

DeWyse Presides Over Final TA Board Meeting

Randall J. DeWyse of East Tawas rapped his gavel for the final time Monday night to open and close a meeting of Tawas Area Board of Education.

Completing his four-year term on June 30, the last year of which was served as president, DeWyse announced earlier this year that he would not be a candidate for re-election.

Present at the meeting, but not officially a member until July 1, was Richard Anderson, who was named by voters at the June 9 school election to fill the vacancy. Elected to a second term at that election was Robert J. Curry.

The next official meeting of the board of education is July 14, when reorganization is to take place.

Among matters handled Monday night was acceptance of a bid from Mahley, Bennet, McDonald and Company and Peoples State Bank of East Tawas for $1,064,000 in tax anticipation notes to finance school operation until receipt of property taxes in December.

The bid entered jointly carried an interest rate of 7.40 percent. Community Bank of Caseville entered a bid with an interest rate of 8.25 percent.

The board of education accepted a request from Gary Wood, a resident of the Oscoda Area School District portion of Wilber Township, for sending two of his children to Tawas Area High School next term on a tuition basis.

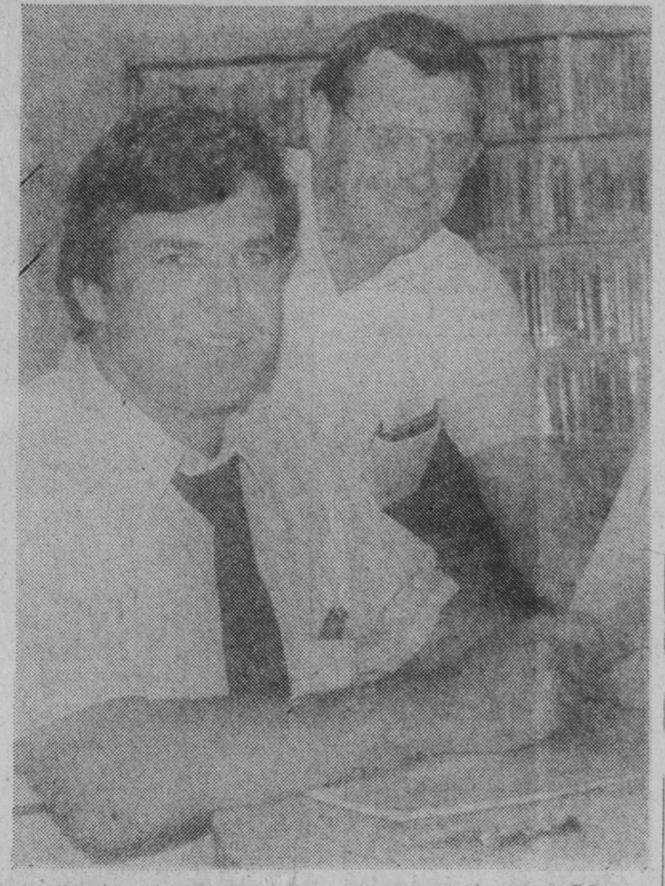

The board authorized solicitation of bids for reconditioning of a wrestling mat. Estimated cost is $1,400. It was reported that the surface of the mat had deteriorated with age and use and that replacement would cost between $3,000 and $4,000.

A report is to be given at the next meeting by the athletic director concerning the new maximum rates adopted by the Northeastern Michigan Conference for spectator tickets to athletic contests. The new rate is $1.50 for adults and $1 for students. Tawas Area School presently charges $1.25 and 75 cents.

Resignation of Sheila Mund as an English teacher in the high school was accepted. She and her husband are moving to Gladwin.

A letter signed by the governor and the president of the state board of education congratulated the school district's academic program in the Tawas City Elementary Unit. The letter stated that all students in the fourth grade met or exceeded 75 percent of the objectives in the recent state assessment test.

A letter from the attorney representing owners of the Holland House at East Tawas said that a plan had been filed in federal bankruptcy court to pay property taxes owed by the corporation. The plan awaits confirmation by the court. The firm owes $9,629 in property taxes to the school district, but a federal judge stayed all debts until a plan of operation is filed to pay creditors.

Youths Get Work in CETA Projects

Construction of an addition to the Grant Township fire hall is included in a summer building trades program through a CETA grant administered by Tawas Area School.

John Alexander, principal at Tawas Area High School, said Monday night that residents of the Sand Lake Heights area should not expect to see a finished project by Labor Day.

"The youngsters who will be participating are not carpenters or block layers—they are trainees in a summer program sponsored by CETA. The school has no control over the project, except in name only," he stated.

About 10 CETA trainees will be employed in the program under the direction of David Lutz, a building contractor who has received state certification.

A number of the youngsters will be from the Sand Lake area, with participation by students from other county schools.

A 40 by 70-foot concrete block addition is to be made to the fire hall, according to Olen Herriman, supervisor of Grant Township.

The grant to the township was made available through CORE Intermediate School District and the federal CETA program.

In addition to the above project, Tawas Area School will have its own CETA program this summer employing eight to 15 youngsters.

Herman Rollin, elementary principal, said this program would be directed by Lucky Kosto and would include about 18 projects at the Tawas City Elementary Unit. Work is to include:

Dinner Benefits Legion Baseball

A benefit barbecue dinner to help finance the baseball team sponsored by Audie Johnson American Legion Post is to be held at the East Tawas American Legion Hall Sunday starting at 12:30 p. m.

Earl Weaver, chairman for the American Legion, said that it costs between $300 and $500 a year to sponsor a team. Eighteen boys between the ages of 16 and 19 are carried on the roster.

"We have 125 pounds of spare ribs, along with the trimmings, ready for this banquet and we need local support to help sponsorship of the team," said Weaver. The dinner is open to the public.

Robert Buyse and Robert King are managers of the team, which will participate in the 10th District American Legion Tournament at Rosebush the last week-end in July.

In the meantime, the team will be playing other American Legion baseball teams from West Branch, Manistee, Cadillac and a team sponsored by the AuGres Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Proceeds from the dinner will go to pay the cost of umpires, equipment purchases and gasoline used for trips.

This season marks the 55th anniversary of competition in the American Legion baseball program. The tremendous increase in the number of teenagers interested in the supervised recreation provided by it is a continuing challenge to American Legionnaires everywhere to improve and expand efforts.

Narrow Field for Hale Area Principal Job

The field of candidates for a new secondary principal at Hale Area School was narrowed to two, according to a report at Monday night's meeting of the board of education.

The two candidates include James Marshall of Charlevoix and Dale Purkey, a member of the Hale Area School faculty.

One of the above two men is to be named as the successor to Robert McDonald, who announced earlier this year that he was resigning the position.

A meeting is to be held this afternoon (Wednesday) to interview both candidates before the board of education makes its final decision.

In other matters, the board approved a preliminary budget of $1,620,423 for 1980-81 school operation as presented by Supt. Peter Holley.

A meeting is to be held this week between a board of education committee and representatives of Hale Area Education Association to discuss quarterly cost of living adjustments.

Murder Investigation Continues

Investigation into the June 14 slaying of Samuel G. Roberts, 52, Hale, continues this week after Iosco County Sheriff's Department officers followed one lead to an apparent dead end.

The Hale man had last been seen on Thursday, June 12, and an informant told investigators last week that he had seen a man being forced into a blue car about 5:00 p. m. that day, about four miles northwest from where the victim's body was found.

Det. David Brumfield reports that a car matching the description of the vehicle furnished by the informant was located and, after being searched for evidence, was released to the owner.

Technicians from the Bridgeport State Police Crime Laboratory assisted. A complete report from the crime laboratory is being awaited, said Brumfield.

Roberts' body was discovered in a wooded area of Oscoda Township. He had been killed by a small caliber gunshot wound to the head.

Shaft Stolen

Vernon L. Beaubien, Tawas City service station owner, would like to get his hands on a thief. Beaubien installed a different engine in his pickup truck. Later, when he attempted to drive the truck to his home, he found that the drive shaft had been stolen. Iosco Sheriff's Department investigated.

Weather Blamed for Fewer Camper Days at City Park

Unseasonably cold, wet weather since Memorial Day has resulted in a 25 percent decrease in campers at the East Tawas City Park, according to a report Sunday morning by Ronald Leslie, park manager.

The high price of gasoline and the shaky national economy may have resulted in fewer camper days here, but poor weather conditions probably constitute the major reasons for vacant slots.

The city park was filled to capacity starting Friday night for the first time since Memorial Day. A lineup of trailers and camper units filled the parking lot Sunday as visitors waited for other vacationers to check out of the park.

Through June 15, the park had 425 campers registered since the first of the year, as compared to 643 during the same period of 1979. Camper days amounted to 1,591, as compared to 2,080 last year, according to Thelma Montgomery, park office clerk.

Leslie said the 1979 season was probably a record camper year for the East Tawas City Park as it was filled every day from May 20 to just two days preceding Labor Day.

Because of its convenient location to the Newman Street business section, coupled with new boat launching facilities used for the first time this year and the always-popular Michigan Waterways Commission Dock, the city park is expected to hold its own in comparison with other campgrounds of Northern Michigan.

Unemployment compensation and other benefits received by idled automobile factory workers in the Flint-Saginaw Valley area could result in longer vacation time for those workers and the park is expected to be filled each week-end this summer—if the weather and perch show a little cooperation.

Charge Arbitration to Sheriff's Budget

All legal expenses associated with the labor arbitration of the sheriff's department employee contract are to be charged back to the county's 1980 law enforcement budget.

This was the action taken Wednesday by the Iosco County Board of Commissioners following a hearing before the state arbitrator last week and additional hearings are expected.

The charge back on legal fees is expected to cut into the sheriff's department budget for this year and, coupled with loss of revenue from the state during the current economic crisis, could result in the layoff of deputies by fall.

Official action on the resolution was tabled two weeks ago for further study by commissioners before final approval was taken Wednesday.

The official resolution said that "in December 1978 and on several subsequent occasions, the sheriff's department employees have rejected contract offers by the county which were compatible with other county court-house employees wages, compensation, paid surrounding county sheriff's department employees and the presidential wage guidelines of 1978-1979."

Sheriff's department employees are presently requesting the arbitrator to award wage and compensation increases including: 1. Ten to 15 percent wage increases per year for up to three years; 2. Up to an additional 10 percent increase for all sergeants; 3. A new additional shift premium of up to five percent increase in wages; 4. Additional unlimited increase in longevity pay bonuses by removing the present cap on such payments.

"If these wages are awarded by the arbitrators, several sheriff's department employees will earn several thousand dollars more per year than the elected department heads, including the sheriff, county clerk, treasurer and register of deeds," states the resolution.

"The sheriff's department employees have suggested that the wage demands be met by either eliminating the county road patrol or other county services."

"The board of commissioners believes the demand to be unreasonable and excessive. Other county services should not be curtailed because of the expenditure necessary to defend the taxpayers' interest in the labor negotiations."

Three Hurt in US-23 Crash

Three Oscoda residents were injured Monday night in a crash on US-23 north of East Tawas.

Injured and treated at Tawas Hospital were David A. Dahl, 21; Cindy Howland, 21; Donna L. Boller, 21. All were treated at Tawas Hospital.

Investigating sheriff's department officers said that Dahl attempted to pass another vehicle and lost control of his car, which went into a ditch.

Near Tragedy Points Out Need for Water Safety

The summer swimming season is here and the danger of children playing with air mattresses and inflated tubes, unless carefully supervised by a parent or an adult who is a swimmer, was re-emphasized here in a near-tragedy Friday afternoon.

A five-year-old girl and her 11-year-old brother, who were vacationing with their parents at a resort near Lakeside Bar, Baldwin Township, were playing on an air mattress along the shore of Lake Huron.

A heavy offshore breeze took the children out into deeper water and the boy swam to shore, leaving his sister on the air mattress.

The parents were on shore watching, but were nonswimmers and could not go to the aid of their daughter, who started to swim toward shore.

They called to Robert Look of the Lakeside Bar for help. The little girl was about 100 yards offshore and in about nine feet of water when Look reached her.

"She was 'dog paddling' for all she was worth and had gone down twice when I reached her," said Look. He brought the child to shore and all watched as the mattress disappeared over the horizon and into the deeper water of Lake Huron.

Each summer, similar incidents are recorded at swimming beaches in the Tawas.

Brown Trout Derby Was Disappointment

Participation and fishing success in the annual brown trout derby proved to be disappointing to Tawas Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the event.

Only 40 fishermen registered for prizes, as compared to 124 who purchased registration tickets last year.

A number of reasons for this decrease in activity were cited by Roger Jackson, executive director of the chamber of commerce. Fewer plantings of brown trout in Tawas Bay waters during the past two or three years had its effect, along with the fact that the "run" may have started before the contest officially opened and weather conditions have been poor for boating all month.

Charles Drumm of West Branch was top money winner in the brown trout division. His 11 pound, eight-ounce brown won the top cash prize of $1,000.

James Miller of Bay City, an employee of Saginaw Steering Gear who has been fishing here for the past 35 years, won top prize money of $500 in the lake trout division with his 13-pound, six-ounce fish.

John Benson of Tawas City was the top local winner with his 11-pound, one ounce brown trout. He said Saturday that the $600 check he received from the chamber of commerce for second place was going toward a down payment on a new fishing boat.

Other winners in the brown trout division were: Robert Sutkowi, Bay City, third place, $450; Charles Charboneau, East Tawas, fourth place, $200; James Noriot, West Branch, fifth place, $100; Rodney Stonehouse, Linden, sixth place, $75;

Robert Simpson, Saginaw, seventh place, $50.

Two winners in the preceding division also won prize money in the lake trout category. Sutkowi won $300 for his 12-pound, 12½-ounce laker, good for second place, and Noiroi won third place prize money of $125. James Withblayer of Dundee won $100 for fourth place.

Assist Families Writing Histories

In order to assist area families with their histories for the Iosco County Historical Book, the following information is given: The family history should be a narrative story based on one line of the family. Brief selections on family origins and more material about coming to Iosco County, experiences and accomplishments since coming here and any material that would be of interest in the development of Iosco County should be included. Do not send in genealogies as pages will be provided in the back of the book for each family to list its own family tree including the present generation. There is no fee for having a family history included. In case the history must go over the 600 word limit, include 10 cents a word for the excess.

To begin the history, the following example is shown:

David Stanley Evans, born April 14, 1917, Portland, Maine, to David Stanley Evans Sr. and Harriett Morey Percival. Grandfather David Evans was a coal mine official who came from near Cardiff, Wales. Grandmother Rachel Long of English ancestry. Maternal grandfather and grandmother of early New England ancestry.

If help is needed, call any of the following committee members: Lucina Chirko, Mildred and Louis Braddock, Lucile

Stewart, Mary Byrd, Earl Bennington and Mrs. E. M. Vaughan. In the Hale area, contact Beatrice Bernard and in Oscoda, Nellie McNeill will assist.

Further information may be obtained by calling the museum at 362-8911.

It is not necessary to buy a book in order to submit a family history.

Write Comments on AuGres Drain

Deadline for accepting written comments from citizens concerning the AuGres River watershed project has been extended to June 30, according to the Soil Conservation Service. The agency is considering whether to continue planning or to terminate assistance on the project.

"Due to the poor copy of the citizens' petitions, we have not attempted to count the signatures or verify if signers live within the project area," states Arthur Cratty of the SCS at Lansing.

Petitions presented recently represented 100 percent of the townships in Arenac County and were overwhelmingly opposed to the project.

Cratty said that property owners would be assessed on an individual parcel basis, according to Leland Johnson, Arenac County drain commissioner. The state equalized valuation of the parcel and benefit to the land would reflect the assessment.

Cratty said he would place more emphasis on personal letters with specific examples of complaints rather than on the signatures of the petitions submitted to his office.

Anyone wishing to reinforce his opposition on the petitions is encouraged to write immediately to have comments included in Cratty's final determination.

Letters should be addressed to: Arthur Cratty, 1405 South Harrison Road, Room 101, East Lansing, Michigan 48823.

Another project will see installation of metal on classroom doors at the high school to meet state fire marshal regulations.

Supt. Allan Dighera said that administration of the CETA programs would be rather complex. He emphasized that students were not necessarily enrolled in building trades programs conducted by this school and that progress on the Grant Township project could be slow because of the lack of skill by the students.

He said the program was designed to get youngsters involved in summer work-training programs.

WAFB Had Good Flying Weather

During May, Wurtsmith Air Force Base experienced better than average weather with warmer temperatures and less flying time lost to bad weather.

This was the "weather report," according to Lt. Stephen J. Sycuro of the Weather Squadron at Wurtsmith.

According to Sycuro, Wurtsmith had 2.98 inches of rain in May, .11 inches more than average. That brings this year's total rainfall to 9.44 inches, which is 1.45 inches less than the average for this time of year.

The average high temperature last month was 64.3 degrees, 2.3 degrees above the norm. The average low was 43.2 degrees which is two degrees above the norm, Sycuro added.

The low temperature for the month was 31 degrees on May 10, while the high for the month was 90 degrees May 5. That high was much warmer than anywhere else in Michigan and may have been caused by the warm air from the fire near Mio. It is also likely the thunderstorm occurring May 5 was also generated by the fire, Sycuro said.

Delayed Retirement Means Bigger Check

People approaching 65 who have no retirement plans should be glad to know that their social security check will be larger when they finally do get it, a social security spokesperson said recently.

The reason is because of the "delayed retirement credit." This credit increases a person's retirement check for each month he or she does not get a benefit after 65 and before 72.

The credit adds 1/12 of 1 percent for each month—1 percent for each full year—that a person does not get a check because of work. For people who reach 65 in 1982 and after, the credit will amount to 1/4 of 1 percent for each month, 3 percent for each whole year.

The worker's credit also applies to widow's and widower's benefits.

In addition to these credits, a person's earnings after 65 may also result in a larger check than would have been payable at 65, the representative said.

Of course a person who starts getting benefits at 65 can still work and have significant earnings before his or her checks are affected. In 1980, a person 65 or older can earn $5,000 and still receive all benefits for the year.

If earnings go over $5,000, then $1 in benefits is withheld for each $2 of earnings over $5,000. This annual exempt amount will rise to $5,500 for 1981, and $6,000 for 1982, and automatically thereafter to keep pace with increases in average wages. The exempt amount for people under 65 in 1980 is $3,720.

For more information about social security retirement benefits, contact any social security office. The address and telephone number of the nearest social security office can be found in the telephone directory.

Whatever your time of life...

Social Security protects you.

That's why your Social Security Card is important to you. It answers the call in case the alarm rings for four basic needs. If you are disabled, it pays disability benefits. If someone you love and depend on dies, it provides survivor benefits. When you retire, Social Security benefits help you enjoy the things you worked so hard for. And when you reach 65, or you've been getting Social Security disability checks for at least two years, Medicare helps pay the hospital and medical bills.

If you have any questions about your Social Security protection, call your Social Security Office. It's listed in the phone book under Social Security Administration.

questions and answers

Q. I'll be 65 in a few months, but I plan to keep working. Do I have to wait until I actually retire to get Medicare?

A. No. If you have worked long enough under social security or the railroad retirement system, you are eligible for Medicare at 65 even if you continue to work. To make sure you get the full protection of Medicare starting with the month you are 65, you should apply at a social security office about 3 months before you reach 65.

questions and answers

Q. I am considering going to a podiatrist to have some warts removed. Will my Medicare medical insurance pay for this?

A. Medical insurance can help pay for any covered services of a licensed podiatrist, except for routine foot care. Routine foot care includes removal of warts (including plantar warts), corns, and calluses; hygienic care; and treatment for flat feet or other structural misalignments of the feet. But, medical insurance can help pay for routine foot care if you have a medical condition affecting the lower limbs (such as severe diabetes) which requires that such care be performed by a podiatrist or doctor of medicine or osteopathy.

Expo is a family affair. Other highlights on the entertainment schedule include an opening-day parade, evening fireworks and a water pageant. Chopping and sawing contests, an operating steam engine and sawmill, educational exhibits,

CETA Saved Tax Money at Airport

Utilization of a CETA program in clearing a wooded area for extension of a runway at the Iosco County Airport resulted in considerable savings in tax dollars, according to a report at last week's session of the board of commissioners.

The county's engineering consultant estimated that a contractor would charge approximately $70,000 to perform the work. Using CETA labor under the direction of Edward J. Barry, the total project cost was $6,749.48.

Saturday Mail Delivery Still 'Up in the Air'

The possibility of congress eliminating funds for Saturday mail delivery from the 1981 postal service budget is still up in the air.

Although the recently-passed first concurrent budget resolution contained the original recommendation to cut Saturday service, there is a move afoot in the house of representatives to restore the 500-million dollars necessary to continue six-day service. Also the house post office and civil service committee has taken aggressive opposition to any elimination of Saturday mail service.

"On first glance, it appears that stopping delivery on Saturday would cut one-sixth of the postal service's budget. Unfortunately, it is not quite that simple. I am convinced the drawbacks heavily outweigh the advantages," states Cong. Robert Davis.

"A postal service task force has outlined some of the potential problems. Certainly a large number of postal employees will be laid off their jobs. Another problem is the tremendous build-up of mail over a weekend, all of which would have to be delivered on Monday. It has been estimated that one-third of the week's delivery would be waiting at the post office when the mailmen returned from their week-end, and that can only clog the process."

If there was no Saturday delivery by the postal service, private firms would undoubtedly move in to take up some of the slack. Those private firms would reduce revenues coming to the postal service, eliminating some of the cost savings and making additional funds necessary for operation.

Prime Time What You Don't Know Can Hurt You

by Cy Brickfield

Several years ago, after a particularly painful attack had sent him to a hospital emergency room in search of relief, a friend of mine finally agreed to allow surgeons to repair the hernia with which he had been walking around since the end of World War II.

Although he was then in his early 60s, it was the first time in his entire life that he had been operated on, but he faced the surgery with confidence. Hours later, as the anesthesia and the post-operative painkillers began to wear off, he peered up at his family clustered around his bed and, in a voice filled with puzzlement, groggily announced, "It hurts!?"

Why, he wondered, was there a pain in his abdomen when the doctors had assured him the surgery would free him of the pain and discomfort with which he had lived for so many years? What he had forgotten to tell him—and what his previous lack of experience with surgery had kept him from knowing for himself—was that every operation carries with it a certain amount of pain.

To repair his hernia, the surgeons had to make an incision which is nothing more or less than a large cut—and there is no way that a wound like that is not going to hurt. Once this was explained to my friend, he was quite content to let events take their natural course, but he would have been far happier if he had been told in advance.

What we have here is an instance in which what you don't know can hurt you, and it is out of such lack of understanding that malpractice suits sometimes erupt. It is also a key to understanding some of the thinking involved in the current debate about "patient package inserts," the informational brochures with which the federal Food and Drug Administration wants pharmacists to provide consumers whenever they have a prescription filled.

As the FDA envisions them, PPIs would tell the person receiving a medication what the drug is supposed to do for him or her, how it achieves this effect, how it should be taken, and the various side effects one might experience as a result of taking it. Pharmaceutical manufacturers have been providing physicians and pharmacists with this information for years. The FDA's proposal would pass this data on to consumers in language which they can readily understand.

Ideally, this function should be performed by the doctor prescribing the medication, but most physicians simply don't have sufficient time to provide as thorough an explanation as is usually needed. Then, too, patients frequently forget much of what has been told to them under the stressful circumstances surrounding the diagnosis of an illness, and are thus more likely to absorb far more information from a brochure they can read at their own pace once they arrive home.

This approach has worked very well for a veterinarian in my neighborhood who, after telling worried pet owners about their animal's particular problem, gives them a one-or-two-page explanation of their pet's condition to take home with them and consult at their leisure. On a more human level, one of Washington's most prominent physicians often writes letters to his patients, summarizing what he told them while they were in his office. If more physicians did this, there might not be a need for PPIs, but there is a need and the FDA is attempting to have it filled.

Not so surprisingly, the FDA's proposal has met the usual opposition which arises whenever something new and different is attempted, especially when the innovation involves letting the public in on what a profession may regard as its deepest secrets. In this case, the protests have come from physicians, pharmacists and pharmaceutical manufacturers. Ironically, much of the information the FDA wants to be made available to consumers can already be found in libraries and bookstores containing copies of the Physicians' Desk Reference or Dr. James W. Long's The Essential Guide to Prescription Drugs. Until just recently, the PDR, whose 2,000 pages contain highly technical drug data prepared by the pharmaceutical manufacturers themselves, was distributed only to doctors; it began making its way into general bookstores about two years ago. Although Dr. Long, who is health services director of the National Science Foundation in Washington, wrote his Guide (now in a new second edition) primarily for lay readers, it has developed into the favorite reference of many doctors and pharmacists who like its straightforward style, an approach which offers a preview of what PPIs might eventually be like someday.

In the meantime, there are logistical problems which will need to be resolved before patient package inserts can become a practical reality, but this is relatively minor compared to the notion that a little knowledge can be a dangerous thing in the mind of a patient. Even more dangerous, however, is not telling the patient enough since, when it comes to taking medicine, the final responsibility rests with the consumer.

The doctor prescribes the medication, and the pharmacist fills the prescription, but it's the patient who takes the medication out of its container, places the pill or potion in his or her mouth, and then swallows it. Like my friend with the unexpected postoperative pain, most patients are quite willing to put up with a medication's occasional untoward side effects if they are warned of them in advance. After all, if patients don't have a right to be told what to expect from the medications they're told to take, who does?

Tawas Beat Melita in 11 Innings; 12-5

Sunday's game between Tawas City and Melita went 11 innings before the locals exploded for seven runs in the final frame to win, 12-5.

Brad Potts, who pitched seven innings of the game, belted a three-run homer in the final inning to put the game out of reach.

Tawas' big inning erased a homer by K. Hoyer to tie the game in the 10th inning.

Bill King pitched the last four innings and was the winning pitcher.

Tawas scored in the second inning on a base hit by Tom Gracik, a walk to Potts and a single by King.

The locals got another run in the fourth when Randy Scales walked and Wayne Revord singled him home.

Melita tied the game in the fifth on one hit and three consecutive throwing errors by Tawas.

King walked in Tawas City's seventh inning, Pat Jordan singled and both scored on Jerry Gracik's triple.

Melita tied the score with three runs in the seventh on a walk, an error and a base hit. In the top of the 10th inning, Tawas scored one run when Frank Jordan walked and Potts followed with a double off the center field fence. The game was again tied by Hoyer's blow for four bases.

In the 11th inning, Dale Revord walked, Pat Jordan was safe on a fielder's choice. Jerry Gracik drove Revord home with a single. Link walked, Tom Gracik reached first base on an error and Frank Jordan singled to score Link. Potts then followed with his three-run blast.

Tawas City travels to Gladwin for a double header Sunday that may decide who will be the Northeastern Michigan League champion. Gladwin presently leads the league by one game, with the locals in second place.

County Adopts Resolution Aimed Against Nepotism

A resolution aimed at curbing nepotism in county governmental hiring was adopted Wednesday by the Iosco County Board of Commissioners.

Such action had been discussed informally for a number of weeks and David George, county finance chairman, has been the leader in adoption of such a resolution.

A resolution read by George noted that unemployment in Iosco County was rapidly approaching 20 percent and, "in times of potentially declining employment, the county may be forced to terminate a family's breadwinner while another family may still retain several members on the county payroll."

The resolution stated that recent labor negotiations "have demonstrated the management problems which occur when a department head tries to represent both the taxpayers and, at the same time, protect potential family interests."

Commissioner George's resolution stated that the county was founded upon the premise that "the best qualified individual should be hired for a job and the board of commissioners believes that employment of more than one immediate family member is generally not in the best interest of the public."

The resolution asked that all county department heads refrain from hiring any individual if said individual would result in more than one member of a family being employed by the county in a single department.

Com. James Stech successfully argued against publication of a list of all county employees, the department they work in and the previous year's income as shown on W-2 forms. While believing that publication of the salaries paid to department heads was within the power of the commission's authority, he felt that publication of the wages of individual employees would be discrimination against those employees.

Chairman John Webb said his investigation had pointed out that the commission has no authority to enforce such a policy as elected heads of departments have the responsibility for hiring and firing of employees in each department.

County Clerk D. Keith Papas stressed his objection to the action as not necessary. Department heads, he said, "were responsible, intelligent people and able to make decisions."

Papas also pointed out that this commission and past commissions had appointed relatives and friends to various county jobs and believed that practice should be included in any resolution. He also felt that the commission should not dictate policy to elected department heads.

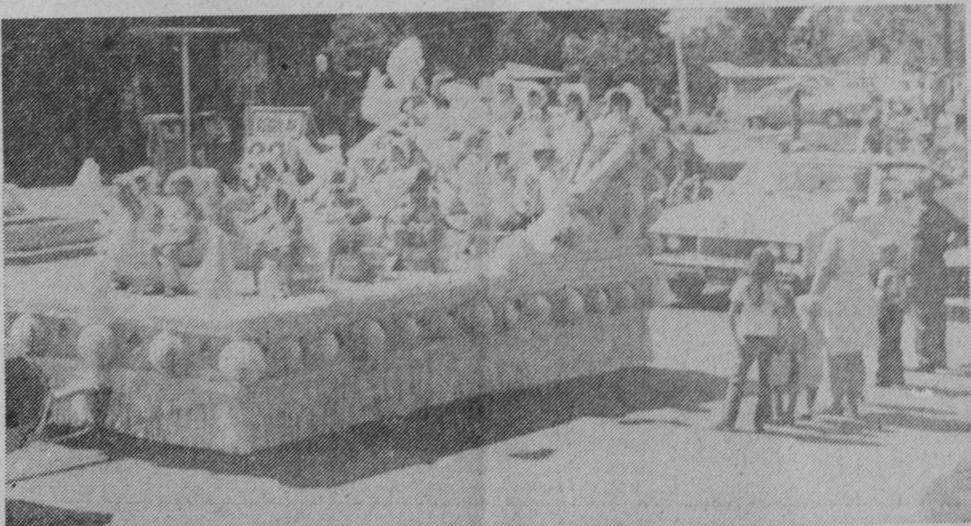

Commissioner George emphasized that his resolution should only be considered when hiring new employees and that it was not retroactive to include employees presently hired by the county.

He said the resolution was not personal in any respect, but serious questions concerning nepotism had been raised during labor negotiations.

RANDY WILLIAMSON, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Williamson of Tawas City, won first place in the recent bike-athon for St. Jude's Hospital. He traveled 38.2 miles and collected $427.32. Others raising $100 or more were Dennis Bergeron (most miles), Kathy Kidder, Valerie Heldger, Jason Pausits, Robert Frank, Chris Eckerd and Gina Salamony. The first place winner received a new bicycle, while gift certificates, back packs and T-shirts went to other contestants.—Tawas Herald Photo.

DAN C. McRAE and the FORGOTTEN WAR!

Few people today remember or have heard of the name of Frederick Funston or, for that matter, the Philippine Insurrection. America's brief flirtation with imperialism at the turn of the century is all but forgotten.

By an elaborate ruse, General Funston captured Emilio Aguinaldo, leader and guiding spirit of the insurrection in the Philippine Islands. His capture all but ended the small but exasperating war, which for two years had engaged an American expeditionary force of 70,000 men.

A number of Iosco County men served with Michigan volunteer units in the Philippines, among them a Tawas Cityan—Dan C. McRae—probably one of the most popular young men of his day in town.

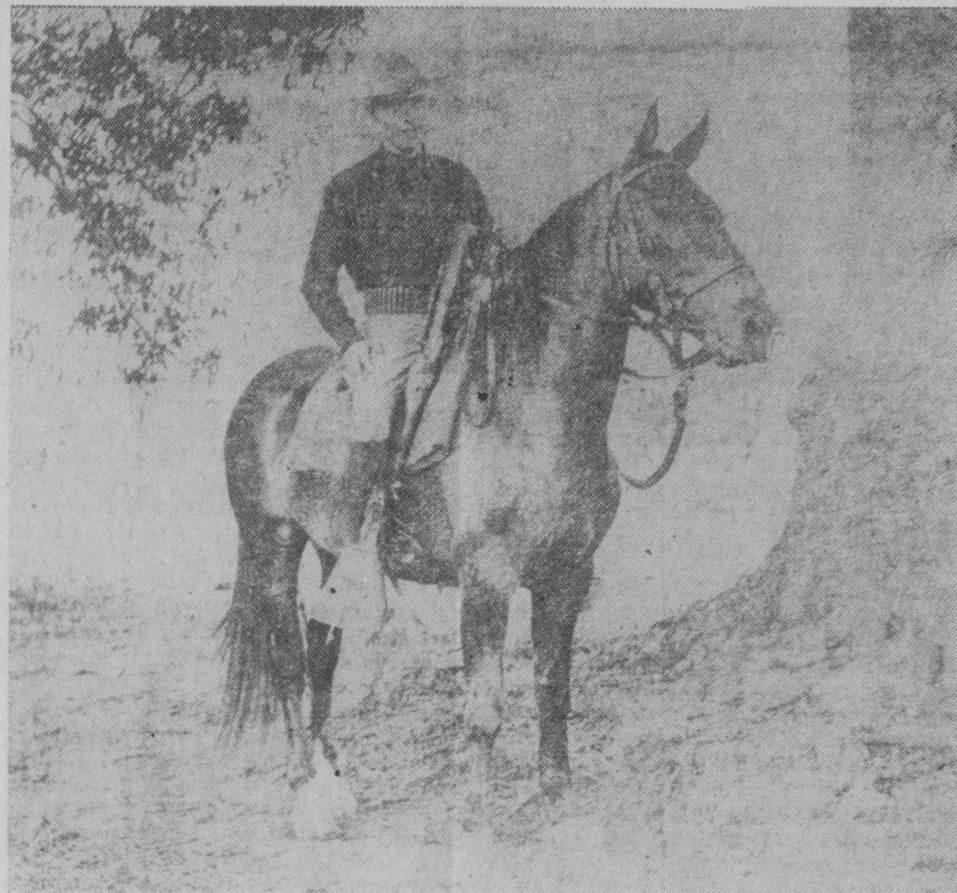

McRae was among the very first to enlist from this county for the Spanish American War, enlisting with Company D, 33rd Michigan Volunteer Infantry, and served throughout the Cuban campaign.

Very soon after that brief war with Spain ended in the summer of 1899, the United States suddenly found itself with its first colonial problem. The Filipinos had expected independence and, when instead the islands were annexed by the United States, many of their "liberated" people, far from welcoming American rule, soon came to dislike the new masters as much as the old ones.

Unlike some Americans, the Filipinos did not view annexation as an act of humanity toward an ignorant, downtrodden and backward people and on February 4, 1899, two days before the senate ratified the annexation treaty, Filipino insurgents attacked the American expeditionary force stationed in and around Manila.

McRae had been a member of that expeditionary force, having enlisted in Company M, 19th United States Infantry for three years and saw much service against the insurgent forces.

At first it seemed an easy matter to put down the insurrection, for in fight after fight, the Americans beat back the disorganized and poorly equipped rebel army. Finally realizing that they could not win by conventional means of warfare, thousands of Filipinos resorted to guerrilla tactics and

DAN C. McRAE of Tawas City was one of the first men from this county to enlist during the Spanish-American War and later served during the Philippine Insurrection—probably the most unpopular military involvement by this country until the Vietnam War. McRae stayed in the Philippines to work a gold claim and died of malaria fever. This picture accompanied his obituary in the February 23, 1903, issue of The Tawas Herald.

the struggle became a grim series of sudden ambushes, brutal reprisals and small patrol actions in the jungle—a type of combat for which the harassed Americans were totally unprepared.

Once the rebels discarded their uniforms, the transformation from soldier to civilian was simply a matter of hiding rifle and bolo in the brush. Villagers who turned out of their thatched huts to wave flags and shout "amigo" at passing American columns became instant traitors again the moment the troops faded from sight.

According to a letter written to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander McRae of Tawas City and printed in the November 15, 1899, issue of The Tawas Herald, McRae's unit had been sent to the Island of Cebu to relieve a Tennessee volunteer unit.

"We remained in the town of Cebu about a week and then went into the mountains to stir up the robbers," wrote McRae. "They have some very strong fortifications, but we routed them out of six in two days."

"In about two hours we were in a creek at the bottom of a high mountain, topped by a breastwork from behind which they fired upon us, but failed to reach us. Our advance guards were in a narrow path when they began rolling rock down on them; none were hurt, although some had narrow escapes. Part of the company went back and climbed a steep hill from which they fired on the insurgents, driving away their scouts and advancing along the ridge, while we advanced up the ravine."

"When about halfway up, word was sent back that they had captured one outpost but no prisoners. The insurgents had two canoes, but we could find neither of them. They either buried them or threw them into a deep ravine. They carried off their dead and wounded. We burned their shacks and tore up their works and then left."

The above action was typical of the fighting in the Philippines—American troops would be fired upon, an attempt would be made on capture of the insurgents, but they simply faded into the jungle to set up an ambush at some other point.

McRae said that his unit had waited all the next day for orders before they learned they were to leave for the Town of Naga. "I went down into the valley but could not see much as it had been overrun by the Tennesseans, but we got some chickens which we roasted and ate. They would not allow us to forage or we might have had lots of meat and fish."

"The next day we took the Tennessee boys' place and we settled down to business. Naga is a small place owned by a rich family that owns the whole countryside. The people love the American soldiers and would do anything for us. It is a nice quiet place, but I don't like it and would rather be at home."

When the 19th Infantry was ordered home, McRae asked for and received a transfer to Company A, 29th United States Infantry so that he could remain in the Philippines until the expiration of his term of service.

McRae and his new unit continued to pursue the insurgent forces in the mountains. His letter written January 18, 1900, from Minglanilla reports that his unit captured one of the main forts of the insurgents. "It had a fine flag and more rifles and cannons than any of the others."

What McRae did not say was that the Americans were using the old Springfield "trap door" single shot rifles, while the Filipinos were using bolt action Mauser rifles with smokeless powder in their cartridges.

"We got about half of the way up the mountain when eight or 10 bullets passed over our heads. Three of us dropped behind a large stone and the other fellow ran back to the company. We waited awhile to see if they would fire again, but I think they were kept busy from some other quarter, so we joined the company without further trouble."

Fighting similar to the above description continued until the spring of 1901. The Americans received a break when a trusted messenger of Insurrection Leader Aguinaldo, was captured. The message was decoded and General Funston devised a plan to capture Aguinaldo by a bit of deception, using some of the Filipino troops loyal to the American cause.

The daring plan was a success, Aguinaldo was captured and, within a few weeks, issued a proclamation from Manila urging his followers to lay down their arms and accept terms from the Americans. Except for a few pockets of resistance, the rebellion was broken.

Back home, some anti-imperialists criticized anything or anyone connected with the American intervention in the Philippines. The furor was much like that caused many years later over this country's involvement in Vietnam, although on a much smaller scale.

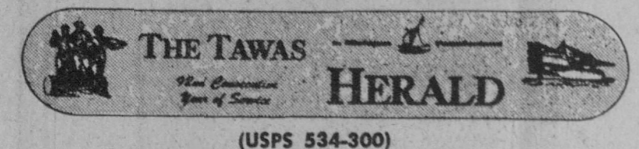

With the fighting over, McRae, being the adventurer that he was, decided to take his discharge in the Philippines. His release from the army was dated May 28, 1902, but he never returned home.

VOLUNTEER UNITS of the American army were equipped with the single shot Springfield "trap door" rifle in the war with Spain and during the Philippine Insurrection. Opposing troops were equipped with bolt action Mauser rifles firing more modern smokeless powder ammunition. This old print shows one volunteer unit on the march.

I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America and to the republic for which it stands; one nation, under God, indivisible with liberty and justice for all.

Comments on a Resolution

It would be rather easy and probably wise for this corner not to comment on a resolution adopted last Wednesday by the Iosco County Board of Commissioners, but that action does demand some comment. The county commission addressed and took action on an extremely touchy subject—nepotism in local government. Simply stated, it is the act of a department head in hiring a family member to fill a position within his own department. First off, it is this corner's opinion that nepotism has never been a serious problem in this county, although there have been some complaints over the years by citizen-taxpayers when more than one member of a family has been on the county payroll—particularly when it occurs in the same office. Man and wife combinations—an elected official and his spouse—in the operation of a county office are not unique to this county. It is not all that bad if the office operates efficiently and the public is not subjected to domestic quarrels. To this corner's knowledge, the latter has never been a problem locally. Some offices occasionally need part-time help and spouses of department heads have assisted when needed. This, too, is no big deal and most citizens do not get upset unless the situation gets out of hand and numerous family members show up on the government payroll. Actually, the county commission probably has no legal ground on which to stand with its resolution—courts have held in the past that hiring and firing of employees is strictly the responsibility of the elected official. But anytime there is a complaint over a hiring practice, the complaint by citizen-taxpayers is always registered with the county commission. Elected department heads naturally get upset when an accusing finger is pointed in their direction, whether justified or not. Since the advent of labor unions in negotiating contracts for county employees, complaints over nepotism have become more frequent and the commission is on the "firing line" because it is the governmental agency which has responsibility in negotiating contracts with employees as it controls the county's purse strings. Department heads actually should be involved in those negotiations, but it is easy to see where complications might arise when family members are involved. County commissioners, too, are not adverse to naming, friends, relatives or fellow commissioners to appointive offices in this county and this, too, is a form of nepotism. The practice has resulted in some resentment in the past. In any event, this corner does not believe that anyone should get bent out of shape over the resolution adopted last week. It is a reasonable request and one in the best interest of the county.

Know Your Michigan Law

By Attorney General FRANK J. KELLEY

The term "sting" became well known a few years ago when a movie by that name was based on an elaborate scheme put together by clever con men. However, a "sting" in law enforcement involves police officers posing as criminals to gather evidence. In past years, Michigan law enforcement agencies have conducted some sting operations with success. But because of stringent legal safeguards, officers always approach sting operations with caution to avoid what is called "entrapment."

"Entrapment," as defined by Michigan law, prohibits police officers influencing a person to commit a crime he or she would not have otherwise committed. A recent sting operation conducted by the attorney general's office and Lansing Police Department resulted in the arrest and successful prosecution of 24 juveniles and 18 adults. As part of the "sting," undercover police officers purchased $137,000 in stolen goods from the neighborhood burglary ring. This sting operation was conducted properly because police officers provided the defendants with an opportunity to commit the crime by setting up a store whose apparent "business" was the purchase of stolen property. Officers did not, however, instigate the crime. For criminal evidence obtained in a sting operation to be useable in court, the defendant must not have been induced or entrapped into committing the crime by police. On the basis of the defendant's testimony, the judge determines whether the case goes on to trial or whether it is dismissed because entrapment has occurred. It is not easy for law enforcement agencies—they have to be especially careful because Michigan and federal courts use different standards to determine if entrapment was used. The federal courts apply what is known as the "subjective" test, in which the defendant's state of mind is examined to determine any inclination to commit the crime. Michigan courts apply an "objective" test, which focuses solely upon the conduct of the police in the sting operation. A hearing is held to determine whether the police handled themselves properly, not whether the defendant was inclined to commit the crime in the first place.

Another attraction to our neighborhood is the erection of signs on a lawn to show what a good loser the gentleman proved to be after a line dispute case. This is interesting to the reader and harms no one. Then, we have two cute little chickens going merrily up and down the back lot lines. The crow is a reminder of old times when down on the farm. I, myself, love these little things and express appreciation to those who give me such free pleasure. Sincerely, Avis Vance

To the Editor: The chamber of commerce board of directors has asked me to write to you to express disappointment in the selection of the "Indian theme" for the Tawas City area. Members feel our heritage came from the lumbering industry, and in fact, both Tawas City and East Tawas were formerly lumbering camps. The board feels lumbering should be the predominate theme with a touch of Indian lore incorporated. Sincerely, ROGER W. JACKSON Executive Director

Pot-Luck Rounded Out Council Year

A pot-luck dinner, with husbands attending, rounded out the business year for the St. Joseph Council of Catholic Women Thursday evening, June 19. About 40 were present. After the meal, a brief business session was opened with a prayer by the Rev. Fr. Francis Murphy. The June 28-29 bazaar was the main topic of discussion. Regina Frank, president, reminded the heads of tables to schedule enough women to help for a few hours at a time. Thursday, August 21, a salad luncheon will be served at the social center. A letter from DCCW Pres. Eleanor Donahue announced a meeting at St. Michael's Parish Hall, Roscommon, Wednesday, June 25. Carpools will be formed. President Donahue honored the group with her presence Thursday evening. Nominations for three vacancies of officers was postponed until the September 18 meeting.

Had Perfect Attendance

Cited for perfect attendance during the 1979-80 school year are the following seven students out of a 679 enrollment: Dawn Klinger and Thomas Reder, both of East Tawas, ninth graders; James Alexander and Daniel Barry, both of East Tawas, and Brian Beaubien, Theresa Clark and Tamorah Nickell, Tawas City, 10th graders.

Commission Expects to Turn Back Landfill Operation to Local Units

Dear Editor:

I thank the Lord each day for small but wonderful things. Today, while driving back to the county building from our home on Tawas Lake Road, I felt so grateful for the way our neighbors take pride in their property.

The people on the corner had a car cross their lawn which did great damage. To repair the ugly ruts, the lady of the house and a kind neighbor made a beautiful flower bed, complete with white pine trees, ferns and a rock for a monument to the offender. Another attraction to our neighborhood is the erection of signs on a lawn to show what a good loser the gentleman proved to be after a line dispute case. This is interesting to the reader and harms no one. Then, we have two cute little chickens going merrily up and down the back lot lines. The crow is a reminder of old times when down on the farm. Termination of funding a county landfill after June 30, 1981, is expected, according to a resolution adopted Wednesday by the Iosco County Board of Commissioners. The commission took action to increase by 10.28 percent the annual fee paid by the county to Multi-County Landfill Company, but the resolution determined that the availability of federal revenue sharing funds was questionable beginning in 1980. The action increased the annual fee from $104,599.20 to $115,349.25, according to terms of a 1978 contract between the commission and Multi-County. During discussion, it was felt that a meeting should be held with local units of government to discuss turning the landfill operation back to local units. County support of the landfill has been a controversial subject since the service was inaugurated a number of years ago. Two or three local units of government chose to operate individual landfills and one contracts for this service with a private firm.

Considerable time and money was spent in studying landfills by the county planning commission and a plan was developed and submitted to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources. That plan apparently was not accepted fully by the state. The county contracted with Multi-County Landfill Company to provide the service, paying the annual fee out of federal revenue sharing money received by the county. Prior to becoming a county-sponsored service, Tawas City and East Tawas had contracted with the firm to provide landfill service off Monument Road. Com. Carlton Merschel said

Wednesday that the county had gotten into the landfill business "because it had extra money at the time through federal revenue sharing." In its resolution, the commission noted that if federal revenue sharing is renewed this year by congress, the commission would be required to fund state-mandated county services with the money and it no longer anticipates funding the landfill after termination of the present contract. A meeting is to be held with local governmental units and the county planning commission to establish an action plan. That meeting is to be held as soon as possible.

Here in Toronto, we have 300 Canadian geese who refuse to fly south for the winter. Why? They have been spoiled by people feeding them! It seems incredible that they would prefer the zero weather of a Canadian winter to the warmth of the South. But, they seem to have it all figured out. Why fly a couple of thousand miles when they can get plenty of grain and other birdseed right here in Toronto? "Endure hardness," Paul wrote, "Put on the whole armor of God." Fight "the good fight" of faith! Again and again his ringing cry inspired the Christians who were living in the midst of corrupt and idol-worshipping pagans. Many of them responded to his call and were determined to rely on God's word rather than compromise with the heathen practices all around them. Paul promised them "a crown of life"—one that faded not. PRAYER O God, fit and equip us daily for the fight against evil. Amen. Friday, June 27, Tawas City branch of the Iosco-Arenac Regional Library will begin its move from 1135 South US-23 to 510 Lake Street, the former Adamek residence, immediately south of the city hall. The library will be closed from Saturday, June 28, through Wednesday, July 2, and will open Thursday, July 3, at the new location. While the house is not ideally suited for library use, its location should make it readily accessible to the majority of the city's residents. The city council hopes that this move is the last temporary location until a new, permanent facility is provided. Plans are to meet shortly with an architect to develop recommendations for a combined fire hall/library facility to take to the voters in November.

(Read Hebrews 6:1-6) "Work out your own salvation with fear and trembling." (Philippians 2:12)

There was a lovely little lake near where we stayed in Florida and we spent many hours watching a flock of sea gulls. It seemed that they preferred to feed on the easy pickings of the park benches rather than fly to the bay only a few blocks away and forage in the sea.

Three Fruit Salads Are a Real Treasure

Few salad ingredients are as flavorful and attractive as fresh, jewel-like fruits. And now is the time to feature these colorful nuggets from nature in creative salads for appetizers, side dishes, main dishes and desserts. Why now? Many fresh fruits are in peak supply during the warmer months, and when supplies are high, fruits are generally more flavorful and less expensive. Plus, there's nothing more refreshing when the temperature rises than a wonderful, cool salad studded with beautiful fruits.

When you include fresh fruit salads on your menu, be sure they are at their best by following these fundamental buying and storage guidelines found in an informative new cookbook from Kraft, "Salads—From Beginning to Endive." At the store, look for firm, unblemished fruits. Citrus fruits, pineapples and melons should feel heavy for their actual size. While apples and oranges are best bought at full maturity, bananas, peaches, pears, melons and pineapples can be ripened at room temperature in a fruit bowl or loosely closed bag. Ripened fruit should be stored in a cool, dry place or in the refrigerator.

Once you get your fruit treasures home from the market, stretch your imagination and experiment with creative salad settings and combinations. Here are three fantastic fruit salad ideas from the Kraft Kitchens to get you started.

- RAINBOW MELON SALAD
 1 cup orange sherbet Apple chunks
 1/2 cup Kraft coleslaw dressing Cantaloupe balls
 Honeydew or cresshaw melon Banana chunks
 Grapes
- Combine sherbet and dressing; mix well. Chill. Cut melon in half horizontally; remove seeds. Scoop out melon balls, leaving shells intact. Cut zigzag pattern 1 inch deep around top of shell. Combine fruit; mix lightly. Spoon into melon shells; serve with dressing.
- PINEAPPLE SALAD BOWL
 1/2 cup Kraft chunky blue cheese dressing
 1 tablespoon sugar
 1/2 cup heavy cream, whipped
 1 fresh pineapple
 2 bananas, sliced
- Combine dressing and sugar; mix well. Fold in whipped cream. Chill. Cut pineapple in half lengthwise through crown. Remove fruit, leaving shells intact. Core fruit; cut into chunks. Combine with bananas, oranges, strawberries and blueberries; mix lightly. Spoon into pineapple shells; top with dressing. Garnish with nuts. 2 servings
- CALIFORNIA AVOCADO REFRESHER

 1/2 cup honeydew melon chunks
 1/2 cup celery slices
 4 avocado halves, peeled Kraft French dressing

A Swim-A-Cross open to all swimmers will be held July 26 at the Oscoda pool from 8:00 a. m. to 8:00 p. m. The event is to help raise funds for necessary Red Cross community services. This year, some of these services have been aid to Mio fire victims, water safety classes, first aid and CPR classes, blood services, hospital volunteers and services to military families.

Understanding Inland Lakes

Understanding inland lakes is the central theme for the July 24 "Inland Lake Management Conference" scheduled in Gaylord. Sponsored by Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service and other cooperating agencies, the conference is designed to help waterfront owners get answers to their individual problems and learn lake management principles.

Since Iosco County boasts 35 inland lakes and hundreds of riparians or waterfront owners, this nearby conference should be of special interest. In addition to the general session on lake management and a panel discussion on where to get assistance with lake problems, seven specialized workshop sessions will be presented. Each conference participant may attend three of the following: Lake management strategies, septic tank design and maintenance, water analysis procedures and monitoring, improving fish resources, aquatic plants and what they tell you, legal rights and issues, and actions for lake problem solving.

The conference will be held at Gaylord High School Thursday, July 24, from 9:00 a. m. until 4:30 p. m. Advance registration by July 21 is necessary to ensure meeting space materials and lunch. Conference agenda and registration forms are available through the MSU Cooperative Extension Service in Iosco County, by phoning 362-3449.

In addition to Cooperative Extension Service, the following agencies and organizations are cooperating to make the conference a reality: Northwest Michigan Regional Planning and Development Commission, Michigan Lake and Stream Association, Michigan Department of Natural Resources, Northeast Michigan Council of Govern-

Proceedings of the Iosco County Board of Commissioners

JUNE SESSION

June 4, 1980

A regular meeting of the Iosco County Board of Commissioners held at the county building in Tawas City on June 4, 1980, pursuant to published schedule.

Meeting called to order at 2:35 p. m. by Chairman Webb and the roll called.

Present: Stech (District 1), George (District 2), Merschel (District 3), Ulman (District 4) and Webb (District 5).

Absent: None.

Commissioner Ulman presented and moved adoption of the following resolution, motion being supported by Stech:

Your administrative committee recommends that, because the Cooperative Extension Service 4-H program assistant will be on maternity leave, authorization be granted to hire a summer work-study 4-H intern for up to 40 hours per week at the rate of $3.20 per hour for the period from June 9, 1980, to September 21, 1980, with the direct cost to the county not to exceed $320.00 for total time worked, and funding to come from salary savings effected while 4-H program assistant on maternity leave.

Following a discussion of the matter, motion carried.

County Attorney Ronald Tyler appeared before the board and discussed with members the ballot language for two county-wide millage proposals for the August 5th, 1980, primary election, one seeking 5 mills for four years for operation and maintenance of the Iosco County Medical Care Facility and the other seeking a renewal of 2 mills for an additional six years for maintaining and expanding services for senior citizens.

Commissioner Merschel presented and moved adoption of the following resolution, motion being supported by George and carried.

Your building and grounds committee recommends that:

WHEREAS, Iosco County has supported numerous programs designed to help conserve residential, commercial, and governmental energy use; and

WHEREAS, local Iosco organizations have combined forces to construct a passive solar collector greenhouse, demonstrating their commitment to energy conservation and education;

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the Iosco County Board of Commissioners is extremely interested in the state locating an energy demonstration center in Iosco County.

County Clerk D. Keith Pappas requested a clarification of the provision in the contract with the 81st District Court employees authorizing the court to work 40 hours per week during peak work-load seasons, asking if district court employees are to be paid on the 40-hour basis for holidays, vacation, etc. during these periods, or if the additional 5 hours per week should be interpreted as extra time over and above the normal 35-hour work week. Following a brief discussion, the matter was referred to Finance Chairman George for investigation and report.

The clerk raised a question with respect to the people covered by the resolution adopted May 5, 1980, increasing the mileage reimbursement to 18½ cents effective May 1, 1980, indicating his understanding to be that the increase is applicable to only employees on the county payroll, and not to members of any boards or commissions. In discussion of the matter, it was the consensus of board members that it was the intent of the resolution to exclude members of all county boards and commissions. The matter was thereupon referred to committee for study and possible clarification.

Committees were ordered to their respective duties at 3:15 p. m., the board to stand in recess until 4:00 p. m.

Upon call to order at 4:00 p. m., Commissioner Merschel presented and moved adoption of the following resolution.

Motion being supported by Ulman and carried.

Your building and grounds/insurance committee recommends acceptance of the proposal submitted by the Tawas Bay Agency, Inc. for a 1-year retrospective plan "J" for workmen's compensation insurance for the County of Iosco and the Iosco County Medical Care Facility, with CETA employees to be considered county employees for purposes of this resolution, to become effective as soon as possible.

In further discussion relating to workmen's compensation insurance, it was proposed that the board extend its gratitude to Tawas City insurance Agent Del Mayes for introducing the retrospective insurance concept to the board.

Commissioner Stech presented and moved adoption of the following resolution, motion being supported by Merschel and carried.

Your airport committee recommends that hangar rental and tie-down fees for the Iosco County Airport be established as follows: Enclosed individual hangars - monthly fee, $40.00; open-bay hangars - monthly fee, $35.00; tie-down fee - monthly, $15.00; tie-down fee - weekly, $5.00; tie-down fee - per day, $2.00.

These fees to be applied towards repayment of $50,000 state loan for runway expansion.

Commissioner Ulman presented and moved adoption of the following resolution, motion being supported by Stech and carried.

Your administrative committee recommends that Chairman John D. Webb, Jr. be authorized to sign the attached letters of agreement with the Region 7-B - Employment and Training Consortium for various CETA worksites throughout the county.

Finance Chairman George presented and moved adoption of the following resolutions:

Your finance committee recommends that travel expense vouchers submitted by County Road Commissioners A. J. Aulrich, Ralph T. White and Henry M. Conley in the amounts of $17.00, $14.96 and $41.82, respectively, be approved for payment from road commission funds.

Supported by Ulman and carried.

WHEREAS, the Iosco County Board of Commissioners and the Iosco County Social Services Board have determined that, in order to maintain the present level of service at the Iosco County Medical Care Facility, the taxpayers of Iosco County shall have to be willing to support the operation of this facility; therefore,

BE IT RESOLVED, that the Iosco County Board of Commissioners hereby orders the following question to be submitted to the registered and qualified electors of Iosco County at the primary election to be held on August 5, 1980, in the following terms, subject, however, to the ballot wording being approved by counsel and certified by the chairman of the board of commissioners to the county clerk by June 17, 1980:

"Shall the Iosco County Board of Commissioners be authorized to levy up to five tenths of one mill, annually, for a four year period beginning with the 1980 levy, funds so collected to be used by the Iosco County Social Services Board exclusively for the operation and maintenance of the Iosco County Medical Care Facility."

Supported by Merschel and carried.

Your finance committee recommends that the resolution adopted January 16, 1980, authorizing the ballot question for the Iosco County Commission on Aging millage renewal be rescinded and superseded by the following:

WHEREAS, the Iosco County Board of Commissioners has been appropriately requested to place on the ballot at the August 5, 1980, primary election, a proposal for renewal of millage previously approved for maintaining and expanding services for the elderly; therefore,

BE IT RESOLVED, that the Iosco County Board of Commissioners hereby orders the question of renewing the levy of additional millage for expanded services to the elderly, to be submitted to the registered and qualified electors of Iosco County at the primary election to be held on August 5, 1980, in the following terms, subject, however, to the ballot wording being approved by counsel and certified by the chairman of the Iosco County Board of Commissioners to the county clerk by June 17, 1980:

"Shall the levy of two tenths of one mill, annually, be renewed for a six year period beginning with the 1981 levy, funds so collected to be used by the Iosco County Commission on Aging for maintaining and expanding services for those Iosco County citizens 60 years of age and older."

Supported by Merschel and carried.

Continuing, George referred to the need for a budget adjustment due to an anticipated deficit by the last quarter of the year, and, after a period of discussion concerning the language to be contained in a proposed resolution, presented and moved adoption of the following, motion being supported by Stech and carried.

WHEREAS, Governor Milliken's executive order of 5/28/80 reduces the monies to be received by Iosco County from state income tax by 30%, effective with the August, 1980, payment;

BE IT RESOLVED, that all department heads be requested, based on line item expenditures through May 31, 1980, to prepare alternative line-item budgets for the remainder of the 19-80 fiscal year showing a 5% and a 10% reduction in department expenditures, these revised budgets to be ready for a review by the board of commissioners by June 23, 1980.

A brief recess was ordered by the chairman at 4:35 p. m.

Upon call to order at 4:50 p. m., Finance Chairman George presented and moved adoption of the following resolution, which was supported by Stech:

WHEREAS, in December, 1978, and on several subsequent occasions, the sheriff's department employees have rejected contract offers by the county which were compatible with: (1) Other county courthouse employees, (2) compensation paid surrounding county sheriff's department employees, and (3) the presidential wage guidelines of 1978 and 1979; and

WHEREAS, the sheriff's department employees are presently requesting the arbitrators to award wage and compensation increases including the following:

10% to 15% Wage increases per year for up to 3 years
Up to additional 10% increase for all sergeants

A new additional shift premium of up to 5% of wages
Additional, unlimited cost-of-living increases

Additional, unlimited increases in longevity pay bonuses by removing the present cap on such payments; and

WHEREAS, if these wages are awarded by the arbitrators, several sheriff's department employees will earn several thousand dollars more per year than elected department heads such as the sheriff, county clerk, county treasurer, and register of deeds; and

WHEREAS, the sheriff's department employees have suggested that these wage demands be met by either eliminating the county road patrol and/or other county services; and

WHEREAS, the board of commissioners believes these demands to be unreasonable and excessive, and further, that other county services should not be curtailed because of the expenditures necessary to defend the taxpayers' interest in the labor negotiations; therefore,

BE IT RESOLVED, that all legal expenses associated with the labor arbitration of the sheriff's department employee contract shall be charged to the arbitration and contingency fund line-item numbers 355, 372, 388, 402, and 413 in the law enforcement 1980 budget.

Following a discussion of the matter, wherein it was indicated that massive lay-offs would be required if the board loses the arbitration, and further indicated that legal expenses have been substantial due to the extended negotiations required, it was moved by Stech and supported by Merschel that the resolution be tabled until the next meeting for further study. Motion carried unanimously.

In continued discussion concerning the additional legal expense incurred due to extended negotiations, the opinion was expressed that other departments should not be penalized because of the unreasonableness of the sheriff's department employees. Upon motion by Stech, supported by Merschel and prevailing, the minutes of the board of commissioners meeting of May 21, 1980, were approved as drafted and presented by the clerk.

Commissioner Ulman referred to the request by the clerk for clarification of the resolution adopted May 5, 1980, increasing the mileage allowance for county employees to 18½ cents per mile, proposing that a resolution amendment be prepared excluding all appointed board and commission members. Following a brief discussion, the matter was tabled for further study.

Finance Chairman George raised the matter of a nepotism clause for inclusion in the sheriff's employees' contract, whereupon Chairman Webb indicated that if they are desirous of including the provision, he is "all for it."

The business scheduled for the day having been concluded, it was moved by Merschel and supported by Stech to adjourn until June 18, 1980, 2:00 p. m., or subject to the call of the chair upon 24 hours notice to board members and the news media. Motion carried and meeting adjourned at 5:05 p. m.

Making Hay is Backbone of Many Mich. Farm Incomes

Making hay is worth millions of dollars in Michigan, in fact, for many farms, it is the backbone of the operation. Moving into the future, that backbone is going to be even more important, which is one of the reasons Agriculture Expo '80: Forage is being held at Michigan State University Tuesday-Wednesday, July 22-23.

For farmers looking for ways to improve their livestock feeding programs but with less money, Expo could be quite valuable from the standpoint of livestock protein requirements, land improvements and return on investment. Expo, cosponsored by the MSU Cooperative Extension Service, features 80 acres of forage harvesting demonstrations, 30 acres of commercial exhibits and educational displays, located on Bennett Road, which is on the south side of the MSU campus, near the beef research facilities. About 20 acres have been set aside for parking. Expo is open to the general public.

Besides the action demonstration and machinery displays, there will be ample opportunity to discuss forage production with MSU agronomists.

The trio was engaged in improving and developing this property when McRae was taken sick with malaria fever and was removed to the hospital at Naga. He recovered sufficiently to return to his claim, where he suffered a relapse, then showed improvement. He died two months later.

"Dan was universally respected by all who knew him for his quiet and unassuming manner," stated his obituary printed in The Tawas Herald on February 20, 1903. "His discharge paper, which is now in the possession of his parents, shows him to have been an excellent soldier and highly spoken of by his officers."

McRae was 25 years and 11 months of age at the time of his death. Like the Philippine insurrection, his name is practically forgotten in his home community, save for the fact that it is included in the list of veterans which is read each Memorial Day at the cemetery.

Commission Withdraws Support of AuGres R. Watershed Project

A resolution adopted Wednesday by the Iosco County Board of Commissioners withdrew this county's support of the controversial AuGres River Watershed project.

This action came in response to a letter from the United States Department of Agriculture, which stated it was considering whether to continue planning or terminate assistance on the project.

Although the county commission and the old county board of supervisors have gone on record opposing the project since the inception of discussion more than 40 years ago, Iosco Soil Conservation District was one of the original sponsors and, according to a report Wednesday by Harry Krueger, county drain commissioner, ISCD apparently still supports the project.

The department of agriculture in its letter to Krueger stated that it had received several letters from landowners during the past several weeks who oppose or support the project.

On May 22, a public meeting was held at AuGres for the purpose of gaining public comment on the proposed watershed plan. Approximately 380 people attended the meeting and, although no count was made of the number of people who were opposed, in favor or undecided, the majority of those making comments were opposed to the project.

The majority of those opposition comments concerned the cost of the project and the increase in taxes to pay the local share.

In his remarks to the commission Wednesday, Krueger said that Iosco originally was to receive a recreational area in the Whittemore area as part of the plan. Since then, the recreational aspect had been removed from planning.

A lawsuit brought by several landowners against the augmented drainage board is currently pending in Arenac County Circuit Court. That suit seeks to force the start of the project.

During discussion at Wednesday's meeting, Chairman John Webb pointed out that only about six families would benefit from the flood control project, estimated to cost approximately $6,000,000.

It was reported that Arenac County residents are now attempting to change the formula for paying the local share of the project whereby Iosco County would be assessed a higher cost.

A resolution adopted by the commission stated that it appears that the general consensus of parties involved are opposed against future development of the AuGres watershed project and that the cost of the project during the existing inflationary period would place an undue hardship on the involved property owners of Iosco County. The resolution also noted there would be little, if any, benefit from the project for this county.

The resolution stated that Iosco was withdrawing its support and further recommended that the project be terminated. Copies of the resolution were to be sent to the department of agriculture, members of congress and the state legislature.

ANOTHER WAY TO GET THERE

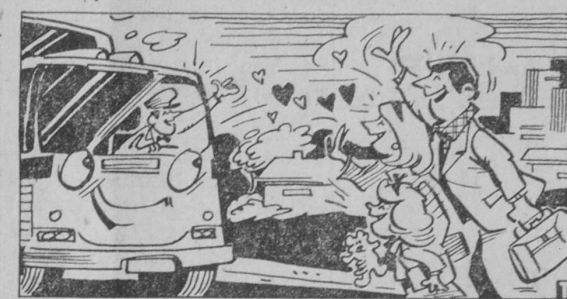

Although the bus is the most widely used system of public intercity transportation, few people really know very much about the bus.

For one thing, there is a multitude of intercity bus companies, more than 1,000 of them spanning the nation unfettered by the need for tracks to follow or airports to land at.

More than 15,000 communities are served by America's buses, over 14,000 of them by no other means of public transportation.

Buses ride a route system covering more than 277,000 miles, north to south, east to west, providing regularly scheduled service to every section of the country.

Because of that, buses are a popular way for families to go on vacation. No one has to drive so everyone can enjoy the trip—and the comfort of the bus. It's also a necessity for small communities that receive packages and mail by bus.

Buses are the way to go for many Americans.

What's more, buses are energy efficient. A recent government study dated February 1979 shows buses do better at saving fuel than trains, planes and cars combined. Intercity buses, according to that same report, get 139 passenger miles per gallon, while it's only 41 for trains, 41 for cars, 26 for airplanes.

Recognizing that intercity bus service is a critical fuel-saving alternative, the Dept. of Energy granted it full priority in obtaining fuel so the bus can get you anywhere in America you want to go in times of fuel shortage. It's also a low-cost alternative. Fifteen million more persons rode intercity buses last year than the year before.

Last year's figure was 350 million intercity bus passengers. They traveled a combined total of 25.4 billion passenger miles. About 55 percent of last year's intercity bus riders were passengers on the industry's charter and tour services.

Buses, it would appear, can help carry America through energy crises.
