Four candidates have filed nominating petitions for the one four-year vacancy on Tawas Area Board of Education and two persons have filed petitions to fill an unexpired term on the board.

The annual school election is to be held Monday, June 12. Deadline for filing nominating petitions was Monday.

The four candidates for the four-year term are Estella Bonds, Susan Rieth, Larry Wingrove and Loren Dalbec. Trustee David Kennedy, whose term expires June 30, did not file for re-election.

Filing petitions for the three-year term to fill a vacancy were Richard Dines and Barbara Miller. This position has been filled by Kathryn Leitz, who resigns effective June 30 after serving one year.

GIRL SCOUTS AND BROWNIE TROOPS from the Tawas area are among the first to see the new German shepherd tracking dog, "Buster," obtained this year by the Iosco County Sheriff's Department. A demonstration was held last Thursday at the county jail by Dep. Charles Linneman, handler, who is attending a training school at Sanford to learn how to handle the dog. The 13-month-old dog, now weighing 85 pounds and expected to weigh around 120 pounds when full grown, was donated to the county. The dog will be used for tracking lost persons or suspects, as well as being used to "sniff out" illegal drugs. Michael Welsch, department detective, had charge of the demonstration program.—Tawas Herald Photos.

Application Filed January 25 City Awaits Dredging Permit

Taking a cue from last year's delay in obtaining a permit to dredge the mouth of the Tawas River, City Mgr. Reginald Bublitz decided he would get an early start on submitting the city's application in 1978.

On January 25, application was made with both the United States Army Corps of Engineers and Michigan Department of Natural Resources but, as of Tuesday, permits still had not been received. State permission is contingent upon prior approval of the federal agency.

In the meantime, the city manager received a report from local fishermen Tuesday morning that a sand bar was rapidly building up across the mouth of the river. "I was told by one fisherman that he had to push his 12-foot aluminum boat across this sand buildup in order to get out into the bay," said Bublitz.

Phone calls to Detroit weeks ago revealed that the application "might be in the process" and the city "might have a permit in June." The latest phone call Tuesday morning to Detroit, followed by one to the DNR at Lansing, still had not cleared the situation.

"We are highly disturbed by the fact that others, who submitted dredging permit applications much later than ours, have received approval," said Bublitz in a letter to the corps of engineers. "What we are trying to do in the mouth of this river is for no one's benefit but the public." A year ago, Bublitz applied for a 10-year maintenance permit for the river, but a one-year emergency permit was granted. Accompanying that permit was a notation from the corps of engineers stating that the city should apply for a 10-year permit.

In addition to the permit for this year, Bublitz is again submitting an application for a 10-year permit.

The city manager said Tuesday that work began on dredging the river mouth "a year ago today. If we wait much longer, we will have a problem with the DNR as the last permit prohibited dredging from April 15 to May 1, due to the fact that fish were entering the river."

Another problem is that due to the delay, the sand bar has extended out into deeper water and the contractor may not be able to reach that area with a dragline, once the permit is received.

Large numbers of perch are now entering the river and the annual Brown Trout Derby started last week. If dredging does not take place soon, the river mouth will be blocked by sand and the spring sport fishing season will be ruined for those using the city's boat launching facilities on Ninth Avenue.

ONE OF THE FIRST fishermen to register in the Brown Trout Derby sponsored by Tawas Area Chamber of Commerce was George Warren Jr. of Saginaw, who holds an eight pound, four ounce lake trout which he caught from his boat about 100 yards off the Tawas City Park dock. Warren used an orange and silver spotted Cleo lure to catch this nice fish. He is a summer resident of Baldwin Resort Road. The derby committee erected a tent at the Ninth Avenue launching site on Tawas River where fish were registered Saturday.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Bids Tabled on Building Trades House

Two bids were received Monday night for the sale of the house constructed during the past school year by building trades students of Tawas Area High School. The bids were accepted, but action was tabled for clarification of advertised specifications.

The school had advertised the house situated on Lot 59 on Manor Drive in North Park Acres Subdivision, Tawas City. Because of the fact the house is located on a corner lot, both bidders apparently wished to also purchase the south half of adjoining Lot 60 to enlarge the rear yard of the home site. The school owns that lot and two others for future building trades construction.

Steven M. Hlinka entered a bid of $43,010 for the house located on Lot 59, plus the south one-half of Lot 60; Casimer Cybula entered a bid of $41,553 for the house on Lot 59, the property advertised by the school district. He was present at the meeting and said he did not include an offer on the south one-half of Lot 60 as it was not included in the advertising, but he was interested in purchasing the additional property if it was offered.

It was felt by some members of the board of education that Cybula's bid was the only one meeting the advertised specifications, although it was felt that both bids should be tabled as there had been some discussion with both bidders concerning availability of the half lot.

Supt. Robert Halle was directed to investigate the matter and expedite a sale.

Two Burglaries Were Investigated

Two breakings and enterings are under investigation by Michigan State Police from East Tawas.

Owners of the houses entered included Kenneth Terrill, West Branch, Grant Township, and Pauline Parent, Hale. A quantity of cash was stolen from the latter dwelling.

Expect Tawas A. School to Ask Renewal of 12-Mill Operational Tax Levy in June

Looking down the road at finances and expenditures for the next two to three years, voters of Tawas Area School District are expected to be asked to renew 12 mills of operational tax at the annual school election on June 12.

This was the word Monday night during a workshop study session of the board of education following the regular monthly meeting.

The probability of asking only for renewal of operational millage is due partly to the 100 percent payoff of delinquent property taxes by the County of Iosco, a new program adopted this year whereby the county has sold its bonds to establish a tax revolving fund.

Instead of being three years behind in collection of delinquent taxes, schools, townships, the county and cities are to receive an annual payoff from the county for delinquent taxes. At the end of three years, all delinquent taxes will have been received by the units.

At the present time, Tawas Area School is anticipating a check of approximately $200,000 representing the first year of the delinquent tax payoff. Although this money must be spent for operation as it was voted for that purpose by taxpayers, the board of education indicated Monday night that it must use discretion in its expenditure as there would be no delinquent taxes at the end of three years and additional millage could be required to fill a revenue gap in the budget.

It is expected that some program and staff additions can be made during the next two years, plus implementation of recommendations made as a result of the fire marshal's inspection and changes to buildings according to energy savings recommendations.

Improvements financed from the general fund budget would include $10,000 spent at the East Tawas Elementary Unit and $3,000 at the Tawas City Elementary Unit to comply with all recommendations made as a result of the fire marshal's inspection.

Energy saving measures would include $1,500 at East Tawas Elementary Unit for new kitchen lighting and caulking; $12,000 at the Tawas City Elementary Unit for a hot water heater and other costs;

$16,000 at the high school for a new boiler and $2,000 for additional work.

The board of education and administration is considering the addition of a woman counselor at the secondary level. Paul Hay, who presently works with both junior and senior high school students, would probably be assigned to some responsibility at the elementary level.

Supt. Robert Halle said that the salary for a new counselor would be in the neighborhood of $15,000. He said that one teacher at the top of the salary scale would be retiring this year and replacement with a teacher with less experience would provide some of the money required for this new position.

The addition of a reading teacher at the junior and senior high school level would be partially funded under the Title One federal program. The addition of a half-time special education director would be partially funded by 35 percent reimbursement from federal funds. That position could be combined with a special education teaching assignment or some other responsibility.

The superintendent said that the school could make some significant improvements during the next two years and that consideration could be given to the purchase of additional portable classrooms to alleviate the present space problem at the high school. He said, however, that enrollment figures should be studied as numbers of students are dropping off and the lack of classroom space may not be the case in the immediate future.

Further investigation is also to be made into the use of CETA funds in a training program involving building, trades students in commercial construction, which could provide manpower to construct permanent classrooms. At the present time, however, no money is available for materials under such a program.

In addition to the improvements, the school will soon commence negotiations on a new contract with Tawas Area Federation of Teachers. Salary provisions are included in this year's negotiations, emotional, of their son," stated the complaint.

The parents are asking the court to award damages as the defendants are found to be jointly and severally liable and an award and other relief the court may deem proper and in good conscience.

Parents File Suit Against Bus Driver and School Bd.

Parents of a 12-year-old Tawas Area School student have commenced suit in Iosco County Circuit Court against a school bus driver and the board of education over an alleged slapping incident on February 24.

Mr. and Mrs. James J. Waters claim Betty Steinhurst, bus driver, did "willfully and without cause or authority strike Robert E. Waters, causing him physical harm, more specifically inflaming and bruising the area about the eyes."

The parents have asked the court to issue a temporary injunction restraining the bus driver from in any way contacting the minor child "and from driving any school bus on which plaintiff's children are passengers and/or enjoin Tawas Area Board of Education from employing Betty Steinhurst in any capacity that may allow her to in any way come in contact with plaintiff."

In addition, the parents' complaint filed Friday claims the bus driver "verbally attacked, abused and slandered said minor in the presence of his peers and, as a result of said verbal abuse and slander, said child did suffer physical, emotional and sociological injuries."

The complaint said the bus driver accused the minor child of "being a liar and a trouble maker and that such accusation was wilful, malicious, premeditated without foundation in fact and done with full knowledge of its untruth."

In addition, the plaintiffs claim the defendant "has a history of violence and her continued employment amounts to negligence on the part of Tawas Area Board of Education."

The petition claimed the parents discussed the matter in question with school authorities and "have been denied relief of any sort and have been threatened with the denial of public transportation for their children if they do not submit to the directives and findings of Tawas Area Board of Education."

The parents "have suffered the loss and full enjoyment of the companionship of their son" and "continue to fear for the safety and welfare, both physical and

Truck Driver Escaped Injury in US-23 Crash

Thomas Lee Bolen, 29, Tawas City, escaped injury April 4 when the tractor-trailer unit he was operating jack-knifed on US-23 in Alabaster Township.

Investigating Michigan State Police officers from East Tawas said that Bolen applied the brakes on his truck when he saw the flashing signal and a Detroit and Mackinac Railway freight train at the US-23 crossing. The tractor-trailer unit struck a guard rail on the north-west side of the highway.

In the event participants in the program should have an accident or some other form of medical emergency, assistance will be available.

The service will be available to all registrants in the program 365 days a year at no charge. It will be staffed by hospital volunteers who will be at telephones to receive calls each day from 10:00 a. m. until 12:00 noon.

The hospital community relations committee member, Mrs. Karl Weist, stated, "This is a long needed service for the people of the community we serve."

A detailed sheet of questions, answers and registration forms are available by calling the hospital at 362-3411, extension 352, or by writing Tawas Hospital, Box 659, Tawas City (48763).

A speaker will be furnished for groups or clubs, upon request, to explain the details of the program, according to Rose Blackmore, head of the education department at Tawas Hospital.

(Read I Samuel 16:1-12)
"Man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord looketh on the heart." (I Samuel 16:7)

Recently, our console color television stopped working in the middle of a world series game. Patty, our daughter, said, "My friend, Joey, will lend me a little portable set."

As she placed it on the table, I saw brown paint peeling, part of a knob missing, an antenna patched by a piece of foil. Yet, the picture was perfect.

That held a spiritual lesson for me. Many average persons with few talents or with disabilities and misfortunes are daily serving God. The world may never hear of them, yet they are the salt of the earth.

On the other hand, there are persons of wealth, time, talents and opportunities who use none of this for God. Like the big television, they are of no use when they are not working.

We can know the fullest joys of discipleship when we walk the paths of service.

PRAYER
Thank you, God, for opportunities to serve You in many places and in many ways. Help us to be aware of those opportunities and to realize it is not our size, the place we live, our wealth nor our talents that count. May we use them all for Your glory. Amen.

TA Board Questioned About School Discipline - Expulsion

A group of district residents apparently forming a "concerned parents group" appeared before Monday night's meeting of Tawas Area Board of Education to question school policy concerning school discipline and expulsion of students from school.

Mrs. James Waters, spokeswoman for the group, questioned the school's discipline policy concerning questioning of students by police officers.

She said she had not been notified that her child was to be questioned by a police officer and an administrator, which she said was contrary to the school's written policy because she was not in attendance.

Supt. Robert Halle said the board of education's policy book and student discipline handbook had been established as a guideline for administrators to follow. He said that it was the intent of the administration to follow those policies, although he said it does not mean that there could not be some deviation in action.

The superintendent said that several instances had been found where there was a conflict between wording in the board of education's policy book and the student handbook and the school would be addressing those problems. "We are obligated to be as fair as possible to the student, but we must also make sure that guidelines are being followed," he stated.

Prin. John Alexander said that the normal procedure followed was to involve parents in questioning of students. He said that police officers were never allowed to question a student on school property without an administrator in attendance.

In other business, the board of education was invited to attend the annual junior-senior banquet to be held Wednesday, April 19, 6:30 p. m., at the high school.

Tawas Area Federation of Teachers requested opening of contract negotiations for the 1978-79 school year.

The school district was notified by the Tawas City Council that a hearing would be held Monday concerning an industrial exemption certificate being considered for Tawas Industries, Incorporated. Under state law, each taxing unit is to be notified that tax benefits for an industry are being considered under the 1974 act.

Resignation of E. Paul Young as a member of the high school teaching staff effective at the end of the current school term was formally accepted.

Mrs. Elizabeth Bielby, a member of the East Tawas Elementary Unit teaching staff, is to retire at the end of the present term under board policy which requires mandatory retirement when the teacher reaches the age of 65 years. The board of education is to formally acknowledge Mrs. Bielby's contribution to the education of young people of this community for the past 30 years.

David Westcott, transportation director, reported that 19 of the school's 22 buses had been approved during the annual inspection March 17-20 by Michigan State Police.

Westcott said that none of the buses had been "red lined" and that only minor items not involving safety were included in the three buses which will require corrections before the re-inspection in May.

Business Assn.
Meets April 14

The next meeting of the East Tawas Business Association will be held Friday, April 14, 8:00 a. m., at the East Tawas City Hall. Continued plans for the upcoming auto-camper show, May 18-20, will be formulated.

At last Friday's meeting, space commitments were received from all five new car dealers for the show.

Latest Change in Storage Facility
Loan Program

Harold Cholger, chairperson of Iosco Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service County Committee, announced the latest changes in storage facility loan program.

Farmers may now obtain loans to build high-moisture forage and silage storage structures and for remodeling existing storage structures from Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC). Previously, loans were available only for construction of new facilities for high-moisture grain or grain silage and dry grain.

Cholger said the above action will be of particular benefit to dairymen and livestock producers who need storage for grass silage and to producers with storage facilities that need modification and remodeling to increase capacity and efficiency.

In general, provisions for current farm facility loans will apply to the new loans. Cholger noted that facility loans are secured loans and borrowers must provide security adequate to protect CCC's interest.

Additional information about the farm facility loan program and its eligibility requirements may be obtained from the local ASCS County office, located in the post office building, East Tawas.

Youth Employment Training Program Funded for Region

A new Youth Employment Training Program (YETP) designed to serve over 350 teen-agers in the Region 7B Employment and Training Consortium area is under way. "It is the result of President Carter's program to create jobs for youth and we think our plan, a relatively new concept of employment and training, will be very successful," says Roberta Volker, Region 7B administrative director.

The program is funded under Title III, Subpart three, Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) and is expected to provide a broad range of immediate employment and training activity as well as services to youths 16-19 years of age. Mrs. Volker states that $696,899 has been budgeted for the program "with the possibility of additional funds coming down at a later date."

Glenn Goff, planning and development director, explains that YETP is a "school based program." Region 7B can offer field assistance and resources in the form of participant time chargeable to CETA (CTC) at $2.65 per hour and training services. "CETA field staff will work closely with the schools to provide direct contact with participants. While CETA will furnish supportive funds, employment sponsors will provide work experience for participating youths," Goff reiterates. The consortium staff is in the school under the principal's jurisdictional guidance. They will have no administrative authority.

"Participants who are currently in the 10-hour-a-week in-school program may become involved in the Summer Program for Economically Disadvantaged Youth (SPEDY) and their schedule increased to 30 hours per week during the summer months," Goff adds.

Students 16-19 years of age, who are regularly enrolled in high school during the academic year, are eligible to participate in YETP. Only persons from economically disadvantaged families are eligible to participate in YETP. June graduates cannot continue on YETP during the summer.

Mrs. Volker points out that Region 7B's goal is to provide these economically disadvantaged young people with the training and skills necessary to obtain unsubsidized employment in a very competitive labor market. "Intensive efforts will be made toward maximum job creation and incentives for youths to remain in school will be provided," she adds.

Region 7B will be operating this program through offices staffed and maintained in each of the nine Counties of Arenac, Clare, Gladwin, Gratiot, Iosco, Isabella, Midland, Ogemaw and Roscommon. For information concerning the program in Iosco County, call 362-8431.

Colin Teall Enters AF

Colin E. Teall, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elden Teall, Hale, has entered the United States Air Force's Delayed Enlistment Program (DEP).

According to SSGT. James Markham, air force recruiter at Alpena, Teall's entry into the DEP serves two purposes. First, it allows the air force to schedule an opening for him to attend basic training and be assigned to a job or skill area. Second, it enables Teall, a 1978 graduate of Hale Area High School, to wrap up his personal affairs before leaving home.

Teall will enter the regular air force May 31. Following graduation from the basic training course at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, he will receive technical training as a cryogenic fluids production specialist and be assigned to an air force duty station.

Richard Marx

A 1976 graduate of Tawas Area High School, he joined the navy in May 1977.

Completes Navy

William C. Rohman, navy seaman recruit, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Rohman, Oscoda, has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Illinois.

During the eight-week training cycle, he studied general military subjects designed to prepare him for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the navy's 85 basic occupational fields.

Included in his studies were seamanship, close-order drill, naval history and first aid. Personnel who complete this course of instruction are eligible for three hours of college credit in physical education and hygiene.

He joined the navy in January 1978.

Arrest Appraisers
for Trespassing on Complaint of Property Owner

Two employees of the Iosco County Equalization Department were arrested last week by the county sheriff's department on a trespassing complaint lodged by a Tawas Township property owner.

Investigating officers said Wayne J. Evans, Tawas City, and William J. Colbath, Oscoda, employees of the equalization department, had driven a four-wheel drive vehicle onto a field owned by Mose A. LaCombe, 374 Bischoff Road, for the purpose of measuring the foundation of a house that had been removed from the LaCombe property.

The four-wheel-drive vehicle became stuck in the field and was removed by a tractor owned by a nearby resident. The report said the two vehicles left ruts in the field.

Civil Air Patrol
Plans Open House

Wurtsmith Civil Air Patrol Squadron will hold an open house Monday, April 17, 7:00 to 9:30 p. m., at the base chapel. Lt. Col. Thomas C. LaForge, squadron commander, states he is looking forward to meeting interested persons from the area and introducing them to the squadron.

"We are planning to organize a Civil Air Patrol unit in the future in the Tawas City-East Tawas area," reports LaForge.

The Civil Air Patrol, an auxiliary of the United States Air Force, is a volunteer organization of young people 13 through 17 years of age, plus adults, both military and civilian.

Objects and purposes of Civil Air Patrol are to provide an organization to encourage citizens in the contribution of their efforts, services and resources in the development of aviation and the maintenance of aerospace supremacy; to promote civilian aviation in the local communities and to motivate the youth of the country.

Civil Air Patrol is of special interest to people without prior military service as it presents a basic introduction to the military practices, states the squadron commander.

"The emergency services of Civil Air Patrol search and rescue and disaster relief are ready to assist in any mercy mission. We encourage everyone to ask questions and to get involved," stated LaForge. There are 26 cadets and 18 seniors in the Wurtsmith Composite Squadron 7-3, Civil Air Patrol. Four seniors are pilots who own their own aircraft. They use their aircraft for the Civil Air Patrol orientation ride program and on search and rescue missions.

The cadets also attended a summer encampment. Last year, it was at the Phelps Collins Airport, Alpena. Two cadets have achieved Billy Mitchell Awards this year, one cadet entering the air force in June, under delayed enlistment, with the grade of airman third class because of his achievements in the Civil Air Patrol.

Dearborn Man Injured Sunday

A 24-year-old Dearborn man, William D. Wint, was treated Sunday at Tawas Hospital after a rolling truck pinned him against a wall at Five Channels Dam.

The truck suddenly rolled down a hill and pinned Wint against a retaining wall at the dam.

USED TO BE
NOW IT'S A PRIORITY.

Used to be, insulation in commercial, industrial and institutional buildings was frequently taken for granted.

The energy crisis has changed all that.

Suddenly, insulation is one of the most important considerations in the planning of any new building. Simply because good insulation saves precious energy.

Which brings us to the buildings we build. Butler buildings. Because they're built around pre-engineered systems, the roof and wall systems are designed with superior insulation to provide you with the best available seal against outside heat and cold, regardless of the climate.

Butler building systems have always been time and money savers. But more important, now they're energy savers. We'd like to show you why. Call us.

No Chance for TV 'Emmy,' but Survey is Important

Most of the "chuck" holes which have appeared in back streets of the Tawas during the past winter were not caused by the heaving of frost—most were caused when manhole covers were removed for future visits by television cameras.

Before the reader gets the idea that the Tawas will be featured on some future television program, it should be pointed out that Sewer Specialists, Incorporated, of Romulus and Owosso will be conducting a survey here—using special television cameras—to determine points where ground water infiltrates sanitary sewer systems of the two communities.

Last summer, smoke bombs were used to determine points of ground water infiltration, but testing was not successful.

This Sanitary Service Evaluation Survey (SSES) is being provided as part of the Step One grant which was provided by state and federal governments, with local participation and approved nearly two years ago by city councils of the two communities.

Certain areas of the sanitary sewer systems in the two cities required cleaning in order to eliminate sand which restricted the sewer flow, according to City Mgr. Reginald Bublitz of Tawas City.

Using a special truck, Sewer Specialists, Incorporated, forces water under high pressure into the sewer lines and then uses a special vacuum to remove sand and anything else which might partially block the lines. The television cameras are not capable of operating in a line filled with water.

It is expected that the firm will begin using its television cameras next week to inspect the sewer mains. The cameramen are not expected to win an "Emmy Award" for their work, but information gained concerning existing mains will be invaluable in future planning.

Approximately $80,000 was provided by the federal grant to perform this work and the city's share in the program will cost from $10,000 to $12,000.

After an evaluation of the survey conducted by the television cameras, the next step in the process to provide federal aid for secondary sewage treatment in the Tawas would be to authorize preparation of engineering plans.

The final step in this lengthy process would be for the federal and state governments to offer 75 to 80 percent matching funds for construction of either mechanical or lagoon type secondary sewage treatment systems.

"As soon as the television survey is completed, the city crew will be out patching streets which were damaged when manhole covers were removed," said the city manager.

Businessmen Hear Report on CETA

Thirty-two members of the Tawas City Businessmen's Association heard a report Thursday on Tawas City's past and future projects under the federal CETA program. The luncheon meeting was held at LeClair's Midway Restaurant.

Conducting the program were City Mgr. Reginald Bublitz, Thomas Jacques, city forester, and Edward J. Barry, who took an active part in writing and administering CETA programs here last year.

Jacques explained work accomplished in his forestry program and Barry outlined last summer's reclamation program for the Tawas River, which included cleanup and fish habitat improvements.

Bublitz explained that the CETA program, designed to train people for new occupations, provided labor for projects, while material and tools were provided by the city. He said that administration of the CETA program was extremely complicated, but he felt that the community had made good use of funding provided by the federal government.

More than 20 projects are being planned under CETA during the coming months and improved supervision is being contemplated under a new comprehensive system being developed by Jacques.

The city forester is to again appear before the association at next week's meeting of the businessmen's association.

Members of the association are also reminded that the group is to tour Tawas Area High School on Thursday, April 20, following lunch in the home economics room.

Iosco County Health Needs Under Study

Residents of Iosco County are urged to attend a meeting Thursday evening, April 13, at the county building in Tawas City for involvement and input into the health planning process through East Central Michigan Health Systems Agency. Convening at 7 o'clock in the circuit court room, the object of the meeting is to identify the county's specific health needs and problems for study by the agency.

ECMHS was created under the National Health Planning and Resource Development Act of 1974 (Public Law 93-641) and is a conditionally designated agency responsible for health planning and resource development in 14 counties including Iosco.

Local Schools Receive State Aid Payments

Local school districts have been sent the fourth payment of State School Aid Funds for the 1977-78 fiscal year, according to Sen. Robert W. Davis.

These funds, Davis explained, are taken from state tax revenues and are based on a formula which, on the average, enables each school district to provide equal educational opportunities for all of the school children throughout the state.

Amounts of aid payments to area schools are Oscoda Area Schools, $319,229 and $26,093 Title I; Tawas Area Schools, $29,902 and $10,000 Title I; Whittemore-Prescott Area Schools, $125,826 and $6,500 Title I.

Build An Ark!

Disagreement over legal water rights between upstream and downstream users or owners has resulted in reoccurring feuds between neighboring communities and counties throughout this country's history. Those disagreements have not been limited to rivers of the Far West, where water is a life-giving commodity for both large populations vs. farm irrigation, but right here in Michigan where streams provided the basic means of transporting logs during the lumbering days.

The AuGres River, coupled with its feeder streams, courses through Arenac, Iosco and Ogemaw Counties and is a prime example of a water rights "battleground." Although the stream has not been used as a means of moving logs for 80 years or more, that old disagreement between upstream and downstream communities still exists.

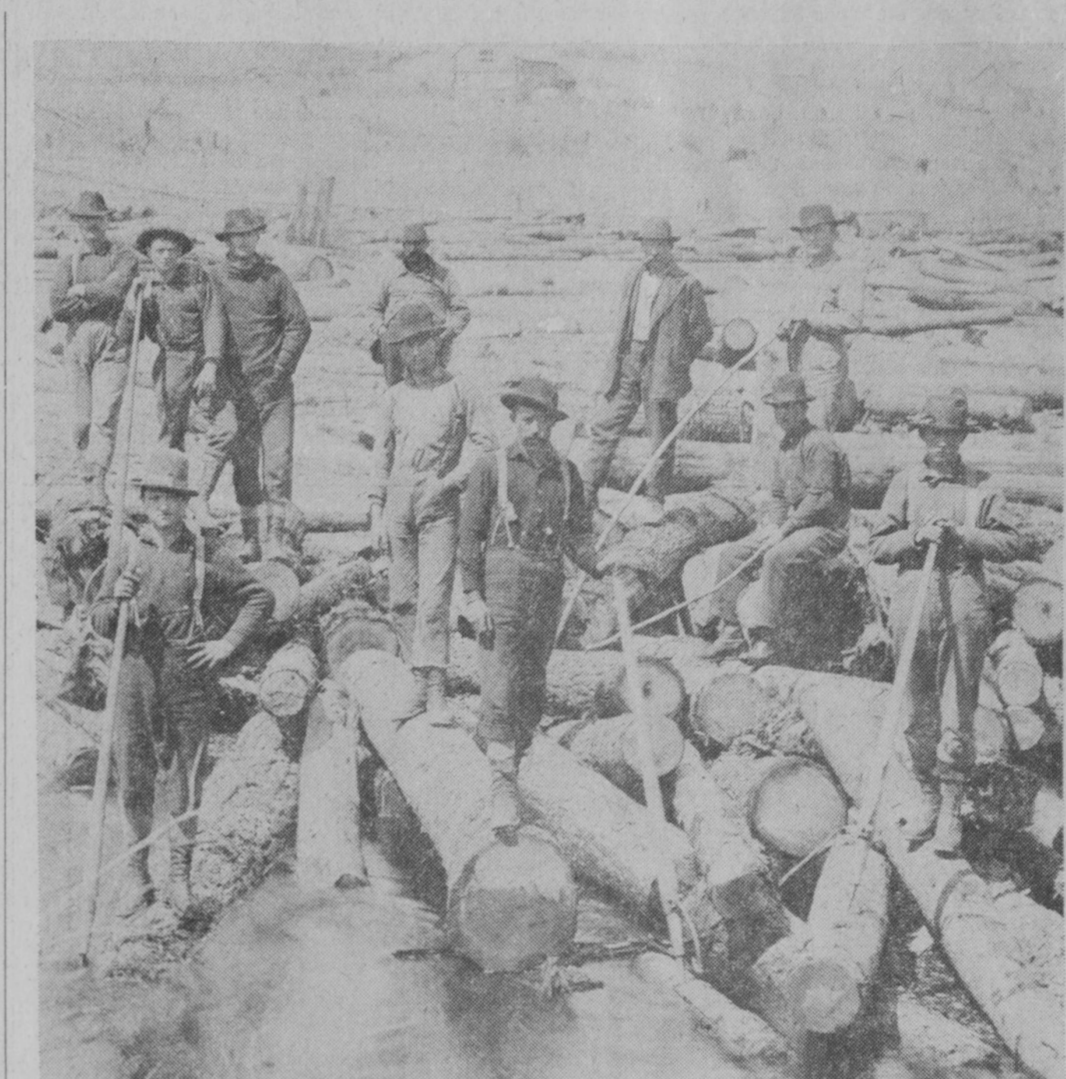

But today's disagreement is for a far different reason than yesterday's—responsibility for downstream flooding is of prime concern today and its major cause, so engineers say, can be traced back to the days when hundreds of men worked feverishly to denude the upper watershed of its water holding forests.

But this story is not concerned with today's disagreement as it takes a look at an incident in history which has been forgotten with the passing of nearly a century.

In 1881, the AuGres was one river system where Michigan's capitalists could make a bundle or lose everything in the business of harvesting white pine—Michigan's "green gold," and many small operators lost their shirts in the process. The difference between a profitable and losing year depended upon a number of factors, the most important of which on this stream being weather conditions.

Lumbermen, by the very nature of the business, had to invest large sums of money in labor and materials to cut, haul, skid and bank timber along the main AuGres or feeder streams to await a spring freshet to transport raw materials many miles to the all-devouring sawmills. The process of sending a single log from the pinery to the mill and then to transport the finished product in the form of sawn lumber to market required a year or more to accomplish. Like today's farmer, the lumberman was at the mercy of a market manipulated by speculators—at the end of a year's time of investment, the operator might show a profit, or he may have fallen into bankruptcy and others received the profit without any expenditure for labor.

One of the controlling factors which unhinged many a small operator was the weather, making or breaking the chain of events which led the saw logs from the pineries to the mill. A winter without an adequate fall of snow meant that feeder streams would have an insufficient supply of water upon which to float logs. Despite the fact that many costly sluice dams were built along streams to provide a head of water for log driving, the term, "logs are hung up on the AuGres River for lack of water," was heard throughout this region's lumbering history.

"HUNG UP ON THE AUGRES" was an expression heard often during the white pine lumbering days. A winter without an adequate fall of snow meant a spring without water in the main AuGres and its feeder streams. Logs were high and dry when this picture was snapped on the AuGres in the 1880s and these rivermen had a tough job ahead of them trying to break this jam.

In 1881, several of the AuGres River's upstream lumbermen—most of them from Bay City and Saginaw and a few from the Tawas—tried a different approach at sending their logs to Saginaw Bay with disastrous results for downstream farmers near AuGres, who had been struggling for several years to open rich farmland by clearing low lying fields of hundreds of pine stumps which crept right to the water's edge.

That winter was one of those seasons in history which saw very little snow along the Lake Huron side of Michigan; in fact, it is recorded in the Iosco County Gazette that no snow had fallen in November and December of 1881 and the ground was still uncovered in early January. The most remarkable winter in the memory of the oldest inhabitants," was the way Editor C. R. Jackson described it. "Not enough ice is yet formed in Tawas Bay to impede the running of a rowboat and it is now nearly January 1. Two boats were at our docks this morning, one the steam barge, Mackinaw, bound for Port Huron; the tug, Marian Teller, and lighter with freight from Bay City, bound for AuSable. Think of it! At present, there is nothing to impede navigation on Lake Huron from Bay City to Alpena, or even further."

Noted the newspaper on December 15, 1881: "Lumbermen complain of soft weather so prevalent lately as greatly impeding operations in the woods. Such weather considerably augments the expense of putting in logs and will materially reduce the crop. This is a poor man's winter, but it will bring a harsh summer and some of the boys are getting their 'time' in camps."

AuGres River lumbermen, who had suffered through previous open winters, particularly in 1878, recalled an old saying—the last three days of November determine the state of the weather for the three months of winter—and decided to try a new twist in floating their logs down stream.

Taking advantage of fall rains which had raised the water level of the AuGres, they began dumping their logs into the river and its feeder streams in early November. This meant a lot of hard work by horses and men as the ground was not yet frozen and would not be so, as events turned out, until the middle of January. But, when one has a will and determination to beat the weather, much can be accomplished by a lot of toil and sweat, especially when it was realized that no snow during the winter would mean no floating of logs in the spring.

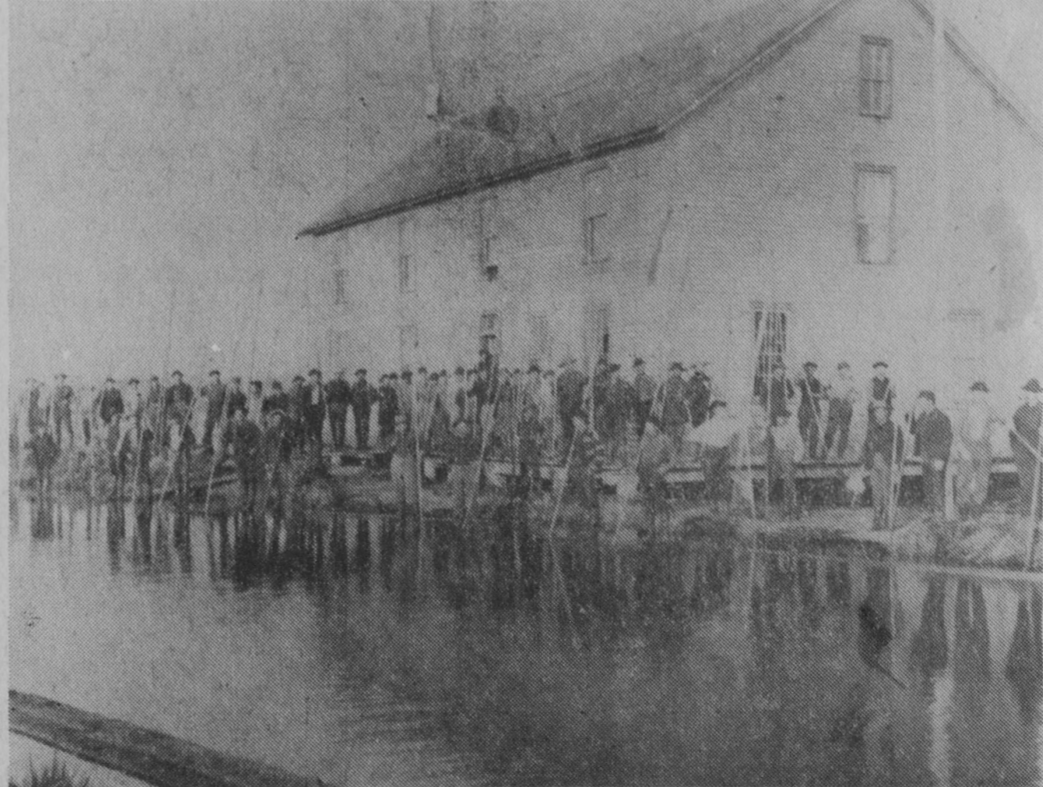

All went well until the first week of December, when the unattended logs began to jam in the river and to such an extent that a flood was certain to result in the spring, much to the annoyance of farmers adjacent to the river.

Arenac County had not been set aside as a governmental unit at that time and Sheriff Washington of Bay City, in pursuance of a resolution of the controlling Bay County Board of Supervisors, was dispatched to the scene to "remove from the AuGres River any and all obstructions which might cause the water to back and flood the adjoining farms."

A news story in the December 8, 1881, issue of the Iosco County Gazette said that Washington had found "that inhabitants in that vicinity (AuGres) are very much excited and apprehend serious loss if something is not done for their protection." As an example, he said in the supervisor's house where he stayed, he saw the "marks where the water had been several inches deep on the floor."

The board of supervisors' resolution agreed to indemnify the sheriff against any loss or damage to him on account of his action in removing the logs, but the Bay City Tribune reported that Washington "proposes to examine further the authority of the board to remove the obstructions and its power to protect him against loss. If the power of the board is found to be

THE AUGRES BOOM COMPANY controlled log drives on the AuGres River and rivermen pose with their pike poles in front of the firm's boarding house. In 1881, a massive jam on the stream threatened to flood adjacent farmland, which is described in this featurette.

AN EARTHEN DAM was bulldozed into this canal west of Newman Street last Wednesday. The property owner, Elouise M. Dimmick, claims that the city was confiscating her property by using it for drainage.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Dimmick Canal Closed by East Tawas Property Owner

An AuGres contractor hired by Elouise M. Dimmick Wednesday blocked the Dimmick drain at a point about 200 feet west of Newman Street in the Dimmick Addition, East Tawas.

That same day, Mrs. Dimmick served public notice on East Tawas officials "that I am closing the drains and canal that the city has confiscated on Newman Street."

In her notice, Mrs. Dimmick said the city "has absolutely no permits as proven by a title search by the Landmark Title Company. I have $28,000 invested in the canal, plus the investment in the property and the money paid for unequal taxes."

At the present time, attorneys for Mrs. Dimmick are appealing assessments on her property to the Michigan Tax Tribunal.

In addition, Mrs. Dimmick said in her notice that there had been two purchases by the city for riparian rights, one adjoining her property and another parcel for a water station. "The city has never offered to purchase any portion of my property," indicating the city was draining a large portion of Tawas Lake and Bennington Subdivisions through her canal.

The notice stated that her parcel which drains into Tawas Lake via the canal had a 675 percent increase in taxes in 1976. "There is no sewer or water on that parcel and it is useless," she stated.

Mrs. Dimmick also claims that the city used CETA funding in October 1977 to brush out her property bordering the canal. "Despite the fact I have a letter from the Department of Natural Resources saying no dredging, enlargements or tampering with the canal would be allowed," the city cut into the canal and crossed her property without permission. "They were using one-half city funding and one-half government funding which is not allowed on private property," stated the notice.

Mrs. Dimmick stated that the 38 acres owned by the city which adjoins her property is where a public drain should be located.

The matter has been turned over to City Atty. Michael Freel to investigate. The city has claimed in the past that a natural drain had existed for many years at the location of the Dimmick drain or canal, which was widened in 1971 by T. S. Dimmick, late husband of the present owner. A spokesman for the city said that witnesses were available who could recall that the drain crossing under Newman Street had actually been in existence for many years prior to 1971, when T. S. Dimmick dredged and widened it into a canal.

AuGres River

ample, he will proceed to execute its mandate."

Sheriff Washington apparently learned that the board of supervisors had no legal power to remove the logs from the AuGres River.

In the meantime, on January 5, 1882, the Gazette reported that roads "are now solid and lumbermen are more cheerful. The merry sleigh bells were heard on Friday last—the first of the winter. There are plenty now, however, and the four inches of snow which fell on Tuesday night are being made the most of, both by lumbermen and our townspeople."

Despite earlier fears by lumbermen of an open winter, the Gazette reported on January 26, 1882, that "so much business during this cold weather makes business in town dull. Every available man and team are employed on the haul and logs are going to the streams at a lively rate."

The winter of 1882 was brief in this section as the Gazette reported on February 9 that "the lumbering weather is again busted. Most of our lumbermen, who have not got their logs to the streams, are devising means for hauling, having abandoned the idea of getting assistance from the snow department."

Lumber camps began breaking up in early February and March came in like a balmy June. The firm of Jerome and Williams began building a large dam on Hall

Creek, a tributary to the East Branch of the AuGres River. "It will be completed in 10 days and will overflow a large territory and hold enough water to make driving on the East Branch a success. There is plenty of water and the ice is all out and there is nothing to hinder the running of logs."

To help offset the lack of logs coming down the main AuGres, due to the obstruction by a jam, the Tawas and Bay County Railroad was working overtime to feed a steady stream of logs to Tawas City mills and over its new line extended that year to mills at East Tawas. The newspaper reported that the railroad hauled 1 1/2-million feet of logs and one million feet of shingles to the Tawas in less than one week—"nearly all from the East Branch and a large portion of the amount was drawn by only one engine."

Despite the unfavorable weather conditions, millmen of the Tawas cut more lumber in 1882 than ever before, thanks to the narrow gauge railroad which eliminated the need for stream transportation. The Lumberman's Gazette reported that increased demand in the lumber market was "cause for rejoicing by lumbermen."

In the spring of 1882, however, there was little cause for rejoicing at AuGres, whose earlier laments over possible spring flooding conditions had been forgotten or ignored. Sheriff Washington had never returned from Bay City to enforce the Bay County Board of Supervisors' resolution to force removal of logs jamming the stream.

"The residents of AuGres are not in hot water, but they are having plenty of the cold liquid," reported the Gazette on March 3. A telegram sent to the Bay County sheriff read as follows: "For God's sake, come and take us out of a jam or build us an ark. We are all drowned out here. Come up here tomorrow and see what that jam of logs is doing for us."

No further mention is made in the local paper concerning the devastating log jam on the lower reaches of the AuGres River and it must have been a wet spring, indeed, for farmers who had to await the arrival of expert rivermen in the employ of the upstream lumbering firms to untangle the mess.

The experiment in dumping logs into the river and allowing the floating mass to reach Saginaw Bay unattended proved a failure for all concerned and it was never again permitted. By then, the Tawas and Bay County Railroad provided a faster and more sure means of moving logs to the mills.

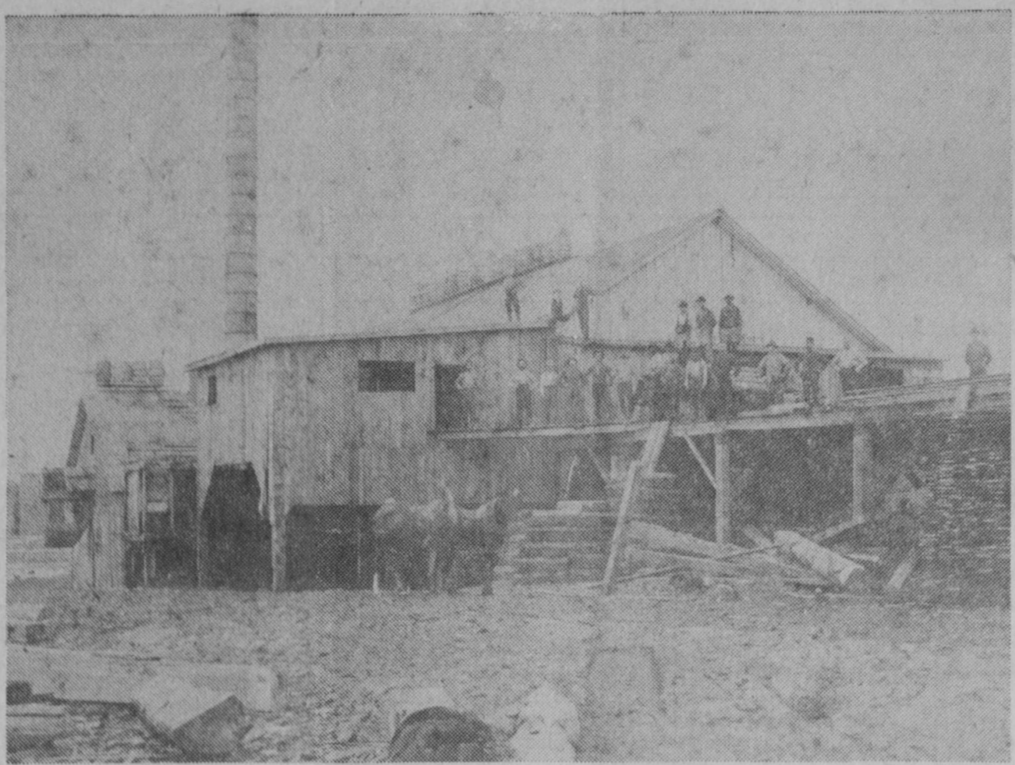

Drenched residents of AuGres, angry over the handling of the incident by the Bay County sheriff, probably were in the forefront of a movement a couple of years later to set off the new County of Arenac—and the disagreement over responsibility for flooding conditions on the AuGres River—now between upstream and downstream property owners—exists to this day.

Set - Aside Filing Due from Farmers

Harold Cholger, chairperson of the Iosco County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, reminds all agricultural producers in Iosco that it is very important that they file an intention to participate in the 1978 agricultural set-aside program not later than May 1. The only requirement that a producer must meet to be eligible for deficiency payments, payments in case of disasters and commodity loans based on price support is that an acreage equal to 20 percent of planted wheat must be set-aside and 10 percent of planted acreage of feed grains, this is corn, barley and sorghum.

Producers must certify to fall-seeded crops not later than June 1 and spring-seeded crops not later than August 1. Deficiency payments and disaster payments have amounted to approximately 30-million dollars in Michigan for 1977. In case of a similar year in 1978, this money would be lost if producers do not participate. Cholger urges that all producers consider the benefits of the 1978 set-aside program. For complete details, producers should visit their local county ASCS office, post office building, East Tawas.

The AuGRES RIVER provided white pine logs for mills of the Tawas as well as stocking mills of the Saginaw River. This was the Locke Mill at East Tawas, which was first supplied by logs rafted at the mouth of the AuGres River and towed by steam tug to Tawas Bay and later served by the Tawas and Bay County Railroad which brought logs from the East Branch of the AuGres River.

Personal Reflections

Enjoyment of the Woods

(The following personal reflections were written by a Herald subscriber from Warren who, with her husband and children, have spent the last 17 years vacationing in the Tawas area. The family owns property on Townline Road and is waiting for the snow to melt so that a new house can be built by one of the local builders. She has a bachelor of art degree with a major in English from Wayne State University, has a teaching certificate and is currently pursuing a bachelor of science degree.)

PONDERINGS

While waiting for spring to perform her magic, I think back on some of the joy the woods have given to me in the last years.

With amazement, I have seen ferns push up through packed earth on well-trodden trails which were frequently traveled by deer, rabbits, squirrels, possum, skunks, dogs, children, a husband on a trailbike and myself on foot. I am awed by the ability of that fragile plant to continue in its life process, springing up from the soil where only yesterday there was no evidence of life or growth.

I have smelled the aroma of pine on my hands after trimming a tree; I have tasted the first tart wild strawberry of summer, and I have listened to the chatter of animals in the woods and can think of no better way to spend my time. These are fond memories.

I recall walking to the edge of a field expecting to see the most magnificent sight in nature—a lone fox, a 12-point buck, a flock of turkeys or the flush of a grouse; or sneaking up to the edge of a pond, hoping for a glimpse of incoming ducks, and I can't wait to do these things again.

With longing I remember slipping among the bare trees on 'opening day,' listening to the stillness of the crisp air and watching the steam float from your mouth as you catch a glimpse of a herd of does and fawns, alert and vulnerable, as they move from one invaded area to another.

The woods have given me much more, spring, summer, winter and fall. I listen to people who say they would prefer to live in a warm climate year around, and I wonder if I would be willing to give up the beauty of the woods during each of the seasons. I think not.

I carry a gun during hunting season, but shoot very little. I fish with a good rod, but catch very little. My reward comes from just being there.

As I long for the beauty of spring, I remember what I once read as a child, "What summer has loved and lost, will not disturb the fall," and I know that spring, not far behind, will not be outdone by winter.—Elizabeth Munro

FLOODING was one means devised by lumbermen to bring their logs down the East Branch of the AuGres River. A series of sluice dams were constructed along the main stream and feeder creeks to hold back water until it reached the proper "driving pitch." Gates were opened and logs were sent down the stream. The water flow was then stopped by the gates to build up enough water for another run of logs. This was the Poscher Dam on Smith Creek in Plainfield Township. Eugene and L. B. Smith owned the water rights on this stream.
