New Junk Vehicle Ordinance OK'd by City Council

A four to one roll call vote Monday night saw the Tawas City Council adopting a revised junk car ordinance.

The lone vote cast against the new code, officially known as Ordinance No. 189, was by Mayor Herbert Cholger, who questioned the reasoning for its adoption and believed that common sense among neighbors could handle any problem rather than for the city to adopt a strict enforcement code.

Voting in favor of adoption were Coun. James Lansky, Hugo Keiser, Jerry Cotter and Robert N. Rollin. Coun. Donald Hayes and Charles Landon were absent.

The ordinance provides that it is unlawful to park or for an owner of property to permit any junked, inoperable, wrecked or abandoned motor vehicle on any property within the city after notice to remove is given.

The restriction does not apply to vehicles bearing a valid and current registration and license plate. In addition, the ordinance does not apply to junked, inoperable, wrecked and disabled motor vehicles located in a motor vehicle junkyard licensed by the state, nor to such vehicles located wholly within an enclosed structure.

At the request of the council at the first reading of the ordinance two weeks ago, the word building was substituted for structure in the above paragraph.

Ernest Koponen, who owns property on Seventh Avenue and lives at Indian Lake, appeared before the council and asked what provisions had been made for storage of boats and trailers. He said that a property owner could be in violation of the ordinance if he vacationed in Florida during the winter and the license plate expired on the trailer. He also believed that provision should be made for outside storage of antique automobiles.

The ordinance defines motor vehicles as "any vehicle propelled or drawn by any power other than muscular, to include but not be limited to automobiles, trucks, buses, tractors, trailers, motorcycles and like vehicles.

Junked, inoperable, wrecked or abandoned vehicles are defined as "inoperable or unable to operate" (See ORDINANCES, page 2.)

East Tawas OK's Garage Purchase

East Tawas Council Monday night accepted an offered price of $90,000 to purchase the former county garage on Westover Street.

The above figure was the latest offer of the Iosco County Road Commission during months of negotiations with the council.

Although he favored acceptance of the offer, Mayor Robert Bolen expressed the opinion that the Iosco County Board of Commissioners should have assisted the city in the purchase, due to the fact that East Tawas had contributed its present city garage property east of the state police post for a state boat launching ramp. He said the new ramp would benefit the entire county.

The council expressed interest in the building for a new city garage as it is equipped with hoists and adequate room for maintenance and storage of equipment. A salt shed is located on the property.

City Clerk Clyde Soper said Tuesday morning that a check for $15,000 was ready for presentation to the road commission and that other financial arrangements were to be worked out later.

Persons Opposing Tawas Merger Staged Rally

A rally of persons opposing the consolidation of East Tawas with Tawas City into a home rule city on April 2 was to have been held Tuesday night at the East Tawas City Hall.

Clyde Soper, East Tawas city clerk, who actively circulated petitions forcing an election on the proposed merger, said the meeting had been called by himself and other petition circulators to discuss the upcoming election.

"The meeting was not called to infuriate anyone, just to permit those who oppose the merger to discuss the proposal," said Soper.

The city clerk expressed the opinion that "bigger government is not necessarily better government" and he felt that a merger would result in the people losing their ties with officials sitting around a council table.

Seven Injured on County Highways

Seven persons were injured last week in accidents investigated by the Iosco County Sheriff's Department, five in automobile crashes, one on a snowmobile and one pedestrian.

The most seriously injured was Michael Jordan, 21, National City, who was struck Thursday while crossing M-65 at Whittemore. Officers said that Jordan apparently did not see an approaching van operated by Jack Ellsworth Jr., 22, Hale, who was southbound on the highway.

Alton F. Orr Jr., 54, Whittemore, was injured Friday when he lost control of his truck on ice-covered M-65 and struck a bridge.

William P. Collins, 48, was treated at Tawas Hospital Saturday after being injured in a three-car crash on National City Road. Collins' car was being towed by a car driven by Edward Revord, 22, Turner. A car driven by Ellsworth E. Stahl, 58, Skidway Lake, struck the rear of the Collins' vehicle.

Three persons were injured Sunday in a two-car crash at Whittemore. Treated at Tawas Hospital were Mark A. Cook, 23, Clio, driver; Kathy Cook, 21, and Peter Cook, 58. Three other passengers in the car escaped injury. Cook's car was involved in a collision with a vehicle driven by LeWayne E. Provoast, 16, Whittemore.

Maynard M. Abbott, 43, was injured Wednesday when his snowmobile struck a stump in Wilber Township.

ET Sidewalk Plans Require Agreement

Action authorizing engineering for modernization of Newman Street and sidewalks in front of business places was tabled Monday night by the East Tawas Council until such time as businessmen agree to pay for sidewalk engineering.

Total cost of engineering to be provided by Spicer Engineering Company is $18,000, with $11,000 estimated for sidewalk improvement engineering.

This program has been in discussion for many months and would include improvement to the street's subsoil, new paving, decorative sidewalks, trees and lower street lights.

The council authorized the city clerk to make application to the state for funds from gas and oil permits on state land. A fund has been established using the interest from such fees to aid communities in developing projects such as Newman Street. If approved, the theme used in the city's modernization program would be extended on Newman Street from US-23 to the Michigan Waterways Commission Dock.

Authorization was given to modify the city's application for matching Land Water Conservation funds to aid in the purchase of Tawas Bay shore line behind the former McKay dwelling, now used for a museum. Originally, the council had applied both for acquisition and park development money, but the city clerk said that LWC funds would not meet all the requests being submitted. He said that land acquisition for parks had been given the highest priority by the state.

Permission was given to Tawas Council, Knights of Columbus, to hold a Tootsie Roll drive on April 6-8.

First reading was held on Ordinance No. 244 outlining city responsibilities to insure that no cross connection in a private water supply would contaminate the city's public water supply.

Tawas City Man Has Fed Ducks During Winter

Is it practical to provide feed for a large flock of wild and tame ducks wintering on a small open area of the Tawas River above the M-55 bridge?

This is a question which is taking a lot of soul searching for Ray McKenzie of Riverview Court, Tawas City.

McKenzie has taken it upon himself to buy feed for a flock of mallard and crossbred ducks since the start of a hard, cold winter. He has received no financial assistance from anyone and purchasing around 400 pounds of feed a week is becoming burdensome.

But what should he do—let these beautiful waterfowl die?

Several years ago, citizens released a number of tame ducks along the river. The ducks multiplied rapidly and have become quite an attraction along the river during the summer months, particularly for young children, who have been able to get a close look at waterfowl by feeding bread and crumbs to the hungry lot.

With that kind of daily handouts, wild ducks have joined the flock and there has been much crossbreeding over a period of three or more years. The wild ducks have forgotten their natural instinct to join other flocks in the annual flight to a warmer climate. The flock numbered around 308 birds in November, but as the result of a hard winter and some poaching—by natural and human predators—the flock now numbers slightly over 200.

Edward Bailey, a summer resident of Tawas River Trailer Park, now wintering in Florida, assisted McKenzie last summer in keeping an eye on the ducks.

"There are just too many ducks for me to feed—I wish they had flown south, but that was not to be," said McKenzie.

On Sunday, McKenzie found two ducks dead on the ice near a pool just above the M-55 bridge. With more than 200 ducks swimming in a small area, the river is kept free of ice. At night, the ducks sleep on the river bank or on the ice.

Fire Chief Herbert Blust assisted McKenzie in enlarging the swimming hole for the ducks Sunday afternoon. Wearing a pair of waders, Blust used a fire axe to break the ice. McKenzie is nursing back to health a pair of green head mallards which he freed from the ice.

"I wish the people who enjoy the ducks during the summer would feed them during the winter," said McKenzie. "It is getting to be too much for me."

Proposed Sale of City Lots Tabled for New Appraisal

Action on the proposed sale of nine city-owned building lots on the west side of Twelfth Avenue was tabled Monday night for additional information on the appraised value of the property.

A report from the acting city manager stated that the property had been inspected by Ronald Turner, city assessor, who said it was excellent for building sites.

Turner was of the opinion that the entire nine lots should be sold in a block to a developer. Two of the lots have a width of 73 feet and the remainder are 60 feet wide. The developer probably would redivide the property into seven lots.

Basing his appraisal on similar lots at East Tawas, Turner set a value of $2,000 per lot, with an additional $1,600 per lot for sewer service.

Because of the fact that the lots are heavily wooded, some members of the council were of the opinion that Turner's appraisal was too low and suggested that area realtors be contacted for a confirming appraisal.

The acting city manager reported that Thomas Jacques recommended that if the property is sold, the city should first harvest some of the timber in order that the city would gain some additional revenue.

Jacques is opposed to the sale as the lots are presently included in an arboretum developed on that property and the former city dump. The sale of the lots was suggested two weeks ago during discussion on a proposed special assessment district on Twelfth Avenue for sewer service to dwellings on the east side of the street. Because of ownership of the property, the city would be required to pay one-half of the assessment district extending to Dead Creek.

The acting city manager said that one developer had expressed interest in the property and would construct seven homes within a year which would add a valuation of around $210,000 to the city's tax base.

It was recommended that if the lots are sold separately, a restriction be placed on the deed requiring construction of a home within a one-year period in order to prevent purchase of the property for investment or speculative purposes.

The platted lots are believed to have been acquired many years ago by the city to act as a buffer zone to separate the old city dump from a residential neighborhood. A cleared high-tension power line is (See LOT SALE, page 2.)

City Counts Cars for Bridge Planning

A traffic count from February 1 through 15 has revealed that First Street is the most used bridge over the Tawas River in Tawas City, other than bridges over US-23 and M-55.

The survey is being conducted to determine traffic flow to assist in making plans for future bridge construction, with particular reference to replacement of the Whittemore Street bridge and the Sixth Avenue bridge over Dead Creek.

The survey indicated that 27,271 cars traveled over the First Street bridge during the 15-day period, which averaged 1,947.9 cars per day.

As anticipated, the next heaviest used bridge was on Mathews Street, where the 15-day total was 25,187 cars, or an average of 1,799 per day.

The Sixth Avenue bridge over Dead Creek actually carried more traffic than Whittemore Street. There were 13,754 cars, or an average of 982 cars per day, using the Sixth Avenue bridge, as compared to 5,173 cars for the 15-day period on Whittemore Street, or an average of 369.5 cars per day.

Replacement of Whittemore Street and Sixth Avenue bridges, both built around 1912, has been under consideration for several years.

At one time, the council considered construction of a new bridge over Dead Creek several blocks west of Sixth Avenue and the planning commission once recommended that the Whittemore Street bridge be used for pedestrian traffic only.

A letter from the Tawas City Businessmen's Association read at the February 15 meeting of the planning commission recommended that a covered wooden bridge be considered for Whittemore Street.

It was thought that a covered bridge would provide an added tourist attraction for the area, although it has been pointed out that enclosed walls of such a bridge could be a safety hazard for motorists crossing the railroad intersection on that street.

Information obtained through the survey is to be utilized by the council and planning commission in future discussion on bridge planning.

Violation of the ordinance is deemed a misdemeanor and is punishable, upon conviction, by a fine not to exceed $100 or imprisonment not to exceed 90 days or both. Each day that a violation of the ordinance is continued, would constitute a separate offense, provided that no person would be imprisoned for a single but continuing violation for a period longer than 90 days.

Mayor Cholger expressed the opinion that problems regarding junk cars could better be handled by neighbors and that provision should be provided for parking vehicles at the rear of a lot, "perhaps something like out of sight, out of mind," he stated.

Other councilmen felt that the ordinance would handle the majority of problems posed by junk cars in the city and suggested that the mayor develop his recommendations for possible amendment of the new ordinance, if desired.

The council also adopted Ordinance No. 190 relative to regulating cross connections with the public water supply system, that is a connection or arrangement of piping through which water of questionable quality, wastes or other contaminants can enter the public water supply system. Adoption of such an ordinance is required by the state and the city adopted by reference the water supply cross connection rules of the Michigan Department of Public Health.

Mayor's Exchange to Again Feature Michigan Week

Participation in mayor's exchange day Monday, May 21, as part of the Michigan Week celebration, was authorized Monday night by the Tawas City Council.

This city has not participated in mayor's exchange day for more than 10 years. At one time, visiting city officials were honored at a noon luncheon of the Tawas City Businessmen's Association and at a banquet in the evening. Visiting dignitaries were usually greeted at the city hall with a concert by the high school pep band.

A number of Northeastern Michigan communities dropped participation about the same time, the thinking of officials being that money could better be expended on attendance at meetings of the Michigan Municipal League and other meetings with state and federal funding agencies.

A letter from the businessmen's association indicated that the organization would change its noon luncheon during Michigan Week to honor the visiting mayor.

The acting city manager is to work with the businessmen's association to develop a program.

In other business, the council appointed a three-member committee to meet with representatives of Alabaster and Tawas Townships to negotiate terms for a new fire protection contract with those units. Named to the committees were Del Myles, Coun. Jerry Cotter and Acting City Mgr. Rachel McCready.

A special meeting attended by the above committee and former fire chief, James Lansky, a member of the city council, is to be held next Monday to prepare a proposal.

The meeting is to precede a special council meeting called for the purpose of reviewing work of the city assessor and to establish a new contract for his service.

The acting city manager reported that initial steps were being taken to comply with the water resources commission's recent order to have a certified waste water treatment plant operator on the city's payroll. The city has been without a certified operator since last October when former City Mgr. Reginald Bublitz resigned.

The city is now advertising for a certified operator and pay is to be commensurate with experience. It is expected that a salary ranging between $13,000 and $18,000 will be necessary.

Under terms of state and federal water pollution laws, the water resources commission directed the city to obtain a certified operator as soon as possible, but not later than August 31, or face penalties under the state and federal acts.

It was the opinion of Coun. Jerry Cotter that the water board should be asked for a recommendation for appointment of an operator from any applications received.

Consideration is being given to city or area participation in the Detroit Tool Show April 30-May 3 as a means of attracting industry to the area. The city is to consider participation with the Northeastern Michigan Economic Development Association in manning a booth at the show. It was suggested that local industries be contacted to learn the need of possible allied plants which could be useful in the local industrial operation.

The acting city manager was authorized to attend the annual conference of the Michigan Municipal League February 21.

The council established a month-to-month lease rate of $150, plus utilities, for a city-owned house east of the Graystone building. A new leasee moved into the building Monday.

Action on leasing property from the Detroit and Mackinac Railway on the east side of the Mathews Street bridge was tabled until a need for the property is determined. It is thought that the property was acquired for access by fishermen to the Tawas River, but the city purchased property on the west side of the bridge about three years ago. The annual lease price is $50. The council authorized payment of the lease for the past year, which had not been submitted to the city until last week.

Consideration is to be given a survey of parking along Mathews Street to determine if time restrictions are needed.

Big Game Friday With Pinny

Braves Defeat Gladwin to Share NEM Top Spot

KRAIG MOFFATT (35) of the Tawas Area Braves had a battle on his hands when he attempted this shot against Gladwin's R. Johnson. The Braves defeated Gladwin to send both teams into a tie for leadership in the Northeastern Michigan Conference standings. —Tawas Herald Photo.

Hot from the outside and a good defense proved to be the winning combination Friday night for the Tawas Area Braves as they upset Gladwin, 52-50, before a packed house.

The win put the Braves in a tie with the Flying Gs for leadership in the Northeastern Michigan Conference and a game this Friday night with Pinconning will decide if Tawas has gained a co-championship.

Tawas' student body was primed for an upset victory and the Braves responded with a highly emotional, down-to-the-wire win—starting with back-to-back buckets by Kraig Moffatt and Brian Norton to open the first quarter.

The Braves held a commanding, 12-2, lead with four minutes left in the quarter as Moffatt and Norton connected from the outside and Jim Dubovsky popped one long shot and rebounded for another.

The key to Tawas' success, however, proved to be its defense as it shut the door on Jeff Srinivasan with only six points during the night and did the same with Dan Lier for three quarters. Srinivasan meshed 24 points in Gladwin's 67-53 meeting January 12 and Lier had 21 points in that game, Tawas' only loss in NEM competition.

Tawas' defense, which concentrated four players in a zone defense with one player to guard Lier, continued to hold Gladwin in check during the rest of that quarter and Tawas held a 16-10 lead at the buzzer.

Norton continued to have a dead eye on long shots in the second quarter with four buckets and two foul shots as the Gladwin defense shut off Tawas on drive shots. Bill King contributed one bucket, Moffatt had one and Kevin Grace hooped two to give the Braves a 32-24 lead at intermission.

Grace, who contributed only six points during the night, turned in a tremendous defensive game as he contained Srinivasan and Lier and controlled the defensive backboards during the night.

Each team committed several turnovers to start the third quarter but Dubovsky hit on three straight shots with less than four minutes to go to give Tawas a 40-28 lead. Norton made it 42-28 with one minute, 21 seconds to go and Tawas wound up with a 46-31 lead at the buzzer.

Gladwin's offense moved into high gear in the fourth quarter with four unanswered buckets and a foul shot before Norton's bucket made it 48-40. A bucket by King increased the lead to 50-40. Dubovsky fouled out with three minutes, 26 seconds left in the game.

Lier scored 11 of his 15 points during the fourth quarter as Gladwin made a determined effort to overtake the Braves. Gladwin closed the gap to 52-48 with one minute, 28 seconds to go, and Tawas suddenly could not find the range from the floor or the free throw line. A key turn over by Gladwin with 13 seconds to go proved costly, but Gary Stankowski meshed two charity shots to cut Tawas' lead to two points.

With one second left in the game, Tawas took a time out and, when action resumed, an out-of-bounds pass to King ended the game.

Norton turned in his best game in a Tawas uniform as he poured in 20 points and snagged 12 rebounds during the night. Dubovsky meshed 12 points and Moffatt had 10 to provide the scoring punch.

R. Johnson and Lier topped Gladwin with 15 points each.

Grace blocked two shots during the night as Gladwin connected on 20 of 48 shots and Tawas hit on 24 of its 60 field goal attempts.

The win by Tawas was no fluke against the previously unbeaten Flying Gs and the game officials certainly were not "homers" as Tawas had only seven foul shots during the game. Gladwin meshed 10 of 20 shots at the charity lines.

The Braves now face a tough test against the Spartans Friday night. Tawas defeated Pinconning on the latter's home floor January 26 and could wrap up at least a share of the NEM title with a win here Friday night.

In the preliminary game, the Junior Braves jumped off to a 20-18 first quarter lead over the Gladwin junior varsity but lost, 54-52, in another exciting game which set the pace for the night.

Scoring for Tawas were Grabow, 18; Pockel, 10; Mousseau, 12; Finley, eight; Wojahn and Hester, two points each. Malmo had 22 points for the winners.

Public Invited to Attend Art Exhibit March 5 at Tawas Area High School

ACCOMPANYING Interlochen Arts Academy's traveling exhibition will be, from left, Jean Parsons, Wayne Brill, John Church, Lina Dean, Larry Lien and James Alley.

From a brass coffeepot to woven wall hangings, art takes many forms in the Interlochen Arts Academy's new traveling exhibition, which visits Tawas Area High School on Monday, March 5.

Prin. John Alexander announces that the exhibition in the school cafeteria will be open to the public from 8:30 a. m. to 8:30 p. m. Special invitations have been extended to the Tawas Bay Arts Council and Tawas Area Senior Citizens, but the public is invited to attend at any time during the day.

Thirty-four high school age artists from the academy display their works in the show, which includes ceramics, drawings, oil paintings, soft sculpture, woodcuts, photographs, plaster sculpture, fiber works and metal objects.

The exhibit is part of the Interlochen Outreach Program, sponsored by the Michigan Council for the Arts and the Interlochen Arts Academy.

Young artists and musicians come from all over the nation and 10 foreign countries to study at the academy, part of Interlochen Center for the Arts. Located near Traverse City, the center also includes the academy's summer counterpart, the National Music Camp.

"This exhibit will be a cultural highlight of the year in the community and citizens should take the opportunity being provided," said Principal Alexander.

Joseph Fox MAC's New Liaison Officer in 43 Counties

Joseph Fox of Tawas City, who retired December 31 as an Iosco County commissioner, made his first appearance Wednesday before the commission as a representative of the Michigan Association of Counties.

Appointed two weeks ago by MAC's board of directors, Fox will represent the association in 43 counties of the state.

During his service on the Iosco County Board of Commissioners, Fox took an active part in several state-wide committees and is known by commissioners throughout the state.

The state association acts as a liaison agency between county boards of commissioners and the state legislature at Lansing and the executive director is A. Barry McGuire, a native of Tawas City.

"I think I am going to enjoy the job," said Fox Wednesday as he explained to Iosco commissioners some of the legislation which MAC representatives will be watching closely during the coming year.

A certificate in recognition of his service on the Iosco County Board of Commissioners was presented by John Webb, chairman.

IOSCO AIRPORTS

DEDICATION CEREMONY for the Iosco County Airport was held September 1, 1963, and a color guard from Wurtsmith Air Force Base raised the flag at the terminal building. Expansion of the airport is now planned by the county board of commissioners.

Iosco was one of the few counties in the state without an airport when this headline appeared in the August 2, 1940, issue of The Tawas Herald: County Airport May be Established Here.

The county airport has had two different sites in nearly 40 years of service. It has survived a couple of major controversies and currently awaits funding for a new expansion program.

Starting this airport history at the beginning, the Herald's report in August 1940 stated that Iosco would have an airport "if negotiations are successful in securing a suitable site." According to Col. Floyd E. Evans of the Michigan Department of Aeronautics, the airport would be built at state expense.

William Hatton, 1940 chairman of the county board of supervisors, immediately appointed a special aeronautics committee to take options on several parcels of land. Acting on the committee were Edward Burgeson, Harold F. Black and Lloyd McQuaig.

Among locations discussed for a potential site for a county airport was "the old Holloway place and two adjacent farms on the Meadow Road west of Tawas City," stated the Herald's report.

The above described site had an earlier history in pioneer aeronautics as one of the farm fields had been used for many years by barnstorming pilots, especially in the days of the old Iosco County Fair in the Tawas.

No formal action was taken by the board of supervisors until its April 1941 session, when the aeronautics committee recommended the purchase of 40 acres of land near Tawas Lake at East Tawas for an airport site. The resolution stated that it was being made with the understanding that the city would purchase the adjoining 40 acres of land and transfer title to the county.

The City of East Tawas purchased the 40 acres of land and turned it over to the county for development of an 80-acre county airport. Work was quickly started on clearing the land for a runway and minutes of the October 1941 session of the board of supervisors indicates that Earl Hester of East Tawas was given permission to build the first hangar on the property.

World War II practically ended all activity at the airport and it was not until February 11, 1944, that local aviation was again in the news. A report in the Herald that week stated that "postwar aviation as it will affect the Tawas AVIATION was in its pioneering era when this picture was snapped in the 1920s. The identity of the pilot and the aircraft has been lost with the passage of time, but the copper printing plate has survived in the Herald archives. The aircraft may have been featured at the county fair when it was held in the Tawas.

area will be discussed at a banquet sponsored by the East Tawas Chamber of Commerce to be held Monday night at the Barnes Hotel.

Among speakers at the banquet were Thomas J. Walsh, director of the state board of aeronautics, and Bruce Anderson, chairman.

"The board of supervisors of Iosco has taken an active interest in aviation as it affects the county," stated the Herald's report. "A permanent committee on aeronautics has been established and land for an airport has been purchased."

Citizens of the Tawas and all sections of the county were invited to attend a meeting "to study possibilities of an airport for this section of Michigan, when the expected increase in aviation will make such an airport a necessity."

Anderson and Walsh emphasized the necessity of landing fields throughout Northern Michigan and facilities for air traffic in the period immediately following the war.

"The new development in aviation will make your community only a few minutes from the large centers of population and the rapid expansion in air travel will benefit the tourist section of Michigan if proper facilities are provided," said Anderson.

He also pointed out that engineers from the state board of aeronautics were available for the county's use in laying out the airport and giving necessary advice, at no cost to the county.

It was not until the spring of 1946 when further mention of the airport was reported. At the April session of the board of supervisors, James P. Sloan of East Tawas, a returning air corps fighter pilot, asked for and received a lease on the Iosco County Airport property.

On May 17, 1946, the Herald reported that there had been considerable activity in aviation matters, which would provide competition for the county airport. Two different groups had applied for permission to operate private airports along Meadow Road and other airports were proposed at Hale, Whittemore and Oscoda.

Earl Davis of Tawas City purchased an interest in the Fred Marsh farm on the Meadow Road and these two men, along with Wilbur C. Roach, applied for a permit to operate a private airport. Both Davis and Roach were recently returned servicemen.

Two other men, Leonard Wood and Val Syring, both of Bay City, leased the former Wheeler farm further west on the Meadow Road and proposed to operate a private airport. This proposition was not approved by the state.

The Tawas City Airport owned by Davis, Marsh and Roach was completed in July of 1946 and continued to operate for about four years, the property now being occupied by Davison and Son Builders. Davis managed the airport and Roach had charge of instruction for the Meadow Road Flying Service, a licensed flying school.

A concrete block hangar and office building was constructed there and the field had three sod runways.

Among the first veterans to start under the GI Bill training program were Harold Moeller, Arthur DeLage, Harold DeLosh, Earl Shover, Jack Dixon, William Pollock and Peter Pfeiffer. Experienced students included Albert Chaney, Lynn Ryan and James Martin.

On July 11, 1947, the Herald announced that Janet Keiser of Tawas City was the first woman flyer in Iosco County to solo at the local field. She successfully passed an examination for her private flying license later that month.

Timber's Sky Camp of South Branch constructed an office at the Tawas City Airport to hold ground classes and Hester worked there as flight instructor.

Flying activities at the Iosco County Airport at East Tawas did not keep pace with those at the private airport in 1947, but formation of Anderson Coach Company of East Tawas brought development rapidly to the county airport. Officers of the new company were interested in aviation and utilized the county airport for its landing strip, building a new hangar there for the company's plane.

Hester transferred his flying school to the county airport in 1948 and the Tawas City Airport closed about 1949.

On June 14, 1956, Sec. of Commerce Sinclair Weeks announced that the Iosco County Airport would receive $23,000 in federal funds to acquire land, to clear, construct and drain a new landing strip 3,500 feet in length and 250 feet wide.

The county was unable to purchase property which it deemed necessary to lengthen the east-west runway and commenced condemnation proceedings against Matt Loffman of Baldwin Township to acquire the property. A circuit court jury set a price tag of $18,000 for the property.

About the time that the trial was in progress, petitions signed by 600 persons were presented to the East Tawas Council asking for its endorsement to start action to relocate the county airport. A committee of seven told the council that the petitioners were interested in the safety of the community and, due to the proposed expansion of the airport, feared that low flying commercial planes would be a danger to the area.

Mayor Elmer Werth of East Tawas assured citizens that the city and county aeronautics committee

THE FIRST Iosco County Airport was located within the city limits of East Tawas near Tawas Lake. This picture was snapped about the time the county was considering extension of the east-west runway. Both that runway and a north-south runway were inadequate and the airport was finally moved to its present location. —Tawas Herald Photo.

Editorials— Museum Deserves Local Support, but Priority Items Must Come First

A question has been raised locally concerning the lack of operational support of the Iosco County Museum at East Tawas by the county board of commissioners. In defense of the board of commissioners, this corner points out that Iosco County has been one of the major contributors to this project, providing $35,000 in federal revenue sharing money for the purchase of the old McKay house and leases it to the county historical society for $1 a year. In addition, the county also pays insurance on the building.

After some discussion two years ago, the board of commissioners endorsed the museum and provided funds, but it pointed out at the time that county general fund financing was inadequate to offer annual operational support.

County finances have not changed; in fact, should revenue sharing funds be deleted from the federal budget, the county general fund is going to be hard pressed to finance the county's sanitary landfill, the county-wide ambulance service and the proposed new county bus service.

Establishment and operation of a museum in a small community is a serious responsibility—donors of artifacts must have assurance that such an undertaking will be continued.

It is rather easy to say that this is a county museum and it should be financed by Iosco property taxes, but providing operational funds

Higher Gas Cost for Automobiles Will Change Nation's Life Style

A radical change in this country's life style is on the horizon, unless some new form of energy is discovered or developed to reduce our dependency on petroleum. Assuredly, that change will be gradual, but the timetable has been upset in recent weeks by uncontrolled events in the Near East.

Although curtailment of petroleum imports will have a drastic and now incomprehensible effect on industry and manufactured products, the shortage of gasoline will have the greatest impact on our way of living.

America's love affair with its automobile began at a time more than 60 years ago when this country's rapid transit system was at its highest stage of development in urban areas. The mobility offered by having four wheels under practically every family changed the entire nation: No longer was man dependent upon rails—long distance passenger trains, interurban trains or street cars—for transportation to and from jobs.

The automobile changed the entire face of America in the process with new industrial complexes and jobs, expressways, improved rural highways and thousands of acres of paved parking lots.

No longer content with being cooped in cities, the automobile gave urban dwellers the opportunity to "See America First," to partake in recreational pursuits unheard of in previous history. Cities were changed in the process and suburbia was born, reaching right up here in Iosco County where wage earners commuted to jobs in cities and competed for space on highways with others swarming into the area to enjoy the beauties of nature.

An entirely new tourist industry was born in Northern Michigan, for instance, and thousands of city dwellers, who liked the style of living they found in the hinterlands—in wooded areas, small towns, on the lakes and streams—decided they would leave the multitude of urban problems behind them and relocated in the northland to raise their families.

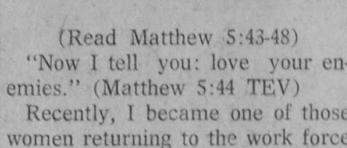

With the influx of those thousands of new families came the need for expanded government and, more importantly, for additional jobs and practically every industry established in the region—from plating parts to stamping and assembling of parts—is dependent upon a healthy automobile industry or transportation provided by highways.

The effect of $1 or more per gallon of gasoline for automobiles is quite predictable. The trend is already being reversed and many of those who formerly lived here and commuted to their jobs in urban areas are moving to the cities to save transportation costs.

On the horizon, however, is a more serious problem: Why build automobiles if there is no gasoline to power them? When that day dawns at some future point in time, the crash will be heard around the world and this country will not even have to worry about its present trade deficit with Japan and West Germany.

Modern civilization, as we know it on four wheels and within the life span and memory of many older citizens living today, will have made a complete circle. It is something for political leaders, scientists and citizens to contemplate.

TODAY'S Meditation from The World's Most Widely Used Devotional Guide The Upper Room

(Read Matthew 5:43-48)
"Now I tell you: love your enemies." (Matthew 5:44 TEV)
Recently, I became one of those women returning to the work force after a dozen years working at home. I was assigned as temporary secretary in a residential treatment facility for mentally retarded children. Needless to say, my office personality was a bit rusty and out of adjustment to an ongoing routine. As a newcomer, I had the feeling I was only being tolerated by the other employees. No one really went out of the way to make me feel comfortable.

One day as I was returning from my lunch hour 15 minutes early, I was met by the insistent pleafull face of one of the children inviting me to join them in their activities. As I sat there on the floor modeling clay figures, I was aware of the warmth of spirit and appreciation from the children as they patiently and gleefully waited for their clay snowmen to appear. A sense of belonging came to me through the genuine expressions of support and communication from two onlooking counselors who had been trying in vain to entertain the children.

PRAYER
Father of all, ever remind us that our compassion and love freely given can break down any walls of indifference or hate. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

EMERGENCY NOTICE
To All
TAWAS CITY WATER DEPT. CUSTOMERS

Water Lines May Start Freezing !!

If you have a history of water line freeze-ups you should start running water to avoid a problem this year.

We remind you to let one tap run . . . only enough to keep the line from freezing . . . something less than a heavy flow but more than a drip.

RACHEL SUE McCREADY
Acting City Manager

If you have children at home, would they know who to call in case of a fire, accident or sudden illness? Be sure you have listed near your phone the numbers of your doctor, hospital, poison control, police, fire department and other emergency numbers. Show your children how to find those numbers, how to dial them (if they don't already know), how to call the operator; let them know if 911 can be dialed for fire, medical or police help in your area. Write down your home address near these numbers, too, so your children or your baby-sitter can give it to people who need to find your home in a hurry. (But, for safety's sake, you should instruct them not to give your address or other information to strangers on the phone.) Your telephone can be a lifesaving help in an emergency. Teach your children how to use it for their protection and yours.

Eagle Fledglings Show Decrease

Production from active nests in the seven national forests in Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan fell below the record 71 percent for eagles and 60 percent for osprey reported in 1976, according to annual surveys by the Eastern Region of the Forest Service, United States Department of Agriculture.

There were 202 eaglets that fledged last year compared to the record 212 reported the year before. The 44 osprey fledged was the lowest total reported since 1969 when 39 did so. This might have been caused by storms and low temperatures that occurred during the osprey nesting season last year.

Despite the decrease in eagle fledglings, populations appear to be stabilizing because pairs of eagles were observed in 264 territories during 1978. This compares favorably with an average of 266 pair for the previous five years.

The fate of the bald eagle is of prime concern because of the unique role it occupies in the heritage as national emblem. Its survival and that of the osprey have assumed added significance because of the primary link they occupy in natural food chains. The status of eagle and osprey populations is viewed by some as an indication of the environmental quality of their ecosystems.

Outside of Alaska and Canada, the greatest concentration of eagles is in north-central Minnesota, where the Chippewa National Forest is located. As a result, a study of bald eagles was one of the first tasks pursued when a wildlife biologist was added to the staff of the Chippewa in 1962. This has attracted graduate students and professors from midwestern colleges and universities to conduct related studies, many of which continue today.

WRITING EFFECTIVE COMPLAINT LETTERS

Are you ready for the battle—the one between you and store where you bought the defective merchandise?

You could call the store and yell. You might tell them to come and pick up the junk. But if you really want to get results, sit down and write a cool, calm, effective letter of complaint.

A properly written complaint letter should consist of three parts. The first paragraph should include a brief account of what happened—what you bought, where you bought it, when you bought it and what is wrong with it.

In the second paragraph, explain what you would like to happen. Be specific. You want replacement by Tuesday, you want a refund immediately, etc.

The third paragraph is the most important. Explain what will happen if what you want does not happen; you will pursue the complaint by writing the attorney general, etc. This is where you convince the person that it will be easier to grant your demands than to fight.

Explain that a copy of the letter will be sent to the Consumer's Council, a newspaper "help" column or the attorney general. You can also state you will present a copy of the letter in the small claims court if you decide to go that route.

Keep the letter businesslike. Your account of what happened should be brief, but complete. Give as much specific information as possible, including style number, price, purchase date, salesperson's name, etc. Do not make idle threats or become abusive.

Write the explanation of what happened so that someone completely unfamiliar with the circumstances will understand your complaint.

If you write the letter properly and if the person to whom you are writing is responsible, you should not have to send the letter anywhere else. Be sure to keep a copy of the letter and if you have to write a second letter, include a copy of the first.

Concert Association Elects '79 Officers

A general membership meeting of the Community Concert Association, to select seven members to serve three-year terms on its board of directors, was held Friday evening, February 9, in the Oscoda Township Hall.

Three retiring members, Ann Reynolds and Mary Aune of Oscoda and Dianne Knight of East Tawas, were re-elected. Also elected to the board were the Rev. William Graf, East Tawas; Robert Young, Wurtsmith Air Force Base; Karyl Menzies and Ethel Coppler, both of Oscoda.

A board meeting following the general membership meeting selected the following officers for the 1979-80 community concert season: Pastor Graf, president; Carolyn Brummond of Wurtsmith, vice president; Doris Pray, Oscoda, secretary; Mrs. Menzies and Mrs. Knight, cotreasurers. Donald Aune and James Reynolds, both of Oscoda, will serve as concert cochairmen.

Two problem areas, late arrivals and auditorium disturbances during the concerts, were discussed. Both are upsetting to the performing artists and the audience in attendance. Several suggestions for correcting these problems will be studied thoroughly and a final decision reached prior to the fall membership campaign in September. Corrective measures to be taken will be passed on to the membership when their tickets are mailed out following the fall campaign.

Reward Trip Set at Hale Jr. High

Between 25 and 30 Hale Area Junior High School students will be participating in a reward trip to Cedar Point near Sandusky, Ohio, some time during the last two weeks of the school year.

Daniel Peters, a member of the school faculty, said the program was designed to reward students whose names appeared on the honor roll four times during the term or those with perfect attendance.

Another point in the criteria for eligibility is that a student shall not have received more than one disciplinary notice from the school during the year.

As a means of separating activities of junior high school and high school students, several adjustments were made to school policy limiting seventh and eighth grade attendance at high school social functions.

"On recommendation of the teaching staff, the junior high school has had its own dances, but some of the other activities have not been replaced. This reward trip is expected to add extra incentive for junior high school students and should improve the situation in those grades," stated Peters.

The program has the support of the administration and the school district will finance the cost of transportation and lodging. The junior high school grades are to raise money for park entrance fees and each student will pay for his own meals.

As of last week, eight students met both attendance and honor roll requirement for eligibility. Seventh graders included Josie Bissonnette, Marie Dzielatka, Audrey Osborne and Charles Wells. Eighth graders included Kathy Boughner, Sherri Jennings, Kim Reilly and Tracy Wilfong.

Those students eligible under the honor roll requirement included: Karen Kennedy, Lisa Michalski, Wally Morawa, Connie Parent, Alison Pevogord, Amy Peters, Kim Peters, Laurie Sutch, JoAnn VanHorn, Ken Weaver and James Webb, all in the seventh grade; Lisa Adkins, Debra Braun, Steven Case, Becky Good, Matthew Kimball, Kim Maher, Gena Meiers and Lee Wallace, all eighth graders.

Students meeting the criteria with perfect attendance included Teresa Briggs, Martin Cmach, Jean Hart, Roberta Macaulay, Richard Reilly, Ken Schulte, Barry Shellenbarger, seventh grade; Tim Bigelow, Angie Kennedy and Carl Powers, eighth grade.

TA Immunization Records Reviewed

Robert Halle, superintendent of schools for the Tawas Area School District, announced last week that the records of all students in the Tawas Area Schools will be reviewed to determine the immunization status of all pupils.

"The review of the immunization records of our students is part of a state-wide campaign to insure that all students attending public and nonpublic schools in Michigan have had the full series of inoculations to prevent such diseases as measles, mumps, diphtheria and polio," Halle said.

"The Michigan Department of Public Health reports that nearly one-third of all measles cases in the United States last year occurred in Michigan.

"Out of a total of 26,000 cases of measles in the United States last year, 8,000 oc-

TA Immunization Records Reviewed

Robert Halle, superintendent of schools for the Tawas Area School District, announced last week that the records of all students in the Tawas Area Schools will be reviewed to determine the immunization status of all pupils.

"The review of the immunization records of our students is part of a state-wide campaign to insure that all students attending public and nonpublic schools in Michigan have had the full series of inoculations to prevent such diseases as measles, mumps, diphtheria and polio," Halle said.

"The Michigan Department of Public Health reports that nearly one-third of all measles cases in the United States last year occurred in Michigan.

"Out of a total of 26,000 cases of measles in the United States last year, 8,000 oc-

Girl Scouts Set 'Cookie Crunch'

To kickoff Girl Scout Week and the start of the Girl Scout cookie sale, Tawas Area Girl Scouts are presenting a "Cookie Crunch" Saturday, February 24, from 1:00 to 3:00 p. m. at Immaculate Heart of Mary Parish Hall, Tawas City. Celebrity crunchers will represent local businesses, service groups and political offices.

They will compete in teams to see who can eat the most Girl Scout cookies during a seven-minute period. Each cookie eaten by a contestant will be backed up with a purchased box of Girl Scout cookies bought by a sponsor. These sponsors may then donate the boxes of cookies to the charity of their choice. Host and emcee of the program will be Jerry Holly of WIOS radio station.

The crunch will be followed by the annual Girl Scout cookie sale, set for March 9-19. Cookie sale funds are directed to camp-related expenses within the Mitten Bay Council and other purchases deemed necessary for the existence of the Girl Scout organization. The event is open to the public. Individuals are urged to be on hand to cheer for their favorite cookie cruncher.

PUBLIC NOTIFICATION OF THE EXISTENCE OF A PSRO DATA SYSTEM

Under Federal Law, health care services which may be paid for under the Medicare, Medicaid, and Maternal and Child Health Programs are subject to review by authorized physician organizations to determine if the services are medically necessary, of a quality which meets professionally recognized standards of health care, and are appropriately furnished in a hospital or other health care institution.

Area IV Professional Standards Review Organization of Michigan has been designated as the PSRO responsible for these activities in Arenac, Bay, Clare, Huron, Isosco, Isabella, Midland, Saginaw, St. Clair, Sanilac, and Tuscola Counties.

AN IMPRESSIVE ARRAY of aircraft was on hand September 1, 1963, for dedication of the new Iosco County Airport. Since then, the landing strip has been paved and new hangars have been added. Plans are now being made to extend the east-west runway. —Tawas Herald Photo.

EARL HESTER was a pioneer in local aviation and built a hangar at the old Iosco County Airport at East Tawas in 1941. He later operated a flying school, managed the airport and was actively involved in aviation until his death.

TWO RETURNING VETERANS of World War II service in the army air corps, Wilbur C. Roach and Earl Davis, established the Tawas City Airport on Meadow Road in 1946. Roach is now manager of the Iosco County Airport.

RALPH MEYERS served as county airport manager in the 1950s and was a member of the East Tawas City Council.

JAMES SLOAN, a fighter pilot during World War II, leased the county airport in 1946.

Starting pay for the part-time helper is $3.60 per hour during a probationary period up to six months. At the end of the probationary period, the employee would be paid at the rate of $4 per hour and would receive full county building fringe benefits, with the exception of longevity eligibility.

Airport

was interested only in expanding facilities for small private planes, especially for tourist travel and local industries. The city council voted three to two not to support the petitioners.

In April 1957, the county dropped its circuit court condemnation suit against Loffman and Pros. Atty. William R. Barber was instructed to proceed to secure an order of discontinuance of the suit before a verdict of the jury was affirmed by the court.

Recommendations of the board of supervisors' aeronautics committee touched off a new controversy but Henry Oates, Blaine Christeson and Edward Burgeson, committee members, felt that the $18,000 compensation to be paid Loffman for the property was far in excess of what they believed the value of the property to be. Fred Kaiser was chairman of an airport relocation committee from East Tawas which presented petitions to the board of supervisors seeking relocation of the airport.

In September 1957, the board of supervisors took action to move the airport to a new site on Monument Road, the board approving a recommendation of its aeronautics committee to switch sites from the north city limits in East Tawas to a site of 540 acres in Section 33, Wilber Township, located in the triangle between Monument Road and Island Lake Road.

Local officials felt this was a more central location and this was supported by the state's engineer, but that site was denied in March 1958 by the Civil Aeronautics Administration. Wurtsmith Air Force Base officials vigorously objected to this location based on present and future operations out of the base.

The board of supervisors' aeronautics committee then began a study to select a new airport location and decided on a site owned by the federal government northeast of the Tawas Drive-In Theatre.

In March 1961, a new airport for the county came a step closer to reality when the board of supervisors approved expenditure of $6,000 for airport construction. This money was matched with an equal amount from the state board of aeronautics.

The money financed construction of a small terminal building, as well as providing electrical and telephone services, plus a well for drinking water and gasoline storage tanks.

The airport committee also asked the board of supervisors to authorize sale of the county-owned 40 acres at the old airport in East Tawas. Chairman Oates said the property would be of no particular use to the county when the new airport became operational and money received from the sale could be applied toward cost of the new facilities.

Remainder of the old airport reverted back to the City of East Tawas, according to its deed stipulation in 1941.

On Saturday, December 30, 19-

62, Floyd Schaaf Jr. of Hiron Development Company, contractor, turned keys of the new terminal over to the board of supervisors' aeronautics committee. Work on seeding the 3,500-foot runway had been finished during the summer and some field markers were set in place.

Total cost of the airport and its facilities was $30,000, one-half of which was furnished by the federal government and the remainder through matching funds from the state and county.

Roach, who was manager of the old airport, said that he had received a number of inquiries from out-state plane operators requesting information as to the availability date of the new airport.

On Sunday, September 1, 1963, an estimated 2,000 persons attended dedication ceremonies at the new airport. Included in the day-long program were parachute jumps, model airplane flying, free airplane rides and a dawn patrol, which attracted more than 90 private planes.

Cong. Elford A. Cederberg of

Day City unveiled a plaque dedicating the new airport.

Major credit for development of the airport during this era goes to Oates, C. S. Everett and Ralph Meyers, who were members of the aeronautics committee of the old board of supervisors. Both Oates and Everett are deceased.

Since then, the primary runway has been hard surfaced and new hangar buildings have been constructed.

Improvements in recent years have included installation of lights for night flying and an instrument landing system is now in use.

Efforts are now being made to acquire additional property to lengthen the east-west runway and future plans call for construction of a north-south runway.

Aviation has made some mighty strides here in recent years with development of the county facility, but probably not what was anticipated in 1944 when it seemed like everyone would be flying a private plane after the war and there was a mad rush to construct airports around the country.

MSU Seminar Focuses on Women's Role

"Women Unlimited" is a series of six seminars which focus on the changing roles of women. Sponsored by the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service in Iosco County, the seminars are designed to help women better understand themselves and their changing roles, to help in personal growth and self-esteem development and aid in examining alternatives to make appropriate life choices.

The six seminars are scheduled for Monday afternoons, 1:00 to 3:00 p. m., beginning February 26. Location is the Tawas United Methodist Church, 20 West M-55, Tawas City.

Women Unlimited was developed through a pilot project at Purdue University. It consists of involvement activities and exercises supplemented by films, slides, lectures and reading materials. It is not a sensitivity group nor a vocational counseling program. It is a self-assessment and personal planning program. Participants of all ages and interests are welcome. Participants in the Purdue pilot program reported a clearer understanding of self, change in the direction of a more positive self-view, increased self-esteem and reduction in personal conflict.

Advance reservation is necessary and may be done by phoning 362-3449. There will be a small fee to cover material costs for the series.

Office Hours for Rep. Davis' Aide

Northern Michigan Cong. Robert W. Davis announced today that his Lower Peninsula district representative will hold office hours in Iosco County Wednesday, February 28. Jerry Newhouse has scheduled office hours from 10:00-11:00 a. m. at the Iosco County Building, Tawas City.

Any area citizen wishing to discuss a matter involving the federal government is invited to visit at this time. No prior appointment is necessary.

FmHA Financing Runs Short Due to Higher Cost of Homes

Local office of Farmers Home Administration will be closed March 1 and 2 for district meeting, it was announced by Philip H. Shaw, FmHA county supervisor. The office is located at 240 West Wright Street, West Branch. Shaw said the office will be open for business as usual on Monday, March 5.

Potential applicants to purchase homes with the assistance of the Farmers Home Administration may have an extra long wait, he pointed out.

Due to inflation of the average cost of homes purchased and a higher demand, FmHA funds for financing homes for low and moderate income have run short in recent months. In the three counties served by his office at West Branch (Ogemaw, Iosco and Roscommon), there appears to be sufficient applications on hand to use up the funding available in 1979. This assumes the sellers to the present applicants will extend their options long enough for these applications to be funded.

The shortage is particularly bad for limited income families (up to $11,200 adjusted family income) where most of the funds have been allocated. Funding for moderate income ($11,200-$15,600 adjusted income) families is not as short but the allocation is very low.

Shaw does advise realtors and potential sellers and buyers utilizing FmHA financing that "options to purchase" homes should be good for at least six months and a year preferably. He indicated his office will continue to determine eligibility and appraisals in a normal schedule.

He did indicate, however, that funding for farmer loans and very low income home repair loans is still adequate.

Any inquiries regarding FmHA programs and funding should be made at the above location or phone 345-5470.

THE letters look as if they too had fallen down the hill and were broken to pieces. You can repair them and make them look like new letters. All that you need to do is to take your pencil and add a line to each letter and the letters will then again be complete.
