

Monday's Consolidation Election Brought

Decisive 'NO' from East Tawas Voters

For the second time in a little more than a decade, proposed merger of the Tawas into a single home rule city has been rejected by voters.

Instead of losing by only four votes as it did on April 1, 1968, the merger question presented Monday to voters met a decisive defeat.

Eleven years ago, Tawas City voters rejected the proposal by a slim margin, while voters of East Tawas gave a two to one majority for consolidation.

There was a complete reversal in Monday's election as Tawas City voters favored the proposal by a margin of slightly more than two to one, while East Tawas rejected the idea by more than a three to one ratio.

Actual count on election night saw 338 "yes" and 141 "no" votes in Tawas City, with 232 "yes" and 762 "no" votes at East Tawas.

While rain and a definite lack of interest in the proposal saw only 479 of Tawas City 1,046 voters going to the polls, a last minute blitz by those opposing the merger at East Tawas saw 994 of East Tawas' 1,785 voters in the city's active registration file going to the polls. This turnout represented 76 percent of East Tawas' total registration list. Last November, 71 percent of Tawas City voters turned out to defeat the city hall-library-fire hall proposal by only four votes.

Through Monday's voter decision, the consolidation proposal met instant death. Approval would have meant that a charter commission would have been established to write a charter requiring approval by voters in each community before merger was accomplished.

The latest merger proposal was commenced in 1976 and led to petitions being filed with the State Boundary Commission. A lengthy legal process, including two public hearings, was required before the boundary commission determined that petitions were sufficient to call an election.

Before the boundary commission established an election date for selecting charter commission members, a drive was started by East Tawas City Clerk Clyde Soper to obtain petitions forcing the consolidation question to an immediate vote of the people.

Anti-merger forces at East Tawas called the "Our Town Committee" made a complete, ward-by-ward canvass of the city last weekend to convince voters to defeat the proposal. This included distribution of a pamphlet listing reasons why the merger should not take place.

One of the major reasons for that opposition at East Tawas was the contention that operation of a single city would actually be more expensive than under the present two cities.

Soper said Tuesday morning that his committee, at the start of its activity only about a month ago, had honestly sat down and attempted to list all the advantages and disadvantages which might result from a merger of the two communities. He said the disadvantages far outweighed advantages for people of East Tawas.

The East Tawas Council and East Tawas Volunteer Fire Department went on record as opposing the merger and took an active part in the community-wide canvass last week-end.

On the other hand, the only group actively pushing for the merger was a committee of the Tawas City Business Association headed by Brent Babcock, who was instrumental in circulating petitions for presentation to the boundary commission in 1976 and, since then, has actively pushed for a merger.

Babcock and his committee had urged both communities to approve the question Monday and permit a charter commission to come up with answers to questions.

The committee maintained that having a single community would cut down on duplication of services.

The merger question apparently has been settled for some time to come by voters.

ANOTHER old landmark is disappearing this week with the razing of the old East Tawas water tower at the city park. The storage tank has served the city for about 75 years, but has been surplus to the water system's needs since construction of a new 500,000-gallon storage tank on Lincoln Street.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Council Amends Sewer District

Acting on the objection of a property owner, Tawas City Council Monday night amended a proposed special assessment district for sewer construction by deleting two lots.

In January, the council established special assessment district No. 1 to serve 19 lots in the second addition to the Elms Subdivision. Estimated cost of the project was $38,000.

At a public hearing held Monday night by the council, Carl B. Babcock appeared before the council to voice his objection to expansion of the district.

Babcock and Allen McCall had petitioned the water board for the sewer extension on November 29, but asked that only five lots be served. By the time the proposal reached the council, the city's engineering consultant had expanded the project to serve 19 lots.

Babcock said that he owned 47 percent of the property involved and objected to expanding its scope beyond the original petition.

Two lots owned by Babcock were excluded from the project, along with three other lots which are served by other sewer mains under different ownership.

This action reduced total cost of the project to approximately $33,000. Under council resolution, there would be no city participation in financing the project.

Cost of the project is to be based on the benefit to property owners. City Mgr. Lowell Thomas estimated that the cost would be approximately $29 to $30 per front foot, as compared to a $19 per foot cost in 1974.

The city assessor is to prepare a tax roll for the special assessment district to be presented at the next public hearing.

In other business, a Harris Avenue resident appeared before the council and complained that her basement had been flooded with water since the old bed of Dead Creek had been filled. The property owner claimed that a drainage tube under Harris Avenue had been blocked off during work by the city. The city manager is to investigate the matter.

A meeting is to be held Wednesday night with representatives of Tawas and Alabaster Townships to discuss a proposed new fire contract with those units.

Following a public hearing on rezoning of the former Hughes property acquired last year by the city, the city manager reported that a survey had not been made of the perimeter of the property. He felt that the boundaries of the property should be staked in order to reach an agreeable solution with persons who voiced objections at the public hearing.

The property had been zoned industrial when it was part of Tawas Township, but when annexed last year to the city, the land automatically reverted to residential status under terms of the city charter.

The city acquired the property for expansion of its industrial park and has been mentioned as a possible site for secondary sewage treatment lagoons.

Property owners along Margo Street have objected to changing the zoning designation to industrial. The 40-acre site is located north of the Detroit and Mackinac Railway right-of-way and adjoins the present industrial park on the west.

Permission was granted to Tawas Chamber of Commerce to use the city park for a fireworks display on July 4.

Council Looks for Citizen Volunteers

Tawas City Council is looking for public spirited citizens to serve on various appointive boards and commissions when vacancies appear from time to time.

A list of potential appointees received through registration of names at the city hall has now been expanded and the council encourages citizen participation in city matters by volunteering for service.

At Monday night's council meeting, John Majka was appointed to the zoning board of appeals to replace Bobbie Ann Kehoe, whose term expired and she did not desire reappointment.

Montgomery and Wingrove Winners

Monday's merger vote nearly overshadowed two hot races for East Tawas Council seats. Larry V. Wingrove defeated Wilbur C. Roach to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Ronald Klinger, 171-170. Wingrove will serve the Second Ward. Jacob Montgomery was re-elected to a two-year term as Third Ward alderman by defeating Dennis W. Link, 198-118. George Staudacher was re-elected First Ward alderman without opposition. Other unopposed candidates included Robert Bolen, mayor, 902 votes; Grace Pelton, treasurer, 918 votes; Clyde Soper, clerk, 907 votes.

Announce US-23 Projects Slated for Present-Future

A five-phase program scheduling significant improvements to US-23 between Standish and Alpena has been announced. The improvements should substantially increase the ability of the highway to handle traffic demands in coming years.

The initial project, now scheduled for 1984-86, will be the upgrading of existing US-23 from near Standish northeast 11.5 miles to M-65, reports State Rep. Tom Alley of West Branch.

"This will be followed up by upgrading the existing road for another 39 miles to the north Iosco County line, from the south Alpena County line north 10 miles to M-72, from M-72 north 14 miles to the north Alpena County line and finally, from the south Alpena line northeast 19 miles to the existing US-23," reports Alley.

Alley said additional repair and maintenance projects are scheduled for the next year along existing US-23. The projects include:

Resurfacing, including full-width bituminous shoulders, from the south Iosco County line north 8.5 miles to M-55;

Resurfacing, including full-width bituminous shoulders, from 1.6 miles north of M-55 north 13.5 miles to Oscoda;

Resurfacing, including full-width bituminous shoulders, from 0.7 miles north of Oscoda north 5.4 miles to the north county line;

Widening to five lanes from Bear Point Road north 1.4 miles to the south city limits of Alpena;

Pavement replacement in Alpena from the south city limits north 2.2 miles to Eleventh Avenue.

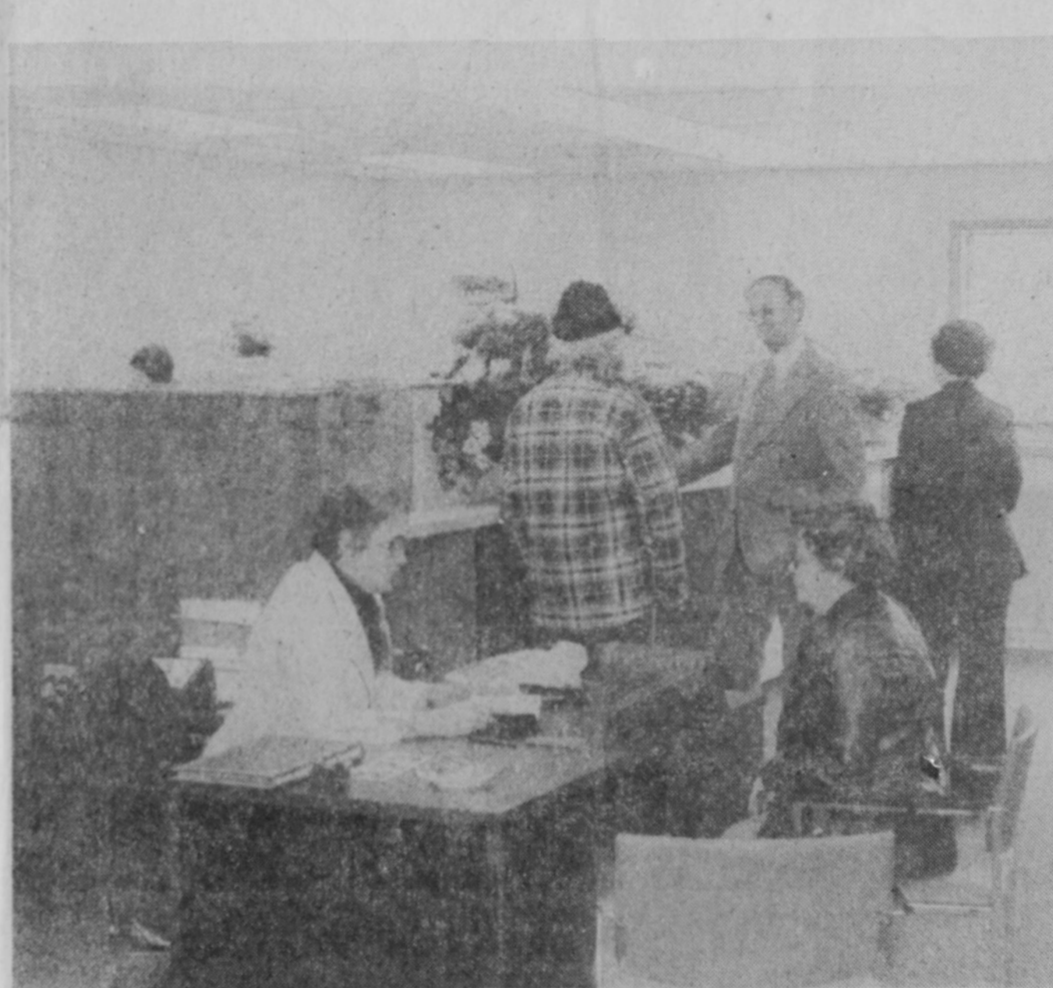

Hearings on Implementation of Proposal E Provisions

Alpena Community College is one of three sites around the state selected by the state senate finance committee for hearings on Senate Bill No. 202 which will implement Proposal E's (Headlee amendment) property tax millage rollback adopted by voters last November.

The hearing for this region is to be held April 27, 1:00 p. m. in Room 150 of the Natural Resources Building at Alpena Community College. Senate Bill 202 requires each unit of local government to reduce its maximum authorized millage rate when assessments on existing property increase by more than the increase in the prior year's average consumer price index.

The revenue limitation and millage reduction are affected by multiplying the maximum authorized rate by a millage rollback fraction. This fraction is calculated using the unit's current and prior year's (See SENATE BILL, page 2.)

Citizens Ask Council to

Amend Junk Car Ordinance to Permit Controlled Repair

Tawas City's junk car ordinance is to be amended to permit citizens to repair or restore automobiles on their property for a reasonable period of time and not to be in violation of the city code.

This action was taken Monday night following lengthy discussion between councilmen and several citizens, who protested present provisions of the ordinance adopted February 19.

That ordinance made it unlawful to park or for an owner of property to permit any junked, inoperable, wrecked or abandoned motor vehicle on any property unless the vehicle bears a valid and current registration and license plate.

Under the proposed amendment, any property owner or vehicle owner cited under the ordinance could appear before the city manager and present information as to the specific time period the repair or restoration work could reasonably expect to be completed.

This action was urged by Alvin

Call of Murphy Street, who had been cited last year under the city's previous junk car ordinance. Call said he and his sons were in the process of restoring two cars on their property and believed it unfair to require the cars to have license plates before work was completed. He said, too, that his daughter was in military service and that she was leaving for an overseas assignment. Provisions of the ordinance, he said, would prohibit storage of her car on his property after expiration of the license plate.

Call said that his neighbors had never complained about the fact that he and his sons worked on their cars outdoors. City Clerk Rachel Sue McCreedy pointed out, however, that a complaint had been received at the city hall concerning the cars on Call's property and it was for that reason he was cited under the old ordinance.

A number of property owners were cited last fall under the city's former junk car ordinance and Call believed that he had been singled out for harassment. He presented a number of pictures to the council Monday night showing 70 inoperable vehicles parked at other locations in the city.

Lowell Thomas, who took over his new position as city manager last month, said that no property owners had been cited as yet under the new ordinance but indicated that, sooner or later, all violations would be cited.

Coun. Donald Hayes believed that property owners should be given a reasonable length of time to restore or repair automobiles on their property and believed that the city should act on each case individually.

Hayes' motion, with an amendment turning the matter over to the city manager to make a decision on whether a vehicle in violation of the ordinance would be permitted or not, was unanimously adopted by the council.

Memorial Held Tuesday for Veteran D&M Bd. Chairman

Charles A. Pinkerton Jr., under whose guidance the Detroit and Mackinac Railway has long been one of the most successful short line railroads in the country, died Saturday, March 31, following a lingering illness.

Following cremation, a memorial service was held Tuesday afternoon at Christ Episcopal Church, East Tawas.

Born at East Tawas October 4, 1910, he graduated from East Tawas High School in 1928. He received a bachelor degree from Michigan State College.

He was married to the former Margaret Feige of Saginaw on April 27, 1934.

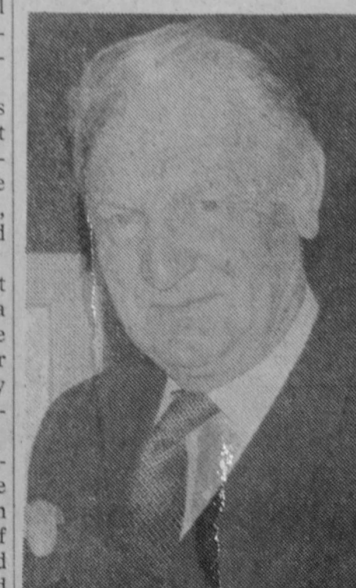

He represented Chrysler Corporation for 1½ years in Southeast Asia and on his return to the United States was called to active duty with the United States Army at the time of this country's entry into World War II. After service in the Pacific Theater, he returned home a full colonel.

Mr. Pinkerton became general manager of the Detroit and Mackinac Railway in 1945, rose to president and finally chairman of the board of the railroad, a position which he held at the time of his death.

He had served as president of the Short Line Railroad Association, was a member of Christ Episcopal Church of East Tawas, a director of Second National Bank of Saginaw and was active in establishment of Tawas Bay Yacht Club.

He was a member of the Detroit Athletic Club, the Detroit Club, the Saginaw Club and the 7-A Men's Club.

He is survived by his wife and one son, Charles A. Pinkerton III.

Tawas City's Application for Federal River Mouth Funding Denied by HUD

Hopes for development of the mouth of the Tawas River through federal funding were dashed last week with receipt of an announcement that the local project had a ranking of 41 out of more than 47 projects submitted for preapplication under the Small Cities Program.

A letter to the city from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) said that grant requests in Michigan totaled $34,982,562 and only $5,267,000 was available for funding all requests. Available funding was exhausted by the highest 15 projects, stated Stephen W. Brown, HUD's area manager.

"Many Michigan localities had very high percentages of poverty and substandard housing conditions. In addition, many communities proposed projects directly related to benefits for low and moderate income persons. Under the regulations and selection system, those localities must be given first priority," said Brown.

The city, through its parks and recreation board, submitted a comprehensive project seeking $850,000 in HUD funds to develop boat launching and harbor facilities on city-owned property located on the east side of the river mouth, along with proposed purchase of the west side of the river mouth for trailer park development.

"Although your preapplication proposed eligible activities, we are unable to approve it or invite a full application because the total amount of fund requests in Michigan exceeded the allocation," said Brown.

City officials submitted the pre-application to HUD with full realization that, at best, it had only an outside chance for approval. Application has also been made under state-administered Land, Water Conservation Act funding for other projects.

Committee Suggests City's Old Well House Lot for Fire Barn

Utilization of a city-owned lot at the corner of First Avenue and North Street across from the athletic field was recommended Monday night as the site for a proposed new fire hall.

A verbal report from Arthur Ziehl and John Martin, two members of the committee appointed by Mayor Herbert Cholger, indicated that the site was more desirable than any other location studied by the committee, including the present city hall property.

A detailed report on the committee's recommendation is to be given at the next council meeting.

Ziehl said the committee based its recommendation on the fact that the property was already owned by the city, that it was located in a growing area of the city and was centrally located to serve high valuation buildings.

One of the basic faults with the site, said Ziehl, was the fact that a bridge was needed across the Tawas River at North Street along with a new bridge across Dead Creek on Sixth Avenue to provide faster access to those areas by fire equipment.

He believed that money saved by the fact that the site was already owned by the city could be utilized in bridge construction, which has been under consideration by the council for a number of years. Cost of a bridge on North Street and replacement of the Dead Creek bridge would cost approximately $60,000.

Ziehl said, too, that the proposed fire hall site was across the street from the athletic field, which has been discussed as a potential location for a new city hall. He said, however, that this fact had no bearing on its desirability.

City Mgr. Lowell Thomas asked if the committee had asked the state fire marshal's office for advice on its recommended site and Ziehl said that had not been done, although Fire Chief Herbert Blust had participated in reviewing potential locations.

Ziehl felt that the site would be of adequate size for a fire hall.

Last November, voters of the city rejected a proposal to build a new city hall-fire hall-library complex on the present city hall site by only 11 votes. Included in that proposal was purchase of property on the west side of the city hall for site expansion.

state equalized values, the inflation rate and the amount of new construction. When assessments on existing property increase faster than inflation, the fraction is less than one. The greater the assessment increase, the smaller the fraction and the lower the permitted millage rate.

Each year, the millage rollback fraction is adjusted for the current year's assessment increase and inflation rate. If the assessment increase exceeds the inflation rate two or more years in a row, the millage rollback fraction and the allowable millage rate are reduced further each year. In a year when no additional millage reduction is required, the allowable millage may only be increased to the extent necessary to allow taxes on existing property to increase by the inflation rate.

The bill defines the current year and the inflation rate. Millage for existing bond issues and debt millage approved by voters after December 22, 1978, are not subject to the millage reduction provision.

The millage reduction is calculated separately for millage authorized for a specific purpose. Voters are allowed to approve a tax levy greater than the allowable millage rate set by the act. The millage reduction is recalculated when a unit's state equalized value is changed by the Michigan Tax Tribunal as a result of a county equalization appeal.

One section requires a millage reduction when the State Tax Commission increases a taxing unit's value through state equalization. The reduction prevents state equalization from increasing the tax revenues of a local unit. Schools are not subject to this millage reduction.

Chicago Bank Successful Bidder on Iosco's Bonds

First National Bank of Chicago, Illinois, was low bidder in providing general obligation limited tax notes to finance Iosco County's tax revolving fund.

The firm entered an interest rate of 5.78286 percent for providing $1,275,000 in bonds over a three-year period.

These bonds finance the county's special revolving fund adopted last year which makes a complete pay-off of delinquent taxes due schools and local units of government.

Delinquent property taxes, amounting to $1,153,490.87 during 1978, are paid directly to the county treasurer to retire the bonds.

County Treas. Edward Nelkie said that the county would earn approximately $28,000 the first year through reinvestment of the money. The interest money goes into the revolving fund.

Three other bids received on the bonds were as follows: Manly McDonald and Company, 5.907 percent interest; Michigan National Bank of Lansing, 5.9109 percent interest; National Bank of Detroit, 5.85675 percent interest.

under the direction of Mrs. Bergh for its spring performance. Recently, the chorus entertained the residents of Provincial House and will be singing for the American Association of Retired Persons Wednesday, April 4, and the Quota Club in May.

Organizations desiring to have the chorus entertain at a meeting or dinner, or anyone interested in singing with the group may contact Nancy Ochodnicki, 362-8706.

PARENTS ASKED FOR HA KINDERGARTNER'S NAMES

Parents of children who will be five years old before December 1 are asked to call Hale Elementary School so that the child's name may be included in the kindergarten class for the fall of 1979.

This year, the school has divided its kindergarten registration and round up into three parts. The first part will be Thursday, April 19, for parents only. School records and immunization (which must be completed before fall) will be recorded at that time. A two-day student visitation will also be scheduled during April and May. This helps the child and teacher to adjust to one another. The third screening, August 21 and 22, will include various tests to help the school personnel know the child better, especially in the areas of language development, fine motor skills, vision and hearing.

Scheduled times for registration at the elementary office on Thursday, April 19, are: Last names beginning with A-M, from 8:40-10:40 a. m.; last names beginning with N-Z, from 10:40 a. m.-12:00 noon.

Gregory S. Pickett has completed studies at Ferris State College and received an associate in applied science degree in pesticide technology.

Hale area senior citizens and retirees will hold their quarterly meeting Friday, April 6, 1:00 p. m., at the center on M-65.

During the last year schools were operating as individual districts, the total cost was $28,089.08.

An Equal Opportunity Employer

A Businessman Believed:

'THE MONEY FELT FUNNY'

(It WAS Funny Money!)

A $20 BILL just did not have the "right feel" to it, arousing the suspicions of a Tawas City service station owner at right. His report to local police during the deer hunting season of 1961 foiled the biggest bogus money caper in area history.

During the mad rush of deer hunters to Michigan's northern regions each November, anything can and often does happen. The hunting season of 1961 is remembered here as the "year of the bogus $20 bills" and how a young gasoline station operator's alertness foiled passage of the major portion of worthless paper throughout Northeastern Michigan.

Traffic was still quite heavy with deer hunters on Wednesday, November 15, 1961, and the Tawas, along with every other community in deer hunting territory, were looking forward to the coming week-end when the area would be filled with red-suited hunters.

The hunting season which opened that morning had drawn fewer downstate hunters than usual, due to the mid-week opening, but local taverns, gasoline stations and stores still reported a fair business.

A Wyandotte man escaped serious injury that morning when he was struck in the leg by fragments from an exploding bullet and two hunters spent the rainy night in the woods; other than that, the season had not been marred by any other serious incident.

In Tawas City, James Sheehan was on duty at his service station south of the Tawas River bridge. Business was not too brisk that afternoon and he was working on a car in one of the station's maintenance bays when the clang-clang of the pneumatic bell ringer across the drive announced that a customer was waiting at the gasoline pumps.

A man dressed in hunting clothing and not appearing any different than hundreds of others passing through this area on opening day asked, Sheehan to "fill 'er up." Sheehan complied and was handed a brand new $20 bill to pay for the purchase.

"The bill just did not feel right to me. It did not have any body to it," Sheehan later recalled. And because of this feeling, he jotted down the license number of the car.

"I became suspicious even before he handed me that bill. There was just something about him that caused me to look at the license plate on his car. He saw me studying his license plate, but did not say anything," he told police later in the day.

When the driver pulled away, Sheehan immediately called the state police post at East Tawas and Det. LeRoy McCluer picked up the bill and took it to Peoples State Bank where it was placed under close scrutiny.

Despite the fact that the bill "did not feel right," it could not be determined immediately if it was counterfeit and police checked with the secret service at Detroit.

In the meantime, Detective McCluer followed a hunch and stopped at local newspapers to inquire if printers had any "feeling for funny money." A powerful magnifying glass used in The Tawas Herald's darkroom for inspection of half-tone negatives during development was trained on the reverse side of the bill. The remark was made that it "probably was the poorest engraving ever turned out by the federal government" as the 10-power glass showed that the usually crisp lines on federal currency were fuzzy on this bill.

Detective McCluer was interrupted in his conversation with the printers by a call from the East Tawas post. The gasoline station attendant reported that he had absolute confirmation that the bill was counterfeit.

McCluer drove to Sheehan's station where he learned that Edgar Jenkins, an East Tawas gift shop operator, stopped at the station to make a purchase.

Jenkins paid for his purchase with a $20 bill from his pocket. Sheehan told the customer, "I just turned one like this over to the state police. It looks counterfeit."

The bills were compared and it was discovered that both had the same serial number, G35698629B. The "hunter" had passed the bill to Jenkins when he stopped at the gift shop on his way north.

Closer examination of the bill revealed that the counterfeiter had used a ball point pen to simulate red fibers found in federal currency. Although the paper was of a lighter weight than federal currency, it was amazingly close to the "real thing." The real tip-off under close scrutiny, however, was the fact that serial numbers were identical and the quality of engraving was extremely poor.

That was the beginning of the end for the counterfeiter as state police immediately went on the air with the wanted suspect's description and listed the car's license number. Alpena city police closed the net a few hours later on a downtown street.

What local police and the gasoline station attendant did not know at the time was that the suspect had two loaded revolvers in his possession.

When apprehended by Alpena police, the counterfeiter still had $46,000 in bogus money in his car. He had left a trail of "funny money" from Bay City to Alpena.

If it had not been for the service station attendant's alertness, the counterfeiter might not have been apprehended. "He could have just disappeared, leaving a trail of bogus money," said one of the secret service agents assigned to the case. "Equipped with the license number and his description, it was relatively easy for the police to close the net on him."

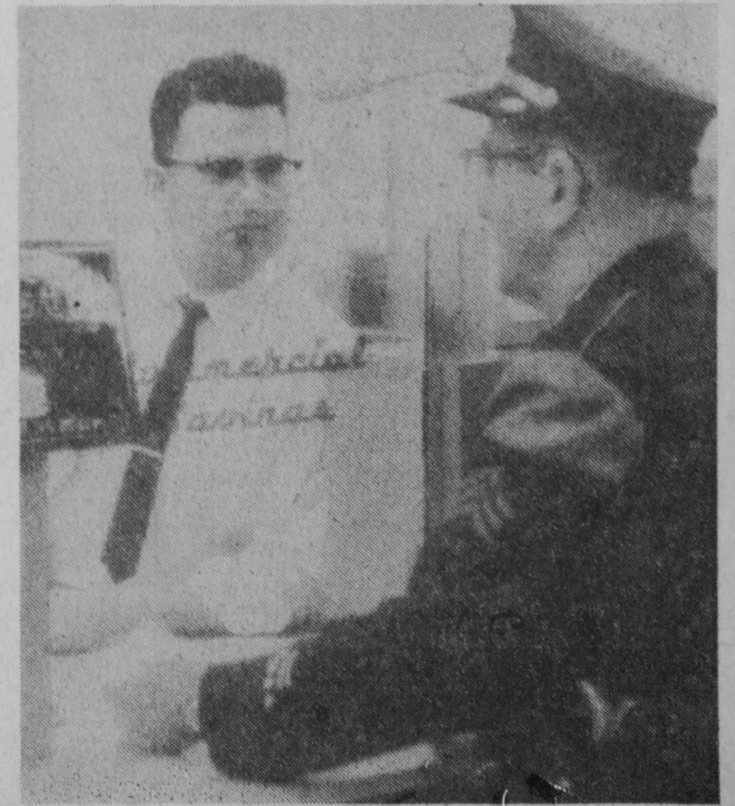

In the meantime, police spent several days chasing down the bogus bills as they were being reported by area merchants and banks.

One of the local victims in the counterfeit bill caper turned out to be the late Frank Roti, who was then the sergeant in command of the state police post at East Tawas. He had cashed his Christmas Club check at the local bank and was later asked by McCluer to "compare one of his good bills with one of the bogus bills."

When Roti pulled out his wallet, he found that he had received a counterfeit bill when he cashed his check. That was one piece of bogus money that the bank redeemed.

FEDERAL AGENTS hustled the counterfeiter off to a date in federal court at Bay City the next morning. When captured, he still had $46,000 in bogus money in his possession.—Tawas Herald Photo.

ONE OF THE PERSONS who received a counterfeit bill was the late Frank Roti, commander of the local state police post. He cashed a check at the local bank and received a bogus $20 bill in the currency. Roti is shown redeeming his loss at the window of Bud Rick, then a bank teller.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Adding Life to Years

Adding life to years, rather than adding years to life—that was the philosophy behind the role of the Iosco County Medical Care Facility when it was dedicated to the public in August 1965.

That role has not changed today, although sometimes it is not fully understood when comparisons are made between costs for operating a nursing home and that of a medical care facility.

Although nursing home provisions are included in the medical care facility's role, one of its principal functions is to provide skilled nursing to care for and rehabilitate, if possible, chronically ill persons. That high ideal is not always fruitful, but there have been many notable instances where patients have returned home after treatment and have been rehabilitated to a point where they live to enjoy their declining years.

To compare the medical care facility's role with that provided by a private nursing home is like trying to compare apples and oranges—both are important, but they are vastly different.

This corner makes mention of the above to promote a cooling off process in the current debate on the county board of commissioners concerning operation of the county medical care facility. The actual role of the county facility should be fully understood by officials, as well as the public, before comparisons are made.

The role of the almighty dollar in carrying out programs of social welfare is also important and judgment must be made on fact and conscience. There is still plenty of time in the coming months for all to become fully acquainted with these facts before decisions are made on future budgets.

Headlee Problems Predictable

Adoption of the Headlee Amendment to the state constitution last November by Michigan voters is causing more commotion and confusion at Lansing and throughout the state than even the dire prediction forecast in these columns last fall.

What well-intentioned politicians and voters read in the language of proposed amendments does not necessarily hold true in the final legal analysis, especially when the language is interpreted by a corps of attorneys and eventually by the courts.

In the meantime, the state legislature is scrambling to "define and defy" the language of the amendment in order to protect pet legislative projects.

Workshops are currently being held around the state to acquaint county, township and municipal officials with provisions of the act. It is a guessing game at this point.

The effect of the Headlee amendment at the local level is going to be stupendous as there will be a tremendous restriction in normal revenue growth.

At the county level, for instance, costs will be increasing, but additional revenue will not be forthcoming. Additional work will be necessary in the county's tax equalization department where additional assessment rolls will be required according to classification and it will take the proverbial Philadelphia lawyer to equalize the county under Headlee guidelines.

At the county level, the operational budget is being studied in order to determine where cuts can be legally made in certain services, when and if it is necessary after a final determination is made on language of the amendment.

It can be expected that some of those definitions will be challenged in court and that will be a lengthy process.

Highlights And Sidelights

Bill Would Make Breakfasts Optional

LANSING—Asserting that implementation of the state-mandated school breakfast program will cut deeply into school districts' operating budgets, State Sen. Robert D. Young has introduced legislation to make the program optional.

"Many school districts in our state—and our taxpayers who support them—are already finding it difficult to meet their present obligations, let alone any additional costs," the Saginaw solon noted. "Implementation of this program will place just another heavy burden upon the shoulders of our state's taxpayers."

"Under the state law adopted in 1977, breakfasts must be offered during the current school year in districts where half the students are defined as needy under family income standards. The percentage of needy students would be lowered to 30 percent by the 1980-81 school year and to 20 percent after 1981.

"I am not arguing that there is no need for a school breakfast program in some areas of the state, but I certainly question the need for it in virtually every school district," Young noted. "This should be a local option as my bill would provide."

Senator Young said he seriously doubted that many parents would want to get their children up earlier and send them off to school to have breakfast, which would require hiring supervisory personnel for early arrivals. "Breakfast is a family responsibility which I think few parents would want to give up."

Young feels that schools are for educating, not babysitting. "I am sympathetic to the need of children for nutritious food, but feeding youngsters two out of their three meals a day is going too far. The state is taking away basic family responsibilities and eroding the value of the home. We must realize that we cannot and should not try to provide everything."

TODAY'S Meditation

The Upper Room
(Read Proverbs 15:1-9)
"A soft answer turneth away wrath: but grievous words stir up anger." (Proverbs 15:1)

One day as we were motoring to a distant church, we stopped when we saw an accident. The two drivers were having an argument over who was responsible. A reddening face showed one man's increasing anger. He began to realize that he was wrong but was unwilling to admit it. His arguments rose to floods of abuse.

His bitterness gradually began to vanish when the other man said to him, "I am sorry your automobile is so badly damaged."

Having heard all the conversation, I was amazed at the unexpected turn of events. I asked the speaker to explain. He replied, "I am a Christian and I believe that a soft answer turns away wrath."

I have valued the lesson I learned that day, although practicing it has been difficult at times. It is so easy to get angry and to return hard words for hard words. But, trying to see the other person's point of view and speaking a soft word is always best.

Rep. Bob Davis Opposes Carter Gasoline Program

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Northern Michigan Congressman Robert Davis has urged his colleagues in the United States House of Representatives to join him in opposing the president's stand-by emergency week-end sales restrictions on gasoline and the stand-by gasoline rationing plan.

Davis introduced a resolution expressing the congress' disapproval of those points of the plan submitted to congress on March 1.

"The president has totally ignored all citizens living in rural areas. He could not have even taken into consideration the fact that some people could not get to a doctor, or a store, or even to work on the little amount of gasoline that the plans would allow citizens."

Davis said the president's plan would be totally devastating to the tourist industry in Michigan—the second largest industry in the state. According to the Michigan State Travel Bureau, tourism is ranked among the top three state industries in 43 of the nation's 50 states. Despite this important economic impact, the Automobile Association of America says that only 2.9 percent of the gasoline consumed in this country is used for recreational purposes.

"A recent report released by the Department of Energy indicates that a ban on week-end sales of gasoline would not save a significant amount of gas. In fact, the study concludes that reduced hours of operation of stations should be discouraged, if not prohibited. Week-end closures would mean nothing more than inconvenience, long lines on weekdays and the destruction of week-end recreation in Northern Michigan and everywhere else in this country," Davis noted.

Plan Mother-Daughter Banquet

Plans for a mother-daughter banquet were made during the business meeting of Baptist Women's Missionary Society Tuesday, March 27. Mrs. Paul Beyer presided at the session and Mrs. Henry Frye, vice president, presented a program on the American Baptist Murrow Indian Home in Oklahoma. Mrs. Michael Russell dedicated the love gift.

Lois McCready, exchange student to Africa during the last school term, spoke to the group at the March 6 meeting on her experiences while in Africa and displayed pictures.

Mrs. Clarence Pierson and Mrs. Ervin Biggs hosted the first meeting and Mrs. George Westcott and Mrs. Paul Sayles, the recent meeting.

Mental Health Board Meeting

Our Day
FOR AND ABOUT
IOSCO TEEN-AGERS

WHITEMORE HIGH ROLLERS, a team of five boys from Whittemore-Prescott Area School, won first place in the prep division of the Michigan Youth Bowling Association. The team's three-game total at Hale Creek Lanes was 2969. Standing from left are Chris Dobson, Milton Edmonds and Capt. Jeff O'Farrell. In front are Andy Hess and Troy Bronson. The boys will be going to Taylor Lanes on May 19-20 for state competition.

SUE ANN ALEXANDER

JAMES DUBOVSKY

Honor Graduates
at Tawas A. High

Determination of the two top honor graduates for 1979 is announced this week by Tawas Area High School.

Sue Ann Alexander, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Alexander of East Tawas, is the valedictorian and James Dubovsky, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Dubovsky, also of East Tawas, is salutatorian.

With a perfect 4.0 grade point average, Sue Ann has been commended in the National Merit Scholarship competition and she is a semifinalist in the Michigan Mathematics Prize competition.

She is president of the National Honor Society, treasurer of the student council, has participated in track for four years, a cheerleader for three years, band for two years and a member of the varsity club for three years. Her hobbies include sailing and skiing.

She will attend Michigan Technological University in the metallurgical engineering curriculum.

James has a 3.97 grade point average during his high school career and is a member of the National Honor Society.

He has lettered two years in basketball and was a member of the Braves varsity basketball team which reached the state semifinal game two weeks ago. He lettered for three years in baseball.

An outdoor enthusiast, he likes to hunt and fish.

James plans to attend Michigan State University to study engineering.

Tawas Bay Players Picked
as New Name

After lengthy discussion at the Monday, March 19, meeting, it was decided to change the name of Tawas Little Theatre to Tawas Bay Players. It is hoped that this will give the club a new perspective as an organization designed to serve the entire community.

Newly-elected president is June Hudgins and vice president-secretary, Karen St. James. Gale Wojahn will remain as treasurer. A committee was formed to look for a building to store props, hold meetings and have rehearsals. Another committee will select plays for the upcoming season.

Tryouts were held Thursday, Friday and Saturday for Neil Simon's comedy, "Barefoot In The Park" and due to poor response, the play has been postponed until the fall.

TODAY'S TEEN at Whittemore-Prescott Area High School is Cynthia Marie Kennedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kennedy. Her subjects this year include algebra II, vocational nurse's aide program and United States Government. She enjoys snow and water skiing, fishing, cooking, camping and basketball. She hopes to become a registered nurse.

Aliens Must Report
US Farm Holdings

Aliens who own or have a financial interest in more than one acre of United States farmland or who gross more than $1,000 from any plot of United States land must now report their holdings to the federal government, according to regulations issued by Robert Bergland, secretary of agriculture.

Under the regulations, aliens or foreign interests who owned farmland before February 6 must report ownership by August 6; those acquiring land after February 6 must report the transfer within 90 days.

Reports are made at the county office of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) in the county where the land is located. Failure to report could result in a fine of up to 25 percent of the property's assessed value.

For purposes of this report, the department considers agricultural land as any tract of more than one acre now in agricultural, forestry or timber production. This generally excludes small plots, such as household gardens.

Financial interest in agricultural land means any portion of ownership in farmland, such as partnership, trust or shares in a corporation that owns farmland.

Reporting forms are available in all of the approximately 2,700 ASCS county offices located in all 50 states and Puerto Rico.

Real estate dealers, farm managers, banks, holding companies or other institutions can report in behalf of foreign clients. Individuals or institutions that specialize in land holdings, transfer or management should contact their county ASCS office for details. Iosco County ASCS office is located in the Federal Building, East Tawas.

STEELHEAD FISHING opened Sunday on designated streams of Michigan, including two in Iosco County, the AuSable River from Lake Huron to Foote Dam and the East Branch of the AuGres River, from the Whitney Drain on Saginaw Bay to the M-55 bridge. The Tawas River, which is open to fishing the year around, could also be a hot spot for fishermen. Because of the expected heavy runs across the state, the current state steelhead record of 26 pounds, eight ounces, set in 1975, could be topped. Lake Huron's tributaries usually offer best steelheading from mid-April to mid-May.—Department of Natural Resources Photo.
