Preliminary Census Report

Iosco County Shows Growth

Iosco County had a 9.8 percent increase in population during the past 10 years, according to preliminary figures received Thursday from the United States Census Bureau. In addition, there was a 27.8 percent increase in the number of housing units.

It was stressed by the census bureau, however, that preliminary counts are subject to change and a computer print-out tabulating unit-by-unit figures is to be reviewed by local officials to determine if they are satisfied that totals are accurate.

A meeting was held yesterday afternoon (Tuesday) at the county building, called by the county board of commissioners. The county has 10 days from the receipt of the preliminary count to determine if local units wish an official review.

In 1970, most local units were dissatisfied with final census total, believing that a fairly large percentage of residents were not counted. Both East Tawas and Tawas City conducted a review of the federal figures and gained a few in the head count, but not to the extent which officials believed was accurate.

Because of the disagreement with the 1970 count, population increases shown in 1980 may not reflect the true growth in the last 10 years, although this would be a moot point as the federal count is official. The census is important to each unit because of the fact that federal revenue sharing and state income tax is returned to each unit based on population—only one factor in the criteria for the established formula.

Some interesting facts are shown in the preliminary count. That Iosco County's population is tending to get older and with fewer children is shown by the fact that the average household's population numbered 2.71 persons in 1980, as compared to 3.22 in 1970.

The county's total population jumped from 24,905 in 1970 to 27,344 in 1980. There were 988 persons counted in group quarters (nursing homes and military barracks). The county has 17,811 housing units, as compared to 13,937 in 1970. The census showed that 8,090 units of the county were vacant, a vacancy rate of 45.4 percent as compared to 27.8 percent in 1970.

The largest population increase came in Plainfield Township where the April count showed 3,018 persons as compared to 2,036 10 years ago, a change in population of 48.2 percent. The average household numbered 2.45 persons, as compared to 2.84 in 1970. The unit had a 40 percent increase in housing units, 3,705 as compared to 2,646 in 1970.

Next in line came Grant Township with a 63.6 percent population change. In 1970, there were 607 persons counted in that township and 993 were counted in 1980. The average number of persons per household is 2.46, as compared to 2.84 in 1970. There are 1,353 housing units in the township today as compared to 1,181 in 1970.

Tawas City showed a gain of 292 persons—from 1,666 in 1970 to 1,958 in 1980—but after reviewing some of the figures, the 17.5 percent increase shown by the census may not be as large as indicated.

Included in Tawas City's count is 176 persons listed in group quarters. Provincial House Nursing Home has quarters for 120 persons and Iosco County Medical Care Facility has 62 beds. The medical care facility is located in Tawas Township, but tabulations for that township indicate that no persons were listed in group housing.

Tabulations indicate that 2.45 persons reside in each Tawas City housing unit, as compared to 2.81 in 1970.

The next largest gain came in Reno Township, which picked up 262 persons during the past 10 years. In 1970, the official census was 294 persons and, based on the preliminary count, the township now has 557 persons. There are 3.18 persons in each household, as compared to 3.06 10 years ago. This was the only unit in the county showing an increase in the number of persons living in each household.

Preliminary statistics for the remainder of the county are as follows:

Alabaster: Census count of 357 persons as compared to 280 in 1970, an increase of 27.5 percent. Each household numbered 2.40 persons, as compared to 2.43 10 years ago.

AuSable: Head count of 2,154 persons in 1980, as compared to 1,876 in 1970, an increase of 14.8 percent. Each household averaged 2.67 persons, as compared to 3.12 10 years ago.

Baldwin: Census of 1,226 persons, as compared to 953 in 1970, an increase of 28.6 percent. Each household today numbers 2.65 persons, as compared to 2.88 in 1970. This unit showed 14 persons in group quarters, but this figure is being questioned as there is no nursing home in the township.

Burleigh: Head count of 1,226 persons in 1980, as compared to 953 in 1970, an increase of 28.6 percent. Each household numbered 2.65 persons, as compared to 2.88 in 1970.

East Tawas: Head count of 2,495 persons in 1980, as compared to 2,372 in 1970, an increase of 5.2 percent. This unit's percentage of increase was lowest in the county and it is almost certain that the city will ask for a review. The average household there has 2.39 persons, as compared to 2.94 in 1970.

Wurtsmith Air Force Base (included in Oscoda Township's total): Head count of 5,089 in 1980, as compared to 6,932 in 1970.

Sherman: Head count of 456 persons in 1980, as compared to 422 in 1970, an increase of 8.1 percent. The average household numbered 3.14 persons, as compared to 3.58 in 1970.

Tawas Township: Census of 1,371 in 1980, as compared to 1,253 in 1970, an increase of 9.4 percent. The new total is expected to change as no persons were included for the medical care facility, as stated earlier. The average household in the township had 3.09 persons, as compared to 3.54 in 1970.

Wilber: Head count of 526 persons, as compared to 359 in 1970, an increase of 46.5 percent. The average household had 2.74 persons, as compared to 3.07 in 1970.

Two units of the county, Oscoda Township and Whittemore, showed decreased population. Although Oscoda Township had a 5.9 percent loss in 10 years, Wurtsmith Air Force Base dropped a whopping 26.6 percent, which indicates that the rest of the township had excellent growth. The average household in Oscoda Township numbered 2.91 persons, as compared to 3.55 in 1970.

Whittemore had a head count of 424 persons, as compared to 460 in 1970, a decrease of eight percent. There were 2.50 persons in each household, as compared to 2.99 in 1970.

East Tawas officials expressed disappointment at Monday night's council meeting over the preliminary census count announced last week which lists the city with a population of 2,495 persons, a 5.2 percent increase over 1970.

A letter written by City Clerk Clyde Soper and sent to the district census bureau office pointed out that the city's study indicated that the population should be approximately 2,900 persons.

Soper said the city has an active registered voter list of 1,898 persons, although this figure could include some people who spend their winters in other states. It is also believed that there may have been confusion as to actual city boundaries and some people may have been counted in the adjoining township.

In other business, the council approved removal of parking on Newman Street during the first week of August for the annual sidewalk sale.

The council adopted a fee schedule recommended by the building inspector for all construction activities in the city.

Mayor Robert Bolen submitted a letter of welcome to visiting sailors and crews during the Wayfarer World's IV Group regatta to be held on Tawas Bay July 20-25. It was the opinion of the council, however, that the

Fire Hall-Library Site Under Architect's Study

A fire hall-library financing proposal is to be placed before Tawas City voters in November, but methods of construction and site for the building is still undecided by the Tawas City Council.

Samuel Dorchen, Grand Rapids architect who designed two previous city hall complexes which were turned down here by voters, told councilmen Monday night that he would review the proposed sites and give recommendations concerning the feasibility of a prefabricated structure as opposed to on-site construction.

City Mgr. Lowell Thomas told the council that decisions on the site and method of construction must be made soon by the council as the exact amount to be financed must be determined by September in order to place the proposition before voters in November.

Since defeat of the second city hall proposal last November, the city manager has attempted to devise a compromise solution to meet the city's needs. He has recommended that a site at the corner of Fourth Avenue and Mathews Street, owned by the Detroit and Mackinac Railway, be considered. He also suggested utilizing a prefabricated building to house the fire hall and library.

Although stating that his choice of sites was still the Adamek property west of the city hall, Thomas said the alternate site was excellently located close to US-23 and the commercial area, as well as the residential area.

Dorchen, who designed the Whitney Township Fire Hall, Manitou Village and other local facilities, said he had checked with a supplier of prefabricated buildings and learned that the cost would be approximately $45 per square foot. He said that a building using regular on-site construction could be provided at that figure.

The city manager reported that he had checked with a local distributor of prefabricated steel buildings and found that the price ranged from $21 to $25 per square foot.

Dorchen said that certain specifications must be met to ensure that roofs of steel buildings can carry heavy snow loads during the winter and that some sophisticated plumbing is required for a fire hall.

He felt, however, that a suitable building could be provided either through prefabricated steel or conventional construction.

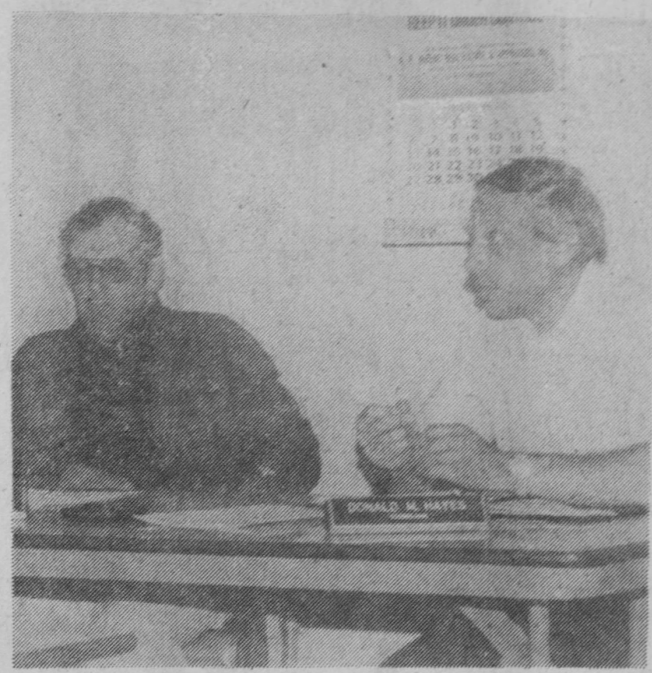

The city manager emphasized that the council must determine if it desires a basic building or something with a little more beauty than a prefabricated structure. He pointed out that changes were made in the new Tawas Masonic Temple, a prefabricated steel building, when residential neighbors requested that the structure be faced with brick.

Coun. Hugo Keiser said there still was a division of opinion in the community as to the site. He thought the architect should make a comparison of each site in order for the council to reach some decision.

The city manager is to check out a statement made at the meeting that the railroad may have some restrictions concerning clear vision on Fourth Avenue, should it sell the property to the city. Dorchen felt that the 4,800-square-foot building could be located on the site, which would also require purchase of the former Campbell Grocery property owned by William Borosch.

Thomas said it was obvious that the council must zero in on a site selection before development of plans by the architect. Although there is no federal requirement for site selection, the architect felt that Farmers Home Administration should review the site. The federal agency is holding up to $500,000 in FmHA funds in escrow in low interest financing for the project.

Dorchen has not been officially retained by the city as yet, but he said he would review the proposed sites and make a recommendation, as well as to gather information concerning roof load specifications for this part of Michigan.

Watershed Opponents Set July 18 Meeting

A taxpayers assembly will be held Friday, July 18, 8:00 p. m., at the Omer Community Building to update progress on the opposition to the AuGres River Watershed.

A group of concerned citizens and members of the executive committee met with the Arenac County commissioners June 21 to present all original petitions. Each commissioner was asked to verify the signatures of the signers in their districts. The people expressed strong opposition to the AuGres Watershed project and county liability continues to be a major concern of the taxpayers.

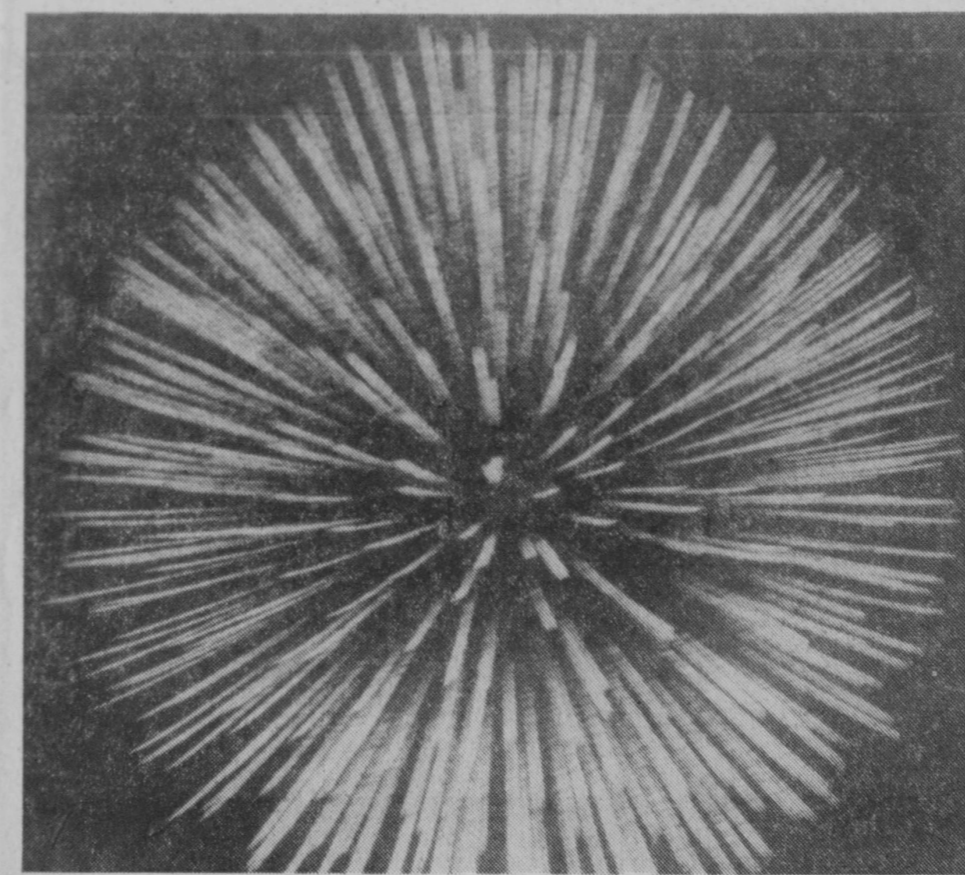

A second meeting of the commissioners was held June 24 at which members of the Soil Conservation Service, other government units and Allan Schmid, attorney for Citizens Against AuGres River Inter-county Drain, were present.

Further information on progress will be available at the July 18 meeting. Support is urgently needed.

Wayfarer Regatta on Tawas Bay

Tawas Bay Yacht Club and officials of Tawas Area Chamber of Commerce are coordinating efforts to entertain visiting sailors during the Wayfarer World's IV Group regatta to be held on Tawas Bay July 20-25.

Richard J. Soucha, administrator for Wayfarer, reports that 120 people are expected here for the week-long event.

WEATHER CONDITIONS were perfect over the Fourth of July week-end—just what the chamber of commerce ordered—and Iosco County was packed with what may have been a record crowd of visitors. The Tawas

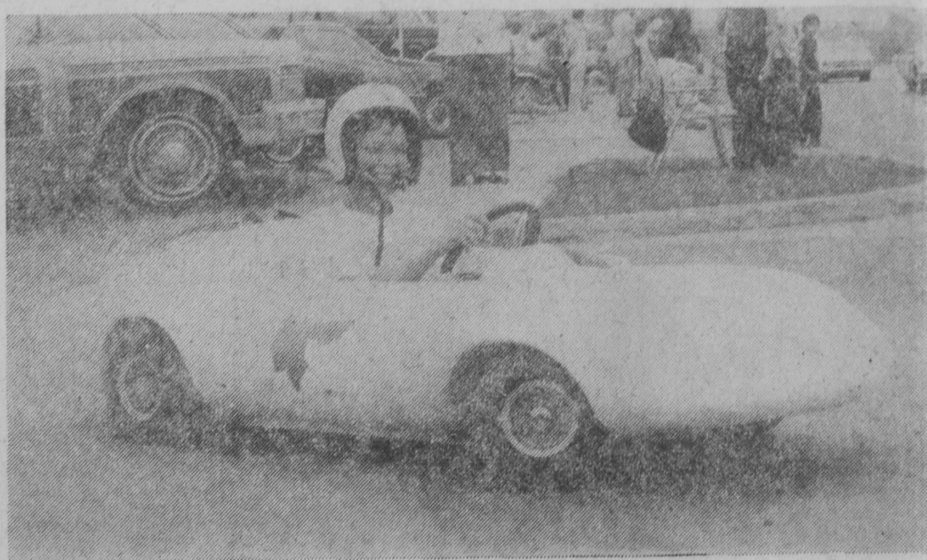

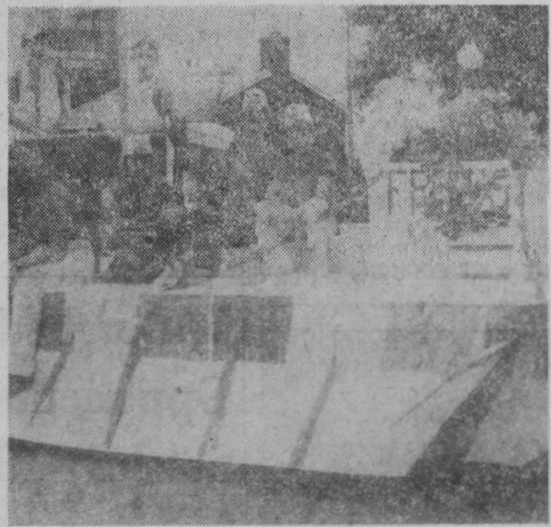

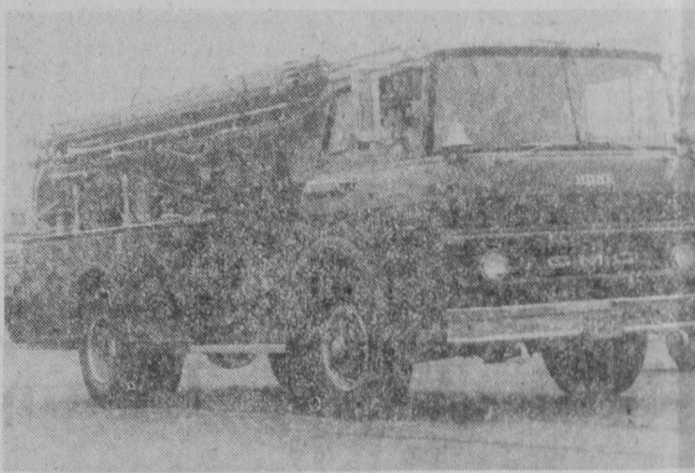

City Park was jammed with spectators—both on and off shore—for the annual fireworks display (below) and everyone enjoyed the spectacular show, including the one pictured above.—Tawas Herald Photos.

Parade Was a Success

THERE WAS fun for all during the annual Fourth of July parade Friday, sponsored by Tawas Area Chamber of Commerce. Officials said the parade was an outstanding success, made possible by the cooperation of area business places and organizations which entered floats. These pictures show some of the highlights. Turn to page 1, sec. 2, for more pictures. — Tawas Herald Photos.

THE FIRST rowboat race on Tawas Bay sponsored by Tawas Area Chamber of Commerce proved to be rather disappointing as only two contestants entered. One of the contestants was Robert Jones, who was chairman. Wilbur Runyan of Whittemore, who was the top fisherman during last winter's Perchville Festival, proved that he was no novice at rowing a boat. The 69-year-old Runyan rowed from the Michigan Waterways Commission Dock at East Tawas to the Tawas City Park and back to East Tawas in 47 minutes. Jones covered the four-mile course in 58 minutes. Spectators enjoyed the fun and it is expected that a little more effort will be made to encourage participation next year.

Dog Care and Training Helps 4-H'er Work With People Too

"I've learned not only how to train and care for dogs, but also how to teach others to do so. There is a sense of satisfaction in helping others and I'm glad to have been able to experience it." That's how 18-year-old Jané Ramsbottom of Belleville, Kan., described her experiences in the 4-H dog care and training program, supported by Purina Dog Foods Group, Ralston Purina Company. Always interested in obedience training, Ramsbottom established a program in her new community when she moved and found no such programs existed. Her new club has grown in membership, from three persons four years ago to over 30 today. Ramsbottom, who has handled Dobermans, English Springers, Fox Terriers and Salukis, and has entered her animals in local and state competitions, says her experiences have helped in interpersonal relationships as well. "I've not only learned how to work with dogs, but how to work well with 4-H'ers, extension agents and other adults," she said. The 4-H dog care and training program stresses responsibility and encourages youth to learn about the more than 125 different breeds of dogs in America. The program teaches youths to demonstrate sound dog care and management practices such as feeding, care, handling and grooming, as well as how to train the dog to obey and heed simple commands. One of the main objectives of the 4-H program is to encourage youths to develop leadership talents and work toward achieving good character and effective citizenship. 4-H'ers, nine to 19, who demonstrate these sound dog care and management skills like Ramsbottom, are eligible for awards donated by Ralston Purina Company and arranged by National 4-H Council, a nonprofit educational organization serving 4-H. Awards include county medals of honor and expense-paid trips to the 59th National 4-H Congress in Chicago, Nov. 30- Dec. 4. In addition, six outstanding youths will receive $1,000 scholarships. Winners are chosen by the Cooperative Extension Service in each state. Boys and girls can find out more about the program from the county extension offices.

East Tawas Council Checks Use of Former Landfill Site

Investigation is being made by the City of East Tawas to determine if its former landfill site south of Monument Road has been terminated by the United States Forest Service.

This action was taken Monday night by the city council on receipt of official notification from the Iosco County Board of Commissioners that it does not anticipate funding a county landfill when the present contract expires June 30, 1981.

The Cities of East Tawas and Tawas City had operated a joint landfill prior to the county's entering into a contract with Multi-County Landfill.

City Clerk Clyde Soper said the council directed him to investigate the possibility of renewing the former lease on the landfill site.

In its letter to all units of the county, the board of commissioners said that availability of federal revenue sharing was in question beyond 1980. It also stated that any federal revenue sharing funds which might be renewed would be required to fund state-mandated services.

The county board proposed that a joint meeting be held between the commission, local units and county planning commission as soon as possible to develop an action plan.

The matter was to have been discussed at Monday night's meeting of the Tawas City Council, but was tabled due to the length of time required for discussion on other matters.

Replenish Cash in Child Care Fund

Lack of cash in the county's child care account saw the Iosco County Board of Commissioners transfer $4,000 to the account to cover a shortage.

Child care costs have increased rapidly this year and the estimated amount is expected to reach double the $20,000 which had been budgeted last October.

County Treas. Edward Nelkie told commissioners that an additional $15,000 was needed to meet expenses in the state institution account. Floyd Smith of the mental health department believed this figure probably would reach $18,000, but Nelkie was of the opinion that his recommendation would meet needs for the time being.

In other financial matters, custodians requested that a seven percent increase in wages be made retroactive to June. Finance chairman, David George, pointed out that wages of custodians had been increased in January and later in June and felt that the last increase should not be made retroactive.

On recommendation of the finance committee, authorization was given to secure estimates for the purchase of a four-wheel drive vehicle for the sheriff's department marine division. The cost is not to exceed $7,100.

The commission accepted a bid from Art's Cleaners to provide dry cleaning service to the sheriff's department.

Commissioner George questioned the possibility of placing a CETA employee at the animal shelter to release a control officer to perform other duties with the sheriff's department. It was pointed out that this could result in labor problems with the union and with CETA regulations.

The commission approved a cooperative reimbursement agreement with the Department of Social Services which is identical to a verbal agreement adopted last October.

Auto Thief Caught After Speedy Chase

Thomas Bender, 19, Tawas City, has been charged with auto theft following a high-speed chase through three area counties early Thursday. He awaits district court arraignment and is lodged at the Iosco County Jail in lieu of $10,000 bond.

He is accused of stealing a four-wheel drive vehicle owned by Randall DeWyse of East Tawas about 3:00 a. m. He reportedly drove to a West Branch self-service gasoline station, pumped in gas and then drove off without paying.

Arenac County officers later spotted a vehicle matching the description of the missing vehicle and a high speed chase resulted in Bay, Gladwin and Midland Counties.

Downtown Development Authority is Considered

Formation of a downtown development authority, along with establishment of commercial redevelopment districts, under terms of state law, provided considerable discussion at Monday night's meeting of the Tawas City Council.

Appearing before the council were Benjamin Brewer and Carl Babcock, both members of the council-appointed commercial committee, who felt that consideration should be given to formation of a downtown development authority through adoption of a city ordinance.

Babcock said that the commercial committee had been holding weekly meetings since its formation in January and had met with new commercial owners to learn their ideas concerning development and to offer help to them.

He said that the group had been acting as a "welcoming committee" and believed that role should be continued, but he believed formation of an official downtown development authority would be the proper vehicle to carry out improvements.

Under state law, such an authority can be formed and is permitted to levy up to two mills of taxes in the development district to carry on a program. Role of the authority would be to halt property valuation deterioration within the district and to promote economic growth.

The authority would be comprised of a nine-member board. The mayor would serve as one member and five interested property owners within the district would be members, along with other appointees.

The authority could analyze changes in the district, adopt long-range plans to achieve development, acquire property, improve land and charge rent for property.

Babcock said that the authority would be conceived by the council, that it would establish a budget but all of its actions would be through approval by the council.

Brewer said that members of the commercial committee had visited Imlay City to review that community's authority and he recommended that a development district be established with three separate areas along lines of the recent shore line use study. Those areas would include the Tawas River mouth, the 500 block and the area east from Whittemore Street to M-55.

Brewer felt that the authority would provide an excellent means to plan development of the commercial area and that involvement by the nine-member board was needed rather than mere participation in meetings.

Mayor David Westcott felt the recommendation had merit and said that the council would study the proposal at a future meeting.

Along the same line, John N. Brugger appeared before the council and recommended that the city give consideration to the adoption of commercial redevelopment districts. Two years ago, the state legislature adopted a law providing tax relief for such districts similar to the act providing tax benefits to industrial districts.

Brugger said that the city's commercial district presently has a negative factor in property assessments and he believed this could only be overcome through commercial redevelopment.

The city manager is to study the proposal and make a recommendation to the council.

In other business, the council adopted an amendment to Ordinance No. 175 in regard to division of lots in a recorded plat.

The city manager announced that he would be out of town for the July 21 meeting and he was excused from attending the session.

The council approved removal of two street lights on the fishing pier. The lights are to be replaced with decorative lights under the current reconstruction program with state participation.

PROGRESS IN WATER SUPPLY

Chlorine, in the form of bleaching powder, was first used to purify foul-smelling water in the 1830's. But at that time, science had made only a vague connection between water quality and health.

Louis Pasteur's "germ theory" was a major breakthrough, but it had little practical effect until Robert Koch discovered the tuberculosis bacillus in 1882. This hard evidence finally convinced sanitarians and utilities of the need for pure drinking water.

The hogs at the Chicago Stockyards were the first to benefit from disinfected water, when chlorine was added to the Bubbly Creek filters there in 1908. Two-footed citizens were soon to benefit, as the success at Bubbly Creek convinced some 200 cities to add bleaching powder to their water supplies.

Boonton Reservoir, in Jersey City, N.J., was the site of the first large-scale chlorination of a municipal water supply. This milestone occurred only after a long legal battle between Dr. John Leal, the water company's sanitary adviser, and the town council. The court held that chlorine was an effective disinfectant and the Boonton plant was approved in 1910.

After this landmark case, chlorination began springing up all over the country. In 1900 there were 36 deaths from typhoid per 100,000 population. By 1950, the typhoid death rate had dropped to 0.1 per 100,000. The widespread use of chlorine made the difference.

Today, the 100th year of the American Water Works Association, adding chlorine to public water supplies is the most effective and widespread technique of disinfection, though it took chlorine to gain public acceptance.

Daisy Roller Mills

As four o'clock Thursday morning...

At about one o'clock Thursday morning...

The fire was a most unusual one...

THE LARGEST HEADLINE in the history of The Tawas Herald...

the neighborhood, but one of the saving factors was the new municipal waterworks system...

During the 1890s, a bustling rural community was not "wide awake" unless it had a flouring mill...

Farmers needed a local market for wheat and the housewife was always looking for a better price on flour...

Stones for a gristmill had been included when a sawmill was constructed at East Tawas in the 1870s...

On October 27, 1893, The Tawas Herald announced that "the new flouring mill started up yesterday and is now ready to grind your wheat."

The Daisy Roller Mill, located on Lake Street across from the First Street intersection, was owned by F. W. Schlechte and Son.

J. H. Watson, who had charge of building several sawmills along Tawas Bay, was contractor for the building of the new flouring mill.

After opening for operation that fall, the Daisy Roller Mill's crew consisted of E. W. Schlechte, manager; O. W. Davis of Marion, Ohio, miller; Julius Buchholz, engineer.

The mill had a capacity of 100 barrels per day. "They have a large amount of grain on hand and are prepared to buy wheat, as well as to do custom work," stated the Herald.

SILHOUETTED against the window and under the sign of Wilson Grain Company office is L. H. Emerson, long-time bookkeeper for the firm.

All the leading brands of flour were stocked by the mill, as well as its own home ground brand of "White Satin."

Schlechte, a native of Germany, came to this country with his parents in 1854 and settled in Illinois. In 1860, he entered the Lutheran seminary at St. Louis, Missouri, and graduated as a minister in 1866.

The same year, he came to Tawas City and entered the milling business, operating the Daisy Roller Mill until 1910, when he returned to Illinois.

Schlechte died May 9, 1914, but had sold his business to Botsford and Barret of Detroit in October 1911.

The mill had been practically idle for two or three years, requiring a major overhauling. Burley Wilson, resident manager, announced on October 20 of that year that the firm would be in the market to purchase all kinds of farm produce...

"The starting up of this mill again will be a good thing, not only for the city, but the surrounding country and we welcome the gentlemen to our city and bespeak for them a liberal support," said the Herald.

The firm was later known as the Wilson Grain Company and employees recalled by old-timers include Charles Duffy and George Gates in the milling department, with L. H. Emerson as the bookkeeper.

At one time, Wilson Grain Company employed many women at its Michigan Cereal Company elevator on the present site of the Tawas Industries, incorporated, parking lot and on the third floor of the Daisy Roller Mill in the pea and bean sorting process.

With changing times in the agricultural pursuits of the region, as more and more young people left farms to seek employment in automobile manufacturing plants, Wilson Grain

Company branched out into the coal business and the rail spur originally constructed to serve the Prescott Mill on Tawas Bay brought carloads of coal to the elevator on Lake Street.

Wilson Grain Company continued in the milling business on a small scale into the 1930s, but on August 26, 1937, the elevator was destroyed by a spectacular fire.

The largest banner headline in the history of this newspaper was printed on the front page the next morning: "Elevator Burns Early Thursday."

Two Alpena men driving down Lake Street on their way to Bay City early that morning saw smoke pouring out of the elevator. They stopped and aroused those living near the building and the first to realize what was happening was the Rev. Frank Metcalf and his family, who proceeded to help awaken their neighbors.

The fire siren was sounded and the fire department and its American LaFrance pumper was quickly on the scene playing streams of water on the burning building and the adjacent Masonic Temple.

"The fire had progressed too far in the elevator and the building had become a burning inferno," stated the Herald. "Within a few minutes, flames were leaping 150 feet into the air, carrying burning embers which fell blocks away from the fire."

"A number of things entered into the prevention of greater destruction to the city. There was no wind; there was ample water; the dense foliage on the trees in front of nearby homes; the hard, and at times, heroic work of members of the fire departments and the many volunteers who helped them."

The fire was the most disastrous since a blaze in 1919, when a large portion of the business district of the city was destroyed. The city had just completed installation of its new waterworks system which provided plenty of water to fight the fire.

The elevator and contents were a total loss, estimated at $30,000, and the Masonic Temple was badly damaged. That building, later remodeled for Barkman Outfitting Company, was razed earlier this spring.

Wilson announced a week later that a new 30 by 80-foot coal shed would be constructed on the site of the former Michigan Cereal Company, but no attempt would be made to rebuild the former Daisy Roller Mill. An era had ended in the flames of August 26, 1937.

I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America and to the republic for which it stands; one nation, under God, indivisible with liberty and justice for all.

Government Feeds Inflation Through Wage Settlements

With severe cuts in the state budget, it seems strange that one department recently adopted a new wage contract which gives employees an 11 percent salary hike the first year and a 10 percent increase the second year.

Michigan has been hit hard by the current recession and the outlook for the state's industrial future certainly does not look bright. Because of the loss of tax revenue, many services provided by the state must be cut.

Check the Countryside-- Political Signs Need Control, Too

The political sign "war" has returned and, after driving along main highways of Iosco County, this corner thinks it is time that local units of government consider adoption of an ordinance to control posting of signs on public property.

Naturally, a local ordinance should not interfere with the right of freedom of speech by political candidates, but the indiscriminate posting of signs by the same candidate on practically every tree along one section of the highway certainly stretches the point.

Know Your

Michigan Law

By Attorney General FRANK J. KELLEY

Recently, a large number of pyramid and chain letter operations have made their appearance in Michigan as they have in other parts of the country.

Participation in chain letter schemes is illegal under the Michigan Franchise Investment Law.

A person who sells such a scheme could be convicted of a felony, punishable by a fine of up to $10,000 or seven years in prison—or both.

Despite that fact, my office has received reports that the promoters of these chain letter schemes often claim they are not illegal when the mail system is not used or only cash is accepted.

For one type of chain letter scheme, an individual buys a list of 12 names for $50 and dishes out another $50 to the person whose name appears at the top of that list.

Next, the buyer sells two copies of the list to other persons to be reimbursed the $100 he or she paid for the list in the first place.

Participants in the chain letter scheme are encouraged to sell the list to friends, neighbors and family.

Eventually, each buyer is supposed to get to the top of the list and receive thousands of dollars. But, simple arithmetic shows that to be a false promise.

In further calculations, reports of a prosecution in the State of New York show that to complete three cycles, a list would require 25-billion purchasers—seven times the entire population of the earth!

Of course, it can be assumed that with all of the money changing hands, a good number of crooks and cheaters will make sure that the unsuspecting buyer never reaps a profit.

Plainfield FD Barbecue

(Read Colossians 3:1-10)

"You have put off the old self with its habits and have put on the new self." (Colossians 3:9-10 TEV)

Early in the spring only brown, lifeless "posts"—dead banana-tree stalks—graced the front of my house.

Within a few weeks each of the old dead stalks had become decorated in its new, bright green finery.

For this miracle of growth from within to occur, the outside layers had to fall away, one layer at a time.

In order for our spiritual life in Christ Jesus to develop, we have to give up one by one the evidences of the old life of the flesh.

Christ, we discard the outward signs of our old life.

PRAYER

Dear Lord, sustain us as we die to the old life. May we be found alive in the new life of Thy righteousness. Amen.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor: Re: "Mash Bash" of July fifth. We must agree with the editorial of July 2, 1980.

We live across M-55 to the south approximately one quarter mile from the hospital where this fund-raiser was held and our peace was disturbed by the ill-advised goings on.

If they (the patients) were not helped, then we ought to as a responsible community ban this type of misguided "community effort" to the hinterlands.

for all residents to some peace and quiet—especially those who are unfortunate healthwise and in need of care.

Sincerely, Darlene Grant Baker

Union Pickets Close Two Local Plants

15 Years Ago—
July 14, 1965—Tawas Tube Company of Tawas City became the second Iosco County industry to be closed because of a strike by employees. About 35 men walked off their jobs and began picketing the plant on Ninth Avenue. They are members of United Steel Workers of America, National Gypsum Company employees walked off their jobs June 2 and no headway has been reported on adoption of a new contract.

Nine persons are employed this summer at Tawas Point State Park by the Michigan Department of Conservation.

Ground breaking ceremonies for Iosco County's new medical care facility will be held July 21. Approved by voters last summer, the structure is to be completed about 11 months from now.

In its first official action, Tawas City's new zoning board of appeals concurred with Zoning Administrator Reginald Bublitz in denying a permit submitted by Joseph Brooks. He had requested permission to move a van-type trailer on his property located on First Avenue south of First Street near Tawas River for the purpose of storing fish nets.

25 Years Ago—
July 14, 1955—Construction on the Harris Avenue sewer project to the city limit and its extension to the site of the new Tawas Area Junior and Senior High School was started this week by the Tawas City Department of Public Works.

The new post office was opened for business July 5 at Hale. It is an attractive building with plenty of space for sorting mail and a large lobby. The only trouble is that many of the patrons are so used to the old office they still climb the steps and come down with red faces to the new office next door.

Grand opening at the new Hobby Lot was held over the Fourth of July week-end.

Randall M. Fox was elected to succeed himself as president of Tawas Area Board of Education with Waldo J. Curry to remain as treasurer and Walter Niles, secretary.

New officers of the Iosco County Michigan State University Alumni Club are Marvin Davenport, president; Dr. E. B. Cavell, vice president; Betty Hammond, secretary; Rhoda Wickert, treasurer; Helen Hertzler, Harold Hammond, William Wickert, Dorothy Scott, Elmer Kunze, Chester Clark, Arnold Loomis and Adel Homberg, members of the board of directors.

35 Years Ago—
July 13, 1945—Ground was broken this week at East Tawas for the new Iosco Frozen Food and Locker Plant. It will be located at the corner of Bay and Pine Streets. The work is by Frank A. Meyer and Son. The building for the Hale Frozen Food Locker Plant is nearly completed.

Electors of Tawas City School District authorized the board of education to deed the old Ward School building to Jesse C. Hodder American Legion Post. Electors also voted to increase the school tax levy by five mills for the purpose of creating a sinking fund to build a new school.

Sheriff John Moran reports that two men forced themselves into the county jail and have been placed behind bars. "Such effort is futile. I cannot do a thing for you. We have not had a red point since June, so beef-steak is out," said Moran. "It is true we have had a couple of messes of fish since June, but they are so high-priced we cannot place them on the regular Sea Lamprey Control Slated for AuSable R.

The United States Fish and Wildlife Service (FWS) announced that a sea lamprey crew will conduct a chemical treatment of the AuSable River in Iosco County. The date of treatment will depend on the water volumes and water chemistry of the river.

FWS crew members from Ludington arrived July 8 and set up mobile living quarters and laboratory facilities at Acres and Trails KOA Campground. The crew of fishery biologists and technicians has experience in sea lamprey control.

Pretreatment work will include stream velocity and volume measurements, water chemistry, bioassays and placement of control equipment, according to Robert Morman, supervisor of the sea lamprey control at the FWS Biological Station in Ludington. Timing of stream flow is done with fluorescein dye, a material that turns the stream water a bright green, but which is nontoxic to people, fish or wildlife.

Actual treatment consists of applying a lampricide (TFM) to streams and tributaries inhabited by sea lampreys. Stream flow, water chemistry and bioassays determine the amount of lampricide applied and duration of the treatment.

With the level of concentrations used in the treatment, the lampricide is reasonably selective for lampreys, although fish kills occur periodically.

Some of the fish present are affected by the lampricide. At the measured application rates in use, the chemical is nontoxic to humans, pets, livestock and other animals.

Before development of the lampricide and the control program, sea lampreys had virtually eliminated lake trout population in the Great Lakes. The program, initiated in 1958 by the Great Lakes Fishery Commission, was begun in tributaries of Lake Superior; Lake Michigan streams were first treated in 1960, followed by treatment of Lake Huron tributaries in 1961.

The AuSable River was last treated in 1976 and the current effort will be the fourth treatment of the stream since 1970.

FWS records indicate the sea lamprey first invaded Lake Ontario in the early 1800s, subsequently entering Lake Erie, via the Welland Canal, around 1921. Within a few decades, the lampreys infiltrated the upper Great Lakes and severely reduced the number of lake trout and other fish species.

Repeated treatments of tributaries to the Great Lakes are necessary for control because of the impossibility of eliminating adult lampreys in the Great Lakes. Adult lampreys enter the streams to spawn, after which they die. The larvae live in stream bottoms for several years. Later, as adults, they move into the lakes to prey on fish. The control program is designed to kill the larvae in the streams before they can grow into the adult parasitic form.

Since the advent of lamprey control, lake trout have survived and produced an excellent sport fishery, according to the service. Most of the lake trout planted in the Great Lakes are produced in FWS hatcheries.

Sea lamprey control also benefits brook, brown and rainbow trout, and coho and chinook salmon planted by the Department of Natural Resources in states and provinces bordering the Great Lakes.

FWS emphasized that the fishery now enjoyed in the Great Lakes is dependent on sea lamprey control and would soon decline or disappear if the control program were discontinued.

BAR-B-Q WITH AN IRISH TOUCH

Summertime means barbecue time and all those wonderful warm weekends when the outdoor chef is in his (or her) element.

Men especially enjoy the challenge of the coals, concocting robust and tangy sauces to enhance the flavor of grilling ribs and chicken. "Mist-ify" your guests with this unique barbecue sauce made with Irish Mist, which marries the flavor of heather honey and herbal spices with the aged smoothness of Irish Whiskey. It's a variation you'll want to use again and again throughout the barbecue season.

MISTY BARBECUE SAUCE

- 1/2 cup Irish Mist Liqueur
- 1/2 cup catsup
- 1/2 cup honey
- 2 Tbsp. lemon juice
- 2 Tbsp. Teriyaki or soy sauce
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 tsp. ginger
- 1 tsp. dry mustard

Blend ingredients until smooth.

Chicken: Brush 2 quartered broiler-fryers with salad oil; sprinkle with seasoned salt. Grill over medium coals 45 to 60 mins.; turn frequently. Brush with Sauce during last 20 min. Heat remaining Sauce; serve with chicken. 6 serv.

Ribs: Season 3 lbs. pork spareribs, cut into serving pieces, with garlic salt and pepper. Place, fat side up, on rack in shallow pan. Bake in 350 degree oven 1 hr. Place ribs over medium coals and grill 45 min. or until fork-tender. Turn frequently and brush with Sauce. Serve with heated sauce. 4-6 serv.

TAWAS RANGER DISTRICT, United States Forest Service, has announced its 1980 fuelwood sales program. The district is offering 27 blocks for sale this year to the general public. The units selected for cutting oak for fuelwood are located 7 1/2 miles northwest of East Tawas and one mile east of Monument Road in Huron National Forest. The bid forms and maps were mailed out to all people on the district bidders list last week. The mailing included all information necessary to inspect the cutting blocks and fill out the enclosed bid form. (See classified advertisement on page 5.) Additional bid forms and maps are available at the district ranger's office, located on the second floor of the East Tawas post office on Newman Street. All bids must be signed and completely filled out including address, in order to be considered valid bids. Bids must be received before 1:00 p. m., Thursday, July 17, when bids will be opened in the district ranger's office. Sample timber sale permits will also be available at the district ranger's office. These samples describe the requirements that successful bidders must comply with during cutting activities. Successful bidders will be notified by mail before July 25 and must validate their permits or contracts within one week of notification by returning payment for their timber and by signing their copies of the sale documents. Again this year, only one sale will be awarded to any one household. The purpose for this is to ensure that as many homes as possible share the opportunity to cut their own supply of fuelwood. The bidders list for last year's fuelwood sales numbered 235 people. Respondents or bidders numbered 134 for 15 small fuelwood sales. This year's interest is running at a rate ahead of last year's and the district expects to mail out over 300 bid packages. The areas were selected for cutting because the jack pine which was planted in 1976 is not growing in sufficient numbers to make a fully stocked forest when mature in 50 years. The cutting of the scattered oak trees will cause the oak stumps to sprout. The sprouting oak will then complete the stocking in the stand. Throughout its life, the mixed stand of oak and jack pine trees will be desirable habitat for wildlife. This type of forest provides food and shelter for more kinds of wildlife than a pure stand of either oak or jack pine. The mixed forest of oak and pine is also more fire-safe or fire resistant than a jack pine forest.

An Unusual Salad with Golden Good Taste

You don't have to be a Californian to appreciate their health-minded lifestyle, interest in the new and unusual and love of fresh, naturally-good foods. And you certainly don't have to hail from the Golden Gate state to appreciate Fresno Fruit Salad. This sunny salad cooler, from Kraft's new cookbook "Salads—From Beginning to Endive," combines an extraordinary new dressing blend with an equally unique assortment of succulent fruits and vegetables. The result is a delicious, different salad that will trademark you as a cook who knows how to please.

Fresno Fruit Salad's sunny good taste comes from Mother Nature's bounty—lush spinach leaves, crisp alfalfa sprouts, juicy grape halves, pear wedges and peach slices. But the crowning touch is yours to claim! The salad is topped with a golden gourmet dressing you make yourself from Kraft French dressing, honey and a spicy pinch of coriander. Poured over the fresh salad fixings, this delicate dressing blend creates a super salad sensation that's the perfect, pleasing addition to any meal, anywhere.

FRESNO FRUIT SALAD

- 1 8-oz. bottle Kraft French dressing
- 1/4 cup honey
- 1/4 teaspoon ground coriander
- 1 1/2 qts. torn spinach
- 1 cup pear slices
- 1 cup peach slices
- 1 cup grape halves
- 1/2 cup alfalfa sprouts

Combine dressing, honey and coriander; mix well. Combine spinach, fruit and alfalfa sprouts; toss lightly. Serve with dressing. 6 to 8 servings Helpful Hint: To prevent the fruit from discoloring, dip pieces in citrus juice before tossing into salad.
