

Stephen S. Nisbet Saluted by MASA

"The Fortnightly," a publication of the Michigan Association of School Administrators, recently saluted Stephen S. Nisbet, now 83 years of age and a former Tawas City resident living at Grand Rapids.

"If ever one person deserved the title, 'Mr. Education of Michigan,' it is Stephen S. Nisbet," stated the MASA newsletter.

Teacher, coach, administrator for nearly 30 years; a member of the Michigan State Board of Education from 1943 to 1961; Michigan State University Board of Trustees from 1964 until 1971, and the capstone of a distinguished career, president of the Michigan Constitutional Convention of 1961-1962.

STEPHEN S. NISBET

"This is an all too brief synopsis of a life filled with concern about others," said the MASA newsletter.

Nisbet attended high school in Tawas City, residing in the former Porterfield house purchased by his grandfather in 1882 and now in the process of being razed to make way for new commercial development west of the county building.

Nisbet resides at Heatherhills, 1055 Forest Hills Avenue, Grand Rapids 49506. His wife, Dorcas, is now confined most of the time to a convalescent center nearby. Her health has improved in recent months and they are able to spend much of each day together.

"We thought our readers would be happy to know about these two fine folks, who have been active in public education in Michigan for more than half a century," stated the newsletter.

After an initial teaching position at Ithaca, Nisbet moved to Fremont in the early 1920s. He became high school principal and was serving as a superintendent of schools there when he joined the expanding Gerber Industries in 1946.

He retired from Gerber as vice president for public relations a few years ago, but continued to be active in the business, professional and political community until a year or so ago.

Auto Negligence Suit Filed Here

An auto negligence suit was filed last week in Iosco County Circuit Court by Rebecca Roberts of Hale vs. Richard Nahgahwon of Hale and Wilmer Alberts of Mikado.

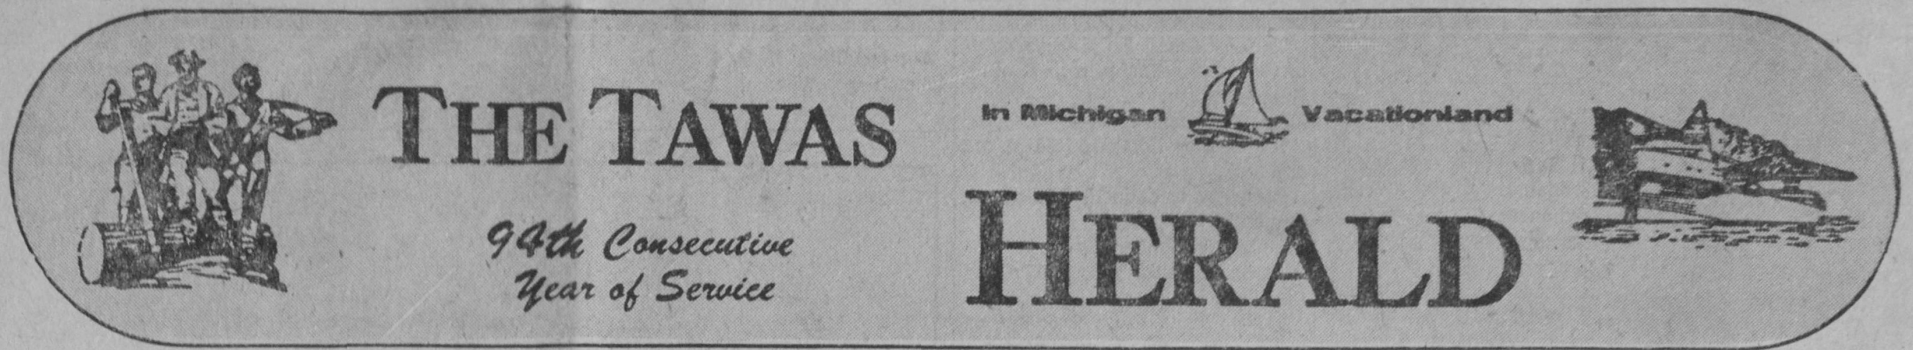

The complaint states that the plaintiff was riding in an automobile owned by Nahgahwon and driven by Alberts when it crashed on an F-41 curve west of Oscoda.

The plaintiff sustained injuries and had hospital expenses of $717. She asks damages of $10,000 from the defendants.

Juveniles Caught Stealing Beer

Edward Freel, owner, assisted by two employees, apprehended six juveniles in the act of stealing beer Saturday night at Freel's King's Market, Tawas City. The youths were turned over to Iosco County Sheriff's Department for questioning and parents were notified.

Investigating officers said that one subject was seen carrying a case of beer out the back entrance, where he left it by the door. After closing time, Freel and his two employees waited for the youths to return and then apprehended them.

County's Tax Levy Up $654,207

An 11 percent increase in the total tax levy for 1978 is reflected in tax statements to be mailed to property owners on December 1, according to a report last week by County Treas. Edward Nelkie.

The total tax levy for county, township and school operation is $7,414,914.37, as compared to $6,760,707 a year ago, an increase of $654,207.37.

Nelkie said that the increase was due to the higher county valuation of $227,614,647 and that the tax rate remains the same as last year. Mailing of tax statements is handled by treasurers of local units, who accept payments until February 28. On March 1, taxes may be paid to the county treasurer with a penalty added.

City operational taxes for Tawas City and East Tawas are not included on the December 1 statement.

For County Airport Expansion

Consider Land Condemnation

Property condemnation as an alternative to negotiations in the purchase of a 40-acre parcel for expansion of the county airport was discussed last Wednesday by the Iosco County Commissioners.

Ronald Tyler, the commission's legal counsel, said that two state statutes give the county the legal power to condemn property for airport expansion, but he suggested that negotiations be continued with the owners.

The property in question is a 40-acre parcel comprising the Butterfield hunting camp located at the west end of the runway. Acquisition of the property is necessary in order to lengthen the runway to comply with Federal Aeronautics Administration regulations for passenger flights.

The county was deeded a parcel of federal land slightly northwest of the runway for expansion purposes and, after surveying the property, it was found that the Butterfield hunting cabin was included in the property transfer to the county.

Negotiations on acquiring 40 acres of wild land from the owners to the south of the cabin have been under way for a considerable period of time. The county has offered to exchange another 40-acre parcel for the property it wants, plus $16,000 in cash in lieu of improvements to the property, including planting of trees and fences. Tyler told the commission Wednesday that a problem in negotiations now exists due to the fact that the 13.2-acre parcel deeded to the county by the forest service has a reverter clause should the land not be used for the airport.

The Butterfield cabin is located on the 13.2-acre parcel and the owners now are requesting an additional $16,000 from the county for moving the cabin to another location, should the federal government not relinquish its reversion right.

According to last month's issue of Michigan Aviation, the federal government has allocated $580,000 for expansion of the airport in 1980.

BUSES FORMERLY COMPRISING the Iosco Transit System are to be returned to the Michigan Department of State Highways following action last week by the Iosco County Board of Commissioners. The two buses above will require major maintenance before returning to the highway; a third bus, not pictured, will require minor maintenance. The commission decided not to accept an offer from the state to keep the financially troubled system operating and the buses are currently in storage at the Iosco County Road Commission. Turn to page 1, sec. 2, for story.—Tawas Herald Photo.

No Cost Estimate Available for Defense

Commissioners Ask for Jury Trial; Answer Filed on $78.20 Complaint

Iosco County Board of Commissioners demanded a jury trial in 81st District Court when its legal counsel submitted an answer Monday to a complaint brought by the county's friend of the court.

This was the unanimous action Wednesday of commission members when their legal counsel, Ronald Tyler, placed the question before them. Tyler was unable to estimate the legal cost of defending the commission.

Edward Seifert Jr., who serves as the appointive friend of the court for Circuit Judge Allan C. Miller, commenced suit two weeks ago against the board of commissioners over its denial of a $78.20 voucher for travel expenses which he had submitted for attending a conference last July at Kalamazoo.

Seifert's complaint is based on the fact that the board approved his department's budget in October 1977, that the board had not modified that budget in December 1977 and that the voucher he had submitted was a legal travel expense.

He asks the district court to enter an order directing the commission to pay the bill, along with expense of his court costs.

Dist. Judge J. Richard Ernst has disqualified himself from hearing the case and proceedings will be held before a visiting judge.

Commissioners contend that, although no written policy has been adopted, past practice for all county officers attending conventions has been to "share the ride" with other departmental members to economize on travel expenses.

The commission contends that Seifert, along with the assistant friend of the court, should have traveled to the convention using one automobile. It is also contended that Seifert's wife accompanied him on the trip and that both stayed an extra day at Kalamazoo to visit a relative. Tyler told members that, should the commission lose its case, it should be prepared to adopt a policy concerning travel.

Tyler filed an answer to the charge Monday for the board of commissioners. A hearing on a motion for summary judgment may possibly be heard Friday before a visiting judge in district court.

The commission's answer maintained that mileage provided in the friend of the court's budget was primarily for home investigation work by that department.

In addition, the commission denied it had refused to reimburse Seifert "without good and sufficient reason."

The answer stated that the plaintiff and his assistant had attended the conference and that she (the friend of the court's assistant) had filed a similar mileage voucher and request for payment.

The commission maintains that the two parties "could have traveled together and submitted only one voucher, but for the plaintiff's desire to stay at Kalamazoo beyond the date of the conference to visit with his family."

The defendant commission stated it had "offered to pay one-half the amount requested by each party; however, plaintiff indicated his preference that the entire amount be paid to his assistant."

The friend of the court is a state officer appointed by the governor.

Injured Saturday in Iosco Crash

A 33-year-old Fenton woman, Lorraine Thomas, was treated Saturday at Tawas Hospital following a crash on Curtis Road. Larry Thomas, 37, husband of the victim, and Timothy J. Hunt, 22, Flint, driver, escaped injury. Investigating Iosco County Sheriff's Department officers said Hunt lost control of the vehicle on the slippery road.

Property Owners Seek New Hearing on Alabaster Roads

A group of Alabaster Township property owners have filed suit in Iosco County Circuit Court seeking a writ of mandamus and temporary injunction restraining the Iosco County Road Commission from work on Alabaster Road and Benson Road.

Named as plaintiffs in the suit were Dorothy Blair, Carol Fletcher, Frederic Fletcher, Gladys Russell, Howard Russell, Emma Jean Smith, James Smith, Melvin Smith, Virginia Smith and Maxine Ude.

The suit asks the court to issue a writ of mandamus ordering the road commission to make minutes of the November 6 public meeting available to the public. Attorney for the plaintiff claims that minutes of the meeting were not made available for public inspection and that state law requires that minutes be prepared within eight business days of the hearing.

The hearing was to consider petitions asking for improvement to Alabaster Road beginning at US-23 and proceeding easterly 1,320 feet to Algonquin Drive, also known as Benson Road, and from that point on Benson Road south approximately 1,000 feet.

The plaintiffs believe the project was tentatively approved at the hearing, but was expanded to include an additional 300 feet on Benson Road, contrary to statutory authorization and statutory notice requirements.

The suit seeks to compel the road commission to hold another public hearing to determine the special assessment district, to hear objections from interested persons and to temporarily enjoin the road commission from further action on the project until the hearing is held.

Air Compressor Reported Stolen

Kenneth Cameron of Birmingham, who is building a new house at Tawas Beach Club, reported to Michigan State Police that a gasoline operated air compressor had been stolen from the building site.

Felonious Assault Case to Circuit Ct.

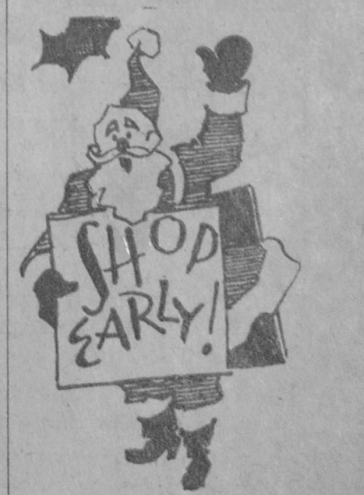

Mark A. Christian, 19, was bound over to circuit court Tuesday afternoon on a charge of felonious assault following district court examination before Judge J. Richard Ernst.

Christian, who is being held at the Iosco County Jail, is charged with firing a .22 caliber rifle at the Sportsmen's Bar, Whitemore, during the early morning hours of November 11. Two patrons of the bar were injured in the fusillade.

No warrants were issued against two others in the car with Christian, a 20-year-old and a juvenile, both of Pinconning. Following an argument in the tavern, a car made two passes around the block and the building was sprayed with rifle fire. After the first series of shots were fired, bar personnel and seven customers hit the floor to avoid injury.

One patron who stood up to see what was happening was struck in the right buttock by a rifle slug. Another man was grazed by a bullet or a piece of glass. Neither was injured seriously.

ROADS OF THE AREA have been treacherous beginning with a snowstorm early last week. Slippery roads and ice covered bridges caused numerous accidents, the Iosco County Sheriff's Department investigating seven minor property damage accidents and East Tawas Police Department reported seven "fender benders." In addition, the sheriff's department reported 13 car-deer accidents on Iosco highways.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Learn Dairy Food Use for Holidays

Interested in learning more about dairy foods and how to use them in holiday happenings? If so, plan to attend one of the sessions Monday, December 11, to be conducted by Gale Baumgardner, dairy youth specialist, Michigan State University. An afternoon program will be held from 1:00-4:00 p. m. at Plainfield Township Hall, Hale. In the evening, she will conduct the same session from 7:00-10:00 p. m. at the Ogemaw Heights High School (home economics room) on M-33 near West Branch.

The workshop will include using dairy foods, new products and ideas for demonstrations. There will be a tasting session, discussion of nutrition for all seasons and an opportunity to share ideas and practical experiences related to dairy foods.

Participants will receive a resource book of ideas and recipes. This workshop will be sponsored by the Michigan Milk Producers Association and the Cooperative Extension Service. Plan to attend one of these sessions to find how to use dairy foods more often. Further details on this workshop may be secured from the local county extension office, 362-3449.

Is the family an endangered species?

Some people think it is. Some people think it's failing in its vital role... instilling attitudes of honesty, industry, cooperation, responsibility, and respect into the leaders of tomorrow. Perhaps. But YOU can help to keep the family flourishing! Take part in those civic activities that create the climate where the family can thrive... good schools, good neighborhoods, mutual respect among all citizens. You can help the family do its job, too. Participate personally in those child-serving activities that help the family build the basics in boys and girls. This is the Kiwanis RIGHTSTART program. Won't you join it?

Visions of sugar and frosting . . .

Decorate for a white Christmas

The whole family can stir up lots of holiday cheer this season, by decorating for Christmas in a new, exciting way that is easy on the family budget.

Among the decorations your family can create are: candle-ring wreath, candlesticks, snowflakes, tree ornaments, miniature house, church, wishing well and, in fact, even an entire Christmas white-capped village. All add a festive charm to your table or tree, and sparkle like snow because you make them with sugar!

All you need to make these inexpensive but dazzling decorations are some Domino® Sugar Dots and/or Tablets, a special frosting, and your imagination. The Dots and Tablets are readily available at your local supermarket. The frosting is simply a mixture of egg whites and Domino® Confectioners 10-X Powdered Sugar that holds the Dots and Tablets together like an edible "mortar."

Every member of your family can get involved in this project. While Mom and Dad mix up the "mortar" frosting, the kids can arrange the Dots and Tablets in the desired pattern.

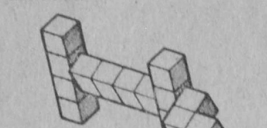

To make frosting, just whip the egg whites until firm, and add powdered sugar, cream of tartar, and vanilla or almond extract. The frosting is easy to handle when applied with a squeezable plastic container, and dries solidly between layers of Dots and Tablets.

Color may be added with diluted food coloring sprayed through a window cleanser bottle, and granulated sugar dyed with food coloring may be sprinkled on the decorations as an attractive trim. Here are some step-by-step instructions on how you can make sugar decorations for Christmas:

HOUSE/CHURCH WELL

To construct a house, church or well, arrange the Dots and Tablets in a square or rectangular pattern on a flat surface. Stack the Dots and Tablets directly on top of each other and spread with frosting. Leave spaces for doors and windows in the buildings, topping these off with small pieces of index cards. Construct two pillars on the well base to support the roof.

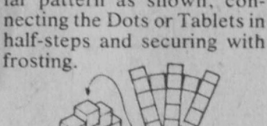

A roof may be constructed with a folded piece of cardboard covered with frosting and granulated sugar. Tablets may be added as shingles, and Dots and Tablets trim the windows and doors. Use your creativity to add steeples, chimneys and decorative trim.

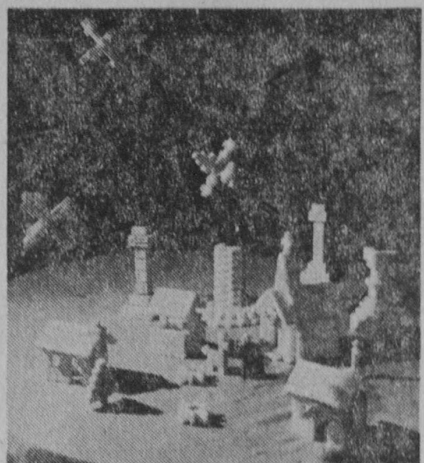

CANDLE-RING WREATH

Build the wreath in a circular pattern as shown, connecting the Dots or Tablets in half-pieces and securing with frosting.

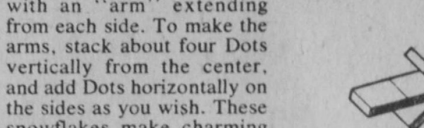

CANDLESTICKS

Sugar candlesticks add an elegant touch to your Christmas table, and are especially attractive when surrounded by a ring of holly or other greens. Squares of Dots and Tablets stacked in alternating sizes form the candlesticks, and triangular "legs" may be added onto the base. A taper

CREATE A WHITE CHRISTMAS! You can do it easily and economically by using Dots and Tablets—along with a touch of imagination. Elegant candlesticks, hanging snowflakes and a charming Christmas village are among the decorations you can design for your home and gift-giving. These holiday ornaments are bright and festive for a table or tree, and make an exciting project for the entire family to enjoy.

snowflakes may also vary in design. Basically, each snowflake has a center Dot, with an "arm" extending from each side. To make the arms, stack about four Dots vertically from the center, and add Dots horizontally on the sides as you wish. These snowflakes make charming tree decorations and can be suspended with thread.

Other tree ornaments in the shapes of miniature reindeer, candles, trees and wreaths are simple to make and a real favorite for children.

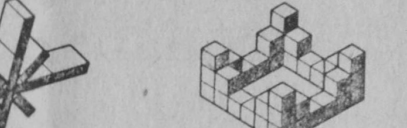

CHRISTMAS STAR

A similar ornament is the Christmas star, which is made from two Tablets joined end to end. Continue by plastering two additional Tablets at right angles, forming a "cross" design. Finish by breaking two Tablets in half and securing them between full Tablets to form star rays.

candle fits easily into the center opening and is secured with frosting.

When you come up with an original idea using Dots and Tablets, send a photo of your creation to Box 387, Amstar Corporation, 1251 Avenue of the Americas, New York, NY 10020. Amstar will send you a free coupon toward your next purchase of Dots and Tablets.

These are just a few decorating ideas you can use during the holiday season. Gather up some Dots and Tablets and let your imagination take over. Ideas are limited only by your own creativity.

Lunch, Italian Style

In Italy, an antipasto is a first course, served "before the pasta" at lunch or dinner. Some American hostesses are serving a generous antipasto as a one dish meal and it's a pleasant change from the salad bowl and the soup/sandwich routine.

Antipasto differs from a salad in that the ingredients such as fresh and pickled vegetables, fish, sausages, cheese, olives, etc. are arranged, not tossed, on a bed of greens. Wine vinegar and a light olive oil are offered as dressing. Fresh, crunchy bread makes a perfect accompaniment.

The following recipe for Pepperoni Bread makes a delicious accompaniment for an antipasto lunch. It's very easy to make, using the Rapidmix Method developed by Fleischmann's Yeast to take the guesswork out of yeast baking. The yeast is mixed with other dry ingredients, it does not have to be dissolved first.

After the first rising, the coarsely chopped pepperoni is kneaded in, the dough is divided and braided to make 2 handsome loaves.

PEPPERONI BRAID
6 1/4 to 3/4 cups unsifted flour
2 tablespoons sugar
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon coarsely ground pepper
2 packages Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast
2 1/4 cups very warm tap water (120° F. - 130° F.)
1/4 pound coarsely chopped pepperoni
Planters Peanut Oil

In a large bowl thoroughly mix 2 cups flour, sugar, salt, pepper and Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast. Gradually add hot tap water to dry ingredients and beat 2 minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally. Add 1 1/2 cups flour. Beat at high speed 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Stir in enough additional flour to make a soft dough. Turn out onto lightly floured board; knead until smooth and elastic, 8-10 minutes. Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 50 minutes.

Punch dough down; turn out onto lightly floured board. Knead in chopped pepperoni. Divide dough in half. Divide one half into 3 equal pieces; roll each piece into a 20 inch rope. Braid ropes together; pinch ends to seal. Place on greased baking sheet. Repeat with remaining half of dough. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 50 minutes. Brush braids with Planters Peanut Oil. Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) about 40 minutes, or until done. Remove from baking sheets and cool on wire racks. Makes 2 loaves.

Help is only a REACT team away

Relax, you've got some friends you haven't even met yet. Right here in town. They're your neighbors who've joined REACT, a coast-to-coast, people-to-people organization dedicated to improving highway safety by maintaining an emergency CB radio network. Dedicated is the right word, too. This year REACT members will volunteer 35 million man and woman hours monitoring CB Emergency Channel 9. They will receive accident reports, help lost or stranded motorists, report unsafe road conditions and accidents, rush medical assistance, help people with car problems, and cooperate with local law enforcement and disaster services.

It's important volunteer work. And today more than 200,000 men, women and teenagers are active REACT participants. Monitoring CB Emergency Channel 9 in all 50 United States, Canada and Mexico. And REACT is growing everywhere CB radios are used.

And that's good news for every American motorist. Because with more than 20 million CBers on the road, any CB-equipped car can pass the word about a highway problem to a REACT monitor. Quickly!

If you'd like more information about REACT and highway safety—or how to join a volunteer REACT team in this area, just call us.

We don't think highway safety is somebody else's concern.

Public Invited to View 'He Restoreth My Soul'

The Rev. Edward Fairbanks invites the public to view the film, "He Restoreth My Soul," to be shown at the Assembly of God Church, 311 East Lincoln Street, East Tawas, Sunday evening, December 3, at 7 o'clock. There is no charge.

The film re-enacts the plane crash that spared the life of recording and concert artist, Merrill Womach, Thanksgiving Day in 1961 at Beaver Marsh, Oregon. Flames from 108 gallons of high-octane fuel instantly made Womach a human torch burning away his face. Strong men turned away and children whispered "Monster!" His book, "Tested By Fire," is the story of courage, faith in God, and triumph through suffering and pain of many operations.

Womach has returned to the stage to sing again in national and international concert tours and still flies thousands of miles every month.

Friday, December 8, Womach will be singing in concert at Tawas Area High School, 7:30 p. m. Tickets are available from many of the Tawas and Oscoda area churches.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Schuster took her mother, Helen Eckstein, to AuGres for supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Smith, Amy and Helen Smith spent Friday in Bay City.

The Eckenhoppers were at their cabin and enjoyed deer hunting.

Last Saturday, Shirley Cottrell; Avis Vance; Dorothy, Gerald and Lavonne Koehn attended the funeral of Edward Sequin in Piquette.

Thanksgiving dinner guests at the George Smith home were the LeRoy Schlagels and Terry Groat of Flint; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dickson and Sheila of Flint, and Robin Dickson of Chicago, Illinois.

Mrs. Lillian Smith entertained her children, Michael, Thomas and Sandra, over the Thanksgiving week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Shaffer Jr. and sons, Dennis and Norman, of Otter Lake spent some time deer hunting. While here, Dennis received word from his wife that an eight-point buck was in their yard at Millington. The men left for home on Friday morning. Sometimes it pays to stay home to get your deer.

MSU Specialist to Discuss Cross-Country Skiing Potential

What is the potential for cross-country skiing in northeast Lower Michigan? Can it become a major focus for winter tourism or is it just a fad? Who are the cross-country skiers and what to they want in a ski area? How can the public and private sectors work together to develop trail systems? What unique topographical features affect this area's attractiveness to cross-country skiing? These are some of the questions to be explored on the evening of Tuesday, December 12, at a dinner program at the Whispering Pines Inn, sponsored by Michigan State University's Cooperative Extension Service in Isosco and Alcona Counties. Robert Christie-Mill from MSU's Department of Park and Recreations Resources will be on hand to share information about cross-country skiers. He will also be looking for ideas to incorporate into future studies of cross-country skiers and skiing in Michigan.

The program is scheduled for the Whispering Pines Inn, Monument Road, beginning at 6:30 p. m. is a skiers' supper. Immediately following is the program. Advance reservations are necessary and must be received by 4:00 p. m. Extension Service office in Isosco County, 362-3449, or Alcona County, details, contact the Cooperative 724-6178.

Local officials told commissioners they plan to apply for Bureau of Outdoor Recreation funds to finance the project.

A report from the governor's office stated that Isosco would begin to receive an additional $286,507 a year for county roads through recent legislation which increased gasoline and weight taxes. Total revenue for county road purposes would be $1,478,081.

Henry Conley of Oscoda was appointed to the county road commission for a six-year term beginning January 1.

PARENTS NIGHT was observed November 21 by varsity and junior varsity girls teams at Tawas Area High School. Parents of players and cheer leaders were introduced to a large crowd attending the season's last conference game—Tawas Herald Photo.

Hale Seventh Grade Girls Had Undeclared Basketball Season

The 1978 Hale seventh grade girls basketball team, coached by Janet Mayes, included Bonnie Senter, Amy Peters, Josi Bissonnette, Laurie Sutch, Kim Peters, Lisa Fowler, Marie Dzerlatka, Lisa Michalski, Audrey Osborne, Roberta McCaulay and Amy Storey.

Miss Mayes was pleased with the effort and the attitude of the team. The girls played Arenac-Eastern, AuGres, Whittemore, Rose City and Mio, beating each of these teams twice to go undefeated for the year in 10 games.

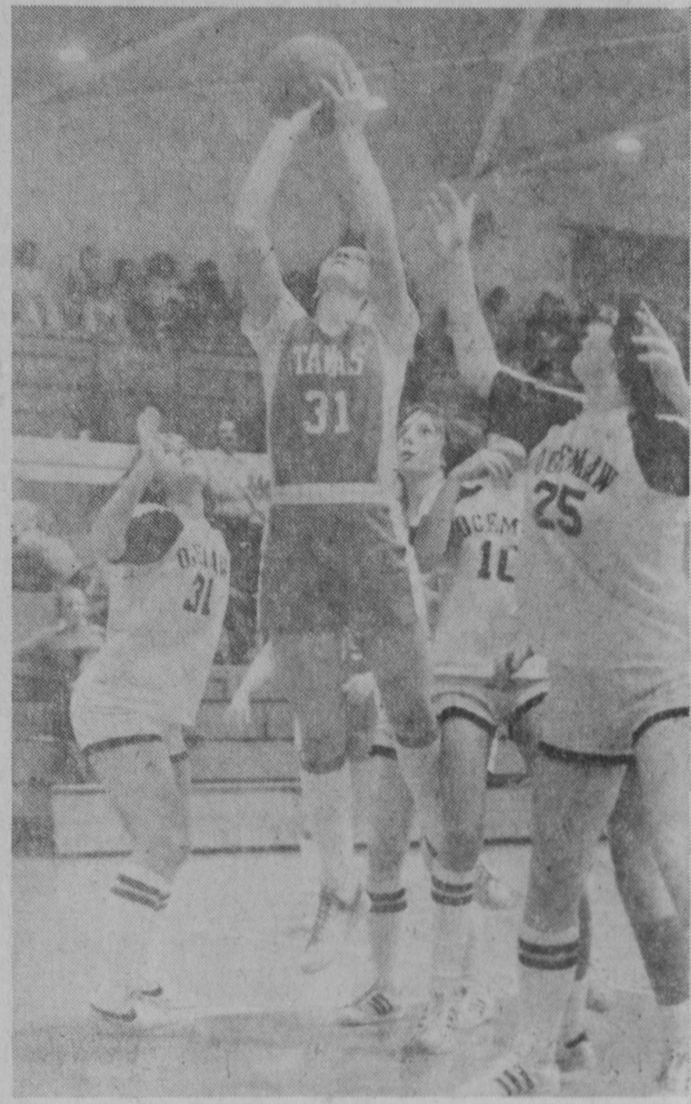

The seventh graders outscored their opponents, 254-137, this year. Their biggest victory was at Rose City, 35-17; their toughest victory was their last game at Mio, 23-19.

The eighth grade girls improved on their 1977 record of five and five by going six and four this year, defeating Rose City and Whittemore twice each and winning at least once over all opponents except AuGres in regular season play.

The eighth graders, coached by John Sherer, included Lori Caverly, Nancy Higgins, Gena Meiers, Sheri Jennings, Angie Rehil and Kathy Boughner. They worked hard and had a successful season even though they lacked enough players to scrimmage in practice.

Their toughest game was at AuGres, losing 28-14; their biggest victory was at Rose City, winning 47-16. They put on one truly great performance when Rose City came to Hale and one of the Hale girls was gone on an emergency. Hale played with only five players and defeated Rose City, 38-28.

In tournament play at Mio, the Eagles defeated Hillman 28-26. They won their second game against a scrappy Fairview team in overtime, 20-16. In the championship game, they were unable to outlast a determined Mio squad, falling short, 21-19. Mr. Sherer is satisfied with this team and compliments each player for her hard work and cooperative spirit.

Scouts Held Court of Honor

Boy Scout Troop No. 974 held court of honor Wednesday, November 22, at Jesse C. Hodder Post No. 189, American Legion, Tawas City. The troop is under the leadership of Thomas Pockrandt and sponsored by the post.

James Krumbach and Glen VanSickle were awarded the rank of life, topped only by eagle scout in value. Krumbach also received merit badges in personal management, safety and emergency preparedness, while VanSickle earned merit badges in forestry, communications and lifesaving.

Other scouts and their awards were Mark Baughn, forestry, citizenship in the nation and personal management; John Freel, farm arrangement, art and pets; Edward Latham, environment and rank of tenderfoot; Kevin Fishel, rank of tenderfoot; Robert Philpot, environment and rank of second class; Brian Beaubien, hiking and rank of second class; Richard Wright, drafting and rank of second class; and Joseph Kolts, cooking, pets, sports, salesmanship and rank of first class.

TA Bravettes Won Conference Title

Tawas Bravettes annexed their 10th consecutive win in the North-eastern Michigan Conference November 21 to put the finishing touches on the 1978 conference trophy.

Undefeated in conference play, the Bravettes wrapped up the NEM crown two weeks ago by defeating Pinconning and then edged visiting Ogemaw Heights, 51-48, in the last league game of the season.

Although the losers had two losses going into the game and Tawas girls were already wearing the championship wreath, the Falconettes outscored the Bravettes in the second half to provide plenty of excitement for a large crowd of Tawas fans at the high school gymnasium.

Parents of varsity and junior varsity players were recognized during a special program between the two games. Refreshments were served in the cafeteria following the varsity game.

The Bravettes were red hot in the opening minutes of the first quarter, meshing three consecutive field goals and held a commanding edge, 16-7, at the quarter whistle.

The Bravettes were in foul trouble most of the night, however, and sharp shooting by the Ogemaw Heights team from the charity line kept it within striking distance as Tawas rolled to a 12-10 margin in the second quarter.

The scoreboard belonged to the visitors in the second half, but that big margin in the first quarter proved the difference. Ogemaw Heights outscored Tawas, 16-12, in the third quarter and held a 15-12 margin in the fourth quarter.

Kari Allen's 13 points were high for the champion Bravettes and her rebounding proved a major factor in the game before being sidelined in the fourth quarter with five fouls. Meg Peterson meshed four field goals and four charity tosses for 12 points and runner-up for scoring honors.

Ten Tawas players saw action in the game as Jan Johnson left the game in the fourth quarter with five fouls and Laurel Minard was sidelined with a hand injury. Joyce Hatcher scored three field goals early in the game and Barb Stonehouse had three important field goals and two charity tosses.

Tie Breaker for Oscoda Constable

Six write-in votes received by three candidates for constable at Oscoda will require a drawing to determine the two winners, according to D. Keith Pappas, county clerk.

Pappas said that James Media, Chesley Sommerville and Robert Warner each received two votes for the position at the recent general election. He said that he did not know if any of the three men wanted the position.

Elderly and Handicapped

Bus System Finally Grounded

TWO LOCAL STUDENTS who are in their second year of nursing study at Lake Superior State College, Sault Ste. Marie, are benefiting from a scholarship program sponsored by the Ladies Literary Club of East Tawas. The two students, Debbie Bischoff, second from right, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bischoff, and Ann Bolen,

Iosco County Transit Authority, funded under an elderly and handicapped program through the department of state highways for the past three years in cooperation with the Iosco Commission on Aging, died again—"officially"—on Wednesday.

A resolution adopted by the Iosco County Board of Commissioners notified the state that it could not accept a $10,000 allocation offered in matching funds to keep the financially troubled system in operation. Previous local action had ended the system earlier this month after drivers refused to operate one remaining vehicle which was deemed unsafe.

Vincent Wade, president of the Iosco County Commission on Aging, told county commissioners that his group had officially gone on record opposing a proposed amended contract as it could not afford to operate the system, nor could it afford to hire a director to compile extensive reports required for operation of the transit system.

Wade pointed out, too, that the Iosco County Commission on Aging is still indebted to the tune of $1,985 for operation of the bus system "and we do not know where we are going to come up with the money."

A representative of the Michigan Department of State Highways was present at Wednesday's session and said that arrangements had been made to rehabilitate two of the transit authority's broken down buses. He said the work would be done at Alpena at no cost to the county and a third bus could be utilized until such time as the repaired buses were placed into service.

In addition, the state offered an additional $5,000 in matching money for each bus, if the county continued to operate the bus system.

David George of the county board of commissioners' finance committee reported that it would cost approximately $16,000 to operate the bus system for the next nine months. He suggested that consideration be given to use of only one bus, operating out of senior citizen centers at Hale, Tawas and Oscoda for two days a week at each location to provide transportation for elderly and handicapped persons.

George based that suggestion on the assumption that the county would receive $10,000 from the state, but it was pointed out by the highway department representative that its offer of $5,000 per bus was on a matching basis with the county.

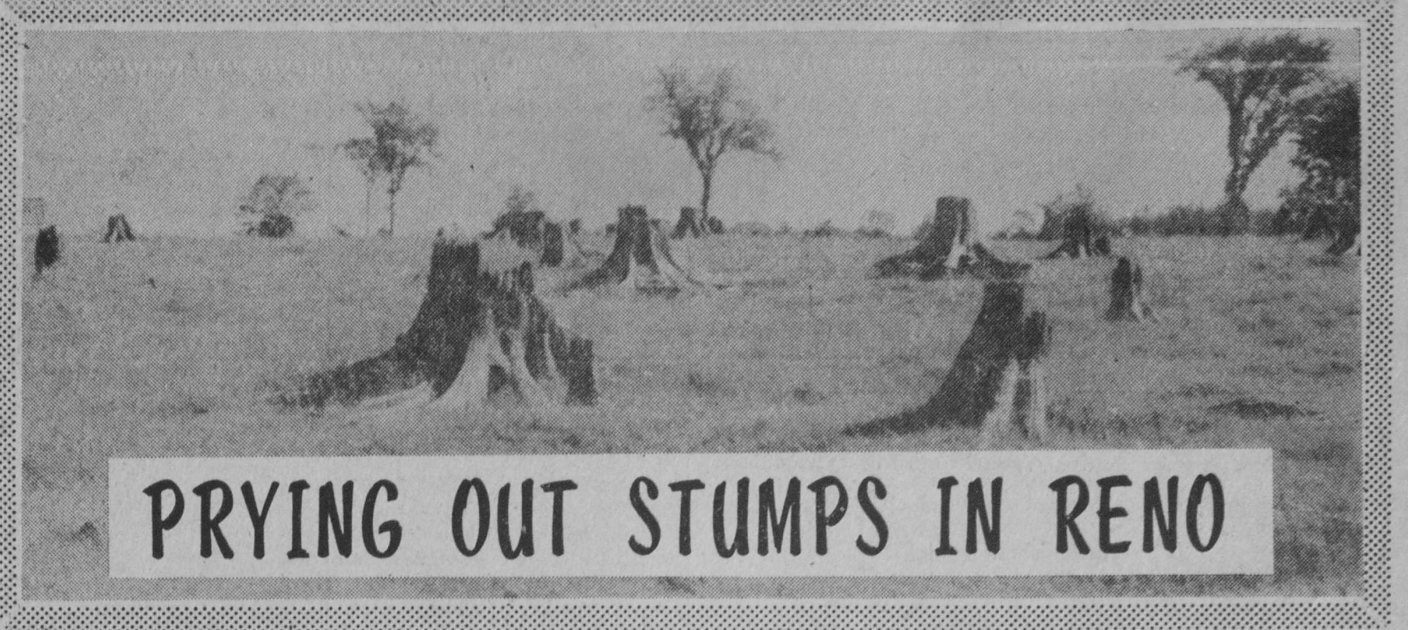

Fox told commissioners that the former bus system had used CETA workers, which was considered the county's matching money under the previous contract. Since discontinuance of the bus system, those CETA slots have been moved to other jobs and are no longer available for the bus system.

Wade said that the nearly $2,000 in bills owed by the council on aging resulted from a contract which had been signed with Iosco Intermediate School District for transportation of students to the Bright Horizons Center. When the bus system could not provide service to the intermediate school district, the latter provided its own bus transportation and submitted a bill for $485 for repair of its bus. In addition, the council on aging owes a $1,500 bill for gasoline used while Bright Horizons children were being transported.

Fox said he could not see how the present bus system could operate, but he pointed out that the commission expected to sign a contract with the state for operation of an entirely new system. The state would pay 100 percent of the cost for the first two years, but he believed that it will not go into operation for at least another nine months.

According to the budget, the estimated cost of this new transit system would be $328,616 annually. It would utilize six or seven new buses being ordered by the state.

Alice Friebe, a resident of Plainfield Township, said she had seen a sign in the area of the stumps which dotted fields bordering rural roads in the area. This sign (reduced in size) was found on the wall of a barn in Tawas Township.

PRYING OUT STUMPS IN RENO

A collection of about 50 glass plate negatives recently discovered in a house on Old State Road, Reno Township, provides an interesting and rather rare insight into early pioneer days of Iosco County.

Before leaving for his winter home in Florida, John Sibley completed an inventory and disposed of numerous collectors' items and historical artifacts remaining in the Sibley homestead and adjacent store buildings once comprising the rather thriving farm community known as Siloam—later Taft and now a "ghost town."

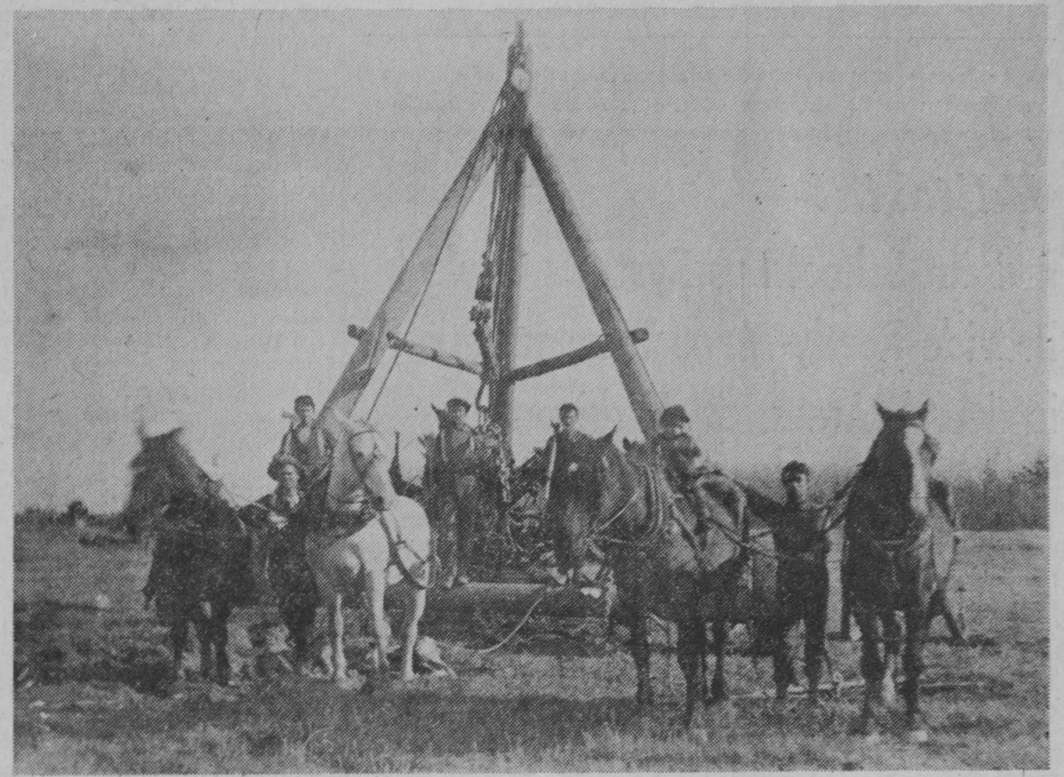

One of the principal beneficiaries of this "Siloam collection" was the Iosco County Historical Society. Sibley donated numerous items remaining in the old general store to the historical society's museum, including tin tobacco and condiment boxes, a tobacco plug cutter, metal cookie boxes and other items which once lined the wooden shelves and counter tops of the store.

Prints made from the glass plate negatives were also made for the museum. Aside from exterior views of the store when owned by the Westervelts and later by the Sibbels, plus a collection of pictures showing small lumbering operations, several plates showing men and horses operating a stump pulling machine are particularly interesting.

Few people of today realize the sweat and toil required of early settlers in clearing land for farming purposes. Immediately after the large stands of white pine were harvested here, settlers moved in and turned the cutover areas into farms. The early comers planted their first crops before stumps were removed, but that method of tilling the soil proved impractical as each 40 or 80-acre parcel contained hundreds of stumps, which eventually had to be removed.

Motorists whizzing along M-65 through Reno Township south of Hale can still get an idea of how this country appeared to the pioneer settlers. The present highway cuts through an area which once contained a magnificent stand of white pine nearly 100 years ago, extending in a solid block for several sections on either side of the highway.

The stately white pines are gone, but many of the stumps remain on the east side of the highway starting at the Hard Hat Bar and extending for about one-half mile north and east for about a around them to sow crops. This proved to be a nuisance and farmers resorted to special stump pulling machines to clear fields.

This particular area of Reno and Plainfield Townships later comprised large sheep ranches established around 1910. Land on the west side of today's M-65 was cleared immediately for farm fields, but the area east of the highway was used primarily for grazing and it was not necessary to remove the pine stumps dotting the countryside. In recent years, as sheep raising gave way to cattle production, a large area east of the Mott Ranch has been cleared.

A great deal of energy by man and beast was required to clear future farm fields of pine stumps, a chore which usually required several years of labor. Few small farmers could afford to purchase the Hercules blasting powder advertised by C. H. Prescott and Son Hardware of Tawas City for removing stumps and most were pried out of the ground by hand or through the use of horse-powered extractors.

Glass plates recently discovered in the house at Siloam show the Sibley stump puller being used in Reno Township. This device was invented by James Sibley of Sydney, father of Jesse T. Sibley and grandfather of John, whose father sold the equipment at his store at Siloam in the early 1900s.

Sibley's stump puller consisted of a tripod arrangement of stout poles and a block and tackle device which was attached to the stumps by means of chains. The stump and its roots were slowly extracted from the ground by means of power provided by a team of horses, a process requiring several hours.

A number of different stump extractors were utilized in Iosco, including one patented by T. W. Huckle of Lapeer. A note in a 1916 issue of The Tawas Herald stated that Huckle "was in the city yesterday, introducing his automatic stump pulling machine. This is probably the most successful, easy working machine made."

Thousands of pine stumps were pried out of Iosco County fields over a period of 20 or 30 years and the practical farmers piled stumps along roads to provide fences. The massive root system of each stump interlocked to provide an effective means to fence in farm livestock and barbed wire was added later to make the stump fences even more effective.

It was not until the 1920s and 1930s that those stump fences finally disappeared—they were practically indestructible—and that came at the urging of the Iosco County Road Commission. Because of the wind resistance provided by the stumps bordering fields, roads often became clogged with snow during winter months and the road commission urged replacement of the stumps entirely with barbed wire.

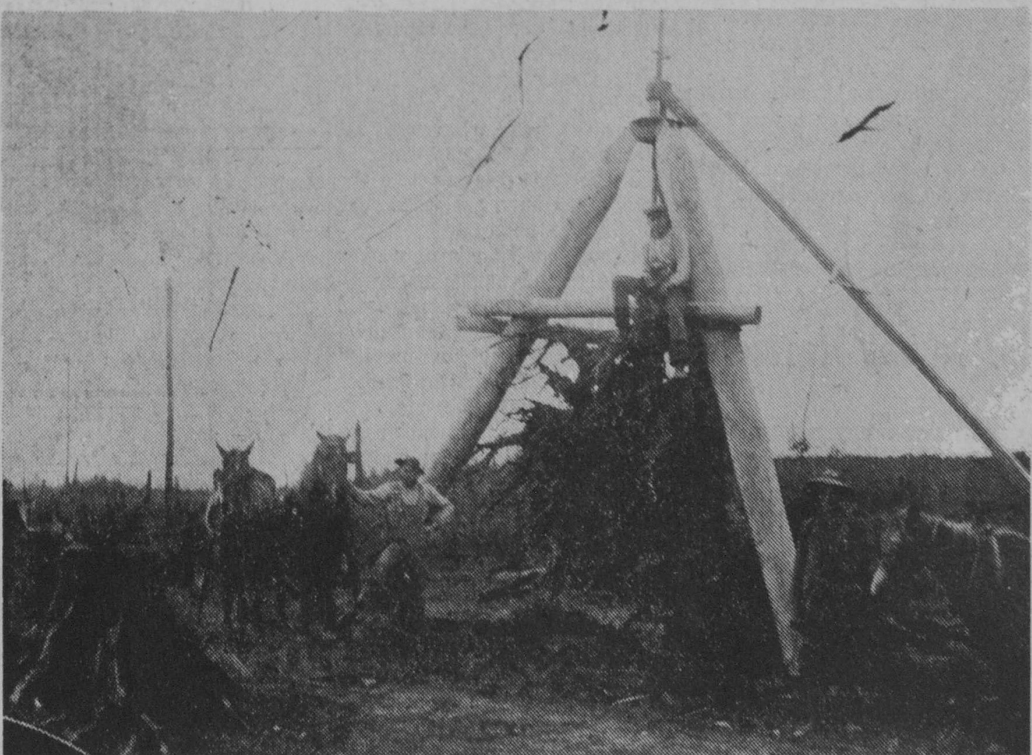

In her history of Reno Township, published by The Tawas Herald in 1916, Mrs. Thomas Frockins made no mention of the work involved in clearing fields of pine stumps—the labor required must have been considered routine for pioneer farmers.

The area of Western Iosco County comprising Reno Township, originally a part of Grant Township, was first settled by two fur trappers in 1874—then a howling wilderness. The names of the trappers were never recorded as they left in about two years, to be followed by George Ballard in 1876—the township's first settler. He took up his land and, after a couple of years trapping and hunting, returned to New York State and came back here with his wife.

Ballard was followed by such families as Latter, Belknap, Horton, Castler and Crego, comprising what was to be called the Ballard settlement. Other early comers included Hamilton, Mitchell, Cooper, Dellabough, Thompson, Anderson, Vance, Smith, Thomas, Daugherty, Nash, Williams, Spurl, Cheney, Charters and McDougal, leading up to 1885, when Reno Township was set off from Grant.

"Lumbering camps were then more numerous than farm houses," wrote Mrs. Frockins in 1916. "During the spring months, it was not an uncommon thing to see people with netting over their heads to keep the mosquitos away and carrying a bunch of brush in one hand, some times in both, if they were minus the netting."

Siloam post office was established February 15, 1889, and a store was established at Cooper's Crossing, the present-day M-55-M-65 intersection, in 1890. Many of the early settlers purchased land from the Saginaw Salt and Lumber (See STUMPS, page 6.)

THIS STUMP PULLER was developed after 1900 and saw extensive use in Reno Township where a general store operator at Siloam was the local dealer. A number of different models of stump pullers were on the market. Much energy was expended by horses and men in clearing fields.

Editorial— Present School Bus Systems Could Provide Ready-Made Transportation in Rural Areas of Michigan

Last week, this corner suggested that county officials and the Michigan Department of State Highways seek a "better idea" concerning transportation of senior citizens as an alternative to establishing another expensive bus system.

One alternative method mentioned was subsidizing passenger vehicles existing at senior citizen centers which could provide transportation to older citizens who needed it; another suggested alternative was a subsidized "share the ride" program whereby older persons still driving could provide transportation to others.

Here is another suggestion, which could be given some consideration here and in other rural counties throughout the state as an alternative plan to meet requirements of the Older Americans Act:

For years, the State of Michigan has subsidized a transportation program which covers practically the entire state. At the present time, more than one-half-million dollars is annually provided by the state for support of transportation systems in Iosco County and qualified directors, whose year-around salaries range from $12,000 to more than $15,000, supervise four different systems.

Yes, this corner is referring to the present school bus systems operated by four different school districts of Iosco County. All four systems are highly efficient organizations with trained drivers and practically every road in the county is traveled daily by one of those yellow buses.

Approximately 70 percent of the total cost of the operation of the four systems is provided by tax money coming from the state level and the remainder is furnished by tax money from the local districts.

It would seem to this corner that establishment of another bus system, which would see only limited use, would be a duplication of an existing system and a waste of tax money provided by the people. Some problems would be encountered—routes are designed to carry the maximum capacity of passengers and buses are often filled on each run; buses presently travel

"The Lord is my strength and my shield; in Him my heart trusts." (Psalm 28:7 RSV)

On September 12, 1977, the worst flash flood in the history of Kansas City, Missouri, brought shock to all of us. Twenty-five lives were lost and hundreds were homeless. Massive destruction was everywhere. On the night of the flood, many people tried frantically to get to higher ground. One woman climbed onto the roof of her car for safety but it turned over in the rushing water. A group of passers-by saw her life-threatening situation. They formed a human chain to pull her from the water. These strangers saved her life.

Often God seems to use a chain of caring people to help a person in times of crisis or illness. The chain may include family, friends and even strangers. They may not even know each other but they are a part of a vital team to help someone to "higher ground."

God wants us to depend on Him for our strength. Only then can we be an effective part of a chain of prayer and assistance to His children.

PRAYER

Heavenly Father, we thank You for Your nearness to us today. Keep us on the high ground of the spirit. Make us ready and alert to minister to others who are in need. Amen.

New Brochure On How to Buy A Used Car

For many consumers, the new car will be a new used car. That is why the Michigan Consumers Council recently released its new brochure, "How To Buy A Used Car."

"No one wants to buy someone else's lemon," said Linda Joy, the council's executive director. "With careful shopping and some basic knowledge, it is possible to find a reliable car at a reasonable price. To make this easier, the brochure includes a check list of features to look for when shopping."

Mrs. Joy recommended doing some homework before venturing into a used car lot. "Evaluate the budget and do not forget to add insurance and maintenance costs to the initial price of the car," she said. "Then, decide on a make, model and year which suits both the needs and budget."

Mrs. Joy said there are many places to shop for a used car, each with its own advantages and disadvantages. She added that consumers could check the reputation of any dealer in the state by writing the Dealer Licensing Division of the Secretary of State's office at 208 North Capitol, Lansing, MI 48918; telephone, 517-373-9080.

She also told consumers to be careful when buying a used car from a private seller.

"Although individuals may offer lower prices and may be more willing to bargain, a consumer could buy a stolen car or one about to be repossessed without knowing it," she said. "Get the vehicle number of the car. Then, to be safe, ask the local police department to run a stolen car check. Also contact

Four Starters Returning

Braves Open Basketball Season Dec. 5 at Mio

When the Tawas Area Braves open the 1978-79 basketball season December 5 at Mio, Coach Paul Becker will have three starters from last year's squad and a fourth will be returning in about three games after his sprained ankle heals.

Among the three starters returning for the opening game will be Bill King, who quarterbacked the Braves to a co-championship during the recent football season. A senior guard, King will be the play maker for the Braves.

Kevin Grace, six-foot, five-inch junior, who started as a sophomore last season, will hold forth at the center slot and is expected to provide necessary rebounding in a tough conference schedule.

The third returnee is Jim Dubovsky, six-foot, three-inch senior forward, who has the tools to turn in to a stand-out scorer.

Missing from the opening line up will be Brian Norton, six-foot, two-inch junior forward, who started as a sophomore last season and was a tough defensive player for the Braves during the football season. A sprained ankle sustained during preseason practice has sidelined him temporarily.

Two other seniors on the 12-man squad include Scott Tousley, a guard, and Dennis Libka, both of whom lettered last year. Libka, a six-footer, has put on some weight since last season and Coach Becker believes he has the shooting ability to gain a shot at a starting role.

Moving up from the junior varsity, which had a 12-8 record last year, will be Grant Mousseau, Tony Mayer, John Gardiner, Jim Grack, Bryant Wilke, Kraig Moffatt and Chuck Allen.

Both Mousseau, a guard, and Moffatt, a six-foot forward, have excellent chances to break into starting roles and all of the other juniors are talented players and should give Becker the best bench strength seen by the Braves in a number of seasons.

The Braves had a nine and 13 re-ord last season and Becker expects his charges will improve on that record this season, although he points to Gladwin as the team to beat in the Northeastern Michigan Conference for 1978-79.

Last year's conference champion and winner of the district tournament, the Ogemaw Heights Falcons, is again expected to be tough this season and all NEM teams are expected to show a vast improvement over last season, judging from the quality of football teams in the league during the recently completed schedule.

The Braves are not picked to succeed the Falcons on the top rung in the NEM, but Tawas could provide a few surprises for front-running Gladwin and Ogemaw Heights.

The Braves are to meet Alcona here December 12 in another non-conference game.

Veteran Coach Returns to Eagles

Nelson Shellenbarger, who has been out of the coaching ranks for eight years, is excited over his return as head basketball coach at Hale Area High School.

His Eagles are to scrimmage the Tawas Area Braves on November 27 and Shellenbarger expects his charges will give a good account of themselves.

"We will be carrying 12 players after that scrimmage and I would hate to mention any possibilities about starters or even potential candidates for the varsity squad. It is still too early to tell what we will have this season because of the unusually late start, but I would believe the Eagles will win at least 60 percent of their games this season," said Shellenbarger.

When he was head coach of the Eagles for several seasons, his teams were always in the thick of the North Star League championship races and, given time, he expects Hale will again return to the forefront.

"I have organized a new basketball program here at Hale in which the coaching staff will be teaching the same basic fundamentals and basic plays to teams at all levels. The five other coaches in the system are just as excited as I am about the program and we are all working hard. We expect to instill some pride in the kids," said Shellenbarger.

The Eagles are scheduled to open the season December 1 by hosting Whittemore-Prescott Cardinals,

DECK THE HALLS WITH BOUGHS OF GREENS

If the price tag on that lovely evergreen wreath has dampened your Christmas spirit a bit, consider making one. With a minimum of equipment and a little practice, a beautiful wreath for indoor or outdoor decorating can be made.

For the foundation of a small wreath, a coat hanger shaped into a circle or a plastic foam frame is satisfactory. For a larger, heavier wreath, try a length of number nine wire bent into a circle. The size of the evergreen sprays wired to the frame is determined by the size of the finished wreath. For a wreath about 14 inches in diameter, four to six-inch sprays are recommended. Smaller wreaths require shorter pieces, while larger ones can use sprays up to 12 inches long.

Bind the sprays to the frame with one continuous strand of florist wire. Fasten the wire securely to the frame first and then tightly bind the greens onto it with three or four turns of wire, lapping the bushy part of each spray over the wired ends of the preceding one so that none of the wiring is visible.

Beginners usually find it easier to point all the sprays in the same direction. They can also be pointed half one way and half the other. Or it may be made thicker at the bottom.

If the wreath will be placed against a wall or a door where the back will not show, bind greens on only one side of the frame. For a wreath that will hang in a window or on a glass door where both sides will be visible, add one or two sprays to the back of the frame at the same time the greens are bound onto the front.

Decorate the finished circle of greenery with cones—natural, shellacked or painted—bells, tiny gift-wrapped boxes, colored ribbons, glass or plastic Christmas tree ornaments, gourds, nuts and berries, even fresh fruit.

To make an evergreen rope to outline a doorway or window, wind through a staircase railing, spiral around tall porch columns or drape a mantel, use a length of heavy cord, a pile of greenery, some florist wire and a pair of old scissors. To begin, fasten the foundation cord to a heavy stationary object so that it can be stretched taut. Tie the binding wire firmly to the cord.

Wire bundles of short evergreen sprigs, three to four inches long, to both the front and back of the base, lapping the bushy part of each bundle over the wired part of the preceding one so that none of the wire or cord is visible. Make the rope the length required, because the binding will unravel if it is cut. For a long festoon, it is often easier to make several short ropes and combine them than to try to make the entire length in one piece.

WORK IS PROGRESSING rapidly on a 20 by 60-foot addition to the Plainfield Township Fire Hall at Hale. The project is being financed by the township and, when completed, the new addition will house quarters for the ambulance service as well as the health council's loan closet. Men

STUMP FENCES were a common sight in Iosco County until about 40 years ago, when the road commission urged farmers to remove them as a means of preventing drifting of snow along rural roads. The stumps made an effective barrier to keep farm animals in fields and were practically indestructible.

Stumps

The Saginaw firm recognized the value of cutover pine lands for potentially profitable future farms and did not follow the practice of other operators, who removed the pine and then let the land go back to the state for nonpayment of taxes.

An old ledger book of Saginaw Salt and Lumber Company indicates it was involved in a huge business of selling pine lands. One 1886 notation records it had sold 1,300 acres in Reno Township to the Saginaw lumbering firm of Sibley and Beringer, plus other lands to Samuel G. M. Gates, a prominent Bay City lumberman. All of those lands still held untouched stands of merchantable white pine.

Other notations in the ledger indicate the SS&L Company sold potential future farm sites to early Reno settlers, retaining ownership of timber, which was to be paid for as removed. One example is the 40-acre parcel comprising the NW 1/4 of the NE 1/4 of Section 13, sold to Squire M. Dillabough at a cost of $200 on December 30, 1884. Dillabough made a down payment of $50 and the remainder was to be paid in the years 1888 through 1891 at six percent interest. He did not fulfill that particular land contract.

A glance at the 1903 Iosco County plat book places the northern edge of this parcel about one-half mile south and one-half mile east of Siloam at the headwaters of one branch of Cooper Creek. In another notation in the ledger, SS&L Company sold 80 acres comprising the NW 1/4 of the SE 1/4 and the SW 1/4 of the NE 1/4 to Dillabough for $266.67, but reserved the timber. The AuGres River runs diagonally across the property from west to east and its southern boundary would be one mile south of M-55.

Other Reno Township pine land was sold to such future farmers as George Charters, 200 acres, located in Sections 13-14, $1,000; John L. Fraser, 80 acres in Section 26, in the year 1884, and 80 acres in Section 27, 1890, for a total cost of $933.33; plus a large tract in Sections 17, 18, 19 and 20 to J. D. Anderson, all in 1899 and presumably after the timber had been removed.

At one time, Reno Township boasted two different farm-oriented organizations, the Grange and Gleaners. A number of years ago, Norman Sibley moved the old Gleaners Hall to its present site across from the old Sibley store at Siloam.

Wagon trails and tote roads paved with corduroy and used by lumbermen in the 1880s were improved to serve a rapidly expanding farming community in the early 1900s. A Baptist Church, still in use, was constructed in 1890; a Methodist Church was established in 1896 and the township hall was constructed in 1904.

The Loon Lake branch of the Detroit and Mackinac Railway, originally known as the Detroit, Bay City and Alpena Railroad, was constructed through the township in 1884, which greatly improved transportation. The township's first telephone was installed in 1905.

Changing times wrought by the automobile industries at Detroit and Flint, which served as a magnet to draw off young people from rural areas through better paying jobs, had a profound effect on all farming areas of Northern Michigan.

Today, Reno Township is still one of this county's principal farming areas, but many acres of land on which early settlers expended much toil and sweat in removing stubborn stumps from cutover pine lands, have returned to a natural state with a covering of brush and hardwood.

Many an old farm is now used for residential and recreational pursuits, but reminders of an entirely different era remain through tumbled down barns, dilapidated buildings at a once prosperous cross-road community and long neglected orchards.

Transit

field Township and a member of the Iosco County Commission on Aging, pointed out that tax money is presently subsidizing operation of school buses and she said that every public transportation system in the country received some form of governmental subsidy. She felt, however, that the present bus system should be discontinued due to the fact that volunteer help was not available and it was no longer feasible to operate it.

Mrs. Friebe said that one alternative would be for elderly persons to sell off everything and move into a nursing home. Although she does not drive and must walk 1 1/4 miles from her home to reach M-65, she said she would prefer to remain active for as long as she could do so, "but we old ladies need transportation and the problem must be addressed in the future." She pointed out, too, that she "does not have an ache or pain" in her body when she is able to take an active part in the program at the Hale senior citizens center.

The three buses formerly operated by the Iosco Transit Authority are to be returned to the state for rehabilitation and use elsewhere.
