Opening Wing Starts New Hospital History Chapter

Beginning a new chapter in the history of Tawas Hospital, a new patient wing was put into operation Friday. The first part of the expansion, housing of administrative offices, has been in operation for the past three weeks.

The new patient rooms replace the original, but now outmoded, east wing constructed in 1953. Although this expansion will not substantially increase the number of beds at the hospital, it will allow for extension of current services and the addition of new ones.

Specifically, within the new wing, the coronary care unit has been expanded from three to four beds and the patient rooms are larger and more comfortable.

After the move to the new wing is completed, remodeling of the older parts of the hospital will begin. This is to include expansion of the radiology, physical therapy, respiration therapy and medical records departments. Laboratory facilities are also to be expanded.

Still on the agenda for the near future is the addition of the medical arts building, which could house as many as 10 doctors, and a new two-room surgical suite. The medical arts building is to be privately owned and financed.

Some 21 patients were moved Friday into the new wing.

Asks ET Council's Support of Bill to Void Helmet Law

A request for support of legislation aimed at eliminating state-mandated requirements for persons riding motorcycles to wear protective helmets was heard Monday night by the East Tawas Council.

Appearing at the meeting was Gary Goddard, East Tawas businessman, who requested council support a bill to eliminate the helmet provision.

The council referred Goddard to City Police Chief Donald Docking, who is to make a recommendation.

In other matters, Earl Gregory, owner of a commercial building on US-23 which was recently denied an occupancy permit, appeared before the council and submitted a drawing which he said indicated there was adequate parking to serve his building, formerly the location of Northern Plumbing. The matter was referred to the planning commission. The zoning board of appeals recently denied an application for use of the building as a gift shop. The council may recommend that the building be removed from the tax roll if it cannot be used.

The city received official confirmation that $30,000 remained in surplus water supply system funds administered by the Iosco County Department of Public Works. The city is to make application to borrow the surplus money at an interest rate of five percent for 40 years to purchase materials needed for construction of a water line near Green Road.

The council approved a request from City Supt. William Smith to give an additional paid vacation day to city employees on December 24 and 31.

On recommendation of Mayor Robert Bolen, the council agreed to raise its appropriation from $2,200 to $4,000 for the city's tree planting program in 1980.

City Gives Approval Street Vacation Benefits Elementary Playground

Following a public hearing Monday night, Tawas City Council vacated a portion of Ninth Avenue between the north line of Third Street (Dead Creek) and the south line of Second Street located west of the Tawas City Elementary Unit.

The street had never been opened and the closing came on petition of the board of education. The street divided two parcels of school property used for playgrounds purposes. Easements were retained for utilities, drainage and a foot bridge across the creek.

Although stating he had no objection to vacating the street as it would improve the school playground, Boynton St. James, an adjacent property owner, pointed out that several of his lots fronting on Ninth Avenue would not have egress to a public street. He felt that the lots would have less value without a street and asked for an adjustment of his tax assessment.

City Mgr. Lowell Thomas pointed out that the city council had no jurisdiction over tax assessments and the property owner should apply for relief from the city assessor or tax board of review.

Herman Rollin, elementary principal, appeared before the council and questioned if the present traveled portion of Second Street extension west of the school was going to remain where presently located. Two trails paralleling the present extension have been closed by the city in recent years.

In other matters, the city manager is to investigate the advisability of adopting an ordinance to control demolition of old buildings, with the possibility of requiring a bond to guarantee performance during a specified time period as well as to establish liability.

Scrambling to Meet Deadline Confusion Over Application

Confusion at Lansing two years ago concerning processing of Tawas City's waste water treatment permit, coupled with the lack of a locally signed consent decree admitting pollution, has utterly confused the city's application for participation in the federal-state "201" program to upgrade the city's waste water treatment system.

City Mgr. Lowell Thomas told the city council Monday night that he had met with Michigan Department of Natural Resources officials at Lansing on November 21 in order to speed the process of having the city sign the consent decree by December 21.

If action is not taken by that date, there would be a six-month delay in obtaining funds to carry out the second step involving final engineering, design and preparation of bidding documents for a new sewage treatment facilities.

Although DNR officials indicated that paper work would be completed to meet the deadline, the press of other business and the need for coordination between offices may cause a stumbling block.

Signing the consent decree is essential to improve the city's rating on a priority system to receive funds. The city's priority rating was dropped from 136th out of 609 projects in 1976 to 240th out of 252 projects in 1979.

A few years ago, communities around the state which had outdated treatment plants and were polluting, were given "interim discharge permits" to continue polluting legally until they could improve plants. When those permits expired, the cities were to apply for new permits and execute or sign a consent decree issued by the state, admitting that they were polluting and agreeing to work by a stated schedule to abate the pollution.

By signing the decree, communities were able to double the number of points assigned to them by the state in developing the priority list, thus giving them better chances of being funded.

In 1977, Tawas City's permit expired. At that time, a new procedure had come out of the federal bureaucracy involving discharge permits where there was significant industrial waste. Because of the metals coming from Tawas Plating, it was apparently felt Tawas City should apply under the new provision to renew its permit. Since the state bureaucracy did not know how to process that application, this city's permit was never renewed and the city never entered a consent decree with the state.

The city manager has been working since mid-summer to correct the problem, but paper work at Lansing still has not been completed.

The first step in upgrading the waste water treatment system in the Tawas area has been completed in the past three years, involving a study of the entire area by engineering firms representing both cities. Reports were completed and submitted to the state last spring for approval.

Since then, however, a new problem developed between engineering firms representing the two cities. While both engineers originally agreed that the most cost-effective approach would be for both cities to have their own treatment facilities, at the last minute East Tawas' engineer changed his mind and recommended one facility for both cities.

Thomas said he could agree with that recommendation "if it is indeed cost effective and the political problems can be ironed out." Tawas City's engineering consultant cannot justify the change and Thomas said in a memo to the council that "it is apparent to me that professional grudges and jealousies have played a part in creating and compounding the problem."

He reported Monday night that Edmands Engineering had talked to the DNR on November 19 and was informed that an internal meeting was scheduled for November 26 between representatives from planning, water and construction grants sections to review the matter and decide on a direction.

Thomas said it is hoped that the state can help resolve this difference of professional opinion by the end of the year. "It is obvious that neither Tawas City nor East Tawas will get a new plant until this is resolved."

Using 1977 costs, the city's projected treatment facility is estimated to run about $3,000,000, with Tawas City's share pegged at 25 percent or $750,000. By the time it is built, the city's share will probably be above $1,000,000.

Thomas said the city must ask itself—"will it get any cheaper and where will we be if federal money dries up in the near future."

Hospital Introduces Two New Board Members

Three new members have been appointed to the Tawas Hospital Board of Trustees. Beginning their terms immediately were Frank Storey and Carolyn Nash of Au Gres and Marge Gibbs of Oscoda.

Storey has been affiliated with the hospital through the development council for the past year. He is currently president of the Au Gres Lions Club and has, in the past, presided over the Arenac Shores Improvement Association and the Au Gres Men's Club. He is also commander of the coast guard auxiliary.

Mrs. Nash has been active in the hospital, serving as the Au Gres chairperson of the development council. She has served as treasurer of the Arenac Shores Improvement Association, Arenac County Historical Society and the River Aux-Sables Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Also a member of the development council, Mrs. Gibbs serves as the Oscoda chairperson. Having received degrees in home economics and mass media marketing, she is a member of the American and Michigan Home Economics Association, Women's Advertising Club and the Detroit chapter of Women in Communications. Locally, she is a member of the Huron Shore Business and Professional Women's Association and the Iosco Republican Women's Club.

Struck by Tree Branch, Head Injury Was Fatal

John Richter of Sand Lake, who was critically injured while falling a tree early last week in Huron National Forest, died Friday at Saginaw St. Mary's Hospital. Services and burial took place Monday at Kingston.

Richter and his brother had received a permit to remove a tree in the forest which had blown over during a wind storm.

The tree had lodged against another tree in its fall and a chain attached to a truck was being used to free it. Richter was struck in the head by a limb or some other flying object when the tree dropped to the ground.

TC Planners Deny Special Use Permit

Tawas City Planning Commission denied a special use permit requested by William Philpot following a public hearing held Thursday night at the city hall.

Philpot, who had been notified that he was in violation of the city's zoning ordinance due to the lack of a permit to store wrecked cars in a B-2 business district, had applied for permission to construct a building at 1033 Lake Street.

Intended use of the building was for a radiator repair business. Philpot said he was to leave his present location at a service station south of the Tawas River bridge effective December 15 and wrecked cars would be stored elsewhere outside the city after that date.

Philpot said that the proposed new building would not be used for major automotive overhaul, but it would be used to store his wrecker and plow, as well as radiator repair.

Six letters from adjacent property owners objecting to the special use permit were read during the hearing and four property owners made verbal protests. One adjacent property owners submitted a letter stating he had no objection.

Objections centered around the fact that the proposed location was in the motel and resort area of the city, that the proposed special use could be detrimental to property values and that it was not in keeping with the character of the surrounding area.

Atty. James Shotwell, representing Philpot, said that the application was being made under terms of the zoning ordinance permitting special uses. He believed that special use permits had been granted to other nonresort businesses in that area and that the ordinance was for the protection of adjacent property owners as well as Philpot's protection.

Tawas City Cooperates With County in HUD Application

Authorization to sign a cooperative agreement with Iosco County Board of Commissioners in the latter's application for participation in a federal HUD program to finance rehabilitation of housing within the county was given Monday night by the Tawas City Council.

The city's action was part of the application procedure by all communities of the county interested in the program. If approved for funding, the program would be handled by the Iosco County Housing Commission and it may pave the way for participation in other federal HUD programs.

In other matters, Martha McLeod and Boynton St. James were appointed to fill vacancies on the city planning commission. Mrs. McLeod is to fill the term expiring at the end of 1980 and St. James' term is to extend through 1982.

Mrs. McLeod's appointment by the mayor was confirmed by council action, but his second appointment of Michael Russell was not approved. Members of the council felt that St. James, who had been active as a member of the parks and recreation board and resigned to be a candidate in the November election, should receive the appointment. After Russell's appointment was not confirmed by the council, Choler appointed St. James and the council confirmed the appointment.

Russell, who had expressed interest in serving, is to be asked if he would consider appointment to some other board.

The council is to appoint two members to the city cemetery board at its next meeting.

Offer Reward for Information

So-called sportsmen who decide to use Consumers Power Company's power line insulators for targets had better think twice — someone might be watching.

According to J. E. Wessels, manager for the utility's Tawas District, Consumers Power has substantially increased the amount of reward money it will pay for information leading to the arrest and arraignment of those who caused two recent outages.

Instead of the usual $500 reward, Consumers Power is offering up to a maximum of $5,000 for each of the two incidents.

The first took place November 18 between the communities of McKinley and Mio along the AuSable River. Damage to four insulators on a 138,000-volt line resulted in outages of up to several hours for over 4,000 customers in Iosco and Alcona Counties.

On Thanksgiving Day in Clare County, damage to an insulator resulted in outages of several hours for over 9,000 customers in the county.

Wessels said each of the outages resulted from damage to insulators caused by gunfire. He said that the company had increased the amount of the reward to encourage people to report those who are responsible for the damage.

"These were senseless acts which needlessly deprived our customers of electric power and could have endangered lives," said Wessels. "Such actions are nothing more than vandalism and the use of a rifle for this deed is an insult to true sportsmen and hunters."

Holiday Hints

PULLING HOLIDAY PUNCHES

A special holiday touch is a shimmering punch bowl surrounded by a cache of special gifts for guests.

A charming old custom is to adorn the traditional punch bowl with a little supply of totally unexpected gifts at trim-the-tree parties, covered-dish suppers, even black-tie galas.

For a very special punch bowl, use boiled water in ice trays for very clear cubes. For fancy cubes, food coloring can be added to the water. Sprigs of mint, curls of citrus peel, maraschino cherries—all can be frozen into cubes. Striking ice floats can be made by freezing exotic blossoms into the ice. Add dry ice for the dramatic effect of clouds of vapor and super chilling.

another community pertaining to the matter. Discussion was again held on the possibility of selling nine city-owned lots on Twelfth Avenue for residential development. Due to the current slump in residential building caused by high interest rates, it was felt that no immediate action should be taken, but the city manager is to conduct an investigation to determine the advisability of such a sale.

The lots in question were purchased many years ago by the city as a buffer between residences and the former city dump. The lots are heavily wooded with large pine trees and the area is presently used for nature trails.

A motion by Coun. Robert Rollin to sell the Adamek property west of the city hall and return the lot to the tax roll was withdrawn by Rollin after discussion. The city had purchased the property for use in expanding the city hall site, but a bond issue to finance construction was defeated for the second time in November.

Coun. John Martin felt that the matter should be studied before any action is taken. City Mgr. Lowell Thomas said he would study the matter and make a recommendation, possibly with the idea of renting the property.

Appoint

No action was taken on the matter of special charges designated for building lots within the city which, in the past, had been earmarked for a special sewer assessment or connection charge over and above the normal connection charge.

Action by the water board in 1974 sought to recoup a portion of city funds used in the cost of installing sewer mains some years earlier on First Avenue, Ninth Avenue and Third Avenue. The water board's 1974 policy called for an assessment of $9 per front foot for sewer main construction serving those designated lots.

In one instance, the developer of North Park Acres Subdivision paid the cost of connecting to the city sewer system through a line constructed along First Avenue. The area south of North Park Acres was undeveloped at the time and, as lots filled in with new houses, the connection charge included the original cost of constructing the sewer main.

Over the years since completion of the main, connection and front foot charges have not been consistent in application to each lot and only three or four vacant lots remain.

Because of the fact that the city was without the power to establish special assessment districts when the line was constructed, later corrected by a local amendment to the Fourth Class City Act and then provided for in the 1971 charter, the city may have no legal grounds to assess the remaining property owners through action taken years ago by the water board.

The matter came to light recently when a resident applied for a sewer connection and the city manager learned this designated lot required an extra payment over and above the normal connection charge.

Under provisions of the city charter, the city could assess the $9 per front foot charge and the city council could amend the sewer ordinance to make provision for collection. This was the recommendation of the city manager, who is to study the matter further and report back to the council.

Seek Local Contributions to St. V. Children's Home

The St. Vincent Home for Children, Lansing, was opened in 1952 as a nonprofit charitable organization for the care of dependent and neglected youth. The home accommodates up to 36 boys and girls from five through 15 years of age who are admitted without regard to race, religion or national origin and is licensed by the Michigan Department of Social Services, governed by a board of directors and operated by a professional staff.

The program is one of residential treatment for emotionally impaired youngsters who are unable to live in foster homes or their own homes and who will benefit from a group residential environment. The school provides professional treatment for children having adjustment problems who are in need of individual attention in this type of setting. Social workers, child care workers and houseparents work regularly with the children and offer a recreation program consisting of indoor and outdoor activities. The social workers also work with the families of the children and provide after-care services when children are discharged.

All of the children attend school. Special education classes are available in the Waverly and Lansing School Districts. In addition, one special education classroom is operated at the home by the Ingham Intermediate School District for residents.

During the summer, when school is out, a full-time program of recreation, enrichment and remedial education in addition to clinical treatment services are provided. Included in this program are camping opportunities for all of the children as well as regularly scheduled field trips and other recreational activities.

As the school continues to provide for the personal, educational, social, spiritual and psychological needs of the boys and girls entrusted to its care, inflation is becoming more and more a problem. Consequently, the school is asking for tax deductible gifts of $100, $50, $25, $15 or whatever one cares to give. Donations will be used in the best interests of the children and will be greatly appreciated.

All contributions may be sent to St. Vincent Home for Children, 2800 West Willow Street, Lansing 48917.

whom live in Oscoda, presented a Christmas show for the patients at Iosco Medical Care Facility and Provincial House. A Christmas theme with dancing and singing to well-known Christmas songs and an old-fashioned dance to "Daisy" complete with long dresses for the girls and Derbys for their partners entertained residents. A toe dance by the Candy Cane girls and another by the Christmas Belles delighted them and the little tots who did "Rudolph the Red Nosed Reindeer," complete with red nose and antlers, brought a chuckle from the audience. When the fast tappers were on, there was clapping of hands in time with the music. After each program, the pupils mingled with the patients handing out Christmas cards. Donald Parrish of Oscoda accompanied the dancers on the piano.

The program was emceed by Mary Beth Kubisiak, Teri Rapp, Barbara Welton, Karen Moore, Amy Ellwein and Paula Roach. Test engineer records data during the National Safety Council's winter driving tests at Stevens Point, Wisconsin. The annual testing program has evaluated vehicles, tires, tire chains and other equipment under extreme weather conditions.

Pointing up the extreme hazard of driving on glare ice, these tests show that stopping on glare ice may take as much as nine times the normal, dry pavement distance. The tests also disclose that conventional snow tires are of no help in stopping on ice, while studded tires reduce braking distance by 19%, and reinforced tire chains by 50%.

Burglars Hit Two Hale A. Cottages

Two burglaries, four larcenies and a littering complaint were investigated last week by Iosco County Sheriff's Department.
 Two cottages owned by Lawrence Roberts and John Meyer in the Hale area were entered. Entry into the Roberts cottage was made through the use of a key found under a mat on the front porch. A television set is missing.
 Larcenies were reported by Florence Nelson, Ninth Avenue, Tawas City, mail box; Continental Telephone Company, tools stolen from a truck at Hale; Anthony Schafanetz, Hale, theft of approximately 10 gallons of gasoline from vehicle; Schaaf Lumber Company, East Tawas, 31 24-foot trusses.
 Officers were called to the Plainfield Township dump on Kokosing Road where a complaint was received that persons in two different vehicles had thrown garbage bags on the ground near the gate and then drove off.

Local Views to be Heard on New Forest Management

Huron-Manistee National Forests representatives will be conducting a public input session at Oscoda Area High School Auditorium Saturday, December 8, between 2:00 and 4:00 p. m. The purpose of the session is to identify local concerns for future management of the national forests in Iosco and Alcona County.
 The national forests in Iosco and Alcona Counties are important not only to the general public residing within these counties but to many other persons who vacation and recreate in the area. Trends in the use and output from national forests have changed over time, Calvin Norton, Tawas District ranger, said. It is highly important the forest service as the managing agency and the general public set down and develop the optimum uses that this public land can be put to in the future.

 All issues generated at the December 8 meeting will be evaluated by the forest planning team as to their scope, intensity and duration.
 Norton stated that he and other forest service officials encourage attendance at this meeting by a broad cross section of interested users of the national forests. These should range from timber producers who rely upon the timber resource as a means of livelihood to the incidental nonconsumptive user such as hikers or skiers. This meeting should be highly important for local, township and county planning officials since the future planning effort on the national forests has both direct and indirect effects bearing upon local plans being prepared.

Baby is Crying

Device Alerts Deaf Mother

Crying is the primary means of communication for a newborn child. But what happens when the mother is deaf and is unable to hear the child's cries? This problem currently faces Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Dumas of Tawas City. Mrs. Dumas is afflicted by a severe hearing impairment and her husband has a moderate hearing loss. Through the efforts of Iosco Quota Club, their problem will be solved. The Quota club is equipping the Dumas family with a "baby cry relay," just in time to aid in caring for the Dumas' second child, Timothy Daniel, who was born three weeks ago. Their daughter, Sara, is a year old.

The relay device works by monitoring the baby's cries through a microphone which is mounted on the crib, high chair or wherever the baby is located. The baby's cry causes an element, connected to the microphone by several yards of wire, to vibrate and thereby alert the mother. The vibrator is located under the mother's pillow at night and a flashing light also alerts the mother that the baby is crying during the day.

The baby cry relay was presented to the Dumas family Thursday morning in the hearing clinic at Tawas Hospital. Training both Mr. and Mrs. Dumas in the use of the equipment was Nancy Huck, hearing technician at the hospital.

Iosco Quota Club is a service organization of business and professional women. The club, composed of approximately 54 local women, is dedicated primarily to charities and institutions involving the problems of the hearing impaired.

The club's gift was greatly appreciated by the young couple. Dumas, who has been out of work due to a back injury, returned to his job last week as a machinist for the Valeron Company.

ROADS OF ICE

Men of Michigan have used a variety of materials to improve road surfaces during the state's nearly 150-year history—clay, sawdust, pine and oak planking, cedar blocks, gravel, crushed limestone, blocks of granite, brick, bituminous asphalt and concrete—but the material for one of the most unusual roads ever devised was provided by nature, free of charge except for the labor involved.

Those roads required almost daily attention and when the surface was "worn out," a new one was applied at night! The roads were only used for a few months—sometimes only weeks—and when the sap began to flow in the sugar bush, the roads were practically useless.

To one not familiar with the spectacle, it looks quite novel to see a long white road of ice winding its length through the woods, through slashings, over and around hills and across plains, on either side of which there is not a particle of snow to whiten the earth," stated The Iosco County Gazette in its edition of January 20, 1881.

Today, it seems strange that a newspaper editor of 1881 would devote an 18-line paragraph of his precious news space—each four-page edition had only seven columns of locally hand set type—to describe an ice road, for such roads were commonplace in Iosco County and known practically first hand by his 300 or so readers.

But the single paragraph survives as one of the best contemporary descriptions of this now forgotten means of hauling heavy loads in winter, which was so important during the state's white pine logging era. In this instance, the winter of 1881 was one of those seasons when very little snow fell in Northern Michigan and that could mean financial disaster for lumbermen.

"Many ice roads have been formed in the woods the present winter and over them great loads have been hauled by a single team, loads ranging from 4,500 to 5,500 feet," stated the editor.

Readers of the local newspaper in 1881 were perfectly familiar with such lumbering terms, knowing that it required about eight logs, 12 feet in length and 36 inches in diameter to scale out slightly more than 5,500 board feet, according to a "cheat stick" used by one old-time scaler.

That would be a good working load in any lumbering operation, although gigantic loads scaling as much as 36,055 feet, containing 50 select logs, were loaded on one set of massive bunks and towed along an ice road to set a Michigan record.

Continuing with the editor's descriptive paragraph, "These roads are renewed daily, the

with water and drawn over the road at night. Water sprinkled on the road would quickly freeze into a hard surface. Horses were shod especially for such work with extra long caulks on iron shoes.

sprinkling cart being put on at night after the day's hauling has been accomplished."

A specialized piece of equipment was used for this purpose. An oblong, strongly built wooden tank, holding from 50 to 100 barrels of water, was placed on a pair of sleighs with curved runners and a tongue on each end to save turning it around.

The tank was built as wide as the road, or the width of the sled, which had 11 to 14-foot bunks. The water dribbled from holes directly over the runner tracks. On cold nights, the water froze almost instantly on reaching the road—thanks to the below zero temperature of the Michigan winter. In some cases, a fire was built under the sleigh to thaw the sprinkler box at the start of the night's work.

The Gazette's description concluded as follows: "Jobbers prefer ice roads thus made and renewed to snow roads, because they wear better and permit driving of larger loads with single teams."

Construction of ice roads was performed in Michigan and was an innovation of the state's major industry during the latter half of the nineteenth century. The first lumbermen on the scene purchased government stands of white pine which were closest to streams for convenience of transporting logs. As lumbering continued to fan out into the pineries, logs were skidded by horses to a central collection point where they were loaded on sleighs and hauled to the nearest stream.

A letter to the Gazette editor entitled, "A Trip to the Camps," was published January 27, 1881. The unsigned letter gave an excellent description of the woods operation which utilized ice roads for moving logs to the banking grounds.

"I started on my journey, going as far as T. F. Thompson's camp on the main AuSable River. This camp is run by Mr. (Henry) Ash, a brother-in-law of Mr. T. He has 40 men, 10 horse teams and four yoke of oxen. They have a 2 1/2-mile haul and are putting in from 40,000 to 60,000 per day.

"From there I went to Camp 11 of the Oscoda Salt and Lumber Company (H. N. Loud and Sons), run by George Green. He has about 70 men and 50 horses. I had supper at Joseph Duggan's, certainly the boss camp of the AuSable country. He has 90 men, 23 teams, a four-mile haul and is putting in the river from 80,000 to 100,000 per day. I took pains to inquire what he was getting per 1,000 feet and how much his daily expenses were and it leaves him a net profit of from $1,000 to $1,200 per week."

Note that the Gazette's correspondent stressed the length of the "haul" for each camp. The longer haul meant less profit to the owner because of the expense of constructing ice roads, coupled with additional teams of horses and men to perform the work.

Another note of interest in that issue concerning log hauling over ice roads was as follows: "At Thomas Duggan's camp, 16,016 feet of logs were hauled in three loads over a six-mile road by a single team in one day, Phil Curran, teamster. At the OS&L Company's Camp 11, 6,688 feet were hauled to the banking ground five miles distant by Delance Cronkite's team, H. C. Carrier, scaler. The average load for the 10 teams in this camp this winter has been 3,200 feet."

Another item dated May 31, 1881, stated: "Hope's camp on the South Branch of the AuSable broke up last week, having hauled this winter 8,500,000 feet of logs. If there is another camp in the Michigan district that can show as great an output in one winter with a six-mile haul, let us hear from him." Such competition between crews was one method used by owners to speed operations and improve their profit picture.

Lumber camp owners and jobbers in the logging operation went to great lengths to protect those valuable ice roads during winter thaws and even into early spring weather. In March 1878, the Bay City Observer published an account of methods used by one lumbering firm of the region to extend the life of an ice road well into the thawing season.

"Speaking of lumbering under difficulties, a gentleman who came down from Otsego Lake says that at Wright's Camp the roadway, which had been sprinkled and had snow shoveled upon it until it was in pretty good shape, was covered when the warm weather came by cutting spruce and pine saplings and tying them together across the road. The sun was thus excluded and the roadway kept in good condition and used until Friday night. One of the methods used to keep the roads good was to rig scrapers and put teams to work on the small lakes, scraping the snow together in great windrows. It was then loaded upon wagons and hauled where it would do the most good."

All of the efforts to preserve ice roads meant extra work for the teamsters. A letter to the editor written in 1937, many decades after the end of Michigan's white pine era, contended that the teamster was the hardest worker in the lumber woods. "He got the brunt of the whole works," declared Billy Ellis of Oscoda, one of the noted teamsters of his day.

Ice roads are now a forgotten item, except in the history of Michigan's lumbering era, having no practical use in the modern industrial transportation scheme.

Until recent times, a depression where Smith Creek crosses Esmond Road east of Hale was known locally as the "sprinkler hole," having served for years as a place where the wooden tanks of sprinkler sleds were loaded with water for use in icing roads. With the passage of nearly a century since ice roads were last used, that designation, too, has been practically forgotten, except to a few oldsters in the Hale area who recall logging era stories told by their grandfathers.

THIS CREW is loading a sprinkler box on the sleigh at right from a stream or lake. A barrel was lowered into the water and then

Scout Receives Award for Saving His Mom's Life

A 15-year-old Tawas City star scout, Travis J. Abbott, was awarded a National Court of Honor medal of merit for outstanding service during a court of honor conducted Wednesday night, November 28, by Boy Scout Troop No. 974, Tawas City.
 The young scout was credited with saving his mother's life.
 On June 15, Abbott insisted on accompanying his mother, Sharon, 35, when she went swimming at Sand Lake, knowing that she was not a good swimmer and tired from the work of housewarming.
 Mrs. Abbott sustained severe cramps in the arms and legs and began floundering in the water.
 "When his mother began having difficulties, Travis coolly held her up and reassured her. When she regained her composure after 10 minutes, he assisted her in swimming to shore. His coolness and excellent use of life-saving skills saved his mother's life," stated a citation read by Scoutmaster Thomas Pockrandt.

 Also participating in the ceremony was James Mark, who has been active in scouting here for many years.
 Others receiving awards during the court of honor were Mark Mandrek, conservation and family living skill awards; Robert Philpot, conservation and community living skill awards; Chris Beebe, fishing merit badge; Glen VanSickle, safety merit badge, environmental science merit badge, emergency preparedness merit badge, citizen of the world merit badge;
 Alen Selvig, hiking award, camping merit badge and rank of second class scout; Edward Latham, first aid merit badge and rank of first class scout; Michael Roach, rank of star scout.

Announcements of the Tuesday, December 18, meeting at 7:00 p. m. at the community building and the monthly committee meeting Tuesday, December 11, at the home of Mrs. Michael Freely were made. The round-table meeting is slated for December 6, 7:30 p. m., at Cedar Lake Elementary School, Oscoda.

TO THE CUSTOMERS OF MICHIGAN CONSOLIDATED GAS COMPANY
 (Published by Direction of the Michigan Public Service Commission)

NOTICE OF GAS RATE INCREASE HEARING THROUGH IMPLEMENTATION OF OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE CONTROL BY INDEXING SYSTEM

In its Opinion and Order dated November 6, 1979 in Case No. U-5955, this Commission established an Operation and Maintenance Expense Control By Indexing System for rate schedule customers of Michigan Consolidated Gas Company (Consolidated). That system authorizes an annual change in the portion of Consolidated's jurisdictional rates and charges attributable to certain operation and maintenance expenses, other than purchased gas and uncollectible gas accounts, in accordance with changes in the Consumer Price Index (CPI).

The Commission found in the Opinion and Order that a reasonable Operation and Maintenance Control By Indexing System base amount is $122,302,000. The amount of the adjustment will be computed at the 1979 hearing and collected as follows:

- (1) Determine the percentage change in the all Items, Wage Earners and Clerical Workers Revised, Unadjusted, National CPI between August 1 of the year prior to the November hearing year and August 1 of the hearing year. The 1979 hearing will determine the percentage change in the CPI between August 1, 1978 and August 1, 1979.
- (2) Calculate the allowable change in "other O&M" expense by multiplying the base amount by the percentage change in the all items National CPI as determined in Step (1). The base amount plus the allowable change will be the new base amount for the next hearing, not the actual other O&M expense which Applicant may have. For the purpose of major rate cases, the base amount plus the total allowable changes will become a new base amount and included as such in the rates.
- (3) Calculate the allowable change per Mcf by dividing the allowable change determined in Step (2) by the 12-months' total jurisdictional gas sales of 441,444,495 as determined in this case. The total jurisdictional gas sales as determined in the latest rate case should be used in subsequent indexing hearings until a new figure is set in a new major rate case.
- (4) The amount per Mcf in Step (3) should be applied to customers' bills for total jurisdictional gas sales, for 12 months starting with the January billing month following the November hearing.

Consolidated has requested that the Commission increase its commodity charges pursuant to the Operation and Maintenance Control By Indexing System by .334c per Ccf, or .328c per therm, for the 12 months beginning in January 1980. The annual bill for an average residential heating customer using 175 Mcf would increase by about $5.80 as a result of the proposed surcharge.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT:

A. A public hearing in this matter will be held at 9:30 a.m. on December 13, 1979 in the offices of the Commission, Mercantile Building, 6545 Mercantile Way, Lansing, Michigan, for the purpose of determining the percent increase in the CPI between August 1, 1978 and August 1, 1979, and the corresponding surcharge to be applied to all customers' bills as provided in the Commission's Opinion and Order dated November 6, 1979 in Case No. U-5955. Any interested persons may attend the hearing and participate, subject to the provisions of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure.

B. Any person seeking to intervene, in accordance with Rule 11 of the Rules of Practice and Procedure Before the Commission shall file with the Commission, on or before December 10, 1979, an original and 15 copies of a petition to intervene, together with proof of service upon Applicant.

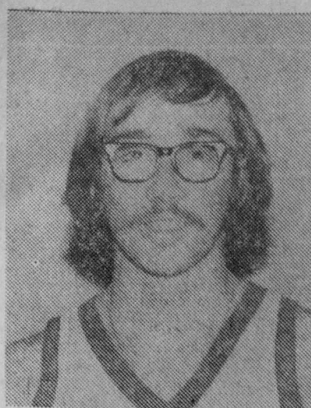

Subparagraph (2) of said Rule 11 provides as follows: "(2) A petition to intervene shall set out clearly and concisely the facts supporting the petitioner's alleged right or interest, the grounds of the proposed intervention, and the position of the petitioner in the proceeding, so as fully and completely to advise the parties and the commission of the specific issues of fact or law to be raised or controverted." (Emphasis added.)

C. Consolidated shall promptly serve upon each intervening party a copy of its application, prepared direct testimony and exhibits. Proof of service shall be filed at or before the hearing on December 13, 1979.

Jurisdiction in this matter is pursuant to 1909 PA 300, as amended, MCLA 462.2 et seq.; Section 4 of 1919 PA 419, as amended, MCLA 460.54; Sections 4, 6, 6a and 6b of 1939 PA 3, as amended, MCLA 460.4, 460.6, 460.6a and 460.6b; Section 3 of 1923 PA 238, as amended, MCLA 486.253; 1979 PA 306, as amended, MCLA 24.201 et seq.; and the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, 1954 Administrative Code, 1968 Annual Supplement, R 460.11 et seq.

Braves Open Friday Against Mio

Tawas Area Braves, the team which thrilled local basketball fans earlier this year by winning district, regional and quarter final tournaments before losing at Ann Arbor the night before the class C championship was decided, will be highly touted as one of the teams to beat this season in the Northeastern Michigan Conference.

Whether the Braves can repeat their unprecedented tournament trail success is a matter to be considered three months from now; for the present, Coach Paul Becker and his charges are concentrating on another season in a much improved Northeastern Michigan Conference.

"Every team in the conference will be tough and all will be gunning to beat us after our tournament success of last season," said Becker.

During the last NEM season, the Braves had to settle for second place behind Gladwin in an exciting photo finish. The Braves upset the previously unbeaten Flying Gs late in the season and had to win their last two games to gain a tie for the championship. The Tawas squad split the decision in games with Pinconning and Ogemaw Heights to finish second best in the conference. Gladwin added a football trophy to its collection last fall and is expected to be just as strong as it was last season when it won the basketball championship.

After meeting Mio-AuSable in the opening game Friday, December 7, at Tawas, the Braves will travel to Pinconning December 14 and the Spartans will be looking for another upset. Pinconning is always tough at home, especially so against Tawas teams, and several league championships have been decided in games played between those two schools.

Four starters from last year's squad are returning to the hardwood for Friday night's opener with the Thunderbolts. One of the big questions still to be answered, however, is the condition of Grant Mousseau's knee.

The senior guard, who sparked Tawas in its quarter final overtime victory at Cheboygan, has been nursing a knee injury and his healthy return is one of the big question marks for the Braves.

A trio of returnees should be stronger and more experienced than last year. Kevin Grace, six-foot, six-inch, 197-pound center, should be more aggressive than last season and it probably will take more than double teaming by opposing teams—a tactic used in tournaments—to stop his shots; Brian Norton, six-foot, two-inch, 190-pound forward, comes off an outstanding football season and is expected to be as tough at his forward slot as he was as a middle linebacker on the gridiron. Both Grace and Norton have been starters on Tawas' varsity since their sophomore years.

The real key to any success by Tawas is expected to be provided by Kraig Moffatt, who was a steady performer all last season and is counted on being the team leader in 1979-80. Depending upon the condition of Mousseau's knee, Moffatt will either fill the forward vacancy left by the graduation of Jim Dubovsky, or he will become a guard.

Moving into the guard slot vacated by the graduation of Bill King will be Jay Grabow, who was a standout performer as a sophomore for last year's junior varsity, moved up to the varsity for tournament action and was quarterback on the varsity squad during the recently completed football season.

Other returning seniors on the squad, who saw action last year and provided key bench strength, included Jim Gracik, John Gardiner, Bryant Wilke and Mike Gidley.

Moving up from the junior varsity are Rick Mousseau, Jeff Wojahn, Tom Schriber and Jim Pockel. It would not be surprising to see either Mousseau, a junior, or Schriber, a sophomore, break into a starting position at some point in the season.

Tawas will be fast this season, but team success will depend greatly on speed and accuracy in passing, rather than dribbling the ball down the court. Grace, who will be the key to Tawas' rebounding game, will have to hustle on offense.

"All of the kids participated in a summer basketball league and should be in good shape at the start of the regular season.

The team is mentally ready to play right from the start and only time will tell," states Coach Becker.

The Braves' game against Pinconning will be the only league contest before the Christmas break, which will see Tawas participating in a holiday tournament at Fairview. After that it will be two solid months of basketball leading up to the state district tournament in March.

Call Social Security To Conduct Business

Most people can take care of nearly all of their social security business by telephone, a social security spokesperson said recently.

Using the phone can be more convenient and a real time-saver the representative said. It spares people a trip to the office and a possible wait and it allows social security personnel to serve the public in a more efficient manner.

The spokesperson listed some of the matters that can be taken care of by telephone:

- Applying for social security or supplemental security income payments.
- Applying for Medicare.
- Requesting a change of name or address on social security records.
- Reporting events that may affect receipt of checks, such as starting or stopping work.
- Reporting a lost or stolen check or a delayed payment.
- Replacing a lost or missing social security or Medicare card.
- Getting help with filling out Medicare forms.
- Getting an estimate of monthly benefit amount.
- Requesting a statement of earnings reported to a person's social security record.

questions and answers

Q. I've decided I'd like to have my social security check deposited directly into my checking account. It would be much more convenient than having to stand in line at the bank every month. How do I arrange for direct deposit?

A. All you have to do is complete a direct deposit form SF-1199. You can get the form at your financial organization and the people there will help you fill it out. Direct deposit of your checks will start about several months after you submit the form. In the meantime, you'll continue to get your social security checks at home.

Q. My uncle is 89. In the past year, his mental condition has steadily deteriorated. I don't think he's capable of handling his SSI payments. Can arrangements be made for his checks to be mailed to me?

A. If a person getting SSI checks loses the mental or physical ability to manage the money, the person who takes care of the recipient should notify social security. After an application is filed, arrangements will be made to issue the checks to a representative payee—a relative or other person who can act for the recipient.

Q. I'm trying to decide whether to enroll in the medical insurance part of Medicare. I'll be eligible for Medicare in a few months. I already have health insurance through my union, so I can't see paying a monthly premium for Medicare medical insurance if I don't need it. Can you give me any information to help me decide?

A. Many private health insurance companies point out that their policies for people entitled to Medicare are designed only to supplement Medicare. They recommend that their policyholders sign up for the medical insurance part of Medicare to get full protection. Your private insurance may not pay for some medical services that are covered by Medicare. You should contact your insurance agent or the office where you pay health insurance premiums to find out what your private insurance will cover after you become eligible for Medicare.

Introducing MODOMAC 44 a new concept in cleaning and protecting the finish of your vehicle aircraft boat or recreational vehicle. It's an external treatment that's warranted to last!

MODOMAC 44 is a professional application of a wax job. It doesn't employ plastics. It doesn't require re-application for years and years. It doesn't smear or soften in heat. It won't streak, etch or oxidize aluminum surfaces. It won't craze or check in cold temperatures.

MODOMAC 44 is a tested, proven treatment. Although new to this community, it has been seven years in development in other parts of the United States. The process is derived from that used to clean and protect commercial surfaces—to keep them shining with sparkle and free of damaging contaminants induced by the constant use of cleaners during extensive heavy usage.

The chemical utilized in the process is a blend of silicones, cleaners, hardeners and sun screens formulated for easy cleaning. The result is a smooth characteristic that guards the surface, tending to make foreign materials slip off and not stick.

Available for any hard, non-porous surface, the Modomac 44 treatment is not diminished by detergents. Yet, it gives the finish a showroom new look for years, restoring paint and eliminating the need for waxes, chrome cleaners and compounds.

MODOMAC 44 has more features than other systems:

- Available on cars, boats, airplanes, trucks, vans, motorcycles, recreational vehicles, busses, mobile homes, etc.
- Increases surface life, preventing paint from fading or losing brilliance.
- Lasts many times longer than conventional treatments.
- Resists harsh detergents, yet can be washed and washed.
- Seals out rain, salt, sun, dirt, water, grease, fuel, spills, bird droppings, bug stains, tree sap, road tars.
- Protects in extreme heat and cold.
- Restores metal to new appearance, prevents tarnish.
- Removes oxidations, prevents oxidizing.
- Increases re-sale or trade-in value.
- Encourages dirt to slide and blow off.
- Keeps decals and lettering bright and clear.

WHAT A WARRANTY! With a Modomac 44 treatment, you get a 4-YEAR protective surface control limited warranty on your new vehicle.

Your vehicle will retain its gloss and resistance or the Modomac 44 surface coating will be replaced at no charge.

Adolescence Can be A Teen Awakening Time

The Adult's Role in Aiding Adolescent Self-Esteem," a new bulletin in the "Self-Esteem and You" series, is now available from the Cooperative Extension Service in Iosco County.

better than others," says Joanne Keith, extension family living specialist. Mrs. Keith explains in the bulletin that adolescence can be an awkward time for many teens. Some find it a period of stress and turmoil, while others see it as merely another stage in life. "Several recent studies have gathered evidence that most teens are well adjusted and that there is not excessive chaos in teens' lives," Mrs. Keith says. "These studies have shown that human development, including adolescence, is a steady, continuous and gradual process and that adolescence is not a time of radical change."

During the teen years, young people are experimenting with life and the behaviors which result may often displease and puzzle adults, she says. They are necessary, however, because they allow teens to test their abilities and limits. Mrs. Keith states, "Giving teens the independence they need for growing can often be difficult for parents. Letting youngsters have the freedom to make choices means that sometimes those choices will be wrong and will hurt." She emphasizes that, with all the choices facing adolescents today, such as those concerning sex, drugs and alcohol, it is important that parents learn all they can about the choices and give their insight to their children. Teens need responsive individuals to model themselves after. Without acceptance and understanding from an adult they admire, teens may feel they are in a constant battle with a disapproving society. Parents may obtain copies of the bulletin, "Adolescence and Self-Esteem: Being There," for their adolescent children. For copies of the bulletins or more information, contact the Cooperative Extension Service office, phone 362-3449.

Emergency Appropriation

Meets MC Facility's Payroll

A $10,000 emergency appropriation was made Wednesday by Iosco County Board of Commissioners to meet the December 7 payroll at the Iosco County Medical Care Facility.

According to a budget explanation presented by Herman Knight, the medical care facility's new director, the $10,000 can be appropriated from the $50,000 budgeted to the medical care facility for 1980. Knight told commissioners that the payroll crisis was caused by a delay in receipt of medicare-medicaid funds. He said, too, that additional money was expected from the state as it was found the state was in error when it claimed earlier this year that it had overpaid the medical care facility.

The new director believed that the medical care facility's treasury would actually end the year with an average of $15,000.

Financing the local share of operating the medical care facility has been a constant source of concern for the past year to the board of commissioners, culminating in the firing of Roy Bergstrom as director of the Iosco County Department of Social Services on October 10.

Knight, who is operator of the Lincoln Haven Nursing Home at Lincoln, took over the position here November 1 and instituted immediate action to reduce operational costs.

Appearing with Chairman Earl Weaver and Auditor Charles Palmer, Knight explained some of his cost reducing actions to the board of commissioners.

He told commissioners that he found that expendable supplies and staffing at the medical care facility "were in line," but that wages and benefits paid to some employees were out of line. One of his first actions was to delete paid life insurance to employees which was costing an annual premium of $4,000. In addition, a new sick day policy was adopted and longevity pay was discontinued. Automatic pay raises were stopped and future increases will be based on a national inflation index. A worker must have one year of employment before becoming eligible for a paid vacation, which was not the case in the past.

Knight has insisted that required medical examinations be paid by the facility's health insurance carrier and the facility is considering joining a group plan for workmen's compensation insurance.

The board of commissioners is to adopt a resolution urging medicare and medicaid reimbursements to the medical care facility be paid according to a recently adopted schedule.

During a question and answer period, Carlton Merschel, county commissioner, questioned Knight if he thought another 40-bed addition would help to increase the income of the facility. Knight said such an addition might help the financial picture if the present kitchen could be utilized for the larger facility. He is to investigate the possible need for such an addition.

Knight assured the commission that the medical care facility "would not operate in the red." He said that employees had been cooperative in making other suggestions to reduce costs.

Benson (Pete) Beck, director of the Iosco County Department of Social Services, said that Provincial House Nursing Homes had contacted the department concerning its operation of the medical care facility through contractual service. Beck expressed confidence in Knight's administration and advised against signing any contract with the private firm.

The new administrator asked the board of commissioners to support him and, through its action Wednesday, has received that backing.

LOOKING BACKWARD—
State's Any Deer Season Under Fire

(Read 2 Corinthians 1:3-7)
 "Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." (Matthew 28:20)
 Mrs. Jones is a very old lady who had lost her only remaining child and was now alone in the world. I was trying to comfort her when I remembered a game we had played with our two children when they were small.
 We had moved to a city far from where the children had friends and relatives. For a while, they could not seem to find friends and felt lost. We started making a list of those we knew loved and missed them. We would say, "Let us count the people you love and those who love you. There is David and Bill and Aunt Ruth." We named all we could and built up to the end with the most important: "Best of all, God loves you!"
 The sense of security the children gained by pulling the warm blanket of human love about them and covering it with God's love calmed their troubled hearts.
 Mrs. Jones and I played that game. We listed the nurses and the church circle ladies, then reached the final point together: "And best of all, God loves you." She beamed.
 As I left, I realized that God is the one who will never leave us, even to the end.
 PRAYER
 Be with us, Father, so that even when things seem bleak, we can feel Your comforting hand upon us. Amen.

Roast Ribs of Beef—A Christmas Classic

A beef rib roast is an excellent choice for the Christmas table. It's a tradition that fits today's life style since an impressive and delicious beef rib roast is prepared with ease. Orange cups filled with cranberry mincemeat make a gay garnish.

thermometer registers about 5°F. below the temperature of doneness desired. Before carving roast, remove strings; with a sharp knife, remove back bone and feather bones from roast.

Roast Ribs of Beef
3 to 4-rib beef rib roast*

Place roast, fat side up, on rack in open roasting pan. Insert meat thermometer so bulb is centered in the thickest part of roast. Do not add water. Do not cover. Roast in a slow oven (325°F.) to desired degree of doneness. The meat thermometer will register 140°F. for rare; 160°F. for medium; 170°F. for well done. For a 4 to 6-pound roast, allow 26 to 32 minutes per pound for rare, 34 to 38 minutes for medium and 40 to 42 minutes for well done. For a 6 to 8-pound roast, allow 23 to 25 minutes per pound for rare; 27 to 30 minutes for medium and 32 to 35 for well done. For easier carving, allow roast to "stand" in a warm place 15 to 20 minutes after removal from oven. Since roasts usually continue to cook after removal from oven, it is best to remove them when

Forest Service Improves Corsair Skiing Facilities

United States Forest Service has announced completion of final preparations for the 1979-80 cross-country ski season.

According to Calvin Norton, Tawas District ranger, the corsair facilities will be in excellent condition for this season and will feature the same basic services as last year, but with several improvements.

When asked what those improvements were, Norton had the following comments:

"Improvements fall under two general categories—parking and skier dispersion. Last year, parking was determined to be one of the major problems at Corsair. To correct this situation, we have constructed an additional 25-car parking lot adjacent to the existing overflow lot. This will increase the area's parking capacity from 55 to 80 cars.

"In addition, the Iosco Transit Corporation was contacted and plans are under review to schedule week-end runs to and from the facility on a one year trial basis. Hopefully, this service will prove feasible and serve to reduce vehicular congestion within the area."

In reference to skier dispersion, one of the major sources of user dissatisfaction last season was the large number of skiers encountered in the first one-half mile or so of the trail. To correct this situation, construction has been completed on an additional 3.5 miles of trail and the number of dispersion points (trail intersections) have been increased from two to five.

"We are very optimistic that these efforts will allow more skiers to use the facilities without appreciably affecting the quality of their skiing experience," said Norton.

The district ranger indicated that, contrary to some rumor, the Corsair facilities would be groomed this season. He further indicated, however, that future funding was uncertain and that the forest service was working closely with various local organizations in an effort to transfer grooming responsibilities to the local level. This may very well be the only way to assure continued grooming at Corsair.

Norton asked all persons to check bulletin boards at each parking lot prior to going out on the trails. Last year, several dangerous incidents developed because people were not aware of the various rules, regulations, trail signing and traffic flow.

Examples cited by Norton included one individual who was skiing down a hill when a playful dog ran up from the bottom of the hill and tackled him; secondly, another individual took off from the parking lot and followed the ski tracks rather than the blue trail blazers. Half way up a hill, he met a skier on the way down.

In both instances, the bulletin board clearly stated that dogs were not allowed on the trails and if no blazers were seen, the skier was probably traveling in the wrong direction.

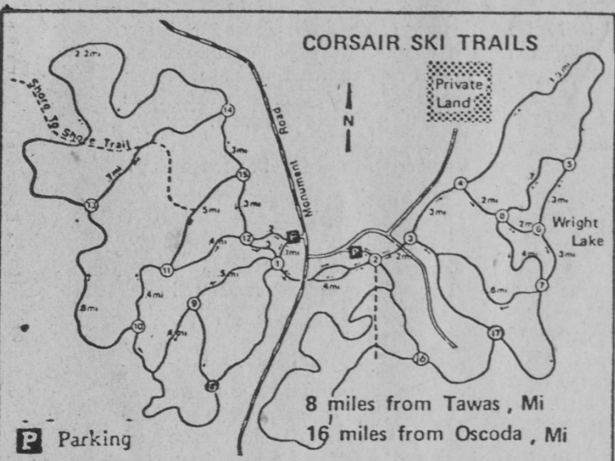

For further information, the public is encouraged to contact the United States Forest Service office, East Tawas Federal Building, telephone 362-4477.

KARI ALLEN (31), who was top scorer for Tawas in the district tournament, is shown here trying a jump shot against the Alcona Tigers.

JOYCE HATCHER (33) of the Bravettes play at right is Jan Johnson (35). The district basketball tournament was played at Roscommon High School.

Cross-Country Skiing Clinic Set Saturday

United States Ski Association (USSA) is bringing free cross-country skiing to Iosco County when the Bill Koch Ski League Van sets up shop at the East Tawas Community Building grounds, Saturday, December 8, 1:00 to 3:00 p. m.

The 4-H Bill Koch League is a nordic skiing program for children 13 years old and under, offered in this area by USSA and the Iosco 4-H Youth Program. USSA is a nation-wide consumer-oriented skier's organization, the national governing body for amateur ski competition and the largest supplier of recreational skiing benefits in the country.

In order to provide an opportunity for more children to try cross-country skiing, USSA is sending a mobile ski shop to Iosco County equipped with sets of cross-country skis available to children interested in trying the sport.

A ski clinic will be conducted by specially trained ski coaches.

Activities will include cross-country skiing, ski jumping, special United States ski team skills and lots of rollicking ski games.

Children 13 and under who would like to try cross-country skiing and jumping are invited to participate in this free session and should be dressed properly for outdoor sport. All equipment for the clinic will be provided by the van.

Parents and interested nordic skiers are welcome to attend and help out with the program. The coaches will be available to answer questions about the Bill Koch Ski League and about nordic skiing in general immediately following the clinic.

To preregister fill out the form and return to Robin Bell, 4-H youth program assistant, County Building Annex, Tawas City 48763 or phone Mrs. Bell at 326-3449, or to Nordic Sports, % Gary Nelkie, East Tawas 48730, phone 362-2001.

Cut Your Christmas Tree During A Family Outing

For family outings during this holiday season, the Michigan Department of Agriculture, in cooperation with the Michigan Christmas Tree Growers Association, has produced a guide to choose and cut Christmas trees in Lower Michigan, according to Dean M. Pridgeon, MDA director.

Good things growing in Michigan include about 4.5-million Christmas trees sold annually. Michigan is the nation's largest grower of plantation Christmas trees and they are shipped as far as Florida, California, Texas and Hawaii.

The guide provides names, addresses and phone numbers of 75 Christmas tree growers in Michigan, explains what types of trees are available at each farm and the grower's business hours. A map shows the location of each grower listed.

Some Christmas tree farms provide saws, have snack bars, tree wrapping and cleaning services and pre-cut trees. These services are indicated in the listing.

Old-fashioned wagon or sleigh rides are also available at some listed farms for people who want to take a trip down memory lane.

Guides are available without charge from AAA branch ofices, Michigan Travel Bureau and the Communications Office, Michigan Department of Agriculture, Lewis Case Building, Post Office 30017, Lansing 48909.

Alcona Crowned Champion

Bravettes Lost by Two in Tournament Final

Tawas Bravettes battled down to the wire before losing Saturday night to Alcona, 44-42, in the class C district basketball championship game at Roscommon.

A jump shot by Mendy Matuzak with just 14 seconds remaining in the game gave the Tigers a hard-fought win.

Kari Allen and Cindy Wood each scored 15 points to pace the Bravettes.

Alcona held a slim, 15-14, margin at intermission and outscored Tawas, 29-28, in the second half.

The Tigers advanced to regional competition where they take on the East Jordan district winner Thursday night. Alcona has a 20-1 record going into that game.

The Bravettes advanced to the district final with two wins earlier last week. Tawas turned back Roscommon, 64-53, November 27 and then smothered the Houghton Lake Wildcats, 63-26, on Thursday night.

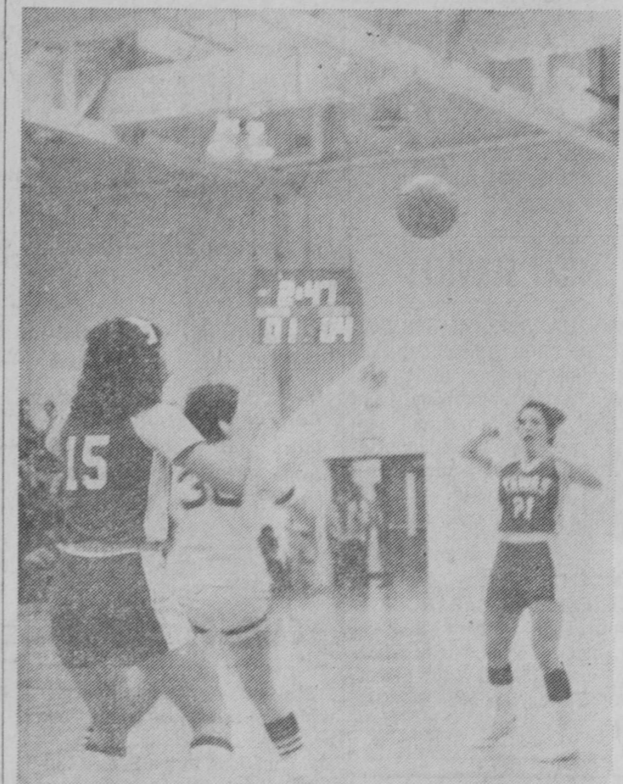

Tawas meshed 41 percent of its shots to turn back Roscommon. Allen topped all scoring with 24 points, followed by 10 points each for Laurel Minard and Wood.

In Thursday night's game, Tawas made 44 percent of its shots from the floor and was paced by a 10-point scoring effort turned in by Jan Johnson. Cathy Davison and Allen were next in line with nine points each.

The Bravettes finished out the season with a record of 18 wins and five losses, winning the Northeastern Michigan Conference with a record of nine wins and one loss.

LAUREL MINARD (15) of the Tawas Bravettes watches a pass thrown by Cindy Wood (21). The Bravettes lost the championship game by only two points.
