TRI-COUNTY AGENCY, Inc.

Tawas City, Michigan

To The Tawas Herald and Tawas Residents:

Thanks for the article in your paper about my 20 years with the Tawas Bay Waterfront Arts and Crafts Show; also, for your 20 years of publicity and advertising, all of which have helped make our show so popular.

The show was not just something I dreamed up. For eight years before Herb and I moved here, I had taught public school music and art in Pennsylvania and Michigan. Soon after we came here in 1943, I was drafted to deach choral and band at East Tawas. There were no art classes then in high school so I started a class in oil painting for adults and eventually we started having exhibits. Our first large one was in the Odd Fellows Hall for the East Tawas Centennial.

Later, Herb and I visited the Charlevoix Outdoor Art Show on Little Round Lake, which was sponsored by the chamber of commerce at that community. Herb had taken slides which we showed to the Tawas Chamber of Commerce and we asked that group to sponsor a show here. With our beach at Tawas City Park and the adjacent county building, we felt we had more to offer than Charlevoix. The chamber agreed and, until 1974, sponsored our show and really put it on the map as Tawas Bay Artists.

From then on, I had a co-chairman for each show. Paula Peterson, a member of my first class, was the first one and our husbands, Herb and Pete, did a great deal to help during our early shows. Other co-chairmen were Don Darr and, from the chamber of commerce, Jerry Reitler and Ron Korthals.

From then on, the Tawas Bay Artists voted to manage the show alone and for the last five years, under the leadership of Paula's daughter, Joan Blust, assisted by her husband, Herb, the show has continued to grow.

My original class of Tawas Bay Artists now numbers 77 and growing. Tawas Area High School now has one full time art teacher and one part time teacher. So, to all the hundreds of people who helped, I say a big "Thank You."

His pictures of last Indian uprising in Cavalry Museum

A group of pictures depicting the United States Army's Sixth Cavalry more than 75 years ago have been donated by a Tawas City resident to the famous army unit's new museum at Ft. Oglethorpe, Georgia.

In a letter of appreciation for the pictures, Joseph C. Hurt, United States Cavalry Veterans re- Association, invited Mrs. Fred

After wandering around all summer, the Indians finally were "corralled" in Montana near the Little Powder River. In a 1959 Herald interview, Marsh recalled that "the Utes did not make a fight of it and surrendered after three days of talks. He was promoted to captain at the close of World War I and, after returning to the United States, Miss Johnson came to this country and the couple was married in New York City. Marsh and his wife operated a farm near Glennie until 1937, when they moved to the Marsh farm west of Tawas City. His father, William H., came here in 1877 and homesteaded the property. Before his death, one of Marsh's greatest pleasures was recalling the old days in the Minnesota and Michigan pineries, but he particularly enjoyed recalling his military experiences as a horse trooper member of the Sixth Cavalry in the Black Hills. Pictures donated by Mrs. Marsh were mounted in an album and displayed during the Sixth Cavalry reunion. "They were the main attraction last year and again this year," said Commander Hurt in his recent letter.

"They are a main attraction in our display of hundreds of other pictures, which will be placed in the museum when it opens in October," he stated.

Captain Marsh, were he alive today, would be happy to know that his pictures are being enjoyed by others.

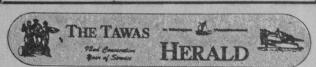

FOLLOWING the death of her husband, Mrs. Fred Marsh of Tawas Township donated his picture collection to the Sixth Cavalry Association and the pictures are to be featured in that famous unit's new museum to be opened in October. The pictures have been enjoyed at reunions former Sixth Cavalry members during the past two years .- Tawas Herald Photo.

As I looked up from my desk, I saw one of my English students whispering to another. Since I had previously told the class to work without talking, I gave the two a few pages to copy from their vocabulary book. John accepted the punishment gracefully, but his seatmate was indignant. "I was just answering a question!" he said. Somehow, he thought that excused him.
