

DENESGE LaBERGER of East Tawas, a resident of Iosco Medical Care Facility since May 11, 1977, will celebrate her 100th birthday Friday, April 18. Born in Quebec, Canada, she moved to East Tawas with her parents when seven years old and spent nearly her entire life here. She was a dressmaker for years and worked as a clerk at the Henninger Company at East Tawas until 65 years of age. She recalls many interesting incidents in the early history of her community and remembers when the first street light was installed on Newman Street—nearly the entire community turned out the first night to watch as the light was turned on for the first time. A collection was taken among staff members of the medical care facility and a large birthday cake was purchased for her party on Friday.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Decide April 28 on Millage Vote

Formal action establishing Monday, June 9, as the date for the annual school election was taken Monday night by Tawas Area Board of Education.

A final decision is to be made at a special meeting April 28 if voters of the district are to be asked to renew a one-half-mill debt retirement levy for building and site improvement purposes.

This one-half mill of taxes, which would raise approximately $54,000 annually, was originally approved by voters in May 1955 to finance retirement of a $775,000 bond issue to construct the junior and senior high school.

This is the last year of the levy as debt retirement bonds are to be retired this year.

Asking voter authorization to renew the levy for a period of five years, along with the study of results of a recent public survey concerning future goals of the district, are to be considered at the April 28 meeting. In addition, Supt. Allan Dighe presented the administration's future goals for the district which will also be considered at that meeting.

Board Pres. Randall DeWise emphasized Monday night that the levy being proposed by the board of education is not a new tax as it has been assessed for the past 25 years. The actual millage levy for debt retirement has varied over the years with the increase in property valuation. The superintendent said that funds raised by renewing the one-half-mill levy would be limited to actual building and site improvements and would not be used for annual operation.

Trustee Stanley Brockenbrough said that the board of education had received no negative response to the proposal during its recent public survey of future school goals.

In addition to renewal of the one-half mill of taxes, voters are to name two members of the board of education. The terms of DeWise and Robert Curry expire on June 30. DeWise has announced that he will not be a candidate for re-election and Curry has circulated his petition.

Richard G. Anderson, who is a candidate for one of the vacancies, attended Monday night's meeting.

Inflation Cuts Earnings, but F&M Deposits Are Up

For the first time in several years, Farmers and Merchants State Bank of Hale reports earnings were less than the preceding year.

In a report to shareholders Tuesday, Richard Parkinson, said that several factors led to this reduction, with the money market 182-day certificates being the best publicized.

"Annual inflation of 13 percent played a major role as well," said Parkinson. Energy usage, supplies, equipment and salaries were all adversely affected by this continuing spiral.

"These increases are immediate, but it must be remembered that many of our loans are for longer terms and higher rates do not affect their yields as quickly."

Parkinson's report said it was also discovered during 1979 that failure to observe prudent lending practices at one branch had resulted in a lower quality loan portfolio than anticipated, resulting in a larger than normal provision for loan losses.

Although the bank's total income increased $606,640 or 17.6 percent, interest paid on deposits alone increased by $469,770 or 21 percent. The provision for loan losses increased by $355,758 and all other expenses increased by $130,660. This gave the bank a net income, before dividends, of $204,317 including income tax recoveries, as compared to $395,600 for 1978.

This nearly 50 percent reduction in earnings reduced common stock per share earnings to $8.38. Reluctantly, said Parkinson, the board reduced total 1979 common stock dividends to $4 per share, as compared to $4.50 per share paid in 1978.

Loans outstanding on December 31 totaled $30,797,932, representing a net growth over 1978 of $3,656,466, or an increase of 13.47 percent. Commercial loans showed the largest percentage of growth, 16.03 percent, with a year end total of $9,629,564, an increase of $1,330,353 over 1978.

Real estate mortgages ran a close second at 15.15 percent, a growth of $14,405,238, while consumers loans placed third, with a net increase of $430,313, or 6.79 percent over 1978.

Parkinson said this growth goal was established by the board, based on changing economic conditions during 1979.

Parkinson said that strong deposit growth was again experienced during 1979. Total deposits of $41,932,753 represented an increase of $5,264,036 or 14.36 percent, as compared to $4,303,- 286 or 13.30 percent in 1978.

Parkinson said that the Federal Reserve Board's desire to reduce inflation by tightening the money supply, coupled with congress' desire to fund social programs "and our own compulsion to buy now—before inflation prices it beyond our means—has placed the financial industry in a very volatile business arena.

"Loan demand was strong, but was watched closely and percentage-wise was down from 1978. Interest rates continue to go up at an alarming rate—it promises to be another year of intense pressure on profits, with costs on deposits rising faster than yields on loans and investments.

"It promises to be an interesting year, one that we will find challenging to stay on top of," Parkinson told shareholders.

English Couple Buys Sunset Motel

New owners of the Sunset Motel in Tawas City, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hurst, said Monday that they fell in love with the Tawas Bay area during a vacation trip here several years ago and finally decided to make their home here.

In this respect, theirs is not an unusual story for many a current Tawas resident decided to stay or returned to the area after enjoying a summer vacation along the sandy shore of the bay, and the nearby Huron National Forest.

What makes the Hursts' story different is they had to cross an ocean to enter into business and make their home here.

Both natives of England, the Hursts had visited some relatives at Northville for several weeks and their vacation during that time included a trip to Northeastern Michigan. Parents on both sides of their family had been involved in operating English hotels and the Hursts operated a vacation resort on the northwest coast of England before he opened a store specializing in nursery goods and toys.

They left their native land recently and on Monday completed the transaction which saw them purchase the Sunset Motel from Rose Watson.

The Sunset Motel was constructed in 1952 and opened July 4 of that year by Mr. and Mrs. Donald Watson. At the time, the north side of US-23 below the Tawas River bridge was an undeveloped area and the Sunset was the first business established in what was to become the community's "motel row."

Over the years, the motel has been expanded with additional units and a swimming pool was added several years ago. This was a natural for Mrs. Watson was a swimming instructor when she lived in the Detroit area and she accompanied her team to the 1952 Olympics at Helsinki, Finland, as well as many other appearances around the country.

Mr. Watson passed away earlier this year and sale of the business effective Monday to the Hursts was handled by Robert Richter of the Arliss Woodward Real Estate Agency, East Tawas.

F&M Bank Officers Were Re-Elected

All officers were re-elected at Tuesday's annual stockholders meeting of Farmers and Merchants State Bank of Hale.

Heading bank affairs for another year are Carl Adams of Hale, chairman of the board of directors; Willard Wangler of Rose City, vice chairman; Richard Parkinson of Hale, president and cashier; Richard Pfahl of Hale, executive vice president and senior loan officer.

Besides the four officers, stockholders elected the following to the board of directors: Wilfred Holzhauer of Hale, DeForest Karp of Glennie, Stanley Osinski of Whittemore, Daniel Pearsall of Hale and Clarence Cooley of Rose City. Cooley had been appointed to the board earlier this year to fill the vacancy of Lyle Wallace, who resigned.

Hale School OKs Hiring Attorneys

Authorization to hire two attorneys to act as legal counsel in a tenure hearing sometime in May was given Monday night by Hale Area Board of Education. One attorney is to represent the board of education and one is to represent the elementary principal, who is the charging party.

The hearing was requested by Marie Bellville, a fourth grade teacher who has been employed by the district for the past 13 years and whose contract was not renewed for the coming term.

Supt. Peter Holley said that a verbal request had been made for a hearing but no indication has been given by the teacher as yet if it will be a private or public hearing.

At Monday night's meeting of the board of education, attended by 25 persons, it was indicated that a petition was being circulated asking the district to retain the teacher.

In other business, the superintendent reported that information had not been received as yet from equalization directors for Iosco and Ogemaw Counties concerning the actual state equalized valuation of the district for 1980. Holley reported that his tentative budget indicated that only renewal of the present operational millage would be necessary to meet projected operational costs.

The board heard a report on cafeteria operation by Ilah Ostrand, supervisor, concerning inventory, spring purchases and job classifications.

The superintendent reported that no settlement had been reached as yet in teacher negotiations, but a meeting has been scheduled with the negotiation team and that settlement on a new contract is expected shortly.

A March 24 grievance submitted by United Steelworkers concerning overtime pay to two cooks, Betty Rollin and Lila Head, has been settled. The grievance concerned overtime pay during an in-service day for teachers and staff.

Denice Trulove gave a report concerning career education and Daniel Peters, athletic director, reported that baseball and track are being offered to junior varsity teams in an intramural program.

Correction of two minor deficiencies in school offerings is expected to see a return of the school to the University of Michigan's accreditation list effective next term. A visitation by a university representative is expected shortly.

Many Tough Decisions Face Legislature, Reports Alley

"These are tough times, with tough decisions to make—I am as concerned about the financial problems facing Michigan as you are about local government."

These were the terse words of State Rep. Tom Alley of West Branch, who was the guest of the Tawas City Business Association during Thursday noon's luncheon held at Coyle's Restaurant.

Representative Alley said the legislature is currently facing some tough issues at Lansing and the annual budget, normally completed before July 4, will not be ready for adoption until September or October. He said much compromise on views will be necessary to achieve a balanced budget.

Facing a cutback in federal revenue due to the faltering national economy and a decrease in state sales tax, state income tax, gas and weight taxes, Alley said the legislature would have to make a major decision this year concerning spending.

The lack of funds may mean drastic cutbacks in service, or the legislature may choose to expend the $275,000,000 in the state's budget stabilization fund created two years ago in order to prevent a deficit. If the latter route is chosen, the financial problem would have to be addressed next year.

Alley said that House Speaker Bobby Crimm is leaning toward use of the budget stabilization fund rather than to order massive cutbacks in services. The problem is being compounded by the fact that many are saying, "cut back, but don't cut back in my area or department," said Alley.

One area of particular concern is not enough funds are being generated by gas and weight taxes to take care of highway needs. Many of the highways constructed in the 1950s need major maintenance, but tax revenue has dropped as gasoline consumption decreases. He did not believe the gasoline tax would be increased this year due to political complications during an election year.

As unemployment rolls swell due to layoffs in the auto industry, more applications are being received for assistance by the social welfare program. There are now 6,000 applications for some aspect of social welfare each month and the state is considering hiring 880 additional people to handle these applications. "Once people get on welfare, it is difficult to get their names off the computer in this tremendous bureaucracy," said Alley.

State income tax revenue is falling off rapidly because of layoffs in the automobile industry. Employees in that industry make excellent wages and the income tax paid on those wages represents a substantial portion of the state's income. In addition, purchasing power of the workers has dropped, which means a reduction in sales tax revenue.

Alley said that transportation is important to the tourist industry and he has arranged a meeting between resort leaders in his district and representatives of the Cooperative Extension Service to establish goals and objectives for the future.

As the result of a change in state revenue sharing distribution (See ALLEY, page 5.)

One department which is facing serious cutbacks is the Michigan State Police. Due to inflation, the state police will have used funds allocated for gasoline by Memorial Day. As a result, road patrols are being cut on expressways.

Trades Classes Still Under Study

A decision concerning the future of building trades instruction as part of Tawas Area High School's vocational training program is to be made shortly by the board of education.

At Monday night's regular meeting, Supt. Allan Dighe said that one prospective buyer has been inspecting the present building trades house now being completed by the class, which has been offered for sale.

Because of the current depressed market for new homes, board of education members expressed concern at the last meeting that it may be wise to study the situation further before work starts by students this spring on construction of a foundation for next year's class project.

Prin. John Alexander said it is expected that work will go ahead with construction of the foundation and a decision can be made in September if the present house has not been sold by that time.

The superintendent said that Robert Reasner of the building trades department is now studying a proposal to use students to work on proposed expansion of the Iosco County Historical Museum at East Tawas in the event that a building trades house is not constructed next term.

A number of legal ramifications concerning students working on such a project would have to be studied before any decision could be made, reported the superintendent.

Iosco Not Affected by State Highway Construction Cuts

Michigan's highway, road and street construction will be drastically curtailed this year because of a newly ordered cutback in federal funds, John P. Woodford, state transportation director, announced last week.

None of the projects which had been scheduled to go under contract in the next five months, but are now delayed, are located in Iosco County.

From May through September, new contracts on federal aid projects will be limited to about $70,000,000 instead of the $220,000,000 that had been planned in Michigan.

The impact will be state-wide, affecting work scheduled for state highways, county roads and major municipal streets eligible for federal funding, which averages more than 75 percent of project costs.

Iosco County History Work Moves Rapidly

Work on the new history of Iosco County is moving ahead rapidly, according to Mrs. E. M. Vaughan, chairman of the project for the Iosco County Historical Society.

The community-wide project can use the help of anyone who is interested in preserving the county history, anyone who can type, edit, proofread, index or assist in keeping the records of material for the book. A number of people are to be included on these committees so that no one person will have to spend a large amount of time on the project.

Work has begun on a county-wide mailing program which will invite every family in the county to have their family history included in this book along with city, village, township, church, school, business and organization histories.

Every family and organization is urged to begin collecting the material for their history from the time they came to Iosco County to the present time. There will be no charge for the inclusion of family histories. Old pictures as well as current pictures are desired for the book and those who have interesting and historic pictures are urged to hunt them up and have them available when the project begins accepting material. All pictures will be returned but it is recommended that copies be made of valuable pictures for the book.

Anyone interested in helping on the history project is urged to contact Mrs. Vaughan at 362-3177.

FRIDAY was definitely not Michael Gray's day. The Bay Cityan did not catch any fish in Tawas Bay and, when he attempted to load his boat on a trailer at the Ninth Avenue boat ramp in Tawas City, the car and trailer rolled into about six feet of water, de-

ANNUAL spring dredging of the mouth of the Tawas River started last week and the channel was opened in time for heavy use by trout and smelt fishermen over the week-end. Depending on water level of Lake Huron and direction of wind during storms, the city will probably have to again open the channel some time during the summer.—Tawas Herald Photo.

tion, $40,000,000 has been allocated to assist distressed cities. Alley said that $32,000,000 would go to Detroit while Tawas City would receive from $1,200 to $1,800.

Alley felt that the state would have to address the problem of social welfare abuse, but he pointed out that policing would require additional money for investigation. He expressed concern over the fact that the welfare department was "running out to get people on the rolls" and he believed that only those people who need help should receive it.

The West Branch legislator was taken on an inspection of dredging work at the mouth of the Tawas River and was briefed by City Mgr. Lowell Thomas on the city's application for federal-state funds for development of the proposed Gateway Park.

For Elementary Grades

OK New Reading Series

All elementary students of Tawas Area School will be using a new reading series next term, following approval of a recommendation Monday night from Prin. Herman Rollin.

The board of education approved purchase of the 1980 edition of Holt, Rinehart reading series at a cost of $7,727.40. This represents textbooks and instructional material for grades kindergarten through six.

Rollin said he had contacted by letter 19 different textbook companies from the approved list published by the state department concerning replacement of the reading series which has been used for the past seven years by this school.

A teacher was selected at each grade level to be the chairperson to review all 10 textbook series received for study. Representatives of three different companies gave personal presentations to the total staff. Holt, Rinehart came out as the top choice after 2½ months of research and meetings.

Accompanying the principal to Monday night's meeting were Martha McLeod, Lois Deckert and Katharine Wasylk, all members of the elementary faculty. The elementary staff will soon begin the study of different textbook series to replace science instructional materials.

In other business, the school was commended by the Michigan Department of Public Health for its participation in the recent immunization program. This school district is one of 253 which has completed the program.

A letter from Barbara Smith, who has been on leave of absence to complete her work toward a master degree in reading, indicated that she would be returning for the 1980-81 school year.

Supt. Allan Dighera reported that information has not been received as yet on how cuts in federal reimbursement to the state would affect local school districts, but he expects that Title One reimbursement will be decreased to Tawas Area School. He expects that funds received for vocational education and school lunch programs will also be decreased.

Approval was given to purchase a new kiln for the art department at a cost of about $600. The unit under consideration is manufactured at Caseville.

The board of education accepted the recommendation to appoint Jerri Wilting as the head girls track coach with Thomas Pinkowski as the assistant coach.

Permission was granted to hire a special education teacher to meet a state mandate. Cost to the district is to be approximately $6,500 annually.

New Iosco County Road Manager Reports on Construction Projects

Although revenues are decreasing rapidly through a reduction in gas and weight taxes, brought on by a decrease in travel as gasoline prices increase, Iosco County Road Commission has projected a busy construction season.

Allen Buchanan, who became the new engineer-manager of the road commission effective April 1, said that funds committed by the road commission would see the start of 1980 construction projects this week.

No one can predict what will happen next year in the road construction field due to the drop in gas and weight tax revenue, but the state legislature is now looking at that problem.

Construction plans this year call for a major project on Alabaster Road, with drainage, subsoil base and sealcoat, hopefully to include a blacktop overlay the following year; Townline Road, with seven miles to receive an asphalt overlay under contract with Central Paving Company, to include complete resurfacing from US-23 to Sand Lake Road.

Other projects include sealcoating Shellenbarger Road north of Hale, reconstruction of Mill Street from US-23 to the industrial park in AuSable Township, plus several subdivision streets in Oscoda Township.

Another major project will be construction of a new bridge over the Tawas River at the Nunn Road-Monument Road intersection at East Tawas, along with reconstruction of a bridge over the East Branch of the AuGres River on Alabaster Road.

Buchanan came here from Oakland County to manage the road commission's 45-member department upon the effective date of resignation by James Delahanty, who is now associated with Central Paving Company, West Branch.

He spent 10 years with the state highway department before being employed for another 10 years by the Oakland County Road Commission. By comparison, he said the major difference between the two counties is that Oakland had a road budget of $35,000,000 for 2,800 miles of roads, while Iosco County's budget ranges from 1.5 to two-million dollars for 880 miles of roads.

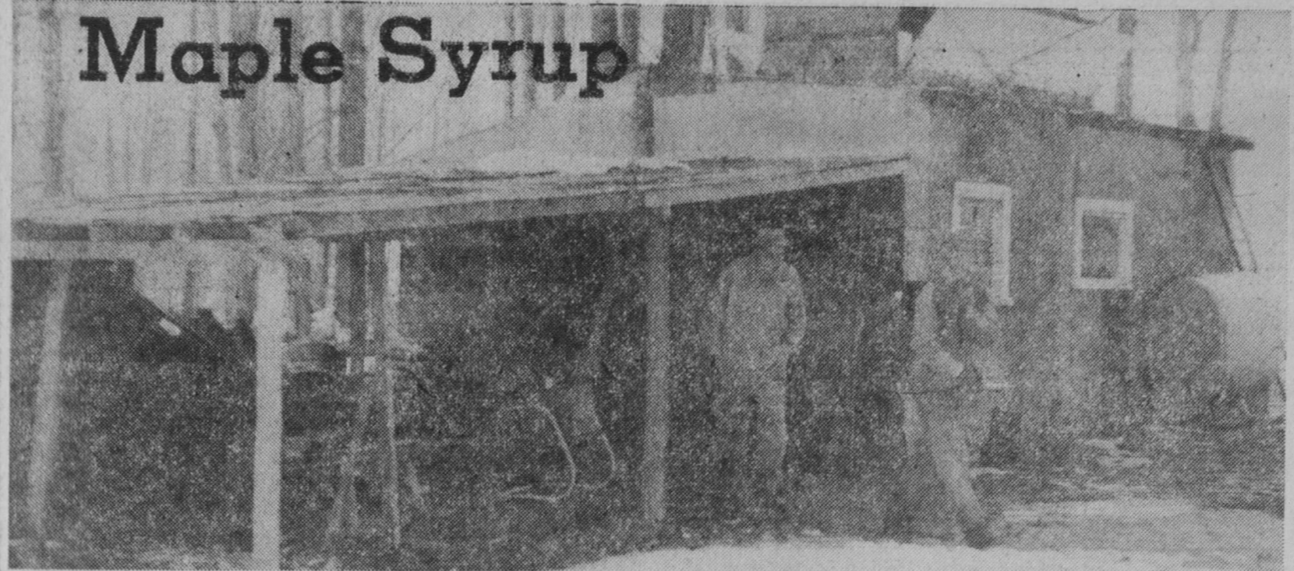

Buchanan is familiar with this area of Michigan, having worked for the state highway department during its widening of US-23 15 years ago.

A native of Detroit, he graduated from Michigan State University. He and his wife, Sue, are parents of two sons, both of whom are students at MSU.

THIS sugar hut near Sterling was one of the best equipped in the area and its owner, C. R. Brown, was advised on proper methods to use in making maple syrup by the Cooperative Extension Service.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Despite the fact that researchers have long maintained that a maple syrup industry offers extensive possibilities for expansion in Michigan—demand always exceeds the local supply—harvesting sap in Iosco County is practically a forgotten art, even for the hobbyist.

While soil and growth conditions in this county are by no means equal to some other parts of the state for the propagation of maple trees, processing of maple syrup each spring was once an important "home industry" for numerous farm families in this county.

Watts' Grove west of Tawas City on M-55 was once an important producer of maple syrup on the local market, but widening the highway a number of years ago eliminated some of the best sap producing trees in that stand and the few remain-before the arrival of the white man and provided items of barter later between the Indians and the whites.

Early settlers in this region used maple sap as their principal source of sugar and the state still produces an average of 95,000 gallons of maple syrup each year. Most of that product is consumed right in this state.

Weather controls the favorability of the sap producing season—in a late spring with above freezing weather during the day and freezing weather at night, the syrup crop is generally good; but with no fluctuation in weather conditions, the season usually is not very productive.

Tending their sugar bush and making maple syrup was strictly a hobby with the Drumm family. "We loved to do it each year—it was great fun," said Mrs. Drumm.

To make one quart of syrup, one must boil from 2½ to three gallons of sap—the remainder disappears as steam. Making syrup takes a lot of heat, but that can be provided in the form of wood recovered from the sugar bush.

Roland Brown, a former resident of Hale and Tawas City now residing in Arenac County, tapped his sugar bush until a few years ago. Brown and his late wife, Lois, formerly of Tawas Township, annually processed more than 6,000 gallons of sweet water tapped from trees in their maple grove, providing approximately 150 gallons of pure maple syrup.

Activity in a sugar bush is one of the first signs that nature is stirring in the spring and the Browns' sugar house was always a beehive of activity when sap began to run.

Pails of sap were collected each evening from the more than 200 maple trees on the Brown property near Sterling and emptied into a storage tank. Mrs. Brown's job was to tend the evaporator and sugaring-off pan during the day.

The evaporating process started immediately and continued until the season was completed as sap is susceptible to bacteria quite similar to the action on milk.

Like the Drumms, maintaining a sugar bush was strictly a hobby with the Browns, although they furnished maple syrup to regular customers for a little more than 12 years and had one of the few maple syrup processing operations remaining in the area in the mid-1960s.

Unless one travels to Vermont or to other towns in that vicinity of Michigan, where maple syrup is a booming business, the householder must rely on store-bought brands of what is advertised as "pure" maple syrup.

Pancakes covered with artificially flavored maple syrup just do not taste the same as when they are drenched in the old-fashioned maple syrup produced right at home. Most of the commercial products available today on market shelves contain two percent or less of pure maple syrup.

Some local maple groves have fallen before the woodsman's axe for firewood, but landowners some day might recognize the fact that full utilization of their wood lots could be a paying proposition.

Maple syrup lovers would welcome the opportunity to obtain a supply of natural sweetener on the local market. With property taxes being what they are today, landowners may have to turn to making maple sugar in order to keep unproductive recreational lands.

Emory Diveley of Tawas Lake is one of the few remaining persons in the area who taps maple trees and processes syrup as a hobby.

Belt-Tightening Necessary During Faltering Economy

The mortgage interest rate which has risen to a record high in a matter of months has smothered new residential housing starts and an industry which has shown phenomenal growth in recent years. The first dominoes along the road to a probable recession being predicted by national economists are already tipping over and being felt locally.

Lumber, the retail price of which traditionally fluctuates with the economy, dropped sharply on the market last week and those dealers with large inventories purchased during the peak price market last fall are the losers—most must turn over their stock to make payment on borrowed capital.

But where are the buyers to take advantage of this windfall? The jobs of young persons, who desire the housing, are now on the line because of the shaky economy; assuming a debt for a house with an extremely inflated cost and at an impossibly high interest rate would be foolhardy at this point.

The economic impact on the housing industry is being felt right here in Iosco County, which is a major supplier of raw gypsum for the manufacture of such building products as wall-board, plaster, cement and other materials. The first tremor in an impending shock wave which will affect employment rolls in this county was felt last week when low seniority workers on winter layoff received employment termination notices by one firm.

Shipment of gypsum rock from Iosco's quarries is expected to be dramatically curtailed during the upcoming season and the unemployment rolls will be swelled. In many instances, those workers will be shortly receiving their last unemployment compensation checks and many families will be in economic trouble.

Yet, the country is still at the mercy of skyrocketing inflation. While much blame can be traced to the high cost of petroleum imports, government at all levels, along with some industry, continues to feed the fire which powers inflation.

It can be expected that there will be a pronouncement by the president stating the guideline for determining wage and salary increases will be in the neighborhood of nine percent—it was something like 7.7 percent last year. And the inflation merry-go-round will continue.

Right here in Iosco County, one union representing governmental employees has been holding out for months on signing a new contract with a demand for a 14 percent increase in wages and enriched benefits; it can be expected that other unions will follow suit.

In the private sector, wage increases are passed off to the consumer; in government, the increased wages are paid in the form of higher taxes. Many wage earners and owners in the private sector, who are struggling to keep afloat and will receive no additional compensation to keep pace with the inflation rate, will continue to sink deeper into the mire of debt unless they do without the things their taxes or purchases pay for others.

The old law of supply and demand which once controlled pricing has been thrown out the window in this inflationary era and the individual has little control over taxes at the federal and state level—but local government beware! Even during good economic times, it is difficult to convince taxpayers to increase local millage rates to support operation of government and schools.

Government is going to have to tighten its belt and that could mean there is going to be a loss of jobs in some instances as there is no way of controlling the price of fuel, heat, lights and other expenditures. Loss of jobs will only add to the unemployment picture and government employees making wage demands at this point had better be thinking about it.

Unemployed persons in the private sector and others who have already tightened their belts certainly cannot be sold on increasing the local tax levy to finance wage increases for governmental and school employees.

"The Lord forbid that I should sin against him by no longer praying for you." (1 Samuel 12:23 TEV)

We are tempted to think about intercessory prayer—praying for others—as an optional opportunity to help them. But, there is danger in this attitude, the danger of self-righteousness and of desiring gratitude for the special influence we are exercising on others' behalf.

Samuel's attitude is different. It is one of great urgency, similar to Paul's word, "Woe is unto me, if I preach not the gospel!" Samuel feels, compelled to pray for his people not just because they need it but because not praying for them would be a sin against God.

Samuel does not debate whether intercessory prayer is possible, whether it is worthwhile or how it works. He has had too much experience with God to question the issue. He recognizes that the results are not his responsibility. His responsibility is to keep on praying.

As followers of Jesus Christ, we, too, are under the commission to pray for others, even though we may be convinced that we do not pray very well. Failing to pray for others costs both us and them spiritual blessings.

Lord, let us not be weary in well-doing. Give us the courage to believe that prayer works and the patience to work at praying. Amen.

LETTERS EDITOR

Editor: As an AuSable Township property owner in the subdivision of AuSable Point Beach No. 2, Lot No. 29, I wish to go on record as opposing any action to expand water provision in AuSable Point.

I own my water well and feel certain that it is more than adequate to meet the needs of my family and to satisfactorily maintain my property. Therefore, I do not want the township to extend the water system into the proposed area.

Some Employees Face Offset

Are you a Federal worker or a State or local government employee whose job is NOT covered by social security? And have you been counting on receiving a dependent's benefit on your spouse's social security record in addition to a pension from your public agency?

If you answer "yes" to both questions, then you may be affected by a provision in the social security law called "public pension offset," a social security spokesperson said recently. Many government workers nearing retirement have been asking about this.

The public pension offset will not affect most people until December 1982 and later. However, it's something you should know about now so you can plan your financial future.

Here's how the offset works: The amount of your social security benefit as a dependent or survivor is reduced—dollar for dollar—by the amount of your public pension. For example, if your potential social security benefit as a wife is $250 a month and your public pension is $220, your actual wife's benefit would be $30. The offset will NOT apply if your Federal, State, or local government job IS covered by social security on the last day you work.

The offset applies only to social security spouse's and surviving spouse's benefits. You can still receive retirement or disability payments on your own social security record without reduction if you have worked long enough under social security.

There's an exception to the offset if you now receive a public pension or will soon be eligible for one. But it will apply only if both of these conditions are met:

(1) You must either receive or be eligible to receive your government pension before December 1982; whether or not you actually apply; and

(2) You must meet all requirements for social security dependent or survivor benefits as they existed and were interpreted in January 1977. More specifically:

- If you are a divorced woman, your marriage must have lasted at least 20 years, rather than 10 years under present law
- If you are a man, your wife must have provided at least one-half of your support; you can't qualify if you were divorced from your wife.

Questions about the pension offset can be answered at any social security office. The address and telephone number of the nearest office can be found in the telephone directory.

Q. I plan to retire at 62 in 1985 and hope to receive both my county pension and wife's benefits on my husband's social security records. Since my county job is not covered under social security, will the pension offset prevent me from getting some or all of the wife's benefits?

A. If you meet all basic requirements for your county pension (such as minimum age and length of service) before December 1982—regardless of whether you actually apply for it then—the offset won't affect you. Otherwise it will.

Q. I just retired at 55 from the Federal Government and would also like to receive social security widow's benefits on my former husband's record when I'm 60. We were divorced in 1973 after 17 years of marriage, and he died in 1978. Will I be eligible?

A. Although current law requires that a marriage must have lasted only 10 years for payments to be made to a divorced spouse, the law in effect as of January 1977 is binding with regard to the pension offset. At that time, 20 years of marriage was required. Therefore, while you may be eligible for widow's benefits, the pension offset will apply.

Q. My State job is not covered by social security but I worked 11 years in private employment that was covered. How will the pension offset affect me when I retire about 1990?

A. You can receive your public pension as well as a social security retirement benefit based on your covered earnings, without reduction. However, any dependent or survivor benefits you may be potentially eligible for on your spouse's social security record could be subject to the offset.

Q. My work for the city government isn't covered by social security. But before I took this job, I worked under social security for 25 years. When I retire, will my pension from the city affect my social security retirement checks?

A. No. A governmental pension will not affect any social security benefit based on your own work covered by social security.

RESOLUTION TO ABANDON A PUBLIC ROAD

On a motion duly made by Commissioner Aulerich, supported by Commissioner White, and unanimously carried, it was moved to adopt the following resolution:

WHEREAS, in accordance with the provisions of Section 18, Chapter IV, Act 283 of the Public Acts of 1909, as amended, seven or more freeholders have petitioned this Board to absolutely abandon and discontinue that area of Block Q, H. D. Stockman's Addition to the Village of AuSable referred to as an easement lying between lots 5 through 21, Block Q. Also that easement lying between lots 1 through 4 and lots 5 and 21 of said Block Q as recorded in Liber 1, Page 6 of Plats Office of the Register of Deeds, Iosco County Building, Tawas City, Michigan; and

WHEREAS, the Board examined the area and noted that abandonment was in the best interest of the public;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that the above mentioned easement be and is hereby absolutely abandoned and discontinued;

EXCEPT, upon the condition that the title to all public utilities and drains and all appurtenances thereto, now in, over or under said right-of-way is reserved to and shall remain in the respective owners thereof together with the easements and continued rights to occupy said road for public utility or drainage purposes with the present or additional facilities and to operate, maintain, repair, replace, or remove the same, to the same effect and in the same manner as if said road had remained a public way.

I hereby certify the above is a true and correct copy of a resolution unanimously adopted by the Board of Iosco County Road Commissioners at a meeting held March 31, 1980.

REGULAR MEETING—TAWAS CITY COUNCIL

March 17, 1980
Meeting called to order at 7:30 PM at City Hall by Mayor Westcott.

Present: Hayes, Keiser, Lansky, Pawloski, Upton, Westcott (Martin excused). Others: Manager Thomas.

Minutes of March 3 regular and March 12 special meetings approved.

Following discussion of Manager's memo informing Council that wooden bridges will not be appreciably less expensive than concrete, consensus was that City should continue plans to replace Whittemore Street and Sixth Avenue bridges with wooden structures.

Consideration of Tawas-Whittemore-Hale Community Chest letter asking input regarding the need for such an organization brought criticism of participating agencies which make separate solicitations as well. Manager was directed to write a letter of support, but urge attention to that problem.

Motion by Hayes seconded by Pawloski that Manager write an objection to federal proposal to ban power boating on weekends as an energy conservation measure, Pawloski pointing out that boats use only ½ of 1% of fuel consumed in a year, and are vital to our economy; carried.

Action on support of Chamber of Commerce application for Coastal Zone Management grant for study of shoreline bike path tabled pending receipt of further information, on motion by Hayes, seconded by Lansky, carried.

Motion by Hayes seconded by Keiser that Knights of Columbus be allowed to solicit funds in a Tootsie Roll sale March 28 and 29, to benefit programs for retarded children in this area; carried.

Motion by Keiser seconded by Pawloski that launch ramp fees remain at $10 for the season, $2.50 daily permit, as recommended by P & R Board for 1980; carried.

Notice was given of Public Hearing on zoning amendments, before Planning Commission March 20 at 7:30.

Manager gave extensive information on progress toward development of new Industrial Park area, stressing that obtaining a commitment from a possible "client" would be of considerable benefit toward obtaining EDA and other grants. He also strongly urged aggressive action toward industrial development, in order to increase City's tax base enough to support capital improvements which are desperately needed in the City in the next 5-6 years.

Motion by Lansky seconded by Hayes to meet in closed session under provisions of Section 8(d) of the Open Meetings Act; roll call vote: unanimous yeas.

Upon reassembly at 9:52, motion by Hayes seconded by Lansky that $200 be appropriated from surplus and unappropriated funds of Federal Revenue Sharing Fund to pay fee for appraisal of D & M and Borosch properties; roll call vote: unanimous yeas.
Adjourned 9:54.

MAPLE SYRUP TIME—Mr. and Mrs. Francis Drumm of East Tawas have not practiced their favorite hobby—gathering sap from maple trees on their wood lot and turning it into delicious maple syrup—for two years. “We loved to do it each year—it was great fun—but we just ran out of time and lifting the heavy pails was just getting too much for us,” said Mrs. Drumm. These pictures were snapped in the mid-1960s as the Drumms gathered collection pails from their 170 trees. The next day was spent in boiling down 200 gallons of sap in their wood-fired evaporator. They found it required from 42 to 48 gallons of sap to make one gallon of syrup, but as Drumm explained, “It is there for the taking and we enjoy this outdoor hobby.” They are making plans to renew the fun next year.—Tawas Herald Photos.

Children With Cancer Attend Summer Camp

For a child with cancer, summer camp has only been a dream until now. Because of organizations like the American Cancer Society and people like Dr. George Royer, a Kalamazoo pediatric oncologist, August 24-30 nearly 120 children from seven to 19 years of age will be attending the second annual Special Days at Storer Camp near Jackson, established for children with cancer.

Ten years ago, this type of a camp would have been inconceivable for children with cancer because they were too ill. So many advances in treatment of cancer have been made, today these children are able to lead normal lives and even grow up. Special Days will have a staff of 60 volunteers, including three physicians, two nurses and one laboratory technician, according to Dr. Royer, camp founder. Children will never be far from their medicine and they can receive treatment 24 hours each day from camp physicians. Youngsters will be encouraged to participate in archery, riflery, arts and crafts, sailing, canoeing, horseback riding and swimming during their week-long stay.

Special Days offer children with cancer a vacation from some of the overprotection they often face and gives them an opportunity to experience the fun and growth a summer camp can offer.

Dr. Royer, who also serves as camp medical adviser and administrator, estimated camp operation will cost $30,000 during Special Days. He said that cost has been pared down by the financial support of business and such organizations as the American Cancer Society. Campers will be asked to pay $25 to participate in Special Days but scholarships will be provided for those who can not otherwise afford to attend.

“We are finding more and more parents accepting the attitude that their children with cancer should lead lives as normal as possible,” Dr. Royer said. “As a result, we have expanded the program from accepting 57 children in 1979 to where we expect 120 for this year’s camp.” He explained the idea for Special Days came from Children’s Oncology Services of Illinois, which offered a camp for children in Wisconsin in 1978.

For more information, contact George Royer, M. D., Upjohn Company, 7000 Portage Road, Kalamazoo 49001, or the American Cancer Society, Michigan Division, 1205 East Saginaw Street, Lansing 48906.

Historical Society's Emblem

A new emblem has been designed for the Iosco County Historical Society as a part of the new county history book project which is now under way, according to Mrs. E. M. Vaughan, chairman. The emblem or logo was designed from suggestions of the history book committee and members of Iosco County Historical Society. Designed to show the lumbering era of the county, the emblem is of the Lumbermen's Monument, overlooking the AuSable River since 1932 when it was dedicated. This emblem will be used on the printed materials during the history book project and in the book itself.
