

Races for Councilmen-Mayor Feature Election

DAVID WESTCOTT

Described by some as the most important election in this city's history, Tawas City voters will go to the polls Tuesday, November 6, to select a mayor and four councilmen.

Two candidates for mayor are listed on the ballot and seven candidates are listed for four councilmen seats, three of those for four-year terms and one to fill a two-year vacancy. In addition, there is one write-in candidate for councilman.

One of the six candidates listed for the four-year terms, Charles Landon, resigned from the council October 15, stating he "could not stand the constant hassle at council meetings," nor the threat of, or actual law suits involving the city.

Renominated at the August primary election, Landon's resignation came too late to delete his name from the ballot.

Heading the nonpartisan ballot is the race for the two-year term of mayor. Herbert Cholger, who has served as mayor since January 1976, is being opposed by David A. Westcott.

Cholger, who was successful in his first bid for a city office on November 4, 1975, defeating Arthur Ziehl for the mayor's position, 302-278, was unopposed for re-election to a two-year term in 1977. Formerly actively associated in the family garage-service station business, he is an insurance salesman. He is a native of Tawas City and graduated from high school here.

Westcott, his opponent, was born in Tawas City, moved away at an early age and spent more than 20 years in the armed forces. He returned here and accepted a managerial position with Forward Oil Company, then became transportation director at Tawas Area School. He is a member of the volunteer fire department and served as secretary of the city planning commission since 1977.

Two veteran incumbents, Robert N. Rollin and Jerry Cotter, are among candidates listed on the ballot for the four-year term.

Rollin was first elected to the council in 1971 and was re-elected to a two-year term in 1973 and to a four-year term in 1975. He attended Tawas City High School, spent four years in the navy, served in the construction field for 10 years before returning to establish a gasoline service station and real estate business.

Cotter, a resident of Tawas City since 1959, served four years in the air force, later establishing a law practice here. He served as city attorney from 1959 to 1963, served on the city planning commission from 1967 to 1970 and was chairman of the city charter commission in 1970-71. He is presently associated with ownership and management of Jefferson Trucking, Incorporated.

The remaining three candidates listed for four-year terms are new to city politics.

John Martin, known as "Joe" in his baseball playing days at Alabaster, retired several years ago to his home in Tawas City after serving as manager of the A&P Store at Oscoda.

Robert Pawloski, a Tawas City businessman, has several terms as chairman on the Tawas City Planning Commission.

The fifth candidate is Florence Upson, an office employee of a local physician, who received 235 votes and ran second behind Cotter in the August primary election. One of two women seeking council positions, she was active in the circulation of petitions seeking the recall of councilmen and a change to a ward system, both of which were stopped in circuit court.

Two candidates listed on the ballot for the two-year term to fill a vacancy are Donald M. Hayes and Lois Lanski. The term expires on January 1, 1982.

Hayes was appointed by the council last year to fill a vacancy caused by a resignation. A businessman, he formerly served on the city planning commission.

Mrs. Lanski, a housewife, is secretary of Allied Taxpayers.

The final candidate, whose name is not listed on the ballot, is Boynton (Bud) St. James. Unsuccessful in his bid for a council nomination in the August primary, he later declared himself a write-in candidate for mayor, but announced this week that he was a write-in candidate for one of the four council positions. He had resigned from the city parks and recreation board to become a candidate in the primary election.

The successful candidates for council and mayor positions take office January 1.

Public Hearing Today on Iosco County Budget

A public hearing on a 1980 operational budget of $2,065,749, balancing revenue with expenditures, is to be held today (Wednesday), 11:00 a. m. to 12 o'clock noon, by the Iosco County Board of Commissioners.

Commissioners began their final wrestle with the budget last Wednesday in an attempt to balance proposed expenditures with receipts and on Friday announced the "bottom lines" which each department had to live within during the coming year.

A year ago, the county adopted an operational budget of $1,965,094, which was revised to $2,000,278 on March 21. In its 1980 budget, the commission is anticipating a $75,000 surplus at the end of this year, but this is an optimistic projection and the figure may fall short of that mark. A new contract has not been settled as yet with sheriff's department personnel.

There was a fund balance of $168,852 at the start of the current year and an increase in revenues is projected for 1980, despite the loss of antirecessionary funds.

A 10 percent inflationary factor was included in budgets submitted by departments and the increase in revenue has not matched that factor. As a result, some services are expected to be eliminated and that will be one of the major points of discussion at today's hearing.

Of the total projected revenue, $1,128,137 is listed in property taxes, $118,000 from district court, $60,000 from the register of deeds office, $51,330 from the state road patrol contract, $44,000 from the county clerk's office, $37,000 from the building authority, $38,930 from Tawas City for police protection, $7,500 from the sheriff's department, $6,000 from the equalization department, $6,490 from the probate court and $2,300 from animal control.

In addition, fees, reimbursements and miscellaneous amount to $310,062.

Expenditures listed on the budget include administrative and financial, $604,480; health and public welfare, $313,408; criminal justice administration, $413,901; community services, $11,831; law enforcement, $622,129.

The figure under administrative and financial management includes $54,360 for the board of commissioners, $82,031 for the county clerk, $62,694 for the county treasurer, $57,660 for the register of deeds, $109,839 for the equalization department, $122,403 for buildings and grounds; $3,430 for county membership, $27,300 for elections and $84,763 under miscellaneous.

Under health and public welfare, appropriations amount to $174,837, the building department is to receive $57,813, $53,585 is earmarked for social services, $6,525 for medical examiner, $3,543 for drain commissioner, $8,950 for veteran's counselor and $8,155 for emergency services.

The bottom line total for law enforcement is $622,129, which includes operation of the sheriff's department, jail, animal control and marine enforcement. Sheriff George Westcott said Monday that his department may be forced to eliminate five positions in his department in order to stay within the budget.

Under criminal justice administration, $30,268 has been allocated to the friend of the court office, $60,117 for the prosecuting attorney's office, $65,380 for probate court, $135,571 for the district court, $98,531 for the circuit court and $1,670 to the probation office.

Appropriations under community services amounts to $8,996, CETA administration expense was allocated $8,916, the county airport is to receive $26,990, $500 has been allocated to the board of public works, $1,350 to parks and recreation, $500 to the building authority and $2,350 to the planning commission. Cooperative extension receives a basic county grant of $37,159, plus $13,713 under a contract and $11,357 under CETA.

Thieves Take Cordwood

Larceny of two cords of maple firewood owned by Fred Francis Jr., Anderson Road, Baldwin Township, is under investigation by Iosco County Sheriff's Department. The wood was stolen from a storage place in a barn.

FALL CLEAN-UP

Annual fall clean-up day will be held Tuesday, November 6, in Tawas City. The department of public works urges all home owners to participate in this campaign to improve the appearance of property before winter. Discards and rubbish in containers should be placed by the street before November 6. No piles of rubbish, dirt or leaves will be picked up as materials must be in bags. Tree limbs and brush, cut in five-foot lengths, should be bundled. Anything set out after the collection has been made along a street will be left. No heavy appliances will be picked up or removed by the crew.

Lost by 11 Votes Last Time City Votes Tuesday on Municipal Center

Voter approval of a $500,000 bond issue to finance construction of a new municipal center is being sought on a special proposition ballot in Tawas City on Tuesday, November 6.

It was just a year ago that a similar proposal lost by only 11 votes, 369-358. Because of campaigning during the past three months, the total vote next Tuesday could set a new record here for an off-year election.

The last vote, which coincided with the general state election, saw approximately 71 percent of the city's total registered voters going to the polls. However, a race for governor, congress and seats in the state legislature, along with several proposals to change the state constitution, were election features in 1978 and drew considerable attention.

All registered electors of Tawas City are urged to vote in next Tuesday's election. Polls are to be located in the city hall and are to be open from 7:00 a. m. to 8:00 p. m.

One of those persons actively encouraging voters to express themselves on the city hall proposal has been Lowell Thomas, city manager since March 19. Thomas succeeded veteran city manager, Reginald Bublitz, who resigned October 16 of last year and was replaced on a temporary basis by City Clerk Rachel Sue McCreedy.

Allied Taxpayers applied for and was granted permission to have challengers at the polls, under terms of state law.

During the past three weeks, Thomas has met with numerous organizations explaining the cost, proposed financing, plus the impact of the municipal center on the city's tax rate and other points for voter consideration.

After the council directed in July that a municipal center proposal be placed before voters at the general election, Thomas immediately began work toward compiling information concerning the proposal.

Information gathered by the city manager was presented last Saturday at a meeting with interested local citizens held at the Immaculate Heart of Mary Parish Hall.

Thomas stressed that the proposed site of the municipal complex, as selected by the council, is centrally located to all areas and residents of the city; within safe and easy walking distance of the largest concentration of residential users who wish to use the library or city offices, and that fire trucks would be centrally located to residential, commercial and industrial areas.

Other site features pointed out by the city manager included that expansion of commercial tax base would be of direct benefit to all taxpayers.

He said that the proposed location should encourage sorely needed commercial growth, improvement and development in the two blocks of Lake Street from Mathews Street west and that it was ample room for expansion of building or parking if ever needed and is laid out to meld in with future improvement to that commercial block.

Features of the municipal complex as outlined by the city manager include a 3,250-square-foot fire station costing $12,875, plus $9,360 for furnishings and equipment; a 1,250-square-foot library costing $40,625; a 3,325-square-foot city hall, with administrative offices, meeting room, conference room, lobby, utility room, toilets and kitchen costing $182,875, plus $6,300 for furnishings.

Total estimated cost of construction would be $361,035. Payment of a $51,500 land contract for city hall site expansion, $11,500 for demolition and rental, legal fees of $5,000, engineering-soil fees of $8,000, architect fees of $29,000 and a contingency fund of $33,965 would bring the total cost to $500,000.

The proposal would be financed under a low interest loan from Farmers Home Administration at five percent interest. Thomas said this method of financing should result in a savings of $100,000 to $200,000 over the life of a 40-year loan.

Thomas said the present city hall wastes a considerable amount of energy because of high ceilings, no insulation, large windows and uneven heat distribution. He said that the present building needs thousands of dollars worth of work for maximum efficiency.

The city manager stressed that with intensified future efforts on attracting commercial and industrial growth, the city's base should increase faster than an average eight to nine percent per year.

He said the city's present operational tax rate of 16.45 mills supports a budget which includes a one-time $50,000 payment on purchase of a portion of the river mouth property. Since this is the equivalent of 3.5 mills, and if all other sources of revenue continue at the present level, Thomas said there should be no millage increase to support payment of the municipal center.

The city manager said that the proposed municipal center would correct the negative impression and image to residential, commercial and industrial prospects which the present city hall projects; that the present rented library is small and crowded, inconvenient to walking children and senior citizens without transportation; the fire hall facilities now split between two separate buildings have an inadequate training and meeting environment, as well as inadequate storage and repair facilities.

Thomas believes that a publicly-owned meeting hall with kitchen readily available would provide facilities for various community groups. "We must act now to enhance the image of Tawas City by providing the physical, cultural, commercial and industrial elements vital to economic growth and stability," said Thomas.

City Manager Position Not An Envidable One

Lowell Thomas' role in the individual members of that organization for bringing suit against the city. The council tabled action on the request.

Earlier this month, the city manager issued a lengthy memorandum stating that he was concerned about "misinformation" being circulated concerning charter amendment petitions which were not filed in accordance with the time schedule provided by state law, plus the city's efforts toward upgrading sanitary sewer facilities.

In the meantime, he has played an active role representing the city in its attempts to encourage the state to widen US-23 to four lanes, with by-passes around population centers, and appeared at a public hearing last week.

GROUND was broken Friday afternoon for a new all purpose rental hall catering to weddings and banquets at Whittemore. Being constructed through a project sponsored by Whittemore Area Chamber of Commerce, the building is being financed by the Whittemore Area Industrial Development Corporation and is located in the industrial park east of M-65. The 60 by 125-foot frame building is to include a large assembly hall, a kitchen and office for the chamber of commerce. On hand for the ground breaking were, from left, Irene Jordan, treasurer; Paul Raynak, vice president of the chamber of commerce; Karl Bowlsby, resident; Viola Valent, resident; Albert (Bud) Wrathell, president of the IDC; Merrill Carlton, chairman of the building committee. Wrathell said the new building would fill a need of many years in the Whittemore area and he commended those who have worked on the project.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Reasons...

Why we think you should vote "YES" for a new Library - Municipal Complex.

The present Tawas City Library, although a much better building than the old downtown location, has so many deficiencies as to erase any advantages over the old library location.

Although the interior of the present building is somewhat attractive, the lighting is totally inadequate, making reading and browsing extremely difficult. The heating system has failed on numerous occasions, and parts of the suspended ceiling have collapsed. Since the building is for sale, the library could be forced to move on short notice. The parking area, although large, brings in a great deal of dust and dirt, causing the carpeting and library material to age prematurely.

Many people seem to dislike the present location. The number of books checked out through September of 1979 is 8,056, compared to 10,097 for the same period of 1978, a 20% decrease. We feel this to be attributed directly to the location, since the book circulation for the Regional Library's seven branches and bookmobile as a total have increased over the same period of time.

We can also understand parents prohibiting their children to cross US-23 to reach the present location.

We feel the people need and deserve a modern public library with adequate space, pleasant reading conditions, and a central location. We sincerely hope that on Tuesday, November 6, 1979, the citizens of Tawas City will approve the proposed municipal center.

Tele-care is a program to make daily contact with shut-ins and ill people living alone in the Tawas Hospital service area. The major purpose of the program is to provide assistance to homebound individuals who have had an accident or some other form of medical emergency and require assistance.

Through the program, which is provided at no charge, the participant calls the hospital each morning between 10 and 12 o'clock. If by noon the call is not received, a hospital volunteer will attempt to call the participant.

If no one answers the volunteer's call, a neighbor or someone listed on the participant's registration form will be contacted. If there is still no planation, the police will be notified and asked to check on the participant's condition.

Anyone interested in enrolling in the program or volunteering services, may contact Tawas Hospital at 362-3411, extension 352. Registration forms can also be obtained by writing Tawas Hospital, M-55/Court Street, Tawas City, Michigan 48763.

To further explain the details of the program, a speaker is available to groups or clubs upon request, according to Rose Blackmore, human resources director.

Those interested should have recently completed a basic six-hour cardiac-life support CPR class and desire to teach CPR on a voluntary basis.

Although there is no charge for the class itself, there will be a fee for the materials packet.

Lyrice Opera Company Sets Engagement

The Blue Snow Arts Council announces the upcoming performance by the Michigan Lyrice Opera Company of Engelbert Humperdinck's operatic masterpiece for children of all ages, "Hansel and Gretel." The program will be presented at the Oscoda Area High School auditorium on Thursday, November 8, 8:00 p. m.

This opera has been a favorite of children and adults alike for nearly a century and is regularly mounted in the major opera houses throughout the world.

Michigan Lyrice Opera's production of "Hansel and Gretel," sung in English, features a young company consisting of five singers, an accompanist and several technical personnel.

Artistic Director Ronald Thahammer, well-known for his numerous productions throughout Southeastern Michigan, has specially mounted the special effects with children in mind. Notable is a sequence in which the witch's oven blows brilliantly, thus destroying the witch and her evil spell over the gingerbread children, who come back to life.

The roles of gingerbread boys and girls will be performed by children from Oscoda Elementary School. Personnel from the opera company are assisting Mrs. Claudia Presson in preparing this group of children to sing the opera's final chorus.

Placement Service Tells of Need for Young Physicians

The need for more physicians in Iosco County and many other communities is being brought this week to the attention of 506 young physicians registered with the Michigan Health Council Physician Placement Service.

The health council has just published a new "Roster of Opportunities" which lists over 130 openings in the state for physicians.

"The roster is in the mail to young physicians in hospital residency training programs in 12 Michigan counties, to physicians coming out of the military or completing medical missionary projects, and to others who are interested in coming to Michigan from other states," explains C. Allen Payne, M. D., MHC president.

Of the many openings listed, 99 locations wanted family physicians.

In addition to specific private practice openings in the roster, many community recruitment committees are "advertising" for physicians to come to their communities. Openings also listed are with the Michigan Department of Mental Health and the Michigan Department of Corrections.

This year, for the first time, the roster lists 37 counties and specific services areas as designated by federal government as health manpower shortage areas.

The HEW shortage areas are communities where National Health Service Corps scholarship winners may fulfill service obligations.

In addition to opportunities listed for physicians, the Roster of Opportunities lists positions open for physician assistants and nurse practitioners. The roster also includes residency openings, emergency room openings and public health and preventive medicine openings in Michigan.

Cong. Davis Explains His Position on Federal Petroleum Deregulation

This week, the United States House of Representatives reversed an earlier decision to immediately deregulate gasoline. Cong. Robert Davis supported the move to retain controls on gasoline for several reasons.

"It is generally accepted that the price of gasoline is going to go up, with or without government regulation. Under current controls, the price of gas, at the service station pump, can only be increased to reflect inflation and higher prices of crude oil. My concern is that, without regulation, the price would go up higher and faster with the shortages of gasoline we are now facing," said the Northern Michigan congressman.

"Another concern I have, especially considering a more rural area such as ours, is that higher prices would not necessarily force people to use less gasoline. People in Northern Michigan have to drive from home to work, or from home to the grocery store and often have to drive further than people in less rural areas do. We have little or no public transportation to fall back on. Many people already own inefficient automobiles, and with the current state of the economy, cannot afford to buy new compact cars.

"Without some safeguards, non-branded independent service station owners, and owners of small rural gas stations might face the risk of not getting gas supplies from the big producers. If gasoline were decontrolled, these small businessmen would not have any guarantee of supplies. "Although I generally support the idea of deregulating the industry, I do not believe this is the time to lift all controls from all levels of the gasoline distribution industry," said Davis.

NATURE PROVIDES a good "camouflage suit" for white tail deer and they will need it come November 15, the opening day of deer hunting in Michigan.

'Red Coat Army' to Invade North Country Nov. 14

The bulk of Michigan's "red-coat army" should encounter few traffic problems during its annual migration north the day before firearm deer season opens November 15, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

"The number of hunters in the woods should nearly equal last year's record of 747,028, and most of those will be heading for camps in the northern two-thirds of the state on Wednesday, November 14," stated Joseph Ratke, Auto Club touring manager.

Approximately 80,000 buck deer should be bagged over the 15-day season, with most taken in the first week. That figure is down more than 20 percent from last year's record 106,000 kill because of a drop in deer population due to three consecutive harsh winters.

"The only traffic problem hunters could face is along I-75 near the Zilwaukee drawbridge

Periodic slowdowns could result where three lanes of traffic merge into two. To reduce the possibility of jams caused by bridge openings, Saginaw River shippers will voluntarily restrict bridge openings during peak traffic hours November 14-18.

"Barring weather problems, hunters should be traveling at maximum speed on all other roads leading to deer country," Ratke said.

Auto Club predicts that northbound deer hunter traffic should be heaviest between 2:00 p. m. and midnight on Wednesday, November 14, and 5:00 and 10:00 a. m. on Thursday, November 15. A second wave of hunters will be on the road on Friday, November 16, between 3:00 and 10:00 p. m.

Southbound hunters are expected to jam roads between 2:00 and 11:00 p. m. on Sunday, November 18.

Transfer Report Called Distorted

Gary S. Wood, a Wilber Township property owner, stated last week that information reported concerning a proposed school property transfer was incorrect and "distorted." He seeks to transfer a parcel of land from Oscoda Area School District to Tawas Area School District.

Wood said he had circulated a petition among his neighbors in an area one-half mile wide and 1 1/4 miles long.

"I have received no opposition from the seven people who are involved in this parcel of land; none of the people involved have children in either school district and all of them have been contacted," he stated.

Wood said he had given careful study before starting petitions to make sure parents of Oscoda Area School District would not be involved. Petitions have not been filed as yet with school authorities.

"If any parents whose children attend the Oscoda School would have been involved in this transfer, I would not have started the petition," said Wood.

"I know their school loyalty would be as strong as mine for Tawas Area."

US-23 Views Varied

Strong support for widening US-23 to four lanes was expressed Wednesday night by businessmen and civic officials from the intermediate area and northern end of the route from Standish to Alpena, but equally strong protest to any change to the highway was registered by residents at both the southern and northern ends of the route.

The hearing held at Tawas Area High School was one of four held this month by the Michigan Department of Transportation as part of a study initiated in 1975 to identify current and future deficiencies.

This East Central Regional Transportation Study is to recommend corridor and project studies that will result in recommendations for improving future various transportation modes operating in the 14-county East Central Region.

Philip Chisholm of the Michigan Department of Transportation, who conducted the hearing, told the 200 plus persons in attendance that the purpose of the study was to identify transportation deficiencies and public comments made Wednesday night would be evaluated before further recommendations are made.

State Rep. Tom Alley of West Branch was the keynote speaker representing the position of the Tawas, Oscoda and Alpena.

Representative Alley said it was clear to all that the Northeastern Michigan area had not shared equally in the state's progressive transportation system and that it was time for citizens to demand that improvements to US-23, the region's most important highway, be "taken off the back burner."

"We have endured more than our share of rejections in the past," said Alley as he called on every community of the area to take immediate action. He said it was imperative for the department of transportation to take immediate steps to correct US-23 deficiencies because of the high number of highway deaths along this route, coupled with the need for improvements based on future population projections.

The second speaker, John N.

Brugger, former Tawas City mayor, pointed out that similar hearings had been held concerning proposed improvements to US-23 in the mid-1960s, with assurances from the state that work would be completed in the 1970s. He said that US-23 may be a scenic highway which lulls drivers into absent-mindedness and he felt that a "safe and sane highway" should be designed.

Victor Lutz, AuGres businessman, expressed the same safety theme and felt that improvements were immediately needed, while Gary E. Templin, an Arenac County property owner, pointed out that he had been displaced during a previous highway expansion and did not want to again lose his property through widening of this highway.

Alfred Mard'n, a member of the Arenac County Board of Commissioners, agreed with Representative Alley and stated that improvements could not be made without upsetting someone. He felt that the plus factors to be obtained by highway improvement far outweighed the minus factors.

Calvin McClaren of Oscoda Chamber of Commerce emphasized that, due to gasoline shortages, tourist travel could result in larger number of visitors to this area because of the short drive from major population centers. He said the area lacked adequate highway facilities between communities and urged widening of US-23 to four lanes.

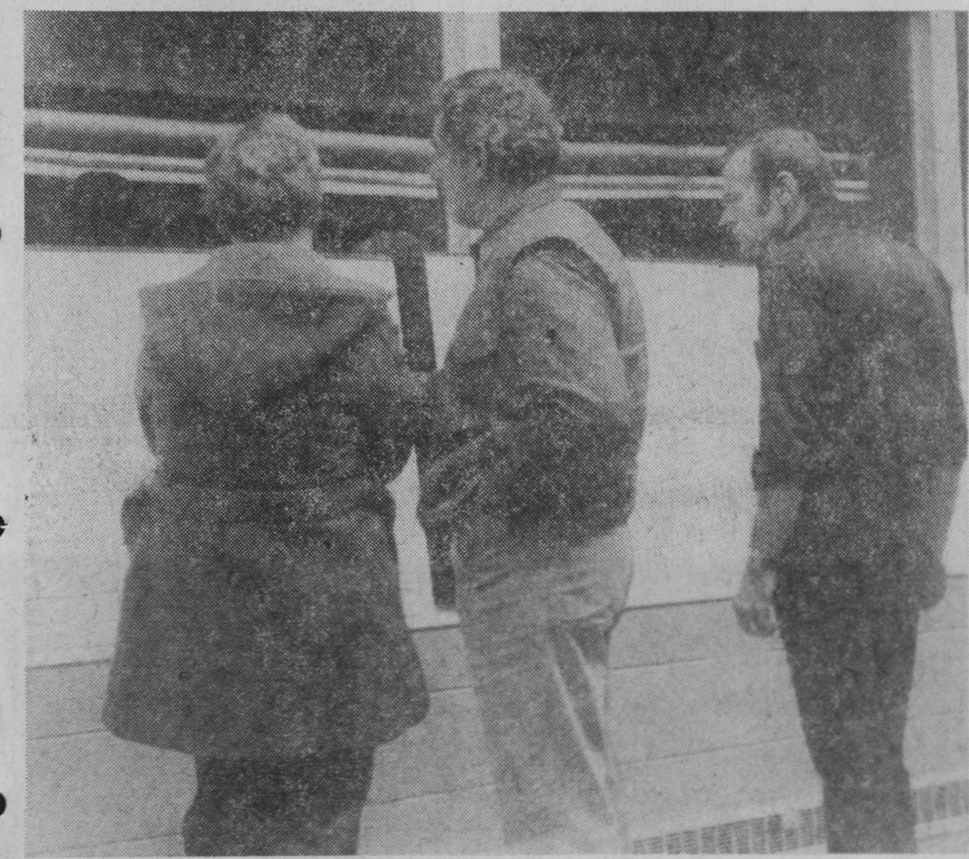

A representative of AuGres Chamber of Commerce said that organization had voted unanimously in support of widening US-23 to four lanes, pointing out that any freeway construction would hurt that community as business would suffer from a lack of traffic. With freeway construction, it was stated that AuGres could become a ghost town with little or no value.

A Whitney Township resident, however, hoped the "just for business" would not result in bad judgment in highway construction. The concern was expressed that it was difficult to walk across two-lane US-23 in that area today, let alone crossing a four-lane highway. While the speaker was in favor of improvements to US-23 with no passing zones in residential areas, he felt that another two lanes would bring traffic just too close to the front doors of dwellings.

A second speaker from Whitney Township felt that hundreds of homes would be wiped out by widening the highway to four lanes and also pointed out that two huge pipelines of the Saginaw-Midland Water System were located on either side of the highway.

Roger Jackson, executive secretary of Tawas Chamber of Commerce, said that chambers of commerce from Alpena to AuGres had gone on record in 1977 supporting widening of US-23. He felt that nothing could be done on a new freeway because of litigation involved. He said the state had promised improvements to US-23 for the past 25 years and that there had been 32 traffic deaths between Standish and Oscoda since 1976. Because of needs of the tourist business, emphasizing recent harbor construction at AuGres, East Tawas and Harrisville, coupled with the expansion of industry in this region, Jackson felt a four-lane highway was needed.

Casey Cohen, executive vice president of Alpena Chamber of Commerce, stated that organization had supported a four-lane

M-65 Development:

The Long Trail of Frustration

Annually increasing highway tourist travel prior to and after World War I saw routes of the two major highways leading through East Central Michigan—US-23 and US-27—following the general direction of the two railroads cutting through this section of the state.

Location and direction of the two railroads actually had been dictated many years earlier by the important lumbering industry. Due to the fact that both railroads depended upon the pine forests of the state for the bulk of their traffic, the Michigan Central, instead of taking an almost direct route to Mackinaw, curved far to the west, while the Detroit and Mackinac followed the Lake Huron coast in order to reach the mills found at the mouths of many rivers.

Flourishing towns were built along the railroads and, when the state highway department came to lay out trunkline roads, those towns demanded that the roads must pass through them. As a result, the original routes of the two major highways did not take the most direct approach to reach Mackinaw, but followed a zig-zag course in a general northerly direction in order to serve towns established along main lines of the railroad.

In the case of M-10, the route was particularly tortuous in its passage through Isosco County, passing through Whittemore, then swinging east along the general route of today's M-55 to reach the Tawas. The trunkline then zig-zagged through Wilber Township to reach Oscoda and then cut inland through Alpena County to pass through Lincoln.

It was not until 1930 that the federal government approved plans for a new highway—US-23—hugging the Lake Huron shoreline as a scenic tourist route. This new highway, however, only compounded the problem which had existed since the days when the two state trunklines followed the railroads—a large territory in the central portion of Eastern Michigan was totally neglected through the lack of an adequate north-south highway.

As early as 1919, State Senator Forsyth of Standish had been critical of the state highway department in the laying out of trunkline roads, pointing out that several counties in the territory between the Michigan Central and the Detroit and Mackinac Railroads had been neglected.

In January 1929, the state highway department made a survey to determine the site of a new bridge across the AuSable River at Five Channels Dam, replacing an older wooden structure. A bridge which had been intended to cross at River Rouge was used to span the AuSable and its new location connected with a gravel road leading to Glennie, the first step in what was to become an entirely new route through this region.

GASOLINE SERVICE STATIONS were established soon after state trunklines were designated in this region. This station was located at Hale when M-65 was established in the early 1930s. This route followed an older road through Twining and Whittemore and proceeded in a northerly direction through Hale after establishment of the Huron Shore Road.

After more than a decade of agitation, two new north-south trunklines came into being—M-33 and M-65—serving the vast inland area of Northeastern Michigan. This story concerns M-65, as it is one of two major trunklines passing today through Isosco County.

When US-23 was rerouted along the shore, the western half of Isosco County was without a major trunkline. Adding to this problem was the fact that the large area on the north side of the AuSable River, formerly served by the AuSable and Northwestern Railroad out of Oscoda, had no link to the south when that railroad was abandoned.

One of those leading the fight for a new trunkline through Western Isosco County to serve the towns of Whittemore and Hale was State Rep. Fred C. Holbeck of Long Lake. Finally, after considerable pressure was brought by Holbeck and supported by merchants and civic officials, the state highway commission made plans for a federal aid road between Hale and Five Channels Dam in 1931.

On August 25, 1931, merchants and citizens of Isosco, Arenac and Alcona Counties met at Turner for the purpose of promoting a hard surfaced road to replace the trunkline lost through the new location of US-23.

"The meeting was enthusiastic and the speakers emphasized the value of such a road, as it leads through one of the most popular resort regions of the state and would serve a valuable agricultural district. The cooperation of the towns and support of the citizens was pledged at this meeting," reported The Tawas Herald.

The proposed new route was by way of Twining, Whittemore, Hale, Five Channels and Glennie, connecting with county roads extending to the north. G. H. Glazure of Twining was elected president of the booster group, with C. H. Ridgley of Whittemore elected secretary and D. D. Pearsall of Hale named secretary.

Efforts of this new group influenced the state highway commission to designate this northerly inland route as M-65 and supporters had to compete with those promoting the US-23 Lake Huron Shore Route for paving programs in 1931.

The editor of the Alpena News criticized Cong. Roy O. Woodruff for his efforts in appearing before the state legislature with a delegation of the inland route supporters, asking the legislature to approve funding for hard surfacing of what was to become M-65.

In a letter printed by The Tawas Herald, Congressman Woodruff said his position was not in opposition to paving the Huron Shore Road, but to lend support to paving both routes.

"I have always insisted that the interests of the people in one community are tied up entirely with the interests of every other community in our northern counties," said the congressman. "I urge at all times that sectional differences and desires be harmonious and that everybody work for the early completion of all roads, leaving it to the judgment of those who are in a position to know the priority which should exist to determine which should be constructed first."

The Huron Shore Road was designated by the state to receive top priority for paving, but those communities along the shore took a cue from Congressman Woodruff and pledged their support of the M-65 paving project.

On October 31, 1931, the Herald announced that winter road projects listed by the highway department, included graveling 4.5 miles of M-65 north from Hale to Five Channels and approach work on the new Five Channels bridge.

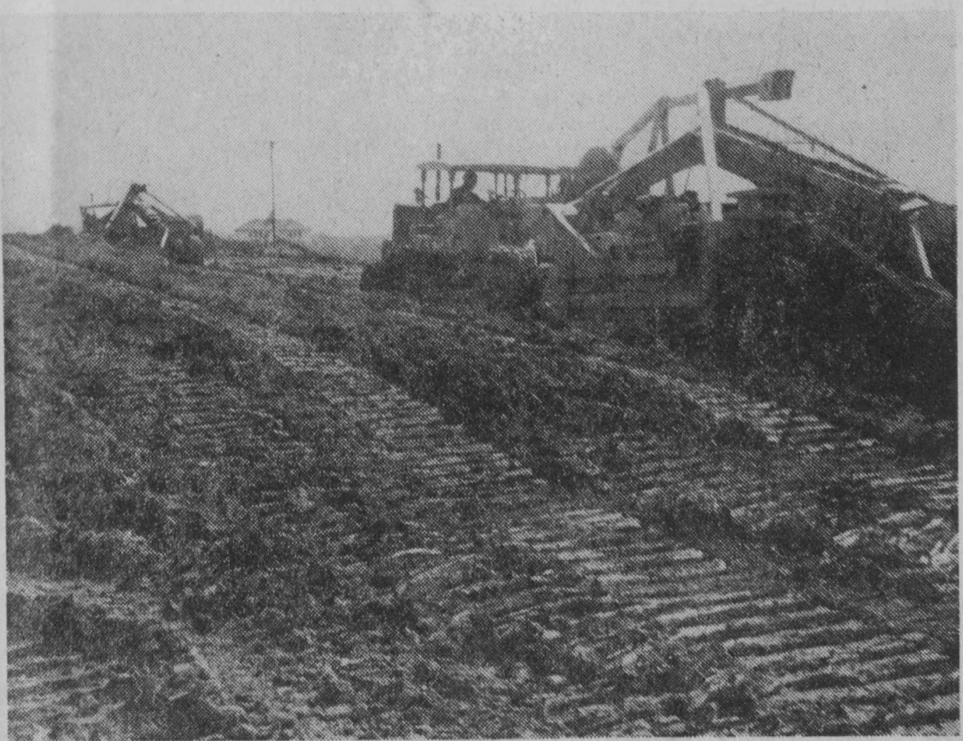

Grover C. Dillman, state highway commissioner, announced a week later at a meeting of the Northeastern Michigan Development Bureau that the former route of US-23 through Isosco County would be hard surfaced and that work on that road would not wait for the completion of the Huron Shore Road.

"With the hard surfacing of the Huron Shore Road and (old) US-23, Isosco will be well equipped with fine highways," stated the Herald. "The people of Western Isosco County are not particularly benefited by the Huron Shore Road and are highly elated with the decision of the state highway department and the statement that the work on the two roads would go on hand-in-hand was especially gratifying."

Hard surfacing of the full length of M-65 from its intersection with US-23 north of Omer to its terminus between Rogers City and Alpena was not to be achieved for many years, the state highway commission electing to perform the work on a piecemeal basis as funds permitted.

On November 8, 1935, the Herald reported that construction of 14 miles of oil aggregate surfacing on M-65 from Whittemore to Twining was completed.

MANY YEARS were to pass before M-65 through Western Isosco County saw any major improvement. Severe grades and sharp turns, particularly one at the Reno Township-Plainfield Township line, proved to be a hazard for motorists. This equipment was at work in the 1950s in the first step toward improving the road.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Editorial—

Municipal Center Vote Key to Tawas City's Future

One year ago, this newspaper supported construction of a new municipal facility for Tawas City, and through this column, urged citizens to endorse a bond issue presented at the annual November election. That proposal lost by a mere 11 votes and a similar proposal is again being presented to voters on November 6.

The position of this newspaper has not changed during the past year—IT SUPPORTS AND ENDORSES A POSITIVE "YES" VOTE BY CITIZENS ON NOVEMBER 6.

This proposal has been discussed at many meetings of the city council during the past four or five months and opposing views toward it have been presented by this newspaper, both through coverage of regular meetings and through this newspaper's letters to the editor column. No one can say the proposal has lacked discussion.

City Mgr. Lowell Thomas has appeared before numerous organizations to explain current problems with the 50-year-old deteriorating building which houses the city offices and fire hall, along with overcrowded conditions and the inconvenient location of the present rented library quarters.

Despite arguments to the contrary, this corner is of the opinion that the location selected for the proposed municipal is the correct one: It is centrally located to ALL AREAS AND ALL RESIDENTS of the city; it is easily located by and accessible to the many visitors who have business to conduct with the city; the library would be within safe and easy walking distance to the largest concentration of residential users; fire trucks would have centralized access to residential, commercial and industrial areas as well as two townships.

The estimated cost of minimal facilities to serve this city for many years to come is $361,035, with additional costs and contingencies bringing the grand total to $500,000. This is a reasonable price for a 7,825-square-foot building. It should be pointed out, too, that the proposed size is about 700 square feet less than the building proposed a year ago due to inflation and the resulting higher cost of materials and labor since the original proposal was rejected by a few votes only 12 months ago.

The city has been assured by Farmers Home Administration, that low interest (five percent) money is available for financing bonds over a period of 40 years, which will result in an actual savings over conventional borrowing at higher interest rates. Since the facility would be used by at least two or more generations, it is only reasonable that future generations share in the cost.

The impact of a modern, new municipal center in the heart of this small town should encourage revitalization of the entire commercial area, but particularly from Mathews Street east, something which has been needed for many years. If this community ever is to reverse the blight that has affected that area of the community, as well as to improve shopping and the city's tax base, the time is now.

Naturally, your taxes and ours will be required to finance this undertaking—no small concern at any time—but the present day city tax rate of 16.45 mills appears to be adequate to finance both this project and city operation, according to a study made by the city manager.

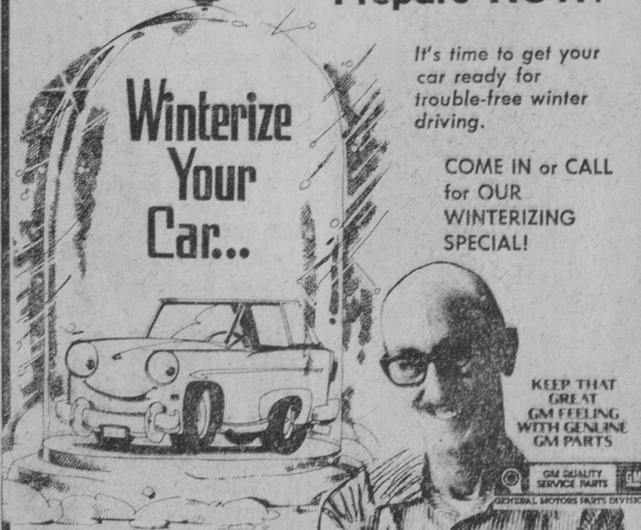

Most important, however, is the assurance that a new municipal center—with improved and modern fire hall, library and meeting facilities—should be important to attracting commercial and industrial growth, which will eventually improve this city's tax base. Without new construction to add to the tax base, this community will be hard pressed to meet financing for future sewer expansion and other improvements.

All citizens are urged to vote favorable on this proposal by marking an "X" in the square before "Yes" on the November 6 proposition ballot.

Hemlock Rd. Church Slates Evangelists for Crusade

During the week of November 6-11, Hemlock Road Baptist Church, corner of M-55 and Chambers Road, will be conducting the "Christ For Everyone Crusade" with the Fred Ritchardson Evangelistic team. Evangelist Ritchardson is one of America's young evangelists. His ministry has taken him to many parts of the United States, Canada and nine foreign countries, including behind the Iron Curtain.

The ministry of the Ritchard-son team includes inspirational music and Gospel songs, featuring Mrs. Ritchardson playing a console organ, chimes, piano, vibraharp and trumpet. Each night, Ritchardson will illustrate a Bible picture, hand painted with artist oil paints, and making them life-like with invisible rays of black light. The Rev. William Wright extends an invitation to the public to attend these meetings nightly at 7 o'clock.

 TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 6
 Non-Partisan Candidate for
 TAWAS CITY
 COUNCILMAN

Despite the difficulties, I have been involved with the Majority of the City Council in making some VERY POSITIVE PROGRESS. A few EXAMPLES:

1. Our NEW CITY MANAGER, Lowell Thomas, is doing a terrific job!
2. For a per person cost of Less than 2c per day, We will have a new MUNICIPAL CENTER. Be sure to Vote Yes on the separate ballot!
3. PROGRESS is being made on our Sewer problems.
4. The COST OF BORROWING MONEY IS LESS because bidding is now required on short and long term loans.
5. GREATER INCOME IS BEING EARNED by investment of funds in Daily Interest Accounts.
6. A NEW FIRE CONTRACT with Alabaster and Tawas Townships requires sharing of all costs on a FAIR BASIS.
7. Most CITY EQUIPMENT has been UPGRADED.
8. PROGRESS has been made in law and ORDINANCE ENFORCEMENT. I believe ordinances should be enforced or repealed.
9. INDUSTRIAL PARK EXPANSION is underway to attract desirable industries.

(Read John 1:35-42)
 "You are Simon . . . but you shall be called Peter, the rock!" (John 1:42 TLB)

The human weakness of Peter is one of his most appealing traits. Tracing his spiritual pilgrimage through the New Testament, we find him beginning his discipleship with new promise. We marvel at his spiritual perception at the Mount of Transfiguration. We grieve at his denial during Jesus' trial. But, we rejoice at his spiritual renewal as he becomes Peter the apostle, evangelist, pastor martyr.

When the Master looks at us, He sees not only what we are but what He can enable us to become.

From Peter we can learn not to expect so much from ourselves that we become discouraged. We can also learn to depend more upon God. The grace of God does not change us unless we respond. It can change our outlook, and with our outlook, our attitudes. With changed attitudes, we can become what we otherwise would never be.

In all our ups and downs, our successes and failures, and in all our disappointments and

 Lord of all life, in all our fluctuations of spirit, help us to believe in Your purpose of love for our lives. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

Today, I will respond to the grace of God.—Owen Brandon (Hastings, England)

To the Voters of Tawas City

Please accept my sincere thanks for your support in the past and in the recent primary. As you probably know, since the primary, I have decided I could no longer serve on the city council. The law requires that my name remain on the ballot however. May I take this opportunity to ask that if you were considering voting for me on Nov. 6, please reconsider and vote for Robert Pawloski. I have known Bob for a long time and feel he will do a fine job. Thank you.

Mich Con's never going to make it to the top.

When the residential natural gas rates of utilities serving 24 major U.S. metropolitan areas were compared, Michigan Consolidated's placed 5th from the bottom.

What have we done to keep our rates so low? Plenty.

We serve many more customers today than we did ten years ago, yet we've kept our staff virtually the same size it was then. We reorganized our service areas and established a Customer Information System which links all of the areas to one office. And we've worked hard to minimize uncollectibles.

You may not know you pay less for natural gas than someone in New York or Minneapolis. But we think it's important that you do. Because it shows the results of our efforts to hold your gas bills down.

We're going to continue to work to make sure gas remains your best energy buy—now, and in the future.

If you'd like to know more about natural gas costs write for our free booklet "Nobody Likes Higher Gas Bills. Including Us." Michigan Consolidated Gas Company, Public Affairs Activity, One Woodward Avenue, Detroit, MI 48226.

*This comparison is based upon rates in effect May 1, 1979, for 175 Mcf annual consumption which is the gas usage for a typical residential heating customer of Michigan Consolidated.

Highlights And Sidelights

Wood for Energy Policy Guidelines

HOUGHTON—Cutting wood to burn for heat and electrical energy can be a blessing or a curse for Michigan's forests—depending on how you do it. That is the gist of a policy statement released today by the Michigan Forest Association.

While Michigan imports 90 percent of its fuel, there is a surplus of standing wood available and yearly growth exceeds harvest, the statement points out. However, it warns against indiscriminate cutting, over-reliance on wood as a wide-scale solution for Michigan's energy needs and use of wood for fuel when it could be used for manufactured products.

"Much needed forest improvement can be realized through careful firewood cutting and commercial thinning for the developing fuelwood market," said Barbara Clark, Hancock, president of the association.

"Wood presently wasted in harvesting, sawmilling and manufacturing operations also can and should be utilized for energy," she said.

Clark goes on to state, "the greatest contribution of the forest to Michigan's energy needs may come from substitution of wood for more energy intensive materials, such as aluminum, steel and petrochemicals, in manufactured products."

Drafted originally by James Meteer, professor of forestry and forest product research at Michigan Technological University, Houghton, the policy was adopted after review by the MFA board of directors at their September 20 meeting in Vanderbilt.

The MFA is a citizen organization with a membership including landowners, industries, professional foresters and people who love the woods. Its goal is to encourage conservation and management in all sectors of Michigan's 18.8-million acres of forestland. It seeks to increase public recognition of the many benefits the forest provides wood products, fiber, fuel, food and shelter for animals and a healthy, aesthetic environment for man.

Free Diabetes Screening at Tawas Hospital

A free diabetes screening program, to be conducted by Tawas Hospital laboratory, daily from 8:00 a. m. to 2:00 p. m., November 5 - 9, is announced by Mrs. Earl Weaver, laboratory director. The program is carried out in conjunction with the American Diabetes Association, Michigan affiliated, and is designed to detect unknown diabetics in the general population. Persons who know they are diabetics are not eligible for the testing.

Mrs. Weaver elaborated that everyone should take advantage of the screening but those persons who are termed high risk should make a special effort to be tested. A person is considered high risk if there is a family history of diabetes or they are currently having any of the following symptoms: Frequent urination, sores that do not heal easily, blurred vision, weight loss with no explanation, excessive hunger, obesity and excessive thirst.

The test involves the drawing of a small amount of blood from a vein in the arm. The blood must be drawn exactly two hours after the eating of a test meal. Persons should plan to report to the hospital laboratory at least 15 minutes before the two-hour wait is completed, to allow for the time necessary for paperwork to be filled out and the blood sample to be drawn on time.

There is no need to phone ahead. Eat the test meal, either breakfast or lunch, whichever is most convenient to your schedule.

It is important to include all the following foods in the amounts listed in the sample meal plan. DO NOT drink (other than water), eat, smoke, chew gum, candy, cough drops, etc., following the meal, until the blood sample is taken.

Exactly two (2) hours before the blood will be drawn, eat:

BREAKFAST—

- 1 Cup orange juice
- 1 Cup cornflakes or oatmeal
- 1 Cup milk
- 1 Tablespoon sugar
- 2 Slices toast
- 1 Tablespoon jelly
- 1 Egg (if desired)
- Coffee or tea (without caffeine)

LUNCH—

- 1 Cup orange juice
 - 1 Bowl vegetable soup
 - 4 Saltine crackers
 - 1 Slice lunch meat or cheese
 - 2 Slices bread - with butter, margarine or mayonnaise
 - ½ Cup vegetables or salad
 - Coffee or tea (without caffeine)
 - 1 Slice or scoop ice cream
- Exactly one hour and 45 minutes after finishing the meal, report to the hospital laboratory to have the paper work done and to have the blood drawn.

5 Times to Contact Social Security Office

There are 5 times a person should get in touch with a social security office, a social security spokesperson said recently.

Knowing the 5 times for action is too important to take for granted, the representative said. It can mean greater security for a worker and his or her family.

The 5 times are:

- Before obtaining that first job to apply for a social security number. This number is needed to get proper social security credit for earnings.
- After a death in the family to learn if survivors benefits or a lump-sum death payment are payable.
- When someone becomes disabled to find out if disability benefits are payable.
- At retirement age. Full cash benefits are payable at 65 and reduced benefits can be paid as early as 62. People should sign up for Medicare 2 or 3 months before 65 even if they don't plan to retire.
- To get the answer to any question about social security.

The people at any social security office can answer such questions as:

- How much credit for work is needed to be insured.
- Who can qualify for benefits.
- How to replace a lost social security or Medicare card.
- How to get a free statement of your earnings record.

A lump-sum death benefit of $255 is payable when a worker insured under social security dies. The lump-sum benefit is usually paid to the widow or widower. Or, it can be used to help pay funeral expenses.

questions and answers

Q. I recently applied for a part-time job after school. The employer told me I need a social security card. How do I get one?

A. You can apply for a social security card at any social security office. If you're 18 or older, you must apply in person. You will need evidence of age, identity, and U.S. citizenship or lawful admission status. For more information, contact a local social security office.

A. A stepchild may be eligible for monthly survivors checks if he or she was the stepchild of the worker for at least 9 months before the worker's death. You should apply for benefits at any social security office.

A. You are considered "disabled" under social security if you have a physical or mental impairment which prevents you from doing any substantial gainful work and is expected to last for at least 12 months or to result in death. Vocational factors such as age, education, and work experience may be considered in determining whether a person is able to do substantial gainful work. Two residents of Arenac Township and AuGres Township, Arenac County, voiced opposition to widening of the highway. Route M-65 more north to Hale was included in a number of WPA projects. Part of a program for improving farm-to-market and tourist routes, the project cost $141,107 and provided work for 215 men over a period of a year.

"Oil aggregate surfacing is a recent development which provides hard, dustproof surfaces for roads which do not carry heavy loads," stated the Herald. "It can be applied for approximately one-fourth the cost of concrete and will result in considerable saving in maintenance costs."

Completion of the Huron Shore Road still had the highest priority with the state highway department and work continued on that route in the middle 1930s. The oil aggregate surface on M-65 never proved to be practical because of the increasing heavy traffic conditions on that route.

By 1941, a combined delegation from Hale and Whittemore appeared before State Highway Commissioner G. David Kennedy and asked that the state make much needed road improvements to M-65. The Hale delegation was again headed by Pearsall.

Kennedy stated that the need for improvement of roads in Michigan's military network, as determined by the war department, depended largely on the actions of congress and he did not believe it would include any work on M-65.

With World War II halting all road construction and the state interested in other road projects in the post war era, it was not until 1953 that major work started on improvements to M-65. In October of that year, Whittemore celebrated the official opening of the improved highway. Mayor Edward Dickey cut the ribbon which officially opened the newly blacktopped road which extended to that community.

"It was the opinion of everyone present that there should be continuous plugging for the completion of M-65 to Hale; that as much pressure as possible should be brought to bear on the state highway department to complete this long promised improvement. Its early construction and completion was, as early as 1932, promised the residents of the area by heads of that department at conferences held at Lansing," reported the Herald.

The eight-mile stretch of blacktop finished during the summer of 1953 completed M-65 from Whittemore to its junction with US-23. Important bridge structures on the section of the road between Whittemore and Hale were also completed that year.

Construction on M-65 north from Whittemore crept along at a snail's pace, the section between Whittemore and the M-55 intersection being completed in the fall of 1957.

It was not until the era of the 1960s that M-65 was completed through Hale to the Alpena County line. During the interim, the project always seemed to be placed on the "back burner" by the state highway department as higher construction priorities were given to other trunklines in the region.

After waiting patiently for more than 30 years, M-65 was completed through Iosco County and citizens along that route point out that its traffic during the tourist season is equal to or surpasses that of US-23—something which they maintained would happen if paving work was ever completed.

Planning is now being prepared for a new route through Northeastern Michigan, something which has been under discussion between local officials and the state for more than a decade. What effect the current gasoline crisis will have on highway planning remains for the future, but it is hoped that construction on the new route will not take as long as the hard surfacing of M-65.

Eagles Could Nail Down 2nd Place

Hale Eagles, after turning in a 50-12 win over Mio-AuSable Friday night, have a chance to claim sole possession of second place in the North Star League this week. The Eagles finish out their season Friday night at Hillman and the two teams are currently tied behind Atlanta, the league champion.

The Eagles and Thunderbolts battled to a scoreless first period tie, but Hale scored three touchdowns in the second period.

Vern Reed III passed to Scott McDonald for a 13-yard touchdown, the second score came on a one-yard run by Tom Lesneski and the third came on a pass from Reed to Mark Turnbull. Aerials to McDonald and Turnbull accounted for two-point conversions.

Action in the third quarter found Reed firing a touchdown pass to McDonald, who also gathered in a pass for a two-point conversion. Dan Dear intercepted a Thunderbolt pass and ran 40 yards for a touchdown.

Hale struck twice in the third quarter when Reed connected on passes to Sanders and Turnbull. The fourth quarter score came on a 28-yard run by Sanders.

Rep. Alley Chairs Committee Studying Annexation Law

Rep. Tom Alley, West Branch, has been named chairperson of a special house subcommittee on annexation. The appointment was announced by Rep. Tom Brown, chairman of the house towns and counties committee. The criteria for land annexations by municipalities and the proposed revision of the county unified form of government will be discussed at public hearings next month throughout the state according to Alley.

"The exact dates of the hearings will be announced in the next few weeks including one planned for the West Branch area," Alley said. Citizens are asked to attend the hearings and to give their views on both issues.

"It is important that Michigan residents realize they have an active and vital role to play in policy-making," stated Alley. The annexation guidelines being considered would not allow the State Boundary Commission to annex an area unless the majority of the property owners in that area approved and the annexation could not cause irregular boundaries, according to Alley.

The commission would still have to consider factors such as population density and the need for services in the area.

Alley said changes being proposed for the county unified form of government included changing the way the budget is submitted and changing the date that form of government would go into effect after an election approving it.

"For too long, this industry has not been recognized for its major role in providing jobs and its contributions to the tax revenue of cities, counties and the entire state," said James H. Hall, EMTA president. "The industry should receive better understanding on the part of the public and especially by government officials. We are appealing, by these resolutions, to public servants that have direct decision-making authority that can assist this industry to survive the challenges that face us in the next decade," Hall said. The tourism industry is working in behalf of over 150,000 full-time employees throughout Michigan's 83 counties. Additional resolutions adopted by EMTA included support for expanded boating access to Lake Huron; promotion of group tours visiting the region; support for an Amtrak passenger service between Detroit, Lansing and Grand Rapids, and a Michigan Conservation Hall of Fame.

Two Iosco Leaders to Attend 4-H Convention

Two Iosco County residents will attend the annual conference of state adult 4-H horse leaders on November 9-11. Jack Searle and Henry Salonen will join volunteer leaders in the 4-H horse program from all over the state at Kettunen Center, the Michigan 4-H leaders training facility near Tustin.

"The conference provides an opportunity for leaders to exchange ideas on 4-H horse programs, events and teaching methods," says Robin Bell, Iosco County 4-H youth program assistant. "There also will be a number of workshops designed to help 4-H horse leaders improve their leadership skills." The 4-H horse program is one of the most popular 4-H projects in Michigan. "Youngsters in the program learn about proper horse care, fitting and showing their horses, and the responsibility which comes with raising a horse," Mrs. Bell says. The conference is the first of three sessions for adult 4-H horse leaders. Two conferences for teen leaders, will be held in 1980 at Kettunen Center February 15-16 and 16-17, made possible by individual donations. For more information call 362-3449.
