Council Wants Volunteers to Serve on Boards and Committees

Want to help your community by serving on an official board or committee? There is no "pay" for most of the openings, but those serving can achieve a great deal of personal satisfaction by performing a service which will benefit his or her home community

This was the word Monday night from the Tawas City Council, which is looking for applications to fill vacancies on seven different boards and committees. A number of different vacancies will be filled by members whose terms expired in 1977, but there are a number of openings caused by resignations.

The city council announced that all applicants would be considered for appointment and those not named immediately would be placed on file for consideration when vacancies occur during the

Vacancies to be filled by the council next Monday night include one member of the board of review, one member of the cemetery board, three members of the planning commission, two members of the water board, two members of the zoning board of appeals and one member of the joint water

In addition, volunteers are needed at various times to assist the

As its first action Monday night, the council disbanded the former Tawas River Harbor Committee and turned its duties over to the city park board. Through efforts of the city manager and Carl Babcock, in cooperation with the harbor committee, the long sought goal of obtaining the Lubaway property at the mouth of the river has been achieved. Future planning and direction for its development is to be provided by the park board, in cooperation with the planning commission and city council. Two persons named to the park board Monday night were James Rudel, formerly of the harbor committee, and Neil Thornton. It is expected that the committee will be expanded to seven members. Reappointed to the park board were Gary Stephan, Joan Blust, John McMurray and the Rev. C. H. Symons. A specific term of years is to be designated for each appointee.

Persons serving on other boards and committees whose terms expire in 1978 are to be contacted by the city manager to determine if they wish to be reappointed.

The only positions receiving compensation are the board of review, water board and zoning board of appeals. All others serve without

The board of review, probably one of the most important and time consuming appointments, meets during March and December to consider tax assessments. The cemetery board meets the second Tuesday of each month, the park board and planning commission meet the third Thursday, the water board meets the first Tuesday.

Meetings of the joint water board and zoning board of appeals are held as required.

The 34th annual Shrine Circus, Saginaw Civic Center will be will be presented in the Saginaw converted into a veritable big-top matinee and evening performances commodate the huge assembly of daily Friday through Tuesday, Jan- circus acts and stars from around the world. Gene Butler, general chairman, stressed the fact that the Hortobagyi Troupe of Acrobats, a sensation here a year ago, will be back. He also said that the appearance of Hawthorne's tigers is one of the most thrilling wild animal acts ever presented in the Saginaw area. The production will abound in high trapeze and tumbling acts, elephants, lions and chimpanzees plus more clowns than ever before, an extra added attraction this year is the Johnn Zoppe Jr. 3001 exploits in space, high over the area floor, an unforgettable aerial act.

Reserved seats for the big show are now on sale at the Saginaw Civic Center. General admission tickets are available from any Elf Kurafeh Shrine member. For information on advance tickets call 755-4881.

Everybody is talking about energy conservation and many people are doing something about it.

People are dialing down and looking for alternative ways to make their home look warmer than it actually is. It is an old trick. More than 200 years ago, the fireplace was the only method of heating homes, but even then families managed to make their homes look and feel warm

The tricks of the trade included hanging tapestries on outside walls for both decorating and insulation, placing high wing-back chairs that entrap body heat in front of fireplaces and surrounding canopy beds with heavy curtains pulled at night to keep cold drafts out.

Some of these ideas still have application today, start with room color to create the mood of warmth. Light colors such as pastel shades will reflect light and require lamps with less wattage for

But, if a room always appears to be cold, one can make it appear warmer by using darker colors that will add a psychological warmth. Darker colors also absorb light and warmth during daylight hours and release this warmth at night. So, it is very much a matter of personal preference.

Wattage costs are nominal becolor creates the mood for a room.

drape over sheers or an insulated age. shade under the sheers will cut down on some of the heat loss. Shutters or decorative blinds might also be considered. Tightly-fitted interior treatments are necessary to stop the convection of heated air into and out of the space enclosed by the window treatment. Draperies over floor registers should stop several inches short of the floor to allow for adequate air circulation from the heat register. And a closed top cornice across the top of the window can be constructed to create a pocket to trap heated

Another way to phsychologically add warmth to a room is by selecting furniture. Smooth materials will give a cool feeling. Textured materials provide a warm, cozy feeling. A lounge chair upholstered in wool will look and actually feel warmer than a plastic chair or an open chair of rattan or wicker.

The amount of furniture in the room also seems to affect physical and psychological temperature. A crowded room, for example, gives a feeling of warmth.

the local papers, the hole drilled in East Tawas' Third Ward was a dry one. Because of the expense involved and perhaps the tremendous gamble, Butler and McKay left the oil speculation business.

Only a year prior to this, however, McKay and Butler joined forces which led to one of the great developments in the history of the county. As a banker, McKay had owned land in Sherman Township and, realizing the importance of a large deposit of gypsum in that area, he and Butler obtained options to purchase a large tract of land south of Emery Junction. The two men then contacted National Gypsum Company of Buffalo, New York, and sold them on the idea of locating a new plant here.

The two Tawas businessmen met with immediate success in the project and a new plant was opened in 1927. The firm is still a major employer in the area.

The energy crises has made us realize some things about energy: It's no longer cheap. And it isn't going to last forever.

That's why you need to make your next building a true energy saver. And that's where we can help. We'll show you how we use special insulation methods on your building to keep the heating and cooling inside where it belongs. We offer the lowest "U" factor in the industry (a low "U" factor is a measure of good insulation effectiveness). The combination of Butler Systems and superior insulation can give you the best available protection against the weather and a high energy bill.

And we can handle your entire building project from start to finish. That saves your energy. If you're thinking about building, give us a call. We'd like to show you how to keep those monthly
