Burglars - Thieves Had Busy Week

Ten burglaries, seven larcenies and three vandalism complaints kept Iosco County Sheriff's Department officers busy over the week-end. In addition, there was one personal injury caused by a firecracker explosion and officers confiscated a quantity of illegal fireworks from a local merchant.

Burglaries were reported by Whittemore Speedway, entry into a concession stand; Donald W. Richmond, cabin; John Hourdakis, Huron Hills Drive, East Tawas, cabin; William Goodnight, Indian Lake Road, tool shed; Eagle Park Grocery, cabin; H and M General Store, National City, front door forced open and a quantity of beer and cigarettes stolen; James T. Wiles, National City, cabin; Fred L. Wetzel, National City, cabin; Burles R. Scobey, Douglas Drive, Alabaster Township, 5 1/2-horsepower outboard engine and gasoline can stolen from boathouse; Alex E. Price, Plainfield Township, cabin.

Larcenies were reported by Whittemore-Prescott Area School, battery stolen from car; Tawas Hospital, 35 pillow cases used by an ambulance stored at the Plainfield Township Fire Hall; Mrs. Edgar Barnes, Laidlaw Road, Tawas Township, theft of a bull tied in front yard; Jerry's Marina, Tawas Point, juvenile apprehended in the act of stealing sunglasses; Ferris E. Brigger, South Branch, culvert stolen from driveway; Clark Station, Tawas City, larceny of inflatable boat from car; Tawas Hardware, larceny of items and juvenile apprehended.

Vandalism complaints were reported by Nelson Gregory, Townline Road, window in home smashed; Hale Shell Station, gasoline pump damaged; Herbert Schroeder, Sherman Township, centennial farm sign damaged by unknown vehicle.

Walter Bilot, St. Clair Shores, was treated Sunday at Tawas Hospital when a firecracker exploded under his foot.

Officers confiscated a quantity of illegal fireworks from Romeo and Sons Produce, Alabaster Township. A complaint had been received from the parents of a juvenile who had purchased fireworks from the place of business.

Five Vandalism Complaints for SP

Michigan State Police investigated five vandalism complaints over the week-end.

Ralph Kelley, Flushing, reported that he had parked his car near the Michigan Waterways Commission Dock, East Tawas, and a number of young people dented the hood while seated on it. The car's windshield was later smashed.

Four Oscoda area residents reported damage to windows. Police said that juveniles used an air gun to puncture windows of cabins owned by Franklin Gerhardt, Claire Sharkey, Arnold Kreuzwieser and Paul Meneguzzo.

PADDLING toward their first stop at the mouth of the AuSable River on a more than 200-mile trip from Bay City to old Fort Michilimackinac is the Mackinaw Brigade composed of seven professional canoeists. The group pulled into the AuSable River harbor in a seven-man canoe Friday evening. The group is retracing the route of the early voyageurs along the Lake Huron shore.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Paddlers Re-Enact Voyage to Old Fort Michilimackinac

Days of the French voyageurs and the later Lewis Cass expedition were re-enacted over the long Fourth of July week-end when six Michigan men paddled a 27-foot canoe from Bay City to Mackinac Island.

The six men comprising the "Mackinaw Brigade," sponsored by Big Chief Sugar Company, captured the colorful days of the past when they recreated a trip that was common more than 150 years ago on the Great Lakes.

Hugging the coastline of Lake Huron, the six modern day "explorers" traveled one of the early French military routes which crossed the "Bay of Saginaw" and eventually reached Michilimackinac. The earliest recorded traveler along this route noted the passage in 1687.

And like that expedition, today's paddler's "camped" near the mouth of the AuSable River during a brief respite from the arduous journey. Instead of sleeping on the shore of Lake Huron and bartering for white fish caught by a band of nearby Chippewa Indians, today's travelers slept in a motel and enjoyed the fare of an Oscoda restaurant.

Another marked change from the past was the cargo; instead of precious furs, the canoe was loaded with 600 pounds of sugar, which would have been a valuable, although impractical cargo in the days of the voyageurs.

Recreating the trading adventures of the original voyageurs were Edward Adams, Joseph Wright, Donald Burkland, Gary Mundy, Louis Bennett and Larry Cool, all professional canoeists, who have thousands of paddling hours behind them. A trip such as this calls for seasoned, accomplished paddlers because of distance and the elements of the large lake.

The travelers were met near AuSable Point by a charter fishing cruiser owned by Capt. Steve Paslaski of Fellows' Point Marina of Oscoda. Aboard were newsmen and a television cameraman to record the trip.

Adams, leader of the group, told the spectators that his party had no trouble with the nearly two-foot waves which buffeted the $2,000 canoe built in Canada, but he was keeping a close eye on the weather to insure a safe passage.

The men were all outfitted in the traditional dress of the voyageur, loose shirts, moccasins and the colorful sash tied around the waist. Like the days of old, they traveled light, with a change of clothes, food, tobacco and a pipe, which helped to make the early day until dark, 16-hour-paddling day at least bearable.

Their freighter canoe, fashioned after those originally used by traders, was loaded with Big Chief sugar from Bay City and was to be delivered to the John Jacob Astor fur trading post on Mackinac Island on July 4. The sugar is to be used in the manufacture of Mackinac Island's famous fudge candy.

The route the men were traveling was as familiar to the early traders as today's expressways are (See VOYAGEURS, page 4.)

North Street Bridge Site Under Protest

Petitions in protest to a proposed new bridge over the Tawas River at North Street are to be presented at the July 10 meeting of the Tawas City Council.

Mrs. E. J. Walerych, who is circulating the petitions with Mrs. Raymond Ledsworth, told the Herald Monday that neighbors in that area are opposed to the proposed bridge site due to the increased traffic it would bring into a residential neighborhood.

Although approval of the bridge construction is not yet included in the city's 1978-79 budget, discussion over possible construction of the bridge has been under consideration for several years.

The site had been recommended for a bridge in the city's master plan.

The AuGres-Sims High School Stage Band will perform Saturday afternoon and many prizes will be awarded.

One Killed, 10 Hurt in Seven Iosco County Traffic Accidents

One person was killed and 10 were injured in seven traffic accidents investigated during the past week by Iosco County law enforcement agencies.

Fatally injured early Monday morning was Charles F. Parker, 36, Pontiac, whose motorcycle collided head-on with a pickup truck on US-23, two miles north of Oscoda.

Investigating officers from the Oscoda-AuSable Police Department said the crash occurred at 1:30 a. m. The pickup truck involved was driven by John L. Sklarski, 18, Mt. Clemens. The accident remains under investigation.

Three persons were injured in a spectacular three-vehicle crash early Saturday morning on US-23 near Cemetery Road at East Tawas.

Jack A. Wilson Jr., 22, Fenton, remains in critical condition at St. Mary's Hospital, Saginaw, and his passenger, Brad C. Roberts, 21, is in stable condition at Tawas Hospital.

R. D. Cox, 51, Oscoda, driver of another auto involved, was treated at Tawas Hospital for minor injuries.

Investigating sheriff's department officers said that Wilson was southbound on US-23 and crossed the center line to strike a truck driven by Timothy J. Haneckow, 16, of Oscoda. Haneckow and a passenger, Sue E. Alexander, 14, Oscoda, were not injured.

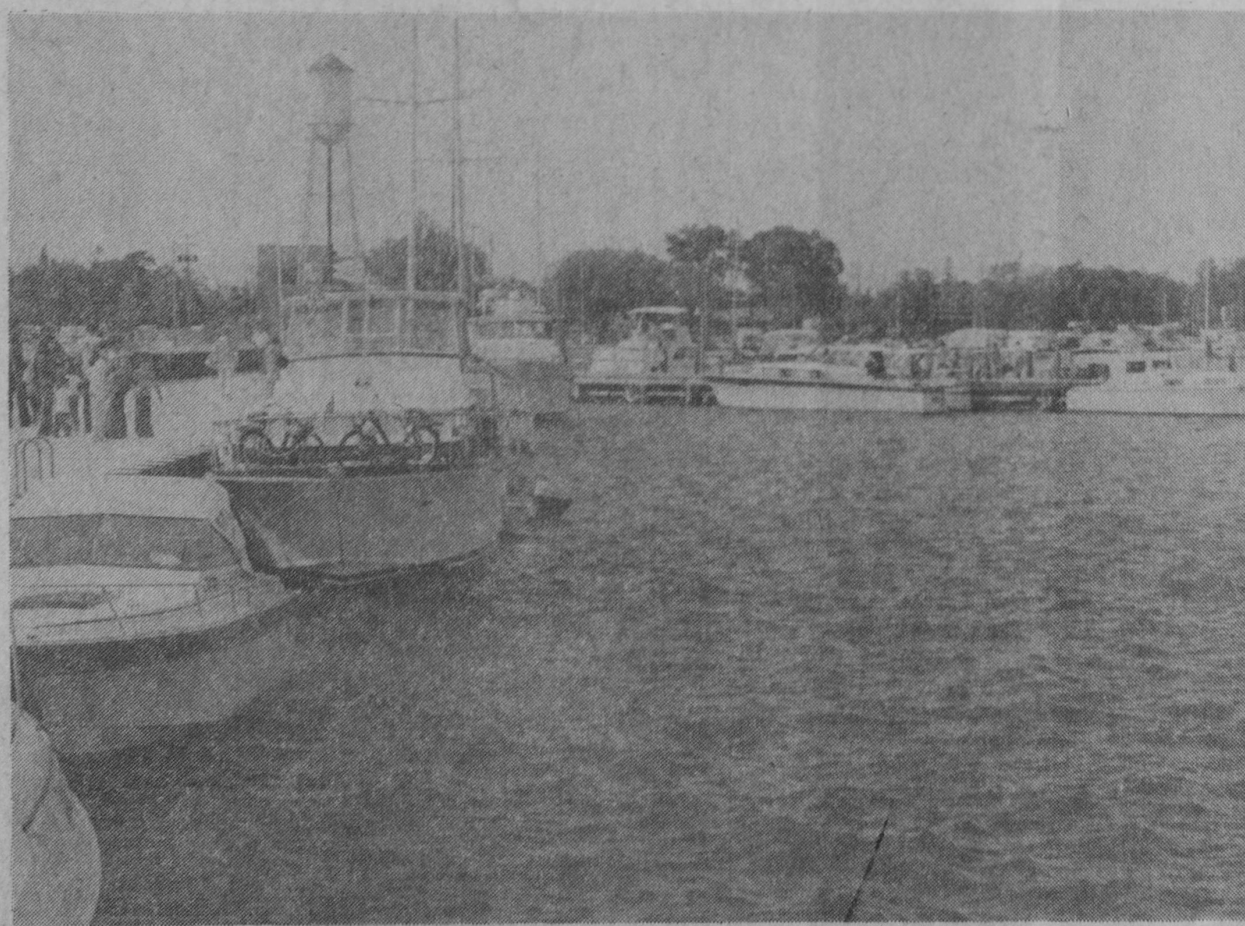

Wilson's four-wheel drive vehicle struck the truck with such force that the engine of the vehicle was thrown to the pavement.

Cox, who was driving a station wagon, told officers that Wilson's car was upside down when it struck his vehicle.

Traffic on US-23 was backed up in both directions for nearly an hour while wreckage from Wilson's vehicle was being removed.

Three other personal injury accidents were investigated by the sheriff's department.

On Friday, a car driven by Hattie A. Moggo, 80, ran off M-55 east of Binder Road. She was treated at Tawas Hospital.

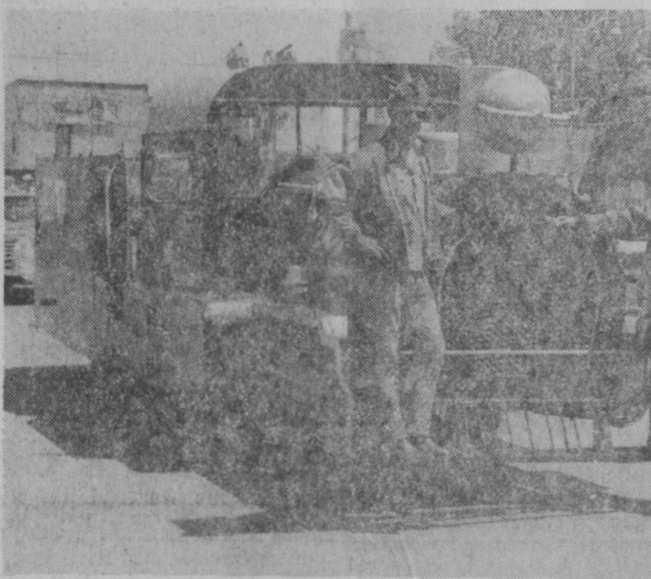

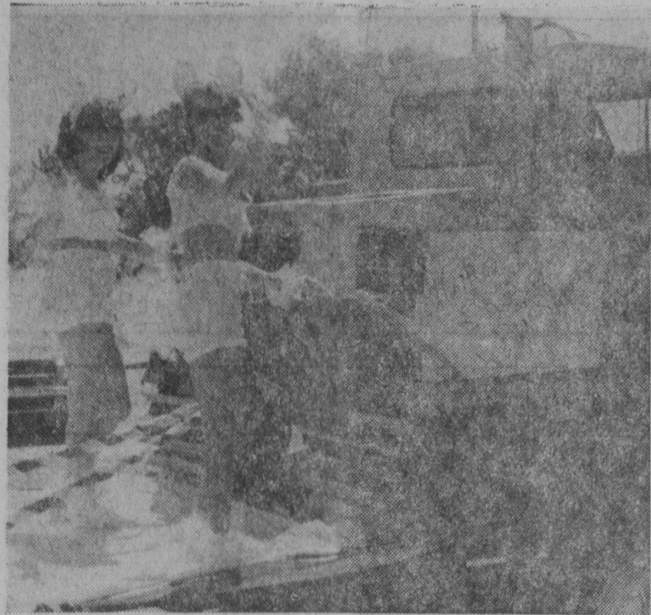

MORE THAN 70 BOATS jammed the Michigan Waterways Commission Dock at East Tawas over the holiday week-end. Gary Rapp, an employee of the harbor commission, said the Fourth of July fleet did not match that of Memorial Day, probably due to uncertain weather conditions. Thousands of tourists jammed Iosco County for the holiday week-end, traditional opener of the resort season, and thousands of people lined US-23 for Monday's big Independence Day parade, one of the best on record. For pictures of the big parade, turn to page 2.—Tawas Herald Photos.

Announce Clerk/Carrier Exams to be Given

Postmaster Matthews has announced that clerk/carrier exams will be given in July and urged that all those interested apply to take the job related tests that can lead to United States Postal Service employment.

Salaries, not including fringe benefits, for clerks and letter carriers begin at $6.75 an hour and increase to $8.04 an hour over an eight-year period. Annually, this represents a $13,604 starting salary for a full-time employee that increases to $16,189 in eight years.

"We have not opened our register since January 1977 and an examination of it has led us to believe that it is out of date. Many of the names on the register are people who have moved or for some reason are no longer available to take postal jobs," Postmaster Matthews said.

"I do not want to give the impression we will be hiring great numbers of people in the coming months," the postmaster said. "I anticipate approximately one vacancy will occur in the next two years that will be filled by hiring a person from our up-dated job register. We need qualified people who will be willing to accept employment. We want to offer people in the local community the chance to compete for these openings by signing up for and taking the exams."

The postmaster said the postal service established the policy two years ago of extending eligibility indefinitely for those on the job register because little hiring was being done. "On October 8, those who have been on the job register for more than two years will lose their eligibility. They will have to reapply to compete for a standing on the new register," he said.

Matthews explained that those wishing to take the exam could apply by obtaining an application card at the Hale post office from July 10-14.

Ulman-LaPorte Wedding Vows Repeated Saturday

Arrangements of white gladioli and blue carnations formed the floral background in Immaculate Heart of Mary Church, Tawas City, for the marriage Saturday, July 1, of Shirley Anne LaPorte of Hemlock and Dean Robert Ulman of Tawas City.

The Rev. Fr. Lawrence Boks was assisted by the Rev. Bernhard Kube of Zion Lutheran Church, Tawas City, for the double ring ceremony uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride chose a polyester organza gown with acetate lining. Lace overlay enhanced the dress which featured a teardrop neckline with floral sculpture design. The bluish veil and sheer sleeves were styled in matching lace. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses, blue carnations and babies breath.

Bonnie Todd was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Stephanie LaPorte, sister of the bride, and Susan Demijohn, both of Saginaw, and Susan Zaucha of Bay City. They were attired in blue knit gowns with floral overlay and carried colonial bouquets of white and blue carnations and babies breath.

to modern day travelers. Nothing was thought of leaving Montreal, Canada, for such distant points as Grand Portage on Lake Superior; thousands of miles in a canoe was a accepted procedure in those days as taking an automobile trip today.

All that is left of those colorful days are the reconstructed forts, such as Fort Michilimackinac and Fort Mackinaw. There is something that will never be lost, the names the voyageurs gave to the rivers, lakes and portages, including the Riviere aux Sables (River of Sand).

After putting into the AuSable River at Oscoda Friday night, the men stopped the next two nights at Rogers City and Mackinaw City. One day was allowed for bad weather.

What inspired six men to step out of their racing canoe and attempt such a trip as this? They considered themselves experienced on the river, lake and portages and knew what they could do as modern voyageurs. They were not attempting any heroic feat, but tried to capture part of the drama of a past era; to keep alive the spark and romance of adventure.

They realized that the Great Lakes are dangerous at times and that they would be cold, wet and weary. That is the price they expected to pay.

Can Be Represented In Dealing with Social Security

All persons who have business with social security have the right to be represented by the person of their choice, a social security spokesman stated today.

This does not mean that a person needs a representative. Most people handle their social security business themselves with the help of the people in the social security office. But, if a person wishes to be represented, the social security staff will work with the representative just as they would with any applicant.

An attorney or any other qualified person can act as a representative. If a person prefers an attorney and needs assistance in locating one, the social security staff can provide a list of legal service organizations such as the local bar association, the Legal Aid Society, or similar organization that can help get legal representation.

An attorney or other person must be formally appointed before he or she can act as a representative. A special form for this purpose can be obtained at any social security office.

A representative may act for an applicant in most social security matters, although he or she cannot sign a person's application for benefits. If the applicant wishes to appeal a decision, the representative may make the request. Any notice or request sent to a representative has the same effect as if sent to the applicant.

A representative's authority ends when the applicant so requests, or when final action is taken on the case.

Social security must approve the amount of any fee the representative wishes to charge. There are special procedures to follow to have a proposed fee approved. Complete information can be obtained at any social security office.

Any representative who charges or collects an unauthorized fee for services may be in violation of the Social Security Act and subject to prosecution, the spokesman said.

A leaflet, Social security and your right to representation, contains full information about the rules applying to representatives. Copies can be obtained at any social security office. The address and telephone number of the nearest social security office can be found in the telephone directory under "Social Security Administration."

person must be 65 or older, or disabled, or blind, and have limited income and resources. A couple may be eligible with countable income of less than $266.70 a month and resources (assets) of $2,250 or less. (An individual is eligible with countable income of less than $177.80 a month and resources of $1,500.) Not all income is counted, nor are all resources. Claimants also must be U.S. residents and either citizens or lawfully admitted immigrants. If your aunt and uncle think they may be eligible for SSI, they can apply at any social security office.

Q. My wife and I will be retiring next year and will be eligible for Medicare. What exactly does Medicare cover? Will it pay all of our medical expenses?

A. Medicare won't cover all your health care expenses, but it will help pay for many of them. Medicare hospital insurance helps pay for inpatient hospital care and, when medically necessary after a hospital stay, for inpatient care in a skilled nursing facility and home health care. Medicare medical insurance helps pay for doctors' services, outpatient hospital care, outpatient physical therapy and speech pathology, home health care, and many other health services and supplies not covered by hospital insurance. For more information, ask at any social security office for a copy of the leaflet, A brief explanation of Medicare.

Q. My aunt and uncle are in their seventies and have very little income. I don't know what the requirements are for SSI, but might they be eligible?

A. To be eligible for SSI, a

Expect Commission Decision on Crime Scene Training

Iosco County Board of Commissioners will be weighing the merits (Wednesday) of two different programs for training sheriff's department officers in crime scene investigation.

A presentation two weeks ago by Northern Counties Evidence Services, Incorporated, a nonprofit corporation, proposed to provide such training for sheriff's deputies at a cost to this county of $5,000 annually. (An account of this proposal was published by the Herald two weeks ago.)

A second program as outlined by a representative of the Michigan

State Police last Wednesday indicated that the state agency offers an ongoing crime scene training program to all law enforcement agencies at no cost to local government.

Capt. Kenard Christensen, commanding officer of the state's forensics science division at East Lansing headquarters, told county commissioners that his division has provided crime scene training for police departments at Lansing and Ann Arbor, as well as for Washenaw and Eaton Counties, plus other departments, all at no cost to local government.

"By training local law enforcement agencies in conducting their own crime scene investigation, it takes some of the pressure off us," said Christensen. Rather than traveling to the scene to conduct an investigation, the state's highly trained technicians can remain in laboratories to analyze evidence submitted by local agencies.

"I want to emphasize that I am not talking against the training program offered by Northern Counties Evidence Services, Incorporated," said the state police representative. "Any training provided to officers in crime scene investigation will mean better service to the local community."

Christensen had been invited to Wednesday's meeting by county commissioners in order to learn about present training programs being offered by the state police.

Christensen told commissioners that a program to train 20 to 25 state troopers of the Seventh District in crime scene investigation was to be held this summer. Two troopers from East Tawas recently completed the training through the Third District and their services are available to local agencies.

"I recently appeared in Kalkaska County, upon request of county commissioners, and told local officials there if the sheriff requested an evidence technical school we would commit them to our program at no cost and would offer the program this summer," he stated.

He said this same 65 to 70-hour training program is available to this area on request. Training is offered in an ordinary classroom and manned by state police specialists. The trainees later spend a week at a state police laboratory to observe operations.

Christensen also told county commissioners that $175,000 was provided in the 1978-79 budget of the state police to establish a new crime laboratory at Grayling for use of all local law enforcement agencies.

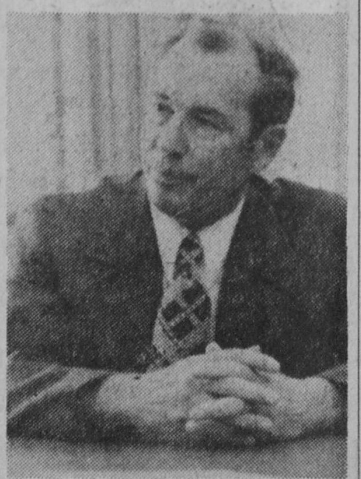

Since 1970, the state police has expanded from its original crime laboratory at East Lansing to five other locations in the state and it is considered to be one of the best systems in the nation with 165 persons employed in the division. The forensics science division has a 4.1-million-dollar annual budget.

The Grayling facility was included in the original expansion program proposed eight years ago. A state-supported drug identification center, originated by the Crawford County Sheriff's Department, is located there and would become part of the new crime laboratory. Crime scene investigation and a full range of forensics science services would be offered to the northern half of the state at Grayling with between five and six persons employed. It is expected that future state budgets would provide financing for expansion of the facility.

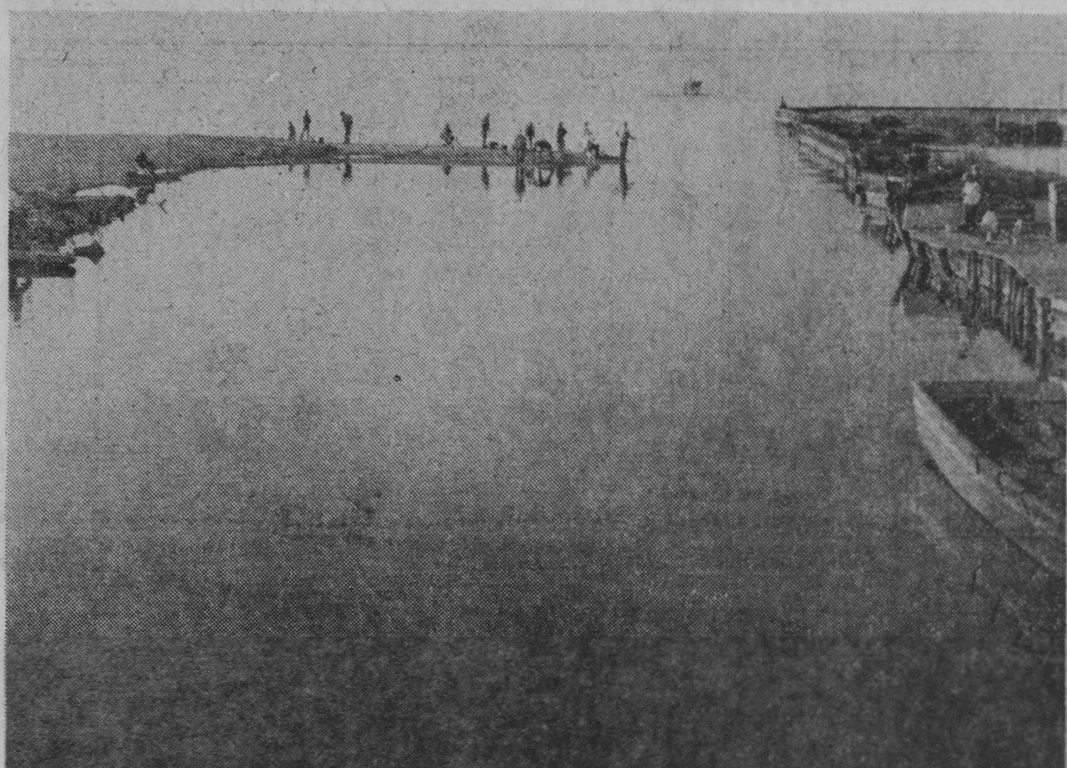

While major crimes are less frequent in the northern half of the state as compared to the lower portion, Christensen said that crime should be investigated with the same resources in a smaller community as in the larger cities and the state has always operated on this premise.

"We want to give assistance when needed, but not to the extent of taking over some other policeman's job," said Christensen. He emphasized that the state police would not be in competition with the proposed service being offered by the nonprofit corporation.

County commissioners said they would be discussing both programs with the sheriff's department before making any final decision on the proposal to join other northern counties in a training program.

THE MOUTH of the Tawas River has been restricted to a narrow channel due to silting, but the City of Tawas City finally received its permit last week from the United States Army Corps of Engineers to start dredging operations. The city had applied for the permit in January. The city's contractor is to deepen the channel to permit use by small boats. This picture was snapped early Wednesday morning and shows a crowd of perch fishermen lining the river bank.—Tawas Herald Photo.

"Ladies and gentlemen. Welcome to Pawnee Bill's Historic Wild West and Great Far East Show."

Those shrill words barked by the silk-hatted ringmaster, followed by a blast on his nickel plated whistle to send three rings into action, were quite enough to send goose bumps down the spines of Tawas folks fanning themselves in the superheated big top on July 6, 1905.

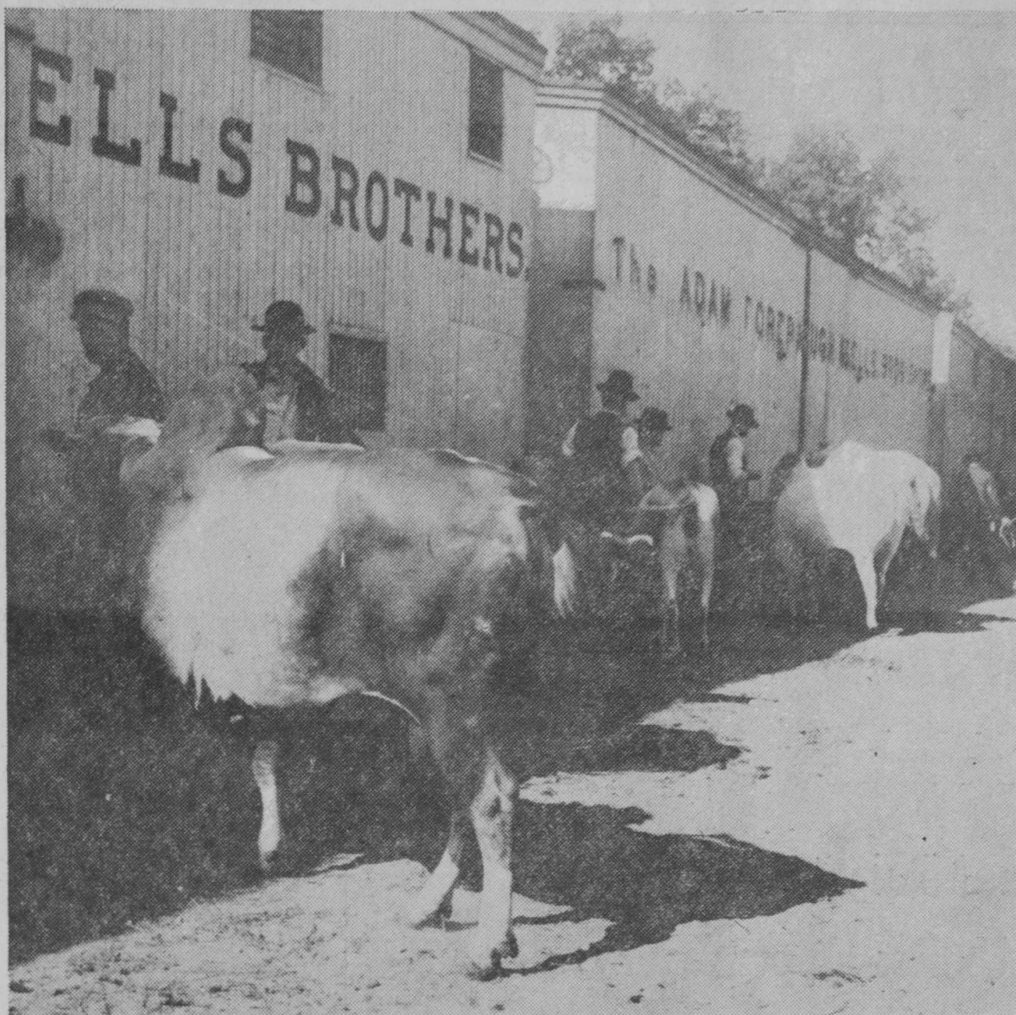

It was circus day and unfolding before the eyes of the attentive audience were wonders of the world—a never to be forgotten experience for both young and old.

Oldsters of the county may recall some of those great experiences of their youth when a modern day circus comes to the county for two shows during July. But, in this respect, no comparison should be made between the past and the present, for the golden age of the circus is but a memory today.

For 40 years or more, the annual arrival of the circus in July or August was the big event of the year for rural Northeastern Michigan residents, who flocked to East Tawas on show day aboard special excursion trains offered by the Detroit and Mackinac Railway.

In those days, when a common laborer often received only a dollar a day in wages, the admission price to a circus was 50 cents for adults and 10 cents for children. Whole families had to scrimp and save pennies for months just to buy tickets for this one great adventure. They might have to forego the additional cost for sideshows and popcorn, but somehow they managed to get into the big top where all the action was taking place in three rings.

The circus was always preceded by an advance man, who arranged for newspaper advertising and public

A BRAHMA BULL (foreground) was a rather rare animal in the United States when it was unloaded at East Tawas from a train carrying the Adam Forepaugh-Sells Brothers Circus. This picture was made from an original glass plate licity blurbs, as well as to distribute free passes to merchants and farmers, who permitted use of barns and store windows for the display of colorful circus posters.

A young lad underfoot in a newspaper office was the envy of his neighborhood chums for the advance man always left a generous supply of free passes in payment to youngsters who distributed handbills advertising the circus.

"I remember that when I was a kid growing up at East Tawas, we would be down at the railroad siding at 4:00 a. m. on circus day to watch the unloading," recalls Ashley Schriber, 75, a retired coalman living at East Tawas.

"In those days, the entire circus would come to town by special railroad train. There was a spur line running across Bay Street from the Wilkinson Street intersection to the Hardwood Mill on Tawas Bay. The circus train would back down those tracks for unloading," he stated.

To this day, Schriber expresses amazement over how efficiently the roustabouts unloaded the train. Horses, elephants, camels and other animals would quickly be unloaded from box cars, followed by cages containing lions, tigers and other ferocious animals.

The unloading site was at the Wilkinson Street intersection with Bay Street and the circus grounds were located on the present day site of St. Joseph's Catholic Church and surrounding area, then known as the commons.

Wilkinson Street was an uphill sand trail and the commons was a rather boggy area where heavy circus wagons pulled by up to 16 horses often became mired.

"When the horses were unable to pull the wagons through the sand, one of the elephants would be used to give the wagon a boost—it was great fun to watch," said Schriber. "In my day, I have driven wagons pulled by up to four teams of horses and handling 16 horses was a real trick," he said.

Schriber remembers such circuses as Sun Brothers, Robinson's, Cole Brothers and Clyde Beatty to name a few of the earlier shows to play here. Later circuses which paid visits to the Tawas included Wallace Brothers and Lewis Brothers. The area never boasted the required population for such extravaganzas as staged by Ringling Brothers or Barnum and Bailey, but the smaller shows filled the bill for local entertainment.

At the start of the twentieth century, entertainment aimed at the masses took hold and flourished in this country, but the longer established circuses enjoyed boom years. Circuses never surpassed their popularity peak reached in 1910 and the business was all downhill after that time.

Transportation, weather conditions and often conflicting scheduling proved to be the bane of circuses. The first shows which came to this area traveled by steamboat, followed by the railroad and finally by trucks.

The first mention of a circus playing in Tawas is found in the May 28, 1874, issue of The Iosco County Gazette. "Notwithstanding the scarcity of money, about two thousand people attended the circus. People will go to shows if they go without bread and butter," stated the local editor.

A year later, the editor reported that a side show which had been traveling with the Beckett Circus was making an independent tour of the shore. "It did not collapse at Marine City at the time the Roman amphitheatre did, but it is seeking the same fate. It will not look long if no better patronized up the shore than at East Tawas the past two days."

Pawnee Bill's railroad show was one of the largest ever to visit this community. Its one-day stand here in 1905 was preceded by much hoopla in advertising columns of the local papers.

"World wonders — absolutely right up to the hour, commanding the admiration and respect of Christendom. Honors and plaudits bestowed by the whole nation," proclaimed one of the circus posters.

This show also featured an airship "to ride the winds" and a picture of this aircraft shaped like a cigar adorned one page of The Tawas Herald. The show featured "over 1,000 men and women collected from such quarters of the globe that few white men dared to visit," stated one handbill.

Included in Pawnee Bill's show were whole Indian villages, painted warriors, an army of cowboys and frontier scouts and even Japanese cavalry and native horsemen from Manchuria and the Philippines.

The advent of the railroad through Northeastern Michigan paved the way for some truly great shows. Walter L. Main's "World's Exposition Three Ring Circus" made its first appearance at East Tawas on July 12, 1904.

(Read Hebrews 12:7-17)

On the right path, the limping foot recovers strength and does not collapse. (Hebrews 12:13 Phillips)
Walking in my neighborhood to make a call on some friends, I heard a small voice, "Hey, Mister! Are you getting your energy?" I answered with a halfhearted "Yeah." At the time, I thought I was giving my energy rather than getting it.

I visited a couple who have given much to the church through the years but they are no longer able to be very active. Walking back home that evening, I knew the boy's question could be answered in the affirmative, "Yes, I did get some energy from trying to bring encouragement to this fine Christian couple."

This is one of those paradoxical truths of the Christian faith. When we give of ourselves out of love, God gives us renewed strength. So many times in my ministry I thought that I did not have the strength to make a hospital call, see a couple in need, visit a home in sorrow. Yet, when I set out to do what I needed to do, there was strength equal to the task.

Many persons whom I have known have given the same testimony by saying, "My work in the church has meant more to me than I have meant to the work."

PRAYER

Father, we thank You that in our answering Your call to serve, You bless those whom we attempt to help and renew our own faith and energy. Amen.

Oscoda Electricians Claim Bootleggers Violating Codes

Two Oscoda electrical contractors told members of the Iosco County Board of Commissioners Wednesday that they had noted numerous electrical code violations in the Oscoda-AuSable area and urged appointment of a qualified inspector.

Both Donald Balmer and Harry Stone said they had been called on to correct hazardous electrical wiring in area residences, both new and old construction.

They blamed building contractors who do not hold electrical certification for part of the problem, stating that those contractors had "bootlegged" electrical work in violation of the code.

Balmer said that when electrical work is approved by the building inspector it means that the local government accepts responsibility for the work, thus relieving the contractor of any responsibility. He said this had been affirmed by courts in other parts of the state.

An investigation of the allegations is to be made by the county commission. In other business, the commission gave tentative approval to offering a contract to Urban Wrecking of Pinconning to raze the former Prescott house west of the county jail. The Pinconning firm's bid was $3,784, low among four received. The contract is to be approved at today's (Wednesday) session.

Other bids received included Wreckers, Incorporated, Bay City, $5,760; Bierlein Building and Movers, Saginaw, $6,200; John Henry, $17,860. Under terms of the contract, the dwelling is to be removed by August 1. Included would be tree removal and filling the basement. The recently acquired property is to become the site of a new county parking lot for 50 or more cars.

The Michigan Senate— A Useless Appendage?

Election year legislative action or inaction has renewed the thought that taxpayers could save a whale of a lot of money if the Michigan Senate were eliminated.

Discussed at various times in the state's history, there is a growing feeling that during this era of eliminating government waste would be a good time to get the ball rolling on a unicameral—one-house—legislature.

In 1972, former State Rep. Joseph Swallow of Alpena tried to get just such a constitutional amendment on the ballot, but a petition drive supported by Michigan Jaycees fell short.

Despite arguments to the contrary by office holders, the original reason for establishment of a senate as one of the "checks and balances" in our government was thrown out the window by the one-man, one-vote decree issued years ago by the courts.

In the national government, establishment of a senate where each state had equal representation, regardless of population, was one of the compromises necessary among the founding fathers to insure ratification of the constitution in the smaller states.

Although the 38 members of Michigan's senate are elected to four-year terms rather than two-year terms of the house of representatives, this should not be construed as a "checks and balance" argument. The Michigan Senate is no buffer between the other house of the legislature and the people, but it is a costly, often windy branch of government which contributed little to the legislative process.

It costs Michigan taxpayers about 11-million dollars a year in salaries and operation to keep their puffy senators at Lansing. Perhaps now would be the time to join Nebraska and have a unicameral legislative body in Michigan by eliminating the state senate.

Men's Softball League in Action

TAWAS MEN'S Softball League is currently in the middle of its summer schedule with double-headers scheduled each Monday and Wednesday evening at three fields located at the high school. With substitution of the slow pitch rule several years ago, which eliminated dominance of the speed ball pitcher, softball has gained popularity throughout the country. Men and women of all ages participate in the sport. An example of the no age barrier would be the gray-haired player past 55 years of age who belted a double and a triple in one game Wednesday night, although he needed a substitute runner after his last clout. Active competition and much fun are offered—managers still shuffle their lineups, there is much heckling from the sidelines and there are close plays on the base-paths, as evidenced here.—Tawas Herald Photos.

PERSONS attending a circus were always fascinated by the sight of seeing a pretty girl riding on the neck of an elephant.

"Main's circus exhibited to a big crowd Tuesday. This is not the largest show in the world, but it is certainly one of the cleanest and presents many features that are unexcelled. Owing to the late arrival from Alpena and the trouble experienced in getting through the sand to the show grounds, it was necessary for them to cut out their street parade."

Cancellation of the traditional street parade must have been a great disappointment to residents of the area. Sawdust covered Newman Street would have been packed with children waiting to scream with glee at the first sight of the bright gold, red and blue circus wagons.

Such parades always featured a steam calliope thundering out "The Entrance of the Gladiators," along with wagons containing animals. What a sight to behold—the prancing horses pulling the animal wagons and all struggling to get through the deep sand and sawdust along the town's main drag.

At the circus grounds, one or more elephants were used for power to hoist the big top and crews of roustabouts would drive stakes into the ground to support the tent structure.

After hours of hard work, the circus was all assembled and the barker was calling one and all to buy their tickets. Children excitedly lined up, pushing and shoving for first place, as now everything was ready for the townspeople to enjoy the show.

The happiest kids in town were those who earned a few pennies or a free pass to the matinee performance just for helping to feed the circus animals.

The show was pure ecstasy with athletic young men and women performing on high wires or trapeze; wonderful wild animal acts and uproariously funny clowns—there was just too much to see and hear.

For days after the show had been packed again on the cars and moved to another engagement, local kids would try to imitate the marvelously athletic performers by walking on top of board fences or a slack rope; or they would hold impromptu shows by fashioning tents out of blankets and converting neighborhood dogs and cats into ferocious "wild animals."

Circuses fell onto hard times in the late 1920s and the depression years of the 1930s. There were many mergers of old line shows, but high unemployment meant that families just could not buy tickets to "the greatest show on earth."

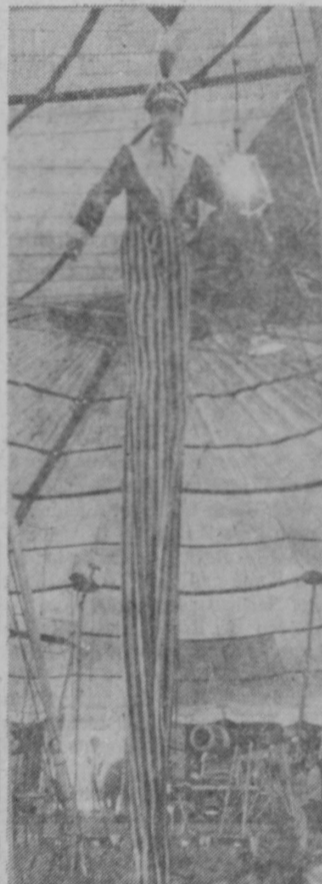

It is traditional for the news media to collect for circus advertising at the main ticket office on the day of the show. The last appearance of the Lewis Brothers Circus at East Tawas came at the start of World War II. After a particularly poor show season which was marred by rain at nearly every engagement, one of the circus owners had tears in his eyes when he told the Herald's publisher that it was the last season for his show—the war and serious problems caused by rain and the high cost of acts were just too much to overcome.

Finally, the many great shows folded their tents for the last time and disappeared forever. Some of the big circus names still survive in merged shows, but only play at indoor arenas of the larger cities.

The smaller tent shows of the present day now hark back to the time when the small medicine shows visited Northeastern Michigan by steamboat. But in the eyes of children, it is still the circus with animal and trapeze acts, cotton candy and popcorn. The circus just cannot die—it is still the greatest show on earth.

THE BIG TOP was the place where all the action provided entertainment for the entire family, took place and three rings of simultaneous acts. A side show is at left.

HIGH WIRE performers provided spectacular entertainment at the circus. This performer uses a parasol in his death-defying stunt.

MOTORCYCLISTS have caused considerable concern among Tawas City residents by driving their machines at a high rate of speed over this footbridge crossing Dead Creek on Eighth Avenue. Small children use the bridge to cross over to the Tawas City Elementary Unit. The Tawas Area Board of Education has suggested that the city install a line of guard posts across each end to prevent use by motorcycles.—Tawas Herald Photo.

SUMMER IN THE SKILLET
Now that summer weather has really arrived, everyone is looking for cooking methods that allow cooking outdoors, do not heat up the house and conserve energy. If any of these apply, it may be time to pull out the trusty electric skillet. When used to its fullest advantage, it is one of the most useful and versatile cooking appliances one can own.

An electric frypan used to capacity can substitute for a number of other small appliances, saving dollars, storage space and the materials and energy required for production. The electric skillet may be used in place of a portable oven, popcorn popper, slow cooker, vegetable steamer, omelet pan, griddle, chafing dish, deep fat fryer, baby food warmer, bun warmer, wok, yogurt maker and others.

Using an electric frypan instead of an electric range or oven is usually an energy saver. The amount of energy saved will depend on the utensil design, amount of cooking time and how efficiently the appliance is used. In one test, the electric oven or range used three times as much energy as the frypan to prepare pizza from mix, 1.41 times as much energy for hamburgers, 1.02 times as much energy for meat stew, and 1.40 times as much energy for frying eggs. Some of that energy saved will result in less heat (and great summer comfort) in the cooking area.
It is possible to take the electric frypan outside. Many campers know how handy it is and it can be just as convenient to use on the patio or back porch.
One of the best places to look for new ways to use the electric skillet is in the use and care book-let which came with it. But here are some starter ideas.
POPCORN
Preheat frypan to 400 degrees Fahrenheit. Add two tablespoons salad oil; when very hot, add one-half cup popcorn. Stir until first kernels begin to pop. Cover frypan. Shake back and forth; open vent to let excess steam escape. Turn dial to 420 degrees Fahrenheit when light goes out. When popping stops, uncover and put the desired amount of butter or margarine in frypan; melt, and stir in corn. Turn dial to warm to keep corn crisp while serving. Wipe out frypan with paper towels before popping another batch.
CAKES BAKED DIRECTLY IN BOTTOM OF FRYPAN
Cover frypan, close vent and preheat to 280 degrees Fahrenheit. When preheated (takes about 4½ minutes), grease well with unsalted shortening. Sprinkle lightly with flour, brushing the flour and shortening mixture over the surface. Add batter (from mix or scratch), cover, bake until top of cake is no longer moist—about 35 minutes. Open vent the last five minutes of baking. Loosen well around the edges with a spatula. Invert on a cake rack. Let stand a few minutes before lifting off the frypan. Cool.

FHA Loans to Rural Home Owners

Rural homeowners in Iosco County who need repairs to their homes may be eligible for a loan from the local Farm Home Administration office at 806 West Cedar Street, Standish 48688.
Frank Tuma, local Farm Home Administration supervisor, indicates the agency makes home improvement loans to families who may not need or cannot afford a new house and also makes loans to remove health or safety hazards from homes owned by low income and elderly families.
Income is the key to the type of assistance available. If income is very low, a repair loan may be used to remove health hazards by repairing roofs, providing sanitary water and waste disposal systems, installing storms and screens, windows, insulation and upgrading the wiring.
For families with somewhat higher income, a home improvement loan may include similar purposes but goes further by bringing the home up to the minimum property standards, adding a bedroom or otherwise modernizing the house.
It is possible to borrow up to $5,000 for 20 years at one percent interest under the home repair loan and $7,000 for 25 years for a home improvement loan, interest rate determined by income level.
To be eligible, one must own and live in a home or on a farm, in the open country or in a town with less than 20,000 people and be unable to secure credit from a regular commercial lender.
