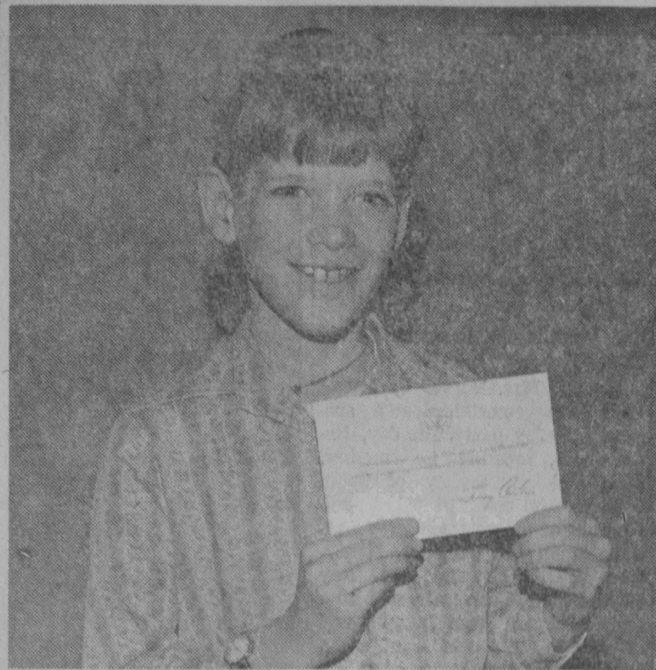

Through its birth defects research program, The National Foundation-March of Dimes supports scientists who are trying to pinpoint the flaw in body chemistry that interferes with the body's absorption of minerals. Their findings may lead to new methods of treatment that will benefit children who cannot yet be helped.

THE SPIDER

During Mark Twain's days as a newspaperman, he was editor of a small Missouri paper. One day he received a letter from a subscriber, stating that he had found a spider in his paper, and asked if this was an omen of good or bad luck.

Twain replied: "Finding a spider in your paper is neither good nor bad luck. The spider was merely looking over our paper to see which merchant was not advertising so that he could go to that store, spin his web across the door, and lead a life of undisturbed peace ever afterward."

THIS WAS THE WAY Iosco County deer hunters transported their kill out of the woods in the early 1900s. This picture postcard was mailed to a Tawas City resident from Oscoda on December 3, 1914. The sender said: "We got home from hunting and had the luck to get one 140-pound deer. That's more than lots of hunters

Energy Survey Authorized by TA School Board

Authorization was given Monday night by Tawas Area Board of Education to retain the services of the architectural firm of Manson, Jackson and Kane to conduct an energy study in the school district's three buildings.

This study, costing approximately $1,500, would provide recommendations to the board of education for saving fuel and lighting costs.

Donald Morgridge of Gaylord, representative of the firm, said he could not guarantee a dollar amount which could be saved by the district in following recommendations, but he said there would be a saving.

The firm is to prepare a written proposal concerning implementation of the first phase of the study.

In other business, the board of education accepted the lone bid of East Tawas Assembly of God Church for the purchase of two 19-69 school buses. The church entered a total bid of $2,420 for the two buses.

E. B. FOLLETTE

FROM LOG CABIN TO STATE CAPITOL

State Representative
from Hale—1912-16

"A real live wire has been prevailed upon by the Republicans of Iosco County to enter the race for the nomination for representative from the Iosco District."

This was the word of The Tawas Herald on June 7, 1912. The "real live wire" candidate 65 years ago was Elwin Berge Follette, supervisor of Plainfield Township and better known as "E. B." to his neighbors.

Follette was the first person in Plainfield Township's history to represent Iosco County in the state legislature. More than a decade later, Fred C. Holbeck, Long Lake farmer, was elected to the state house of representatives from Plainfield.

The Herald, which editorially supported Democrat Woodrow Wilson for president in 1912 as well as the entire Democratic slate for Iosco, endorsed Follette for the legislature.

"He is an active young man, well qualified to represent the district and one who is today carrying on a great deal of work in the development of this section of Michigan," stated the Herald.

Follette had served his township as supervisor in 1911-12, but more importantly to the editor, had demonstrated during the previous three years "that the light lands of Northern Michigan will produce paying crops."

In 1912, rural voters of Michigan held the successful farmer in the highest esteem among those aspiring to political office. The editor made a mental note of the fact that Follette had also demonstrated practical and scientific methods in his farming practices.

It should be noted, too, that a close friend of Follette was an employee of the Herald and would be in a position to influence the editor. P. N. Thornton, who joined the Herald staff in 1911, was a former Hale resident and worked for Follette at one time.

When Follette announced his candidacy, Herald Editor Len J. Patterson visited the Follette farm on the plains north of Hale. "If what we saw there is a sample of what these lands will produce, Follette has certainly solved the question of what to do with them. We believe that a better piece of alfalfa cannot be found anywhere than can be seen here. It covers the ground completely and stands nearly 20 inches high. He also has 55 acres of rye and sand vetch, which are very fine crops," stated the Herald in June 1912.

Vetch was one of the most popular legumes used to build up the fertility of cut-over lands. Vetch was an excellent green fertilizer for the soil and was a good forage crop, especially for sheep. As many as 50,000 sheep were shipped into the Hale area during the early days.

Follette and a neighbor, Claude Salisbury, fostered the idea of planting vetch with rye. The long straight stem of the rye provided support for the climbing vetch and they were able to harvest it with a grain binder.

After threshing the grain, they found the millers would not accept it unless the vetch seed was separated from the rye. The two men developed a workable vetch separator to solve the problem. It was also discovered that the separator was an excellent medium for cleaning huckleberries, which was a big crop in the early days of Iosco County.

With this kind of a practical farm background, it is no wonder that Plainfield's candidate to the state legislature was enthusiastically supported by rural Iosco County voters.

The Herald editor noted that Follette "was a man of progressive ideals in all things, even to politics. He is an active member of the Grange and a man who will represent the people and not the special interests—the Republican Party can make no mistake in nominating him."

One of the key words to remember in what the Herald editor said about Follette, was that he was "progressive." That year of 1912

E. B. FOLLETTE of Plainfield Township represented Iosco County in the state legislature from 1912 until 1916. Actual spelling of his name was Follett, at his children have since added the "e."

Peter J. Hottos, Burleigh Township Democrat, 818-323, for the seat in the state legislature representing Alcona, Arenac, Iosco and Ogemaw Counties. A third candidate, Lansing E. Lincoln of Omer, received 441 votes.

In 1916, Follette was opposed for the Republican nomination in the primary election by Will McGillivray, Oscoda newspaper editor. McGillivray was endorsed by the Republican County convention earlier in the spring.

"Follette was endorsed by the Grange and has made a record while at Lansing that commends him strongly to the voters and the Herald believes that he will be renominated," stated this newspaper on August 18, 1916.

The Herald hedged slightly on endorsing Follette, however, as it had this to say about McGillivray: "If elected to the position to which he aspires, he would undoubtedly make good."

The Iosco County Gazette said that McGillivray's claim to the consideration of the voters is well established. "He has always been found on the firing line of the party when every man was needed. He has never before asked for office and it would seem now is the opportune time to reward faithful service."

Iosco Republicans rewarded McGillivray's faithful service by nominating him as the party's candidate for state representative in the September primary election. The Oscoda editor then defeated J. Edward Betz, Oscoda Democrat, in the November election, 1,089-638.

This ended the four-year reign of E. B. Follette as Iosco's representative in the state legislature. The county was represented at Lansing by a newspaper editor rather than by a farmer.

Follette returned to full time farming in Plainfield Township, served as master of the Grange, chief gleaner, secretary of the Federal Land Bank and president of the Grange Mutual Fire Insurance Company.

The accidental death of the former state legislator on November 14, 1923, was recorded by the Herald. Follette was making a business trip to Munger by automobile and the radius rod slipped down causing his car to swerve over an embankment. Help was at hand in a few seconds, but he was pinned underneath and died instantly.

Funeral services were conducted at Hale Baptist Church and the body was buried in Evergreen Cemetery. Besides his wife, Edna, he was survived by five sons.

Today, the fields of light farm land cultivated so successfully 65 years ago by Follette have returned to their wild state. Only a few old-timers around Hale remember the man who served Iosco in the legislature and who demonstrated that light soil would produce paying crops. His son, Gilbert, is an employee of Hale Hardware.

had one of the most confusing political situations in the history of the country. Theodore Roosevelt, former president, had a falling out with the regular Republican candidate for president, William Howard Taft, the incumbent.

The resulting split between Taft and Roosevelt widened and the latter became a presidential candidate—forming his own "splinter" organization called the Progressive or Bull Moose Party. This split in Republican ranks resulted in a Democratic landslide in November which carried Woodrow Wilson into the presidency.

Michigan gave a majority of 30,000 votes to Roosevelt and, in the process, Roy O. Woodruff of Bay City, a Progressive candidate, defeated George A. Loud of AuSable, the regular Republican candidate for congress.

The Herald noted that the Progressive strength in Iosco was a big surprise in the election and, while drawn largely from the Republicans, "it is very evident that many Democrats also went to this new party."

The Democrats elected Woodbridge N. Ferris as the new governor of Michigan, but Iosco County elected its entire Republican slate of officers. In addition, Follette defeated James A. Hull, Democrat, for the seat in the state legislature, 877-422.

In his campaign for re-election in 1914, Follette pledged his best efforts to support the following legislation:

1. Compel dealers in produce to give the shipper of farm products a square deal;
2. Prevent the sale of worthless securities in the state;
3. Give the state railroad commission authority to compel more rapid transportation of livestock on railroads;
4. Compel the water power companies to pay their just share of taxes;
5. Use of convicts to crush limestone for agricultural and highway purposes;
6. Compel manufacturing companies to sell each part and parcel of their machines at a price that was not to exceed the usual retail price of the assembled machines.

Follette's platform was endorsed by Iosco voters and he won over

TODAY'S Meditation from The World's Most Widely Used Devotional Guide

(Read Proverbs 3:13-23)

"Happy he who has found wisdom, and the man who has acquired understanding." (Proverbs 3:13 NEB)

Many years ago, I began my teaching career in a high school. I listened carefully as the superintendent discussed the various courses of study for the new school year. A new course was to be introduced that year called "Developing Character." A new teacher asked, "Is this a semester course for beginning freshmen?" "Indeed not," replied the superintendent. "We will teach it all four years. You can't build good character in one semester."

Often this thought has come back to me, especially in this push-button age in which we find ourselves. It is important to remember that the factors in our society to which we give our highest value demand time and dedication to be achieved. Olympic medal winners did not learn their skills in 10 easy lessons, nor by pushing some buttons. Years of steady practice and determination to do one's best preceded every medal. Does not our growth as Christian disciples happen in the same way?

PRAYER O God, we thank You for parents who trained us in the way we should go, and for teachers along the way who continued our education in building our character. We pray in the name of our greatest teacher, Jesus Christ. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY Christian maturity is a daily process.—Marie Bale (Redlands, California)

Timothy Sivrais, 21, single and unemployed a couple of months ago, is now receiving training as an apprentice-general preparation vehicle mechanic with the 379th Transport Squadron at Wurtsmith Air Force Base, Oscoda. He acquired the job with the assistance of a CETA funded out-of-school program. The Title I program operated by Region 7B Employment and Training Consortium, is funded under the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA). He began the 25-hour work week program last September and hopes to be able to continue on a full time basis at the air force base after the program comes to an end in March of next year. He is presently paid the minimum wage of $2.30 per hour, which will be increased to $2.65 per hour after January 1. The out-of-school program is one of several employment and training activities offered under Title I,

Howard Haight, Community Relations Manager, East Tawas, reminds you:

There are things you can do to control the cost of your phone bill.

We are constantly searching for ways to help you economize on your phone service, but here are just a few ideas on how you can help yourself: Call when it's least expensive. For example, when you're calling long distance, dial direct and plan your calls for times when the rates are lowest. Budget Service that's really low budget! Look into the availability of Budget Service if you don't make a lot of phone calls every month. It's the least expensive one-or-two party phone service we offer. Plan to have all your service installed in one visit. For instance, if you move, plan carefully so the installer doesn't have to make extra trips, for which you may have to pay additional charges. And while you're planning for new service, make sure it's going to be the kind most suited to your needs. Sometimes, little tips can save you a surprising amount over the long haul. We'll keep trying to help you save.

Student Tells Experiences
in Republic of South Africa

"Hallo daare hulle. Hoe gaan dit? Ek is baie goed dankie!"

This was the way Lois McCready began a letter to The Tawas Herald. Translated from Afrikaans, "Hello there everyone. How goes it? I am very good thank you!"—she is in her senior year of high school at Louis Trichardt, Transvaal, Republic of South Africa.

"I am going to make this a good letter about South Africa, simply because what I have seen since I have been here has been good," writes Lois. "Before I left home, 10 short weeks ago, I did a lot of newspaper reading about South Africa and anyone who reads a paper knows how often it is talked about, but they also know the kind of news you get—all bad! From what I have seen, this is not a bad place at all!"

Since she has been there as an exchange student, Lois has had the opportunity to travel quite a bit and she has been invited to go places for the day. "I do not yet fully understand the people (color: White), and all the apartheid problems, so this first letter will be about my first impressions. Later letters will include more about the school, the homes, the natives, the game reserves, Rhodesia and Durban."

She is residing in a small town, Louis Trichardt, named after one of the most famous "Treklers" or pioneers. The population is roughly 5,000 persons. It is located in Northern Transvaal, about 70 miles south of the Rhodesian border.

"The land appears very dry, although it has rained almost all of the time since I have been here. The plants are very beautiful. Most homes have lovely flower gardens with poinsettia trees and jackaranda trees to name a couple. They are gorgeous; rather romantic in a way. There are palm trees everywhere and many fruit trees (orange, lemon, banana, papaya and avocado-pear) and pine trees, too. I imagine it is very much like Florida.

"My town is located near a mountain, many mountains actually, which was quite a change from Michigan! It is beautiful to see them brown in the morning, green during the day and purple at dusk.

TODAY'S TEEN at Hale Area School is Edward W. Schulte III, 16, a senior. A resident of the Hale area for seven years, his subjects include United States Government, college English and revolutions. His hobbies include hunting, hiking and swimming. He plans to attend college to study law or law enforcement. He received varsity letters in baseball, football and cross country. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Schulte Jr.

Often I look at them in the evening and think to myself, . . . for purple mountain majesties above the fruited plain. . .

"The people are very friendly to me. That was my first impression and it still holds true. Louis Trichardt is in the very Afrikaans part of the country, so I go to an Afrikaans high school (Louis Trichardt Hoerskool) and live with an Afrikaans family. I am learning to speak Afrikaans, although English is also an official language, but it is rather necessary to know the Afrikaans where I am staying.

"Well, that is enough for now. Future letters will include photos of the area. If anyone has any suggestions or questions for me about anything, please do not hesitate to write—I love to get mail! I would like to say thanks to the Tawas Area Rotary Club for sponsoring me on this adventure of a lifetime!"

The daughter of Judge and Mrs. William H. McCready of Tawas City, her address is Lois McCready, c/o F. A. de Wet, PO Box 185, Louis Trichardt 0920 Transvaal, Republic of South Africa.
