

Enters Claim Against City

A hearing has been set for February 8, 9:30 a. m., in 81st District Court on a claim by Peter Popp, 913 West Lake Street, vs. the City of Tawas City.

Popp seeks an award of $519.51 in small claims court concerning damages to his house caused by the sewer system. A faulty lift station pump caused sewage to back up in the line and enter the house, damaging carpeting.

In his petition, Popp claims that the city "acknowledged that they were busy that day and did not check pumps as they usually do."

Road Commission Makes Counter Offer to East Tawas on Garage Property

A counter offer made by the Iosco County Road Commission for the old county garage property on West Westover Street was taken under advisement Monday night by the East Tawas Council.

Mayor Robert Bolen has directed the council's lands and buildings committee and the finance committee to study this new offer, along with an alternative proposal by a local firm to construct a new building for city garage purposes.

Discussion on the disposal of the county garage property has been heard for many months, dating back more than a year ago when the road commission moved into its new quarters on M-55 east of Sand Lake Road.

The road commission had asked the city recently to vacate several streets within the road commission property enclosed by a fence at East Tawas in order that a warranty deed could be given in the event of selling the property to a prospective buyer.

At its last meeting, the council countered with an offer of $35,000 for the road commission's interest in the property.

A letter read Monday night said that "in light of the various claims being made against the property in question, the board will offer for sale to the City of East Tawas the above referenced property for the sum of $110,000."

For this amount, the road commission would relinquish its interest in the property to the city, excepting a 120 by 200-foot parcel of vacant land facing Westover Street which would be outclaimed to the Iosco County Board of Commissioners.

The county board of commissioners recently turned any right of claim to this property over to the road commission. It was once a part of the old county fairgrounds.

The road commission said its offer would be extended only to the city because of the street rights-of-way existing within the property boundaries.

"However, it should be noted that the City of East Tawas did provide the Iosco County Road Commission with a warranty deed for portions of the rights-of-way in 1960 for the sum of $3,750," stated the letter.

Although stating he did not have all of the information in front of him, Mayor Bolen said that the above statement in the letter could be in error as he believed the warranty deed mentioned referred to a portion of the former forest service property obtained by the city and sold to the road commission and did not pertain to streets.

The mayor instructed the two council committees to make a complete review of the road commission's offer and also to a proposal submitted by Ken Schaaf Builders, Incorporated. That firm estimated that it would cost between $108,000 and $144,000 for construction of a new concrete block and steel building to house a city garage. The proposal included a preliminary drawing showing maintenance bays for equipment, an office area and parking. The building would be completely insulated. No site work or utility charges were included in the over-all estimated cost.

William Smith, city superintendent, said the proposed building might be cramped on the city's 200 by 300-foot site west of the former county garage, but the mayor suggested that a study be made to determine if it would be feasible to locate the new city garage there. The city recently turned present city garage property east of Wadsworth Street over to the state for development of a new boat launching ramp.

MICHIGAN Waterways Commission Dock at East Tawas is a popular spot for tourists and local residents during the summer season but is deserted most of the winter. Snow was drifting across the entrance to the dock Saturday morning when this picture was snapped, following the second heavy snowfall this winter. Things will pick up the week-end of February 24 when the dock will be the focal point for the annual Perchville-USA Festival.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Commend DPW Snow Removal Crews for Prompt Action; More Snow on Way

Officials of the Tawas commended public works crews of the city for prompt action in opening highways and city streets following Saturday night's blizzard.

All schools of the county were closed Monday due to heavy drifting snow which had plugged rural side roads.

At Monday night's meeting of the Tawas City Water Board, it was reported that DPW crews started plowing at 7:00 a. m. Sunday and all streets were opened within a six-hour period. Work continues in removing a heavy accumulation of snow in business areas.

At Monday night's meeting of the East Tawas Council, Mayor Robert

Bolen advised residents that in such storms it is often necessary for plows to make more than one trip along a street to clear the right-of-way.

In some instances, residents shoveled out driveways before plows had completed work of clearing snow from the sides of streets. This resulted in complaints by home owners, who spent considerable time shoveling out driveways able to have them filled again by plows. "The department of public works is not trying to fill anyone's driveway, but snow must be removed first from the streets and shoulders to take care of the next storm," said Bolen.

Water Board Advises:

Running Tap May Prevent Freeze-Up

Leave a tap running—water lines may start freezing!

This was the warning Monday night of the Tawas City Water Board following an extended period of cold weather.

If a dwelling or commercial building has a history of water line freeze-ups, the owner or other responsible person should start water running in the line to avoid a problem, states Rachel Sue McCready, acting city manager.

"Let one tap run, only enough to keep the line from freezing—something less than a heavy flow, but more than a drip," advises Mrs. McCready.

This is a rather simple solution to avoid paying a costly repair bill and much inconvenience during cold weather. The city superintendent said Monday night that frost had penetrated the ground to a depth of 3½ feet in some places, especially under driveways, where water lines are particularly vulnerable to freezing.

In business transacted Monday night, the water board retained the firm of E. C. Deyo to conduct an appraisal of city property, including buildings and equipment, for insurance purposes. Authorization for this work had already been given by the city council.

The department of public works was authorized to purchase a new magnetic device to locate underground valves.

The acting city manager reported that a new alarm system had been installed in sewer lift stations to detect when pumps are not operating. Audible signals are yet to be installed.

A report was given on repair of water meters by a firm specializing in that work. Twenty-five meters have been repaired and are again in operation.

As required under a recent directive of the water board, meters are to be installed at residences on Plank Road and Bay Drive outside the city limit which receive water service.

Discussion was held on recent action of the council directing the water board to reimburse the city approximately $20,000 as that department's share of fringe benefits paid to employees over a period of several years.

A copy of the water board's budget for those years is to be submitted to the council showing that payment of fringe benefits was included in the general operational budget of the city and not in the water and sewer department's budget.

The council has contended that a proportionate share of employee fringe benefits should be paid by the water and sewer department and the cost should be borne by customers of that department, because of service to nontaxable public buildings and customers outside the city limit.

Rosalie A. Stewart Files Auto Negligence Suit

An auto negligence suit has been filed by Rosalie A. Stewart of Oscoda against Victor Malek, James S. Buckley and Shirley A. Buckley over an auto accident September 14 on River Road west of Oscoda. A car driven by Malek, headed west, crashed into an eastbound vehicle driven by Mrs. Stewart about five miles west of Oscoda. The plaintiff claims that the oncoming driver was operating his vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

The second count of the suit claims that the Buckleys, who operate the Hilltop Bar at Oscoda, sold liquor to Malek and claims he was visibly intoxicated at the time. The plaintiff, who had been employed as a secretary in the county clerk's office, sustained serious injuries in the crash. No specific damages were asked in the two-count suit.

the blizzard which hit the Midwest. A senior citizen dressed in long underwear is warming his backside against a potbelly stove, while his dog howls about the cold weather.—Tawas Herald Photo.

28 Ice Sculptures Featured Hale Area Winter Festival

Interest was higher than ever this year in the third annual ice sculpturing contest during the Hale Area Winter Festival, but someone with a demented mind spoiled a lot of work on the part of Plainfield Township residents by destroying a number of displays sometime Thursday night.

Twenty-eight sculptures were on display Friday and prizes were awarded Saturday night to the following:

Grand prize over-all, Hale Area Senior Citizens, for an outstanding display in front of the Hale Area Senior Citizens Center. This humorous sculpture depicted a senior citizen dressed in long underwear warming his backside in front of a red-hot potbelly stove.

Judges for the event were Joan Blust and Beatrice Charters of Tawas Bay Arts Council and Kris Busch, an art teacher from Hale Area School.

Since establishment of the winter carnival three years ago, the ice sculpturing contest has grown from nine entries the first year, 48 entries the second year and 28 the third year.

Sculptures ranged from religious figures to Sesame Street characters and animals. Sculptures are spread out over an area of five miles.

Residents of the Hale area are proud of their endeavors and hope next year's event will be even better.

Putnam Says Oil-Gas Leases on Upswing in Iosco County

A report from Leon Putnam, Iosco County register of deeds, indicated Monday an upturn in the number of oil and gas leases filed in his office.

Latest to file leases was Dart Oil and Gas Corporation of Mt. Pleasant, which leased 19 different parcels of land comprising 3,840 acres in Reno and Plainfield Townships.

Late last year, Hunt Energy Corporation filed leases on 63 parcels in Tawas, Wilber and Baldwin Townships.

In addition to this activity on private lands, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources was to have leased oil and gas rights on state-owned lands in Iosco County last year.

This has been the greatest flurry of leasing property for oil and gas rights since 1961, when 13,074 acres of Iosco lands were leased and three unsuccessful test wells were sunk in Burleigh and Reno Townships.

Oil and gas leasing activities in Iosco County date back to 1927, when a test well was sunk at East Tawas. Each decade thereafter witnessed periods of active interest here, but all wells sunk to date have not been producers.

Oil and gas in paying quantities have been found in counties surrounding Iosco during the past 50 years and it is expected that the current shortage of crude oil will touch off new oil and gas exploration in this region.

Businessmen Laud C. A. Pinkerton Jr.

Tawas City Businessmen's Association unanimously endorsed a resolution Thursday to honor Charles A. Pinkerton Jr., chairman of the board of the Detroit and Mackinac Railway Company.

The businessmen's association is to prepare a suitable plaque in commemoration of Pinkerton's long service to the railroad, thanking the D&M for the employment opportunities it has afforded citizens of the Tawas and Northeastern Michigan.

The plaque and resolution will also point out the industrial opportunities and advancements afforded by the railroad through Pinkerton's leadership, plus thanking him for his many individual contributions to the welfare of the Tawas.

Named as a committee to prepare a plaque and official resolution from the businessmen's association were Brent Babcock, Dr.

John D. LeClair and Edward Sterling.

Discussion was also held on immediate installation of water and sewer service to at least one site in the expanded industrial park, rather than to wait until finances can be secured to completely serve the 40-acre addition with water and sewer.

It was pointed out that a new industry is interested in locating here and that industrial sites, served by both water and sewer, should be made available as soon as possible.

On recommendation of Donald Hayes, the association is to request that the city council appoint a committee to work on the project.

A letter is to be sent to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources recommending that the state continue its fish planting program in Tawas Bay and to request information concerning past quotas for planting fish here.

JOSEPH FOX, who retired from service December 31 on the Iosco County Board of Commissioners, was honored at Thursday's session by the Region 7B Employment and Training Consortium. Fox represented this county on administering the CETA program through that agency and is shown receiving a retirement gift from Donald Case, director.—Tawas Herald Photo.

US to Pay Producers to Divert Potato Surplus

Vernon L. Kretzschmer, chairman of the Michigan State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, announces that beginning January 15 the United States Department of Agriculture will pay producers to divert up to nine-million-hundredweight of russet potatoes to livestock feed or starch to offset the effect of a price-depressing surplus of potatoes.

Kretzschmer said that local county offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service will accept applications to participate in the program and handle program operations.

Consumers will pay one-half to one cent per pound more for fresh potatoes than they would in the absence of this program. Retail prices for potatoes and potato products are expected to remain at last year's level or up to two percent higher.

To take part in the program, growers must obtain authorization for diversion from their local county office of the ASCS. Kretzschmer also stated that potatoes must be graded by their local federal-state inspection service. Potatoes offered for diversion must be shipped to a starch processing plant or be mutilated by cutting, crushing or other authorized method if the potatoes are to be used for livestock feed. Potatoes diverted under the program must not enter the fresh market trade.

Kretzschmer stated that growers can feed the potatoes directly to their own livestock or sell them to other livestock producers. The grading service will certify the quality and quantity of potatoes diverted and that they have been mutilated if used for livestock feed. ASCS will issue payments based upon the inspection certificates.

Look to Welfare Rolls When Hiring

"If the local business community is truly serious about holding down inflation, it needs to take a serious look at hiring new employees from the welfare rolls," according to Donald Czernik, director of the Work Incentive (WIN) Program in Isosco County.

"Welfare itself is inflationary," said Czernik, "and reducing the number of welfare recipients has a positive effect on inflation." Czernik also said that by participating in the WIN Program, employers are eligible for a variety of tax credits which substantially reduce payroll costs.

He said that by taking advantage of WIN and the tax credit provisions, an employer is also taking a positive step toward reducing inflation. "When payroll costs are kept down, prices are also kept down," he explained. "That means everyone wins."

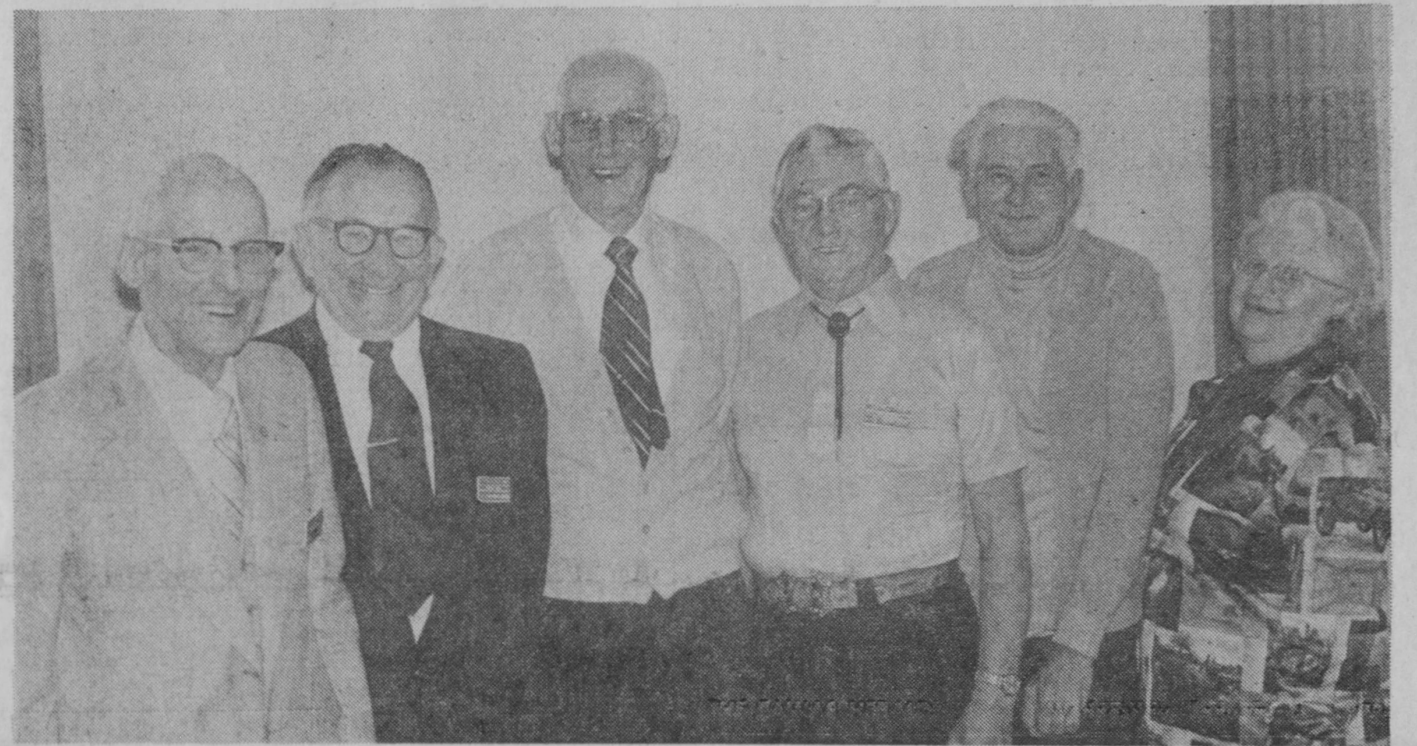

A tax credit is subtracted from the total taxes owed after all other deductions are taken not deducted from gross income before taxes are computed. The WIN Program offers a 20 percent credit or more on wages of each new employee hired from its program.

Czernik said that employers interested in the WIN Program can obtain more information by calling 362-6769, or stop at the office at 2145 East Huron Road, East Tawas.

Engineer's Report Under Study by E. Tawas Council

Recommendations from Spicer Engineering Company on bids received for four different projects to handle a new backwash system at East Tawas' water filtration plant were discussed at Monday night's meeting.

At a special meeting of the East Tawas Council Thursday night, Scheuner Construction Company of Alpena submitted the low bid among four entered for removal of the stand pipe and water tank at the city park. The Alpena firm's bid was $6,000.

Scheuner Construction also submitted a bid of $92,150 for construction of a new ground level tank and installing pipes.

Mayor Robert Bolen said that the engineer's estimate for this project was $60,000 and he believed that both this bid and that of the water tank removal project should be rejected and new bids be taken.

John Henry of East Tawas submitted the low bids for installation of additional lines in the city's proposed new backwash system at the filtration plant. The bids were for $24,164 each.

William Smith, city superintendent, stated that the department of public works is considering construction of the first two projects with its own crew and a hired consultant. He believed that a considerable savings could be gained by the city by doing its own work.

Spicer's letter stated that Scheuner had disqualified itself in writing and verbally concerning its $6,000 bid on removing the tank. The engineer recommended that the work be awarded to Siebert and Associates at its bid price of $6,940.

This recommendation and others are to be considered at a joint meeting of the council's finance committee and park board.

In other business, the council discussed adoption of a resolution to be forwarded to fire insurance authorities indicating that Baldwin Township was served by the East Tawas Volunteer Fire Department. The resolution would update records and probably result in a savings in fire insurance premiums paid by Baldwin Township property owners.

Approval was given to permit Michigan State Police to utilize a 30-foot strip on the east end of the city park for parking purposes. Wadsworth Street east of the state police post is to be closed for development of state boat launching facilities and parking at the lower end of the street will be eliminated. The city is to retain ownership of the 30-foot strip of land to be used for parking purposes on the east side of the state police post.

At the request of City Atty. Michael Freeland, the council authorized hiring of Carl Brownell Jr. to act as an expert witness on behalf of the city at a hearing before the state tax tribunal on February 1. This case involves an appeal by Louise Dimmick on her property taxes for 1976 through 1978, involving considerable acreage in the city.

Mayor Bolen expressed the opinion that a formal resolution should be sent by the council to the Tawas Area School District and County of Iosco asking those two governing bodies to pay a proportionate share of expenses involved in defending the assessments, inasmuch as the major share of taxes goes to the county and schools.

Mrs. Hammond New Alabaster Twp. Clerk

Mrs. Harold Hammond was named Alabaster Township clerk at a special meeting of the township board held December 29, 1978. Her appointment became necessary by the resignation of Raymond (Pete) Rescoe, who was elected to the position in the November General Election. She was sworn into office January 2.

Rescoe stated that his resignation, effective December 20, 1978, was due to ill health that developed after it was too late to withdraw from the election.

Mrs. Hammond, who returned to the area six months ago, has held the position of deputy county clerk and clerk of the road commission in Ogemaw County, was an employee of the United States Soil Conservation Service and had been employed by Straits Aggregate and Equipment Company.

She is a certified graphoanalyst and engages in professional handwriting analysis service.

REPRESENTATIVES of AuSable Valley Community Mental Health Board have signed an agreement with state officials to integrate and unify services. Participating in formal signing of the agreement were (left to right) Floyd Smith, the board's director; Robert K. D., director of Traverse City Regional Psychiatric Hospital, and Stanley Beck, M. D., director of Alpine Regional Center of Developmental Disabilities. Medical Care Facility Budget Reviewed by Commissioners

A budget calling for a $158,750 increase in operational costs at the medical care facility was submitted Wednesday to the county board of commissioners by the Iosco County Social Services Board.

Total operational budget for 1979 is $1,076,111, as compared to $917,360 in 1978.

As a result of the increase, the social services board is seeking an appropriation of $139,297 in 1979 from the county board of commissioners, as compared to a $75,616 allocation in 1978.

Although it had been thought that a contingency fund established in the county's 1979 budget would finance an increased allocation to medical care facility operation, the county board of commissioners warned Wednesday that the contingency fund would be unable to provide $139,297 as requested.

Commissioners believed that the social services board and administrator would have to review the budget and make cuts accordingly in order to live within existing financing.

The proposed $139,297 county allocation represents an 85.70 percent increase over 1978 and the county board of commissioners has indicated in recent meetings that a special millage election may have to be held seeking approval of voters in the future.

According to the new budget, income from Medicare, private pay and insurance patients will show a $2,657 decrease, from $311,082 in 1978 to $308,425 in 1979. On the other hand, Medicaid income is expected to be increased by $82,341 during the year, from $463,167 in 1978 to $545,508, while miscellaneous receipts will increase from $67,495 to $82,881 during the year. The Medicaid income is based on 98 percent occupancy.

Costs have increased in practically every category of operation, reported Roy Bergstrom, facility director.

Administration showed a $32,951 increase, from $209,856 in 1978 to $242,807 in 1979; plant operation is expected to show a $10,341 increase, from $53,614 to $63,955; laundry costs will jump $11,833, from $25,392 to $37,225; dietary will show a $16,014 increase, from $128,718 to $144,732; there will be a $541 increase in operation of the pharmacy, from $23,689 to $24,230.

A $55,455 increase in the cost of nursing services was shown in the budget, from $392,267 to $447,722; physical therapy and speech therapy, a new addition to the service, will jump $29,335, from $11,316 to $40,651; diversional therapy will be increased by $1,048, from $8,560 to $9,608.

Lesser increases were noted in radiology and laboratory, from $5,172 to $5,688; professional and doctors, from $14,986 to $14,721.

A new item listed in the budget is $8,400 for depreciation. A reduction was noted in housekeeping, from $43,349 to $35,931, reflecting a realignment of positions.

Applications Being Taken for Barkman Scholarships

Applications are now being taken at Tawas Area High School for Joseph Barkman scholarships. Deadline for entering is February 15 and forms are available at the high school counselor's office.

JOSEPH BARKMAN

Seniors of Tawas Area High School, any former graduates now in college or any former graduates planning to attend college are eligible to apply for a scholarship. Parents may pick up application forms at the high school if necessary.

Last year, four $600 scholarships and three $400 scholarships were awarded.

Funds to finance the scholarships were established in the last will of the late Joseph Barkman, Tawas businessman, whose desire was to aid needy young people to attend college. Mr. Barkman never was able to finish school himself and the trust fund he established for young people is but one example of his generosity toward others—even after his death.

Complete information concerning eligibility is available from Thomas Pintkowski, guidance counselor.

Tawas Coach to Speak at Football Clinic

Darryl Rogers, football coach at Michigan State University, will be sharing the spotlight with 10 other prep football coaches at the annual clinic of the Michigan High School Football Coaches to be held February 23-24 at Warren Woods High School, Detroit.

Among the high school coaches selected to speak will be Coach Dick Look, whose Tawas Area Braves were co-champion of the Northeastern Michigan Conference last fall. Rogers will be principal speaker.

The state association is comprised of 1,500 to 2,000 high school football coaches and their assistants.

One of the state's most successful coaches, Look was named the association's coach of the year two years ago, but this will be his first speaking engagement before the association.

Look's subject will be the veer offense in backfield play.

Water Rights Program Set by Cooperative Extension

Water is one of the resources that makes Michigan unique. Once taken for granted by most people, water has become a limiting factor for some kinds of development.

Because of the growing realization of the important role water plays in our future, a program on water rights is scheduled for Wednesday evening, January 31. Sponsored by the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service, the program begins at 7:00 p. m. at the Gaylord State Bank Community Room.

Leighton Leighty and Raleigh Barlowe from MSU's Department of Resource Development will serve as resource people for the session. Major discussion items will be growing demands on Northern Michigan's water resources, programs affecting water use, your water rights problems—response to individual situations.

The session should be of special interest to planning groups of county, township and city officials and property and lake associations. It is open to all interested persons. No reservations are necessary. Anyone interested in car-pooling to the session from Iosco County should phone Iosco County's Cooperative Extension Service office at 362-3449.

TA Braves Held Their Own in First Quarter, but Lost to Gs

Tawas Braves gave Gladwin a run for it during the first quarter of Friday night's showdown for the top rung in Northeastern Michigan Conference standings, but the Flying Gs' fast break wore down the Braves, 67-53, in a rough game.

The two teams traded basket for basket during the first eight minutes of play, but Gladwin went ahead by two points at the quarter buzzer.

Gladwin doubled Tawas' scoring effort in the second quarter, 20-10, and the two teams were knotted, 14-14, in third quarter scoring. The Gs held the upper hand in the final quarter with an 18-16 margin.

The winners connected on 32 of 61 shots from the floor which told the story as Tawas was able to mesh only 24 of 69 of its shots.

Gladwin is undefeated during the season, while Tawas drops to a record of two wins and a loss in conference play and has four losses in nonconference play.

Kevin Grace led Tawas in a losing cause with 20 points, while Kraig Moffatt turned in a 12-point effort.

Commission Ponders Change In

Workmen's Compensation Insurance

Discussion on possible participation by Iosco County in a workmen's compensation self-insurance program sponsored by the Michigan Association of Counties was continued Wednesday by the Iosco County Board of Commissioners.

A representative of MAC and the firm hired by that organization to provide administration of the proposed new group plan explained provisions of the proposal and answered questions of county commissioners and local insurance agents in attendance.

Gene Reabucha, representing Corporate Services of Livonia, said his firm administers a self-insurance program for the Michigan Association of School Boards, with 185 schools in the state participating.

The state association of commissioners is proposing that a new group plan to provide workmen's compensation insurance be formed by March 1. As of last week, no counties in the state had signed up and Iosco County, which had submitted its initial payment before the end of the year, withdrew its check when that fact was learned.

Reabucha said that the proposed workmen's compensation trust fund to be established would have a board of directors represented by MAC members. He claimed that the program his firm administers for the Michigan Association of School Boards saves schools approximately 40 percent of the cost formerly paid for workmen's compensation insurance through regular insurance agencies.

He said that all small counties were faced with the problem with the rising cost of workmen's compensation insurance and outlined safety engineering services provided by his firm to reduce accident exposure.

During a question and answer period, representatives of five local insurance agencies pointed out that Iosco County had an excellent experience concerning workmen's compensation claims, received a discounted rate because of that excellent experience through the Michigan Accident Fund and questioned the advisability of risking its present standing by joining other counties with possible poorer risks.

Reabucha said that poor risk counties would not be permitted to join the new program and local insurance agents then questioned if, after joining the new program, a county would be forced out if it experienced large claims. One local agent pointed out that despite "some horrendous local losses at one time, the Michigan Accident Fund continued to stay with local units."

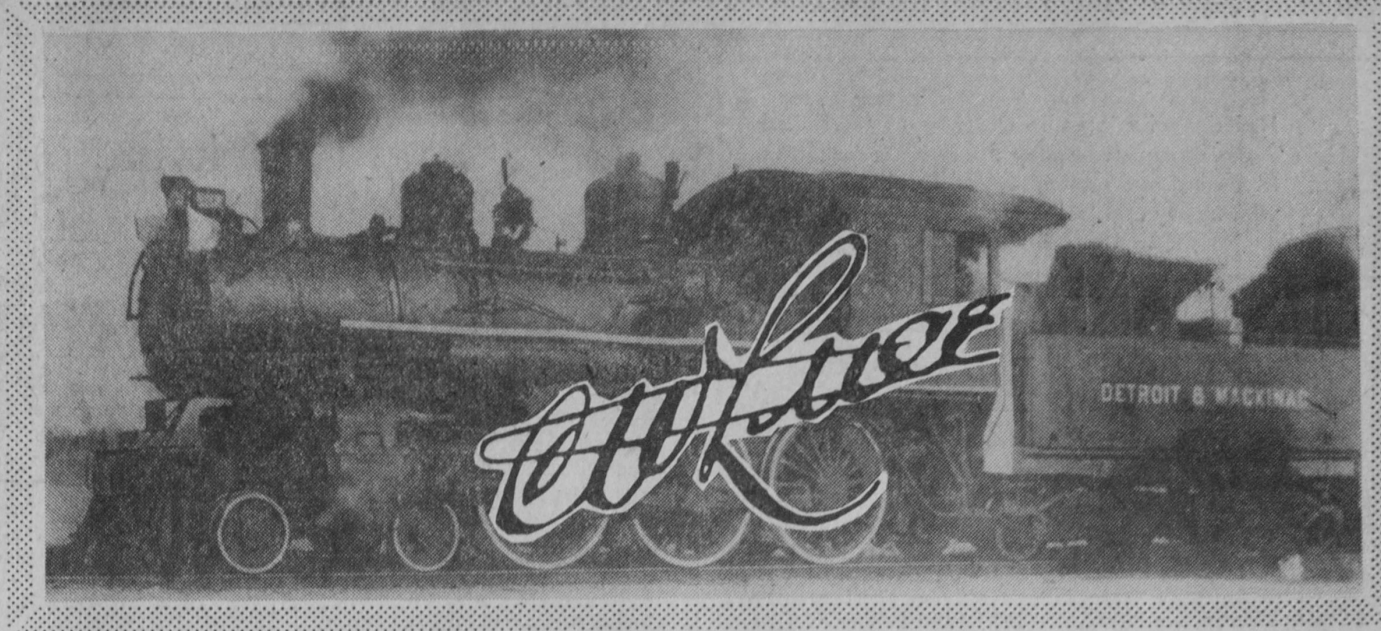

Carlton Merschel and Marian Ulman, county commissioners, said that claims were being made that there was a possibility of saving $1,000 on workmen's compensation insurance the first year and wondered if the claimed saving was worth it because of the loss of service presently being provided by the local agent. Both believed the MAC program should be in operation for at least a year before Iosco County makes any decision concerning joining the program.

Reabucha said the new program had a 15 percent savings for counties as its target. "We know the program works, but we are not demanding you come into it," he stated. He said that county medical care facilities and road commissions were also eligible to enter the program.

It is expected that discussion on the proposal will be continued at the regular session of the board of commissioners Wednesday (today).

Guiding destinies of the Detroit and Mackinac Railway as general superintendent from its infancy in 1895, as successor to a bankrupt railroad, through the "golden years" of passenger service in Northeastern Michigan, was one of the most revered and highly respected residents in East Tawas' history.

Carlton W. Luce, who had entered railroad service at Jackson in 1869, came to East Tawas on September 1, 1889, when he was appointed trainmaster of the Detroit, Bay City and Alpena Railroad. Three years later, September 1, 1892, he became superintendent of the road.

During the next 28 years, Luce was one of the driving forces behind the railroad's rise to prominence as the most important carrier of passengers and freight in Northeastern Michigan. The railroad's record during that era was spectacular and helped to pave the way for prosperous continuance to this day through promotion of industry and development of uses for natural resources along its Huron shore route.

During his 35-year residency at East Tawas, Luce never had time nor ambition for the honors of high public office, but he was always a staunch advocate of all measures and enterprises for the good and general welfare of his community. He did find time to serve East Tawas as its mayor for several terms and considerable community progress was achieved under his administration.

Luce was born at Jonesville on October 24, 1853, and was reared on a farm in Jackson County. At the tender age of 13 years, he entered employment of the Peninsular Railroad as a water boy. Three years later, he was promoted to the position of freight brakeman and train baggagemaster. He held that position until May 5, 1874, when he became a freight conductor and was a passenger conductor from 1880 to 1883 on the same railroad.

Moving into the higher echelon of railroad management, he served from 1883 to 1889 as trainmaster of the Detroit, Lansing and Northern Railroad and came to East Tawas in 1889 as trainmaster of the DBC&A.

Luce succeeded Milo Eastman as general superintendent of the DBC&A in August 1892, and continued in that position when the new Detroit and Mackinac Railway was incorporated in May 1895.

No one who knew the old Alger and Smith logging road of the 18-80s was to recognize the new D&M after 1895. The old road began nowhere and ended nowhere; its principal mission was to haul logs out of the brush and, to that end, it made the most surprising curves, avoided towns and villages in order to get nearer to the timbered regions. It ran up hill and down dale and, if a train made better than 10 miles an hour, the crew would boast about it for a week afterward. All of that came to an end after 1895 when the new railroad retired antiquated rolling stock, purchased new locomotives, passenger and freight equipment. The greatest improvement of all was the alteration of the route from Emery Junction (National City) to Bay City, plus rebalasting and straightening track along its entire route. All of this work was accomplished under the general supervision of Luce.

The Detroit Sunday Tribune, in describing the railroad in its issue of November 3, 1901, stated that "credit for putting the road into its present condition is due to the general management of James D. Hawks and C. W. Luce, general superintendent, a practical railway man from the ground up. Luce is a master of the railway business in all its ramifications; at the present time, he is busy with extensions and the relaying of the road. He is also superintending the building of two substantial stone bridges over the Black River and at Tower."

On October 27, 1901, a reporter for the Saginaw Courier-Herald accompanied a special train carrying newsmen inspecting the route. In his report, the reporter said that "the railroad is very substantial, as the fact that the special train made frequent spurts at the rate of 60 and 65 miles an hour illustrated."

That speed was to be even surpassed in the next decade as roadbed improvements were made under Luce's direction. A. G. Jackson, a former D&M mechanical superintendent, recalled in later years that the road's blue ribbon Southern Michigan Express had been clocked running at speeds up to 92 miles an hour, a fact seemingly incredible until some of the old timecards are checked.

In a little over 16 years, the D&M emerged from the adolescence and rust of its predecessor as a live, prosperous and growing railroad. Shipment of coal, agricultural products, limestone, gypsum and stone replaced the white pine upon which the railroad formerly depended for its livelihood.

Passenger and freight earnings of the railroad showed a rapid growth after completion of the new route. In 1896, freight earnings amounted to $124,065 and passenger revenue totaled $24,653.

By 1912, the railroad reached its peak by hauling 421,520 passengers and had passenger revenues of $330,960. At the same time, the record year of 1912 saw the D&M carrying 1,083,713 tons of freight and had total freight earnings of $842,320.

After 1912, passenger revenue began to diminish at a rapid rate as the automobile and improved roads began to cut into its profits. By 1920, the total number of passengers carried had declined to 357,000 and continued to decline by about 10 percent a year during the next three decades.

In 1920, the D&M got a new general manager, H. K. McHarg Jr., who ordered a reorganization. Luce retired as general superintendent, but not from railroading. He was to continue on for a year or so as general superintendent of the Erie and Michigan Railway and Navigation Company, which hauled gypsum rock from Alabaster to Tawas. His office was located in the Holland Hotel.

Luce had purchased a stone quarry some years earlier and also served as president of the Federal Sand and Gravel Company of Saginaw.

An ardent sportsman, Luce was an active member of the Tri-County Sportsmen's Club and the Turtle Lake Club.

He died Saturday, January 17, 1925, at the home of his son at East Tawas and was buried at the Elm Lawn Cemetery, Detroit. His wife, Janet G., preceded him in death in November 1907.

In its obituary, The Tawas Herald stated: "In the passing of Carlton W. Luce, Northeastern Michigan has lost one of its most prominent men, one intensely devoted to the development and welfare of that section and a revered and highly respected citizen of East Tawas."

Good Building Year Recorded in Tawas Twp.

Forty-three building permits were issued in Tawas Township during 1978 for a total of $546,479, according to Harold Wegner, building official of the township. Largest permit was granted to Hemlock Road Baptist Church for an annex to the church valued at $109,000.

Other permits issued included 14 residential, $341,967; five mobile homes, $27,000; 12 garages, $40,812, and 11 miscellaneous permits for additions and storage buildings, $27,700.

Additional Runs Lowers Deficit

Despite steadily rising costs in governmental operation, Iosco County Board of Commissioners received some welcome news Wednesday—the operational cost picture for Tawas Hospital Ambulance Service has improved and there will be no need for a third quarter allocation by the county.

Last year, the county board of commissioners agreed to fund the annual deficit for the ambulance service operation, formerly financed by participating townships and cities since the inception of the hospital ambulance service.

During the year, an Oscoda funeral director discontinued his ambulance service, which resulted in increasing the hospital's ambulance runs from 302 previous year to 434 for a five-month period in 1978.

The result of the increased number of runs has increased proceeds of the ambulance service. Donald Miner, director of the ambulance service for the hospital, told the board of commissioners Wednesday that the county's two quarterly payments totaling $13,806.50 were more than enough to offset the actual loss and no third quarter payment would be required.

Miner also stated that the ambulance service's $40 loading fee was comparable to charges of other ambulance services in surrounding counties and no increase was necessary.

Discussion was held with the board of commissioners on the need for revising the workmen's compensation program for part-time ambulance drivers at Hale. If a part-time worker is injured while in the employ of the ambulance service, workmen's compensation would be based on the part-time salary and the employee would receive no benefit from his full-time job. It has been suggested that the ambulance service compensate the difference between full and part-time jobs in the event an employee is injured.

County funding of scholarships to interest persons in entering emergency medical technical training courses was also discussed.

Editorial— Congress Should be Realistic About Emission Control Devices

Newspaper editors "up in the sticks" of Northern Michigan probably should be content to editorialize on local issues, leaving national problems for big city editors to ponder, but this corner must add its two-cents worth concerning a serious problem facing the entire country.

After a 10-year study, a nonprofit group, Resources for the Future, concludes that automobiles actually account for only four percent of all air pollution, even before the Clean Air Act mandated emission controls.

Granted, there may be some air pollution problems in metropolitan areas of California to which automobile emissions have contributed, but it seems to this corner that all of us must take a hard look at federally mandated controls and ask: Are they really worth it?

Gasoline consumption has risen considerably through the new control devices, as was predicted during congressional hearings, and we are continually bombarded with reports concerning the seriousness of the gasoline shortage.

It would seem that California and other states could enforce their own emission controls, while automobiles operating in other states, where no serious air pollution problems exist, could be operated more efficiently and save fuel supplies by eliminating the costly emission control devices.

As a practical matter, it is a known fact that some automobile owners have bypassed emission control devices, in spite of federal law, in order to save gasoline costs through reduced consumption.

Environmental protection is of concern to all, but this is one instance where federal controls have been carried too far. As yet, there has been no satisfactory replacement devised for the internal combustion engine and gasoline will be needed for a long time to come. Rising costs of fuel and production of automobiles, however, have added materially to the rising rate of inflation in this country.

Congress should make a realistic reappraisal of its previous action on emission controls and, we believe, should make some corrections to permit the saving of fuel and reduce the rate of inflation at the same time.

TODAY'S Meditation

from The World's Most Widely Used Devotional Guide

(Read 2 Corinthians 12:7-10)

"I take pleasure in infirmities, in reproaches, in necessities, in persecutions, in distresses for Christ's sake: for when I am weak then I am strong." (2 Corinthians 12:10)

I have been diabetic since I was 11. I have wanted and demanded for God to heal me but it has never happened.

One day, I had been having severe reactions, one after another. At times, I was not aware of what was going on around me yet I was conscious. That night, I could not sleep. I tossed and turned and fought going to sleep for fear I would not wake up. Forgetting my anger, I prayed to God to give me peace and protect me through the night. I awoke the next morning with a headache but a stronger faith in Almighty God; He had answered my prayer.

Paul said he had a thorn in the flesh—a bodily weakness. He finally realized its purpose in his life was to strengthen his faith and dependence on God. With God's help, Paul turned it from his weakness to his strength. He made it something he could use rather than be used by.

For God's people, weakness and infirmity may be divinely permitted. The way we handle our trouble could make us an invalid or a victor.

PRAYER

O Lord, help us to see our weakness as Your perfect strength. Amen.

First Annual Perchville Festival Set

15 Years Ago—

January 15, 1964—First annual Perchville festival will be held on the ice of Tawas Bay February 28-29 and March 1. The ice fishing village has been a promotion of Tawas Chamber of Commerce for about 14 years and, during the past two seasons, 25 new aluminum shanties were purchased by local sponsors. James DeWyse, chairman, said it was felt that some promotion should be made this year to acquaint outstayers with the excellent winter fishing here.

Philip Gidley is the new probation-parole officer here for the Michigan Department of Corrections.

The 78 employees of United States Gypsum Company at Alabaster were honored for an accident-free record last year.

Adult education classes at Whitmore-Prescott Area School have an enrollment of about 150 persons, according to Supt. Ray Kesler.

Graham Freel is now operating Ivan's Barber Shop in Tawas City. He had barbered at Hale, Bridgeport and Detroit before coming here. Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Castagnier left here for California in December.

25 Years Ago—

January 15, 1954 — Dedication ceremonies for the new county building will be held Wednesday afternoon with an all day open house for public inspection. Hon. Edward M. Sharpe, justice of the Michigan Supreme Court, will be the principal speaker at the ceremony.

Christ Episcopal Church of East Tawas, which has been a mission for 75 years, will be a self-supporting parish in the future, according to a report from Canon Warner Forsyth. Incorporating signers were H. C. Hennigar, George Herman, Samuel Siglin, George Gifford, Arthur Bloesing and Norman Merschel.

Two Hundred students from McKenzie High School, Detroit, will be here this week-end to enjoy winter sports at Silver Valley.

Cpl. Jacob C. Montgomery has returned to the United States after serving with the army in France.

Farmers Elevator at Prescott burned early last Saturday morning.

Tawas City barbers expect that, within the next few weeks, there will be a greatly increased business in trimming beards and training mustaches in preparation for the centennial observance.

35 Years Ago—

January 21, 1944—Iosco County Board of Supervisors has discontinued the dog warden system and the county is to return to the old way of listing dogs by supervisors. Salary of the deputy county treasurer was raised from $100 to $135 per month.

There is a false rumor circulating that the government would cancel old age assistance or pensions and soldiers allotments if the person receiving them purchased war bonds. H. E. Friedman, chairman of the county war finance committee, stated this was untrue.

Dances for the benefit of Tawas City High School Band are being well patronized by students and adults from the Tawas and Alabaster. Neil Libka is student manager, Jeanette Montgomery is treasurer and Jean Lansky, secretary. An orchestra providing music for old-time dancing was composed of Joseph Pfeiffer, fiddle; Charles Timreck, guitar, and Ray Beaubien, caller.

Little Theatre to Start Planning Next Production

Individuals interested in working on stage, off stage or in between productions for Tawas Little Theatre are asked to attend the first meeting of the year Thursday evening, January 18, 7 o'clock, in the library of Tawas Area High School. Work will begin to plan the next presentation of the group.

For information, call Karen St. James, 362-2734, or Margaret Meiswick, 362-8754.

Brass Quartet Appearing Jan. 22

An exciting musical banquet is on the menu at Oscoda High School Auditorium Monday, January 22, 8:00 p. m., when five talented and enthusiastic young musicians present the third program in this season's community concert series.

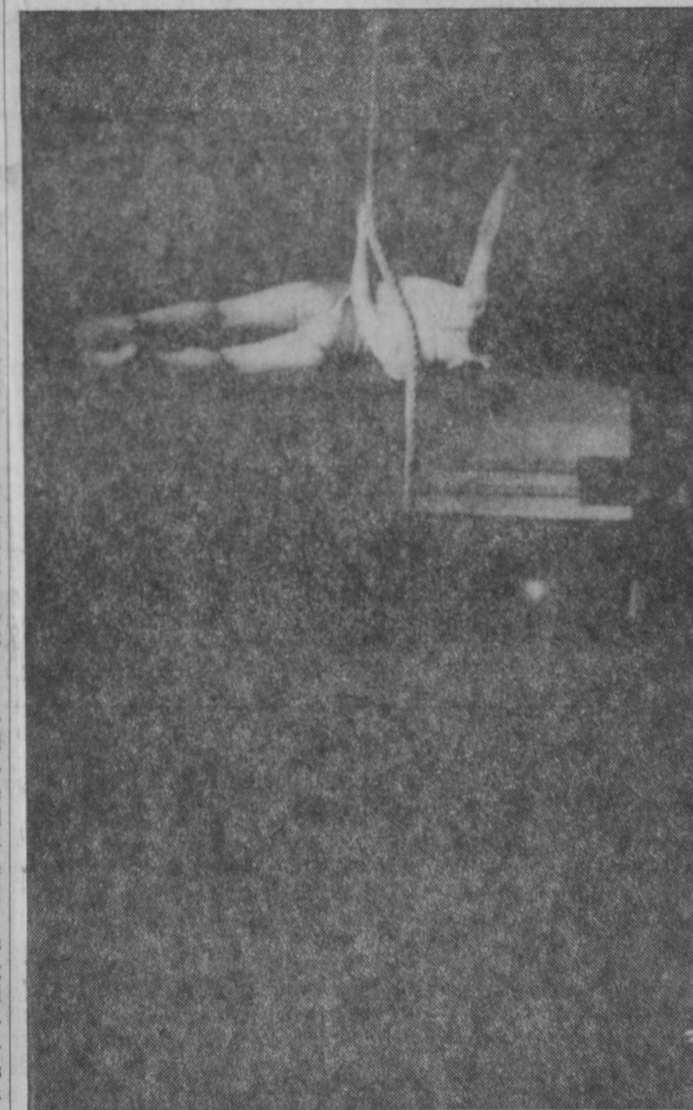

Known as the Eastern Brass Quintet, this group has been together since 1970 and is credited by critics as being an outstanding attraction on any concert series and the best quintet of its kind to appear before concertgoers.

The group consists of Richard Green and William Wich, trumpets; Robert Fanning, trombone;

Charles Baxter, French horn; Tucker Jolly, tuba.

Works to be performed are stylistically varied and range from the Renaissance to the contemporary. Press reviews have called their concert offerings "musical banquets," a description that reflects the keen sense of programming and outstanding musicianship these young men possess.

Although they use many historically created works for brass quintet, the youthful artists have supplemented the standard works with their own special arrangements of works originally composed for other instrumental combinations.

FOR SIX MINUTES, twice daily, Maryse Begary performs feats of strength that would leave most of today's wrestling stars gasping for breath. Yet she does them with such ease and grace that her rigging seems scarcely to be needed. Her exhausting finale of scores of "loop-the-loops" and her unexcelled hand stand on a free-hanging trapeze are the epitome of trapeze art. She performs all of these seemingly impossible feats without the aid of any safety device or a net and she will be appearing January 19-23 during Elf Khurafeh Temple's 35th annual Shrine Circus at the Saginaw Civic Center.

Iosco Exceptional Friends Need Help

Exceptional Friends of Iosco County, a group of volunteers organized three years ago, meets monthly to provide group games, a social hour and refreshments for mentally and physically handicapped residents of the county.

New officers of the organization include Reata Drumm, president; Marie Craig, vice president; Carolyn Greene, secretary-treasurer.

During Thursday night's meeting at the Jesse C. Hodder American Legion Post, Tawas City, Dale Greene, coordinator, said that between 25 and 30 persons attend the monthly meetings.

"We would like more participation by nonhandicapped persons," said Greene. "We have had participation by girl scouts, family members and teachers from Iosco Intermediate School District, but we would like to have some volunteer entertainment at the programs."

He said that volunteer drivers are also needed in the Hale and Whittemore areas to bring mentally and physically handicapped persons to the meetings. "Citizens of the county have a need and responsibility to reach out beyond themselves," he stated.

Individuals or groups interested in providing entertaining programs, such as musical, dancing, acrobatic or magical acts, are urged to contact one of the above named officers.

EQUIPMENT of the Tawas City Department of Public Works was modernized last week with delivery of two new 2 1/2-ton GMC dump trucks, plus a four-wheel drive GMC three-quarter-ton truck for the Tawas City Volunteer Fire Department. Turning over keys to $43,676.15 worth of vehicles to Acting City Mgr. Rachel Sue McCreedy is Bernard Look of William Look and Sons, East Tawas. Watching the ceremony are Merlin (Red) Look, city superintendent of public works, and Donald Hayes of Hayes Enterprises, Tawas City, whose Tuff-Kote Dinol firm rustproofed the equipment. One dump truck is equipped with a new underbody scraper and front end plow while similar equipment on an older city truck was transferred to the new unit. This was the largest single purchase of vehicles in the city's history and the East Tawas dealer was low bidder.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Tax Tribunal Changes Three Assessments

The Michigan Tax Tribunal issued two orders last week directing that assessments on three parcels of property be lowered in Baldwin Township.

The tax tribunal ruled in favor of John C. Elliott in two cases which he brought against the township. It was ordered that the assessment on one parcel of land owned by Elliott be decreased from $12,400 to $10,959 and it lowered the assessment on another parcel of land from $15,100 to $13,075.

A parcel of land owned by Charles Williams received an assessment of $775 rather than $3,000. The ruling indicated the land had a true cash value of $1,762 and a state equalized valuation of $881.

County Treas. Edward Nelkie said Thursday that these were the first two rulings received from the tax tribunal during the New Year. Last year, Nelkie said that the tax tribunal had submitted about 175 orders concerning Iosco properties.
