

DUE TO THE SLOWNESS in receiving pledges in the Tawas-Whittemore-Hale Area Community Chest, the drive has been extended two weeks to October 30, according to an announcement Monday by Roger McIntosh, co-chairman of the campaign. Only 43 percent of the $22,222 goal had been reached as of Monday afternoon. Kurt Kuhl, new controller of the Detroit and Mackinac Railway, has charge of industrial pledges and his committee is increasing its efforts to receive pledges. Engineering Consultant May Help Pick New City Manager

Service of Edmands Engineering Company of Bay City is being considered by the Tawas City Council to interview candidates for a new city manager.

The engineering consultant notified the city council by letter that a member of its staff, Wade Trimm, is a former city manager and could provide invaluable service in interviewing and recommending a final list of applicants for a successor to Reginald Bublitz, whose resignation was effective Friday.

In answer to questions why they had not attended a special meeting called by the council last week to name Rachel Sue McCreedy, city clerk, as acting manager, both Mayor Herbert Cholger and Coun. Robert Rollin felt the meeting and appointment was not necessary at that time.

Other members, who followed legal steps to call the meeting with official notices to each member, felt the meeting was important and the appointment was necessary in order to comply with terms of the city charter which requires a city manager.

Cholger said that while the city clerk was capable of performing paper work required of the city manager, he did not feel it was possible for her to learn enough about the job in one week to run the city. He said the matter could have been held over until the regular meeting and that, by not attending, he and Rollin had saved the city the cost of paying $10 to each councilman attending the meeting.

Coun. Jerry Cotter said there was an immediate problem that demanded attention and Coun. Hugo Keiser said there was a payroll report to be handled and "someone had to be in the city manager's office Monday morning."

The city clerk was appointed acting city manager on a temporary basis at a special meeting called Monday, October 9, at 7:00 a. m.

Mrs. McCreedy told councilmen Monday night that two persons, Bublitz and an employee of the City of East Tawas, were the only ones certified as sewage treatment operators.

The city clerk said that she had contacted East Tawas officials to learn if its employee could supervise operations of Tawas City's plant, inasmuch as testing is presently conducted in East Tawas' laboratory. Mrs. McCreedy said she was informed that such an arrangement was not permitted by the state, but she is to check with officials at Lansing to determine if that information is factual.

The city clerk said that it would cost the city approximately $18,000 a year for a certified sewage treatment operator. She said she had some discussion with Bublitz concerning hiring him on an hourly basis as a consultant in order to use his license for the operation.

It was reported that the water board had made a similar proposition to the former city manager, but it was reported he would not be interested.

Cotter said he would be in favor of the proposition if it was legal, but Keiser pointed out that the city manager is currently being paid for 45 accumulated sick leave days and he questioned the legality of such a move as it would mean double payment.

The council voted to make the proposition to the former city manager, if it is legal. Voting in favor were Coun. Donald Hayes, James Landon, Rollin and Cholger. Cotter and Keiser were opposed.

TC Garbage Collector Gets New Contract and Increase

Hager Sanitation Company, which provides garbage removal service to Tawas City and has been operating without a contract since July 1, was granted an eight percent increase on its contract Monday night by the city council.

The increase is to be retroactive to July 1. James A. Hager, owner, told councilmen that he had been too busy with work during the summer to appear before the council.

Last year, the total cost of residential and commercial pickups was $16,920. The eight percent increase will provide an additional $1,353 or a total of $18,273 annually.

Hager recommended that he be permitted to establish garbage pickup points on only one side of the streets in residential areas, similar to the policy in East Tawas, as a safety measure. He also recommended purchase of a larger "green box" for the city park.

The contract is for three years, subject to negotiation annually for a cost of living increase.

Peter A. Popp of 913 Lake Street appeared before the council and asked the city to consider paying a bill for flooding of his home on October 4. He said that a pump in the sewage disposal system became inoperative and sewer water backed up into his house, causing approximately $300 damage to carpeting.

Popp told the council that his insurance would not pay for the cost of the damage and he had been advised that inasmuch as flooding had been caused by a mechanical failure, it was the city's responsibility.

It was the opinion of the council that the city does not have liability insurance to cover such an occurrence and the matter was referred to the water board.

Bids on tax anticipation notes totaling $48,000 for purchase of the former Graystone property at the mouth of the Tawas River are to be opened November 6, 7:30 p. m. Interest is not to exceed six percent per annum.

Rachel McCreedy, acting city manager, reported that the option to purchase the Audrey Adamek property adjacent to the city hall had been extended to April 7, 1979. Purchase price is $65,000 and the $500 option would be applied to the purchase price. The option was extended at the minimum cost of $1.

On reviewing the option, however, Coun. Robert Rollin pointed out that when the city attorney affirmed extension of the option, the option was changed. Under the original agreement, the owner was to vacate the premises within 10 days after purchase by the city. The new option permits the owner to remain rent free on the property for four months after the purchase and would collect rent from cabin units.

Rollin and Mayor Cholger said the council had previously agreed that the option would be renewed at no additional expenditure of public funds and believed the new agreement violated that agreement.

Coun. Charles Landon said the only actual expenditure in public funds was $1 and the property would not be purchased if voters turn down the proposal to build a new city hall-fire hall-library complex at the November election.

Renewal of the option passed on a five to two roll call vote with Coun. James Lansky, Hugo Keiser, Donald Hayes, Jerry Cotter and Landon in favor, with Rollin and Cholger opposed.

First reading of the city's new sidewalk ordinance was held and tentative agreement to establish 75 cents per square foot of sidewalk as the city's share for all replacements.

Mrs. McCreedy said this cost sharing price had been recommended by the former city manager for 1978, 1979 and 1980, with the amount to be re-evaluated in 1981. The city's old cost sharing price was 50 cents per square foot.

No action was taken on a wage package for the city crew. Last year, a six percent increase was granted to hourly and salaried employees on a merit basis. Mrs. McCreedy said that increases granted this year by other governmental units included 8½ percent by the sheriff's department, 7½ percent by the City of East Tawas and eight percent by the district health department.

Benefits paid by the city include a retirement plan, seven paid holidays and Blue Cross insurance. Sick leave is accumulated at a rate of one day per month up to a maximum of 45 days.

Present pay rates range from $12,500 for city foreman, $5.25 per hour. (See COUNCIL, page 5.)

East Tawas Stops CETA Participation

Participation by the City of East Tawas in the federal CETA program was halted Monday night by the city council while awaiting clarification of potential workmen's compensation claims by CETA trainees.

The city was notified unofficially that it could be vulnerable for payment of such claims should a CETA worker be injured on the job and that any such injury would be reflected in future workmen's compensation rates paid by the city.

The opinion was expressed by Mayor Robert Bolen that the city should not be vulnerable to a higher workmen's compensation rate and that the federal government should provide funds in CETA grants to handle injury claims by CETA workers.

The city clerk was instructed to obtain full information concerning the problem.

In other business, the council is considering installation of a sign prohibiting turns on red at the traffic signal at Newman and Lincoln Streets between the hours of 8:00 a. m. and 5:00 p. m. Such a move has been recommended as a safety measure as the traffic light is located near the elementary school.

City Supt. William Smith and Ronald Turner were appointed agents of the city for making application for federal surplus goods through the county.

Approval was given to Iosco-Wurtsmith Singers to conduct a patron membership drive in the city.

City Clerk Clyde Soper reported that tentative agreement had been reached with the Michigan Department of Natural Resources concerning turning over city property for use by the state's new boat launching ramp and parking lot located on the site of the city garage.

The DNR agreed to change plans in moving fences in the city park and the rear of Hester's parking lot is to be extended 60 feet toward the bay.

The city has asked that flush-toilet be installed in the comfort station when such a building is constructed.

Tawas Marching Band Won 'B' First Place at Reed City

Tawas Area High School Marching Band, with a score of 55.95 won first place among seven "B" schools competing Saturday in the fourth annual Reed City open marching band contest.

"The band's performance was a real thrill. All elements coordinated well and it was truly a super performance," stated Gene Salamony, band director.

Salamony said it was a personal thrill for himself, especially when the various band staff members of other schools were announced over the public address system.

"Some of the other schools had paid staff members ranging up to a high of 14 and the entire staff of Tawas consists of one. We can and do compete and win against these odds," he stated.

Each band was judged by seven different persons and rated in numerical order with only one winner in each flight. Included were two persons who judged uniformity of the marching drill, two who judged time quality, musicianship and a degree of difficulty of the music. One judge rated the percussion on over-all contribution to the total presentation.

A visual judge evaluated looks, performance, originality, use of material and audience appeal. A color guard judge evaluated the flag corps on the degree to which it added to the entire program, while a timing-penalty judge assured all rules of the contest were followed.

"Much credit should go to our booster organization and the fine persons who traveled to Reed City to hear and cheer our performances," stated Salamony.

Scores of Flight "B" bands were: Benzie Central, seventh place, 11.3; Harrison, sixth, 19.3; Gladwin, fifth, 22.3; New Lothrop, fourth place (last year's winner), 36.5; Marlette, third place, 40.5; Caro, second place, 43.1; Tawas, first place, 55.95.

Bands competing in Flight "A" were Wyoming Park, Pewamo Westphalia, Tecumseh, Cadillac, Durand, Flint, Greenville, Big Rapids, Mt. Morris, Petoskey. Flushing and Chesaning entered the open class.

Tawas had the fourth over-all high score following Flushing, Petoskey and Durand. Tawas' color guard score was also fourth, behind the same bands listed above.

MORE THAN 100 PERSONS PARTICIPATED in Saturday's CROP walk sponsored by the Saginaw Bay District of United Methodist Church held at East Tawas. Young people participating in this fund raising drive to fight hunger throughout the world were to return to their home congregations and obtain pledges based on the number of miles walked. Meeting at the East Tawas Community Building, the 16-mile route traveled north on Newman Street, east on Lincoln Street and along US-23 to Baldwin Resort Road, then back along Tawas Point Road and US-23 to the community building. The Rev. Willis Braun, pastor of Hale United Methodist Church and district youth coordinator, is shown at left with one of the CROP emblems.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Tawas Hospital Bonds Offered to Investors of Local Area

Tawas Hospital bonds totaling $1,500,000 will be offered for sale through B. C. Ziegler and Company, West Bend, Wisconsin, according to Donald Snyder, hospital administrator.

Proceeds from the bond sales are to be used for expansion and renovation currently under way at the hospital. The project includes a 17,275-square-foot addition to the existing hospital structure and renovation of areas of the hospital building.

The project started last month and is scheduled for completion in November 1979.

Included in the expansion is replacement of a 37-bed nursing unit, a new four-bed special care unit, tomography and nuclear medicine department, hearing clinic and expansion of the present X-ray, laboratory, emergency and ancillary services.

The first opportunity to purchase the bonds will be Monday and Tuesday, October 23-24, when bonds are to be offered to area investors.

IN THE SERVICE—

Participates in NATO Exercise

Pfc. Daniel M. Bailiff, whose grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Schutte, live at Turner, is participating with other American and allied troops in REFORGER '78, NATO's largest yearly exercise, held in Germany.

More than 11,000 soldiers were flown to Germany and some 37,000 tons of equipment and supplies have been shipped from the United States for the massive exercise.

REFORGER (Return of Forces to Germany) results from a 1967 agreement between the United States, United Kingdom and the Federal Republic of Germany, which requires the return of state-side-based forces to Germany each year for exercises to demonstrate allied solidarity.

The entire exercise emphasizes the orderly disposition of forces and stresses deployment procedures and techniques.

Bailiff, a demolition specialist with the 23rd Engineer Battalion, Hanau, Germany, entered the army in November 1976.

Wood Stove Demonstration Set Saturday

A wood stove and furnace demonstration is to be held Saturday, October 21, 11:00 a. m. to 3:00 p. m., at Rose Heating and Plumbing, located on M-55 across from Tawas Hospital, Tawas City.

Factory representatives will be on hand for working demonstrations and questions of visitors will be answered. Wood burning stoves and furnaces are to be on display.

Free coffee and donuts are to be served. Turn to page 6, section 2, for announcement and information concerning the efficiency of various species of wood for heating purposes.

A MICHIGAN DEPARTMENT of Natural Resources deer expert gives his predictions for the 1978 deer season in the November-December issue of The Michigan Natural Resources Magazine, on sale at newsstands beginning October 20.

"Given favorable weather this fall, Michigan's deer hunters should enjoy another excellent season," says David Arnold, who is in charge of species management for the DNR's Wildlife Division. Last year saw a record buck kill of 105,000, a healthy antlerless harvest of nearly 30,000 and a record archery kill of about 20,000 deer. Even with the over-winter losses in part of Michigan's north country, the deer herd continues at a fairly high level in much of the range, Arnold says. "Deer crop damage complaints have doubled in each of the last two years and doubled again the first half of 1978," he says. "Car-deer collisions this year are slightly below the record of 16,000 deer killed by cars last year." Arnold says an increased antlerless harvest combined with a continued high level take by archers should partly compensate for an expected reduction in the buck kill. "Hunters should again take well over 100,000 deer," he predicts.

Bell-Schreiber Marriage Vows Repeated at Detroit

Messiah Lutheran Church, Detroit, was the scene of the double ring ceremony Saturday, October 7, uniting in marriage the former Diane Schreiber of Ferndale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Schreiber, East Tawas, and Leonard Bell of Detroit, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Bell Sr., Inkster.

The Rev. Richard Beiber performed the 6:30 o'clock ceremony, which was followed by a reception for 30 guests from Manassas, Virginia; Las Vegas, Nevada; East Tawas, and Lansing at Howard Johnson's Restaurant.

Mrs. Bonnie Tyson was vocalist and Janet Hutchenrath, organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, descended the aisle in a white gown with applied lace flowers outlined in seed pearls and featuring a chapel length train. Her cascade bouquet was composed of pink and yellow rosebuds with white carnations and babies breath.

Miss Kathy Soehner of Madison Heights wore a light green floor length gown and carried a yellow rose in her role as maid of honor. Nicole Rose, flower girl, selected a pink gown and carried a matching rose. Wearing a yellow gown, Kimberly Rose carried a ring bearer pillow.

Assuming the duties of best man was Robert Newell of Detroit. Guests were seated by James Rose of Manassas and James Verkinis of Detroit.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Schreiber chose a deep rose dress and the bridegroom's mother selected a floral green print. White orchid corsages enhanced their attire.

Following a two-week Florida trip, the newlyweds will reside at 229 East Bennett Street, Ferndale. The bride, a registered nurse, graduated from Wayne State University. Her husband is a Macomb County Community College graduate.

Ladies of the East Tawas Assembly of God Church will honor the couple with a dinner and reception at the church on Saturday, October 21, beginning at 6:00 p. m.

Betty Hammond Slated as Arts Council Speaker

Tawas Bay Arts Council will hold its membership meeting at 8:30 p. m. Thursday, October 26, at the Isosco County Historical Museum. After the business meeting, Mrs. Betty Hammond will address the group on graphoanalysis.

Mrs. Hammond, a certified graphoanalyst, is a member of Michigan State Society of International and National Graphoanalysts Associations. She has taught in the Fenton High School and Mott Community College, Flint. She will be teaching at Tawas Area High School starting October 16.

Graphoanalysis is the scientific method of studying handwriting. It can determine the personality traits of individuals. Mrs. Hammond will demonstrate these traits with samples of handwriting. It is used in personnel placement and vocational guidance.

The public is invited to this meeting. A question and answer period will follow the talk.

Program Set by Baptist Women

"Inner Beauty and Outer Beauty" is the title of a program demonstration to be presented by Deborah Russell at the Tuesday, October 24, meeting of Baptist Women's Missionary Society at First Baptist Church, Tawas City. The business session will convene at 7:30 p. m. and will be followed at 8 o'clock with the presentation by Mrs. Russell, a graduate of Bayshore Academy of Beautycraft, Bay City.

Georgia Unke will sing a solo and everyone is invited to attend.

Staweke-Yanna Nuptial Vows Said Sept. 30

Jean A. Yanna of East Tawas and James A. Staweke of Tawas City exchanged marriage vows Saturday, September 30, in Emanuel Lutheran Church, Tawas City. The Rev. James Rockhoff officiated for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Yanna Sr. of East Tawas and the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ulman of Tawas City.

Mrs. Carol Indreica of East Tawas was matron of honor and John Staweke of San Diego, California, served as best man.

A reception was held at the American Legion Hall, Tawas City, following the ceremony.

Senior Citizens Card Party

A card party is slated for senior citizens Monday, October 23, at Tawas Area Senior Citizens Drop-In Center, Tawas City. Play will begin at 1:00 p. m. with prizes for each table, door prizes and refreshments.

Proceeds from the event will go to support the center.

Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Bronson of Whittemore announce the engagement of their daughter, Martha Neibert, to Roger Brandt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Brandt of Jenison. The bride-elect is also the daughter of the late Alldon Neibert.

An August 4, 1979, wedding is being planned by the couple, students at Kirtland Community College, where Miss Neibert is studying cosmetology and the prospective bridegroom is studying natural resources.

Guest Night Observed by TC Club

Guest night was observed by Twentieth Century Club Monday, October 16, at Tawas Masonic Temple. Isabelle Leslie, president, welcomed the 50 members and guests and read a poem entitled "Friends."

Each member introduced her guests. Brenda Gotcher, guest speaker, was introduced by Hattie Evril, who had been her third grade teacher at Tawas City Elementary School.

Attired in a Brazilian dress made by friends during her stay in Brazil as an exchange student, Miss Gotcher related experiences and told of customs she had observed. She had resided with two families and displayed pictures of Brazil.

A social hour followed the program. The dinner was catered by members of Tawas City Chapter No. 303, Order of the Eastern Star.

Tawas City Man Heads Senior Citizens

Walter Schuhmacher, a Tawas City resident, was elected to the presidency of Tawas Area Senior Citizens at the Wednesday, October 11, meeting held at the East Tawas Community Building. THE TUFF-KOTE DINOL SHOP on South US-23 owned by Donald Hayes has received an award for outstanding application and coverage of rustproofing material for which they received 100 percent in quality control. This award has only been given out one other time in 1978. Honored at world headquarters of the firm at Warren were Shawn Hayes, right, manager of the local shop, and Timothy Stonehouse, second from left, technician. Representing Tuff-Kote Dinol were Mark St. Charles, left, quality assurance supervisor, and Michael O'Brien, general manager, second from right. Hayes and Stonehouse were awarded $200 in bonds.

Power Shortage Would Affect Jobs And Economy

Fortunately, America already has the domestic resources and the technology necessary to meet our growing energy needs by the year 2000. A leading energy expert points out how critical it is to our economic well-being that we waste no time in moving down the road to utilizing them.

This article is excerpted from a speech given to the nation's governors by the man who manages the world's largest single supplier of electrical generation and power delivery equipment. Dr. Vanderslice is a Senior Vice President with General Electric.

Dr. Thomas A. Vanderslice

The United States will face an electric power shortage that will short circuit up to 2 million jobs and generate higher electricity prices if projected needs for nuclear power and coal production are not met in the 1980's.

Most forecasts of electric load growth in the U. S. for the next decade are in the 4 1/2 to 5 1/2 percent range. To meet even the low side of this demand would require that 200 plus new units of generating capacity in addition to some 200 units already on order be installed by 1990, requiring some 78 new sites.

If these sites are not approved, we will have about 17 percent less capacity in 1990 than we believe is necessary to avoid serious curtailment of service and widespread economic dislocations.

Coal and nuclear combined are expected to account for some 70 percent of all electricity produced in the U. S. in 1985. At this time, there exists, in effect, a de facto moratorium on rise of electricity prices of 15 percent. Nuclear is still the lowest cost way of generating a kilowatt hour, with coal next. Oil is the most expensive.

But an electricity shortfall is only part of the overall picture.

We also found what would happen with just a 15 percent shortfall in total domestic energy supplies—including those used in transportation, heating and other nonelectric applications.

Such a shortfall would result in a 25 percent drop in the average annual growth in GNP for the period from 1978 to 1985, and a decline in the average growth rate of business investment from five and a half percent to a little over two percent. In dollars, that decline would equal $160 billion.

It would also increase the unemployment rate two points from just under five percent—which is what is expected by 1985—to at least seven percent. Three million fewer jobs would be available to the work force. This is particularly critical because the U.S. will have to create about 18 million new jobs in the next 10 years.

This is by no means a worst case scenario. The electricity shortfall case previously presented would alone account for about half of the total domestic energy shortfall of 15 percent.

We can and must afford the costs which are necessary to make energy production and use compatible with the environment, but the cost of implementing environmental goals can only be shouldered if we have a robust economy.

Iosco Sheriff's Dept. Lists Complaints

Four burglaries, three vandalism complaints and two larcenies were investigated last week by Iosco County Sheriff's Department.

Vandalism complaints were reported by the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, Tawas City, five windows smashed by rocks; Detroit and Mackinac Railway, signal light damaged on Townline Road; Whittemore-Prescott Area School, four buses damaged. Seats were slashed and fire extinguishers were removed.

Burglaries were reported by Barbara Northrup, North US-23, East Tawas, dwelling entered and a camera stolen; Robert Wilmont, Burling Township, tools stolen from trailer; Wanda E. Pipp, Loud Dam Road, a .22 caliber rifle, antique clock, rug, quantity of change, stereo turntable, records, electric space heater and hunting suit were stolen; Thomas M. Kala-fit, National City, 10 eight-track tapes stolen from house.

Larcenies were reported by Freeman Butler, fishing equipment taken from vehicle in Oscoda Township; Theodore M. Czelwinski, Brook Park, Ohio, theft of fishing equipment from car parked near the US-23 bridge in Tawas City.

A bill for $275 as the city's share of blacktop work on First Street presented by John N. Brugger was tabled for further clarification.

The council directed that lights at the tennis courts not be turned on next spring until coin-operated equipment is installed whereby use of lights would be paid by those using the tennis courts. Last month's bill for the lights was $100.

Robert Hilbrecht was appointed to fill a vacancy on the cemetery board. The term is to expire in 1980.

NO-TRICK TREATS

A PUMPKIN PATCH of tasty jack-o'-lantern burgers is a hearty Halloween send-off for a band of merry masqueraders. These quick treats join with carrot sticks, celery stalks, ripe olives and cider to make an easy dinner for Trick-or-Treaters. The recipe from the new Hallmark Holiday Cookbook calls for 2 pounds of ground beef, 1 1/2 teaspoons of salt, 1 teaspoon of pepper, 1/4 cup of tomato juice and 8 slices of American cheese. Mix the beef, salt, pepper and tomato juice. Gently form into eight patties. Meanwhile, have the children create their own funny-face cheese cutouts. On a lightly greased hot skillet, cook five minutes on one side and three on the other for medium-rare burgers. Add the cheese jack-o'-lanterns, cook for two more minutes, and serve open-faced on hamburger buns or toasted English muffins. The Hallmark Holiday Cookbook is available in stores that carry Hallmark products. It features special meals and treats for every major seasonal celebration.

Mrs. Greenwood Died Oct. 11 at Grand Rapids

Dorothy E. Greenwood of Jenison, formerly of East Tawas, passed away Tuesday, October 10, at Butterworth Hospital, Grand Rapids, after a long illness. She was born January 14, 1936, in Detroit.

Services for Mrs. Greenwood were held Saturday, October 14, at Grace Lutheran Church, East Tawas, with the Rev. William A. Graf officiating. Burial was in Greenwood Cemetery.

Surviving are her husband, Gary; one son, Kenneth, and two daughters, Vickie and Lisa, all at home. She also leaves her mother, Mrs. Ellen West of East Tawas; one brother, Ted West of Dearborn Heights, and one sister, Lorraine Ripard of Livonia.

Injured When Car Rolled

John A. Lumsden, 20, Ypsilanti, and Douglas Ferguson, 30, Fenton, were treated at Tawas Hospital after their car rolled over on private property in Tawas Township. Investigating state police said the vehicle was traveling at a high rate of speed.

The Secret Life Of The Forest WOODLAND SPIRITS

FROM THE EARLIEST TIMES, man has venerated the forest.

Trees used to be considered sacred. The ancient Greeks believed Zeus' voice could be heard in the rustling of one of the great oaks in the sacred grove of Dodona.

California's Maidu Indians believed that originally the earth was a mass of fire that gradually collected in the center but that the roots of the trees were still connected to the fire.

Ancient Norsemen believed in the World Tree. Its roots were in Hel, the kingdom of death, and its branches in Heaven. The stars hung in its crown. At the base of the tree, around the sacred well, the Nornir, or fates, decided the course of human events.

Many trees were revered in the East. The Chinese considered the Ginkgo sacred. And the Buddha was supposed to have attained enlightenment under a Bo tree.

A tree in Sweden is believed by the local people to cure sickness in children. The naked child is dragged through the exposed roots by its mother.

The Druids, who lived in England some 2000 years before Christ, put evergreen branches on their altars to give the elves a place to live while other trees were bare.

Are trees as sacred now as they once were? Yes, but in a different way. Trees are still venerated. Man feels closer to Nature in a forest than in the city.

This article was prepared by the St. Regis Paper Company, which—along with the other members of the forest products industry—is vitally concerned with maintaining the beauty and usefulness of America's forests for generations to come.

W-P Cards Lost Another Thriller

Whittemore - Prescott Cardinals are still looking for their first win in the Northeastern Michigan Conference, but the winless record in four games does not tell the story. The Cards were turned back again Friday night by visiting Gladwin, but the Whittemore-Prescott team held a 14-6 edge at intermission and were nipped, 22-21, at the final whistle.

Ken Plude ran 27 yards for a touchdown with seven minutes, 18 seconds, remaining in the game and, after Johnson scored the conversion, it was just too much for the Cardinals to overcome.

The Card offense was hot in the first half as Quarterback Todd Horn scored on a 15-yarder and Jeff Janish passed 30 yards to End Jim Graham for a touchdown. Larry Snyder split the uprights for both conversions.

Ken Turner gave the Cards the lead with two minutes, two seconds gone in the fourth quarter when he scored on a 15-yarder. Snyder again split the uprights.

Plude ran his final touchdown for Gladwin and the Flying Gs took the lead on Johnson's two-point conversion.

Gladwin played control football during the rest of the game to preserve its lead.

Braves Nip Ogemaw to Stay in Tie for 1st

Tawas Braves, defending champion of the Northeastern Michigan Conference, stayed in the thick of the 1978 title fight Friday night with a thrilling, 6-0, victory over the Ogemaw Heights Falcons.

Rebounding from their loss to Pinconning here two weeks ago, the Braves have a record of three wins and one loss in league competition and play host this Friday night to Gladwin in a key NEMC game to end the league season.

A win this week would earn the Braves a share of the conference title.

All of the offensive action in Friday night's game came in the third quarter as Quarterback Bill King zeroed in on End Gary Birkenbach for a 28-yard touchdown pass. The try for extra point failed, but the six-pointer was enough to give Tawas the victory as the Braves' defense again turned in another outstanding performance.

Brian Norton, junior linebacker, turned in a big defensive game for the Braves as he made 13 solo tackles and assisted on nine other stops.

Dick Bachelder of the Falcons was the game's top rusher as he picked up 90 yards in 24 rushing attempts.

Over at Pinconning, the Spartans thumped the visiting Standish-Sterling Panthers, 25-16, to keep their hopes alive for a share of the NEMC crown. Playing before the largest home crowd in its history, the Spartans now have a record of three wins and one loss, a league record identical to the Braves.

Other conference action saw Gladwin turning aside a determined Whittemore-Prescott Cardinal team, 22-21. The Cards are winless in four league contests, but have given fits to every conference opponent this season with a fine passing attack.

GARY BIRKENBACH

Eagles Score, but Lost to Atlanta

Hale Eagles pulled off something Friday night which no other team has been able to accomplish this season. The defending conference champion Eagles managed to score one touchdown against Atlanta, but lost to the Huskies, 48-6.

Scoring the lone touchdown for Hale was Daryn Bernard, who went over on a 14-yard power play in the first quarter. Bernard had 77 yards of his team's 133 yards rushing.

The Huskies continued to dominate the North Star League by rolling up 505 yards total offense.

Scoring for Atlanta were Joe Weaver and two touchdowns each for Todd Culham and Brian Lambertson. Weaver threw two touchdown passes to Allen Poag.

Leading defender for the Eagles was Todd Peters, who had 10 tackles. Gary Wood had nine stops and Troy Peters had eight.

The Eagles play host Friday night to Arenac Eastern. The Eagles are winless this season and Arenac Eastern has won one game.

Proposals Submitted for Projects

Counties in Region 7B Employment and Training Consortium, Harrison, submitted proposals for 75 special projects under Title VI Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) programs before the deadline on September 20.

The proposals were reviewed and given priorities at a special meeting of the advisory/planning council September 25 and presented to the Region 7B administrative board on September 28 where all but three of the proposals were accepted and approved, pending available funding, with the exception of those projects submitted from Isabella County. Isabella County commissioners will review these projects before any action can be taken.

The board also approved several requests for extensions of on-going special projects, pending available funds. The projects, ranging from $2,628 to $188,483, totaled $2,320,795. These projects will provide employment for 235 people in the nine counties, Arenac, Clare, Gladwin, Gratiot, Iosco, Isabella, Midland, Ogemaw and Roscommon. Iosco County requested $84,928.83 for three projects.

"At the onset, Title VI special project proposals were not reviewed or approved until funds were made available. Consequently, programs were delayed in getting under way. Now, we are accepting the proposals, reviewing them and assigning priorities, pending available funds. This way, we can implement the programs as soon as funds are made available," said Mrs. Volker.

Title VI special projects, first initiated in the 1977-78 fiscal year, are programs designed to fund projects that would not be accomplished with existing funds. All projects are to be completed by September 30, 1979.

Worksites for these special projects include departments of social services, schools, community colleges, cities, villages, townships, counties, hospitals and other community-based non-profit organizations.

Hire Former CETA Trainees

SIX IOSCO COUNTY RESIDENTS, hired under the CETA program, now have permanent unsubsidized positions in three different county offices. All were enrolled in public service employment with five filling positions they were originally hired for in the CETA program.

NANCY KARNS was enrolled in the CETA program in July 1977, terminated in September 1978, and hired as a full time matron-clerk by the Iosco County Sheriff's Department on October 2. Two other CETA participants, Sandra Roy and Rose Terrell, also joined the staff as matron-clerks on the same day.

RICHARD BROWN enrolled in a Title VI public service employment program in the equalization department and was hired on a full time basis in August 1978. He started as an appraisal-clerk trainee and is now a certified Level III appraiser.

Tawas A. Golfers Finished Second

Tawas Area Braves' golf team finished conference play by taking third place in the Northeastern Michigan Conference meet last week and tied Gladwin for second place in the final league standings.

Jeff Hatcher placed eighth in a field of 25 with an 18-hole total of 90. The Braves had a record of three wins and one loss under Coach Mike Viele.

Other scores in the conference meet were as follows: Jim Huck, 93; Stan Humphrey, 94; Jim Palmer, 105; Mark Jurczyk, 110.

Ogemaw was the first place winner in final standings with an undefeated record in four meets.

D. D. PEARSALL, 81, veteran Hale businessman, was honored Wednesday night by the United States Forest Service's Tawas Ranger District for 35 years of service as a fire warden. He is shown receiving a "Smokey the Bear" award and a certificate in appreciation for helping to prevent forest fires. The presentation by Ranger Calvin Norton, left, was made at a banquet held at Evergreen Restaurant on M-65, attended by fire wardens and forest service personnel. In presenting letters of appreciation to other wardens, Ranger Norton said the wardens acted behind the scenes to add fire prevention measures in Huron National Forest through strict control of burning permits. He said that wardens are strategically located in the area, know the people "and you will never know just how many fires your untiring efforts have prevented." "I enjoyed every minute of it and put in a lot of years trying to help where I could," said Pearsall.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Damage Suit Has Change of Venue to Iosco

A change in venue from Oakland County to Iosco County Circuit Court was ordered last week in a suit brought by an East Tawas couple against the Battle Creek Motel Corporation and Holiday Inns, Incorporated.

The original complaint arose out of a fall by Doris Craffey down a flight of steps at the Holiday Inn at Battle Creek, Calhoun County.

In asking for the change of venue from Oakland County, attorneys for Mrs. Craffey and her husband, Michael, argued that she received most of her medical treatment in this county and Iosco would be a convenient location to hear testimony.

In demanding a jury trial on the two-count suit, Mrs. Craffey seeks a judgment of $200,000 for her injuries and her husband seeks a judgment of $100,000.

Area Sawmill Owners Invited to Workshop

Owners and operators of area sawmills are invited to attend a workshop that will focus on the maintenance of the mill. It will be held on Thursday, November 2, 12:30 p. m., at the Hill Forest Products Mill near Barton City in Alcona County.

The clinic will feature Theodore Peterson of Wisconsin Extension Service and Stanley Lunstrom, United States Forest Service sawmill specialist, will discuss proper sawing processes and mill examination and maintenance.

There will also be a discussion of the sawmill study program offered by Jack Zollner, wood utilization specialist from the Department of Natural Resources and Robert Ojala, district extension forestry agent.

A special session will be held that evening at which a mill will be disassembled and given a complete physical. Only one person per mill should apply for this session by calling George Byelich, Alcona County Extension director, (517) 724-6478. Reservations are necessary.

UNICEF Campaign October 29

Children will meet at Tawas United Methodist Church to begin canvassing the area for UNICEF collection at 5 o'clock Sunday, October 29. Identification of children will be made possible by UNICEF tags and canisters. Accompanying the youngsters will be members of Methodist Youth Group. Refreshments will be served to the children following their return to the church by Tawas United Methodist Women.

Open House at Hale Area School

Open house for parents of seventh and eighth graders of Hale Area School is to be held Monday, October 23, 7:30 p. m., according to an announcement by Prin. Robert McDonald.

Parents are to meet in the cafeteria and are requested to bring a copy of each child's schedule. Parents are to attend abbreviated classes in which their children are enrolled.

"The idea is for parents to learn what their youngsters are doing in the classrooms and to provide an opportunity to meet with teachers," said McDonald.

Following the 1½-hour program, coffee and cookies are to be served.

Tales of IOSCO BEAR HUNTS

Not many permit holders during the special hunting season held September 21-30 in Michigan's Lower Peninsula were challenged with the task of skinning a black bear—just seeing a bruin in this county is a rarity worthy of news mention but, despite the scarcity of "blackies," Iosco was included in the 13-county area where hunting was permitted.

Permits were handed out in late August, on a first-come, first-serve basis, to 3,000 firearm and 1,000 bow hunters. That same number of permits was granted in 1977 and 143 bruins were bagged in the northern half of the Lower Peninsula.

One of the successful permit holders of 1978 rolled into Hale September 28 with a black bear on the back of his pickup truck. The Herald photographer was on hand, but he did not unlimber his camera: The last time this newspaper printed a picture of a black bear shot during the hunting season, two young readers called the office to ask why the hunter had shot "Smokey." Explain that to a seven-year-old!

Black bears were once plentiful in this county and, until about 35 years ago, were not protected by state game laws. In 1882, a Tawas City chapter of the Michigan Sportsmen's Association was formed to warn that "violators of the game law cannot continue in their work without sooner or later coming to grief." The association was determined to "protect our game and it proposes to enforce the laws."

The game law in question pertained only to the prohibition of hunting deer with dogs and no mention was made of black bear, which apparently were deemed a nuisance to settlers and a danger to stock raisers.

Numerous stories concerning black bear have been recorded in histories of this county and in old newspaper files. Bruin was never portrayed in a particularly favorable light.

One of the earliest bear stories by pioneer settlers was recalled by the late Edna M. Otis. A Baldwin Township housewife and her children were left alone in their cabin at the north end of Bischoff Road to put in and harvest their crops, the husband working away from home most of the summer.

One day, the mother discovered to her horror that a large black bear was sunning itself on the front porch of the cabin, preventing the door from being opened. The family later moved to a new site on Sims Creek and the family was terror-stricken when a female bear and two small cubs crossed a log

ONE OF THE MOST UNUSUAL bear stories in Iosco County concerned William Sims, who killed a black bear with an axe near East Tawas. He was chopping firewood when a bear spanning the creek. The mother instructed the children to remain in the cabin while she ran for help.

A neighbor armed with a rifle soon arrived on the scene and dispatched the three bears, which netted the hunter a reasonable profit for the skins as well as providing meat for the dinner table and fat to be rendered into cold salves, hair oil and for waterproofing leather boots. The wild animals were not wasted.

Another story, entitled "A Bear Hunt in Iosco," appeared in the August 18, 1881, issue of The Bay City Tribune. The story concerned two young Bay City men, Fritz Savage and Will Emery, who left for Iosco County "on a pleasure trip, taking with them their Winchester rifles."

They went to the farm of Emery's father, Temple Emery, which was located on the AuSable River, about 20 miles back of Tawas "and there passed a few days shooting."

The Tribune reported the story as follows: "Last Monday, they were out in the woods about three miles from the farm when they heard a rustling in the bushes by their side. Peering through the leaves, they saw to their amazement a large black bear a few yards distant."

"Their first thought was to give the unwelcome traveler a bullet from their rifles and, as soon as they could get them to their shoulders, fired. Owing to the thickness of the brush, only one ball took effect.

"It struck bruin in the front leg, fracturing the limb and only infuriated the animal. Raising on his hind legs it sprang toward the boys as best it could on three feet. This act on his bearship's part made it interesting for the boys and, clinging together, retreated as fast as their legs would take them for 10 rods. Looking back they saw the bear coming toward them on the jump.

"But they had a slight advantage over the wounded bear and again, raising their rifles, they blazed away. Bruin raised into the air and then dropped to the ground. The boys retreated for a little distance and restocking their rifles with cartridges, returned to the spot where the bear was seen to drop. The bear was yet there, lying motionless.

"Bound not to be deceived, Fritz and Will gave him another charge and, seeing that he made no movement, stepped up to where he lay. (See BEAR HUNT, page 6.)

Oscoda Couple's Suit Seeks to Stop F-41 Construction

Suit was filed in Iosco County Circuit Court October 10 by an Oscoda couple seeking to restrain further construction or expansion of F-41 at Oscoda.

John and Carol Landry's suit against the Iosco County Road Commission seeks to stop work on the project until procedures of state statute as required by the federal constitution are complied with by the road commission.

The suit also seeks to require the road commission to pay such costs as the court determines.

The Oscoda couple claims that widening F-41 establishes the right-of-way within nine feet of their residence. This, it is claimed, places the plaintiffs and their family in serious danger of physical injury to their property and persons by exposing them to noise and air pollution.

The suit also claims that the family would be endangered by injury due to motor vehicle accidents and that it would be impossible for them to use the property as a family residence if the widening of the highway is permitted.

THIS BEAR was shot in the Big Bear Swamp area north of the AuSable River about 15 years ago. In recent years, the Herald has stopped the practice of printing such pictures as the usual response from young readers is "why did they shoot 'Smokey the Bear'?"—Tawas Herald Photo.

PROBABLY THE LARGEST black bear ever seen in the Tawas area died from eating poison in October 1949. The bear had been raiding garbage cans in the Tawas Beach Road area. Four boys found the bear in its dying agony along Tawas Bay. The picture was snapped for the Herald by Donald Gould of East Tawas.

Editorial—

Proposed Tax Amendments Would 'Meat Ax' All Local Governments

As one may have guessed after reading this corner for the past several months, the editor is opposed to all three tax proposals being offered Michigan voters at the November general election. There is a good possibility that all three of those proposed constitutional amendments could pass—this would result in utter chaos as the new laws would "meat ax" all levels of local as well as state governmental operations. Where or how the state would come up with more than two-billion-dollars to replace local property taxes is a mystery—if proposals are approved, income to local governmental units would be slashed through halving property valuations, an over-all tax limitation would control state spending and tax support for public education would be eliminated. What a sorry state of affairs for the people of this state!

On the surface, Proposal E, the Headlee plan, is the most moderate of the three. It would limit state taxes to about their current percentage of state personal income and prohibit local governments from adding or increasing taxes without voter approval, already required in every instance with the exception of city governments, which are permitted to levy up to 20 mills under provision of state law or home rule charters.

This proposal also prohibits the state from imposing new programs on local governments that require more local financing—if new programs are ordered, the cost must be picked up by the state. That is a provision local government has always desired, but the legislature can get around this by deducting costs from revenue sharing payments to townships, cities and counties.

This corner's principal objection to the Headlee plan is that more authority would be concentrated at Lansing at the expense of local people and their local governments.

For instance, citizens of Tawas City adopted a new home rule charter which went into effect in 1972, designed to permit local people to determine their community's destination rather than having interference from Lansing. The principal local financing clause of the 1972 charter would be gutted. A serious legal question could even be asked—do people in other parts of the state have the right to dictate financing of local government, thereby subverting provisions of a locally adopted city charter?

As for Proposal J, the Tisch plan, its adoption would be senseless. Township, city, county and school budgets would be cut by one-half through an equal reduction in property valuations. This amendment does allow a one percent increase in the state income tax and permits school districts to levy a one percent income tax with voter approval, but here again, control over local spending would be reduced—local people have always had the right to set their own millage rates for governmental and school operation.

Proposal H, the school voucher plan, is actually "parochial" in disguise, as each child in the state would receive a voucher to be presented to any school, public or private. The voucher would be redeemed by the state for money to assist the schools.

Michigan was a pioneer among states in recognizing that public education is a natural function of government. Prior to the constitution of 1837, schools were sectarian or private in nature; although wealthy men of the territory always opposed free schools, that first constitution adopted by the people provided for free education, controlled by a non-sectarian state department of education and appointment of a state superintendent of public schools—the first in the nation.

After a bitter fight, public education won out over sectarian or private schools and financing public education has been a governmental responsibility to this day. Despite past and present criticism of public schools, Michigan's school system has been a model for other states—that system should not be gutted by adoption of Proposal H, which would prohibit use of property taxes to operate schools.

It might be interesting for the public to review where some of the money is coming from to promote adoption of the tax proposals. The Headlee campaign, for instance, is endorsed by the state chamber of commerce and is financed by contributions by large industrial corporations and real estate organizations. That is something for the voter to ponder upon!

Michigan voters should reject all three proposals and instruct the state legislature to take a reasonable approach toward tax reform, utilizing, for instance, both income and property taxes for public school financing.

The editor of this corner may be in a minority on November 7, but all voters should realize that "meat axing" governmental and school financing is not the answer to the current problem in this state—you cannot get something for nothing; governmental expenditures, by necessity, will continue and most local controls will be lost if the proposed tax amendments are adopted.

TODAY'S Meditation
from The World's Most Widely Used Devotional Guide
The Upper Room

(Read 2 Corinthians 12:1-10)

"Three times I prayed to the Lord about this and asked Him to take it away. But His answer was: 'My grace is all you need, for My power is strongest when you are weak.' I am most happy, then, to be proud of my weaknesses, in order to feel the protection of Christ's power over me." (2 Corinthians 12:8-9 TEV)

A middle-aged person was lying in the hospital with severe arthritis. As a minister, I was searching for some comforting words to share with her. I was expecting to see a person complaining of her misery but instead I saw a cheerful lady. She told me that she was hurting badly but that God had strengthened her in the midst of her suffering.

Many of us are facing suffering of one kind or another and fail to find comfort. In the midst of our suffering, we need to remember Paul. He had a thorn in the flesh and asked God to remove it. God did not remove the thorn. Instead, He strengthened Paul. Thus, Paul was able to depend on God for the resources to face all his infirmities and to give the glory to God.

Likewise, we can trust God for strength. Amazingly, He can even use our weaknesses for His glory.

PRAYER

Thank You, Father, for giving us strength each day to face our pain and suffering. Help us to trust in You at all times. In Jesus' name. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

We may never know the power of God's strength until we know the weaknesses of suffering.—Yu Fong Chong (Columbia, South Carolina)

FAMILY LIVING EDUCATION

CREATE YOUR OWN HALLOWEEN COSTUMES

Remember when Halloween costumes were homemade and pranks were played? Many families are returning to the do-it-yourself costume. The rising prices of costumes and a new interest in energy conservation have influenced many families. Here are some easy costume ideas to be made at home.

Old sheets can be converted into a variety of costumes, be it a Halloween ghost or an Indian.

To make an Indian dress, fold a sheet in half, cutting a hole for the head and then cutting a loose sheet sleeve and outline. Baste the sides together. Cut two-inch fringe along the hem and sleeve ends. Dye the garment a medium brown shade. For a suede-like look, iron the dyed article before drying to achieve uneven patterns.

A pillowcase can also be made into many different costumes. Just cut out head and arm holes. Then paint any design on the case (snowman, skeleton, etc.). When using sheets or making other costumes, be sure to keep the length several inches above the ankles to prevent the child from tripping over the hem.

A box can be used to make different costumes. Again, cut out holes for the head and arms. Cover the box with aluminum foil. Make a pointed cap out of the foil and a child can be the tin woodsman from the "Wizard of Oz." The box can be painted to look like a television set. Paint the dials and buttons. From a magazine and glue it to the box. The child could wear a hat with antenna sticking out. Or be a package of chewing gum.

A pirate's costume is easy to put together. Dye an old shirt a gaudy color. Tuck the bottom of the youngster's pants into a pair of tall boots. Wrap a sash around the child's waist and a scarf around the head.

For a Robia Hood costume dress the trick-or-treater in a pair of green tights and an old dress dyed green. Tie a red sash around the waist. Make a hat out of felt and put a long feather in it.

To make a costume from scratch, sew together old scraps of material and make a peasant skirt. Or, buy muslin or material from the remnant table to make an inexpensive outfit.

Sometimes children's pajamas come with tiger, cat or other designs already on them. These could be used as a Halloween costume and later as sleeping apparel.

Before beginning to make the costume, ask the youngsters what they want to be. They may have some clever ideas and will really enjoy being involved in designing their own costumes. Let these ideas be just the beginning for imaginations to take off!

Meth. Women

Met Oct. 10

Tawas United Methodist Women, with 34 members and one guest present, enjoyed the program, "Name That Tune," presented by Ellen Powers Tuesday, October 10. Mrs. Powers played scores from hymns and various women related excerpts from composers lives.

Discussion on plans for the November 11 bazaar was followed by election of officers. Elected were Grace Woodburn, president; Mrs. Powers, vice president; Vicki Halstead, secretary, and Isabelle Leslie, treasurer.

Members were urged to attend cluster group meetings at Curran October 17 and at Twining November 1.

Cupcakes and transportation will be provided by members for the annual UNICEF drive. Church school children will be canvassing the area for contributions.

Serving on the refreshment committee were June Bowden, Betty Blake and June Rapp.

Fall Rally of Lutheran Women

"By Word and Deed" is the theme for the fall rally of the Timberline Zone Lutheran Women's Missionary League Wednesday, October 25, at Faith Lutheran Church, Prescott, with registration starting at 9:30 a. m.

The morning session will include devotions, business meeting, a report of the Michigan district Lutheran Women's Missionary League Convention in Lansing in July by Mrs. Hugo Schwab of Standish and a Bible study. Luncheon will be served by the ladies of Faith.

Featured speaker for the afternoon will be the Rev. Edward Azam, Flint Institutional Chaplain, whose topic will be "Eddie's Angels." There will also be a Christian Growth presentation.

Closing devotions will be led by the Rev. William C. Winter, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, Houghton Lake, and pastoral counselor of the Timberline Zone Lutheran Women's Missionary League.

RICHARD HUMMEL is the new remedial reading teacher at Tawas Area Junior High School. Originally from Buffalo, New York, he received a bachelor of science degree in political science and master degree in reading education from State University of New York at Fredonia. He has spent the past five years teaching at Colon on the Michigan-Indiana border. Hummel and his wife, Linda, are residing in the Sand Lake area. His outside interests include fishing and golfing. Hummel is pictured above at the front door of a portable classroom which is used for remedial reading classes. At the present time, 70 students are enrolled in his classes.—Tawas Herald Photo.

CETA Film Programs Now Available

Region 7B Employment and Training Consortium announced this week that three slide film programs providing valuable information about CETA programs are now available to the general public.

"These film presentations are designed to provide the public with positive information concerning our on-going CETA programs," said Roberta Volker, administrative director. The presentations cover the Title III youth program, on-the-job training and an overview of Region 7B and CETA. Each runs from seven to 18 minutes.

Service clubs, schools, governmental units and community based organizations may acquire information regarding these programs by writing Susan Henry at Region 7B headquarters, 1375 South Clare Avenue, Harrison, or call 386-3864. Region 7B staff will provide personnel and equipment for the programs in its service area, which includes Arenac, Clare, Gladwin, Gratiot, Iosco, Isabella, Midland, Ogemaw and Roscommon Counties.

Hale Area School Aids Transition of Sixth Graders

Prin. Robert McDonald of Hale Area Junior and Senior High School reported last week to the board of education on a new program designed to improve the transition of students entering junior high school from elementary grades.

Working with administrators, two five-member committees are cooperating to coordinate junior high school and elementary curriculums in each subject area, as well as special needs of junior high school students.

As a result of committee study, curriculums in both elementary and junior high school grades are being coordinated in the area of mathematics, reading and language arts. For example, different series of textbooks had been used in kindergarten through grade eight for mathematics and reading. Effective this year, one textbook series is used for those grades.

In the future, the teacher committee will study the areas of social studies and science in order to coordinate those programs in elementary grades and junior high school.

Recommendations of the other committee adopted were designed to separate the junior and senior high schools. This includes special activity nights for seventh and eighth graders, separate representation assemblies, separate bulletin board for activities in the library, a reward trip at the end of the school year for students on the honor roll, for perfect attendance and for those students with not more than one disciplinary slip.

Other activities planned include an honors assembly or banquet at the end of the school year, junior high school mathematics competition, a junior high school spelling school in competition with other schools, separate seating arrangements in the study hall. Junior high students are released for lunch earlier in order that those students may get in line together and eat lunch together.

McDonald said there is a tremendous transition from elementary grades to junior high school. Seventh graders normally have difficulty in making the adjustment, said McDonald, mainly because it comes at a time of life when their bodies are changing.

The principal said that the teacher committees would continue to study the problem and further recommendations would be made in the future.

Charles Wrathell Died October 11

Charles Wrathell, retiree of National Gypsum Company and lifelong resident of the Whittemore area, expired suddenly Wednesday, October 11, at his home. He was born October 1, 1910, at Turner and married the former Geneva Peterson October 10, 1934. He was a member of Twining Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Funeral services were conducted Saturday, October 14, at Forshee Funeral Home, Twining, with Elder Leonard Barr officiating. Interment was in Saints Cemetery, Whittemore.

Besides his wife, he leaves five sons, Albert (Bud), Rudy, Melvin and Peter of Whittemore and Ted of AuGres; five daughters, Charlotte Schaefer of West Branch, Judith Osier of Omer and Cora (Pat) Shirkey, Roberta Serens and Cindy Gratot of Whittemore; two brothers, Clifford of Las Vegas, Nevada, and Robert of Whittemore, and three sisters, Iva Watts, Cora Coates and Eleanor Juhl of Tawas City. He also leaves 28 grandchildren and eight great grandchildren.

BEFORE STATE LAW prevented keeping a wild animal as a pet, black bears were occasionally chained in the Tawas area. This picture snapped before World War I shows Martin Wug-

Bear Hunt

They found that their second shot had pierced the bear's heart and laid him out.

"Returning to the farm, a conveyance was procured and the bear brought in. The animal was pronounced by the farm hands as being the largest ever shot in that vicinity, it being nearly six feet long and weighing 350 pounds. Had it been in good condition and ready to go into its hole for winter, it would have bent the beam at over 500 pounds.

"The bear was dressed and the farm hands given a good square meal of bear meat. Fitz and Will have returned to the city, bringing the skin, several claws and teeth of the backwoods beast."

On October 5, 1881, The Iosco County Gazette reported that "hunters are going into the woods in squads. An old bear in the Tawas region, being killed and cut up, was found to have carried eight balls in its body. The skin measured seven feet, four inches, from wrist to wrist."

Another bear story was reported that fall by the local newspaper. As the men engaged in Laidlaw's lumbering camp in Wüber Township were seated at dinner, a man came in from the woods and reported that he had discovered a panther's den.

"The report caused some commotion in the camp and all flew to the den—forgetting arms and danger—there to behold a large black bear with one cub. One of the men was dispatched for a gun while mother bruin sidled to the right, then to the left, coaxing an attack.

"The gun was brought and three times discharged when the quadruped yielded. The boys had a lively time in capturing alive the month-old cub, which was finally accomplished. The carcass of the old bear weighed nearly 300 pounds."

Still another story concerning a bear hunt at the Emery farm on the AuSable River in 1882 was as follows: "An old bear was discovered last Sunday and, after five rifle shots by one Nelson Patterson, her bearship yielded and came down in a heap. There was evidence of others in the same tree and a posse of workmen being summoned, the tree was cut down and three cubs were captured alive—as the scarred hands of the capturers testify. Mother bruin's weight was 250 pounds."

As can be seen by the foregoing stories, the bear was not hunted and killed for the sport of it, but to rid the country of the "quadrupeds." Left unmolested, bruin was not particularly dangerous to humans but was responsible for the annual loss of considerable numbers of sheep and other farm livestock. Bruin's forays into farm lots left it in an untenable position with settlers.

One of the strangest bear hunting stories appeared in a 1905 issue of The Tawas Herald. William Sims of Tawas City killed a black bear on the outskirts of East Tawas. This was not a particularly sporting proposition for Sims as he was surprised by the bear while cutting wood and used a poleaxe to dispatch the animal. Sims and his brother, Jack, are shown with the bear's carcass in a photographic glass plate negative snapped by A. G. Emery. Jack Sims is holding a Winchester rifle in the photograph, but the firearm was not used in the hunt.

Another bear hunter of note was Matthew Jordan of Sherman Township, who once built a 14 or 16-foot high scaffold near his barn and left a dead horse as bait. Sure enough, a large bear was attracted by the free dinner and Jordan had another bear to his credit.

Arthur Leitz of Baldwin Township, a retired conservation officer, recalls that he once trapped a black bear in the 1920s which was responsible for killing 26 sheep in two nights.

Bear were becoming scarce in the late 1930s and hunters were allowed to shoot a bruin only during the deer hunting season. That proved to be a poor policy on the part of the state as too many hunters were shot in the woods—all apparently being mistaken for black bear!

The north side of the AuSable River was one of the best areas in the region for bear hunting and Leitz recalls that nine bruins were bagged in one season shortly after World War II.

Probably the largest bear ever seen in this area came to a painful end on September 17, 1949. Residents of the Ottawas Beach area on Tawas Point had reported seeing a pair of black bears raiding garbage cans on several occasions. One resident baited the bear with poison—probably strychnine—and one animal was found in the last agony of death. The bear measured six feet, four inches, from the tip of the nose to the end of its tail and it had a reach of six feet, six inches. The animal weighed 375 pounds. The animal's poisoned carcass was buried, but Leitz saved the awesome hide and had it tanned.

The much maligned black bear is still seen in this county on occasion, but usually only for a brief instant—the bear is afraid of man and, judging from its past history, it has good reason to be so inclined.

TC Building Authority Developing Endorsement of City Hall Complex

A tentative position paper relative to endorsement of the proposed city hall-fire hall-library complex to be placed before voters of Tawas City on November 7 was explained at Thursday's meeting of the Tawas City Businessmen's Association.

Carl Babcock of the city building authority said that one of the principal features of the proposals is that the annual cost, amounting to less than five percent of the city's current budget, could be paid without the need to raise additional taxes.

Babcock said that scope of the city council's project is that the one-story building would house a fire station, public library, administrative offices, public meeting rooms and public rest-rooms.

He said that study of a proposed location began in early 1977 by a committee appointed by the mayor and city council. After 11 meetings and consultation, the present city hall property and the adjoining Adamek property were selected.

Bonds to finance construction would be sold to the Farm Home Administration in the amount of $500,000 or less for 40 years with a low interest rate of five percent.

Assuming the full $500,000 is spent to build the complex, $29,000 per year would be required to retire the debt. Other money in the present city budget should adequately cover the cost, said Babcock. Excess revenues obtained from increased state equalized valuation which amounted to $17,360 for the year ending June 30, plus an increase of $9,316 in state shared revenue could be utilized. Present rent for the library and fire hall annex amount to $2,700 and these three items alone amount to $29,376, or more than enough to meet the debt retirement. Babcock said there would be additional savings due to lower fuel costs to heat the new facility as compared to the poor fuel economy in the present structure.

In the event of consolidation now being considered with East Tawas, Babcock said the building could be utilized to house equipment for the fire district protecting Tawas City, Tawas and Alabaster Townships, as well as for a public library, meeting rooms and office space for auxiliary services which would be needed regardless of consolidation.

"The building is necessary in this part of the city," he stated.

Funeral Held for Lynn E. Bower

Funeral services for Lynn E. Bower, resident of East Tawas for the past five years, were conducted Saturday, October 14, from Uht Funeral Home, Wayne. Burial was in Michigan Memorial Cemetery, Flat Rock.

He passed away Wednesday, October 11, at his home. Born March 3, 1921, at Wayne, he was a veteran of World War II and the Korean conflict. He was a member of Wayne Masonic Lodge No. 112 and Royal Arch Masons Chapter No. 182, Westland.

Surviving are his wife, Rosemary, whom he married in 1943 at Sebring, Florida; a daughter, Mrs. Fred (Linda) Palazzolo of Taylor; a son, Gary of Wayne, and five grandchildren.

The family requests memorials be designated to the Michigan Heart Association.

ROSE HEATING & PLUMBING

Across from Tawas Hospital on M-55

Inside the entranceway of an impressive rotund building on the northern outskirts of Canton, Ohio, stands a life-size bronze figure of one of the world's all-time outstanding athletes — Jim Thorpe. Since 1963, Thorpe, who died a whole decade earlier, has introduced more than a million visitors to the exquisite Pro Football Hall of Fame. It is most fitting it should be so, for Thorpe was an all-time hero, not only to the world of football, but to sports lovers everywhere.

It was the kind of valor and courage displayed by Thorpe that made the Football Hall of Fame into reality. And it was those same qualities which established football as such an outstanding sport from the beginning.

The Pro Football Hall of Fame, a shrine with all the educational and entertainment qualities of a fine museum, has in many ways become a mecca to those who follow the battle for the pigskin by such pro teams as the Chicago Bears, the Green Bay Packers, the Baltimore Colts, the Miami Dolphins. They come here — mostly fans and spectators — to walk the hallowed halls where busts of Frank Gifford, Jim Brown, Johnny Unitas and many others strike an imposing scene. Behind each is a brief personal sketch, outlining some of their accomplishments.

But the Hall of Fame is more than that. Housed in a three-building complex connected by corridors, it includes a football action movie theater, research library, gift shop and many pieces of statuary and displays from the football scene of yesteryear. Football history is dramatically unfolded in several displays. The visitor may view many priceless momentoes around the rotunda curves of the 52-foot, football-shaped dome that dominates the Hall. There are also multi-colored pro football current displays where every one of the National Football League's 28 teams is honored.

Throughout major exhibition areas, electronic devices encourage each fan to participate actively in history as he tours the hall. Rear-view movie projectors, taped voice recordings, two question-and-answer boards and selective slide machines all play a part in telling the total story of pro football.

"We feel we offer a comprehensive football experience for the fan here," said Don Smith, public relations director for the Hall of Fame. "We try to provide an all-day experience for visitors. Take the movies, for instance. A different pro football action movie, in full color and sound, is shown every hour in the Hall's 250-seat movie theater. Every visitor is welcome to stay for as many showings as he would like, and many of the retired people who visit here do just that," he added.

The Hall of Fame is not all history. Many of the current event displays are constantly being updated. And another building will be added to provide for expansion within the next year or so.

The facility is definitely an asset to Canton where pro football action becomes reality only once a year — during the annual American Football Conference-National Football Conference game played at Fawcett Stadium next door. The first game of the commemorative series was played in 1962, a year before the Hall was opened. And, except for 1966, there has been a Hall of Fame game in Canton every year since. All 28 teams of the National Football League will appear in the game during a period beginning in 1971 and extending through 1984. It is during the festive weekend game that the new nominees selected are enshrined into the Hall of Fame.

Many have come to wonder why the Pro Football Hall of Fame should be located at Canton, Ohio, in the first place. Therein lies a success story of community spirit. For one of the greatest reasons was simply the people of Canton wanted it enough to make it a success. But there were several things that figured in its location here.

Not the least of those reasons was the American Professional Football Association, direct forerunner of the National Football League, was founded in a Canton garage on Sept. 17, 1920. And in those days before the NFL, the Canton Bulldogs were an early-day pro football power. In both 1922 and 1923, the Bulldogs were two-time champions of the NFL. And Jim Thorpe, the first big-name athlete to play pro football, played his first pro football with the Bulldogs, starting in 1915.

Member teams of that early association were the Decatur Staleys, Cleveland Indians, Massillon Tigers, Dayton Triangles, Hammond, Ind. (which later became the Chicago Bears), Akron Professionals, Rochester, N.Y.; Chicago Cardinals; Rock Island, Ill.; and Muncie, Ind. Well, Canton long since lost that team, but the spirit that existed in the garage that day in 1920 still was alive in 1959 when the drive was started to obtain a Pro Football Hall of Fame.

It began with the Canton Repository just before Christmas, when the newspaper challenged its readers with the headline: "Pro Football Needs a Hall of Fame and Logical Site is Here." Canton civic groups quickly took up the challenge and, by January, 1961, Canton made a formal bid to the NFL. Three months later, the wish was granted. Wooded parkland was donated by the city, and a civic fund-raising campaign began. School children dipped into their piggy banks. By just a year later, pledges totaling more than $378,000 had been acquired. That summer — August, 1962 — ground was broken, and the building opened to the public on September 7, 1963.

Operating as a non-profit independent organization, the Hall of Fame has a 14-member board of directors made up of citizens of Canton and Stark County, as well as Lamar Hunt of the Kansas City Chiefs, K. S. Adams Jr. of the Houston Oilers, Art Rooney of the Pittsburgh Steelers and George Halas of the Chicago Bears. The 14th director is NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle. Located just off busy Interstate 77 south of Cleveland, the Pro Football Hall of Fame is indeed a worthy mecca for football fans everywhere. Its constantly increasing number of visitors each year is proof positive of that. Open every day of the year except Christmas, some contend it to be one of the nation's most outstanding attractions.

Owning more of each would help you do more of everything.

There's so much Pyrex® ware to make your life easier. It would be a shame if all you had was a measuring cup, a pie plate and some baking dishes.

You should own some of our new dressy Pyrex ware. Called Fireside. So pretty a Pyrex ware you'll bring it right to the table. Like clear Pyrex ware, it stands up to heat and cold and microwave. And cooks to perfection. And it will never, never lose its color. It costs less than it looks, too. A beautiful 2-quart Covered Casserole is only about $4.49.

You should own more of our clear Pyrex ware as well. There's what we call our 12" Patio Plate, but one woman we know calls "The best thing I ever owned to heat and serve hors d'oeuvres!" There's the 3-quart Mixer Bowl you can keep cold ice in or steaming hot chili. And there's so much more! Come look.

- | | |
|--|--|
| 1 3/4 cups ginger snaps crumbs, finely rolled (about 22) | 1/4 teaspoon ginger |
| 1/4 cup softened margarine | 1 1/2 teaspoons cinnamon |
| 1/4 cup sugar | 1 teaspoon salt |
| 1 envelope unflavored gelatine | 1 teaspoon vanilla extract |
| 1/4 cup cold water | 1 quart vanilla ice cream, slightly softened |
| 1/2 cup cooked pumpkin, canned or fresh | 1/2 cup ginger snaps, crumbs, crushed |

Thoroughly blend ginger snaps crumbs, softened margarine and sugar. Press firmly against bottom and sides of a 9-inch pie plate. (The easy way is to press crumbs into place using an 8-inch pie plate.) Freeze.

Soften gelatine in cold water; add to pumpkin. Stir in spices, salt and vanilla extract. Cook over low heat until gelatine is dissolved. Cool. Blend with ice cream. Spoon into pie shell and smooth top. Freeze.

To make a Jack-o-Lantern face on pie:

Make paper cut-outs of eyes, nose and mouth. Press lightly on top of pie filling. Sprinkle ginger snaps crumbs around cut-outs. Lift off carefully, leaving Jack-o-lantern face. Store in freezer until serving time. Makes 1 9-inch pie.

PUMPKIN TARTS

Pumpkin Tarts

- | | |
|---|------------------------------------|
| 2/3 cup sugar, granulated or dark brown | 1/2 teaspoon salt |
| 2 teaspoons cinnamon | 1 slightly rounded cup of pumpkin |
| 1/2 teaspoon ginger | 2 eggs, unbeaten |
| 1/4 teaspoon each mace and nutmeg | 1 can (1 3/4 cups) evaporated milk |
| 1/8 teaspoon powdered cloves | |

Mix together dry ingredients, pumpkin and eggs. Stir well, adding the evaporated milk gradually. When well mixed, pour into chilled unbaked tart shells, arranged on a cookie sheet for easy handling. Place on rack slightly below middle of the oven. Bake in a 450 degree oven for 10 to 12 minutes. Reduce heat to 300 degrees. Bake about 20 minutes or until nearly set.

PUMP-CAN BREAD

Flavor-Crisp Crust

- | | |
|------------------------------|-------------------|
| 1 1/2 cups flour | 1/2 cup margarine |
| 3 (3 oz.) pkgs. cream cheese | |

Have cheese and margarine at room temperature. Mix together thoroughly. Then, using a fork or pastry blender, cut this mixture into the flour and shape to form a ball. Wrap in waxed paper and chill in the refrigerator for several hours.

When ready to use, roll the pastry thin, cut in rounds to fit 5-inch oven glass or metal pie plates, or large muffin tins. Crimp edges as desired. Brush inside of shells with melted margarine and allow to chill in refrigerator a bit, which will help in preventing sogginess in any custard type or fruit pie.

PUMPKIN HEAD PUNCH

Pump-can Bread

- | | |
|----------------------------|---|
| 3 cups flour | 2 eggs beaten |
| 1 tablespoon baking powder | 1 cup milk |
| 1 teaspoon salt | 1 cup canned pumpkin |
| 1 teaspoon cinnamon | 3/4 cup firmly packed light brown sugar |
| 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg | 1/4 cup oil |
| 1/4 teaspoon ground cloves | 1 teaspoon baking soda |
| 1/2 cup chopped pecans | |

Stir together flour, baking powder, salt, and spices. Mix in pecans. Blend eggs, milk, pumpkin, brown sugar, oil and soda. Add liquid all at once to flour mixture, stirring only until flour is moistened. Pour into two greased 1-pound coffee cans. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven for 1 hour and 15 minutes, or until done. Cool 15 minutes before removing from cans. Cool thoroughly before cutting.

Pumpkin Pranks

by Sandy Bloom,
Midwest Roto Food Consultant

When it's time for the Halloween ghosts, goblins and witches, everyone will enjoy these "Pumpkin Pranks." All of these recipes are pumpkin season favorites. Faces will glow at the taste of these treats rather than tricks.

Pumpkin Head Punch

1½ cups dark syrup	4½ quarts water
1 cup lemon juice (juice of 6 lemons)	1 stick cinnamon, broken
1½ quarts apple cider	1 teaspoon ground allspice
	1½ tablespoons whole cloves

Combine all ingredients and bring to a boil. Cover and simmer 10 minutes. Then strain. Serve hot. If desired, serve from a pumpkin shell. Makes 6-1/2 quarts or about 35 servings.

Pumpkin Bars

2 cups flour	1 cup nuts
2 teaspoons baking powder	2 cups pumpkin
½ teaspoon salt	1 teaspoon soda
2 teaspoons cinnamon	2 cups sugar
4 eggs	1 cup oil

Mix all ingredients together in electric mixer until well blended. Pour mixture into a jelly roll pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes.

FROSTING:

1¾ cups powdered sugar	¼ cup margarine
3 ounces cream cheese	1 Tablespoon milk

Cream together cream cheese and margarine. Add powdered sugar gradually to creamed mixture, alternating with milk.

Pumpkin Gems

(A Microwave Recipe)

1½ cups sugar	¾ teaspoon salt
½ cup margarine	½ teaspoon cinnamon
2 eggs	½ teaspoon nutmeg
1 cup mashed pumpkin	½ teaspoon vanilla
1½ cups flour	½ cup water
1 teaspoon baking soda	½ cup finely chopped walnuts
¼ teaspoon baking powder

Beat together well the sugar, margarine, and eggs. Stir in pumpkin. Stir together flour, soda, baking powder, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg. Stir into beaten mixture. Mix in vanilla, water and nuts.

For nicely shaped muffins, prepare a "muffin pan" by cutting off the top of paper hot drink cups to about 1/2 inch below tops of paper muffin or cupcake liners. Place 7 prepared "muffin forms" in circle around edges of 3-inch round dish. Line with a paper cupcake or muffin liner, then spoon batter to about 2/3 full. Microwave each batch of 7 muffins at medium/defrost power for 6 to 9 minutes. If desired, sprinkle tops of gems with cinnamon, and drizzle with Simple Glaze before serving. Makes about 25 gems.

Simple Glaze: Stir together 1 cup sifted confectioners sugar, 1 to 2 tablespoons milk or hot water, 1/4 teaspoon vanilla extract and 1/8 teaspoon salt.

Sunbeam's Power Plus Mixmaster Mixer.

The professional quality mixer even a weekend cook can love.

Baking my own made-from-scratch breads and cakes really is satisfying. But who's got the time—or the energy—for all that work?

That's where the Power Plus Mixmaster Mixer really helps out. It's the fastest, most powerful mixer Sunbeam's ever made. And it does what only a mixer does best: mixing, whipping, beating. The secret's in the heavy duty 16-speed motor and these deep, tapered stainless steel bowls. The new shape concentrates more ingredients into the beaters for better mixing.

There are nifty optional attachments, like a citrus juicer, a food grinder and a slicer/shredder. So I can do anything from angel food cakes to homemade breakfast sausage. Delicious!

Even the dough hooks and beaters are larger and heavier than ever. So the Power Plus can knead enough dough for three one-pound loaves of my favorite whole wheat bread in minutes. Impressive? You bet!

Trust the people who designed the original Mixmaster Mixer to come up with the extra help in the Power Plus Mixer. Now there's a Mixmaster Mixer in every price range, with styles and colors for everyone.

That's Sunbeam for you.

CARAMEL

by Sherry Onken

... A rich, chewy candy, vanilla or chocolate flavored that provides a delightfully delicious coating for apples and popcorn; a tasty ingredient for confections, cookies and cake.

Caramel Cake Wiches

- | | |
|---|---------------------------------------|
| 1 2-ounce package dessert topping mix | 1 6-ounce can evaporated milk (½ cup) |
| 1 large banana, sliced | 3 to 4 drops bitters |
| ½ 14-ounce package vanilla caramels (about 1½ cups) | 6 slices pound cake |

Prepare dessert topping mix according to package directions; fold in the sliced banana. Chill. In medium saucepan combine caramels and evaporated milk. Cook and stir over medium heat till caramels are melted; stir in bitters. To serve, top pound cake slices with banana mixture, then pour the warm caramel sauce over cake. Makes 6 servings.

Caramel Pecan Brownies

- | | |
|-----------------------------------|--------------------------|
| ¾ cup vanilla caramels (about 13) | ½ teaspoon vanilla |
| 2 tablespoons milk | ¾ cup sifted flour |
| 2 eggs | ½ teaspoon baking powder |
| ¾ cup sugar | ½ teaspoon salt |
| ½ cup margarine, melted | ½ cup chopped pecans |

In small saucepan cook and stir caramels and milk over low heat until caramels are melted; set aside. Beat eggs; gradually beat in sugar. Blend in margarine, caramel mixture and vanilla. Sift dry ingredients, stir into caramel mixture. Fold in pecans. Spread in 9" by 9" baking pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes.

Caramel Apples

- | | |
|---------------------------|---------------------|
| 4 or 5 medium apples | ½ teaspoon salt |
| 1 14 oz. package caramels | 2 tablespoons water |

Wash apples and dry thoroughly. Remove stem and blossom end of each. In top of double boiler over hot water, heat caramels, salt and water, stirring frequently, until caramels are melted and mixture is smooth. Keeping sauce over hot water, place each apple in hot caramel sauce; spoon sauce over apple until it is completely coated. Insert wooden skewer in stem end; remove from sauce and place on waxed paper. Chill until caramel coating is firm.

Easy Caramel Candy Corn

- | | |
|-------------------------------|---|
| 1 package (about 28) caramels | 2 quarts popped pop corn |
| ¼ cup brown sugar | 1 cup chopped almonds, cashews or peanuts |
| ¼ cup water | |

Combine caramels, sugar and water in saucepan. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until mixture is smooth and comes to a full boil. Continue to stir constantly for five minutes. Combine pop corn and nuts in large baking pan. Pour caramel sauce over mixture and toss thoroughly until pop corn and nuts are well coated. Spread mixture on cookie sheets. Let stand until completely cooled. Break into clusters.

Caramel Popcorn Balls

- | | |
|---------------------|------------------------------|
| 28 caramels | 2 quarts popped corn, salted |
| 2 tablespoons water | |

Melt caramels with water in covered double boiler or in saucepan over low heat. Stir occasionally until sauce is smooth. Pour over popcorn; toss until well coated. With hands slightly moistened with cold water, shape popcorn mixture into balls. Makes 6 popcorn balls.

Oatmeal Carmelites

- | | |
|---------------------|-------------------------------|
| 2 cups flour | 1 cup melted margarine |
| 2 cups oatmeal | 6 oz. package chocolate chips |
| 1½ cups brown sugar | 1 cup nuts, chopped |
| 1 teaspoon soda | |
| ½ teaspoon salt | |

CARAMEL MIXTURE:

- | | |
|-----------------------|-------------------------|
| ½ cup evaporated milk | 14 oz. package caramels |
|-----------------------|-------------------------|

Cream margarine and brown sugar till smooth. Blend in flour, oatmeal, soda and salt. Press half of mixture in greased 9" by 13" baking pan. Bake 10 minutes at 350 degrees. Remove from oven. Sprinkle with chocolate chips and nuts. Over low heat, melt caramels with evaporated milk. Pour this mixture over the chips and nuts. Cover with remaining crumbed mixture. Bake for 15 to 20 minutes at 350 degrees. Cool. Cut into squares.

Last of the One-Room Schools?

Eight years after state education officials started efforts to dissolve Flatts, the one-room school is still going strong.

Despite the fact the school is a one-roomer, with only 7 pupils, all efforts to close the one-roomer to date have failed.

Flatts encompasses about 6 square miles of territory. About 60 people live within the district. Parents are very happy with the one-roomer.

It is a good school, they say. The children get personal attention.

When state school officials tried to close the district, attorneys for the tiny school got a circuit court injunction preventing a hearing to that effect. Flatts has been operating under that protectorate since 1969.

To lose recognition would also mean loss of state aid money. But that doesn't worry Flatts, for within sight of the school is a large coal mine (Old Ben 24), and the district has an assessed valuation of more than two million. Even if Flatts is given state recognition now, its assessed valuation per pupil is too high to allow receipt of those funds.

So little Flatts keeps operating, a 1-roomer with an enrollment of 7. Parents of the children going there say they will fight to keep it open.

My childhood Halloweens were mostly disastrous. I was the kid who planned to dress up as a ballerina and my mother made me wear snow pants.

My best girl friend wore a lovely Raggedy Ann costume. Her mother fashioned it from Rit-dyed flour sacks and a string mop and gave the instructions to stand under porch lights so residents could get the full effect.

To cover the snow pants, I was forced to wear a sheet handed down from my sister, which was really embarrassing because ghosts were a dime a dozen in my neighborhood. Besides, whoever heard of a tattle-tale gray ghost?

I tripped on the sheet going through a mud puddle and dropped my "trick or treat" bag. The bottom of the sack disintegrated, depositing my licorice snaps, candy cigarets, bubble gum and all-day suckers into the muddy water. It was a disaster, comparable in my young mind, to the sinking of the Lusitania.

Then there was the year something bad had happened in the neighborhood. As usual, the adults didn't explain it to us kids but my father insisted on accompanying me on my nocturnal rounds. One lady said, "Here's a treat for you and here's one for your father over there behind the tree." I was mortified.

The other kids were joyfully hollering "Trick or treat; smell my feet" and "Mrs. Smith ran out of candy and is giving NICKELS!" But somehow, possibly because my father couldn't run very fast, I got to Mrs. Smith's house right after she also ran out of nickels and was reduced to giving apples.

Apples were the worst things kids could get. Five-cent candy bars, as opposed to the usual one-cent versions, were the most desirable.

I took a piece of chalk out of my pocket — no easy matter because of the sheet — and wrote "cheep" on the sidewalk in front of Mrs. Smith's house.

Also vividly etched in my mind is the memory of the mean lady who passed out coins, then made the kiddies put them in a small metal bank. She SAID she was going to send the money to poor children.

I also remember the couple in the next house huddled on the porch swing in the dark, pretending they weren't home so they wouldn't have to dispense treats.

After I married and had children I emphasized the pumpkin-carving ritual in an effort to give the kiddies good memories of Halloween. This required a lot of restraint on my part. Frequently I had to leave the room — ostensibly to check on whether the tetanus shots were up to date — leaving Pop to see that the siblings didn't accidentally stab each other instead of Old Punkie.

Punkie remained on the window sill until a finicky aunt traced "that funny smell" to him and we had to move him to the porch railing. Day after day the kids watched as his triangular eyes caved in and his mouth began to sag like an old man without dentures.

Despite my efforts to keep the children entertained by carving pumpkins and bobbing for apples, their little friends were touting the joys of trick or treating and my kids begged to be allowed to join the fun. Finally I relented.

They enjoyed it immensely. For me the misery continued. The first time out, when they were too small to go alone, I didn't wear a mask or costume and I overheard someone ask, "Who's the tall klutz with the fake nose?"

The next year I wore a sheet and hoped the people whose doorbells we rang would think I was big for nine. Protected by the anonymity of the sheet, I was beginning to loosen up and enjoy myself when a sweet old lady asked me how old I was and made me sing "I'm a Little Teapot" before she'd give me the Turkish Taffy treat.

Afterward I heard one of the kids whining to my daughter, "I wish your mother didn't always have to play with us."

I realized it was time to untie the apron strings. The children didn't need me to protect them from disappointments and supervise their activities. With a sigh of relief I lined my wastebasket with the "trick or treat" bag and put the sheet back on the bed.

"Death and taxes may always be with us," says The DeSmet (S.D.) News, "but death at least doesn't get any worse."

The following quote is from the West Bend (Wis.) News: "She wanted to go to the coast—I wanted to go to the mountains—and then the utility bills came . . ."

This one is from The Morris (Minn.) Sun:
In an old pair of pants a man found a 20 year old ticket from a shoe repair shop. Curious about the fate of his shoes, he presented the claim check at the shop. Protesting about the 20 year lapse, the cobbler searched the dark recesses of the shop and came up with a pair of black wing tips with rubber heels. "These yours?" he asked. "They sure are!" exclaimed the amazed customer. "Good," the cobbler said, "They'll be ready next week."

"Clothes that make a woman can easily break a man," says the Savannah (Mo.) Reporter.

The New London (Iowa) Journal quotes the woman who said, "I lost my husband at sea; he met a blond on a Caribbean cruise."

The Ft. Madison (Iowa) Democrat quotes the man who said of his doctor son, "He has reached the point financially where he can occasionally tell a patient there is nothing wrong with him."

A housewife can always get a few minutes to herself by doing the dishes," says The Cedar Valley Times of Vinton, Iowa.

The Grafton (N.D.) Record gives the following advice: "Before throwing your tongue into high gear, make sure your brain is engaged."

The Sisseton (S.D.) Courier tells this one:
The zookeeper received an irate phone call telling him that the monkeys were playing poker and he should do something about it immediately. "It's all right," he said, "they're just playing for peanuts."

The Mouse River Farmers Press of Towner, N.D. offers a story about a man who told the nurse at the doctor's office that he had shingles. After being given various tests by the nurses and waiting a long time, the doctor finally saw him and asked, "Now where do you have shingles?"
"Out in my truck," said the man. "Where do you want them?"

"Everyone should have a comfortable bed and comfortable shoes, because you are in one or the other most of your life," comments The Adair County Free Press of Greenfield, Iowa.

A writer in The Register of Lawrenceburg, Ind. says the biggest problem with young marrieds is the adjustment period, which can go on for years and years . . . and years and years and years.

The Daily Post of Belle Fourche, S.D. tells about the middle aged man who was walking down the street with his wife when he turned to her and said, "Just like our old dates, with inflation the way it is I'm too broke for us to do anything but walk."

"God so loved the world that he did not send a committee," says The Wapello (Iowa) Republican.

"A lot of people can't handle prosperity—but then, most of them don't have to," comments the Fairfield (Iowa) Ledger.

The Manning (Iowa) Monitor tells about the teacher who told the art class, "With a single stroke of the brush, Joshua Reynolds could change a smiling face into a frowning one."
"So can my mother," said one of the small boys.

The Dwight (Ill.) Star and Herald says, "Diplomacy is thinking twice before saying nothing."

A Lot of Appliance for Your Money

Lydia Lanier People who sew know that leftover fabric can be made into beautiful quilt tops. Cutting out and stitching those scraps together into a pattern is an art that is practiced with perfection by Elizabeth Erpenbach.

She is 81 and has that kind of foresight that can see wedding rings, fans and flower gardens in a brown paper sackful of ordinary cotton cloth. She likes to put scraps together, especially into quilt tops. During the past few years, she's pieced more than 50.

Lizzie, that's what all her friends call her, names off the patterns as if they were old friends: "Double wedding ring, maple leaf, sunflower, fan, double 'T', the double and single necktie, two trips around the world."

She's proud of those two. "There were 1600 blocks in each," Lizzie said, "and each block was one and one-half inches square."

She does her piecing on a treadle Singer sewing machine that she calls her new one with the round bobbin. "I've had this since 1915," she said. "My mother's old one had the long shuttle and it was so worn it wouldn't do the work anymore."

The machine sits in front of a south window in a room given over to a cardtable piled with scraps of cotton material, boxes of materials sitting in the corner and a heavy brown paper sack, designed to hold 50 pounds of charcoal, but instead half full of scraps leftover from scraps.

"Anything I can scrap together to make something, I sure do it," said Lizzie, so these small pieces she's used for stuffing pillows and last winter when she couldn't go outside, she made a crazy quilt. "They were little patches," she said, "but I hated to throw them away." Most of those pieces she put together by hand. There are checks, stripes, flowered, plain, a blue and white checkered sleeve ruffle she worked in, pieces from dresses and from sunbonnets she has made. The sturdy backing is made from old muslin bedsheets and hand towels. She has a use for every piece; she does not throw away.

Her specialty is the star pattern, a design that's been the most popular with her customers. Lizzie has made 41 star quilt tops to order. The tops have varied from having one big star to several small ones. She had just finished a 20 star top, arranged into four blocks one way, five the other. "This seems to be the size most of them want," she said.

The patterns for the star quilt she cuts out of newspapers. Eight diamonds are in each star. Each diamond has to measure 4 1/2 inches across the middle and six inches plus a little more on each edge. Each diamond is like the crazy quilt—a collection of stripes, plaids, plain, prints—with four or five, sometimes only two or three pieces in it. "It all depends," said Lizzie. "I trim each piece as I go. If it's too long, I cut off; if too short, add a little hunk."

The directions seem casual but her piecing is precise. The points of eight diamonds meet exactly in the middle. The squares added to complete one star block fit like a gusset into the corners. "It's gotta be good," said Lizzie, "or not at all."

Lizzie lived and worked on a farm 73 years before she sold the farm and retired in town. She grew up watching her mother quilt. "Oh, yes," Lizzie said, "she made log cabin, duckfoot, just any pattern. She didn't have time to read. Her hobby was knitting, crocheting and making quilts. I couldn't help to learn it from her."

Lizzie didn't have a lot of free time either. "I'd come in the house to eat and sleep," she said. "Then it was outside to do the chores and get the farmwork done." And she took care of her father who was unable to walk for three years and 11 months before he died.

These days Lizzie's life has more leisure. She gets together with friends two or three times a week to play 500, Fiffer or Sheepshead, and she's an active member of the Norwalk village Senior Citizens group. She walks two and one-half blocks downtown to eat lunch with them every weekday and on occasion drives her '63 Ford to neighboring towns for special meetings.

"At senior citizens they ask 'What's your hobby?'" she said. "What are you doing for a pastime? I say I'm making quilt tops. 'Got some material they say. Come get some.' Many people keep me in patches."

She spread the colorful, new star quilt top across her bed and brought out her record book, the same one she used when she was on the farm and kept track of cream checks and cows sold. Clean pages of extra paper were pinned in where she has listed the quilts sold and the customers. "Some have gone to Montana," she said. "To my neighbors, Sparta, La Crosse, Madison. I sold eight or nine to one person."

Lizzie also knits a little, crochets and tats. She's made rugs and handbags out of plastic bread wrappers and a jacket for herself from feed sacks. "But making quilt tops," Lizzie said, "I'd rather do that than anything else."

Dear Fleischmann's Yeast, Kneading needs time. What I need are easier recipes that don't require kneading.

"A friend in need of no-knead."

Dear Friend,
Kneadless to say, we can help. Get a rise out of Fleischmann's Yeast the no-knead batter way.

There are lots of sensational yeast recipes that are so easy they don't require any kneading. Some of the great classics are knead-less doughs...like Brioche, Crumb Kuchen, and Sally Lunn.

Batter Up!

With no-knead recipes, your yeast mixture is a batter... thinner than a dough. Just mix the batter, allow it to rise in a bowl or baking pan, then bake. The texture is different from kneaded doughs...more open...a little rougher. Why not start now? With this bake-it-easy recipe for Banana Batter Bread.

You'll need:

- 2½ to 3 cups unsifted flour
- ½ cup sugar
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon baking soda
- ½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1 package Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast
- ¼ cup milk
- ¼ cup water
- 3 tablespoons Fleischmann's Margarine
- 1 egg (at room temperature)
- ½ cup mashed ripe bananas
- ½ cup chopped Planters Southern Belle® Pecans

Now, go bananas.

In a large bowl thoroughly mix ½ cup flour, sugar, salt, soda, cinnamon and undissolved Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast.

Combine milk, water and Fleischmann's Margarine in a saucepan. Heat over low heat until liquids are very warm (120°F-130°F). Margarine does not need to melt.

Gradually add to dry ingredients and beat 2 minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally. Add egg, bananas and ¼ cup flour. Beat at high speed 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Add pecans and enough additional flour to make a soft dough. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Makes 2 loaves.

Stir down; turn into 2 greased 7½ x 3¾ x 2¼ inch loaf pans. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Bake at 375°F. about 35 minutes, or until done. Remove from pans and cool on wire racks. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar, if desired.

And enjoy... that aroma and taste of fresh-baked...the creative satisfaction of baking from scratch with Fleischmann's Yeast. It's more than a matter of doing your own baking. It's a wonderfully warm way to express yourself and to express your love for family and friends.

Another fine product of Standard Brands

You get more than a rise out of Fleischmann's Yeast.
