Boards of Review May Have Made Some Illegal Changes

Briefly reviewing property tax assessment changes presented to his office last week by several townships, County Treas. Edward Nelkie believes that December meetings of boards of review did not follow the state law.

Nelkie noted that, as examples, the AuSable Township treasurer filed an affidavit listing more than 50 changes in its tax roll, Plainfield Township had more than 60 changes and 32 changes were listed in Baldwin Township.

The treasurer said that the December meeting of boards of review, as provided by Act 142 of 1967, is a special session permitted to correct clerical errors in assessment figures, the rate of taxation or the mathematical computation relating to the assessing of taxes.

He said the error must be verified by the unit's assessing officer. A correction may be made in the year in which the error was made or in the following year only.

Where such error or "mutual mistake" results in an overpayment or underpayment, the rebate is to be made to the taxpayer, or the taxpayer notified and payment made within 30 days of notice.

Control of the December session rests with the supervisor, who must verify that an error has been made and the board may consider only those assessments so verified by the assessor.

"The only mistakes which can be considered would be clerical errors or mutual mistakes in fact," said Nelkie. "This is interpreted as only those entries in the roll which are obvious errors, such as additions or deletions of zeros, considerable errors in acreages, the assessment or non-assessment of buildings or improvements."

Value, as it would pertain to the assessment, is not to be considered, said Nelkie. "The purpose of the meeting is to correct errors of a mechanical nature."

The county treasurer said that such action by a board of review at the special December meeting could have a considerable effect on the property tax process, in that a loss or gain in value as a result of board of review action would change the state equalized valuation.

Nelkie said that board of review warrants submitted to his office by several units had not been signed by the assessing officer attesting to correctness of changes.

He said he had notified the state tax commission concerning the matter and is awaiting a reply.

Also complicating the bookkeeping in the county treasurer's office are a number of reductions ordered by the state tax tribunal. Tax rolls are being corrected in keeping with the orders.

Compounding the problem in the county treasurer's office this year is the change in methods of computing tax rolls and tax statements from a contracted service at Midland to the county's own computer system operated by the tax equalization office.

Although this is the first year of operation by the county's computer department and several recommended changes are to be considered, Nelkie said that actual assessments were not printed on tax rolls in numerous cases. Nelkie doubts the legality of not listing the assessment on the tax roll.

While the county provides the service of printing tax rolls and tax statements, actual responsibility for the correctness of the tax rolls and statements is with the individual taxing units.

Another problem noted by the county treasurer in his annual information letter to township and city treasurers is the late turnover of taxes collected by individual treasurers to the county treasurer's office.

A township which has a state equalized valuation of $15,000,000 or less is to account for and deliver to the county treasurer and school treasurers the taxes collected up to and including January 10, within 10 business days thereafter.

A township treasurer, however, is subject to a subsection of the action which states that at no time shall the township treasurer have on hand collections of state, county and school taxes in excess of 25 percent of the amount of the taxes apportioned to the township and, whenever collections on hand reach this percentage, the township treasurer is to immediately account for and turn over the total amount of state and county tax collections on hand to the county treasurer and school tax collections on hand to the school district treasurers.

Nelkie said that a treasurer who willfully neglects or refuses to perform a required duty is subject to the penalty prescribed by the state act.

Park Expansion Seems Assured at East Tawas

Expansion of the east end of East Tawas City Park property by the acquisition of the Evans family parcel has been given tentative approval by the Michigan Land Trust Fund board of directors.

A letter from Lansing stated that formal approval placing this cooperative purchase between the state and the city is expected to be made January 6.

The 132-foot-wide parcel extends from US-23 to Tawas Bay and includes the Evans dwelling.

City Clerk Clyde Soper said Monday that the parcel represented the last chance to expand the city park area under current financial arrangements.

In other matters relative to the city park, Soper said the East Tawas Council would give consideration at its meeting next Monday night concerning application for matching funds to modernize the lower end of Newman Street between US-23 and the Michigan Waterways Commission Dock.

The city received an 80-20 percent grant from Land Water Conservation Act funds to provide engineering for the project. This includes widening sidewalks, installation of new street lighting, planting of trees, purchase of benches and establishment of a bulletin board information center.

Estimated cost of the project is $50,000. The city is awaiting word from the Michigan Waterways Commission concerning its plans for development of an entrance to the state boat launching ramp and parking area.

The city has also been given the green light to utilize CETA employees in a sidewalk construction project for next spring and summer.

A special meeting of the council was to have been held Monday of this week to give consideration to increasing water and sewer rates due to the increased cost of operation of municipal facilities.

Water Users Can Expect Rate Hike

Tawas City water users can expect an increase in water bills shortly, according to a report Monday from City Mgr. Lowell Thomas.

During the annual meeting of the joint water board of East Tawas-Tawas City, it was reported that operational expenses at East Tawas' filtration plant had increased by 18 percent during the past year.

The new cost to Tawas City will be 51 cents per 1,000 gallons, as compared to 43 cents during the past year.

Of the 236,718,000 gallons of water produced last year at the water filtration plant, Tawas City purchased 111,285,630 gallons from October 1979 to September 1980.

Three Face B&E Charge at Oscoda

Warrants have been issued charging three Bay City men with breaking and entering unoccupied dwellings in Oscoda Township.

The burglaries were discovered when an Iosco County Sheriff's Department road patrol and officers from the Oscoda-AuSable Township Police Department responded to a burglar alarm in one of the dwellings.

A large quantity of items were stolen from cabins located on Cooke Dam Road.

Arrested were Chris A. Gerhardt, 20; Michael S. Jones, 18, and Robert J. Haines, 17. Two juvenile girls taken into custody were turned over to their parents.

Three Injured Over Week-End

Three personal injury accidents were reported over the week-end by Iosco County Sheriff's Department.

Kevin J. Kuehnlein, 15, Monroe, lost control of his snowmobile on a trail in Oscoda Township and struck a telephone pole. He was treated at Tawas Hospital.

Stephen K. Spradlin, 25, Sylvania, Ohio, injured his arm and forehead when he lost control of a snowmobile in Oscoda Township. He was treated at Tawas Hospital.

David Sprague, 19, National City, was injured when he fell from a motorcycle while operating it on the ice of Sand Lake.

Slippery Roads Caused Crashes

Numerous property damage accidents were reported Sunday afternoon on Iosco County highways due to the freezing rain. Although traffic on most roads proceeded at a slow pace, auto wreckers had to pull cars from ditches along Meadow Road, Monument Road and River Road. No injuries were reported.

Another Water Main Break

A Tawas City Department of Public Works crew spent nearly four hours Christmas Day repairing a break in a cast iron water main on Bay Drive. This was the third water main break since the start of cold weather.

Iosco Uses Federal Money to

Balance General Fund

Iosco County's general fund budget will end in the black on December 31, thanks to a substantial transfer of federal revenue sharing funds.

The county treasurer's office was unable to determine an expected revenue surplus as the county board of commissioners were to meet Tuesday morning to settle a number of outstanding bills.

In addition, the county treasurer directed all departments to transmit money on hand to his office by Tuesday noon.

The final revenue budget adopted for county operation totaled $2,065,749, but as of Monday afternoon, the county treasurer's office was unable to determine the exact amount expended.

Without a transfer of $127,000 from federal revenue sharing funds, the county's general fund obviously would have ended in the red.

"We should have enough money to cover all of the county's obligations," said Treas. Edward Nelkie.

Federal revenue sharing is a program adopted by congress a number of years ago whereby federal income tax money paid by individuals is returned to local units of government.

This is the second time since the program started that the county has had to transfer federal revenue sharing money to balance the general fund. In 1979, between $55,000 and $60,000 was transferred in order to prevent the use of "red ink" at the end of the year.

SEVERAL Plainfield Township families held their traditional Christmas vacation frolic in the snow the last Sunday of December in the beautiful Maltby Hills region northwest of Hale. The afternoon was spent sliding down hills on old truck tubes—five kids and adults piled on for one spectacular ride—along with snowmobiling, downhill and cross-country skiing. Plenty of hot chocolate and hot dogs satisfied appetites of the participants, along with those who watched. A hasty exit was made late in the afternoon during the rain and the roads home were as slippery as the coasting hills. —Tawas Herald Photos.

Freight Delays Cause Problem

Publishers of The Tawas Herald have had their share of press day problems during the past two months caused by delays in freight shipments.

The latest headache resulted this week when a shipment of presensitized photographic printing plates—ordered November 15—did not arrive in time for Monday's press run. That shipment and another order of plates, sent two weeks after the first, have gone astray somewhere between Massachusetts and Michigan.

Without a sufficient number of plate for advertising or pictures, several plates remaining from an experimental process tried, but not adopted several years ago by the Herald, were used on several pages. Some of the plates did not prove satisfactory.

A month ago, the Herald was down to its last roll of newsprint due to a freight delay. An eight-month supply of paper shifted in a truck trailer of a common carrier and it was set aside in a terminal for two weeks. Telephone lines were hot for several days before the "lost rolls" of paper—each weighing 1,600 pounds—were found.

Steeb - Burtzloff Vows Said at Zion Lutheran

Arrangements of poinsettias, candles and a Christmas tree formed the background in Zion Lutheran Church for the marriage Saturday, December 27, of Susan M. Burtzloff and Michael Steeb.

The Rev. Bernhard Kube performed the double ring ceremony. Christine Shover, vocalist, was accompanied by Suzanne Musolf, organist. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Burtzloff of Tawas City and her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Steeb of Ann Arbor.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride chose a silk organza gown fashioned with bouffant lace skirt with natural waistline, puffed sleeves and ring neckline. Complementing her gown was a cathedral length veil attached to a lace and pearl headpiece enhanced with a bouffant veil of bridal illusion. She carried a colonial bouquet of red and white carnations and holly.

Sally Burtzloff, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She was attired in a pastel pink gown with scooped neckline and full sleeves ending at the elbow and full skirt. The bodice was covered with a maroon bolero fastened at the neck. Her bouquet was comprised of holly and pink and white carnations.

Serving as best man was Lawrence Steeb of Ann Arbor, brother of the bridegroom. Christopher Thursty and Jay Dute of Ann Arbor were ushers.

Christmas decorations greeted friends and relatives from Plymouth, Detroit, Midland, Utica, Saginaw, Lansing and Bay City at a dinner reception at American Legion Hall, Tawas City. Mrs. Burtzloff chose a berry colored chiffon over satin gown featuring draped bodice, Empire waist, long sleeves and accordion pleats. Mrs. Steeb wore pale blue chiffon over satin. White orchid corsages adorned their gowns.

Following a one week wedding trip to Toronto, Ontario, Canada, the couple will reside at 2040 Charlton, Apartment 16, Ann Arbor. The former Miss Burtzloff attends University of Michigan and her husband attends Washtenaw Community College, Ann Arbor.

Showers honoring the bride were hosted by Mrs. Charles Cornell of Ann Arbor and Mrs. Philip Inman of Midland, Miss Burtzloff's aunt.

In reviewing the report on the county general fund and other county funds, Mr. Stephenson answered questions of the commissioners and pointed out several funds that have been inactive for some time, recommending that the monies therein be transferred to the county general fund.

Continuing, Mr. Stephenson noted in reviewing the segment of the report dealing with the county federal revenue sharing fund, that federal guidelines with respect to preparation of budgets and required publications were not fully complied

Reviewing Legislative Appropriations Fostered by Reps. Alley and Barcia

The painful process by which the legislature drafts its grants and transfers appropriations bill will be reviewed annually under an agreement reached between house leaders and State Rep. Tom Alley, West Branch, and James Barcia, Bay City. Both legislators have been critical about the way the bill is traditionally handled.

"Representative Alley and I have been concerned ever since we have been in the legislature about the whole process of arriving at the final grants and transfers budget bill," Barcia said.

"People wheel and deal to put in their own local pet projects, at the expense of Michigan taxpayers. The bill always goes through several conference committees before it is finally approved. It is easily the most chaotic of any of the bills we pass each year. We feel that by reviewing the process each year we can more easily arrive at a fiscally responsible bill.

"While I abhor several of the expenditures included in this year's grants and transfers bill, the consequences of its failure to pass would have been disastrous for local units of government here in Bay County as well as the veteran's trust fund and other state programs administered on the local level. Loss or postponement of this money would have meant layoffs, a cut in services and perhaps even the closing of several programs."

Alley added, "Representative Barcia and I have been consistent opponents of the type of freewheeling spending that this bill has come to represent. We feel convinced that the taxpayers feel the same way. We have both voted against this type of spending because we believe that it is an unjustified waste of tax dollars. This year, we have voted time and time again to trim the size of the grants and transfers bill and to see that there are as few tax-paid Christmas presents under someone's tree as possible.

"With the review process we have worked out with the house leadership, and with the cuts we have been able to make, we think that this bill is as austere as we can make it for this fiscal year."

Both Alley and Barcia said that they would like to see the bill divided into a number of smaller, more specific bills. "One major problem with this bill is that it is so massive and contains so many different appropriations that it is hard to come to any final agreement. One of the avenues we will be exploring is breaking the bill up into clearly defined areas, one bill to deal with revenue sharing, one to deal with grants to local governments, one to deal with grants to state agencies, etc. That way, we could discuss and vote on the money for the Silverdome without jeopardizing revenue sharing to our districts. One of the reasons we finally voted for this year's grants and transfers bill was to assure that our communities get the millions of dollars from the state they needed."

Under the provisions of the bill, Barcia's 101st District will receive $3,533,956 and Alley's 105th District, $3,326,362.

Sen. Levin Sets Office Hours

Seek Volunteers for Cholesterol Research

The University of Minnesota, located at Minneapolis, is seeking volunteers to participate in a national study. The National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute study is being conducted at four large medical centers, University of Minnesota, University of Arkansas, University of Southern California and Lankenau Hospital, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. The research team is conducting this trial in hopes of determining the relationship of cholesterol lowering to heart disease.

The study is seeking participants who have had only one heart attack during the past five years, are 28 through 64 years of age and free of diabetes, stroke and heart surgery. Volunteers are being sought at all four of the Hyperlipidemia Study Clinical Centers. For information, persons may call the University of Minnesota Hyperlipidemia Study collect at 612-376-4494.

"Come away with me Lucille, in my merry Oldsmobile," provided the opening lyrics for a popular hit tune shortly after the dawn of a new century.

It is rather ironic, but one of the very first horseless carriages to scatter chickens and frighten horses along Iosco County roads—a 1901 Oldsmobile owned by Dr. Charles A. Wakeman of Tawas City—was thoughtfully preserved as a curiosity by its last owner for nearly 30 years before finally "biting the dust."

What an addition that old car would make today in the growing collection of the Iosco County Historical Museum at East Tawas, but only a picture survives of the Tawas City physician's "Merry Oldsmobile"—its one cylinder engine and transmission having been yanked off its frame in 1929 and converted into a well drilling rig!

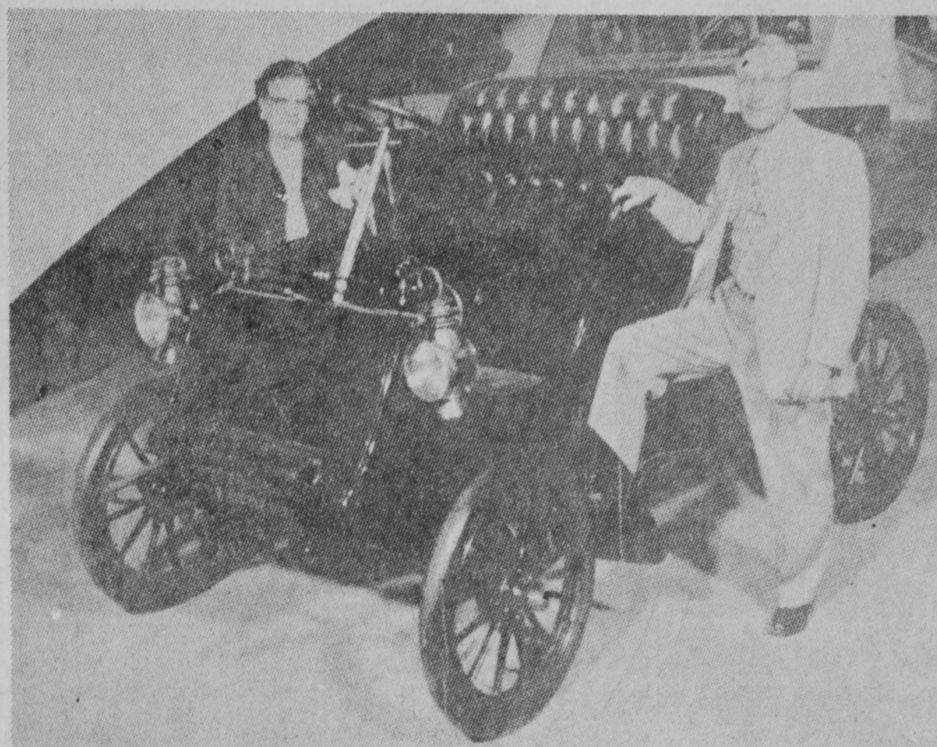

Before the historic old car met such an inglorious end, its final owners realized that a nostalgic part of the past should be preserved and snapped a picture of the shiny black machine which was displayed for the last time at Orville Leslie and Sons Ford Sales at Prescott.

Today, the old car would fetch a price from some eager collector which would easily purchase eight medium-sized cars of modern manufacture—the historical society could never afford to buy it.

But, the "Great American Depression" was just raising its ugly head in 1929 following the Wall Street crash; other than a sentimental value, antique automobiles brought very little money on the market.

"My husband's brother, George, was out of work and went into the well drilling business. He needed power for his rig and the old car provided the simple answer. I don't know what happened to the rest of the car body, but it probably went into the scrap heap."

Speaking was Dora (Leslie) Streeter of Tawas City, whose first husband, Orville Leslie, was a Ford dealer in Iosco and owner, Dr. Charles A. Wakeman of Tawas City, to make emergency repairs. The doctor later gave the car to Leslie. At left is Leslie's wife, Dora.

Ogemaw Counties for more than one-half century.

Automobiles were still a novelty when Doctor Wakeman purchased the car around 1902 or 1903. Another Tawas City physician, Dr. G. S. Darling, was the first to recognize that the horseless carriage was a timesaver during trips around the county to visit patients and he purchased an Olds a year or so earlier.

Wakeman started out on his rounds early one morning and the car broke down at Whittemore. It was a major attraction in that farming community—a crowd of people gathered around to kibitz as the local blacksmith tried his hand at getting the balky engine started.

In the crowd of interested spectators was a youngster just entering his teens—the actual year of Wakeman's visit not now recollected—who had considerable experience in tinkering with steam and gasoline engines used to power his father's portable sawmill, but this was the first time he had ever seen one of the new automobiles.

Finally, after several of the older men tried their hand at cranking the contraption, young Orville Leslie volunteered his services by telling the Tawas City physician, "I can get it started if you want me to."

The experienced blacksmith admitted the youngster "had a way with engines" and handed the tool pouch over to young Leslie. Within five minutes, the youngster had the car's engine adjusted properly and running. The doctor made note of the young fellow's name.

From that day forward, Wakeman never entrusted his automobiles to any other mechanic. "If the doctor had trouble with his car, he would get in touch with Orville and he would ride over to Tawas City on the passenger train, make the necessary repairs and then return to Whittemore, either by the next train or the doctor would bring him over in his car," said Mrs. Streeter.

When Doctor Wakeman later purchased a new four-cylinder car, he gave his 1901 Oldsmobile to Leslie, who had opened an automobile repair shop in a small barn. He drove the car for several years and later "modernized" it by replacing its unique tiller mechanism with a steering wheel salvaged from another car.

Leslie serviced Fords owned by local farmers and merchants for several years and served as a subagent for an auto dealer at West Branch. In those days, automobile firms only established dealerships at a county seat and the young mechanic was unable to obtain a franchise for the Whittemore-Prescott area.

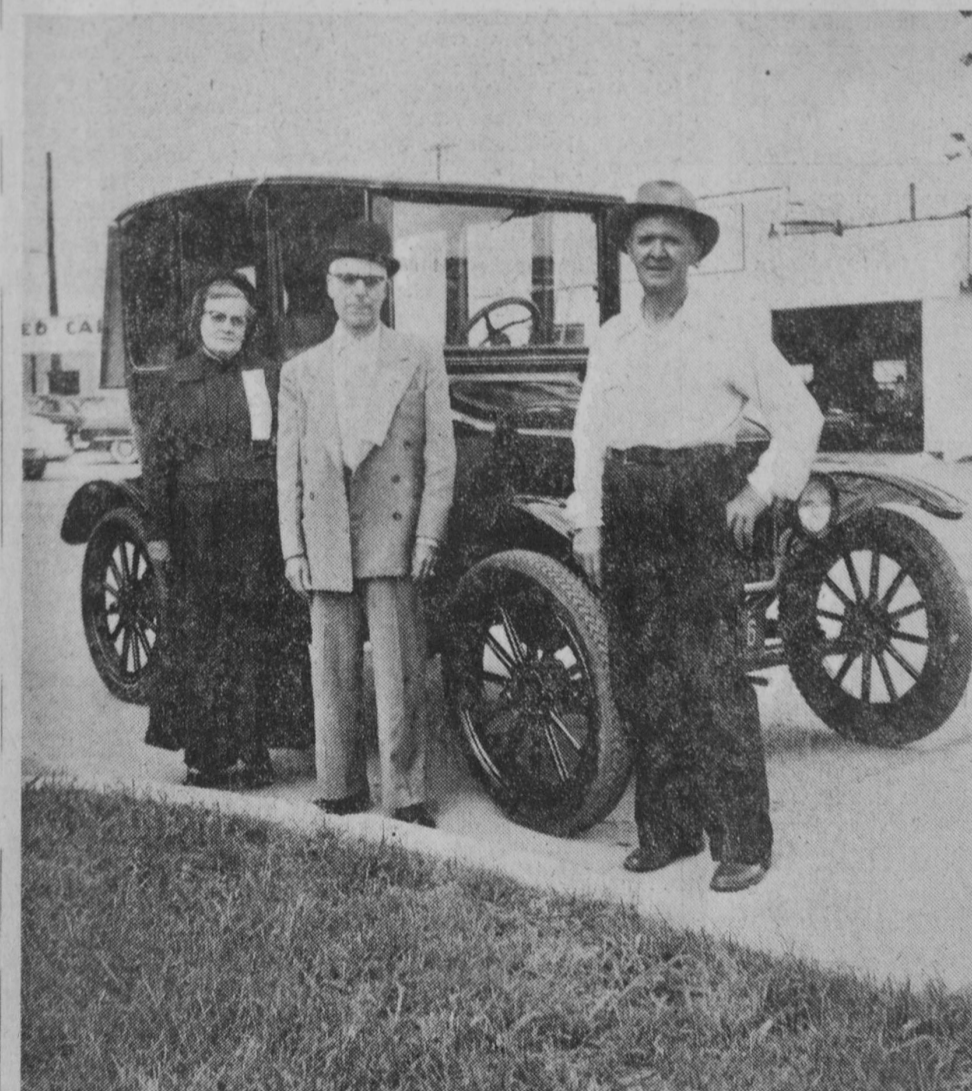

A local farmer wished to purchase a new Ford and Leslie made arrangements to have one delivered in the spring, taking the farmer's cash at the prevailing market price for a new car. However, between the time of the sale and delivery several months later, there was a price increase and Leslie was stuck with a $50 hike in price which would not be absorbed by the West Branch dealer.

He decided to go into the automobile business for himself so he and the local banker caught the next train for Dearborn. There, they had a personal interview with the big man himself—Henry Ford—who appreciated a good mechanic. Ford waived his policy of selling only one agency in each rural county and personally signed Leslie's new franchise for the Whittemore-Prescott area.

Leslie borrowed $10,000 from the bank to open his new dealership and, while he was out selling Model T Fords in the surrounding area, his wife, the former Dora Ellsworth, whom he married September 12, 1912, went to work making concrete blocks for a new salesroom and garage.

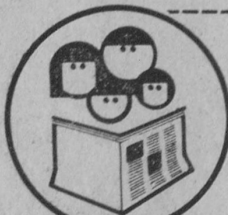

"We borrowed a small machine from a local mason and I made enough concrete blocks in one summer to build a 60 by 100-foot building" recalls Mrs. Streeter. "That building stood from 1914 until just recently when it was razed for a new bank at Prescott."

Send the MSU 'Pie Brats' Back Home to Mamas

Last week's pie-throwing incident at Michigan State University was appalling and the self-appointed chefs who "pied" 25 professors over the past year and a half at MSU should be ferreted out and kicked out of that tax-supported institution.

Campus police, it has been reported, have enough information to prosecute these miscreants—but nothing is being done. One headline in a Michigan daily newspaper blared: "Pranksters pelted profs with pies," but a better term would be "idiots." Send the brats home to their mamas—they are not adults and we are wasting our tax dollars on them.

Contracts Not 'Sacred' When Economy Falters

As a result of the country's current economic nosedive, labor leaders expect that reopening of the UAW's wage contract with the ailing Chrysler Corporation will have a domino effect—contracts with other auto makers, particularly Ford Motor Company, are not so binding that they cannot be reopened in an emergency.

Adjusting wages to fit the economic slump is not all that bad, if something can only be done about the inflation rate. The action comes on the heels of an announcement that Japan is now the world's leading manufacturer of automobiles. That headline last week came as a blow to the prestige of the United States and it sent a black cloud sailing across the bleak employment picture in Michigan.

It was not so many years ago when Japan was not considered a threat in the automobile market and some will recall when the infant Japanese automobile industry was given a shot in the arm by this government. That came 30 years ago when the United States wisely decided to send its ships to a number of Pacific islands where military vehicles were stockpiled following World War II. Several thousand rusting trucks were shipped to Japan for restoration during the Korean War. That move saved millions of tax dollars, but it also established a new competitor hungry for increased business.

The real problem facing this country is to turn the tide against inflation and it cannot be done by granting annual salary hikes to governmental employees, mandating new governmental services or permitting financial institutions to charge exorbitant interest rates in lending. In its wisdom, the government took the lid off interest rates as a means of curbing spending, but many businesses are or will fold because of the high interest rate (now over 21 percent) and it has ruined the housing industry.

If business does not make a profit, it will fail and the private sector generates the only tax which keeps government and schools operating. Government employees may pay an income and property tax, but they do not actually generate a tax.

Rather than for government to grant automatic pay increases during this hectic economic period, some thought must be given to following the lead currently being considered by private industry. Without mutual action by government at all levels, the tide against business failures and the rate of inflation will not be stemmed.

Assessment Roll Changes May Cause Trouble

It seems strange that officials at the local level cannot understand plain English. County Treas. Edward Nelkie went to a great deal of trouble sending a letter to township and city officials explaining Act 142 concerning the December meeting of boards of review.

That explanation by Nelkie clearly stated that changes in assessment roll figures could only be made when there has been a clerical error or "a mutual mistake of fact relative to the correct assessment figures."

Judging from information received from several units, boards of review made some "wholesale" changes at the December meeting of boards of review and did not follow the wording of the law.

It will be interesting to see what happens next spring when treasurers of local units attempt to settle books with the county treasurer.

McGuire Takes Governor to Task

LANSING—"Unfair and unfounded" was the quick retort by A. Barry McGuire, executive director of Michigan Association of Counties, to Gov. William Milliken's charge that local governments are extravagant spenders.

A native of Tawas City, McGuire said, "What the governor failed to point out is that usually the heaviest portion of the local tax burden is imposed by the citizens themselves in millage increase elections.

"And," McGuire added, "it should be remembered that the constitution fixes the limit for levying property taxes at 15 mills. Counties, school districts and townships split the 15 mills between them. If that was the bottom line, local property taxes would hardly be an issue.

"Without seeing the governor's property tax bill, which appears to be less burdensome than the average homeowner's, I would guess that two-thirds of the property taxes assessed against his $164,000 home were imposed by locally-adopted millage referendums.

"Why didn't the governor have the fairness to explain that before he tarred grass roots governments with the stick of extravagant spending," McGuire asked.

"The governor's position is equally unfounded," McGuire continued, "because the tax rate by and large is fixed not by local government, but by the state's tax commission—a body personally appointed by the governor.

"If locally arrived at valuations are less than the SEV arbitrarily fixed by the state tax commission," MAC's executive insisted, "factors must be imposed to bring them in line with the state-fixed figures.

"The meat-axe decisions by the state tax commission are the most contentious issues involved annually in levying local taxes. County commissioners year after year take issue with the state tax commission on the equalized valuations, insisting they are too high. But, year after year, they lose.

"We ask the governor to 'circumspice'—look around him—if he really wants to watch extravagant spenders in action," MAC's executive officer concluded.

See Federal Revenue Sharing Renewal Bill Likely to be Signed

WASHINGTON — President Carter is expected momentarily to sign into law the new federal general revenue sharing bill, which makes 4.56-billion dollars available to local units of government, including Michigan's 83 counties, in all 50 states. It was adopted by congress after three hectic weeks of congressional debate and maneuvering spawned by introduction of numerous amendments and differences in the bills which have been adopted earlier by the senate and house.

The bill is retroactively effective starting October 1 for the fiscal years of 1981-82 and 1983. Entitlements for the life of the new law are almost identical with the 1976 bill and the funding money is already approved by congress.

Federal revenue sharing, adopted a number of years ago as a means of returning federal income tax payments to local communities, is important to financing operation of county, township and city governments.

dealership from his brother, James H. Leslie.
By then, the Model T Ford had long been a thing of the past, having been succeeded by the popular Model A, which was in production from late 1927 until 1931. The eight-cylinder Model B made its appearance in 1932 and, one year later, a new Ford V-8 made its appearance in the Leslie showroom.
In 1937, at the height of the depression, the Leslies moved into their new 60 by 120-foot salesroom and garage overlooking Tawas Bay. The building was constructed at a cost of more than $30,000 and the front featured a facade of 22 plate glass windows in the form of a 30-foot tower, designed after the famous Ford Rotunda building at Dearborn.

During the 29 years the Leslies were in business here, several thousand Ford Motor Company automobiles and trucks were sold to residents of Iosco and neighboring counties. But, of all the cars he had sold and worked on, the 1901 Oldsmobile given to him by the Tawas City physician held a special nostalgic niche in his long career with automobiles and he always regretted that the car had been scrapped in 1929.
Leslie died January 16, 1961, and the business was sold to William Inglis, present owner, in 1962.
