

City Manager Bublitz to Resign

It is expected that a letter of resignation will be submitted to the Tawas City Council next Monday night by City Mgr. Reginald Bublitz.

Although stating he had no comment to make at this time, the city manager said Tuesday a letter from him would be read at the next council meeting.

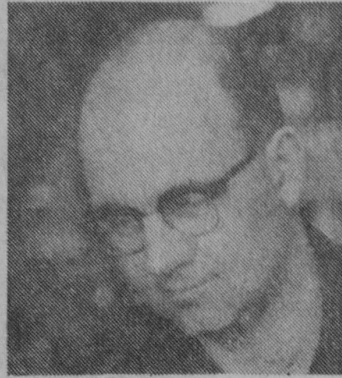

He expects to be out of town during the early part of the week and will not be attending the meeting. Apparently, the city manager had verbally announced his intentions to each member of the city council, individually, and requested that the information remain confidential until officially announced by letter. As is usual in such cases, the information "leaked out" and the city manager has been deluged by calls.

It is expected that the resignation will be effective October 15.

Bublitz has been city manager since January 1, 1972, effective date of the city's home rule charter. Prior to that he had served nearly 18 years as superintendent of public works, a position to which he was appointed in May 1954, by the then mayor, George W. Myles.

In 1954, Bublitz had been serving as First Ward alderman and was named superintendent to succeed Martin Kasischke, who had resigned to accept the position of Tawas City postmaster.

County Changes River Course; New Controversy

As of Friday, Iosco County Road Commission had received no word from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources concerning an apparent new problem involving the AuGres River watershed.

Arenac County, which claims "foul" practically every time an upstream property owner spits in the AuGres River, has a new axe to grind—only this time the Iosco County Road Commission apparently added fuel to the controversy between the two counties.

After constructing the new Head bridge over the AuGres River, about one-half mile north of Dyer Road, the dividing line between the two counties, the road commission straightened the channel of the river just upstream from the bridge.

That is a "no-no" lacking certain state permits.

James Delahanty, road commission engineer-manager, said Friday his office had been contacted by the DNR's Roscommon office concerning a possible violation of a law which controls action on lakes and streams for the protection of fish and wildlife.

Delahanty said he believed he acted with the proper authority in straightening out an oxbow in the river which threatened the bridge, but he said he "would let the DNR decide for me." A fish biologist was to have inspected the site last week.

Delahanty explained the road commission's action by stating there had been an icing problem at the former bridge for many years and the oxbow developed in the river. "After construction of a $70,000 to $80,000 bridge last fall, we decided to protect the investment by cutting out the oxbow," said the engineer-manager.

"We did nothing to increase the amount of water going into the watershed and I am assuming that we were working within both the DNR and corps of engineers permits to construct the new bridge," said Delahanty.

Kenneth Neeper, Arenac County soil conservationist, claims that the dredge was done improperly. He said the slope of the cut was unacceptable and it would wash away almost immediately.

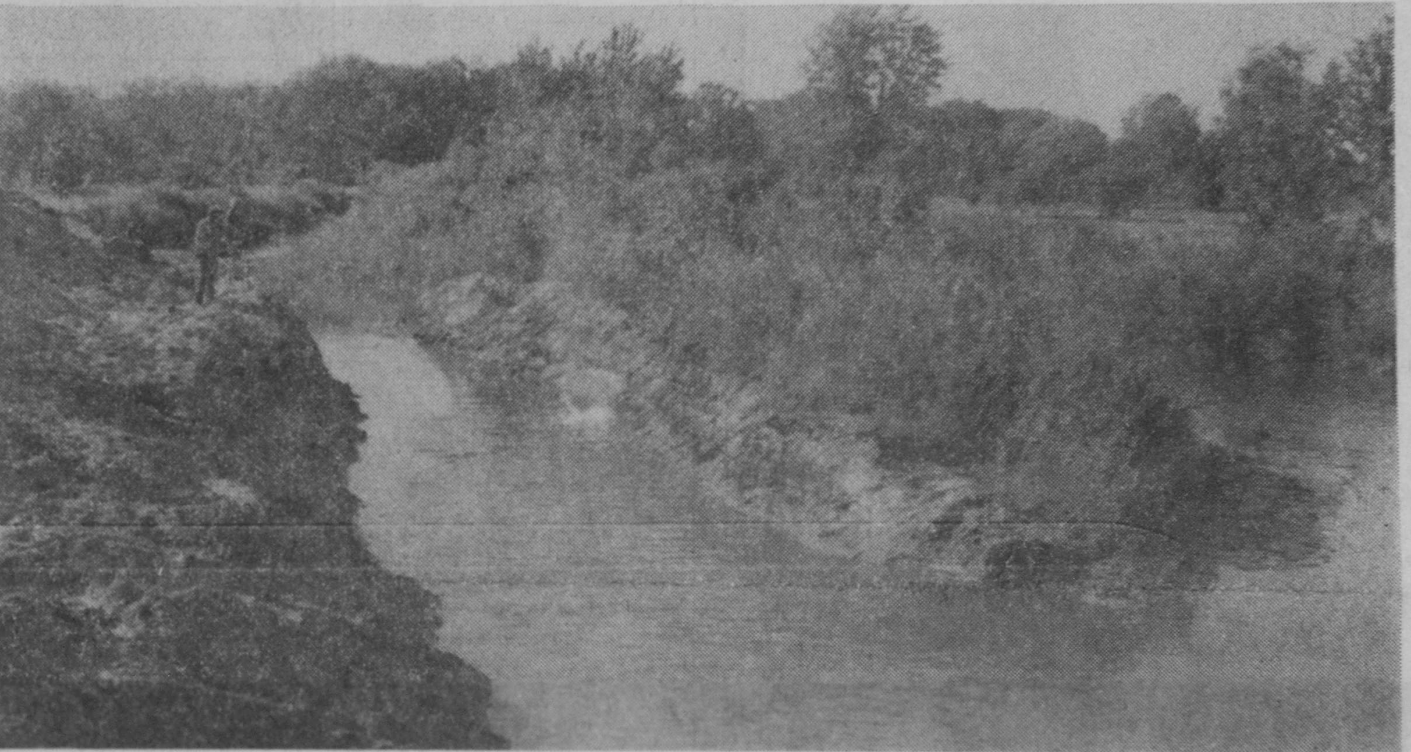

Neeper also believes that the "island" left from cutting through the oxbow would wash away and would add materially to the silt in the river.

Delahanty said Friday that the Sherman Township supervisor had requested the county to cut out the oxbow a number of times.

THIS WOODEN BRIDGE spanning the AuGres River was constructed one-half mile north of the Iosco-Arenac County line by the Iosco County Road Commission. Anticipating ice problems this winter, the road commission took an oxbow out of the channel just upstream from the bridge, leaving an island between two channels leading to the bridge, shown in the lower photo.

Driver Charged in US-23 Crash

An AuSable Township man received fatal injuries and four other persons were injured in a two-car crash last Wednesday morning on US-23, AuSable Township.

An east bound car driven by George Romero, 24, Wurtsmith Air Force Base, attempted to pass a tractor-trailer unit in the dense fog.

When the car was along side the truck, Romero met a west bound car driven by Howard G. Herriman, 68, AuSable Township. Both drivers swerved to the north shoulder of the road where the cars hit nearly head-on.

Herriman was rushed by ambulance to Tawas Hospital where he died several hours later. Romero and his three children, Christina M., four years old; Gregory G., three years of age; John A., 11 months old, were all taken to Wurtsmith Air Force Base Hospital.

Romero was arraigned Tuesday afternoon in 81st District Court on a charge of negligent homicide. He was bound over to circuit court for hearing October 10.

TA Teachers- Board Adopt New Contract

Tawas Area Board of Education and the Tawas Area Federation of Teachers reached agreement Thursday on a three-year contract to remain in effect through 1980-81.

The agreement calls for an eight percent increase in the basic salary for each of the three years.

In addition, fringe benefits were improved for teachers including boosting term life insurance from $10,000 to $20,000, sick day accumulation was increased from 130 to 150 days, mileage was increased from 14 cents to 17 cents.

The contract also calls for implementation of a dental plan beginning with the 1979-80 year.

"Adjustments in salary called for by the agreement will make the salaries of the teachers more competitive with those of other districts in the county," said Supt. Robert A. Halle. "The salaries, on the average, have been below the other school districts."

The over-all cost of the contract fits into the three-year budget and financial project plan established for the district, he stated.

FERTILIZER STOLEN FROM FOREST BUILDING

Michigan State Police from East Tawas investigated a burglary Friday at a United States Forest Service building on Monument Road. A lock had been removed from the door using a bolt cutter and a large quantity of fertilizer was stolen.

Iosco Commission Adjusts Pay Scale

Iosco County Board of Commissioners adopted a pay increase for the new board effective January 1.

A resolution adopted last week calls for a compensation rate of $20 for up to four hours worked at regular and committee meetings and an additional $10 for each succeeding two-hour period, or less, worked during the same committee meeting or work session.

Base salary of the board members remains at $200 per month with the chairman to receive an additional $50 per month. Commissioners are to be reimbursed for travel expenses at a rate of 17 cents per mile, effective January 1.

The bids were accepted and are to be compared with specifications.

The commission authorized advertising bids for developing a new parking lot on county owned property west of the jail.

Purchase of a tranquilizer gun and projectiles at a cost of $397, as requested by the animal control officer, was authorized. Payment is to be made from that department's budget.

Judge Rules in Favor of Building Authority; Project Contracts Let

Ruling that Davison and Son Builders had "deliberately attempted to change the bidding arrangements the owners had made," Judge David DeWitt Friday afternoon dismissed a complaint and temporary injunction brought by the firm against Iosco County over additions and alterations to the county building.

The immediate effect of the court ruling was for the Iosco County Building Authority to sign contracts with MAKO Construction Company of Lincoln, general contractor, for the project, along with mechanical and electrical bids to Bay View Plumbing of Rogers City and Spark Electric of Auburn.

In a motion to require the county to readvertise for bids, attorney for the Tawas City building firm, Brent Babcock, accused the county building authority of "exercising arbitrary, capricious judgment with substantial irregularities and substantial variations" in acceptance of bids.

Judge DeWitt ruled, however, that Davison and Son was not entitled to relief by re-advertising for bids.

On August 21, the county building authority accepted bids totaling $409,284 for the project. This included a bid from MAKO Construction, architectural trades, at a cost of $255,684; Bay View Plumbing, mechanical, $118,000; Spark Electric, Auburn, electrical, $32,600.

Davison and Son had entered a bid of $292,000 for the general contract and indicated a total bid of $392,000 to include mechanical and electrical costs. The building authority indicated that mechanical and electrical costs were not bid separately by Davison according to specifications.

The Tawas City firm then asked for a temporary restraining order from the circuit court and a hearing was set.

Arguments in the case were presented Friday morning and most of the afternoon before Judge DeWitt, sitting in place of Iosco Circuit Judge Allan C. Miller, announced his findings.

Judge DeWitt noted that the Tawas City firm had been the low bidder on the project originally, but submitted a letter to the building authority indicating a mistake had been found in its total bid. "The

Air Fare Donated by SEACO Airline

Air transportation for Darla Toska and her mother to Rochester, Minnesota, last week was furnished by SEACO Airline, Incorporated, which operates out of Wurtsmith Air Force Base.

Cost of the entire trip was donated by Seaborn S. Livingstone, owner of the airline.

Because of poor weather, the plane landed in Wisconsin and Darla was transferred by ambulance to Methodist Hospital, Rochester, where she was to undergo surgery.

Darla is a 17-year-old Tawas Area High School senior, who was born with a hip defect. Tawas United Methodist Church Youth collected more than $4,300 to help pay the cost of her treatment.

State to Approve Merger Findings

The state boundary commission has announced that it will meet Tuesday, October 24, to approve findings and issue an order on the consolidation of Tawas City and East Tawas.

This action is included among 22 different findings to be approved by the commission during the day.

The boundary commission had approved proposed consolidation of the Tawas during its adjudicative session held in February. This action followed filing of petitions requesting the consolidation in 1977 and two public hearings.

It is expected that petitions asking that the matter be brought before the people for an immediate referendum will be filed within the 45 days after commission action.

A petition drive to force a vote on the matter, rather than to accept state findings and start the process of establishing a charter commission, was started and then stopped early in August at East Tawas. No action could be taken locally until the boundary commission announced its findings.

City Clerk Clyde Soper of East Tawas said that it had been hoped a referendum on the proposal could be placed before voters at the November election, but time is too short because of the delay.

Signatures of only five percent of the residents of the two communities would be required to force a vote. If such a course is taken, each community would vote independently on the question. If a majority in either community voted "no," the consolidation movement would end at that point.

If the vote is in the affirmative, the process of establishing a charter commission would commence.

Appeals Bd. Adjourned; No Action

On advice of City Atty. Kenneth Myles, Tawas City Zoning Board of Appeals adjourned its hearing Tuesday night without taking action on petitions objecting to the proposed new Tawas Masonic Temple on M-55 at Victoria Lane.

Myles said the zoning board of appeals had no authority in the matter under the zoning ordinance and that property owners could approach the planning commission for a hearing or take the matter to court.

The planning commission had approved a special use permit for the new Masonic Temple under its definition of the ordinance, but adjacent property owners claim they were entitled to a public hearing as the property is zoned residential.

Two Larcenies Investigated by Sheriff's Dept.

Larceny of a boat at Sand Lake owned by Howard C. Look of M-55, Tawas City, and larceny of an outboard motor and a tape deck owned by Frank Katoch, East Tawas, were investigated last week by Iosco County Sheriff's Department.

Braves Defeated S-S Panthers in Opener

Tawas Braves made their first defense of the Northeastern Michigan Conference football crown won last year by turning back the visiting Standish-Sterling Panthers, 14-6, Friday night in the first league game of the season for the two teams.

But what happened in other action Friday night served notice on all schools that no team would win the 1979 crown in a runaway. All schools are evenly matched and Gladwin rallied to defeat a tough Pinconning squad, 20-12, while the Ogemaw Heights Falcons edged the surprising Whittemore-Prescott Cardinals, 13-6.

The game between the Braves and Panthers was all defense for the first three quarters. The Panthers picked up yardage in the exchange of punts during the first half and lost a good scoring opportunity shortly before intermission when a blocked punt by the Panthers was nullified on a roughing the kicker penalty.

Bari Bell, Standish - Sterling speedster, was held to only 19 yards in 13 attempts for the night which told something about the Tawas defense. Bell did break loose for a 120-yard touchdown run to cap a 60-yard drive, but that came too late in the game.

Now with a record of three wins and no losses, the Braves scored 14 points in the fourth quarter and Bryant Wilke put the Braves out in front as he went 86 yards to break the scoreless deadlock. Quarterback Bill King's conversion kick made it 7-0.

The Braves came right back to score on a 40-yard drive, the last yard for a touchdown going to King on a keeper. He booted his second conversion of the night and Tawas had a 14-0 lead.

With one minute left in the hard-hitting struggle, Bell scored his touchdown to cut Tawas' lead to 14-6.

Wilke turned in an outstanding performance for the night, rushing for 137 yards in 15 attempts. Pete Wood rushed for 71 yards on 15 carries and John Bouchard had 52 yards on six attempts.

Bill Gulvas was the top ground gainer for Standish-Sterling with 45 yards on 11 attempts.

Tawas plays at Whittemore-Prescott this Friday night and Card Coach Kyle Tobin is expected to pull a couple of tricks out of his sleeve in an attempt to knock the Braves out of the undefeated ranks.

The Cards were down, 13-0, at intermission against Ogemaw Heights, but Tom Donaghy scored on a 15-yard burst in the second half to close the gap. The two-point PAT attempt was missed and the Cards had to settle for the loss, giving them an over-all record of two wins and one loss.

Scoring for Ogemaw Heights was Terry Collins, who went over on a four-yard run, then intercepted a pass and ran it back 45 yards for a touchdown.

W-P Girls Lost Two

Whittemore-Prescott varsity girls lost a pair of basketball games last week. Pinconning turned back the Cardinals, 52-32, on September 19, and Arenac Eastern won a 35-23 decision Thursday.

Barb Erickson was top scorer in both games with 16 and 15 points, followed by Joy Ori with eight and 12 points; Teresann Smith, eight points in each game. Kim Bonnell was the top defensive player.

TA Bravettes Finally Won Over Gladwin

After a three-year drought, Tawas Bravettes finally beat the Gladwin girls' basketball team, 57-55, in overtime. The Bravettes have beaten Gladwin only two times in history and never at Gladwin.

This game was different as Tawas took a 14-12 first quarter lead and Gladwin held a two-point margin at intermission, 26-24. The Bravettes were still down by two points, 34-32, at the end of the third quarter, but came back in the fourth to tie the game at 52-52.

Tawas turned in five points during overtime and Gladwin posted three.

Top scorer for Tawas was Meg Peterson, who had 18 points and five rebounds. Kari Allen meshed 12 points and cleared 14 rebounds, while Laurel Minard had eight points and six rebounds. Jan Johnson added seven points and six rebounds.

It was Tawas' second win of the season, the first in conference play, against two nonconference losses.

The other game last week saw Allen setting a new school record by scoring 33 points in the Bravettes' 67-54 win over Hale. Allen meshed 15 of 23 free throws and her 33 points broke Gina Minard's record of 31 points set back in 1971.

Peterson and Minard each had eight points while Johnson and Ronda Hall had 16 points. Allen had 14 of the team's 40 rebounds while Minard had seven and Johnson turned in six.

B. Morawa paced Hale with 16 points, followed by 14 points for J. Armstead.

Tawas junior varsity lost to Gladwin, 35-17. Scoring for Tawas were Diane Nelkie, eight points; Patty Hughes, four points; Debbie Allen and Cindy Miknyocki, two points each.

Eagles Lost to Wolverines

AuGres-Sims spoiled Hale Area School's homecoming Friday night by defeating the Eagles, 22-19.

Hale jumped off to a 13-0 lead in the first quarter, but AuGres scored 22 points in the second quarter to lead by three points at the half. Neither team was able to score after intermission.

AuGres' Mark Morawa proved to be the big difference for the Wolverines as he scored 20 of his team's 22 points. Morawa had 123 yards rushing, turned in two touchdowns on screen passes, scored the other on a five-yard run and ran for one extra point.

Hale, which now has lost three consecutive games, seemed to have things finally going in this game. Vern Reed III connected on two touchdown passes during the first quarter, one an 18-yarder to Daryn Bernard and the second a 47-yarder to Bill Pincumbe.

The Eagles scored another touchdown in the second period on a 20-yard pass from Reed to Todd Peters.

Eric Bellville was Hale's leading ground gainer during the night with 72 yards in 14 carries. Bernard had 58 yards in 16 attempts and Reed had 33 yards in six carries. The Eagles had 163 yards on the ground and 152 in the air. Reed completed eight of 15 passes and had four interceptions.

Pincumbe was the leading pass receiver with two catches for 82 yards.

Bellville led the defense with seven tackles and a fumble recovery, Peters had six tackles and a fumble recovery and Bernard had six tackles. Wally Millard had a pair of pass interceptions.

The Eagles are scheduled to host the tough Saginaw St. Peter and Paul team this week. The junior varsity, which lost to Akron Fairgrove, 16-0, last week and now has a record of two wins and one loss, is to play the Alpena junior varsity B team Wednesday night at Hale.

Michigan Consolidated Gas Company to Close Tawas Office-Service Facility

As part of an over-all reorganization plan in Northern Michigan, Michigan Consolidated Gas Company will close its Tawas business office and service facilities in the fall of 1979, following completion of more centrally located facilities at West Branch.

This announcement was made last week by Lewis N. Case, general manager of the utility's northern district.

"This reorganization is part of an ongoing effort by the company to control operating costs while maintaining and improving customer service," said Case.

The official announcement released Wednesday said it would combine portions of its present Tawas and Grayling service areas to form a new east region. The move is part of the reorganization of Michigan Consolidated's 13 area offices into seven new service regions.

The new east region will serve more than 17,000 customers in Iosco, Ogemaw, Crawford, Roscommon and parts of Gladwin Counties.

Robert A. Stone, currently with the utility's northern district office, will head the new region.

"Michigan Consolidated is and will remain committed to serving its Tawas and Grayling area customers and to supporting economic growth for the area. These changes will not result in any decline in the levels of service to our customers and Michigan Consolidated employees will continue to live and work in the area," Case said.

The change is designed to reduce operating costs, streamline some operations and improve the utility's ability to efficiently serve customers in the northern portion of the state.

Case said that the company would open additional bill payment agencies in the Tawas and Grayling areas following the closing of local business offices.

The utility's 13 northern district service areas were organized as the company rapidly extended natural gas service into the region during the 1950s and 1960s.

It was just 15 years ago when Michigan Consolidated Gas Company and Consumers Power Com-

IOSCO COUNTY had its second "close call" in a matter of only two months last week when a coupling hitch on the second unit of a tractor-trailer combination malfunctioned and the trailer went out of control on U-23 in Baldwin Township. The "pup" trailer, loaded with 40,000 pounds of dry cement, tore up mail boxes for 150 yards before overturning. Investigating sheriff's department officers said that Gary E. Walchak, 39, an employee of Bay Towing Company, Bay pany were competing for a non-exclusive franchise to provide natural gas service to Iosco County. At a meeting on August 28, 1963, Michigan Consolidated received unanimous endorsement of township and city officials to serve Tawas City, East Tawas and Oscoda Township with its service.

The utility's first service building was located on First Street in Tawas City and its offices-sales department was located on Westover Street at East Tawas. The firm later moved into a new central headquarters building constructed at Baldwin Centre.

Forest Service Gets Letters on Land Use

With a deadline of October 1 for accepting public comments less than a week away, the United States Forest Service has received more than 12,000 form and personal letters, telegrams and petitions on proposed alternative approaches that could be used to allocate more than 2,600 roadless areas and national forest lands for wilderness, nonwilderness uses or further study. The public comment period, which started June 15, is part of the roadless area review and evaluation (RARE II) process.

A team of 44 men and women in the old post office, Salt Lake City, Utah, is coding public comments on cards to ensure that a computer printout will accurately document the views and the data contained in the comments. This printout, and other data supplied by the public, will be used by the forest service when developing its recommendations to congress, due next January.

To keep its January date with congress, the forest service will consider only comments post-marked before October 1. Anyone planning to send written comments can address them to any of the forest service's nine regional offices. Those sent to the Eastern Regional Office should be addressed to the Regional Forester, Forest Service, USDA, 633 West Wisconsin Avenue, Milwaukee, Wisconsin 53203.

GOSPEL IN THE PINERIES

Mighty religious revivals swept the nation during the nineteenth century which led to later evangelistic crusades during the early part of this century by a former baseball player-turned-preacher, named Billy Sunday. This same revival influence extends even to the present day through the worldwide efforts of the Rev. Billy Graham, perhaps the best known of all Christian crusaders due to the influence of modern day news media.

Even the sparsely populated northern part of Michigan was affected by the nineteenth century religious revivals and the far reaching influence touched no area more than right here in Iosco County.

Two significant revivals took place here in the 1880s—one saw an evangelist hiking through the pines in a noble effort to save souls of those working in lumbering camps; a second and later effort resulted in a brilliant young lawyer stumbling to the altar to accept Christ and to become an ordained minister of the Gospel.

This story begins nearly 100 years ago—in 1881. During five or six months of the year, there were assembled at the various lumber camps in Northern Michigan about 4,000 men engaged in the most laborious employment.

To the Reverend Davis of Bay City, the woodsmen were cut off from intercourse with all restraining influences, housed in rude buildings devoid of every comfort except those of warmth and shelter.

LUMBERJACKS in Northern Michigan's pineries were the object of strenuous religious revival efforts of church leaders in the early 1880s. The men led a life without the influence of religion and traveling evangelists attempted to change that, but with only modest success.

"They have no means of amusement except such as are demoralizing, cards being about the only recourse," Davis told the executive committee of the Young Men's Christian Association at Bay City.

For the use of cards, there was no time except on Sunday, for working hours of the woodsmen began as soon as the coming of daylight permitted and, when the day closed and supper was eaten, the men were ready for bed.

"Working hard all the week, Sunday comes to them as a day of recreation purely, for it is surrounded by none of the hallowed associations which cluster about it under the ordinary circumstances of life: No church bells invited them to worship or remind them that the day was set apart by its divine author as a day sacred to rest and worship," said Davis.

When Sunday came to many of the camps, the cards came forth and in its solemn hours, when the voice of praise was resounding in the not-so-distant village church, the language of the gamester resounded through the camps of the woodsmen.

"There are often no newspapers and the debasing dime novel or contaminating Police Gazette, ragged with use, are brought forth and distill their poison into the eager minds of those who have a taste for reading which is not better supplied. Story telling circles are formed and vile anecdotes rehearsed or invented. In most camps there is not a redeeming feature to the dark picture," lamented the Bay City minister.

"If the camp was near a settlement and the men had money, intoxicants often found their way in. The men were isolated by themselves, with no female society to exert its restraining influence and immorality reigns supreme.

"It is not surprising that when the men come out in the spring they are demoralized and often squander in a week the earnings of months," he told the YMCA's executive committee.

The existence of the condition of things among the woodsmen was not new and among others who had tried to exert a Christian influence on life in the lumber camps was Mayor George Sutherland of AuSable, who visited camps of the AuSable River region. Sutherland was one of the most influential politicians in Iosco County and a noted speaker.

According to an 1881 report in the Iosco County Gazette, "it is only recently that the attention of Christian people has been devoted to the condition of things among the woodsmen and an effort was made to accomplish something in the way of relief."

Reported the Gazette: "The Rev. Mr. Davis became acquainted with the unfortunate destitution of restraining influences among the lumbermen and conceived that something should be done to supply them."

He went among the camps that winter, to do them good. He found the men were willing to listen to the Gospel, that they gave him respectful attention and were pleased at his coming.

The Bay City minister told his experiences to the YMCA and a movement was started to preach the Gospel in the camps. Davis represented the cause at a union meeting held at the Baptist Church in Bay City and the Tribune of that city commented as follows:

"It is worthy of the cooperation of all moral and religious people and the church should be thronged tonight."

The subject of religion in the lumber camps of Northern Michigan has been a subject neglected by historians, but trips into this region by Davis and the YMCA exerted no little influence on the lives of men cooped up in camps during the long winter months.

It is difficult, nearly 100 years later, to appraise the actual extent of the above and numerous other religious undertakings throughout the region, but memoirs of former lumberjacks attest to the good work in some camps.

Historians have devoted most of their writings to the seamier side of life at the end of spring drives, when thousands of unattached young men poured into shore towns to whoop it up in a wild spring fling. Not all of those men squandered their earnings, thanks to the influence of such men as Davis and Mayor Sutherland.

During this same period, one of the frequent patrons of saloons of the Tawas was a young lawyer, who had been reared in a Methodist pastor's home. A graduate of the law department of the University of Michigan with the class of 1863, Sibley G. Taylor had practiced law at Ann Arbor until 1875, when he moved to Tawas City and continued the practice of his profession for about 12 years.

During this time, he had held many offices of public trust, including that of register of deeds. During that era of history, the Tawas was considered "wide open" towns and it is recorded that East Tawas supported as many as nine saloons at one time—operating 24 hours a day.

The young attorney had a substantial law practice, but like many other young professionals of the day, "Demon Rum" soon had another convert. Taylor, who seemed to scorn his early Christian upbringing, was particularly antagonistic to religious revivals and was often taunted by other saloon patrons, who dared him to attend the meetings.

"It was suggested that he might 'get converted' if he did go and in answer to the taunts, he staged an old-time Methodist class meeting in the saloon, taking the part of all attendants himself, as he was adept at mimicry," wrote Miss Edna M. Otis in "Sawdust Days."

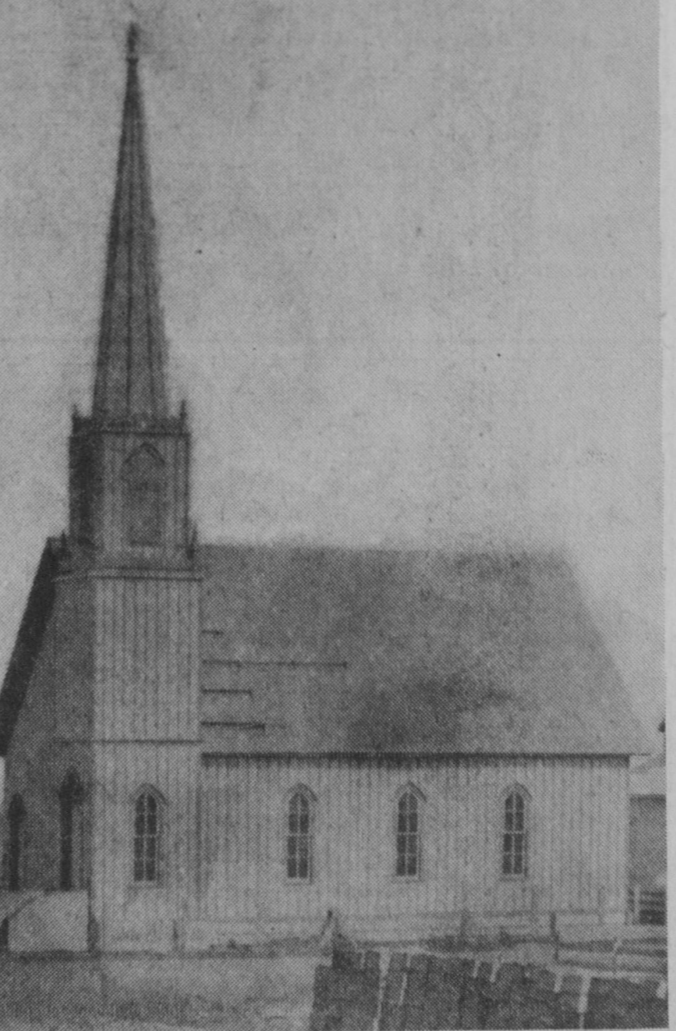

He finally accepted the challenge of attending a revival meeting and, in 1886, attended one at the Tawas City Methodist Church. The attorney sat unmoved by the evangelist's sermon, but those seated next to him noticed a sudden change during the last verse of the song, "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight?"

Taylor suddenly stumbled to the altar and then and there became converted and united with the Methodist Church. "He gave up the practice of law and became a minister of the Gospel, being ordained in 1888," reported The Tawas Herald.

Taylor supplied churches at Wilber, Townline and Tawas City. Afterward, he held appointments at Grayling, Cheboygan and Perry. In 1904, he resigned his pastorate and returned to East Tawas to resume the practice of law.

The Herald reported on June 22, 1906, that Taylor had died at the age of 66 years after an illness of several weeks "of a complication of diseases."

His obituary reported that he was born at LeRoy, New York, on July 3, 1840. The funeral was held June 22, 1906, from the East Tawas Methodist Church with the Rev. H. (See REVIVAL, page 2.)

TAWAS CITY Methodist Church, pictured above a few years after its construction, was the scene of a religious revival meeting in 1886, which had a profound effect on the life of a local attorney.

Luck Has Been With Iosco County in Two Tandem Trailer Accidents

Highway accidents involving tandem trailer units have been much in the news during recent months, along with legislation at Lansing designed to control those units on Michigan's highways. Two recent accidents in Iosco County emphasize the need for the trucking industry to take a close look at a very real problem. If legislation does not force such tandem units off the road, public outcry might force a more radical change in the state law. Regardless of legislation, manufacturers of trucks and trailers should set engineers to work designing some means of coupling tandem trailers which would reduce the hazard on roadways. This should also apply to smaller trailers towed by private automobiles to haul boats and loads lighter than heavy industrial or commercial purposes. So-called "safety chains" or cables presently in use on tandem trailer units hauling heavy loads are practically worthless, even worse, for present safety devices give a sense of false security to drivers. In the two most recent accidents in this county, the safety chains on second trailer units snapped immediately under heavy stress when the main coupling malfunctioned. Loads on such trailers are just too great to be controlled by present safety devices. In the accident near East Tawas last week, an experienced truck driver made a vain attempt to "catch" the second unit after the chains snapped by slowing his tractor unit and still-coupled lead trailer in front of the runaway tandem trailer. This was an impossibility as uncoupling took place on a curve—the tandem unit's wheels could not be controlled and it veered off the roadway. Perhaps some form of electronic device could be designed to immediately warn drivers when couplers malfunction on tandem units, at the same time an automatic braking system taking over to slow the runaway tandem unit when it disengages. A more adequate safety sway bar system could also be developed. In any event, it was fortunate that both of the local accidents occurred at those locations on US-23. One trailer unit hauling propane gas, after crossing the Tawas River bridge, veered off the road, struck a power pole and crunched into an unoccupied building; the second accident last week on US-23 in Baldwin Township saw the runaway trailer smashing a long string of mail boxes before finally overturning in the ditch. At other locations, both accidents could have had serious consequences. Because of the danger involved, permissible speed limits for truck-trailer combinations should be much lower than present regulations and those restrictions should be rigidly enforced, not only by the police, but by the trucking industry, itself. Too many lives are at stake for truckers to continue the use of citizens band radios and electronic radar detection gadgets as a means of avoiding "Smokey"—truckers are the best drivers on the road, but they are also human and the heavy units under their control are subject to mechanical failure.

Road Commission Anticipated Ice Problem, but There Could be Trouble

Iosco and Arenac Counties are again at odds over the continuing AuGres watershed feud. Iosco County contracted to construct the new Head bridge on National City Road, one-half mile north of the line between Iosco and Arenac. This county received a permit from the Department of Natural Resources to construct the bridge, but the permit did not include permission to do any dredging. In order to protect the $70,000 to $80,000 bridge, the county road commission apparently straightened the AuGres River by cutting a new channel to eliminate an upstream oxbow. The county now apparently is in trouble with the state for failing to comply with a state law, which controls any action on lakes and streams that might harm fish, wildlife or the public welfare. After a hassle of many years with Arenac County over the AuGres watershed, it seems strange that this county would leave itself even open to further dispute and even to violate state law by not obtaining proper permits for changing the course of a stream. This corner can appreciate the concern for protecting a bridge, but legal steps must be followed. A county must comply with the law, just the same as a private citizen.

TODAYS Meditation from The World's Most Widely Used Devotional Guide The Upper Room

THESE ARE THE SYMPTOMS OF FAMILY BUDGET BLUES There is a bug going around. It is not the familiar flu bug—it might be called the budget blues bug. It has been a familiar, if unwanted, house guest in some Michigan homes for a long time. But, because of worsening economic conditions, it is biting some people now for the first time. If family finances are showing the following symptoms, the budget blues may be here: There is too much month left at the end of the money. That old joke about "living in the style to which you would like to become accustomed" is not all that funny, is it? Money disappears but there is not much to show for it. A good dose of planning may be just what the doctor ordered. Long-range goals seem to be getting farther away. Ask why. Are impulse purchases now acting as obstacles to saving for something planned to buy later? Were goals unrealistic to start with? You wish you knew how to change some of those costly purchases to less costly ones. If one has never had to be a penny-wise shopper, now may be the time to sharpen skills and look for alternative buys. Old buying habits may not fit new financial situation. You just cannot stay ahead of the credit bills. Taking time to examine how your credit is used may point out how it could be used more wisely. These trouble signs are the nagging little pains that signal it is time for a checkup to find out what the real, deep-down problem is. It may be a minor problem or a whopping big one. Unless one knows they can rely on rising income or the addition of a second income to banish budget blues, a family budget checkup is a must. In the meantime, check with the Cooperative Extension Service, phone 362-3449, to get some bulletins that will help fight budget blues. (This is the first of three articles on how to cope with the income squeeze.)

Increased giving for missions proceeded at the same rate as that for the new building and the congregation became more and more interested in various mission activities and support. In fact, one family became so involved they went into mission service in Africa. Others of the congregation became associated directly with various activities, helping in other countries and in other areas of America. The church led their area in per capita involvement in missions. If we are really sincere in our Christian faith, we must obey Jesus' command to help others. Our reward is the freedom of abundant life.

PRAYER Father, we ask for the strength necessary to meet the needs of others. In Jesus' name. Amen. THOUGHT FOR THE DAY When we are serving others, we are serving God.—Henry C. Brock Jr. (Fresno, California)

Nurses serve the community through nursing homes, public health, educational institutions, hospitals, doctors' offices, clinics, private duty and industries. Nurses Week motto is "Your Health is Our Concern." Tawas Hospital will be celebrating Nurses Week by presenting classes for women on self-breast examination. LOOKING BACKWARD— Tawas Lake Dam Has Court Hearing 15 Years Ago— October 2, 1963—Hearing on a proposed tax assessment district to finance construction of a Tawas Lake dam has been adjourned to a later date by Circuit Judge Richard G. Smith of Bay City. This action followed testimony of E. H. (Bert) Stickney, drain commissioner, who reported a modification of the proposed assessment district. A new county canvassing board was appointed by the Iosco County Board of Supervisors. Organized under a new provision of the state constitution, two Republicans and two Democrats were named to the board. The board has responsibility for tabulating returns and checking ballots after local elections. Members are C. L. McLean and Fred Holzheuer of Hale, Republicans; Arden Charters of Whittemore and Harold Peterson of Tawas City, Democrats.

Sixteenth annual AuSable River Valley Canoe Race is to be held Saturday and Sunday on a 240-mile course from Grayling to Oscoda. Carl Thunberg's team in the recent Tawas Chamber of Commerce membership campaign will eat 'steaks at the expense of a team captained by Arthur Wugazer. The losers will eat hot dogs. Members who took part in the campaign are to attend a dinner held at Anthony DeFillippi's hunting camp.

25 Years Ago— October 2, 1953—The 49-member school site committee of Tawas Area School District will present its findings on proposed sites for the new school building at next week's meeting of the board of education. Findings of the committee will benefit the board of education in determining whether any of the proposed sites are practical for school purposes. Wednesday marked the official opening of improved M-65 into Whittemore. That city celebrated the event with formal ceremonies and a luncheon at the Whittemore Hotel. It was the opinion of everyone present that there should be continuous "plugging" for the completion of M-65 to Hale.

G. Pearce, assisted by the Reverend Tromley of AuSable, the Reverend Griffith and the Reverend Hastings of Tawas City, officiating. His remains were taken to Ososco for interment. The now yellowed files of The Tawas Herald recorded this unusual story of the young attorney, who was guided to a new calling as an ordained minister during an 18-86 religious revival right in this community. No explanation was given for his leaving the ministry 20 years later.

Production of pulpwood and excelsior is essential to the country's war effort.

Area Health Problems to Get Hearing

A meeting is to be held at 7:30 Thursday evening, September 28, at the county building at West Branch to allow the public to express their opinions on the health problems of the four-county area served by District Health Department No. 2. The reason for this meeting is to comply with the new public health code which requires annual public hearings to be conducted by local health officers to determine which specific health problems will be provided state matching funds for the fiscal year beginning October 1, 1979. Those interested in providing health services, not necessarily by health department, should plan to attend. Written comments must be postmarked by October 1 and will be accepted at the main office in West Branch from citizens of the four counties served. Three classes of problems to be considered are health system problems, such as health service shortages; health status, and environmental problems, such as pollution of inland lakes from toxic chemicals and improper sewage disposal. Each person will be allowed five minutes to present a proposal and five additional minutes for discussion for a total of 10 minutes each.

The final section of force main was set into place Thursday at the new pumping station south of the Tawas River bridge which will serve this growing business and residential area of the community. The project included 3,380 feet of water mains and 1,100 feet of sewer mains with two pumping stations.

Raised Funds for Original Building Tawas Hospital Association Dissolved; Founded in 1946

The dissolution of the Tawas Hospital Association was announced September 20 by John Hosbach, president. The association was formed in 1946 for the purpose of promoting better health care for the area's residents. They planned and brought into reality the Tawas Hospital, opening its doors in June 1953. The association, under leadership of Dr. John LeClair, worked long and hard in raising funds and planning the original building and has since provided counsel and community input to the hospital on an active basis.
 The association induced the Sisters of St. Joseph of Nazareth to provide the professional management of the hospital and entered into an indenture agreement April 1, 1953, assigning all assets, including the land and buildings to the St. Joseph Order to provide reasonable health care to the citizens of this community. This agreement matured on April 1, 1978, and the complete sponsorship of the hospital was turned over to the Sisters of St. Joseph at that time.
 In the dissolution statement, the members offered their services both collectively and individually to the hospital board of trustees, Sisters of St. Joseph and to the community to further expand the hospital services and to assist in obtaining professional personnel and doctors. The resolution was signed by the current membership: Hosbach, Robert Bolen, John Brugger, Susan Rose, Paul Chevis, Herbert Cholger, Shirley Daugherty, Thomas Huck, E. D. Jacques, William McKulsy, George Myles, Timothy O'Connor and Walter Schultz.

Present Foster Home Program Opposed by Judge

Probate Judge William McCready said Thursday that he remains opposed to Iosco County's involvement with two adjacent counties in contracting with Community Family and Home Services for providing group foster homes.

At Wednesday's meeting of the Iosco County Board of Commissioners, representatives of the Alpena-based agency indicated that the judge may be alone in his opposition.

At its last previous meeting, the county board of commissioners, on recommendation of Judge McCready, adopted a resolution notifying the state that it intended to withdraw from the present arrangement with Arenac and Ogemaw Counties for providing group foster care on a joint basis.

Two years ago, acting on recommendation of departments of social services and boards of commissioners, the three counties notified the state child care agency at Lansing that the three counties were entering a cooperative program. Under state law, each county with a population less than 75,000 is entitled to $10,000 annually in state funds for foster care and, by forming an area agency, each county was allocated an additional $5,000 by the state.

An advisory board for the three counties, comprised of probate judges, departments of social services and county boards of commissioners from the three counties, contracted with Community Family and Home Services to provide group foster care homes to serve all three counties.

Judge McCready has maintained that the advisory board agreed to locate licensed homes in each of the three counties and to have them in operation by December 1976.

The local judge maintains that it was August 1977 before the first group foster care home became available and that resulted when the Arenac County Department of Social Services made its home available at Omer. Only one bed was available there as three beds had already been filled by the department of social services during its previous operation, said McCready.

The second group foster care home was opened in December 1977, when Ogemaw County located an old farm home near Rose City. The judge said that a new sewage system was required as a septic tank could not be used, along with new electrical wiring and heating.

Judge McCready is of the opinion that Family and Home Services has lagged behind in finding a group foster care home in this county and said he was not satisfied with other services provided by that agency. He said that of the four persons committed to the Alpena agency, only three were placed in group foster homes.

In spite of the fact that Iosco is "locked" in the cooperative program for another two years, Judge McCready said that "as of last August, I told the advisory board that I would not waste any more of my time attending meetings. The program could be worthwhile if the contractor did something."

The judge said there are not enough beds available for child foster care and, when children are taken out of homes, "I would rather place them locally than to send them to some other part of the state. Community Family and Home Services is supposed to provide counseling service with parents, according to the contract," said McCready.

James Finley of Community Family and Home Services told the Iosco Board of Commissioners Wednesday that others on the advisory board did not share the judge's views. He said that the principal delay in finding a third group foster care home was because of state licensing regulations. He said, too, that the agency had advertised through 90 churches in the three counties for potential group homes. He felt that the delay was not due to a "lack of energy" on the part of the contractual agency.

Benson (Pete) Beck, director of Iosco Department of Social Services, told commissioners that it was almost impossible to find potential group foster care homes.

William Thorpe of the Arenac County Department of Social Services, expressed the opinion that the present program was saving considerable money for the three counties. He said that the 2,520 days of individual care received last year would have cost more than $75,000. He said that about 40 percent of the $45,000 funding at present goes to the foster care homes.

Thorpe said that Iosco County received 720 days of foster care service last year, which would have cost this county $21,000. He said that the present $45,000 would only take care of two homes and there was not enough money available for a third home.

Beck thought the three-county effort was an inexpensive program. He said the four-bed group home at Oscoda has a $32,847 annual budget. This home is administered and funded by the state and cares for young people from various parts of the state.

John Bowman of Community Family and Home Services said that the agency provides important counseling service to the child and his parent, which he felt was the key to the success of any group foster care program.

Thorpe told Iosco commissioners that the Arenac County Board of Commissioners was in favor of the program.

Hay Buyers-Sellers Benefit from Listings

Listing forms are now available through the Iosco County Extension office for persons wishing to buy or sell hay.

"This is the first of a series of listings to be collected from throughout the state that will be published in booklet form throughout the hay marketing season," says Dr. Zane Helsel, Michigan State University Extension agronomist. The booklet, "Michigan Hay Information Clearing House," was published and distributed in Michigan five times last winter. This activity is part of the Michigan forage production and marketing task force which seeks to improve state hay marketing.
