Iosco Still Shoveling After Thursday's Snowstorm

County Escaped Fury Which Hit Downstate Area

A Tawas City resident telephoned the Tawas Herald office Thursday morning and asked the photographer to "come and take a picture of a robin in my apple tree." The mixed-up robin will have to wait until spring for a picture setting as the photographer, along with nearly everyone else in the state, was snowbound.

Iosco County was still clearing roads Monday after Thursday's blizzard dumped 14 or more inches in a storm described as the worst in a decade and one of the most severe in history.

All major roads, most side roads and city streets had been cleared by Sunday, but some side roads in Western Iosco County were still clogged with snow Monday and students of Hale Area School had their third snow day. Other schools of the county resumed classes Monday after being closed Thursday and Friday.

Although roads are open, area police agencies warn that travel is still treacherous because of high banks of snow left at intersections. Iosco County Road Commission crews, along with department of public works crews in the three cities of Iosco, are clearing intersections to improve visibility of motorists, but the job will not be completed until later this week.

Two vehicles parked along M-65 at Whittemore hampered efforts of road commission snow plow operators Monday, but the owner removed the vehicles to permit widening of traffic lanes.

Road clearing crews waged a "waiting" battle Thursday in a successful attempt to keep main roads open. Many motorists had little trouble traveling along some roads, which were relatively clear of snow, but four-wheel-drive vehicles were necessary for travel on most major highways.

At 10:30 a. m. Thursday, a road grader made two passes along US-23 (Lake Street) in Tawas City to open travel to local traffic. Earlier, two tractor-trailer units were stalled in snow drifts east of Whittemore Street. Traffic was snarled on M-55 at the Tawas River bridge for about an hour.

Iosco County Sheriff's Department made good use of its four-wheel-drive truck during the storm, transporting officers to and from their homes during shift changes as well as bringing employees to their jobs at the Iosco County Medical Care Facility.

The sheriff's department also used its truck to reach a family on Carpenter Road, where an expectant mother was transported to the Ogemaw County line. A transfer was made there and the mother was transported to Tolfree Hospital, West Branch.

A few snowmachines were used on major highways early Thursday morning, but the sheriff's department reported that one snowmobile was ticketed later in the day for operating his machine on M-65 at Whittemore. Two tickets were issued by officers as the machine was not equipped with a headlight. Only one employee was able to reach the county building in Tawas City Thursday and all offices were closed that day. All offices were open Friday, but many employees were still snowbound.

Because of impossible driving conditions, only a handful of employees reported for work at Starboard Industries, Incorporated, in Tawas City. The plant closed operations before noon both Thursday and Friday.

Most business places were closed Thursday as employees were unable to reach stores and customers were in the same situation. Grocery stores were open to walk-in customers most of the day, there was only one service station open in Tawas City by late Thursday afternoon and all bars were closed—there was no customer parking available.

All in all, Iosco County fared much better than other downstate areas and adjoining states, where high wind added to the problems. Gov. William Milliken declared a state emergency, called out the national guard and asked for federal financial assistance to help clear away the snow.

Many farmers in the state had to dump milk as there was no way to make pickups and no place for storage.

County Ineligible for FDA Money; Delahanty Upset

Iosco County Road Commission's emergency snow removal expense since last Thursday may reach as high as $80,000, but this county will not qualify for Federal Disaster Administration funds administered by the state through an emergency declaration by President Carter.

The local road commission was just too efficient. According to regulations governing distribution of federal funds, payment is to be made only to those units which utilized private contractors to remove snow.

This was the word Tuesday from James Delahanty, engineer-manager of the county road commission, who was more than a little disturbed over the news.

"Employees of the road commission worked around the clock in order to handle this emergency. Iosco County, with only one exception, had all of its schools operating on Monday—schools in all adjoining counties were still closed," said Delahanty.

"We have the equipment and the manpower to keep our roads open, yet this county will be penalized because it did not call for help

A full week-end of outdoor and indoor fun is scheduled for the 28th annual Perchville-USA program to be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday in the Tawasies.

The program is under sponsorship of Tawas Area Promotions, Incorporated, the promotional arm of the Tawas Chamber of Commerce. Reigning over the three-day event will be Colleen Johnson, a senior at Tawas Area High School, and the Rev. Alfred W. Saulsbury, pastor of Christ Episcopal Church, East Tawas.

Colleen was selected from a field of seven contestants and her court members will include Dawn Kuerley of Oscoda and Jeanine Rose of Tawas City. Queen Colleen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnson of East Tawas.

Mr. Saulsbury, 68, known to members of his parish and community as "Father Al," announced his retirement in early January and preached his final service on January 22. Born in England, he came to Canada in his youth and is a United States citizen. He has served as pastor of Christ Church for the past 10 years.

The king and queen are to participate in festival activities which are to open Friday night with doe night and stag night events. The program for women will be held at the Holland House, with the men directly across the street at the East Tawas Community Building.

Featuring doe night will be a style show given by The Beachcomber and The Place, with music by the Sweet Adelines. Queen Colleen will be crowned at that location.

The 1978 Perchville-USA king will be crowned during the stag night affair. Both of these events start with a cocktail hour at 6:00 p. m. and dinner at 7:30.

Saturday's big program starts with the Lions Club pancake breakfast, East Tawas Elementary Unit, 9:00 a. m. to 1:00 p. m. There will be a parade on Newman Street to the ice starting at 10:30 a. m., followed by a four-wheel drive rally sponsored by McIntosh-McKay Sales.

A snowmobile poker run starts at 12 o'clock noon from the Roadhouse, Alibi Inn and Tawas Country Club, finishing at the Whispering Pines. A minimal entry fee is to be charged.

A big program is scheduled to open at 12:30 p. m. on the ice of Tawas Bay at the East Tawas Park. An air show featuring a bi-wing plane, aerobatics and stunts is to start at that time, followed by a polar bear swim at 1:00 p. m.

The polar bear swim, an event unique in Michigan, annually attracts devotees of frigid weather swimming and participation of 15 or more local and visiting swimmers at past events has set world records. Spectators get "goose bumps" just watching the antics of swimmers diving into a pool of water cut through the ice near the Michigan Waterways Commission Dock.

The City of Tawas City used its own equipment and manpower and, like the county, will not qualify for federal funds.

Delahanty said Tuesday that he had called offices of congressmen and others to voice a protest and he was being joined by Alpena and Cheboygan Counties, which also operated their own equipment.

pleaser—is scheduled for 3:00 p. m. with registration behind the state police post.

There will be a Perchville prize drawing by button numbers at 4:00 p. m.

Sunday's program opens at 11:30 a. m. with judging of ice sculpturing. The blizzard which struck the area last Thursday should have provided plenty of raw material for this artistic display.

Sunday afternoon's program includes a second air show, a polar bear swim at 1:00 p. m. followed by cream pie throwing at local officials. (The two mayors will be participating and anyone with a particular gripe about city affairs will have the opportunity to "get even"—all in fun, of course.)

The second demolition derby will be held at 2:30 p. m., a pie eating contest at 3:15 p. m., prizes for fishing contests will be awarded at 3:30 p. m. and the program will end with prize drawings at 4:00 p. m.

Ongoing events during the day include sleigh rides both days, commercial displays, midway rides, helicopter rides and concession tent.

TAPS announces that 10 free helicopter rides will be awarded each day from button numbers.

Birthday Party Feb. 19 to Mark Wilber Centennial

Residents of Wilber Township will hold a birthday party Sunday, February 19, in commemoration of the township's centennial.

Cleona Hyzer, a township resident and a founding member of the county's historical society, has spearheaded the idea for a birthday program to be held in the basement of the Wilber United Methodist Church starting at 1:00 p. m.

The township hall, originally constructed as a school and later converted for governmental use, was considered as a site for the program. However, the old building is difficult to heat, has no indoor toilet facilities and the program is to be held in the only other public building in the township.

Actual date of the township's establishment was February 20, 1878.

"Everyone whom I have contacted has shown a real interest in marking the township's centennial," said Mrs. Hyzer. "We do not have many social activities out here during the winter months and everyone is pitching in to make this program one to be remembered."

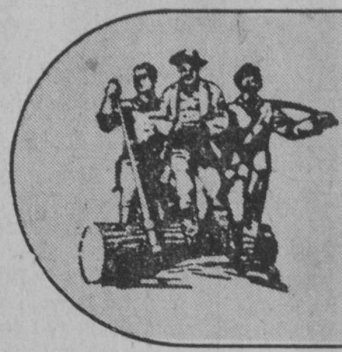

The committee invites present and former residents to bring old photographs or items which can be displayed during the afternoon program.

The program will feature a history of Wilber Township prepared by Amy Buck of Hale, a former Wilber resident. Betty Cross, township clerk, will read interesting reports from township records.

As part of the program, Arthur G. Leitz is to give a report on an application made to the State Historical Commission for a state centennial farm marker at the George Dawes residence. Leitz is chairman of the Iosco Historical Society's historical marker committee.

Mr. Dawes' grandfather homesteaded the farm 100 years ago and was a signer of a petition which asked the county board of supervisors to detach portions of AuSable and Plainfield Townships and establish Wilber Township. Dawes recently found the original homestead papers in an old trunk.

Meat will be furnished for a potluck dinner and those attending are asked to bring a dish to pass.

(Read Matthew 14:13-21)

"I must work the works of him that sent me, while it is day." (John 9:4)

Dial telephones are an everyday convenience of modern life. But many years ago when my father-in-law was a young minister, this was not so. At that time, a telephone operator took your call and rang your number. One Saturday night, a blizzard closed roads and Sunday church was impossible. This was no problem for the young minister. The telephone operator notified all church members to be at their telephones at 11 o'clock. The sermon was preached while everyone listened over his or her telephone. This minister did not wait for an opportunity; it was waiting for him and he took advantage of it.

Sometimes I wonder if we are waiting for opportunities to come or are grasping the ones available. Jesus took what was available to Him—the five loaves and two fishes and the individuals He called to be His disciples. Through His disciples He preached the gospel of abundant life. If we look to Jesus as the source of power, we can have a meaningful life. We can, with God's help, grasp the opportunity nearest to us—our own life.

PRAYER

Our Father, open our eyes to the opportunities available to us. We pray in Jesus' name. Amen.

Disabled Worker Can Test Ability to Work

Many disabled workers getting social security disability benefits may want to return to work, even though their condition has not improved. These people can be aided by a provision of the social security law, a social security representative said today.

This provision, known as the trial work period, permits a disabled worker to test his ability to work while still disabled and continue to receive monthly benefit checks. The spokesperson cautioned that disabled widows and widowers do not get a trial work period.

A trial work period ends after the worker has done some work in 9 different months. The work months need not be consecutive; they may be separated by months or even years.

Generally, minor work activity is not counted. The general rule is that only months in which an employee earns more than $50 count. For a self-employed person, only months in which the person nets more than $50 or devotes more than 15 hours to the business count.

At the end of the trial work period, the worker's case is reviewed to see if he or she can engage in substantial gainful work. If the worker can, then benefits are stopped after an adjustment period of three additional months.

On the other hand, benefits will continue if it is found that the worker is still unable to perform substantial gainful work after the entire trial work period.

One important thing to remember is that people getting social security disability checks should report any return to work, no matter how small their earnings. Disabled people can get full information about the trial work period and substantial gainful work at any social security office. The people there will be glad to help. The address and telephone number of the nearest office can be found in the telephone directory under "Social Security Administration."

questions and answers

Q. I'm getting ready to send in my first medical insurance claim under Medicare. My doctor doesn't accept assignment of medical insurance payments, but he did give me a copy of the Request for Medicare Payment form. How do I fill it out?

A. You complete Part I of the Request for Medicare Payment. Then, ask your doctor either to complete Part II of the form or to give you itemized bills for the services you received. An itemized bill must show a description of each service (or supply) you received, the date and place of the service, the charge for the service, the name of the doctor or supplier who provided the service, and your name and health insurance number. For more information, ask for a copy of the leaflet How to complete the Request for Medicare Payment at any social security office.

Q. Last fall, I went back to work and hired a babysitter to stay with my children. Am I supposed to deduct social security taxes from her salary? If so, how do I report them?

A. If you pay a household worker, such as a babysitter, $50 or more in cash wages in a calendar quarter, you must deduct social security contributions from the wages. You pay an equal amount as the employer, and send the total contributions to the Internal Revenue Service. The report form, Employer's Quarterly Tax Return for Household Employees (for Social Security), is available at any IRS office. The report is due before the end of the month following the calendar quarter. For example, the report for October-November-December 1977 is due by January 31, 1978.

Q. My husband and I were divorced several years ago. Neither of us has remarried. He plans to retire this year when he reaches 65. Can I get social security payments on his work record?

A. You can get monthly benefits when your ex-husband starts collecting retirement payments if you are 62 or older and were married to him at least 20 years.

Cooperation Kept Hospital Operating

Donald Snyder, administrator of Tawas Hospital, had high praise for staff members and community volunteers during last Thursday's blizzard.

There were no serious medical emergencies during the storm, but the hospital was nearly filled with patients.

"It took a massive effort by the staff and the community to keep the hospital operating," said Snyder.

Sue Reith, a registered nurse, took charge of the hospital Thursday morning and the nursing staff worked 12-hour shifts. The staff returned to an eight-hour shift Friday.

Michael Tilbert, emergency medical technician, and Karen Schaffer, registered nurse, left the hospital Wednesday night by ambulance to transfer a patient to Ann Arbor. Because of storm conditions, they did not return until 1:00 p. m. Friday. The ambulance over-heated at Standish and George Reith used a four-wheel-drive vehicle to pick them up at Standish and return them to the hospital.

Dr. Norman Payea, Dr. E. W. Phillips and the Rev. Kenneth Tausley used four-wheel-drive vehicles to bring employees to the hospital.

Both Snyder and Donald Miner were snowbound at their homes and arrived at the hospital by four-wheel-drive vehicles before noon Thursday.

One employee was transported to the hospital by snowmobile. Many of the employees walked to work.

In spite of the storm, Snyder said that "everything worked out quite well."

Storm Delays Reports of Social News

Herald correspondents had difficulty in preparing local news this week. All events scheduled for Thursday or Friday were canceled because of the storm and travel was at a minimum.

Postal service to the county was closed until a truck arrived Saturday afternoon.

BAKING WITH CANDY IS DANDY

Two great tastes that taste great together are chocolate and peanut butter. Proven popular in candy, the flavor combination is also a winner in the homemade oven-baked treats, featured here. Crunchy peanut butter cookies become something extra special if, before baking, you make a thumbprint depression in the center of the cookies, then, as they come hot from the oven, fill each center with a milk chocolate covered peanut butter cup. Kids'll eat 'em up!

Just plain delicious is our Peanut Butter Candy Cake. Its great taste comes from sprinkling chopped peanut butter cups on top of the batter before baking. The baked cake is then lavishly frosted with a creamy cocoa frosting.

Don't miss out on these two candy-inspired chocolate-peanut butter treats. They'll become family favorites.

BUTTERCUP CANDY COOKIES
 1/2 cup butter or margarine
 1/2 cup peanut butter
 1/2 cup packed light brown sugar
 1/4 cup sugar
 1 egg
 1-3/4 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
 1 teaspoon baking soda
 1/8 teaspoon salt
 1 egg white
 1 tablespoon water
 1 cup crushed corn cereal
 1 10-ounce package Reese's Bite Size Milk Chocolate Covered Peanut Butter Cups (40 cups)

Cream butter, peanut butter, brown sugar and sugar until light and fluffy; blend in egg. Combine flour, baking soda and salt; add to creamed mixture. Roll dough into 1-inch balls. Combine egg white and water; beat with fork until foamy. Roll balls in egg white mixture, then in crushed cereal. Place on ungreased cookie sheet and press with thumb or finger tips in center making a depression about 1-inch wide. Bake at 375°F. for 8 to 10 minutes or until set. Remove from oven and immediately place a peanut butter cup in center of each cookie. Cool on cookie sheet 1 minute; carefully remove and cool on wire rack. About 40 cookies.

PEANUT BUTTER CANDY CAKE
 1-3/4 cups boiling water
 1 cup quick-cooking rolled oats
 1/2 cup butter or margarine
 1 cup packed light brown sugar
 1 cup sugar
 1 teaspoon vanilla
 2 eggs
 1-1/2 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
 1 teaspoon baking soda
 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 5 Reese's Milk Chocolate Covered Peanut Butter Cups (0.6 ounce each)

Combine water and rolled oats; cool to room temperature. Cream butter, brown sugar and vanilla; beat in eggs. Blend in oatmeal mixture. Combine remaining ingredients except peanut butter cups; add to creamed mixture. Beat 1 minute on medium speed. Pour batter into two greased and floured 8x8x2-inch square pans or one 13x9x2-inch pan. Chop peanut butter cups and sprinkle onto top of batter. Do not stir. Bake at 350°F. for 30 to 35 minutes for the square pans; 40 to 45 minutes for oblong pan, or until cake tests done.

COCOA BUTTERCREAM FROSTING
 1/2 cup Hershey's Cocoa
 2-2/3 cups confectioners' sugar
 6 tablespoons butter or margarine
 1/8 teaspoon salt
 4 to 5 tablespoons milk
 1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine cocoa and confectioners' sugar. Cream butter and salt with one-third of the sugar mixture. Gradually add milk, vanilla and remaining sugar mixture; beat until desired spreading consistency.

Valuation Increase Slated for County

Sales studies conducted by the Iosco County Equalization Department indicate the county will have a 7.89 percent increase in state equalized valuation for 1978. This was the word last week from John Rose, county equalization director. Rose's report was based on a study of sales for the past three years.

Valuation of all real estate in the county amounts to $409,843,434, as compared to $379,872,173 for the previous year. The above figure does not include $32,872,932 in personal property, remaining practically unchanged from last year, along with new construction, which will not be known until meetings of the individual boards of review later in the spring.

Fifty percent of the new true cash valuation figure, theoretically the state equalized valuation total, amounts to $204,921,720, as compared to an assessed valuation of $167,582,501. State equalization is the figure on which taxes are based.

This gives an average unit ratio of 40.89 percent and estimated multipliers required to bring assessed valuation to 50 percent of true cash value would require an estimated multiplier of 22.29 percent.

The multipliers are not uniform throughout the county as, based on the sales study, two units face increases higher than 40 percent. It is for this reason the county is being completely reappraised by Rose's department, the first complete property reappraisal in more than 10 years. Several of the units are to be completed this year, but Oscoda and Plainfield Townships are not to be completed until 1979.

The highest multiplier, 43.48 percent, was assigned to Grant Township, followed by a 42.54 percent multiplier for Oscoda Township, the largest unit in area and valuation in the county.

As an indication of the study, Grant Township had 37 residential sales. The township's board of review established a valuation of $115,200 for the property and true cash value of the sales amounted to $356,100 for a ratio of 32.35 percent. Oscoda Township had 88 residential sales. Property valuation established by the board of review was $495,351 and true cash value amounted to $1,515,205, or a unit ratio of 32.69 for residential sales.

Estimated multipliers for the remaining units include: Alabaster, 18.01 percent; AuSable, 13.38 percent; Baldwin, 13.80 percent; Burleigh, seven percent; Plainfield, 17.65 percent; Reno, 7.25 percent; Sherman, 22.98 percent; Tawas, 11.34 percent; Wilber, 12.09 percent; East Tawas, 11.21 percent; Tawas City, 7.16 percent; Whittemore, 5.02 percent.

RESIDENTS of Iosco County were trying to recall if any storm in past history matched the blizzard which hit the area Thursday, although this county was not as hard hit as other areas of the state. As far as Sheriff George Westcott is concerned, a storm during the winter of 1947 was the most severe in his recollection.

Another storm in February 1943 closed all roads. These pictures of Newman Street were snapped at East Tawas following a storm which hit the area around 1900. There were no automobiles in those days and it was not necessary to plow the streets—only the sidewalks. The snow did not disappear until the spring thaw.

'You Can Do It' Classes Offered in Iosco County

"You Can Do It" courses, jointly offered by the Cooperative Extension Service and local community education programs, will show participants how to replace a plug and a wall switch, repair a leaky faucet, rescue a plugged toilet, caulk drafty windows, install weatherstripping, patch walls and prepare to paint. In the process, the skill will be demonstrated and students get a chance to try the new skill and receive printed how-to sketches. By the end of the course, participants will have a manual for simple home repairs.

Classes start Monday evening, February 6, in Oscoda and Tuesday evening, February 7, in Tawas. All sessions are scheduled from 7:00 to 9:00 p. m. and will last for six weeks. A small fee will be charged to cover material costs. To register, contact the Community Education Office in Oscoda or Tawas.

BACKGROUND ON BUSINESS

There's good news for business from the expert forecasters at the Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania.

In a forecast for the U.S. economy, Professors Lawrence R. Klein, P. Gerard Adams and Richard M. Young see "little danger of either recession or a new inflationary spiral on the economic horizon."

Economics experts at the University of Pennsylvania predict better business in the future.

The Wharton Econometric Forecasting Associates predict:

- The U.S. trade deficit should decline in 1979 and 1980, aided by better agricultural export earnings and energy conservation.
- In a surprisingly strong and robust expansion, housing industry starts should exceed 1.97 million this year and may reach close to 2.0 million units in 1978.
- Real disposable income is expected to increase by 4.78 percent in 1978 and by an additional 3.81 percent in 1979.
- The unemployment rate will decline to 6.26 percent in 1979.
- Corporate profits before taxes are expected to average $220.1 billion by 1979.

Girl Scouts Used Team Work

In the world of out-of-doors, Girl Scout Troops No. 608 and 251 learned how important it is to cooperate and use teamwork, when on the week-end of January 20, the girls participated in a winter camping at the Short Horn Hunting Club, Alabaster, in which they were responsible for cooking, cleaning up, serving and maintaining the fire. Leaders for the week-end were Elizabeth Rogers, Edith Kovacs and Joan Lorenz.

The experience of planning and working for their trip, earned the scouts their troop camper badge. The girls enjoyed many outdoor adventures, including hiking and trail marking.

The girls evaluated their experience in a scouts own ceremony Sunday morning, expressing their feelings for the things for which they were grateful.

AT THE PEAK of Thursday's blizzard, only two alternatives were open to those desiring sure transportation on Iosco County's snow-clogged highways—use of a snowmobile or walking. A city grader had opened one lane of the highway in the picture at right which made walking a little easier, but all side roads remained plugged and vehicular traffic was at a bare minimum.—Tawas Herald Photos.

Three Townships Lack Assessors; Expect State Tax Commission to Act

According to John Rose, county equalization director, three units of the county do not have certified assessors.

Rose told the county board of commissioners that the state tax commission is aware of the deficiency through its own records and no notification had been made by his department. He said the state would be notifying Reno, Sherman and Wilber Townships to comply with the seven-year-old requirement.

Rose said that three alternatives to hiring a certified assessor were provided by law. Each unit may retain the county equalization department to perform the assessing, hire a certified individual or ask the state tax commission to perform this service.

Rose felt the units probably would consider the third alternative the most undesirable as the state tax commission charges a fee of $20 per parcel for this service.

He expressed the opinion that the first and third alternatives were the least desirable.

Although the county equalization department has performed this service for some units in the past, Rose felt this was not a good practice.

"Theoretically, the county equalization department would be sitting as judge and jury if we do the unit's tax roll and then turn around and equalize the county," said Rose.

Last year, the county equalization department contracted with Sherman Township to pick up the new construction to be added to the tax roll. A charge of $3.50 per description was made by his department and it waived one-half of the cost.

In addition to his objection to wearing two hats—both as the assessor and equalization director—Rose said his department was engaged in reappraising the entire county, which required a major effort on behalf of his expanded staff.

At the present time, about 90 percent of Alabaster and Sherman Township have been reappraised. These two townships, along with Baldwin and Burleigh, are to be completed before the first meeting of boards of review in the spring. Plainfield and Oscoda Townships, the county's largest units, will not be completed until 1979.

In the case of Reno Township,

Rose felt that James Dobson, supervisor, had done an excellent job in his new office. New supervisors are given a six-month provisional certification by the state and are then required to pass the examination.

Rose said that the Reno supervisor did not pass the examination, which is not unusual, but he believed Dobson would pass the examination on his second try. However, Rose said the state had not scheduled a second examination until later in the year.

He felt that an arrangement could be made whereby the Reno supervisor could appraise property within his township under supervision of the county equalization department. Rose or an agent of his department would be required to sign the tax roll and necessary forms as the Reno assessing officer in compliance with the law.

The equalization director said he would prepare a list of individuals in the county who are certified assessors and would provide the information to Sherman and Wilber Townships in order that those two units could perform the assessment work in compliance with the law.

He pointed out that the City of Whittemore had hired a certified appraiser this year, as well as other units in which the supervisor had not qualified to serve as an assessing officer. He said the other two units would have to do the same in order to provide justice to those units and to maintain county equalization.

MANY YEARS REQUIRED TO FINALLY ELIMINATE

The UNWASHED CUP

AN EXTREME BLOWUP of a pump which served the public is shown above. Wells were checked for contamination starting around 1911 and a state law prohibited the use of public drinking cups. Many years were required before the tin cups disappeared. One of the joys of childhood was to pump the handle and enjoy a cool drink as the water gushed into one's cupped hand.

A hobo was once observed at the railroad station in Tawas City using a rather peculiar method of drinking water out of a public cup.

This experienced traveler of the "rods" appeared to be a contortionist—holding the tin cup in his right hand, he turned it around so as to drink out of the left side of the vessel near the handle!

His curiosity understandably aroused, the well-dressed fellow traveler waiting at the station platform made an inquiry as to the reason why the hobo was drinking water in this fashion. The immediate and piqued response was: "I don't want to catch germs!"

One must be middle-aged to remember a public drinking cup attached to a pump or even a hobo—both disappeared from the American scene in the 1930s, but more than a few people will recall using similar methods to find a "sanitary" place to drink out of a public cup.

Right-handed persons often held the cup in the left hand; some quaffed a drink from the outer rim of the cup opposite the handle; not a few used the hobo's placement of lips near the handle and a few even tried to drink without the mouth touching the cup!

Some years were to pass before the disposable paper drinking cup came into being—a noted national advertising campaign showed a railroad conductor assisting a young passenger at the drinking fountain—paper cups were used, naturally.

Dr. Joseph Lister (1827-1912) introduced the general principles and practice of antiseptic and aseptic surgery, but this nineteenth century "germ theory" was not immediately accepted by the medical profession; many years were required, too, for the general public to accept the theory of Listerism—that microscopic bacteria can cause disease.

By 1911, however, countless thousands of lives had been saved in hospitals throughout the world by enforcement of sanitary practices in the operating room; it seems strange today that so many years had to pass before the public drinking cup — that receptacle which was responsible for the spread of many common diseases—was banned.

An advertisement printed in the October 13, 1911, issue of The Ta-

PUBLIC DRINKING CUPS attached to corner pumps were blamed for spreading disease in the early 1900s. By the time this picture was snapped at the Detroit and Mackinac Railway depot in 1951, a tin cup attached by chain to the pump (indicated by the hand) had long since

was Herald offered free sanitary drinking cups to subscribers. "State law says no drinking cups at public fountains or on railroad trains or in public schools. Carry your own cup—avoid spreading disease. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure; compel your children to carry one to school."

In its offer for free collapsible drinking cups, the announcement stated that doctors recommended the use of individual drinking cups, "as more disease is spread by public cups than in any other way."

Through such promotional programs, it is a wonder that public drinking cups were still to be found in the 1930s and even later. In the September 26, 1913, issue of the Herald, the newspaper printed a three-minute talk entitled, "The Unwashed Cup," on how to drink beautifully and decently.

The article asked readers: "The unwashed cup—do you use it? Do members of your family use it at home or elsewhere?"

"If you do, it is up to you to wake up and realize you are not only behind the times, but so far as this practice is concerned, it is in the stone ages of civilization."

The article, prepared by the association for the prevention and relief of tuberculosis, pointed out that the trend of all centuries "is away from the gregariousness of the primitive man and toward the privacy and individualism of modern life. In thought and action, men are becoming more social, but in habits of living, more individual."

"In the dark corners of the world today, you will find people eating from one dish, smoking a common pipe, bathing in a common tub. Do you want to be classed with these people, or even with the crass boarding school boy, who borrows his roommate's pantaloons to go to the ball game?"

"You stopped using a family tooth brush several generations ago. Why do you continue to use a family, or worse, a school or railroad station cup that is practically certain to have been used by uncleanly and diseased people and cannot be cleaned by rinsing."

"Be up-to-date—throw away that dirty dripping dipper and unspeakable dish cloth; use some real hot water and soap powder or soda on the family glassware and carry your own paper or metal cup with you whenever you go in public."

Those words were written a year after the death of the noted English surgeon responsible for the germ theory; but, it was to be many years before the public cup finally was removed from neighborhood water pumps, railroad station platforms and other public places.

The public cup attached to a pump at the corner of Wheeler and Lake Streets disappeared in the 1930s—the pump was gone in the mid-1940s—but as late as 1948, there was still a tin cup attached to the pump at the Tawas City baseball diamond. It was finally removed for good by the public health official.

An enlightened state public health department caused enactment of numerous laws to protect the public. In 1913, the Herald printed a notice relative to "what the barbers will have to do to comply with the new state law."

That law required barbers to file a "certificate of good health, good moral character" and provided for a one-year apprenticeship for new members in the trade. The fee was $2 for "old barbers" and $5 for new ones.

"They are prohibited from shaving people who have erysipelas, eczema, impetigo, syphilis, tuberculosis or contagious or infectious diseases. It is also against the law for people who have these diseases to apply for a hair cut or shave in a barber shop. The law is mandatory, not directory. Violation is a misdemeanor and punishable by from 30 to 90 days in jail."

The state health department conducted another enlightened measure in 1913 when it campaigned to eliminate the common towel. How many people of today remember the roller towel in the home or in public places? As late as 1947, the Herald office still had an old-fashioned roller towel in its wash-room!

"This household infection spreader is abhorrent and repulsive to a (SEE TIN CUP, page 6.)

THESE TAWAS DANDIES were not concerned about germs from an unwashed cup. The hard liquor they were quaffing around 1904 would have killed any germs in their glasses. None of these tipplers have been identified, but the original glass plate negative was snapped by A. G. Emery, East Tawas photographer.

Howard Haight, Community Relations Manager, East Tawas, offers you this telephone tip:

Teach your children how to use the phone in an emergency!

Anyone can have an emergency at home that calls for fast, intelligent use of the phone... a sudden illness, accident, fire. Hopefully, you already have a list in your phone book or elsewhere near the phone, giving the numbers of your doctor, hospital, poison control, police, fire department and your home address. But, if you have children at home, would they know how to use the phone in an emergency? Make sure they do.

Show them where you keep the emergency numbers and how to call the operator, if necessary. Your babysitter should be told who to call, too. Know if 911 can be dialed for fire, medical and police help in your area. Nobody likes to think about emergencies at home. But, it's better to give it a little thought now, than be sorry you didn't later. Why not check out the family on your emergency phone call procedure right now?

SWEETNESS WITHOUT SUGAR

Sugar, the predominant sweetener in the American diet, has many uses in food preparation. Sugar provides flavor and also aids in the development of volume and texture of baked products. Sugar supplies food for the yeast and in yeast breads contributes to their tenderness, texture and crust color. Sugar influences the thickness of puddings and the firmness of products, such as jellies and custards. The color and texture of fruit products are affected by sugar. In the preparation of foods containing a large amount of sugar, the size of sugar crystals influences the texture of the products.

Many people today are interested in reducing their consumption of sugar. One can substitute honey or corn syrup for part or all of the sugar in many baked goods and puddings. Often adjustments in the recipes or baking temperature are necessary to help in attaining a standard product.

Honey or corn syrup can be substituted for sugar measure for measure in quick breads and yeast breads. This is because only a small amount of sugar is used in these products. In fruit breads, up to half the sugar may be replaced with honey or corn syrup without changing the proportion of other ingredients.

A small amount of sugar is normally used in puddings or custards so one can substitute measure for measure. The volume of corn syrup necessary to provide characteristic sweetness in vanilla pudding or custard requires a considerable reduction in other liquid ingredients causing loss of other flavors. When using corn syrup in these particular products, vanilla flavoring cannot be successfully increased to improve the flavor without resulting in a bitter aftertaste.

Crisp cookies can be made with one-third of the sugar replaced with honey or corn syrup. When using honey, the baking temperature needs to be reduced 25 degrees Fahrenheit. Substitutions for sugar in other types of cookies require considerable recipe adjustment. Replace one-half the sugar of chocolate brownies with honey or corn syrup. Reduce the baking temperature by 25 degrees Fahrenheit.

Forty percent of the sugar may be replaced with honey or corn syrup in yellow cake, chiffon cake and chocolate cake. The baking temperature usually needs to be reduced by 25 degrees Fahrenheit. Reduce liquid by one-fourth cup for every cup of honey or corn syrup used. When substituting honey for sugar, add one-fourth teaspoon baking soda per cup of honey to neutralize the acidity of the honey. The volume of the product is generally improved when soda is used. In cake recipes normally containing soda, it is not necessary to add additional soda. Honey often causes an undesirable color in white cakes when it is substituted at any level for sugar in the product.

Hints for using and storing honey and corn syrup are given below:
Grease measuring cup with shortening or rinse cup in water before measuring honey or corn syrup; then all the measured honey or syrup will slip from the sides of the cup. Do the same with measuring spoons.

Mix honey or syrup thoroughly with shortening and liquid in the baked goods recipes to prevent a soggy layer from being formed on top. Reduce the baking temperatures of cookies, brownies and most cakes 25 degrees Fahrenheit to prevent overbrowning when honey is used in place of sugar.

Store corn syrup or honey tightly covered in a dry place at room temperature. Honey can be stored in the refrigerator but this may hasten crystallization. Crystallization is a natural process and does not injure the honey in any way. To bring crystallized honey back to liquid form, place the container of honey in a pan of warm water over low heat until the crystals disappear. Be careful not to overheat as this could cause the honey to change color and flavor.

LOOKING BACKWARD—

Shanties Give New Life to Perchville

15 Years Ago—January 30, 1963—Perchville, the seasonal village of fish shanties on the ice of Tawas Bay, got a new lease on life this week. Work started Monday morning at Anderson Coach Company on construction of 25 new aluminum shanties destined for the perch fishing village. Before the project is completed, Tawas Chamber of Commerce officials hope to have 50 or more new shanties available for winter visitors.

Twenty-fifth annual Silver Valley Winter Sports Carnival will be held this week-end and weather conditions appear to be perfect for the three-day event. Attendance this season has been the best in recent years, reports James Campbell, committee chairman.

Through cooperation between garden clubs of East Tawas and Tawas City, letters were sent out this week to all civic organizations of the county asking cooperation in a new landscaping plan at Tawas Hospital.

James Mann was elected chief of the Plainfield Township Fire Department. Other officers include Lloyd Springsteen, assistant chief; Jack Slosser, lieutenant; Ronald Dane, secretary, and Harold Funk, treasurer.

Randy DeWyse, center for the Tawas Braves, was lost for the remainder of the season when he dislocated his knee Friday night against the Gladwin Flying Gs.

25 Years Ago—January 30, 1953—A prince and princess are to be chosen from a group of 14 children representing seven Isosco County schools to reign over the winter sports activities. The youngsters will be chosen rather than having a winter sports queen this year.

Lyle Groff of Tawas City speared a 35-inch pike through the ice of Tawas Lake. The big fish weighed more than 11 pounds.

Elford A. Cederberg of Bay City succeeds Roy O. Woodruff as 10th District congressman. Woodruff represented the district for 34 years.

In compliance with new state regulations, Isosco County Board of Supervisors is procuring compulsory compensation insurance for all nonexecutive county employees.

The Detroit District Corps of Engineers has received application and plans for a bridge to cross the Straits of Mackinac. The new bridge would be 24,421 feet long with a suspension span of approximately 3,800 feet.

Isosco County Board of Supervisors equalized the county at $18,000,000 and the percentage set by the state tax commission for 1952 is to be adhered to as a basis for adjusting all new valuation.

35 Years Ago—January 29, 1943—Roads leading into Silver Valley are being kept open by snow plows of the Isosco County Road Commission, reports Fred J. Adams, general chairman of the winter sports committee. A limited program is being presented during wartime to provide facilities for healthful outdoor recreation.

Charles Bailey arrived Tuesday at Whittemore after working for more than a year on a new road in Alaska.

Isosco Chapter of the American Red Cross has received 75 pounds of yarn to be distributed to women around the county to fill the quota of knitted garments for servicemen. Required are 40 sleeveless sweaters, 15 turtle-necked sweaters, 10 mufflers and 25 pair of gloves.

Quarantine of a family at Whittemore has been lifted after one member recovered from diphtheria.

How to Replace Worn Curtains

A new Michigan State University Cooperative Extension bulletin will help replace worn curtains or draperies. Bulletin E-1170, "How to Make Curtains and Draperies," covers the entire process. Sections on planning for curtains and draperies, making curtains for a traverse rod, making lined and unlined draperies and making cafe curtains will help both beginning and more experienced seamstresses. Sketches and photographs provide step-by-step guidance.

For information on how to get a copy of this bulletin, contact Isosco County's Cooperative Extension Service at 362-3449. There is a small charge for the bulletin.

TIPS FOR HOMEOWNERS
Fix It Yourself
For Safety & Economy

HOME ON THE RANGE
You can solve problems at home with your gas range and prevent accidents by knowing a few simple adjustments.
• To adjust pilot, turn adjustment screw on the pilot supply line so that the tip of the flame is 1/8 inch above the pilot shield.
• To remove a surface burner, take out the burner retaining screw and lift the burner from its support.

YOU ARE THE KEEPER of your pilot flame and knowing how to adjust it will solve many oven problems.

- To clean the ignition hole in the side of the burner head use a toothpick or straightened-out paper clip.
- To adjust simmer, remove the control knob and use a small screwdriver to turn screw inside the shaft of burner control.

Tawas Girl Writes from South Africa

She traveled extensively during her month-long school vacation over Christmas.

January 1, 1978

Hello!
I am in a place called Umhloti, Umhloti or Umdhloti, about half an hour from Durban, right on the Indian Ocean coast. Different road signs spell it different ways, so I do not know which way is right, TODAY'S TEEN at Hale Area High School is Gary Williams, 18, a senior. Gary has been active in competitive sports in high school and was named to the all-conference football team in 1976, was the most improved runner in track during the 1975 season and was the first underclassman to receive the Cal Bell Award in track for 1976. His subjects this year include United States Government, career education, constitutional history, shop, social problems. He is a member of the yearbook staff and serves as a teachers' aide. He plans to attend college for study in a law enforcement or natural resources career. Gary is the son of Mrs. Dorothy Sheldon of Hale and Alton Williams of Montana.

but it is a Zulu word which sounds like Umshloti.

I have been to Durban three times. It is a huge place with millions of people everywhere! And sky-scrapers! And lights! I kind of like it. It is neat being in the city on the streets and just watching the people go by. Some walk, some run. Some have jeans on, some sun dresses, some long dresses, some bikinis. Some are white, some black, some Indian (India Indians, not Red Indians). It really makes you stop and wonder about people, places and things. It reminds me of bits of songs: "Do you know where you're going to?" and "Come on, people now. Smile on your brother. "verybody get together, try to love one another right now."

One day, we went to the aquarium, snake park (where I saw three crocodiles), and shopped all day. I had my first pizza in five months that day! One night, we went to the amusement park.

And last night, we went to the show, "Star Wars!" It was really a good movie! But I have the feeling I have seen it all before somewhere (Harrisville, August 12). We went to the late show, and it got out at midnight. Midnight madness—the town was going bananas! People everywhere, horns honking, confetti and streamers, lights, firecrackers—all to announce the coming of 1978!! Happy New Year! I really missed not babysitting!

On our way down to Durban, we passed through Zululand and near there, we stopped to see Ma's brother. He is quite rich and has his own airplane. He reminded me of a fat cross between Grandpa M. and Putt. He liked me, so he said if I come down again, I must stay with them and he will show me around Zululand. So if I get the chance in February or March and can get a lift as far as Jo'burg, he can fly up and get me there. I hope it works out!

Next week, I am going to visit the people who gave me the impala skin purse for Christmas. They have a farm with lots of blacks. But O'Flaughertys are different than most people. They allow some of their black laborers to eat dinner with them at their table. I can't wait to see how they live!

Have to go now. Thinking of you all a lot!

Lois

Tin Cup

person who has been used to an individual towel," stated a public health notice in the 1913 campaign printed by the Herald. "It is difficult to understand how anyone can wipe his face on a soiled, damp towel that has been used by all the other members of the household; but custom is a great factor in molding habits and allaying prejudices, hence the necessity of pointing out at least one reason why the common towel is dangerous.

"There are many germs which will attack the eyes and cause inflammation, providing the eyes are in a favorable condition for the germ to develop at the time of its introduction. A germ which at one time will grow in the eye and cause inflammation will at another time be perfectly harmless. Germs which are harmless to oneself may be exceedingly poisonous to another person and cause dangerous inflammation of the eyes. For hygienic reasons, the common towel should be abolished."

The state board of health went to great lengths to make the public aware of the need for sanitary conditions and even recommended that school rooms be thoroughly disinfected each month of the school year, "particularly during the winter months when the doors and windows are likely to be kept closed."

Today, many of the innovations of the early 1900s concerning public health seem humorous—but many of the results are taken for granted as a modern way of life. The tin cup attached by a chain to a public pump has gone the way of the hobo, the public roller towel and even the corner water pump.

The state health department, however, is still providing a necessary service in protecting public health. More sophisticated approaches are used today and enlightened legislative action has provided power to enforce laws.

EAST TAWAS was installing a new water intake when this picture was snapped. Buildings in the picture date it around 1904. The smokestack to the right of the Holland Hotel served the municipal generating plant which provided electricity to the community. The hardhat diver is preparing to inspect the cast iron pipe, which had been assembled on the ice and then lowered to the lake bottom.

INSTALLATION of a municipal water system at East Tawas in the 1880s put an end to corner pumps and even provided an excess for watering lawns and gardens. This family was dressed in its Sunday finery when posing for A. G. Emery around the turn of the century. The father poses rather stiffly with the garden hose in one hand.

Pure Water At Last

SMALL-SCALE WATER PROJECT IN INDIA: villagers work on irrigation facilities to help drought-prone area.

In Jaunpur, India, impoverished farmers have no access to pure water. The rich families prohibit the poor ones from sharing their water facilities. As a result, 25 families must dip water from the same poorly constructed well. In the summer, the water level is so low that not everyone can get his fill and the water that is available carries a variety of water-borne diseases.

Catholic Relief Services (CRS) helped these people tap a pure water source by installing 12 handpumps in six villages. In this self-help project, groups of families donated their efforts. CRS has sponsored thousands of these small-scale water projects in India, which are only one fraction of the wide-ranging activities supported by the Catholic Relief Services Annual Appeal sponsored by the Catholic Church in our area. Contributions can also be sent directly to Catholic Relief Services, 1011 First Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022.
