Referendum Petitions Accepted

City Council in Disagreement Over Language to be Used on Proposed Ballot

A proposal to build a new city hall-fire hall-library complex is to go to a voter referendum at the November general election, but wording on the ballot proved to be a controversial issue at Monday night's meeting of the city council.

Petitions signed by 430 residents requiring the vote were presented to City Clerk Rachel McCready Monday night by Lyle Healey, who spearheaded the petition drive.

The city clerk had reviewed earlier petitions presented in the matter and, in a letter to the council, declared that signatures were sufficient to delay the contract between the city council and the city building authority "until approved by a majority of the electors of the City of Tawas City at an election to be held on the question."

Under a provision of state law establishing the building authority, the council on August 23 published a legal notice stating its intention to enter into a tax supported contract and lease with the building authority to construct the building. Also provided in the 1948 public act is the provision that residents of the city have 45 days from the date of the council action to submit petitions signed by 10 percent of the voters requiring a referendum on the matter.

City Atty. Kenneth Myles had contacted Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone, Detroit bonding attorneys, for a proper and legal resolution to be adopted by the council establishing the election and legal wording to be placed on the ballot.

As presented by the bonding firm, the city clerk read the following wording to be placed on the ballot: "Shall the contract by and between the City of Tawas City and the City of Tawas City Building Authority providing for the acquisition of a building and appurtenances for the use of the city to house a fire station, city hall, library complex, be effective." To vote in favor of the proposal, the voter would place an "X" in the box in front of "yes;" to vote in opposition, the voter would place an "X" in front of "no."

Both Mayor Herbert Cholger and Coun. Robert Rollin, who have been opposed to the proposal, voiced objection to the wording submitted by the bonding firm.

Mayor Cholger said that the petition submitted by voters specifically included the words, "which contract proposes to pledge the city's full faith and credit on a bonding issue in the principal amount not to exceed $500,000 for the financing of the proposed city hall complex and which would permit the city to levy ad valorem taxes to retire said bonds and interest thereon."

Cholger said that to comply with the petition, a dollar amount should be in the wording on the ballot and suggested that the words, "not to exceed $500,000" be inserted.

City Clerk McCready pointed out that the main question to be resolved was "shall the contract be effective" between the city council and city building authority and was adequately covered by wording presented by the bonding firm.

Coun. Hugo Keiser expressed the opinion that no actual dollar amount had been reached as yet for financing construction of the proposed complex. He also said that construction costs were only guesses at this stage and pointed out that the actual manner of financing had not been considered.

He said that the city budget still was to be reviewed to determine if partial financing could come from present city funds, that a portion of the construction cost for the fire hall would come also from the city's contract with Tawas and Alabaster Townships to provide fire protection. In addition, he said that the city council would have to determine if there would be any saving in heat over the present building and the fact that there would be elimination of the present rent paid to Councilman Rollin for his building, which houses the fire department annex and library. He felt that if federal revenue sharing money is continued by congress, a portion of this money could also go to the complex.

Coun. Charles Landon questioned how a dollar amount could be included on the ballot at this time when such questions were still not answered.

Coun. Jerry Cotter said that wording on a ballot was a technical field and believed that the council should follow the advice of its bonding attorney.

City Attorney Myles appeared at the meeting, on request of the city clerk, and said that, as he understood, the matter would be (See REFERENDUM, page 2.)

Petitions Ask Review, but Hearing Set Next Tuesday

Petitions were presented Monday night by residents of North Park Acres Subdivision requesting the Tawas City Council to review action in issuing a special use permit without a public hearing for construction of a new Tawas Masonic Temple in a residential zone.

The petitions stated that subdivision property owners were not given the opportunity to examine plans or have a voice in the matter.

A meeting of the Tawas City Board of Appeals has been called for Tuesday, September 26, 7:30 p. m., to consider the planning commission's actions. Petitions presented Monday night are to be turned over to that board.

Charles Lehman of the city's Southfield planning consulting firm is to attend Thursday night's meeting of the planning commission and is to discuss the matter with that group.

A special use permit was issued by the planning commission on August 17 authorizing the new Tawas Masonic Temple to be constructed on Victoria Lane adjacent to the Tawas United Methodist Church.

As part of its current expansion program, Tawas Hospital has purchased the present Tawas Masonic Temple located northwest of the hospital on M-55.

Two weeks ago, John N. Brugger appeared before the council and said that adjoining property owners were not being protected under the ordinance as a public hearing was not held.

City Mgr. Reginald Bublitz, at the time, said that the planning commission had approved the special use permit under terms of the city ordinance, as amended, and as he understood it, no hearing was required.

Brugger maintained that the Masonic Temple was not a church and that the planning commission had erred in granting the special use permit under an ordinance provision which he believed pertained only to churches.

The planning commission is to review provisions of the ordinance Thursday night with its planning consultant.

East Tawas Proceeds With $88,000 Plan to Construct Backwash System

Authorization to proceed with an $88,000 system to dispose of backwash in the municipal water filtration system was authorized Monday night by the East Tawas Council.

Improvements are to be financed through revenue received by the system.

Spicer Engineering Company was directed to submit final plans for approval by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources by September 25. Completed plans then would be submitted to the state health department by November 15. According to the timetable, the city would advertise for bids on December 15, bids would be awarded on January 15 and construction would be completed by June 1, 1979.

The new system would comply with state law which requires that plans be completed by October 1. Two different alternatives in construction were presented to the council Monday night by James A. Curtis, chief engineer for Spicer Engineering Company.

The plan accepted by the council had a price tag of $18,000 higher than the second alternative.

While the adopted plan will be temporarily more expensive than the alternate, it was the feeling of the council that it would result in a saving of money over the years.

At the present time, backwash from the filtration plant is returned to Tawas Bay at a rate of approximately 30,000 gallons per day. This return occurs as frequently as necessary to insure clean water in the filtration tank, about twice daily, with a flow of 4,000 gallons of water per minute.

A second discharge of sludge is presently returned to the lake at a rate of 1,500 gallons per day in a low volume, ranging from 40 to 100 gallons per minute of high solids.

Return of this discharge of backwash water is now prohibited by the state and plans call for removal of the old elevated water storage tank. On that site would be constructed a 70,000-gallon backwash storage tank.

Backwash collected in this tank would permit solids to settle to the bottom for direct entry into the sanitary sewer system. Remainder of the water would be recirculated back through the filtration system.

Judge Issued Restraining Order on Iosco County Building Contract

A restraining order was issued Thursday by Circuit Judge Allan C. Miller ordering the Iosco County Board of Commissioners and Iosco County Building Authority not to execute a contract or proceed further with construction of additions to the county building.

Judge Miller ordered that a hearing be held Friday, September 22, 9:30 a. m., to determine the rights of all parties involved. Judge David DeWitt is to preside at the hearing.

A petition for exparte order for a temporary restraining order and request for a declaratory judgment was presented to the court on behalf of Davison and Son Builders, the complaining defendants.

The petition claims that Davison and Son submitted the low total bid for construction of the county building additions, "but the bid was rejected for the alleged reason that the bid did not meet the required standards set by the county in regard to such bids," stated the petition.

The petition also claimed that the actual bid accepted for the construction also did not meet the standards as required by the county.

The petition also requested that Davison and Son had repeatedly requested certain information of the board of commissioners and of the building authority in order to establish rights and liabilities of the concerned parties. Davison had requested that no further action be taken on the matter until a reasonable time for an evaluation of petitioners' rights and recourses could be determined.

The petition said that information by either the board of commissioners or the building authority had not been forthcoming as of Wednesday and that relief requested from the court would not materially damage the defendants, nor the companies representing the accepted bids.

The county building authority met Thursday and Davison stated his position to the board. Members include Gordon Huck (chairman), Bruce Myles, Alfred Baker and Edward Nelkie, county treasurer. Also in attendance were John Dye (architect), Kenneth Myles, attorney for the building authority, and Ronald Tyler, legal counsel for the county board of commissioners.

Members of the building authority said Thursday that sale of bonds to finance the construction was still set for October 4, 11:00 a. m.

The building authority had intended to let bids to MAKO Construction of Lincoln, architectural trades contract, $255,684; Bay View Plumbing, Rogers City, mechanical contract, $118,000; Spark Electric, Auburn, electrical contract, $32,600.

Late Check An Oversight, Says City Manager

City Mgr. Reginald Bublitz told members of the Tawas City Council Monday night that he planned to check with officials of East Tawas concerning a $300 penalty tacked on the city's latest billing for filtered water received from East Tawas.

Bublitz said that the city now makes monthly payments to East Tawas for its water supply, rather than paying quarterly as outlined under the old contract.

He said that through a clerical oversight, for which he accepted responsibility, the city was late in making its recent monthly payment for water. He questioned the 10 percent penalty for late payment as that had been a provision under the quarterly contract.

"Inasmuch as we are the largest water customer, it would have been nice if we had been informed on the due date of the delinquency; instead, they waited three or four days to notify us and we were penalized," said Bublitz.

Last year, East Tawas invoked the penalty clause under the old contract when the city was delinquent on its quarterly payment.

The matter was brought up at Monday night's council meeting by Wayne Thompson, a resident, who criticized the city operation for wasting tax money on such action.

Building Administrator Supported by ET Council

East Tawas Council indicated Monday night it had conferred responsibility for enforcing city codes on its building inspector and had no wish to intervene in actions by its employee.

Ray Brenton, building inspector, reported that he approved renovation of the former East Tawas Recreation building, which included a new sign as a nonconforming use.

Although the proposed new sign does not conform with the city's zoning ordinance, in that it projects over the sidewalk along Newman Street, the ordinance apparently is not enforceable as other places of business have erected overhanging signs without regard to the ordinance.

The proposed new sign advertises Barnacle Bill's Lounge and other businesses in the mini-mall housed in the old recreation building.

City Clerk Clyde Soper said that he and a committee of businessmen had studied a proposed sign ordinance and the city planning commission had also considered a sign ordinance, but could never reach agreement on wording.

Soper said that a number of business places had installed new signs flat against the facing of buildings with no overhang over the sidewalk. Objections have apparently been made concerning the new sign, but the council said that any complaint was a matter for consideration of the zoning board of appeals.

Demonstration at Appliance Store

A microwave demonstration is scheduled Thursday, 2:00 and 7:00 p. m., at Consumers Appliance Sales in Tawas City. There will be door prizes and special prices offered on old models.

Registrations are now being taken for a quick process flower drying class using a microwave oven. Marie Toth, home economist, will be instructor at the class to be held Friday, October 13.

MYF Collects $4,300 for Darla

Prayers of the Tawas are with Darla Toska, 17-year-old Tawas Area High School senior, who was flown Monday to Methodist Hospital, Rochester, Minnesota, for surgery.

Born with a hip deformity and hospitalized almost continuously since March, she has had three surgeries since then and the most recent detected a rare form of infection.

A "Darla Toska" day was held Saturday in the Tawas by Tawas United Methodist Youth and $4,300 has been collected to assist in paying the cost of her treatment, according to the Rev. Kenneth Tousley.

There have been contributions large and small to the fund. Richard MacKenzie, owner of Coyle's Restaurant in Tawas City, has announced that he will donate proceeds of breakfast beverages, 7:00 to 11:00 a. m. daily, from now until Christmas, to this fund. His goal is to raise $1,500 for Miss Toska.

CETA Funding Deadline Near for Property Appraisal Work

Another deadline is nearing for Iosco County's property reappraisal using CETA employees.

The program which started 15 months ago is due to expire September 29. About 95 percent of the field work is completed in Plainfield, AuSable and Oscoda Townships, the last units to be completed in the over-all program.

John Rose, county tax equalization director, said last week that about three months would be required to complete the field work and approximately six to nine months of work would be needed to complete the entire program.

Joseph Fox, representing Iosco County Board of Commissioners on the Region 7B Consortium, administrator of the CETA program for a nine-county area, said the project had been extended to September 29 through a shift of funds.

Under new guidelines explained Wednesday by Charles Agle of Region 7B, training of property appraisers will no longer be permitted through the equalization department.

Fox said Friday that CETA is now promoting a new on-the-job training program which may permit hiring of appraisers by individual township units, but formal notification had not been received as of last week.

Iosco County has been commended for its program of training property appraisers, but the program has been so successful that Rose has had a difficult time retaining employees. Altogether, about 50 different people have entered the training program.

Ten of the employees have accepted higher paying positions after qualifying for level two and level three certification as the result of training with the county.

The project qualified for 35 employees when it started in June 1977, and as of last week the number was down to 17. Of that number, only three employees remained from the original CETA crew.

With the funding cut-off date now set for September 29, remaining employees are looking for positions around the state. Employees trained in the Iosco CETA program have had little trouble finding new employment, but financing the remainder of the property reappraisal project here remains a question.

ANOTHER OLD LANDMARK in Tawas City is in the process of being razed by its owners, Carl and Brent Babcock. This house was originally constructed in the late 1870s and, after remodeling in 1884, was once the dwelling of the Nisbet family associated with the lumbering business in Tawas City. As originally constructed, a cupola was located on the roof which made a convenient spot to watch for ships entering the bay. The house has been altered many times during its history with a variety of porches. Its last previous use was a rooming house. The Babcocks plan to use the property for a parking lot at present and they may temporarily retain an addition constructed for a restaurant and later used as the secretary of state's branch office by the late Roy Bergeron.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Seek Volunteer for Cemetery Bd.

Tawas City Council is seeking a person to serve on the cemetery board. One new member, Joseph Martin, has filled a vacancy but a second vacancy still exists. Persons wishing to provide this public service as a member of the cemetery board are requested to contact the city hall.

stood the statute, the petitions presented requiring the referendum pertained to the contract between the city council and the building authority. He said that language on the ballot had been dictated by Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone.

Myles said the only issue for voters to decide was the validity of the contract between the council and building authority.

"You can use your own language on the ballot, but if it turns out to be incorrect, then another election may be required," said Myles.

interest (five percent) loan of $500,000 for 40 years had been approved for the project by Farmers Home Administration, but emphasized that no one knows the cost at this point.

Councilman Rollin felt that the dollar amount specified on the petition should be included in the ballot language. He also believed that voters would not understand such words as "appurtenances" and "acquisition" used by the bonding firm in the ballot language.

The council adopted a resolution authorizing the election and the city attorney is to check with the bonding attorney to determine if a dollar amount could or should be used in the language of the ballot.

Appointments Named by City

A number of appointments were made by the mayor and approved by the council. Del Myles and Guy Lickfelt were reappointed to the water board; Lyle Healey, who had resigned from the board of appeals, was reappointed to that board; the city manager and Myles were reappointed to the joint water board; David Kennedy was reappointed to the board of appeals.

A report from the city manager indicated that approximately $2,400 had been spent thus far this year to dredge the river mouth. He said that the boat launching fees received at the city's ramp would amount to slightly more than $2,000.

An option to purchase property west of the city hall for proposed expansion of the city hall complex is due to expire October 1. A 90-day extension is to be requested of the owner.

A letter from the chamber of commerce advised the city that a firm was peddling eggs and meat items door-to-door in the city without a permit. It was reported that the firm is expected to apply for a permit under city ordinance, which requires a daily fee of $10, a weekly fee of $35 or an annual fee of $150.

A proposed ordinance to require and regulate construction and maintenance of public sidewalks and to assess cost of construction was presented Monday night for study of the Tawas City Council.

City Mgr. Reginald Blubitz said that the city presently cooperates with the property owners by providing 50 cents per foot toward cost of construction.

At one time, the city paid 40 percent of the cost, but the formula was changed a number of years ago when it was pointed out that churches and some other organizations usually provided donated labor for sidewalk construction.

Blubitz said the rule of thumb was for a new sidewalk to meet or exceed by four inches the level of the existing street along which the sidewalk is to be built.

Language of the proposed ordinance defines sidewalk disrepair, a proper sidewalk (four inches thick and not less than four feet wide) and an unsafe sidewalk. Under the latter, the ordinance would make it unlawful for any person, firm or corporation owning property fronting or abutting any public sidewalk to allow the sidewalk to be in disrepair. The ordinance provides for the city to cause replacement or repair of the sidewalk and to assess the cost against the property fronting or abutting the sidewalk as a special assessment district.

Coun. Robert N. Rollin expressed the opinion that the city should encourage property owners to participate in a sidewalk construction program.

In other business, the council authorized a new agreement with Vician-Lehman and Associates, Incorporated, Southfield, for the coming year. A representative of the consulting firm would attend meetings of the planning commission quarterly at an annual cost of $1,400.

The city manager reported that rental of the city-owned Graystone building has been proposed. Officials of CETA and the Michigan Employment Security Commission are considering the building for office space.

The state highway department announced that bids are to be opened November 15 on a contract for construction of a storm sewer along US-23 below the Tawas River Bridge. Plans are partially completed at the present time. The project would be financed as a joint venture between the state and the city.

DAR Marked Constitution Week During Sept. Meeting

The observance of Constitution Week, September 17-23, keyed a luncheon meeting of the River Aux Sable Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at the home of Mrs. John Duggan, AuSable Lake.

Mrs. L. Stanton Bush, chapter regent, noted that the president of the United States has again proclaimed the national observance, which this year marks the 191st anniversary of the adoption of the constitution and urged the flying of flags during the week.

Mrs. Lloyd Wiegierink, chapter vice regent and Constitution Week chairman, said the chapter had especially requested ministers of all denominations to mark the event by encouraging their congregations to read the document and be sensitive to the privileges and responsibilities it provides.

Speaker for the day was Edward C. Seward, a lay leader in the Hale United Methodist Church and longtime cub scout leader. In his address, "The Church and America," he referred to the guarantees of individual freedoms in the Constitution of the United States.

"If we, as a nation, lived up to those rights and responsibilities, ours could be a nation truly blessed by God, but everything has become so structured that we are losing the inalienable right even to make our own decisions of conscience," Seward said.

In a national defense report, Mrs. Frederick C. Nash, chairman, discussed terms of the Strategic Arms Limitation Treaties (SALT) and their effect on the United States defense position.

Meet S-S Panthers Friday

Braves Beat Boyne City

Tawas Area Braves picked up their second straight nonconference win Friday night by handing Boyne City of the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference a 27-12 setback. Boyne City returned home with a moral victory, however, as the squad nearly turned the game around in the third quarter by capitalizing on two Tawas mistakes.

The Braves nearly blew the visitors off the field in the first quarter when Pete Wood, who scored two touchdowns during the night, put Tawas on the scoreboard with a 29-yard burst in the first quarter. Bill King's conversion kick made it 7-0.

Later in the quarter, King connected on two successive passes, the final aerial going 16 yards to Gary Birkenbach in the end zone. King booted his second conversion and Tawas held a 14-0 lead.

After a scoreless second quarter, Mitch Moore of Boyne City intercepted a pass and ran 83 yards for a touchdown. Tawas' second mistake of the quarter came when the Braves allowed the kickoff to roll dead. The free ball was covered by a Boyne City player and Roy Greene went the final two yards for a touchdown to cut Tawas' lead to 14-12.

That made it more interesting for the visitors, but King came back to hit Birkenbach with another touchdown aerial to give Tawas a 20-12 lead and Wood plunged over on a one-yard touchdown. King booted the PAT for the final score.

Bryant Wilke was the leading ball carrier for Tawas during the night, picking up 100 yards in 18 carries. Wood and John Bouchard each had 78 yards. The Braves picked up 255 yards in 47 running plays and King connected on three of eight passes for 37 yards with two interceptions.

Brian Norton was the leading defender with 10 tackles, followed by eight for Hugh Hofacer and five each for Scott Tousley, Greg Admiak and Jeff Nichols.

Tawas opens the Northeastern Michigan Conference season Friday night by hosting the Standish-Sterling Panthers, a team which has rolled to two convincing wins against nonconference opponents. It will be the first league game for both teams.

Led by Bari Bell, an outstanding track speedster, the Panthers ran White Cloud ragged in last Friday night's game, 35-6. Standish-Sterling has its best squad in several seasons and should make things interesting in the tough NEM Conference.

Cards Rolled to Second Win at Expense of Hale

Whittemore - Prescott Cardinals rolled to their second straight win Friday night, this time turning back their traditional Western Iosco County rival, Hale Area Eagles, 34-0.

The Cards have their work cut out for them this week when they play the Ogemaw Heights Falcons in the Northeastern Michigan Conference opener.

For the moment, Coach Kyle Tobin, the Cards and Whittemore-Prezcott Area fans are enjoying the sudden turn about after the school had lost 14 straight varsity football games over a period of two years. And, depending on a break or two, the Cards may even have some surprises this Friday night.

For Coach Vern Reed of the Hale Area Eagles, it was another frustrating night as his squad could not get on the scoreboard and the Eagles hurt their own cause with mistakes and penalties. It was the second straight shutout for the squad.

"I cannot take anything away from the Cards—they did a super job and made few mistakes," said Reed. He hopes his Eagles will make fewer mistakes this Friday night when they play host to Au Gres-Sims in the annual homecoming game.

After a scoreless first period, the Cardinals found the wet weather to their liking and scored four touchdowns in the second quarter.

The touchdown parade was started by Todd Horn on a one-yard run after he had set up the score with a long pass. The second touchdown came on a 79-yard run by Tom Donaghy, followed by a one-point conversion by Larry Snyder. Donaghy struck pay dirt again on a 13-yard run and Snyder booted the conversion. The final touchdown of the quarter came on a two-yard run by Ken Turner, followed by a two-point conversion on a pass to Dave Sievers.

The final Cardinal touchdown came in the fourth quarter on a 30-yard pass from Horn to Sievers. Donaghy was the offensive standout of the night with 200 yards rushing in 21 carries. Horn completed three of five passes for 70 yards.

The Cardinal defense was led by Dick Grattop, who had eight solos and five assists. Don May had six solos and four assists.

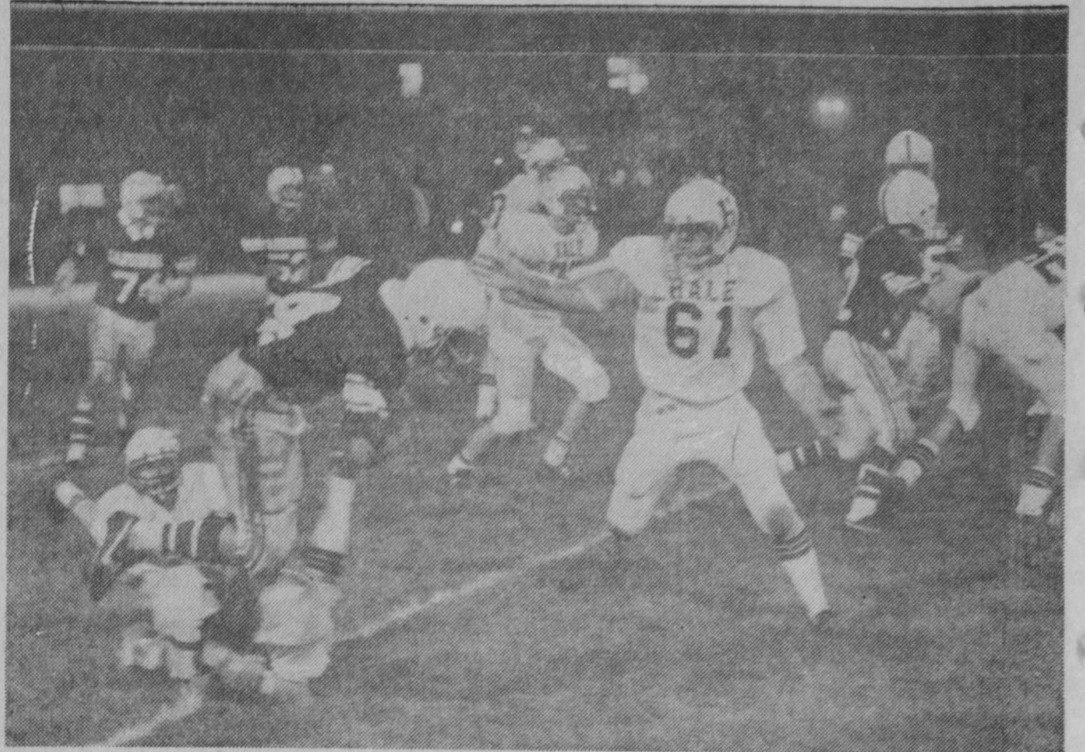

"We made our quarterback option play go, which meant the difference in this game," said Tobin. "Donaghy ran super and he was the difference, also turning in a good defensive game with two pass interceptions, five solo tackles and three assists. It was a good team effort."

Hale was hurt defensively on the outside and was beaten twice on long passes. Offensively, the Eagles hurt themselves with holding, clipping and in motion penalties when they had drives going.

Daryn Bernard topped Hale runners with 78 yards in 18 carries, while Eric Bellville had 26 yards in four carries. The Eagles had only 15 yards on three pass completions.

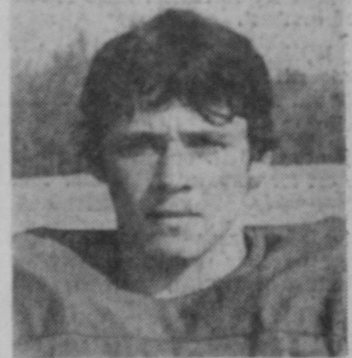

Defensively, Gary Wood topped the Eagles with six tackles. Hale had three fumble recoveries turned in by Wood, Tom Sanders and Joe Bannister.

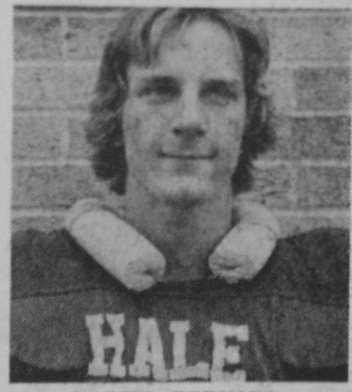

JIM GRAHAM of the Whittemore-Prezcott Cardinals was tripped up on this play in the second half of Friday night's game with the Hale Area Eagles. The Hale defender rushing in to help with the stop is Bill Hart (61), linebacker.—Tawas Herald Photo.

TAWAS' home football season opened Friday night with the traditional pregame formation by the Tawas Area High School Marching Band. Heading for the sidelines are members of the varsity squad. The Braves went on to win over visiting Boyne City.—Tawas Herald Photo.

500 Block Property Owners Met to Discuss Proposed Commercial Plans

POINTING OUT DETAILS in a proposed plan for commercial development of the 500 block in Tawas City between Mathews Street and Whittemore Street is Hugo J. Keiser. A large number of property owners and interested citizens met Thursday morning at the city hall to hear the presentation.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Property owners of the 500 block along Lake Street between Mathews Street and Whittemore Street met Thursday morning to discuss proposed plans for future development. City officials and other residents were also in attendance.

Hugo Keiser, a property owner in the block and a member of the city council, presented a revised plan of previous discussions by private property owners and the city planning commission for commercial development in that area. The plan was prepared at no cost to the city taxpayers.

"What is good for the 500 block is good for the commercial area east and west of that block," said Keiser.

Included in the plan, which Keiser emphasized was subject to revision, was establishment of an alley running from Whittemore to Mathews Street on both the lake side and river side of US-23 (Lake Street). Keiser said that both he and L. G. McKay, property owners on the river side of the street, had agreed to grant a 16-foot easement across their property for the alley and that it would be up to adjoining property owners to give consideration to the proposal.

Keiser said that the entire plan hinged on the continuation of business in the block and he pointed out that unless there is a bypass of US-23 around the community, parking would be essential to encourage location of new businesses in the block. The proposed plan included suggested parking areas.

Should the program be acceptable, expansion of parking facilities would be on a special assessment basis paid for by private property owners. He felt that property owners on both sides of Lake Street should be interested in the program.

Keiser said that the opportunity was present for improving the entire block, not only by property owners but through construction of a city hall complex being considered by the city council and building authority, which is expected to go to a referendum of city voters in the future.

Carl Babcock, a member of the building authority, said that the river would be a major asset to the community in the development of the block and he pointed out that the alley easement should be flexible to allow relocation of new buildings closer to the river.

Keiser said that any plan developed must work closely with businesses in operation at the present time and pointed out improvements to buildings made in recent months.

Mayor Herbert Cholger expressed the opinion that the city council had not followed the master plan developed in 1965, in that utilizing the present site for the proposed city hall site was not in accordance to the planned use program recommended by the planning consultant.

"A need for additional space for housing fire equipment was the reason for the committee to study and report back to the council, but it snowballed into a city hall-library-fire hall complex because thinking centered on the expense of having separate buildings to maintain," said the mayor.

The mayor expressed the opinion that the planning consultant's recommendation was being disregarded by using the present site for the new city hall complex.

"Service areas, as well as the size of fire stations should be planned to serve future population and future needs," was Mayor Cholger's interpretation of the planning consultant's recommendations. "Besides being centrally located, a fire station should not be located in an area where backed up traffic could interfere with the movement of fire equipment."

"Moreover, it should not be in the midst of a commercial area with its heavy vehicular and pe-

CENTENNIAL OF STATE'S 'HELLO GIRLS'

One hundred years ago, Emma Nutt became the first woman telephone operator in the country, introducing "the voice with a smile" to 60 telephone customers in Boston, Massachusetts.

She was hired on an experimental basis by the Boston manager of the Telephone Dispatch Company in an effort to improve the telephone service. It seems the boys who manned the switchboards at the time had been noisy, boisterous and rude to customers.

It was not long before hundreds of young women were hired in other cities around the country. Michigan's first "hello girls"—Bessie Snow Ballance, Emma Landon and Minnie Schumann—were hired at Detroit in 1879, a year after the city's first telephone exchange opened.

Telephone service first came to the Tawas around 1900, but by 1903, the Michigan State Telephone Company (now Michigan Bell) took over operation of the former private company.

Boy operators were used, particularly for working on the switchboard at night. Two of these were Clyde Berube and Earl McElheron of East Tawas. McElheron reports that he was hired while still in high school in 1916 to work nights and a cot was provided behind the switchboard for sleeping.

An item appearing in The Tawas Herald in June 1902 reported that "The Michigan Telephone Company here at last started a crew of men on its long distance telephone line toward Alpena. This means that we will have long distance connections some day."

Private telephone service in this area actually goes back much earlier, although the major means of communication with the outside world came through establishment of telegraph lines by Western Union prior to 1876.

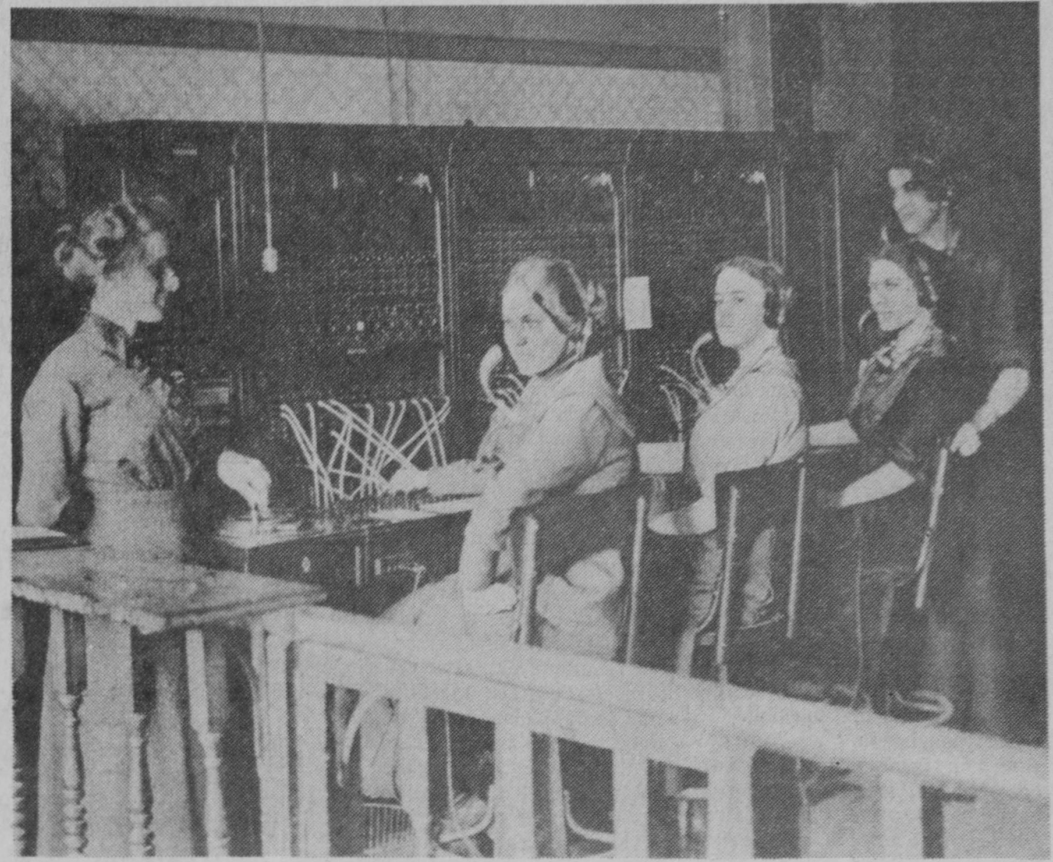

The Iosco County Gazette reported July 13, 1882, that "a telephone line has been erected between East Tawas and the East Branch of the AuGres River by George P. Smith of East Tawas. Connection is made with the East Tawas Salt and Lumber Company's office here, the railroad depot and C. D. Hale's mill in Tawas City."

This crude line was used to provide information to sawmills of the Tawas concerning the number of pine logs being driven down the AuGres River and when rafts of logs could be expected at various mills dotting Tawas Bay.

This private line consisted of two iron wires strung from tall trees and roof tops and extended along the Detroit, Bay City and Alpena Railroad's right-of-way to connect with an office just east of present-day National City. Crank type telephones were used, the service provided was crude and frequently interrupted.

Another commercial use of the telephone also preceded public lines in this area. The AuSable and Northwestern Railroad operating out of AuSable-Oscoda used telephones exclusively for train dispatching purposes, a novel departure from the standard use of telegraphic communications by most railroads.

When telephone service was first installed here, the Tawas were tiny communities and people lived SMALL TOWN telephone exchanges at the turn of the century consisted of manual switchboards like this. Operators then knew every customer by name and customers often knew all the operators, too. Service was crude but very neighborly.

within yelling distance of each other. Shouting from open windows was often a better way to talk with neighbors than over the "speaking telephone," but in spite of this, eight prominent East Tawas citizens signed up for telephone service, such as it was, as soon as it was available.

The first subscribers to telephone service in the Tawas were Dr. F. C. Thompson, John W. Tait, John E. Dillon, L. G. Dimmick and Company, E. L. King, Nelson Goodrich, National Mill and Evaporation Company and George E. Oakes.

It was not long before this privately owned firm had expanded considerably and The Tawas Herald began to list its telephone number—68—under its name plate in 1902. That number was to serve this newspaper until the dial system went into service 59 years later.

The first switchboard provided both local exchange service and long distance calls, the latter starting in 1903. The exchange was located on the second floor of the old Bank Block at the southwest corner of Newman and State Streets and was the address of telephone service here for about 70 years.

Michigan Bell, through its corporate ancestors, has operated continuously and exclusively here for 75 years.

H. F. Barbour was the first manager of the exchange, succeeded in order by R. Munroe, Myrtle G. Anderson, Jasper VanSickle and a Mr. Andrus. Other managers have been Harry Fitch, C. J. Walls, T. C. Maher, Carl Lockwood and Howard Haight, who became district representative in 1966 and then manager of the new business office located at East Tawas in 1969.

Service improved in the years following 1903, but not to the extent that today's efficient utilization of telephone service is taken for granted as a way of life. In 1913, a front page editorial in The Tawas Herald criticized the Michigan State Telephone Company and was of the opinion that an independent company "would find this a fruitful field."

The Herald editor of 1913, James E. Ballard, was incensed over the length of time required to make a connection with a party at Hale, "using that much vaunted vehicle of communication, the telephone."

The editor reported that a call was put in about 11:00 a. m. and it was 3:00 p. m. before the connection was made. "And even then, the parties could not communicate on account of the noise on the line which sounded as though the instruments were connected with a sawmill or machine shop."

Ballard editorialized that "it is practically impossible to get a good talking connection anywhere outside of the purely local phones; it would seem to be merely a matter of good business policy for the company to put its lines in shape for communication, otherwise the loss will be a great deal more than the repairs would cost."

The editor commented that "no criticism is due Manager Andrus for the present condition of affairs, for he is doing the best he can, but is hampered by the refusal of the company to give him sufficient assistance to take care of the business here. It seems to be the policy of this company to systematically neglect the smaller exchanges and put the efforts of its entire force upon the larger city exchanges."

Telephone service in the early days was somewhat crude, although the best available at the time. Customers had to turn a crank in order to signal the operator or the parties on their lines.

Constant work on lines saw improvement to telephone service in the region and Michigan Bell expanded into the rural areas with party lines.

Customers of the East Tawas exchange used crank type telephones until 1940, when Michigan Bell introduced common battery service here to 522 customers.

Special ceremonies ushered in the new operation in 1940 with the late Joseph G. Dimmick of East Tawas making the first call to the late Stephen H. Ferguson at his grocery store in Tawas City.

The difference between crank phones and a common battery service was that with the latter, the operator came on the line as soon as a customer lifted the receiver. With the older phones, customers had to crank a bell to signal the operator.

After 1940, improvements in telephone service were continuous and came at a fast rate. The number of customers grew and, by 1955, there were more than 2,000 telephones in the East Tawas exchange.

Mildred Braddock, who trained as an operator while still a student at East Tawas High School in 1929, recalls that employment with Michigan Bell "was the best paying job in town for a girl."

Mrs. Braddock said that in those days, one of the most frequent users of long distance telephone service in the Tawas was the late Nathan Barkman, who kept lines humming throughout Northeastern Michigan with his fish brokerage business.

The manual switchboard at East Tawas saw its busiest period during World War II, said Mrs. Braddock, when it also served Oscoda and nearby Oscoda Air Base. The East Tawas exchange also took care of long distance calls for private companies operating at Hale, Whittemore and Prescott.

Reflections On a Meeting

Tawas Area School District apparently has some problems to resolve and they are not necessarily "administrative blunders," as was suggested last week by the president of Tawas Area Federation of Teachers.

After sitting through a two-hour harangue at last week's board of education meeting, the editor of this newspaper came away disappointed and rather incensed over the apparent lack of professionalism by representatives of the teaching staff at that meeting.

Everyone has a "boss" in private industry or in public service, but two staff members appearing before the board of education did not deny that they had not followed the normal chain of command when they were not satisfied with administrative answers.

Instead, they appeared before the board of education and publicly criticized their boss, Supt. Robert Halle, and one of them publicly insinuated he was guilty of "administrative blunders." The superintendent parried some of the charges leveled at him in a convincing way, but this is not the point of these editorial comments.

The normal chain of command should have been followed. A superintendent is the final administrator in that chain and is responsible to the board of education—the elected representatives of the people—concerning expenditure of tax dollars or administration of school matters. This is a recognized fact and cannot be disputed by anyone.

It is the editor's opinion that statements made by staff members concerning personalities—particularly during contract negotiations—should never have been made at a public meeting and should not have been permitted by the board of education. It seemed to this corner that the show was entirely "rigged," inasmuch as practically the entire elementary staff packed the meeting room to see the "boss" get his due.

The editor is not in a position to comment on the purchase of expendable supplies by this school or the redistribution of classroom loads for a teacher—that is the responsibility of a well paid administrative team and the board of education.

Existing law does not adequately address itself to the ongoing relationships between boards of education and administration teams, but the Michigan Code of Ethical Relationships recognizes, among other principles, the ultimate responsibility of the superintendent for all decisions recommended to the board.

It must be admitted that a gray area does exist between the board of education and superintendent concerning administration of school matters, but, after covering board of education meetings for many years, it does seem to this corner that too many administrative details are being handled by board members, rather than allowing those details to be handled by the superintendent and his administrative team.

Quoting from the recognized code of ethics for boards of education, "The board as the legal policy making body delegates executive responsibilities to the superintendent of schools to administer the schools in accordance with statutory law, requirements prescribed by the state constitution, the state board of education and adopted policies of the board of education."

There will be counter arguments concerning the above statements, to be sure, but another principle of the above cited Michigan Code of Ethical Relationships is that the board of education, administrators and staff should recognize that the welfare of the students is paramount to any other needs of a school district.

And taxpayers, represented by the board of education, have a major role in financing the operation of school systems. Last week's encounter at the board of education meeting certainly was not conducive to promote better understanding or feelings between schools and the public, especially during an era of growing criticism of schools and the manner of financing public education.

Perhaps all concerned—superintendent, administrative team, staff, board of education and even the general public—should take a second look at recent actions and make adjustments to promote a better understanding to insure that all realize that the welfare of students is paramount to any other needs of a school district.

It's Best to Pull Together

A meeting called Thursday morning for the purpose of discussing private commercial development of the 500 block between Mathews Street and Whittemore Street in Tawas City ended on a frustrating note.

Instead of concentrating on the matter at hand—reviewing plans for private development of the commercial area—discussion "leached" over into the area of the city hall complex issue.

While the city hall complex proposal is part and parcel of currently proposed development of the block, that issue will be decided by a vote of the people after due consideration and was not the central point for discussion at Thursday's meeting.

Getting private property owners together to reach mutual agreement over possible future development of the commercial area was of prime consideration and it is of utmost importance to the people of Tawas City, as well as private property owners. Any development in that area will enhance not only the appearance of the city, but it will also add to the city's tax base.

It is time to stop the petty bickering which has taken place in recent months. Good ideas have been presented by "both sides" of the table and some excellent ideas have been stated concerning mutual development by the private property owners. Nothing will be accomplished, however, unless and until all concerned put the best interests of the community in the forefront.

It really is not a matter of promoting any particular plan for the development of the block; the central concern should be to encourage actual undertaking of development by those private property owners.

All elected officials, property owners and residents of Tawas City should be interested in this development, despite apparent differences of opinion as to how or what should be accomplished. This corner points out, however, that the city master plan developed in the early 1960s was rather utopian in ideals as it was designed primarily to take advantage of federal urban renewal funds. After the plan was developed, city officials at the time came to the realization that this city could not raise the one-million dollars in local money which would have been necessary to receive federal money for a wholesale clearance project.

With this in mind, it should be admitted that certain conclusions and recommendations contained in that plan are not applicable today and the master plan should not be considered as the "gospel" or the way that Tawas City should necessarily proceed to achieve an orderly growth. It should also be noted that when developed, provisions were made to change plans as progress developed.

Some of the master plan recommendations have actually been achieved—two old buildings have been removed by the private owners for new development and three buildings were lost through the attrition of fire, all in the 500 block, while a new Kroger Store has been constructed on the very spot shown on the master plan for development of large business. Other aspects of the plan can be achieved.

The fact does exist that some substantial buildings remain in the 500 block and have been improved in recent years. Any future development must incorporate those buildings in planning and, while problems may arise concerning parking lot development or location, those problems are not insurmountable.

The question, therefore, boils down to a matter of present day personalities. Nothing will ever be accomplished in the block in the foreseeable future unless all forget petty grievances and pitch in to solve matters at hand and for the future with the maximum amount of mutual understanding.

A BEAUTIFUL SUNRISE greeted the new day Wednesday morning and this picture was snapped overlooking Tawas Bay. A few minutes later, the beautiful picture disappeared and the clouds turned to the color of slate gray—matching the first cold day of the fall season. It is easy to understand why ancient civilizations worshipped the life-giving sun as there is no more beautiful sight in nature than a sunrise. Even the founding fathers of this country incorporated the sun in the national seal and Benjamin Franklin pointed out the new United States was in its ascendancy—the artist who designed the seal portrayed a rising sun.—Tawas Herald Photo.

"God keeps faith, and He will not allow you to be tested above your powers but when the test comes, He will at the same time provide a way out, by enabling you to sustain it." (1 Corinthians 10:13 NEB)

When our second child was born and was in critical condition, my husband and I prayed, not that God would spare our son, but that He would help us accept whatever was in store for our baby. I can honestly say that for the next 10 days, while our son was in intensive care, I did not worry. I had an inner peace that said everything would be all right.

When our son was three months old, I returned home one day to find that my husband had taken him to the hospital because of another breathing problem. As a friend was driving me to the hospital, she remarked, "I must say, you are very calm about this whole thing."

I replied, "I can do no more than I did when our son was born and that is to give him to God and let God take over." God did just that and our son is an energetic, healthy three-year-old today.

There have been hard times since then but I have given them all to God and He has seen me through.

PRAYER

Father, we thank You for Your presence. Help us to surrender ourselves and take our burdens to You so we can have that inner peace that only You can give. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

When we give everything to God, He gives us inner peace.—Lois A. Lehman (Whaleysville, Maryland)

ET Hardware Man Named to Sentry Store Dealer Council

Set Substance Abuse Council Election at Mid State CC

Thomas N. Merschel of Merschel Hardware, Incorporated, East Tawas, has been elected to the Sentry Hardware Stores Dealer Advisory Council sponsored by The George Worthington Company, Cleveland, Ohio, and Lansing, a leading wholesaler of hardware and housewares.

Members of the council are elected annually for a three-year term and periodically attend council meetings for the further improvement of retailing for the customer.

Merschel Hardware was founded in 1903 by Andrew J. Merschel. During Merschel's era, the store began to purchase merchandise from the George Worthington Company in Cleveland. From 1931-1973, the business was continued by Norman A. Merschel, who saw the store expand from approximately 1,250 square feet to 6,500 square feet with the addition of a complete housewares gift department which includes wicker baskets.

Merschel Hardware joined the Sentry Stores program in 1963. They feature the popular line of Martin Senour Paints, as well as complete lines of sporting goods, plumbing supplies and general hardware supplies, with many of the hardware items for sale in bulk quantities.

Thomas Merschel, a third generation hardware man, entered the business in 1971 after graduating from college and serving in the armed forces. He is assisted in the store by his mother, uncle and brother-in-law, resulting in a knowledgeable, family run hardware store.

Mid State Substance Abuse Services advisory council will hold its first meeting Tuesday evening, September 26, 7:30 o'clock, in room 242 at Mid Michigan Community College, Harrison.

Election of officers for the new fiscal year will be held. The need for residential services in the council's seven-county area will be the main item of discussion.

Anyone interested in alcohol and drug problems or services is welcome to attend. The council represents Arenac, Clare, Gladwin, Osceola, Midland, Isabella and Roscommon Counties. For more information, call William E. Miles, coordinator, Mid Michigan Community College, 386-7792.

Girl Scouts Looking for New Members

Tawas area girls interested in joining in the girl scout activities are advised to call Clyda Vernier at 362-3705. Applications are being accepted for the program.

Leaders are also needed for all levels of scouting to continue and expand the groups.

LOOKING BACKWARD—

Plainfield OKs Funding Fire Hall - Truck

15 Years Ago—

September 25, 1963 — Plainfield Township voters approved a $45,000 modernization program for its fire department by slightly more than a two to one majority on Monday's special election. Voters approved issuance of bonds to build a new fire hall at $25,000 and a second proposition approved is to finance the purchase of a new $20,000 fire truck.

A meeting is to be held tonight attended by representatives of churches, fraternal orders, service clubs and other organizations in the Tawas area to form the new Tawas Community Chest.

On recommendation of Supt. Reynold Mick, Tawas Area Board of Education adopted a resolution relative to a proposed teacher tenure act. "The Michigan Education Association as a professional organization has not, at this time, established a system whereby it can police the malcontents and unethical members of the association and prevent children from being deprived of a wholesome atmosphere in the schools of Michigan if this privilege is removed from boards of education. Teachers are adequately protected by present legislation and organization from capricious, irresponsible and vindictive control agencies in the state," it was stated. The MEA is initiating petitions with 300,000 signatures which would require the state legislature to consider tenure for all teachers in Michigan.

Fred Musolf of Tawas City retired after a 38-year career with the United States Gypsum Company at Alabaster.

25 Years Ago—

September 25, 1953—"If we maintain a philosophy dedicated to affecting self improvement, then we are going to maintain our position as one of the greatest mass transportation systems in the world," stated Charles A. Pinkerton Jr., president and general manager of the Detroit and Mackinac Railway, in an address before members of the American Railroad Association at a conference held at Mackinac Island.

B. H. Sargent, West Branch contractor, was awarded the contract for constructing the proposed new bridge over the East Branch of the AuGres River on M-55. Sargent's bid was $126,668.87.

Gould Drug Company has purchased the Beale Drug Store at AuGres. All 10 of the Gould stores are on the Rexall honor roll.

Clifford Spicer, city engineer for Tawas City and East Tawas, at a joint meeting of the water boards and councils of both cities, submitted a set of plans developed to relieve the area of a critical water situation. The plans included a new pumping station and filtration plant estimated to cost $177,000. The plant would be built by East Tawas and Tawas City would purchase water from the system on a metered basis.

The Michigan Sports Car Club held a week-end outing here last week-end. The group of 14 members and wives were guests of the LeClair Cabins in Tawas City.

35 Years Ago—

September 24, 1943—Henry C. Schatz of Tawas Township won a $500 prize in the state-wide farm Victory Garden Contest. His garden, located 6 1/2 miles northwest of Tawas City, was tops in the state.

The Iosco County Road Commission will assume maintenance of state trunk lines in this county October 1 under contract with the state highway department. The new system will mean elimination of the dual highway maintenance organizations in the county, thus requiring less equipment and less men when the county assumes all highway maintenance work.

Sixty-eight Tawas City and East Tawas residents received their "wings" for having served 50 hours or more as observers at the Tawas City aircraft observation post. Lt. Doris E. Sagendorp, WAC, of Ft. Brady presented the service pins and commended Chief Observer L. H. Braddock and William Hatton, former chief observer, for the fine record and efficient service rendered by the observation post here.

Kenneth Barnes, owner of the Barnes Hotel in Tawas City, has entered the navy and has left for California. He served in the navy during World War I.

FIRST PHASE of a project to modernize classrooms at Hale Area Elementary Unit has been completed. An example of the work is shown in this classroom located in the original portion of the building constructed in the mid-1940s. Ceilings were lowered from 12 feet to nine feet in height, large industrial type windows were replaced with smaller windows of insulating glass and all new lighting brightens the room. Discussing the improvements with Adrien Durham, third grade teacher, is Prin. Peter Holley. —Tawas Herald Photo.

pedestrian congregation," said the mayor.

The mayor also pointed out that another recommendation of the master plan was that ultimately, although presently adequate, the present fire station and city hall site would be best suited for commercial use and that a new site be developed in a location near the center of the population which is to be served.

"I am sure the majority of the people would be pleased to see a centrally located fire station, only at a fraction of the cost proposed on the city hall complex. Also, I am sure we would all appreciate having the present city hall remodeled to house the library and other city offices for the time being without going to the expense of spending upwards of $65,000 for adjacent property. That would do nothing but raise our taxes and would result in a loss of tax base."

The mayor stated that the master plan discouraged service type businesses in the 500 commercial block and believed the present city hall site would be best utilized for new commercial property. He recommended that consideration should be given for locating any future parking area behind buildings along the Tawas River.

Keiser pointed out that the master plan of 1965 was a general guide with flexibility built into it. He noted that a committee appointed by the mayor had studied four or five different sites for a proposed city hall complex and recommended staying at the present site.

McKay said that the difference between this city and a shopping area is shown by a star on the map which denotes that Tawas City is the county seat. He said there are not enough businesses here at the present time to make a good shopping area, that there were still some ugly looking buildings but much improvement has been made in recent years. "I look at the city hall as a business needed on the main street," said McKay, who owns Lad's Padd, formerly the Isoco Hotel.

Gary Wood, a property owner in the 500 block, expressed the opinion that the city hall was not a business place and felt that the proposed location was wrong for the city hall. He believed it should be located elsewhere. He also pointed out that he had purchased the former Buch building in order to provide access to the rear of his property and he did not feel he for telephone operators here, naturally, was during the summer months, but holidays and the deer hunting season saw an increased use of service," said Mrs. Brad-dock.

At 2:01 a. m. Sunday, June 19, 1955, the traditional "number please" of the operator's voice bowed out of the East Tawas exchange and gracefully retreated into the pages of local telephone history to make way for a new era in communications.

When the signal was given, Michigan Bell technicians in the new telephone building at East Tawas activated the banks of intricate apparatus by a simultaneous operation. Automatic switching equipment then took over the handling of local telephone calls could justify granting an easement across the rear of his property for a parking lot which he did not need. He said the biggest problem was that no one in Tawas City could agree on anything.

The mayor pointed out that the master plan calls for removal of business on the bay side of Lake Street and development of the river side for commercial use. He felt that construction of a promenade along the river, with parking across the river, would greatly enhance the business district.

The meeting ended with McKay stating that he would be willing to grant an easement across his property, but with the provision that its route would be flexible should he decide to construct a new lounge along the river bank.

Keiser said the meeting had been called for the purpose of getting thinking of private owners concerning development of the block. The mayor said that development of the block was not city business and that tax dollars should not have been used to call the meeting. Notices of the meeting had been mailed out of the city hall by the city manager.

under a system which was one of the most modern in the country. Including the various facilities for the improvement of long distance calls, the new Tawas system was installed at a cost of almost one-half million dollars.

Mrs. Clarabelle Eckman, Michigan Bell's chief operator at East Tawas in 1955, reported that the manual switchboard was handling about 8,000 local calls a day and 1,000 long distance messages.

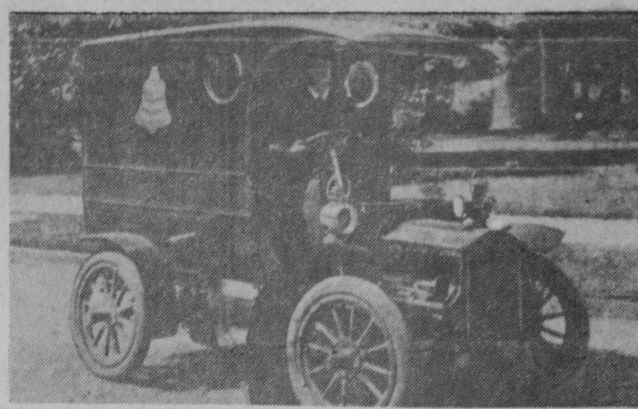

Although local calls were handled automatically by the new dial system, the staff of regular operators remained for some time at East Tawas to handle long distance calls, assistance on calls, information and other services.

Michigan Bell introduced direct distance dialing here in 1961. At that time, there were 3,300 customers in the area and the number was growing. To serve them and to continue updating the service, Michigan Bell opened a new office on Newman Street in 1969.

The latest, most sophisticated electronic switching equipment was placed into service at East Tawas in 1977, enabling customers to dial their own person-to-person, collect, credit card and bill to third number calls.

There are about 4,000 telephone customers in the Tawas exchange today—a far cry from the eight pioneer telephone customers who first subscribed to the newfangled telephone service here more than 75 years ago.

TELEPHONE SERVICE had really progressed when the Michigan State Telephone Company purchased its first automotive vehicle—a one-cylinder Cadillac truck which was used mainly for emergency purposes. Despite this innovation, the horse and wagon was still the common mode of transportation.
