Tawas Area HS Announces Honor Graduates for 1980

Sally N. Kasischke has been named valedictorian and Keith H. McCready, salutatorian, of the class of 1980 at Tawas Area High School, according to an announcement last week by John Alexander, principal.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kasischke of Tawas Township, Sally has a grade point average of 3.91. Keith, the son of Probate Judge and Mrs. William H. McCready of Tawas City, has a grade point average of 3.89.

Sally has had an active career in high school. She has been a member of the Tawas Area Chapter of the National Honor Society since her sophomore year, a member of the student council during those years, serving both as corresponding and recording secretary. She is a National Merit Scholarship semifinalist.

In addition, she has been a member of the school's symphonic band for four years, serving as student representative in her junior year and vice president in her senior year. She was selected as the school's representative in competition for the good citizen award sponsored by Daughters of the American Revolution.

Her special interests include tennis, snow skiing and golf, stating that her "talent decreases in that order." She also plays the piano as a "favorite time consumer."

She plans to attend Michigan State University and major in business. She is undecided at this point as to which field, but will decide in the process of experimentation.

Also a National Merit Scholarship semifinalist, Keith qualified for the second part of the Michigan Mathematics Prize Competition tests during the past three terms and was a writing finalist in competition sponsored by the National Council of Teachers of English.

He has served as National Honor Society vice president, won second place in the Voice of Democracy speech writing contest during his junior year, attended Farm Bureau's young peoples' citizenship seminar at Albion in his junior year.

He has had substantial roles in two plays, "Up the Down Staircase" and "Winnie the Pooh" and is currently a member of the cast of "Our Town," to be presented this year. He has been a member of the high school's concert and marching bands, won first place in original oratory and first place in extemporaneous speaking in forensics competition and a member of the school's debate team as a sophomore.

Keith is a member of his church's youth group and says he is "addicted" to skiing and tennis.

He has been offered an appointment to the United States Military Academy at West Point and is currently competing for an appointment to the United States Air Force Academy. He has been accepted by both Michigan State University and Northern Michigan University and, depending on his decision concerning military academy appointments, may pursue an education in science.

Tawas City's Branch Library Must Move, but Site Undecided

The Tawas City branch of Iosco-Arenac Regional Library will be moving to a new location this spring. The library has shared quarters with two fire trucks in a converted garage-restaurant building since 1977, but the building has been rented by the owner to another party.

Robert N. Rollin, former councilman, notified the city last week that he plans to rent his building to another party effective April 1.

The other party needs only the garage portion for an auto body repair operation, which will require a special use permit from the zoning board of appeals. The new occupant is willing to rent the city the library space for $162.50 per month. The city now pays $112.50 for the library portion.

City Mgr. Lowell Thomas said Monday night that he had some concerns about keeping the library next to a body shop due to the possible infiltration of paint and odors into the books. Use of the building for automotive repair depends on the granting of a variance by the zoning board of appeals. Only recently, a request for a variance to permit an auto-related business to be located in that zone was denied.

The library was moved to its present location when the former Buch building on Lake Street was sold and the new owner asked the city to vacate those premises. Since then, some people have had second thoughts about the new location because it is not within walking distance of the major residential area of the city.

The city spent approximately $3,600 in converting the building into quarters for the library and two fire trucks. The owner spent $1,500 repairing the roof of the building. The building was listed for sale when rented and the city did not obtain a lease, but rented it for an indefinite period, according to council minutes.

Coun. Hugo Keiser, Donald Hayes and James Lansky were of the opinion that Rollin, who was a member of the council when the city rented the building, had given assurances that the city could rent the building for as long a period as it desired. All were of the opinion that the city had acted in good faith in the matter and looked on the new rental fee as a monthly increase of $100. They also felt that an informal agreement reached around the council table was binding, inasmuch as Rollin was a member of the council at the time.

Rollin pointed out that his building was meant to be only a temporary location for the library and fire trucks, inasmuch as the building had not been leased. He also pointed out that the building was still for sale, that a tenant moving into a building makes any necessary changes and that rent paid by the city was too low.

He also indicated that his feelings concerning the building had been hurt by statements made during referendums held on the proposed city hall-library-fire hall complex. He felt he was under no further obligation to the city and wished the use of his building returned.

Members of the council were of the opinion that location of the library next to a proposed body shop would not be ideal.

Rollin assured the council that any improvements made by the city could be removed and transferred to any new location and the city could return the building to the same condition which it was found when first rented.

He also stated that he would give additional time beyond April 1 to the city to find new quarters. "I don't want to be hard-nosed about this as the city needs a library," he stated.

Possible use of the Adamek house next to the city hall as a temporary location for the library is being considered. The city manager said this would not be the best solution as it is not suited for library purposes and the city plans to remove the old house at some future time. He said, however, that the library could be moved there without any great expenditure of money for remodeling and use it until more suitable quarters are found.

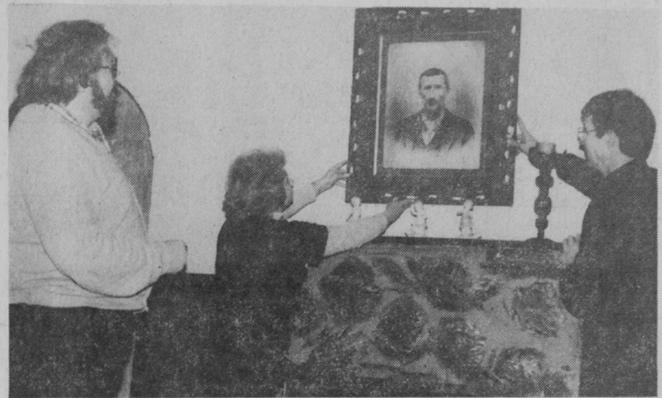

At its last meeting, the council discussed the possibility of constructing a new steel building for library-fire hall purposes, possibly at the corner of Fourth Avenue and Mathews Street if that property is available and it is deemed a suitable site.

Thomas said he would work with the Iosco-Arenac Regional Library board of directors in the selection of any temporary site for the library.

Temporary storage for two fire trucks can be made without any great difficulty in the city garage on Fourth Street.

Two Youngsters Found Saddles in Culvert

Two Tawas Township youngsters found two riding saddles hidden in a culvert Saturday. Iosco County Sheriff's Department inquired at several homes in the area and discovered that the saddles, valued at nearly $500, belonged to Thalin Deibler. The saddles had been stolen from a barn and were returned to the owner.

Important Hearings Being Held on New Appraisals

"We have found some errors and anyone with questions concerning their tentative assessments should attend these public hearings at township halls in each unit."

Speaking Tuesday was John Rose, county equalization director, who said that public hearings on real property appraisals which started last week would be continuing into March.

mate complaints registered at the hearings had pointed out errors in property measurement, misclassification of property, errors in the percentage completed on new construction—anything attributing to property valuation.

"We know we will have some errors and it would be of help to have property owners attend the hearings," said Rose.

As is the usual case in a complete reappraisal of property, valuations have shown both increases and decreases.

Property owners still have another opportunity to question or protest property assessments at meetings of boards of review in every unit during early March. Formal notification of meetings to be held by many of those units may be found on page 5, section 2 of this newspaper.

Iosco Applies for Funds to Finance Felony Team

Authorization was given Wednesday by the Iosco County Board of Commissioners to make a preapplication for $46,500 to finance establishment of a felony apprehension team requested by the county sheriff's department.

Undersheriff Michael Welsh told commissioners that the county's share of the one year program would be $2,451. He said that the Law Enforcement Administration provides additional funding should local financing not be available after one year.

The program would hire two officers to act as a felony apprehension team. The undersheriff said that federal funds may not be available this year, but believed that application should be made to acquaint the county with necessary steps to be taken.

In other business, seven persons were appointed to the new Iosco County Department of Public Works. Appointed to three-year terms were Boynton St. James of Tawas City, Carlton Merschel of East Tawas and Henry Conley of Oscoda; David George of Oscoda and Raymond Andrus of AuSable Township were appointed to two-year terms; Richter Lixey and Harry Krueger were named to one year terms.

The DPW is to hold its reor-ganizational meeting Thursday morning. Membership in the former DPW was dissolved according to a new act of the legislature.

Because of a limitation in the state budget for the current year, AuSable Valley Community Mental Health Services notified the commission that it had been unable to secure funding for any new programs requested from the department of mental health. As a result, local matching requirements from Iosco County will be $24,697 rather than $26,697 which the commission had approved previously.

The program would hire two officers to act as a felony apprehension team. The undersheriff said that federal funds may not be available this year, but believed that application should be made to acquaint the county with necessary steps to be taken.

Bid documents on construction of the 44-unit senior citizen high rise building at East Tawas are scheduled to be opened Wednesday by the East Tawas Housing Commission.

A $1,700,000 bond issue pledging full faith and credit of the City of East Tawas, recently approved by voters, is to be retired over a period of 30 years through guaranteed funds from the Department of Housing and

Vincent Wade's term as the county's at-large delegate to Trio Council on Aging was extended to December 31 and it was recommended that he be reappointed to the regional board of directors for the Area Agency on Aging.

On advice of Ronald Tyler, commission attorney, bills submitted by St. Mary's Hospital for treatment of Gerald Putnam were rejected. A state prisoner from this county, the hospital had submitted a bill for $3,470.75 for treatment of Putnam, along with bills from Saginaw physicians totaling $1,113.

Open Bids Today on New High Rise

Urban Development. Competition for construction of the complex is expected to draw a large number of bidders and, due to the current status of the construction industry, the actual cost may be lower than previously anticipated.

The five-floor apartment building will be almost identical to Bay Park Tower which was opened in 1975. The new complex would be located directly north of the present structure.

Six Arrested in Wilber Burglary

Six Bay City area residents were arrested Sunday—one after a five-mile chase through the Tuttle Marsh by Iosco County Sheriff's deputies—following a breaking and entering of a cabin in Wilber Township.

The incident began when a citizen reported that several persons riding in a car might be attempting to steal car parts on Galion Road. A dead-end road, the citizen saw the car travel by with two occupants, then return with six persons in the car.

Officers arrived at the gate leading to a cabin owned by Charles Klinger in Section 33 of Wilber Township. The officers were unable to enter the property because of the gate and walked to the cabin.

Officers found that a vehicle had been used to knock a hole in the wall of the cabin and that a door had been kicked open. Three of the subjects were working on a dead battery in the car and all were placed under arrest.

One male subject fled the scene and was pursued for five miles through the Tuttle Marsh by deputies on foot with a tracking dog and air search. The subject found his way to US-23 near Heddy's Party Store and his tracks were followed to the Lakeside Bar, where he was arrested.

According to officers, several of the subjects became hostile when arrested and mace was used on one suspect.

Warrants for breaking and entering were sought from the Iosco County prosecuting attorney's office.

Thomas leaves Friday for Washington, D. C., where he will be serving from February 25 to March 7 at the Pentagon. He served six years of active duty in the intelligence branch of the air force starting in 1961 and has been a member of the active reserve for the past five years.

Rachel Sue McCready, city clerk, will be wearing one of Thomas' "hats" during his absence. She was appointed by the city council Monday night as acting zoning administrator.

Plainfield Ordinance Establishes Pension Plan

An ordinance creating a pension plan for officers and employees of Plainfield Township is published this week on another page of this newspaper.

The ordinance, which becomes effective immediately, authorizes the township supervisor and clerk to contract, in the name of the township, for such a plan.

All members of the township board have been deemed eligible for the pension plan under the ordinance. The township would contribute from the general fund 75 percent of the premium charge for each pension.

Each employee over the age of 18 years and not more than 75 years of age could be eligible on the effective date of the pension plan. Any subsequent employee would be eligible on the first policy anniversary of the pension plan during which he is employed by the township.

THE WHITTEMORE STREET BRIDGE has deteriorated rapidly in recent years, as evidenced by crumbling concrete on the southwest abutment shown in this picture. The span is only one lane wide and it has been deemed unsafe for any traffic other than passenger cars.—Tawas Herald Photo.

ACCESS across the Tawas River connecting the residential area with US-23 has long been of prime concern in Tawas City. In 1972, the city council considered a major bridge construction program costing an estimated $115,000, with spans to be located at Mathews, First and Whittemore Streets, along with a new bridge over Dead Creek at Sixth Avenue. After much discussion, the council finally authorized construction of two bridges at a cost of approximately $60,000 at Mathews and First Streets. Both spans are of wooden construction and were completed in 1973. The Mathews Street bridge is shown above. It is believed that one bridge constructed today will cost more than the price of four bridges eight years ago, but the city expects to receive federal-state funding for 90 percent of the cost.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Council Accepts Federal - State Cost Sharing Offer for Two Bridges

On recommendation of its night to accept 90 percent federal-state funding to replace two old bridges over the Tawas River and Dead Creek. Only minor objections were voiced at the special meeting

THIS CONCRETE ARCH BRIDGE spanning Dead Creek was constructed in 1912 and its abutments have deteriorated. Emergency repairs were made to the structure last year, but the south wall continues to settle and causes a dip in the approach on Sixth Avenue.—Tawas Herald Photo.

and a random sampling survey conducted by individual councilmen indicated that replacement of the two bridges was desired by citizens.

When the bridge replacement program was discussed by the council two weeks ago, a number of councilmen had second thoughts as to the proposals. Members agreed with Mayor David Westcott that an informal poll should be taken and that further discussion should be held with the planning commission before final action was taken.

The program includes replacement of the Whittemore bridge over the Tawas River and the Sixth Avenue bridge over Dead Creek. Both bridges have one-lane spans and were constructed about 70 years ago. The Whittemore Street bridge has deteriorated to a point where retaining walls are crumbling. The same is true for the Sixth Avenue bridge and emergency repairs were made to that structure a year ago to support the south wall. Both spans are restricted to passenger vehicles only and the Whittemore Street bridge was knocked out of commission for several months a year ago when a car went through one guard railing.

Preliminary estimates for replacing both structures with wooden bridges, similar to spans at Mathews and First Streets, are $223,000 for Whittemore Street and $146,300 for Sixth Avenue.

Councilmen felt that there was no question that the Sixth Avenue bridge should be replaced, but several questioned the feasibility of replacing the Whittemore Street bridge, which has had low traffic counts in recent surveys. At one time, the planning commission recommended that the Whittemore Street bridge be used for foot traffic only and the stub end of the street leading to Lake Street be converted into parking.

The planning commission during the past year changed its mind about this and recommended that the bridge be maintained for vehicular traffic.

A poll of planning commission members indicated Thursday night that all but one member present favored replacement of the bridge. The lone dissenting vote came from Duane Walters, who felt that parking would be removed from US-23 at some future date and that additional parking slots were needed. He said, too, that he hoped to see the city make the best use of its tax money.

Other planning commission members felt otherwise and believed that the city would never again have the opportunity to replace the two structures with 90 percent participation by state and federal governments.

This was the same attitude expressed by all but one member of the council. Coun. Hugo Keiser pointed out that the city planning consultant had recommended in 1965 that the Whittemore Street span be converted for pedestrian use only, with a new bridge constructed on North Street. He said that studies made by planning consultants as late as a month ago had made the same recommendation. He felt, however, that if the council decided to go ahead with replacement of this bridge, provisions should be made to turn it into a covered bridge at some future time to provide a tourist attraction in the heart of the city.

Coun. Donald Hayes and Robert Pawloski, who had expressed some reservations about replacing the span, said that they had each conducted telephone surveys and found that local citizens gave their overwhelming support to replace both bridges. Hayes said, too, that the Tawas City Business Association had discussed the proposal last Thursday noon and a 20-2 roll call supported replacement.

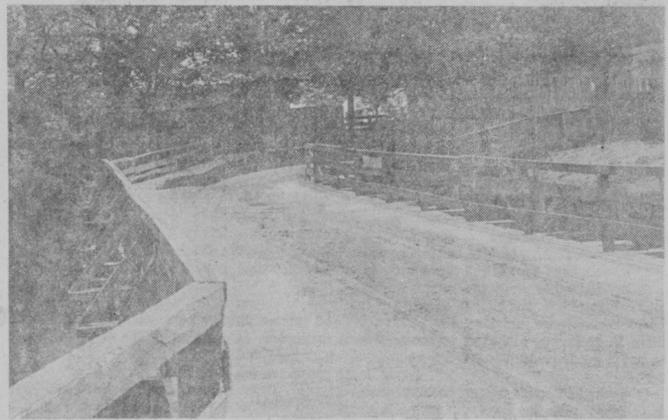

James Lansky, Florence Upson and John Martin, all members of the council, said their informal polls also showed support in replacing the Whittemore Street bridge. Mayor Westcott said his poll had the same result.

Martha MacLeod, a member of the planning commission, summarized the thinking of all when she said that access is important to the residential areas on the north side of the river "and we should keep any access routes that we have."

The lone opposition to replacing the Sixth Avenue bridge over Dead Creek was voiced by former mayor, Herbert Cholger, who felt that any new span should be located on Tenth Avenue to serve the new industrial park.

City Mgr. Lowell Thomas pointed out that the federal-state funds could only be used to replace the Sixth Avenue bridge. He also stated that Tenth Avenue had never been opened as a street and that the cost of construction of a new street would be expensive.

Mayor Westcott said that construction costs were increasing at a rate of 14 percent a year and any delay in bridge replacement would result in a higher cost. Council action authorized the city manager to proceed with applications for the federal-state money.

THIS OLD wooden bridge on Whittemore Street was replaced by a concrete and steel span in 1914, but the city council has voted to replace the second span with another wooden bridge, which will be quite similar in appearance to the original structure. The major difference is that modern engineering and treated wood insures a stronger span and plank decking is set on edge with a covering of asphalt.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Drug Awareness Necessary For Treatment of Heart Disease

Modern medicine has made considerable progress in treating heart disease—the nation's number one killer. But this progress is not without price. Part of that price is the care that must be taken in prescribing drugs.

For example, digitalis, which is commonly prescribed for congestive heart failure, slows the rate at which the heart beats while helping it beat more forcefully. Even a minor variation in dosage of digitalis can cause serious, and possibly fatal, cardiac problems.

This risk is increased if the patient also must take other medications, such as a diuretic. Diuretics also are important in controlling heart disease, they are needed to reduce the fluids in the body and lessen strain on the heart.

Drug Combinations
When two or more drugs combine within the body, however, there can be surprising results. Some are minor, but others can mean the difference between successful and unsuccessful treatment. Therefore, it is critical that the prescribed drugs produce a predictable response.

The only way physicians can be sure of this is through long experience with the drugs. Doctors have been successfully and safely prescribing the diuretic Lasix®, the original brand of furosemide, for more than 12 years. And in more than half of the instances when Lasix is prescribed, it is for patients who must also take digitalis for congestive heart failure.

Dr. Norman M. Kaplan, "No physician wants to take a chance with unproven medications, particularly in combination with digitalis."

Consumer Precautions
As a patient there are certain precautions you can take to protect yourself from adverse drug interactions:

1. Tell your doctor the other drugs you are taking, including over-the-counter medicines, whenever a new medication is prescribed.

2. When you receive a prescription, don't leave the doctor's office until you know exactly how the drug should be taken.

3. Once you get the prescription filled, it is important that you take it exactly as directed. Follow your doctor's instructions carefully. It's a personal regimen that takes into consideration your age, sex, physical condition, illness and the other medications you are taking.

4. Ask your physician if, in his medical judgement, your prescription should be filled with the precise brand name product that he has specified on the prescription.

5. Know your state laws on drug substitution. At this time, in 45 states, pharmacists may substitute generic drugs for equivalent brand name products. Although it is still the doctor's prerogative to ensure that the prescription be filled with a brand name if he feels it is medically necessary, many doctors are unaware of the changing specifics required by their state law regarding substitution.

6. Choose your pharmacist well—one who is not too busy to serve you, maintains prescription records for you and offers drug consultations. Ask the pharmacist whether you are receiving the brand name drug your doctor prescribed or a substitute.

Tree Ordinance Tabled; City Files for Bridge Funds

An urban forest policy proposed by Thomas Jacques, city forester, was adopted by the Tawas City Council Monday night but action on adoption of a new "tree ordinance" was delayed for further consideration.

A three-phase program designed to update the city's forestry program, a forestry master plan and ordinance was developed by Jacques in January and first considered by the park board.

City Mgr. Lowell Thomas said Monday night that the council may wish to take additional time on consideration of the ordinance.

That view was held by members of the council, who felt although certain provisions of Jacques' proposal were desired, the document may be too comprehensive.

It was generally agreed that the city needs an ordinance to control the location and types of trees planted by private parties on city property, with particular respect to trees planted over sewer mains, but the opinion was expressed that other provisions of the sample ordinance may not be enforceable.

Coun. Joseph Martin and James Lansky are to work with the city manager and Jacques in revising the sample ordinance in order to develop a city policy regarding city forestry which would have provisions that could be enforced in court.

In other business, the council adopted a formal resolution accepting the state's offer of funding to assist the city in replacement of two bridges. The city also appointed Edmonds Engineering Company to prepare documents for the application and Brimhall Bridge Company to prepare the actual design of the wooden spans.

City Manager Thomas said that it would require from five to seven months to get approval of the bridge design and permits, that design documents and specifications would be available to any potential bidder from the state. He said that, pending state approval, construction probably would be accomplished in the fall.

During discussion, a representative of the Brimhall Bridge Company said that the basic bridge would be adequate to support a covered structure should that be desired at any future point in time.

The council gave its authorization to finance the project through pledging future major street money received from the state toward retirement of bridge bonds. The city manager felt this could be accomplished by pledging $14,500 of the $34,000 received annually over a period of six years. He said that major streets were in excellent condition and that the city would now turn its attention to local streets, which receive $18,000 from the state each year and a portion of the local tax millage. Up to 40 percent of the major street money can be transferred to local streets.

The opinion was expressed by some councilmen that a longer period should be taken to retire the bonds, inasmuch as the bridge has a life expectancy of over 60 years.

On recommendation of Councilman Martin, a "children at play" sign is to be installed near the skating rink on First Avenue.

Concern was expressed that too much time was being taken in the razing of a building owned by L. G. McKay on Lake Street. The city manager said that progress was being made each week and that if the building was not removed entirely in the spring, condemnation procedures could be started if necessary. He also stated that he was working on a sample code for the control of building demolition, which is to be considered for adoption later by the county building and inspection department. At the present time, the county issues permits for demolition but state law does not require a bond or time limit.

The council was notified that Dawn Donuts located at the corner of M-55 and US-23 had made application to the state liquor control commission for an SDM beer and wine take out license. No action is required by the council as this form of license is handled by the state.

On recommendation of Councilman Lansky, the city manager is to make recommendations concerning dredging of the river mouth. Annual and daily boat launching fees at the city's launching site on Ninth Avenue are to be reviewed by the park board.

Solicitation Ordinance Studied at East Tawas

An ordinance which could eventually lead to a more systematic regulation of solicitations and fund raising drives in the Tawas is to be considered at the March 3 meeting of the East Tawas Council.

No action was taken Monday night on the proposed ordinance developed by City Clerk Clyde Soper as it was felt that further discussion should be held on its provisions.

Soper had been working with Roger Jackson of the Tawas Chamber of Commerce and City Mgr. Lowell Thomas of Tawas City in development of the code. When completed, the code would also be presented for consideration of the Tawas City Council.

The ordinance was first suggested a number of years ago by the chamber of commerce. The chamber office would act as the "clearing house" for issuance of permits.

Under the proposal, persons soliciting funds would be required to first obtain a permit. Religious groups and other organizations would be encouraged to coordinate activities with the annual United Fund campaign, but no charge for a permit would be made to local groups. A permit would not be issued to organizations outside the county.

In other business, it was announced that bids for the sale of $165,000 in bonds to finance improvements to the city's water filtration system would be opened March 3.

The council approved a resolution seeking 50 percent funding by the Michigan Land Trust Fund to assist the city in purchasing the Evans property for city park expansion.

Added Protection

ROCK-KOTE Protects lower car body from stone chips.

Who Needs Rock-Kote?

Even if you have a super rustproofing job, external paint chips and breaks can lead to rusting from the outside. This damage can occur even if you travel only occasionally on unpaved roads. However, Rock-Kote is a virtual necessity for rural roads, campers and off-the-road vehicles. It helps avoid the high costs of repairing lower exterior body damage.

Rock-Kote. It looks like your car's finish, but it's much tougher than any paint.

Rock-Kote is a tough, resilient, heavy-duty coating especially formulated by Tuff-Kote Dinol. It provides positive protection against paint chipping and cracking on the lower painted surfaces of fenders, rocker panels and quarter panels. It is also ideal for the fronts of travel vehicles and other towed vehicles which are subject to flying gravel and damaging debris.

Car Protected with Clear Rock-Kote

Protected with Black Rock-Kote

There are two types of Rock-Kote available. Transparent and black are formulated to be applied over existing paint. Transparent is clear and non-yellowing and allows the existing color to shine through. Black is glossy and suggested for accenting.

Yam and Chicken Casserole Makes a Hearty One-Dish Meal

Creating mealtime variety is never a problem with fresh seasonal foods. And right now, golden yams from North Carolina are in the markets.

According to the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association, yams are not only a good buy, they're also nutritious. One medium-sized sweetpotato provides more than twice the vitamin A needed, is an excellent source of vitamin C, and has a good supply of iron, thiamine, and fiber. Choose yams with smooth, unscarred skins, firm texture and a clean, bright appearance.

Yam and Chicken Casserole is a hot and hearty one-dish meal. The yams, chicken and seasonings all bake together in a special orange-ginger sauce to make a surprisingly simple, yet unusually flavorful dish.

YAM AND CHICKEN CASSEROLE

|--|-------------------------------------|
| 4 medium-sized yams                      | 1 green pepper, cut into strips     |
| 1/4 cup flour                            | 1 cup fresh orange juice            |
| 1 teaspoon salt                          | 2 tablespoons dry sherry (optional) |
| Few grains pepper                        | 1 chicken bouillon cube             |
| 1 chicken (about 2 1/2 pounds) quartered | 1/2 teaspoon ginger                 |
| 2 tablespoons butter or margarine        |                                     |
| 1 medium-sized onion, sliced             |                                     |

Cook yams in covered saucepan in small amount boiling water 5 minutes. Drain. Pare when cool enough to handle. Cut yams in half lengthwise, set aside. Combine flour, salt and pepper. Coat chicken with flour mixture. Melt butter or margarine in oven-proof casserole. Brown chicken on all sides. Remove chicken from casserole. Add onion and green pepper to drippings in casserole. Sauté 5 minutes. Stir in orange juice, sherry, bouillon cube and ginger. Blend well. Arrange chicken and yams in casserole. Cover and bake in 350°F. oven about 1 hour. Makes 4 servings.

Forest Land Means Funds for Michigan

Local units of government in Michigan's Lower Peninsula received payments of $562,653 in 1979 resulting from activities occurring on Huron-Manistee National Forests' lands. These payments are a combination of 25 percent of the forests' receipts from timber sales, special use permits, recreation fees and mineral leases, plus added payments in lieu of taxes for counties under Public Law 94-565. These payments averaged 61 cents per acre for the 924,533 net acres of National Forest land in the Lower Peninsula. Total payments to all Michigan counties containing National Forest land amounted to $2,176,799.

Iosco County has 102,551 net forest acres to receive $30,118.76. Payment of $27,828 was received for 48,625 entitlement acres for a total of $57,946.76.

The Huron-Manistee National Forests are "working forests" with an annual budget of six-million dollars. They maintain 550 miles of roads, 75 miles of snowmobile trails, provide wildfire protection for one million acres and sell more than 70-million board feet of timber each year. More than $364,000 was spent on wildlife habitat management last year. An estimated 2,378,000 visitor days were spent on the forests in pursuit of camping, hiking, picnicking, hunting, fishing and a myriad of other outdoor recreational activities within the past year.

For more information about the Huron-Manistee National Forests contact the local district ranger in Baldwin, Cadillac, Manistee, White Cloud, East Tawas, Harrisville or Mio, or the Forest Supervisor, 421 South Mitchell Street, Cadillac, MI 49601.

Hearing Set at Cadillac on Forest Study

The consulting firm of Barton-Aschman Associates, Incorporated, will conduct a public meeting in Cadillac regarding the Tower Mountain area study, which they are presently conducting for the United States Forest Service in the Manistee National Forest. The meeting is scheduled for Tuesday evening, February 26, at the Cadillac Junior High School, starting at 7:30 o'clock.

Tower Mountain study will be the basis for a future decision on the most appropriate use for this tract of National Forest land. The study area is located near Mesick in Wexford County.

Four options are being considered. These range from a highly developed winter sports area (ski area) to an undeveloped area with emphasis on nonmotorized dispersed recreation. The assessment of the four alternatives will include an analysis of the area's potential for providing an alpine skiing opportunity. It will also consider the social, economic, cultural and environmental impacts of each alternative.

The purposes of the February 26 meeting are to examine the issues and concerns that have been identified by the public to date, to identify additional issues that should be included and to gauge the relative importance of each to the public. In addition, the four alternative management schemes for the area will be reviewed, and the consultants will present a general summary of data collected so far.

The meeting will be organized by dividing the participants into small working groups. This technique permits a free exchange of ideas among group members and will insure a meaningful review of all issues and alternatives. Everyone will have an opportunity to participate in the discussions.

LOOKING for a special book for a report, for travel information about a long-dreamed-of vacation, to satisfy your curiosity or just for pleasure? The disappointment of the library patron when he finds out that his local library does not own that certain book will soon be a thing of the past, thanks to the COM Catalog (computer-output-microfilm), key to the books available in the 49 public libraries and branches that are members of the White Pine Library Cooperative. The COM Catalog marks the beginning of a new era in sophisticated resource sharing. This high-volume, low-cost microfilm list is a work in progress. The first catalog will list over 700,000 books in the nine-county area. When it is completed, the whereabouts of over a million books will be available to the public. The COM Catalog started with a $24,000 grant from the Kellogg Foundation in 1976. By the end of 1978, 452,645 records of 46.6 percent of all books in the member libraries had been added and the COM Catalog is well on its way to completion in 1980. At the present time, two clerks who were hired to start the project in Bay County are now working in the Iosco-Arenac Regional Library. After all 49 libraries and branches have had their books inventoried and added to the microfilm, the COM Catalog will be updated every six months, with additions and deletions easily entered. Public librarians in Arenac, Bay, Huron, Iosco, Midland, Ogemaw, Saginaw, Sanilac and Tuscola Counties are attending workshops this month to learn about equipment maintenance and specialized computer filing rules. These pictures were snapped Wednesday at the Iosco-Arenac Regional Library headquarters at Alabaster where branch librarians, assistants and headquarters staff members became familiar with the equipment.—Tawas Herald Photos.

Baseball Memories

Baseball holds many memories for Lovell Syze, 72, of Hale. A serious leg injury once cut short his promising professional career, but there was a time when major league scouts were waving contracts before the eyes of a youngster who had his start on a sand lot next to the old Hale School building.

Still and avid baseball fan, Syze has a good laugh today when he recalls the amount of money which he received for signing a contract with the old New York Giants. Now $500 might not seem much today when one considers the million-dollar-plus contracts offered to some kids signed by professional teams, but $500 was "a whole lot of money" when Syze signed his first contract.

Born at Hale in 1907, his father, Albert, was the station master at Hale for the Detroit and Mackinac Railway. Like a good many American boys, before and since, Lovell had a passion for playing baseball and, when 16 years of age, was installed at shortstop on the local team's entry in the Northeastern Michigan Baseball League.

Two of his teammates on the Hale team in those days were Jack Johnson and Otto Rahl, both of whom are now deceased, and when Hale failed to field a team during the seasons of 1924, 1925 and 1926, Syze joined the two older men to play for the Tawas City Independents.

"My first game with Tawas came when the three of us were asked to join up to play against the old House of David team at the Tawas Beach Diamond," recalled Syze. The House of David always fielded an excellent nine and members would be right in style today with their long beards.

"My last game of baseball came with the same team—I was a member of the House of David team in 1941 and I even grew a fringe of hair on my chin—but that was 16 years after that first game and I had learned that my baseball days were over."

But getting back to his younger days at Hale, Lovell's father realized that the D&M intended to abandon its Rose City Division and he would be out of a job when that happened so the entire family moved to Flint. Lovell went to work with the Chevrolet Motor Division of General Motors and became a member of one of the company's teams in the Flint City League.

"My batting average was around .450 that summer and a New York Giant Scout by the name of Grant Scott was in town to watch some of the semi-professional players. There was no such thing as a bonus in those days and I was happy to sign on the dotted line for $500," he recalls.

A news item in the March 22, 1929, issue of The Tawas Herald records the start of the Hale LOVELL SYZE of Hale had a promising baseball career going when the picture he is holding was snapped in 1930. One of a number of trophies which he received for his batting prowess is shown in the foreground.

youngster's brief professional career:

"Friends of Lovell Syze will be pleased to hear that he has been engaged to play baseball with the Toronto team and is now training in Georgia. When Lovell is famous, his schoolmates will recall incidents in his first 'nine' on the old Hale School grounds."

Some teammates of Syze on the Toronto club, who were to become famous names in the American League, included Charlie Gehringer and Billy Rogell, who starred for years with the Detroit Tigers.

Syze moved to Hartford, Connecticut, in the Eastern League, then played two seasons for London in the Ontario League before returning to Toronto in the International League and was being watched closely now by the Tigers.

"I never hit below .300 in all my days and was batting at a .345 clip in 1932, with 22 home runs up to July 1. Then it happened and, without realizing it, I was all but washed up," recalls Syze.

The thing that "happened" was that Syze received a serious leg injury when an opposing player came sliding hard into third base with his spikes high. The slashed leg put him out of action for the rest of the season and he went to Mayo Brothers Clinic for an operation. He had been scheduled to be called up by the Tigers the next season.

"They patched me up and I reported for spring training the next season, but with Toronto. I was switched to the outfield as I could not bend over at third base. Despite the fact that my leg injury was getting worse, I still hit .325 for Toronto that season. But, I finally had to call it quits as the pain was just too much for me."

He returned to Flint and worked for the Fisher Body Division and, when called by the Selective Service Board in 1941, doctors at the physical examination center at Detroit told him that he had developed osteomyelitis in his leg.

"I finally found out why my leg was in such pain when I was still trying to play amateur baseball," said Syze.

He returned to his job with General Motors, then was employed for 19 years by the Palace Travel Coach Company.

In 1973, Syze retired and he and his wife returned to Hale, where they remodeled the old Syze home not far from the former railroad depot.

An avid hunter and fisherman, Syze is enjoying his retirement days on the inland lakes and the wooded area of his native township.

Sure, he has regrets about the injury which ended his professional baseball career, especially the bonuses and salaries paid to today's young players.

"But that is life," is the philosophy of today's senior citizen—it has been a long time since the youngster from Hale set out to play professional baseball and the Herald's correspondent penned those words: "When Lovell is famous, his schoolmates will recall incidents in his first 'nine' on the old Hale School grounds."

EDITORIAL

Tawas City Should Review Its Annexation Proposal

Several weeks ago, this corner expressed the hope that the Tawas City Council would review its petition which is currently pending before the state boundary commission concerning proposed annexation of properties in adjoining townships. It is hoped that the council will still give some consideration to the proposed review before the state takes action on the petition under the current law.

This recommendation was made because of the objections voiced by property owners in adjoining townships. This city should encourage neighboring township governments to take the lead in providing services to those townships. In the case of the Bay Drive area of Alabaster Township, those residents should be given the immediate opportunity to petition for annexation—if they do not choose to do so, services provided to the area by city taxpayers should be discontinued within a reasonable time.

This corner also felt at the time that an area of 200 or more acres proposed for annexation was far too encompassing at this point in time. Development of present unused property within the city which can be served by existing municipal water and sewer facilities would be far more practical. This city should also review the actual need for continuing to hold areas of undeveloped land for future park use, as well as to remedy blighted areas which could be developed for excellent residential purposes.

If it is felt there is a need for expanding the city's industrial park, then the city should negotiate purchase of additional property with funding over a period of years to make it feasible and not a burden on city taxpayers.

Financial resources for development are limited and this city has had many important projects on the "back burners" for many years. Completion of those projects—sewer system modernization, downtown and commercial development, bridges, river mouth and shoreline improvement—should be given first priority.

Registration Essential to Defense of the United States

Despite apprehension and concern voiced in recent weeks, there should be no delay in a national registration for Selective Service. It is difficult to comprehend why national registration was ever discontinued, but a serious trauma gripped this country following the Vietnam era. This nation must be prepared to defend itself against any aggressor and any future draft would be delayed for several months if registration is not accomplished and continued.

This is not to say that this corner favors a "draft" at this point in time. This country has gone through many periods of emergency in which it has appeared that we were at the brink of World War III—thankfully, cooler heads prevailed on both sides of the "Iron Curtain." But this country cannot continue the same posture it assumed after the Vietnam pullout.

The attitudes and actions of draft card burners at one of this state's universities recently was childish and deplorable—those young people certainly do not represent the general attitude of this country toward the present state of world affairs. The people of this country deplore war, but potential aggressors—principally the Soviets—should not be lulled into the idea that this country will not defend itself or its allies.

Today's instant communications by the public media often over emphasizes the true state and extent of world events. The Soviets may have miscalculated the response of the United States in regard to the current Russian Middle Eastern adventure and a lessening of current tensions is quite predictable.

In the meantime, this country should prepare itself for a continuance of the "Cold War" and future emergencies. Should there ever come a time when a draft is needed, there should be no student, occupational or family status deferments, although local draft boards should make the final decisions concerning limited exceptions. All should be treated equally, which was not the case during Vietnam.

Observe St. Valentine's Day

Drawn from names of members of Tawas Area Senior Citizens, Ida Lang of Tawas City became the first Member of the Month of the organization at the Wednesday, February 13, meeting. She has been a resident of Tawas City since 1944 and her hobbies are fishing and deer hunting with three deer and one red fox to her credit. A list of gifts presented to her included a gift subscription to The Tawas Herald, a box of candy, a fruit pack and lunch for two at Tawas Area Senior Citizens Drop-In Center.

During St. Valentine Day's activities, Margaret LoPrete was named queen of hearts and Herbert Steele, the king of hearts. Both were presented with a box of candy. March member of the month will be picked at the March 12 meeting along with St. Patrick and Maid of Erin.

Brighten Recipes With Cherries

Some imagination and Michigan's maraschino cherries can brighten up even the duller recipes. Keep a jar in the refrigerator. They will add a touch of elegance to family menus when unexpected guests arrive.

States using imported Italian maraschino liqueur to provide the unique flavor. An imitation flavor was soon substituted, leaving behind only the name.

Good things growing in Michigan include maraschino cherries. Most of Michigan's sweet cherry crop is used for maraschino cherries and canning. Michigan's sweet cherry production was 49-million pounds in 1979 to rank fourth in the nation, according to the Michigan Department of Agriculture. Napoleon cherries are the state's leading variety for processing into maraschinos. Michigan's tart cherry crop, with an estimated 100-million pounds harvested last year, led all cherry producing states.

For a quick taste treat, add two ounces of chopped maraschino cherries to a fudge brownie mix and bake as usual. Or add a pint of sliced maraschinos to a package of nut bread or corn muffin mix for an elegant accompaniment to a fruit salad luncheon or chicken dinner.

Vegetables, such as carrots, yams, corn or peas, are given added zest and color when combined with chopped maraschino cherries. Make Bavarian green beans by combining one-quarter cup sweet and sour sauce with one-quarter cup bacon bits and one-half cup chopped cherries. Toss lightly with one pint cooked green beans.

For eye-openers, add one and one-half cups chopped maraschino cherries to a pound of whipped butter to serve with hot pancakes, waffles or French toast.

Senior Citizen Going to Washington

A senior citizen from Northern Michigan will have the opportunity to learn firsthand how the federal government and the congress operate on a daily basis. Cong. Robert Davis is asking every senior citizen center in his district to nominate one person to serve as a senior intern on his staff from May 5-16. One of the nominees will then be selected at random to participate in the "Claude Pepper Senior Citizen Congressional Intern" program.

"I have asked every center to submit one name and we will just have to draw one name out of a hat." Davis suggested the senior centers select an individual who is actively involved in senior projects and activities in the community. He also asked that the nominees be in good health, since a busy schedule is planned and the seniors will be required to do a lot of walking while in Washington. The only other requirements, Davis said, were that the individual has to be a resident of the 11th District and over 60 years of age.

The intern program, first begun in 1973, has brought more than 500 senior citizens to Washington from all parts of the country. More than 170 house and senate offices are participating in this year's program. The Washington intern's time is divided between two basic activities: Working in Davis' congressional office and attending a series of briefings and meetings with representatives of organizations and agencies of special interest to the elderly. Davis said the intern will be provided with round-trip air fare from his/her home to Washington, as well as hotel accommodations. Most of the interns stay at the same hotel. Davis said he will also provide a stipend to cover the cost of meals and local transportation in and around Washington. All interested seniors should contact their nearest senior citizen center.

AuGres Receives Pollution Grant

State Rep. Tom Alley, West Branch, and State Sen. Robert D. Young, Saginaw, have announced state approval of a $2,100 water pollution control grant for the City of AuGres. The funds are for a water pollution control project which consists of facilities planning for a state approved geographical plan that includes the City of AuGres, Whitney Township, Sims Township and AuGres Township. According to Alley and Young, the project will involve state, federal and local money. They reported that the federal Environmental Protection Agency has already approved a grant of $31,500. The federal and state grants will cover 80 percent of the total estimated cost of the project, which is $42,000.

State participation in the project was approved by the Department of Natural Resources Water Quality Division. Alley and Young represent the City of AuGres in the legislature. "We are very pleased by the state and federal approval of these grants," they said. "The project is important to both the communities involved and to the environment."

Army Reserve Readiness— What It's All About

A Reserve armor unit receives ammunition at a supply point prior to moving to the firing line during annual training.

The concept of a "Ready Reserve" force as part of the Nation's defense structure has been getting a lot of notice lately. However, many people still may not understand how the Reserve fits into overall defense strategy.

Actually, the status of the Reserve is not hard to grasp. After the Viet Nam conflict, the large standing Army was reduced with the defense obligations of many inactivated units taken up by the Reserve Components. The Reserve Components of the Army are the Army National Guard and Army Reserve. The maintenance of these Reserve units is much less costly than that of comparable full-time active units. And with monthly training, their readiness can be maintained at acceptable levels.

How does this affect the defense of the United States?

Should a full mobilization take place, there will be heavy dependence on the Reserve Components. The Reserves currently contribute more than half of the combat battalions in the total force structure...that is, more than 50 percent of the armor, artillery, infantry and combat engineers.

Army aviation assets, as well as special forces groups, combat support and medical units are also largely in the Reserve at present. In fact, more than 65 percent of the total tactical support in the Army is in the Reserve Components and as much as 66 percent of the tactical medical support must be provided by Reserve units.

New and varied training programs are being used to prepare these units to meet their mobilization roles, should the need ever arise. These vary from the Affiliation programs, where Reserve units are paired with Active units for training, to Overseas Deployment Training, wherein select Reserve Component units perform annual training outside the United States in areas where they could be expected to operate during a mobilization.

It has been estimated that, under the present makeup, the Army simply could not win a full scale conflict without the Reserve. With that thought in mind, it becomes obvious that the role of the Reserve is a key factor in our defense. Its readiness is absolutely necessary for the continued security of the country.

WORK is nearing completion on the new house being constructed in North Park Acres, Tawas City, by building trades classes of Tawas Area High School's vocational education program. The 30 boys enrolled in the building trades II class will be completing the finish carpentry work during the next two months. The three-bedroom house measures 70 by 28 feet with a 22 by 28-foot attached garage. During the photographer's visit to the house Friday, the class was learning how to apply textured paint to ceilings using a compressed air gun. Robert Reasner and Lucky Kosto, instructors, said that a contractor had applied textured paint in past houses constructed in the program and the school purchased its own equipment this year, adding a new dimension to the instruction. An open house is planned at the house in early May.—Tawas Herald Photo.
