

Several Thousand Visitors Expected at Park and County Building

19th Annual Waterfront Show This Week-End

More than 200 artists and craftsmen will be exhibiting in the 19th annual two-day Tawas Bay Waterfront Art Show to be held Saturday and Sunday at the Tawas City Park and Iosco County Building.

This show, which attracted 43 entries when it was originated nearly two decades ago, is now considered one of the top art sales in Northern Michigan and annually attracts several thousand visitors.

Plans for this year's event were started immediately after last year's show by Tawas Bay Artists, the sponsoring organization.

Among those active in the preparations were Helen Hertzler and Pauline Peterson, who originated the show with Tawas Chamber of Commerce as first sponsor.

Mrs. Race, Mrs. Peterson, Betty Hammond, Betty Neepner and Mrs. Jurczyk will have charge of the show with Tawas Chamber of Commerce as first sponsor.

Graystone Building at the mouth of the Tawas River, has grown rapidly during the past several months and continued growth is expected.

The show is open to all amateur and professional artists and craftsmen, exhibiting only original items of their own design. In addition, special features include demonstrations which are always of interest to visitors.

Included in the outdoor exhibit area at the city park and county building will be original drawings and paintings, handmade jewelry, sculpture, pottery, ceramics, silk screen print making, photography, hand-tooled leather, weaving, creative candles and other crafts.

Work of artists is to be juried and limited by categories. Awards, ribbons and cash prizes are to be presented to exhibitors Sunday afternoon.

Registrations have been received from Michigan, Ohio, Florida, Arizona, Wisconsin and other states.

Tourism Program Planned at Oscoda

State Rep. Tom Alley, West Branch, has scheduled a two-day education-tourism program for August 14-15. The combination of meetings and tours will be based at the Redwood Motor Lodge, 3111 North US-23, Oscoda.

Alley has extended program invitations to educators and those involved in the tourist industry in the 105th House District. According to Alley, several other state representatives and house research staff are scheduled to take part in the program. Speaker Bobby Crim will be in attendance for a portion of the two-day seminar.

The program will include an educational workshop to discuss the mandated breakfast program in schools and the recently-approved school aid budget for fiscal 1979-80. It will also include a public hearing held by the House Tourist Industry Relations Committee to be held at the Oscoda Township Hall, 7:30 p. m. on Tuesday, August 14. The hearing will give the tourist business operators an opportunity to express concerns on present energy problems and how it has affected business in Northeast Michigan as well as legislation pending before the house of representatives related to tourism and possible creation of off-shore under water state park, etc.

"The education-tourism program will cover areas of vital concern to the 105th District," Alley said. "It is my hope that as many educators and persons involved in tourism as possible will take part in all or part of the program. I am sure they will find it highly informative and enjoyable."

New Traffic Ticket Being Issued Today

Motorists receiving traffic tickets beginning Wednesday (today) will be issued a new citation that conforms to the decriminalization of the Michigan Motor Vehicle Code.

Public Act 510 of 1978 was signed in law December 19, 1978, by Gov. William G. Milliken and changes many traffic violations that were previously misdemeanors into civil infractions.

Violations such as drunk driving, reckless driving and operator license infractions; among several others, will continue to be misdemeanors, according to state police traffic services officers.

Misdemeanor violations carry fines and possible jail sentences. The new civil infraction law will allow only fines to be assessed for violations. Motorists who receive civil citations will be required to contact the court in person, by mail or telephone to enter a plea.

Three pleas will be permitted to be entered: 1. An admission of responsibility; 2. An admission of responsibility with explanation; 3. A denial of responsibility, in which case an informal hearing date would be scheduled or, if specifically requested, a formal hearing date set.

The formal hearing would be held before a judge, magistrate or referee in which no attorneys may be present and formal rule of evidence would not apply. Determination of civil infraction responsibility would be based upon a preponderance of evidence rather than upon reasonable doubt as currently in criminal cases.

The formal hearing would be held before a judge and rules of evidence and decorum would apply as previously.

Initial reaction to the decriminalization of the traffic code by police has been one of support, according to Col. Gerald L. Hough, state police director.

"The police officer's duty will not be greatly affected by the new law and we expect this new law to reduce the present backing in the court system," he said.

Hough further said, "Another major change brought about by this law is that juveniles will be processed in district or municipal courts for civil violations."

Man Assaulted Protecting Flowers

A Whittemore man was assaulted Thursday morning while attempting to stop a man and a woman from digging up flowers in his yard.

Gwynne L. Clary told investigating officers a pickup truck pulled into his drive around 12:15 a. m. and, when he went out to investigate, a man and a woman were digging up his flowers.

After the pair ignored his order to stop digging, Clary began writing their vehicle license number on a piece of paper. He started back to the house, but was wrestled to the ground and the paper was taken away from him.

City Council Candidates to be Narrowed

PRIMARY ELECTION NEXT TUESDAY

Move Tawas City Polls Back to City Hall for This Election

Tawas City voters go to the polls in next Tuesday's primary election to select candidates for city offices in the November general election.

Polls are to be located at the city hall rather than the gymnasium of the elementary school, which has served that purpose for the past several years. Polls open at 7:00 a. m. and close at 8:00 p. m.

A total of 10 candidates filed for three vacancies on the council and the six candidates receiving the most votes will oppose each other in November.

A total of 14 candidates filed nominating petitions to fill vacancies of the mayor and four members of the council.

Meeting in November in a race for mayor will be Herbert Cholger and his challenger, David A. Westcott. Only two candidates filed for the two-year vacancy in the council. Filing for that position were Donald M. Hayes, who was appointed to fill the vacancy of William Ezo, and Lois (Mrs. Randall)

Lanski. Names of the above candidates will not be listed on Tuesday's primary election ballot.

The 10 candidates filing for the three four-year council seats and whose names appear on the primary ballot are Jerry Cotter, Charles Landon and Robert N. Rollin, all incumbents, along with Robert Pawloski, John Majka, John (Joe) Martin, Boynton V. St. James, Lyle Henley, Florence Upson and Wayne Thompson.

Although voters often neglect primary elections, balloting next Tuesday should be quite heavy due to active campaigning during the past several weeks.

A confusing situation arose last month when a group calling itself Allied Taxpayers filed petitions seeking the recall of five of six councilmen. The petitions seek the recall of Coun. Hugo J. Keiser, James Lansky, Cotter, Landon and Hayes.

The only elected city officials not named in the recall were Mayor Cholger and Councilman Rollin.

Cholger was a signer on several of the petitions.

Reason for the recall stated on petitions was that signers were dissatisfied with decisions and recommendations of five of the six councilmen.

Depending on court action August 10, another special city election may be required shortly. An attorney representing signers of a petition seeking a return to the former ward system has brought legal action against City Clerk Rachel Sue McCready.

Circuit Judge Leo Corkin of St. Johns, sitting in place of Circuit Judge Allan C. Miller, who disqualified himself, is to rule on the sufficiency of petitions seeking a referendum on amending Tawas City's 1972 charter. The proposal asks the return of selecting two councilmen from each of three wards.

On June 18, the city clerk reported that the petitions did not conform with state requirements and determined the document wording to be insufficient.

State Begins Negotiations for Old Penn - Central Trackage

The Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) will begin negotiating for acquisition of 106 miles of railroad track between Linwood (south of Bay City) and Sallings (south of Gaylord).

The proposal to start negotiating with the track owners, Penn Central Corporation, and to negotiate simultaneously for long-term operation of the line, was approved Wednesday by the State Transportation Commission. The state now leases the track from Penn Central.

The commission also authorized MDOT to extend the present rail freight operating contract to March 31, 1980.

The Detroit and Mackinac Railway Company has been operating the rail service with state subsidy on a year-to-year basis since April 1, 1976. State support for the year, including the extended contract, amounts to $843,000.

THE FOREST AND YOU

HELPING TREES BY HARVESTING

This article has been prepared by Georgia-Pacific, the growth company interested in protecting our natural resources.

Few Americans are aware of how careful a process is commercial harvesting of trees. The trees must be felled in such a way that they will not be damaged nor damage other trees as they fall. They must be removed in such a way as to make the least disturbance of the soil and young growth.

Many miles of roads must be built and maintained to allow the best harvesting practices. Their construction is carefully planned to avoid erosion. Temporary roads are abandoned to forest regrowth but main roads are maintained to allow access for fire fighting, forest inspection and necessary harvesting.

When a tree is harvested by a forest products company, total use of the tree is planned except for that portion that must be left to add nutrients to the forest floor. Today's techniques allow the use of the bark, tops, branches, diseased portions, chips from waste wood and even the resins and lignin (Nature's glue that holds the wood fibers together in the tree).

On level land, the felling of trees and moving of logs is relatively simple, being done with chain saws, powered shears and wheeled vehicles. In steep, harsh lands, chain saws are used to cut, and cable systems are used to lift and carry logs over the slopes to avoid disturbing the soil.

The clear-cutting method of harvesting leads to better forests. It's only used in certain places with certain kinds of timber. Most clear-cutting occurs in the West where the Douglas fir is king. Fir seedlings need sunlight, and if brush and other trees are allowed to overshadow them, only a few will survive. In a region where the Douglas fir is the desirable species, clear-cutting is the harvesting of a mature forest and its replacement by a new forest.

These new trees are thinned several times, providing more than one harvest and a higher volume of prime wood than other forests as they grow.

Foresters often make a fetish of getting clear-cut lands quickly back into growing trees and assuring that the new trees survive. These lands are restocked using either superseedlings or superior seed. In about five years, the new trees really look like a fine, growing forest.

Heavy Draft Horses

THE GRANDSTAND at the Iosco County Fair grounds at Hale was packed Thursday evening for an exciting program of heavyweight horse pulling. Some magnificent draft horses from various parts of the state and Indiana were entered in the competition, including one well matched team weighing in at 4,800 pounds. That team was owned by Larry Reed of Millington and it won first place by pulling 10,200 pounds a distance of 11 feet, four inches. There were 18 teams entered in the competition, which was one of the most enjoyable features of the four-day fair program. Included were several teams currently holding state and national titles.—Tawas Herald Photos.

Members of an older generation get a little misty eyed when discussing the educational advantages they received in one room country schools of days gone by, as compared to what youth are learning in today's educational system.

The sentimental attachment to the Little Red Schoolhouse by older people is natural, for it recalls the days of their own youth. But was the one room rural school really what it was cracked up to be?

"There has been a great deal of sentiment and gush expended on the Little Red Schoolhouse, but it has not lived up to its reputation. True, it has served a purpose in a fashion, but it stands today as a poor excuse for an educational means in keeping up with the enlightenment of the times."

The above quotation is printed exactly as it appeared in a Tawas Herald editorial on August 27, 1909. While it reflects the opinion of an individual, the thoughts of the editor are contemporary with the times of the one room school and deal a crushing blow to tradition.

"It does not teach anything beyond the elementary three Rs and does that indifferently," declared Editor Len J. Patterson of the Herald. "The farm boy and girl get nothing more than a start, and generally a bad start at that, in the Little Red Schoolhouse and at an age when they should be well advanced in the common branches of education are obliged to leave home and enter the city schools."

Editor Patterson was posturizing 70 years ago on what he felt would be a remedy for the condition of country education—formation of a central school in each township. This was not a new movement, for it was started in 1880 by a farseeing old farmer in Rush County, Indiana, and was gradually becoming active and promised beneficial results.

"The country school teacher is, as a rule, the poorest paid public servant we know of," said Patterson. "Country teachers are recruited from the ranks of boys and girls who have managed to get through the village high school passably and become possessor of a certificate. They are employed because they are willing to work cheap."

The editor went on to say that if these young teachers had the least ambition, they merely used the country school as a means to earn money enough to take them through college or enter other fields of endeavor and leave at first opportunity. Their places were taken by others of similar education and training.

"The Little Red Schoolhouse is a misnomer, because it is generally of no color at all except that imparted to the unpainted square wooden structure by time and

ROBERT THOM, noted Michigan artist, was commissioned by Michigan Bell to advance the knowledge of the state's colorful and exciting development through a series of historical paintings. One of the paintings in the series was this depiction of a one-room school in Wayne County. Thom used an existing school building to paint this true-to-life scene, which was experienced by an older generation. Here in Iosco County, the public one room school was still being used in rural areas until 1952. Dominating the above view is a cast iron box stove which heated the building in the winter.

weather. Set in the middle of a lot, bare of tree or shrub, backed up by a tumbledown coal house, it stands as a monument of ugliness and official stinginess.

"The interior is devoid of every convenience for the use of teachers and pupils—no maps, globes, cubes, cones, books of reference—nothing but a scaly blackboard, a rusty stove and a few wooden benches. It presents a dismal and forbidding aspect to the young child's impressionable mind. This combination of poorly equipped teacher and a poor building proves a killing handicap to the farm boy and girl at a time when they should have the best advantage that could be afforded them."

Those were strong words for a country newspaperman, whose circulation and livelihood were based on the good will of readers residing in outlying townships of the county, each of those townships operating several individual school units.

Editor Patterson was also critical of the manner in which country school teachers were certified. On August 26, 1910, he penned the following caustic remarks:

"Can you give an account of the Toledo War and describe its importance; what must be the diameter of a cylindrical tank whose depth is five feet, five inches, to hold five hundred fifty-two and one-half gallons; do the industries of a locality change and, if so, give the reasons; one hundred and twelve is eight-fifths of how many times nine; can you illustrate a compound complex declarative sentence.

"The above are culled from 135 questions posed by school examiners which candidates for second grade teacher certificates are supposed to answer. Anyone who answers most of them correctly can get a job teaching youngsters the alphabet and multiplication tables in a country school at $35 a month. Obviously, defining a compound complex declarative sentence and finding the diameter of a cylinder of a certain depth and capacity are the merest dry bones of pedagogy. The only earthly reason why anybody would wish to know them is that he can't teach a country school unless he does," declared the editor.

"Having duly qualified himself by storing this dusty rubbish in his brain—or rather her brain—she walks a mile and a half through the snow, builds her fires, empties her ashes, instructs the class that two times two are four and, for so doing, she receives about a dollar per diem. Which is more or less like telling a person that if he will learn to recite the Deuteronomy backwards in the original he shall have a bright new cent at Christmas."

In promoting centralization of schools, Patterson said that the average township had from six to eight schools and felt those could be centralized into one, or at the most, two. "The central building could be modern, comfortable, well equipped and cared for by a janitor and all for less than it costs to build, heat and repair the ordinary district building."

The editor pointed out that another important advantage of a central township school was that it would bring a greater number of children into daily contact with one another, broadening their social life, stimulate their mental activities and heighten their ambition.

"The Little Red Schoolhouse must go and in its place shall come the central township school with all of its economies and advantages, to give the country boy and girl a fair show in their efforts to obtain an education and give them that start in life to which they are entitled," stated the editor.

Patterson, like the old farmer of Indiana, was well in advance of his time when he said that "to make these central schools available to all pupils in the township, those living at the greatest distance from the central building must be conveyed to and from school at the expense of the township. This would necessitate good roads and the movement would thus serve a double useful purpose."

Therein lay the real key for the reasoning behind individual schools to serve rural neighborhoods. While roads were to become improved in time, the automobile was still in an early stage of development 70 years ago and the school bus was not to make a practical appearance for two decades or more.

Because of the problem of transporting children to and from one central school, the rural school (See RURAL SCHOOL, page 8.)

PUPILS of an unidentified school in the Tawas area lined up for this picture in the 1890s. A print was made directly from an eight by 10-inch photographic glass plate negative exposed by

Editorial—

Federal and State Controls Detrimental to Private Property

Debate concerning measures giving increased federal and state controls over certain private properties is causing much gnashing of teeth in this state—and for good reason.

The Michigan Wetlands Bill (House Bill No. 4049) and federal designation of the AuSable River as part of the National Wild and Scenic Rivers system are two prime examples where government is encroaching on the rights of private property owners.

In both cases, there appears to be a violation of the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution which requires that whenever the government takes an individual's property for public use, the full value must be paid to the owner.

The state and federal governments already own about one-third of Michigan, but some segments of government apparently feel that the remainder of the privately owned property in the state needs the protection of "big brother" government.

The Michigan Wetlands Bill provides that the state make studies for the efficient management of privately owned wetlands property. The proposed bill would prohibit the property owner from maintaining any use of the wetlands without first receiving a permit from the state. If adopted, a state department would make its own rules and regulations concerning enforcement, which would have the same effect as the law itself.

If an owner is prevented by law from using his own property on which he is paying taxes, it is clearly a case where the government has taken ownership of property for public use and the private owner should be reimbursed.

The wetlands bill will affect an estimated 4,000,000 acres variously estimated to be valued at more than two-billion dollars. The act would in effect zone the wetlands and their contiguous areas from any development and use other than those specified in the act. This is proposed to be accomplished entirely through the use of the police power of the state and does not involve any payment or just compensation to the private property owners.

In the debate over federal designation of the AuSable River as part of the National Wild and Scenic Rivers System, Cong. Robert Davis testified at a public hearing July 21 that "I am against any further wilderness set-asides in Northern Michigan, particularly as they apply to the control of privately owned lands."

Listen to what Congressman Davis had to say at Grayling: "Our people are fully aware of the unique character of their environment and they, too, want to insure their ability to retain this special quality of life. However, we are already doing far more than our share to provide a legacy for future generations of Americans and we resent being told that we should sacrifice still more of our resources for those few who periodically desire a 'meaningful experience' in the great outdoors."

Davis called the Wild and Scenic Rivers program another attempt at federal land use controls, in spite of responsible actions on the part of local government in the adoption and enforcement of zoning ordinance to safeguard the AuSable.

Stating that the proposal involves considerable encroachment upon the rights of private owners, Congressman Davis said that "federal controls are still being pushed, apparently because of misguided assumptions that all nonwilderness areas become overdeveloped if not afforded federal protection."

These are but two examples of over regulation by state and federal governments, particularly when government bureaucracy proposes to establish new regulations which overlap existing local rules.

TODAY'S Meditation

from The World's Most Widely Used Devotional Guide

(Read Joshua 3:7-17)

"The apostles said unto the Lord, increase our faith." (Luke 17:5)

When the Lord led His people out of Egypt, He caused the sea to go back all that night, and made the sea dry land. Their feet did not even sink into moist soil. Why did He not do the same thing when they came to the Jordan and were preparing to enter the Promised Land? Here, He ordered them to step into the water. He allowed them to feel the cold waves dashing over their feet before He rolled back the waters and let them "stand firm on dry ground."

I believe that God was both challenging and testing their faith. His people have experienced the miracles of the Red Sea crossing, the cloud and the pillar of fire for guidance, the manna, the water from the rock and all His other loving provisions. It was now time for a step forward in faith. God is never satisfied to have us stand still. He constantly encourages us to go on from past blessings to a deeper relationship with Him.

PRAYER

Thank You, Father, for the tests of our faith, which always make us stronger when we have the courage to trust You. May we show our faith in Your greatness. Amen.

Market Layout Encourages Impulse Sales

By LINDA JOY Executive Director Michigan Consumers Council

How many times have each of us gone into the grocery store for one or two items and come out with one or two bags of groceries? There are many subtle marketing techniques which are designed to encourage spending in grocery stores. Those who are familiar with these strategies can save some money.

A recent survey conducted by the Point-of-Purchase Advertising Institute and the DuPont Corporation found shoppers spend an average of 90 cents for every minute they browse in the supermarket aisles. It is not surprising then to find that the layout and design of many stores are often aimed at keeping the shopper walking down the aisles.

For example, most grocery stores are arranged so that the essential items, such as bread, milk and meat, are on the outer perimeter of the store. To get to these items, a shopper must walk through the entire store. The chances of spending more than what is set aside in the food budget are enhanced by tempting displays and delicacies.

Another method used by some retailers to encourage buying is called the tie-in sale. This technique involves such things as placing the dip next to the chips or the dressings next to the lettuce. One type of tie-in sale especially annoying to parents is the placement of toys next to cereals and cookies, where children are sure to see and either request or demand them.

Multiple pricing also often gives the illusion of a bargain. Three-for-a-dollar generally sounds better than 33 cents each. These prices should be compared with items priced individually before stocking up.

Most experts agree the best way to avoid expensive impulse purchases is to make a specific grocery list before leaving for the store. Then, stick to it! It may also help to take along only enough money to cover the planned purchases on the list.

Shopping on an empty stomach also leads to disaster. Try to plan shopping trips after dinner, when expensive tidbits will not be so tempting.

No-name brands and store brands are usually money-savers. In many cases, the quality is the same—the only difference may be cosmetic.

The Consumers Council Guideline counselors are able to provide more money-saving tips for careful shoppers. Just call toll-free 1-800-292-5680 Monday through Friday, 8:30 a. m. to 5:00 p. m.

Several years ago, I was one of nine persons selected to compose a new city charter for the City of Tawas City. Therefore, I feel it is important that I voice my opinion concerning the change suggested by "Concerned Citizen" to revert to the old method of electing council members by the ward system rather than the at large system.

I feel as strongly now as I did in 1970, that an at large city election of council members is a step forward for better city government. We should let all candidates face the entire constituency. The ward system could stagnate our progress, as elected officials would favor their ward and feel a sense of loyalty toward their particular constituents rather than view city matters as a whole. Our present system benefits the entire city instead of one segregated segment.

Personally, I like our form of government. We have a strong professional manager, and a council motivated by broad loyalties to the entire community and not simply to one neighborhood. We do not want a system that compels elected councilmen to represent one specific area instead of the city at large, as reverting to the ward system would do.

Tawas City now has too much at stake to allow small time politics to enter the scene and deter the efforts now being made by our mayor, council and manager to build our city to a place we can enjoy and be proud of, without excessive taxation.

Before making any decision, we should carefully study our present city government and then compare our progress with our past method of city government, the ward system. A revision at this time can only be a step backward and the goals set for our community will suffer.

Very truly yours,

Gas Tax Collection Cost Eroding Funds

"Our county road commissions are dismayed to learn that the costs of collecting the gas and weight taxes are continuing to increase faster than the revenues, even when including the increase in taxes last year," stated Earl F. Rogers, engineer-director for the County Road Association of Michigan.

Rogers further stated, "The public should be made aware of the fact that close to five cents of every dollar of gas and weight tax is now going into state departments for the collection of the monies."

"The total collection costs for fiscal year 1979-80 will be in excess of $8-million dollars, up from 18-million dollars in the 1974-75 fiscal year."

Rogers pointed out, "This increase amounts to an over-all 111.7 percent increase in collection costs over a five-year period, with the worst offender being the Department of Management and Budget, up a whopping 194.7 percent during the five-year period."

"The Department of State is up 120.8 percent with treasury getting the third highest increase of the major departments with 48.0 percent over the five-year period."

"With the fuel taxes and weight tax promising to level off, and with the state departments continuing to grab a larger share of the taxes, citizens of Michigan can look forward to less and less of the gas and weight tax dollar being utilized for transportation purposes," stated Rogers.

"It is in the face of these disturbing trends," Rogers added, "that the County Road Association pledges support of the efforts of Senator DeSana of Wyandotte and Representative Mahalak, Romulus, cochairmen of the legislative transportation subcommittees in requesting a review and an analysis of the justification for these continuing increases."

Housing Cost Outstripping Income

SAGINAW — The skyrocketing cost of housing is far outstripping the income of East Central Michigan residents, according to East Central Michigan Planning and Development Regional Chief Housing Planner Charles Ward.

"The housing problem is getting worse and worse and will get even more worse in the future. The cost of housing is far outstripping income," states Ward.

According to Ward, 60 to 70 percent of East Central Michigan's residents will not be able to afford adequate housing in 1980.

Quoting Harvard University and Massachusetts Institute of Technology Joint Center for Urban Studies estimates, Ward said the average cost of existing housing, next year, may be as much as $75,000. The average cost of a new home will be $90,000.

Citing local banking practices, Ward said those persons seeking to purchase housing in 1980 will need an individual or combined annual income of $37,500 in order to purchase existing housing and an annual income of $45,000 to purchase new housing according to the joint Harvard-MIT estimate.

Peering Across the Generational Divide

by Cy Brickfield

Since both my wife's parents and mine died when we were still relatively young adults, we never got to know for ourselves what it is like to have reached middle age — or even early old age — while one's elderly parents are still living.

Millions of people our age, however, are personally experiencing this no longer unusual relationship, and are thus part of a rapidly growing phenomenon that is adding yet another layer of intricacy to the complexity of aging in America today.

The trend has, in fact, become so widespread that it has produced a broad body of self-help literature (aimed primarily at the middle-aged children rather than at their parents) on coping with the possible pressures that can develop between parent and child.

It has also given birth to what may prove to be a whole new terminology. The "sandwich generation," for instance, consists of those middle-aged people who suddenly find themselves saddled with the responsibility of supporting—financially and/or emotionally—their adolescent or young adult children on one side, and their own parents on the other.

Despite the intense attention being paid to middle-aged children and their parents, there is still considerable confusion about the meaning and ultimate significance of this important relationship. An unfortunate case-in-point is the otherwise worthwhile book, The Other Generation Gap: The Middle-Aged and Their Parents, by Stephen Z. Cohen, a University of Illinois social work professor, and Bruce

Michael Gans, a news feature writer and novelist. Though generally filled with sound, helpful advice, the book goes astray when its authors attempt to expound upon its provocative title. Pointing to the problems that many of today's middle-aged parents experienced during the socially turbulent late 1960s and early 1970s, Cohen and Gans declare that "deep divisions within families were common. A phrase was coined to describe the problem—the generation gap [italics theirs]."

Consequently, they argue that "this experience may stand you in good stead as you begin to face the other [again their italics] generation gap—the one that has arisen between many adult children and their aging parents."

As the father of two young adults, I would be the last to deny the existence of gaps in understanding between my generation and its children, but these gaps are hardly unique to our times. Generation gaps—whether they were called that or not—have always existed between parents and their progeny.

What Cohen and Gans seem to have somehow lost sight of is the reality that the generation gap between middle-aged children and their aging parents is the very same one that existed when both parties were much younger. They are older now, and their respective situations may have changed drastically, but the gap remains essentially the same—narrower in some cases, even wider in others.

A more perceptive perspective can be found in Aging Parents, a new Andrus Gerontology Center book compiled by Pauline K. Ragan from the presentations made at a conference on You and Your Aging Parents (after the title of the excellent book by Barbara Silverstone and Helen Hyman) held at the center late last spring. The conference, which was the first to deal with this subject, was designed to provide middle-aged children, older parents and members of the aging field with the background and insights essential to understanding the newest phase of this oldest of relationships.

While many conferences seek to address a mixed audience of professionals and lay people, few succeed in accomplishing this as well as the Andrus Center gathering did. And when part of that audience is composed of the very people who are the conference's topic, the proceedings take on an extra dimension of dynamic drama. After all, what a professional gerontologist may be talking about objectively today, he or she may be experiencing quite subjectively tomorrow.

In transforming the conference's spoken presentations into a highly readable book, Pauline Ragan has produced an informative volume that will be of great value to professional and non-professional alike. While it does not offer the same kind of advice to be found in the best of the self-help books, Aging Parents should be read by both middle-aged children and their aging parents.

Unfortunately, the Andrus Center does not sell its books through stores, so if you want a copy, you'll have to send $5.40 to Publications Office, Andrus Gerontology Center, University of Southern California, University Park, Los Angeles, CA 90007. It's a rather roundabout way to buy a book but, in this case, it'll be worth the bother.

Federal Tax Refunds Go Unclaimed

Undelivered federal tax refunds for some Michigan taxpayers are waiting to be claimed, the Internal Revenue Service said.

Many of these checks remain undelivered because taxpayers have moved and left no forwarding address with the United States Postal Service, according to the IRS. Taxpayers who filed on time and still have not received their 1978 tax refunds should check with the IRS as soon as possible because refund delays can also be caused by lost or stolen checks. If this is the case, the IRS can put tracers on the missing checks.

Other refund delays are caused by errors or omissions on tax return, such as illegible names or addresses. In all refund inquiries, the IRS said, taxpayers should provide the names and addresses as they appear on the return, the actual names and addresses if different, the social security numbers and the type of forms filed.

Under most circumstances, an undelivered refund check can be reissued to the new address and received within two weeks.

Base Commander Lauds Personnel for Performance

"I have been in the Strategic Air Command most of my career and during those many years, I have not seen a peacetime operation as demanding and comprehensive as the one we went through last week."

That was the statement Col. Jesse S. Hocker, wing commander of the 379th Bombardment Wing at Wurtsmith Air Force Base, made after the Strategic Air Command successfully completed its readiness exercise—Global Shield '79.

The worldwide exercise ended with the launch of a specially equipped Minuteman II intercontinental ballistic missile from Vandenberg Air Force Base, California. Fired by personnel aboard an EC-135 aircraft equipped with an airborne launch control system, the missile launching culminated the largest SAC exercise in more than 20 years.

The unarmed missile broadcast a coded emergency action message to participating SAC forces via the emergency rocket communications system and traveled several thousand miles to an impact area in the Western Pacific.

One of the goals of the exercise was to determine if plans and procedures could be improved to increase the effectiveness of SAC forces.

One of the emerging lessons of the exercise was the need to have SAC crews flying realistic training missions on unfamiliar routes.

The wing commander at Wurtsmith was impressed by efforts of men and women of the 379th Bomf Wing.

"I was particularly impressed with the way every member I came in contact with performed his or her job," the wing commander stated. "And I was equally impressed with the spirit and the 'can do' attitude in doing those tasks."

All SAC units in the United States and at Anderson Air Force Base, Guam, generated forces to simulate full combat status. Included were 31 SAC bomber and missile locations with approximately 650 bombers, tanker, reconnaissance and airborne command post aircraft, plus Minuteman and Titan II missiles on simulated alert.

Several hundred SAC aircraft participated in a simulated positive control launch which included a simulated message from the national command authorities to direct SAC's airborne bomber forces, including B-52s from Wurtsmith, to strike hypothetical enemy targets.

Detroit's never going to make it to the top.

When the residential natural gas rates of utilities serving 24 major U.S. metropolitan areas were compared, Michigan Consolidated's placed 5th from the bottom.

What have we done to keep our rates so low? Plenty.

We serve many more customers today than we did ten years ago, yet we've kept our staff virtually the same size it was then. We reorganized our service areas and established a Customer Information System which links all of the areas to one office. And we've worked hard to minimize uncollectibles.

You may not know you pay less for natural gas than someone in New York or Minneapolis. But we think it's important that you do. Because it shows the results of our efforts to hold your gas bills down.

We're going to continue to work to make sure gas remains your best energy buy—now, and in the future.

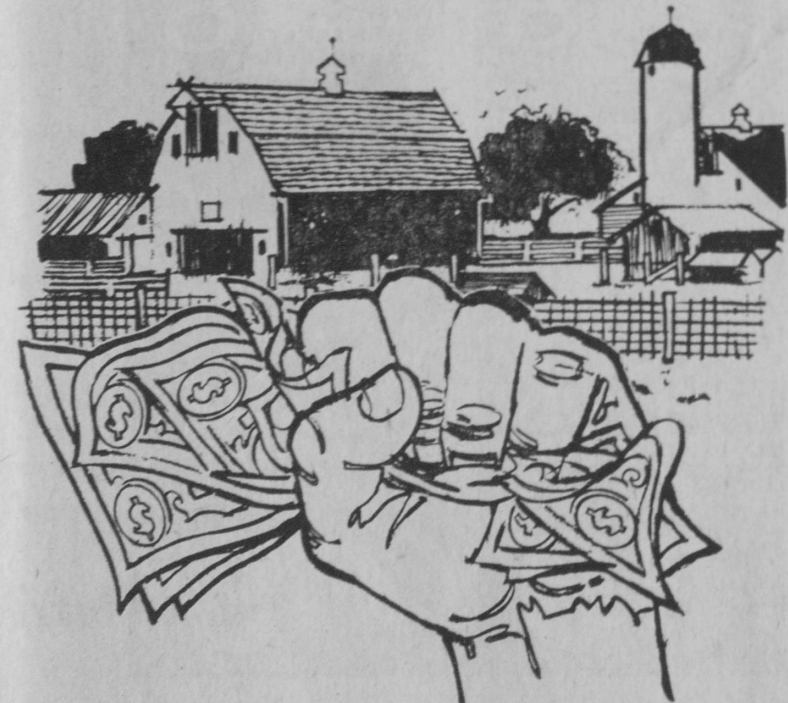

If you'd like to know more about natural gas costs write for our free booklet "Nobody Likes Higher Gas Bills. Including Us." Michigan Consolidated Gas Company, Public Affairs Activity, One Woodward Avenue, Detroit, MI 48226

*This comparison is based upon rates in effect May 1, 1979, for 175 Mcf annual consumption which is the gas usage for a typical residential heating customer of Michigan Consolidated.

Rural School

houses were to be around in Iosco County for about 50 years after Patterson penned his remarks in 1909 and 1910.

Improvement was made, however, in the manner of educating teachers to serve rural schools. The Iosco County Normal School established in 1904 had its curriculum expanded and improved in 1909 under Miss Angeline Landon, principal.

During its nearly 40 years of operation, the county normal turned out more than 400 young teachers to serve rural schools, many of whom remained in the teaching ranks and acquired degrees at accredited universities.

Patterson's proposed consolidation of township schools never bore fruit during his time, but the movement toward combinations of rural schools into single units commencing in the 1930s was finally realized in the 1950s.

Today, there is not a single one room school operating in Iosco County and most have disappeared from view except in the memory of an older generation, which still holds the Little Red Schoolhouse in reverence—despite the remarks of an editor who had an amazing foresight concerning the future of education.

LOOKING BACKWARD—

River Mouth Plugged Again by Fish Tug

15 Years Ago—
July 29, 1964—After local businessmen spent several hundred dollars to open the mouth of the Tawas River, the stream is again blocked with sand. Three large fish tugs from Lake Erie attempted to enter the narrow channel and one boat became grounded. In using its propeller to become dislodged, the boat sucked a large quantity of sand and deposited it at the channel entrance.

The tip of Tawas Point from the lighthouse to the fog signal has been closed to vehicular traffic. Because of its status as a wildlife sanctuary, the outer end of the point was to be closed later this year. The earlier action was the result of a number of cars using the blacktop road for a drag strip.

A caravan of 68 old-time automobiles chugged along streets of the Tawas over the week-end. All were owned by members of the Central Michigan Old Car Club. Tour marshal was Howard Reinke of Auburn.

Dr. Harvey H. Brinkman is the new chief of staff at Tawas Hospital.

Eleven young Iosco County men reported July 23 at Detroit for Selective Service physical examinations.

Home runs by Lyle Berry and Pete Bolen were the big blows in the East Tawas Bears' 5-1 win over Mikado. Willard Musolf had two of Mikado's three hits.

25 Years Ago—
July 30, 1954—A change in zoning to permit construction of a building in a residential zone is sought at East Tawas by Michigan Bell Telephone Company. It is expected that the building would be used in one or two years to house new dial system equipment.

Old coal sheds at the corner of First and Court Streets have been removed for a new parking lot to serve Tawas Industries. The property, formerly the site of an elevator owned by Michigan Cereal Company, was sold to the industrial firm by William DeLosh, who had operated a coal business there.

Iosco County Board of Supervisors is urging a "yes" vote by county electors on a $125,000 bond issue to finance construction of a new jail. Actual cost of the building has been estimated at $165,000. The state has given the jail a zero rating for the past two years and, unless concrete action is taken within 90 days, the jail would be closed.

Dr. Gerald Murphy of the Lake Fenton Yacht Club won the Michigan District Lightning championship on Tawas Bay. More than 40 boats participated in the three-day program hosted by Tawas Bay Yacht Club.

35 Years Ago—
July 28, 1944—The picturesque old two-man saw is being displaced by a gasoline engine-driven saw in American forests. A two-hour job is done in five minutes. Coming at a time of acute manpower shortage in lumbering, the new saw is helping to fill the great demand for wood and paper.

Rural Route No. 3 has been discontinued by the Tawas City post office. The route has been consolidated with two other routes.

Carl B. Babcock and Harry Goldsmith of Tawas City have purchased the beautiful old Greene Pack residence and grounds at Oscoda. The purchase was made from the estate of Grace Pack. Plans are not complete as to the disposal of the property.

Elected to the board of education of Plainfield Township Unit Schools were A. E. Greeve, E. H. Dolman, Elwood McIlmurray and Erma Atkinson.

Sgt. Arnold Rollin writes to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rollin, that he is in France and having better rations now than during the first few days after landing there. He also said that his last shave was on D Day and he is trimming his whiskers with a pair of scissors.

Orin L. Patterson of Detroit has purchased the Prescott barns near the First Street bridge in Tawas City. The barns are to be dismantled and sold. The property will be developed as soon as the times permit.

Iosco County again went over the top with $135,000 in E bond sales during the Fifth Invasion War Loan Drive. Quota for the county was $133,000.

MICROWAVE COOKING SERIES AVAILABLE

Potential purchasers and current users of microwave ovens may be interested in ordering three publications currently available from the Michigan State University Extension bulletin office. The series covers three topics, selecting a microwave appliance, cooking foods in it and using it for heating prepared foods. The bulletins were prepared by specialists in household equipment, food service management, and food science and nutrition at the University of Minnesota.

"Selecting a Microwave Appliance" explains how the appliance operates and discusses energy use and time, space and venting requirements. Among the advantages of microwave heating, according to the publication, are faster thawing of frozen foods, faster heating of both thawed and refrigerated foods, canned and bottled cooked foods and bakery items to a serving temperature, and a shorter cooking time for most food items.

"Cooking Foods in Microwave Ovens" includes a guide to cooking fruits and vegetables, meat and poultry, eggs and baked products. The authors point out that certain foods cooked in the microwave oven may not taste quite the same as when cooked by conventional methods. They add that fast heating prevents a warmed-over flavor in leftovers.

The amount of food, its temperature when placed in the oven and its moisture content are all factors affecting cooking procedure and taste.

"Heating Prepared Foods in Microwave Ovens" includes a chart listing the moisture content and microwave heating suggestions for a variety of foods, ranging from sandwiches to desserts.

The publications also contain information on microwave dishware and special features of some microwave ovens. There is a fee for the bulletins, North Central Regional Publications Nos. 70, 71 and 72, and may be ordered from MSU Cooperative Extension Service, Post Office Box 99, Tawas City, 48763; phone 362-3449.

Blood Bank Met Its Goal

Officials at the American Red Cross Flint Regional Blood Center, of which Iosco County is a participant, recently announced success in achieving its year-end blood collection goal. According to William G. Eargle, blood services administrator for the region, 52,093 units of blood were collected for fiscal year 1978-79. A goal of 52,000 units for the year was established as the amount of blood needed to successfully supply the 37 hospitals within the region.

Eargle said, "the Red Cross collected 49,668 units of blood which gives us an increase this year of 2,425 units or nearly five percent for the entire fiscal year." The Flint Red Cross Blood Region consists of 26 counties in Northern Michigan including the Thumb area and two counties in Upper Peninsula. A total of 816 separate bloodmobile operations took place in the region, including 113 blood programs at the Flint Center and 90 at the Petoskey sub-station.

VOTE POSITIVE! VOTE for JERRY COTTER TUESDAY, AUGUST 7

TO THE VOTERS of TAWAS CITY:

As a candidate in the August 7th Non-Partisan Primary, I'd like to discuss my philosophy of our City Government.

FIRST of all, I believe in Majority Rule. This is the Foundation of Democracy. All aspects of a particular problem or project should be discussed ORDERLY, but thoroughly, before it is decided. After the vote everyone must abide by the decision and PULL TOGETHER for the betterment of all. A couple of our Council Members don't believe in Majority Rule. As a result, progress has been difficult, and, at times, impossible.

SECOND, I believe it is the duty of the Council, after proper deliberation, to determine the ORDERLY management and development of the City for all the Citizens. During the Boundary Commission Hearings in 1977, one Boundary Commissioner said "Tawas City is a Dying Town." I objected to his remark and demanded he apologize. But in view of the Recall, Law Suits, accusations, etc., I wonder... IS TAWAS CITY A DYING TOWN? Despite the difficulties, I have been involved with the Majority of the City Council in making some VERY POSITIVE PROGRESS. A few EXAMPLES:

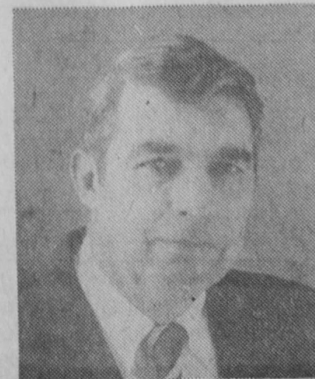

1. The COST OF BORROWING MONEY IS LESS because bidding is now required on short and long term loans.
2. GREATER INCOME IS BEING EARNED by investment of funds in Daily Interest Accounts.
3. A NEW FIRE CONTRACT with Alabaster and Tawas Townships requires sharing of all costs on a FAIR BASIS.
4. Most CITY EQUIPMENT has been UPGRADED.
5. PROGRESS has been made in law and ORDINANCE ENFORCEMENT. I believe ordinances should be enforced or repealed.
6. A NEW CITY MANAGER has been hired after the resignation of City Manager Bublitz, who did such a GOOD JOB for so long.
7. IMPROVEMENT OF MOST CITY PROPERTIES has been accomplished during my current term of office, with the exception of our OLD CITY HALL. You will be asked soon to Vote on a revised plan for a NEW CITY HALL, FIRE DEPARTMENT AND LIBRARY. I WHOLEHEARTEDLY SUPPORT THIS PROJECT along with the Large Majority of the Council. I urge you to visit the New Whitney Township Hall-Fire Department to see what is possible at a REASONABLE COST.
8. INDUSTRIAL PARK EXPANSION is underway to attract desirable industries.
9. PROGRESS has begun on the TAWAS RIVER HARBOR. Let's hope development will be rapid.

In this time of Big Government and Big Spending at the Federal, State and County levels, it is extremely important that we keep our City Government as small, as efficient, and as economical as possible. The City Council is one of the very few governing bodies that can be responsive to the needs and desires of the Citizens without giving in to the pressures of the bureaucracies and special interest groups. I hope you will Vote on Tuesday, August 7, I will appreciate Your Vote.

Thank you for reading this adv.

Sincerely,

YOU BE THE JUDGE!

HOW MUCH GOVERNING SHOULD AN AVERAGE FAMILY BUY?

We buy governing just like any other commodity. What we get for our money is a set of rules that tell us how to behave. How much governing do we really need? How much are we willing to pay for it? An answer to that question is suggested by a business and civic leader.

By C. Hoke Leggett
Who's the big decision-maker in your family? Maybe you think you are—or maybe you think your spouse is.

But a lot of the decisions that directly affect the air you breathe, the clothes you wear, the car you drive or even the kind of house you build aren't being made by you or your spouse. They're being made for you by an army of more than 100,000 government regulators in Washington. And they're costing you plenty: they're costing you in terms of tax dollars, in terms of the prices you pay for products, and the products you can't find at any price. And they're costing you in terms of your right to make your own decisions.

Did you know that today federal regulations are adding $666 to the price of the average new car? More than eight cents a pound to the price of ground beef? Ten dollars and seventy-five cents a day to a patient's hospital bill? As much as $2,500 to the cost of a typical new house?

The Federal Office of Management and Budget estimates that government regulations currently cost each man, woman and child in the U.S. about $600 a year. And it's no wonder. The combined budget for federal regulatory agencies in fiscal 1979 amounts to $4.8 billion.

We need some regulation. But I believe every thinking American needs to ask if all of these regulations are really necessary? Do their benefits outweigh their costs? Du Pont, for instance, estimates that by 1985, it will be spending $1 billion a year to meet all of its environmental requirements—and yet three-fourths of the money it will spend between now and 1985 for pollution control will yield no practical benefit to the environment at all.

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) has proposed rules for controlling noise in the workplace. To comply with these rules will cost industry $18-1/2 billion in capital costs and about $1 billion a year in operating costs. Yet a study commissioned by OSHA showed that earplugs for workers could do the same job for less than 1/20 the cost.

OSHA has announced an overly stringent standard for controlling cotton dust, even in nontextile sectors, where no dust-related health problems have ever been substantiated. OSHA's rush to regulation—unless halted by the courts—will cost over $2 billion and could cause thousands of people to lose their jobs.

Ironically, a 1975 study revealed that for every 100 workers, the number of work days lost to injuries or illnesses had actually increased since OSHA and its rules came into existence!

People who work for the Council on Wage and Price Stability—which monitors the inflationary impact of regulations—are frank to say that their experience has convinced them that this country is paying far too much for what it's getting in the way of benefits from regulations.

And the trouble is, we will keep on paying this high price until the average citizen wakes up to what regulations are costing in the way of inflation, loss of productivity, increased taxes, unemployment and, eventually, loss of freedom.

LETTERS to the EDITOR

Dear Editor

I am amazed by the sheer gall with which one member of the city council manufactures charges of "conflict of interest" against five other members of the council. Surely the voters of this city have not so quickly forgotten that it was that same member of the council who, only a little more than a year ago, rented to the city a building which he owned; and after it was renovated at city expense, informed the city that he intended to sell the building to someone else. Now that's what I call conflict of interest.

The psychologists call it projection when a person accuses someone else of something, when he's doing or thinking it himself and doesn't want anyone to notice.

Maybe the recall petitions are directed against the wrong members of the council.

Sincerely,
Floyd R. Smith

Keeping an open mind to new cooking ideas is important in households of just one or two people. The tendency is to do the same thing over again.

Yet many time and energy-saving aids are available. One of the super convenient foods that can be used to create a delicious specialty of the house is Campbell's Soup for One. These eight rich and delicious semi-condensed soups have distinctive flavor as soups, and are great to use as ingredients in making sauces and delectable main dishes.

With Savory Cream of Mushroom Soup for One, for example, it is easy to create Chicken Louisianne, a rich, fragrant Creole-style dish.

CHICKEN LOUISIANNE

Start with 1/2 chicken breast, skinned and boned (about 1/4 pound boneless). Cut the chicken in strips and in a small skillet, lightly brown in 1 tablespoon butter or margarine with 1/8 teaspoon Italian seasoning. Add 1 can (7 1/2 ounces) semi-condensed Savory Cream of Mushroom Soup for One Soup, 1/2 cup uncooked quick-cooking rice, 1/4-cup green pepper strips, 1/4 cup cut-up canned tomatoes and 1/8 teaspoon salt. Bring to boil; reduce heat. Cover; cook over low heat 10 minutes or until done. Makes 1 serving.

Committee Recommends Extension of Winter Shipping

The federal house public works committee has recommended extending winter shipping in the Great Lakes for two more years following acceptance of a compromise proposal regarding the concerns of residents along the St. Mary's and St. Clair Rivers. The compromise was worked out by Reps. Robert Davis and David Bonior of Michigan and James Oberstar of Minnesota.

"During the past several weeks, it has become apparent that there was support in congress to extend the winter shipping season in some form for at least the next couple of years," Davis explained. "My thrust was that if winter shipping were going to continue, I wanted to make sure that the problems of the residents along the St. Mary's River were addressed."

Davis' district, which includes the Soo Locks and the St. Mary's River system, is the area most affected by the extended navigation season. The residents of that area had voiced opposition to winter shipping because of shoreline erosion and island transportation problems they say were caused by shipping during the winter months.

Davis asked Bonior and Oberstar, both members of the public works committee, if he could take part in writing the compromise language because of the impact of winter navigation in his district. Davis' staff attended all of the meetings and took an active role in authorizing the language for the amendment.

Basically, the amendment authorizes winter shipping to continue for the next two winters until January 31, plus or minus two weeks. The locks would be closed once it was deemed that the shipping was causing unacceptable risks to the environment or to island transportation. Such determination would be made by the Corps of Engineers in consultation with the State of Michigan and the United States Coast Guard. The third year, the locks would be closed December 31 and would not reopen again until April 1, 1982. An extensive environmental study would be done during the winters of 1980-81 and 1981-82.

Four Vandalism Complaints Investigated in County

Four vandalism complaints were investigated last week by Iosco Sheriff's Department.

Vera Kocher of Hale reported that a hand rail and a bamboo flag pole were damaged at her home. Lawrence H. Jordan of National City reported that the gate to his hunting camp had been damaged, while two car windows were smashed at Krumrei Distributors in Tawas City.

Officers were called to the Star

Motel in Tawas City where several subjects had thrown furniture into a pool. Those responsible were asked to leave, but Helen Slowinski, owner, reported later she had given permission to the subjects to stay. The next day, the owner reported damage to a shower stall and toilet in the unit rented by the subjects.

MODOMAC 44 is a professional application, not a wax job. It doesn't employ plastics. It doesn't require re application (for years and years). It doesn't smear or soften in heat. It won't streak, etch or oxidize aluminum surfaces. It won't craze or check in cold temperatures.

MODOMAC 44 is a tested, proven treatment. Although new to this community, it has been seven years in development in other parts of the United States. The chemical utilized in the process is a blend of silicones, cleaners, hardeners and sun screens formulated for easy cleaning. The result is a smooth characteristic that guards the surface, tending to make foreign materials slip off and not stick.

Available for any hard, non porous surface, the Modomac 44 treatment is not diminished by detergents. Yet it gives the finish a showroom new look for years, restoring paint and eliminating the need for waxes, chrome cleaners and compounds.

MODOMAC 44 has more features than other systems:

Tawas Indies Nosed Out by Gladwin, 2-1

In a showdown battle Sunday, Tawas Indies lost a heart-breaker to visiting Gladwin, 2-1, in North-eastern Michigan League play to finish the 1979 season.

Tawas jumped off to a one run lead in the bottom of the fourth inning on an error, a sacrifice bunt by Jerry Gracik and a double by Tom Gracik.

That appeared to be all that Brad Potts needed to register a victory. Although nicked for six hits during the first eight innings, Potts was tough with runners on base, fanning nine Gladwin batters and walking three.

Larry Hooper, star Gladwin pitcher, was equally effective, limiting Tawas to five hits, struck out seven and walked only one batter.

Each team made two errors during the game and an error figured in scoring by each team.

Gladwin scored two runs in the top of the ninth inning to win. Doyle Durkee singled, a fielding error by Tawas moved the runner along. Singles by Scott Slepke and Hooper scored two runs.

Tawas threatened to tie the game in the bottom of the ninth when Tom Gracik walked after one man was out. Potts belted a single, but Frank Jordan hit into a game saving double play.

The Indies had the lead runner on base in the fifth, sixth and eighth innings. A double play by Gladwin in the eighth ended that threat and Hooper pitched himself out of trouble in the other two innings. Hooper was the batting star of the game with three singles, while John Davis of Gladwin rapped a pair of singles. Gracik's double was the lone batting highlight of the afternoon for Tawas.

Clowns Were Entertaining at Speedway

A clown contest at intermission provided fun for racing enthusiasts at Saturday night's Whittemore Speedway program. Spectators participated in the judging.

The clown car group highlighted the show with their famous slide for life through fire, while another group performed with wheelbarrows in a race around the track. Youngsters got into the act, too, with an excellent program.

Thirteen drivers were among the top finishers during the night and only two drivers, Ed Muckenthaler of Turner and Rick Spencer, had two first place finishes each.

The four-car dash in the flyers' category was won by Gary Barnes of Hale. Heat race winners were Dan Valent of Whittemore, Spencer and Allen Markel of Alger.

The Australian pursuit went to Bob Newman of Prescott. Mike Hugo of Turner won first place in the semi-feature, with Bob Fall of Glennie taking second and Markel won third.

Spencer won $100 for his first place finish in the feature race, followed by David Klump Jr., Sterling, second place, and Valent won third place.

In the hobby class, Muckenthaler won the four-car dash. Heat race winners were Frank Seder of Alger and Duane Look of East Tawas.

Muckenthaler won first place and prize money of $110 for finishing first in the hobby class feature. Second place went to Bill Freeburn of Alger and Tony Holstine of Alger won third place.

This Saturday night's program will feature motorcycle races.

Cubs and Hawks Crowned Champions of Tawas Junior Baseball Summer Leagues

Final games of the Tawas area junior baseball program were played last week with new champions named in both leagues.

On July 23, the Cubs and the Jets faced off in the third and final games of the playoffs in the Knot-hole League and, after six innings of play, the Cubs were the victors by defeating the Jets, 15-6.

Steve Rollin was the winning pitcher and led the hitting attack with a single, two doubles and a triple. Matt Ernst also slammed two doubles and a single for the Cubs.

Last year, the Cubs were on the opposite end of the final standings with a one and nine record and finished this year with a record of 12 wins and only one loss.

Pony League play ended July 24 with the Hawks crowned the champion by defeating the Twins, 5-2. The Twins pushed one run over in the first inning on a walk, a stolen base and scored on a good bunt.

The Hawks tied the score in the second by loading the bases on walks and a run scored on an infield ground ball.

The Hawks broke out with three runs in the fourth inning on two a double. The Twins closed within two runs in the sixth inning with back-to-back doubles by Tom Schreiber and Earl Weaver.

Both pitchers struck out 11 batters and allowed three hits. Jon Erickson was the winning pitcher for the Hawks and Schreiber handled the pitching for the Twins.

FOR Councilman

"PROGRESS THROUGH UNITY"

I feel that now is the time for talks that will commence action towards the various problems that our community faces, not the senseless and abusive talks that have been made without any results. It is necessary for deep commitment and sensible line of verbal contact.

In my belief the only way we will 'progress' is through unity and by facing the problems as a community, this will be the only way we will achieve the necessary actions to contain and remedy the problems we face.
