Otisville Hunter Wounded in Left Leg by Hunting Pal

One hunting accident was investigated by Iosco County Sheriff's Department during the opening week-end of firearms season for deer. James F. Bujaki, 39, Otisville, was treated Saturday at Tawas Hospital for a bullet wound to the left leg. The victim was hunting with a Saginaw friend, Dennis B.

Pogroszewski, about 1½ miles off Webb Road in Plainfield Township. The two men were hunting about 100 yards apart when a four-point buck walked between them. Pogroszewski, using a .30 caliber carbine rifle, downed the buck and when it got up he fired a second time. The slug missed the buck and hit Bujaki, who was in a kneeling position preparing to shoot at the deer himself. The slug struck the victim in the left thigh and exited through the calf of his leg. The victim was rushed to Tawas Hospital by the ambulance stationed at Hale. The shooting was ruled accidental.

East Tawas Council Advises Alternate Snowmobile Site

Objection by East Tawas residents toward proposed use of the state boat ramp as a marshaling point for visiting snowmobilers resulted in an alternative site suggested Monday night by the East Tawas Council. Tawas Chamber of Commerce had proposed use of the new state ramp and parking lot west of Hester's Market, with snowmobiles traveling north on Wadsworth to Washington Street and then west several blocks to cross the Tawas River at Bridge Street. Councilmen felt that a more reasonable location and one more acceptable to residents would be to locate the marshaling point at the city-owned Dewey Durant Park, which is closer to the bridge. In other matters, permission was given to erect a tent on city property along the bay for use during the Perchville Festival in February. Earl Bennington and the Rotary Club were given permission to establish exercise trails at Bolen Park, an eight-acre parcel of land owned by the city in Eastland Subdivision. The council refused to budget from its position that an expenditure of $1,200 for an appraisal of the city garage for insurance purposes was an unnecessary expense. The city paid $1,700 several years ago to appraise its property and annually spends $300 to update the appraisal. After acquiring the former county garage for city use, the council established a value of $150,000 for the building. The appraisal firm wishes to make an on site inspection. Approval was given to the purchase of Christmas turkeys for city employees. William Smith was appointed to the park board to replace Gordon Huck, who has moved out of the state.

City Funds Regional EDA; Wants Meeting Schedule

A $400 contribution authorizing Tawas City's continued support of the Northeastern Michigan Economic Development authority was given Monday night by the city council, but councilmen were upset over the fact that its representative had never been notified of any meetings during the past year. The organization promotes economic development on a regional basis, which the council felt was worthwhile and included an appropriation in its 1980 budget. Councilman Donald Hayes was appointed last year as the local representative on the organization's executive committee. Although stating he did not feel sighted, Hayes told councilmen that he had never been notified of meetings during the year and felt that the city should be represented. A letter is to be sent by the city asking the desired notification of meeting dates. In other matters, the council authorized designation of Farmers and Merchants State Bank of Hale as the depository for $65,000 in bridge bonds, which the bank purchased two weeks ago. The council authorized continuance of a policy adopted last year which gives city employees a paid holiday on the day after Thanksgiving. The matter is to be reviewed under the current revision of personnel policies and rules. Authorization was given to the city manager to exercise options to purchase property for a new fire hall site approved by voters at the general election. The site is located at the southwest corner of Fourth Avenue and Mathews Street. The city is to pay $4,400 to the Detroit and Mackinac Railway for its parcel and $2,200 to William Borosch for a portion of his land on the west side of the site. On behalf of the city council and fire department, Mayor David Westcott expressed appreciation to voters for approving the new fire hall.

School Officials Deny It Oscoda Teachers Claim Harassment

Oscoda teachers, who ended a three-week strike and returned to school November 10, charged Thursday that since their return they have been subjected to harassment, threats of firing, intimidation and are the victims of broken promises. Lois Roach, president of Oscoda Education Association, said the teachers were greeted by four police cruisers when they returned to school. "That set the tone for the board's present attitude," she said. "And it went straight downhill from there. The board and administration now seem to think it's 'open season' on teachers," she said. "Once we were back in the classrooms, the harassment and attempts to intimidate us began. Teachers were forbidden to mention any aspect of our recent contract and to wear no buttons or arm bands or put up any information about the situation. Reprimands, including firings, were to be the penalty for those who did." The teachers' own bulletin board, where they share information with other teachers, was ripped down, and their materials confiscated.

"Supt. Robert Hodges repudiated a statement he signed which said teachers would return to work under terms of the old contract. He now says teachers have no contract and no rights whatsoever." Mrs. Roach continued, "Teachers are furious. We have no intention of submitting to being treated like second-class citizens. Even though we are back in school, we fully intend to achieve a contract that is fair to both sides. We plan to do whatever is necessary to reach that goal." Mrs. Roach said Oscoda's 173 teachers went on strike October 20 after six months of bargaining failed to produce a new contract. According to Mrs. Roach, salaries and length of a new contract are still to be set.

ET Clerk Suggests Voting Machines

A proposal by City Clerk Clyde Soper to purchase five voting machines at an estimated cost of $15,000 was turned over Monday night to the East Tawas Council's finance committee for consideration. In a letter to Mayor Robert Bolen, the city clerk believed that use of voting machines would result in considerable savings in time. Over the long run, he also believed that voting machines would prove cost effective.

During the past election, the city hired 24 election workers to handle the polls. An additional 18 people were called in after the polls closed to help count ballots. Under the clerk's proposal, two machine voting precincts would be established. In the November 4 election, 1,517 voters went to the polls. The finance committee is expected to make a recommendation to the city council at a future meeting.

Air Force Pays State $100,000

The United States Air Force is to pay Michigan $100,000 for its investigatory and legal costs, plus taking a number of actions to correct leakage of toxic substances into the ground water supply at Wurtsmith Air Force Base. According to State Atty. Gen. Frank Kelly, this is the first settlement with the military in state history. An agreement is to be formally signed this week in United States District Court by air force officials. The state claimed that TCE, the cancer-linked degreasing agent, along with jet fuel containing carcinogenic benzene and other toxic substances were allowed to leak into the ground water under the base. The suit in federal court claimed that the substances had polluted the base drinking water, VanEttan Creek, VanEttan Lake, the AuSable River and Lake Huron.

Three Minor Personal Injury Accidents in Iosco

Three personal injury automobile accidents were investigated last week by Iosco County Sheriff's Department. Officers also investigated 14 car-deer accidents. On Sunday, a car driven by Connie B. Miller, 17, East Tawas, went out of control on M-55 and rolled into a ditch. Receiving minor injuries besides the driver were Theodore J. Trudell III, 19, Tawas City; Charles Landon, 18, Tawas City; Sherry Clayton, 16, Tawas City.

Two of the complaints involved slashing of tires on company-owned vehicles making deliveries to the Hard Hat Bar and Buckhorn Inn. The third complaint involved the scattering of roofing nails at the firm's place of business at National City.

CM Attended Public Forum

Lowell Thomas, city manager of Tawas City, participated in a public forum November 6 at Escanaba on problems concerning the Upper Peninsula. He is a member of the Task Force on Small and Rural Communities appointed by the governor. The forum was concerned primarily with the ability of local governments to shoulder state and federal regulations. Key topics discussed included transportation, taxes, utilization of state resources for improving economic development. The 14-member task force has begun narrowing down topic areas discussed at public forums into three or four major issues. Those major issues will serve as the base from which to develop specific recommendations to submit to the governor in April of next year.

DNR Chief Urges US Corps to OK River Mouth Project

Authorization was given Monday night by the Tawas City Council for the city manager to file an application for Land and Water Conservation Act funds to aid in development of a gateway park at the mouth of the Tawas River. Action was necessary to meet a December 1 deadline. City Mgr. Lowell Thomas said that no word had been received concerning an objection by the United States Fish and Wildlife Service, but a letter had been forwarded by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources urging the United States Army Corps of Engineers to approve the project regardless of the objection. Thomas said the "strongly worded letter" was sent to the corps of engineers under the signature of Dr. Howard Tanner, DNR director. The state has given its full support to the project.

The United States Fish and Wildlife Service entered an objection to the project several months after the city filed its original proposal with the state. The objection was based on the amount of submerged land—about four acres—to be filled at the river mouth. The federal Environmental Protection Agency also may file an objection to the project. Thomas said that EPA wants large boulders to be placed in front of a proposed revetment across the outer channel to improve fish habitat. Thomas and the DNR have maintained that the boulders would be a useless expense. The DNR approved the city's preapplication for LWC funding, which normally means that final approval by the state is automatic. As it now stands, $80,000 would not be permitted to delete items stipulated under the final application and still receive the full amount of LWC funds. The project actually represents a "bare bones" plan following revision to the original concept submitted earlier in the year. Should the city receive final approval from the army corps of engineers, the $80,000 LWC grant would be one of the largest ever authorized. Thomas said he had been in touch with Cong. Bob Davis' office and assurances had been given that his support could be expected. The city manager also stated that State Rep. Tom Alley believed the project to be worthy of future consideration by the department of transportation for financial participation in an information-interpretive center as a second phase. The city manager said he met with representatives of Tawas Chamber of Commerce last week and a positive reaction was received concerning location of an information center on the site. Although an entrance drive would be paved, a proposed parking lot would be graveled under the first phase, with parking slots and paving to be included in the second phase.

City Requires Easements Before Considering Drain

Tawas City Council told residents of North Park Acres Subdivision Monday night that it would not be in a position to take over responsibility of a drain unless sufficient easements were given for its maintenance.

At the request of Kenneth Kernstock and neighboring property owners, the city had sent letters to each property owner adjacent to the drain seeking the easement.

Six property owners responded verbally or by letter that they favored the proposal, one property owner advised she was not in favor and four property owners did not respond.

The drain, situated at the rear of lots in North Park Acres separating that subdivision from Huron Gardens, has been in existence for 70 or more years. It proved to be a controversial sore point about 20 years ago between developers of the two subdivisions.

The matter was finally resolved in circuit court, but not before two property owners in North Park Acres placed a six-inch tile in the bottom of the drain and covered the ditch.

The property has since been sold and Kernstock, who owns property on the west, points out that the drain is too small to carry drain water away at a reasonable speed and, during wet periods, the ditch behind his house is dangerous to small children.

The ditch also serves as a drain for property west of Fifth Avenue carrying water directly to the Tawas River after crossing First Avenue. At the upper end east of Fifth Avenue the ditch is filled with brush.

City Mgr. Lowell Thomas said Monday night it would be necessary for the city to have a 25-foot easement to maintain the drain. He said that 15 feet was necessary for the ditch and 10 feet was needed on either side for operation of equipment.

He said no action could be taken until easements were received and the nature of improvements, along with responsibility for financing, would be determined after the easements are secured.

The city manager said that the problem should have been resolved years ago before the city accepted plats for either subdivision and that the present situation developed at no fault of the present property owners.

He said the ditch was a natural drain which could be maintained through general tax revenue and that replacement of the small tile with a 12-inch tube could be financed in a cooperative way between the city and property owners.

In order to pursue the matter further, property owners present at the meeting were told to go back to neighbors and obtain the necessary written easements.

County Sheriff's Officers Investigate Eight Burglaries

Eight breakings and entries, six larcenies and a vandalism complaint were investigated last week by Isosco County Sheriff's Department.

Burglaries were reported by Edward Oller, William Downey, Larry Ruffi, William Parks, Donald Smith, Etta E. Fezatto and John Jackson, all in Plainfield Township. One burglary was reported at Al's Party Store, Sand Lake Heights.

An attempted burglary was also reported at Sand Lake. Sharon Studley told officers she was watching television at her home and heard a noise outside. Thinking it was her husband, she looked out the window and saw someone running around the house to the front door.

Mrs. Studley told officers she turned off the lights, armed herself with a pellet gun and stood at the landing at the top of the stairway. When the burglar entered through the front door she told him that she was armed and would shoot if he did not leave.

The burglar, wearing a dark coat, gloves and a ski mask, fled on foot. Mrs. Studley called the Grant Township Fire Department and volunteers aided in the search. The burglar was not located.

Larceny complaints were reported by Russell A. Rollin Sr., Tawas City, theft of a hunting knife and flashlight from his locked vehicle; Robin C. Pitre and Cherrie Hunt, both residents of Tawas City, theft of food stamps from postal boxes; Jack Maine, Plainfield Township, theft of 6,000 feet of rough sawn lumber; Leonard Gruz and Chester H. Chapman, theft of items from house trailers at Old Orchard Park, Oscoda.

The vandalism complaint was reported by Roland (Bud) Fahselt, Oscoda Township. Dashboard wiring on his one-ton truck was ripped out, the turn indicator was broken off and diesel oil from a fuel tank on the rear of the truck was pumped over the seats.

MC Customers Conserving Gas

Michigan Consolidated Gas Company's customers are conserving natural gas and that is good, said Robert A. Stone, area manager for the utility.

Over-all, residential conservation has climbed to an annual rate of about 15 percent since the mid-1970s, he said.

"We want our customers to keep on doing what they are doing," said Stone. And we want to encourage customers to institute conservation measures if they have not already."

Stone said there are many no-cost or low-cost measures that anyone can begin doing right now to realize a gas saving.

The greatest savings in gas usage can be realized with the addition of six inches of ceiling insulation to a home that has less than two inches, Stone said. Gas consumption can be significantly reduced. Gas use reduction from glass or plastic storm windows is another excellent conservation measure.

"People are sometimes confused when they institute conservation measures and expect a reduction in their gas bill," said Stone. "However, the cost of natural gas is climbing rapidly, with the price increases set by the federal government. We expect about a 25 percent increase this heating season."

Thus, Stone said, while residential gas bills will continue to rise, energy conservation steps will help keep bills lower than they otherwise would be.

Stone said among the simple conservation steps customers can take are:

Dial the thermostat down during the day if no one is home and at night, keep the area around the furnace free of dust and dirt and change furnace filters at least twice during the heating season, make

National Bible Week: November 23-30

National Bible Week's interfaith campaign to encourage study of the Bible deserves support from all Americans, says Howard C. Kauffmann, president of Exxon Corp. and chairman of the 40th National Bible Week.

A nonsectarian observance, National Bible Week serves to remind Americans that studying the Bible can be a stimulating experience. The Week has been sponsored by the Laymen's National Bible Committee since 1941.

To call attention to this year's observance, a comprehensive mass media campaign has been launched. This campaign includes radio, TV, newspaper and magazine ads and bill boards along with an editorial contest for journalism students, and a photography contest.

The Committee (LNBC) is disseminating free materials to thousands of civic clubs, youth organizations, businesses, libraries, bookstores, labor unions, Armed Forces chaplains and other groups throughout the nation participating in the observance. Observances will begin with an Annual Bible Week Luncheon Nov. 21 at New York's Waldorf-Astoria, with Thomas L. Phillips, chairman of Raytheon Co., presiding.

Observances will be conducted in over 3,000 communities by civic, youth and other groups, while government proclamations will be issued by mayors and governors in the U.S. and its territories.

According to Committee officials, the purpose of the week is to make Americans aware of the Bible's importance, motivate study and reaffirm the contemporary importance of the biblical principles which undergird America's free, democratic society.

Let's Ask The Experts!

MYTHS AND REALITIES OF THE COMING DECADE

Americans may have a lot to look forward to, but not since World War II have Americans been so pessimistic about the future. To what extent—if at all—is the pessimism justified? At a conference held by the American Marketing Association, one of the world's leading marketing societies, the projections of a group of experts were discussed.

Experts project more affluent, relaxed lifestyles for Americans in the coming decades.

By Dr. William Lazer

Our gloomy outlook reflects the buffeting of the rising costs of energy, housing, food and basic necessities—and lower increases in our real income. Yet, a review of likely developments of future economic factors supports the conclusion that the real standard of living of the average U.S. family is likely to increase substantially.

We shall see a continuing decline in the average size of households and further gains by non-family households. Working wives are becoming the norm. Over 50 percent of wives are now employed; the figure may rise to well over 60 percent by 2000. The average contribution of wives to total family income will likely increase from the current average of 27 percent to 30-35 percent by 1990.

Whereas the early '70s began with good income increases and then fizzled, the 1980s are starting out weak—but are expected to gain in strength and continue well into the 90s. Real income over the next two decades is expected to grow at an average annual rate of two to 2.2 percent—representing about a 60 percent increase by the end of the century.

As the dual earner family becomes the norm, affluence will become more widespread. The number of family households in the $25,000 and over category (in 1977 dollars) will almost double by 1995. The latter part of the 80s will see greater numbers of family households with incomes of over $50,000 per year (in 1977 dollars), including a substantial number of skilled technical blue collar workers. Some senior citizens will receive two pensions when working wives as well as husbands retire.

The greater affluence is likely to place a higher premium on leisure time. The 36-hour, four-day work-week could become common. More secure and less fettered socially and economically, we will be more likely to express ourselves as individuals. We will be more knowledgeable, better educated and better traveled with more cosmopolitan and cultured tastes.

It seems unlikely that the 1980s will unfold to reveal the dismal economic scene that many predict.

Inflation will be with us, perhaps averaging six to eight percent. We won't overcome our reliance on foreign sources of energy, but we will deal with energy situations more comprehensively, and become even more conservation-minded. The great dislocations resulting from OPEC actions may be mostly behind us.

The perspective for the next decade: definitely upbeat!

Dr. Lazer is Professor of Marketing Systems and Future Environments at Michigan University's Graduate School of Business Administration.

Kirtland C. Hosts Training for New Township Officials

Kirtland Community College will be hosting a training program for new township officials in the 14-county Northeast Michigan area Saturday, December 6, from 8:15 a. m. to 4:45 p. m. in the Student Center building on campus. Registration fee for the full day session includes coffee, rolls, lunch and handout materials.

This training session will provide an overview of township government, as well as special meetings for new clerks, treasurers, trustees and supervisors. The morning portion will highlight organization of township meetings and the open meetings act. The afternoon portion will be divided up into three areas: Parliamentary procedure for township officials and two portions on the powers, duties, procedures and responsibilities of clerks and/or treasurers. Although veteran township officials are encouraged to attend to brush up on their skills, the workshop is especially valuable to new officers who must moderate meetings and manage township governments.

To insure registration, a completed registration form should be received by Saturday, November 22. Forms may be acquired by calling Marian Henigar at Kirtland, 517-275-5121, extension 226.

County Chamber Officials Urge Iosco Museum Support

A resolution adopted by four chambers of commerce of the county urged support of the Iosco County Museum by the county board of commissioners.

In part, the resolution stated that the museum "is a very definite asset to the whole County of Iosco and should have the continuing financial support of the Iosco County Board of Commissioners. The museum represents the historical background of Iosco County and it represents something we need at the county level."

The resolution was adopted by Hale Area Chamber of Commerce, signed by Harold L. Bannister; Oscoda-AuSable Chamber of Commerce, signed by Delphine A. Weis; Tawas Area Chamber of Commerce, signed by Roger W. Jackson; Whittemore Chamber of Commerce, signed by Darrell D. Colvin.

The county board of commissioners, expended $35,000 in federal revenue funds several years ago to purchase the former McKay residence at East Tawas for museum use. Since then, the Iosco County Historical Society and its president, Harris Barkman, have expended considerable effort in developing outstanding displays. The museum is now recognized as

HAVE A HEARTH!

Enjoy using your fireplace, but have no illusions about the heat you get from it. It may be warm right near the hearth, but overall a fireplace draws heat out of the house and sends it uselessly up the chimney. To prevent this, buy a glass screen instead of the conventional metal mesh. Better still install a "heatolator," a device which actually captures hearth heat and sends it into the room.

It also helps to open a window near the burning fireplace just a crack, to supply air to the fire directly, without drawing heated air from the rest of the house. Close the fireplace damper after the fire is safely out.

While you shouldn't normally fiddle with the thermostat, you should lower the setting to between 50° F and 55° F while the fireplace is in use.

Now Smokers Want to Quit

The majority of adult smokers took up the habit in their teens, says the American Lung Association. Now nine out of ten want to quit.

After four years of research and testing, the American Lung Association has developed a unique FREEDOM FROM SMOKING program to help smokers get unhooked. Find out about this self-help program from your local American Lung Association, the Christmas Seal people.

Tawas City Fire Dept. Had 3 Calls

Tawas City Fire Department answered three calls last week. Only minor damage was reported.

On Thursday night, firemen were called to the home of Dr. Surya N. Sankaran, where a defective fireplace insert caused minor damage to a wall. On Sunday, a passing motorist noticed the front of the Indian Museum to be in flames. Defective wiring on spotlights was the cause. The third call was a chimney burnout at the intersection of Plank and Kobs Roads.

'Hot Lines'

PREPARATIONS began last week for the replacement of two bridges in Tawas City when Consumers Power Company moved lines at the bridge sites over the Tawas River at Whittemore Street and Sixth Avenue over Dead Creek. A 48,000-volt primary power line had to be moved on Whittemore Street to permit the bridge contractor to use equipment to drive piling into the river bottom. A special High Ronger "cherry picker" with two-man bucket and 65-foot boom was loaned by the power company's Flint district to make the change on the primary line without shutting off service to the Tawas. Consumers Power personnel, using insulated safety equipment and two other boom trucks, moved the "hot lines" to different pole locations and, after work is completed on driving the piling, will return the lines to their former location. Great Lakes Contractors of Warren, low bidder on the project, is to start work this week and will continue during the winter on building the wooden bridges. Replacement of the two 70-year-old structures is being financed through a cooperative program with the state. —Tawas Herald Photos.

Time of Year for Lice; Prompt Treatment Can Stop Outbreak

District Health Department No. 2 has been receiving numerous inquiries concerning head lice from area residents and schools. This is the time of year when outbreaks begin occurring, usually in schools. Prompt treatment of the problem is necessary in order to avoid spread of the infestation throughout the community.

Anyone can get head lice. Personal cleanliness is important, but a clean scalp will not guarantee immunity from head lice. The most effective ways to stop the spread of head lice involve keeping a constant look-out for them, educating children and knowing how to treat them.

Head lice can be transmitted a number of ways. These include close contact with an infected person; using infected combs, brushes and towels, and contact with infected bed linen and clothing such as hats, ribbons, scarves, topcoats and sweaters. They may even be transmitted by infected couches and chairs. Because there are so many ways of contracting head lice, close inspection and prompt treatment become very important.

Although the lice are difficult to see, they are easy to recognize if one is looking for them. One telltale sign is a persistent itch of the scalp, often accompanied by infected scratch marks or what appears to be a rash. Closer inspection, using a toothpick or other disposable item, will reveal small, silvery

Great American Smokeout

Suggestions for smokers to succeed in their effort to stop smoking on the fourth anniversary of the Great American Smokeout Thursday, November 20, are listed by the Iosco County Unit, American Cancer Society. Any smoker who anticipates difficulty in going without a cigarette on that day is advised to ask a friend or relative who smokes to join him and spend the day in mutual support.

Celery, carrots and other nibble foods also replace the urge to smoke and each smoker should remember that a cigarette really is not necessary and believe it.

eggs attached to individual hairs. In checking the scalp, pay particular attention to the back of the head and the area behind the ears. In severe cases of infestation, occasionally swollen lymph glands are noted in the neck or under the arms.

There are several very effective methods now available for treating head lice. The most effective methods involve the use of medicated shampoos. These can be obtained by contacting a physician, local pharmacy or local health department.

After treatment with the shampoo, contaminated clothing, head coverings, towels, bed linen and other articles should be thoroughly washed, boiled or otherwise disinfected. Combs and brushes should be boiled. Pillows, chairs, couches and stuffed toys which cannot be laundered should be sprayed with disinfectant sprays available from pharmacies. All members of the family and close associates should be checked and treated if necessary to prevent the recurrence or spread of head lice.

Oscoda State Bank Was Low Bidder

Oscoda State Savings Bank, at 8.5 percent interest, was the successful bidder on the loan to Iosco County Intermediate School District for $87,650 recently approved by the local board. The loan is in anticipation of the state aid funds for special education. If approved by the state board of education, Lansing, the loan will be payable June 15, 1981. Special education is financed by three-quarter mill voted millage, along with state aid based on membership. This was the first time in the history of the district a loan has been necessary for operation and is attributed to the increase in the cost of education caused by inflation.

ARMY FLIERS posed with the cast of Warner Brothers' "Fighter Squadron" company while sequences were being filmed in 1948 at Oscoda Air Base. In the background are World War II vintage fighter planes assigned to the base.

A grim-looking squad of Nazi infantrymen was once "strafed" by a P-47 in a wooded area west of Oscoda. No, Iosco County was not the scene of a World War II battle, but 32 years ago it was the locale for the filming of sequences used in a memorable Technicolor motion picture film, "Fighter Squadron."

When a special railroad passenger train hired by Warner Brothers Studio rolled over Detroit and Mackinac Railway tracks into Oscoda, residents practically became unglued when such big name Hollywood stars as Edmund O'Brien and Robert Stack stepped onto the depot platform.

Oscoda Air Base (now Wurtsmith) was picked out by the studio because of its resemblance to the English countryside and Lake Huron served as the double for the English Channel. Hollywood supplied other sets and actual combat film footage was incorporated into the finished product.

The company spent two weeks at the air base during 1948 filming the exciting action sequences and it was a memorable time for many area residents, who were permitted to watch the actors and camera crew in action.

Some Oscoda residents even wore grease paint as Warner Brothers recruited extras to serve as "Nazi infantrymen" in the scene described earlier. Actual flying was handled by army pilots assigned to Oscoda Air Base, many of whom had World War II combat experience.

"Fighter Squadron" provided a thrilling box office hit when it premiered in late 1948, and it was a star attraction January 2-3, 1949, when shown at the Iosco Theatre, Oscoda, and the Family Theatre, East Tawas. Since then, it has been seen on late night television.

Still pictures showing the air base during its fighter squadron days, along with views of the famous actors, army pilots and local extras are on exhibit at the Iosco County Historical Society Museum at East Tawas. The pictures are part of a group depicting air base history.

AMONG Hollywood stars in the film were, from left, William Reed, Robert Stack, Jack Larson and Edmund O'Brien. Stack later became famous for his role as Elliott Ness in a television series.

AN AMERICAN P-47 is shown "strafing" a squad of Nazi infantrymen during one segment of the picture filmed at Oscoda. Local residents were recruited as extras.

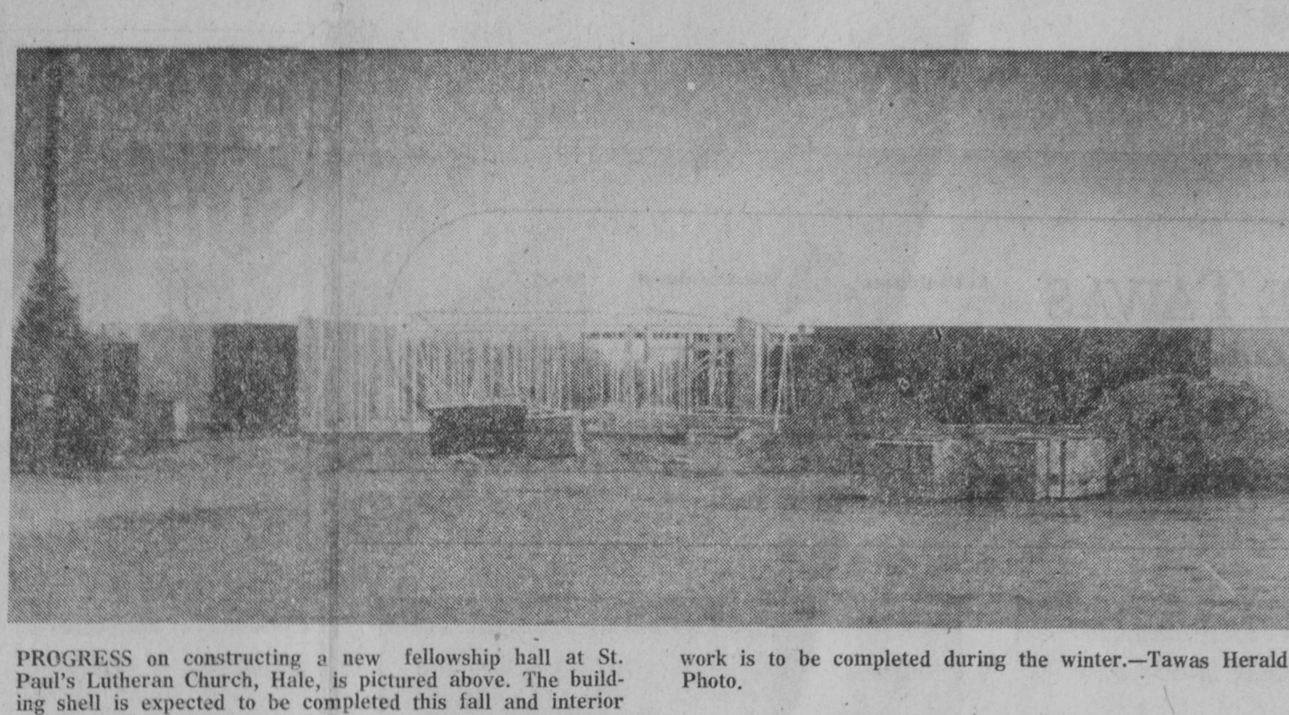

THE CAMERA CREW of Warner Brothers Studio prepares to shoot a scene at Oscoda Air Base with Edmund O'Brien riding in the Jeep shown at center. Note the reflectors and lights used to lighten shadows in the filming.

LOOKING BACKWARD— County Deer Hunters Had Poor Success

15 Years Ago—
 November 24, 1965—Hunter success in the Iosco area over the first week-end of the 1965 season has been very poor, according to all reports. Most roads leading into public wooded areas were jammed with hunters, many of whom selected a stand along the road and awaited a glimpse of a whitetail. Fortunately, there were not many deer venturing across roads as the toll of hunters, wounded by gunfire, would have been higher had the deer been moving about.
 Renamed to the Iosco County Agricultural Society, sponsor of the annual county fair, were David Bernard, Bruce Goupil, Donald Goodrow, Lyle Bielby, Gerald Bellen and John Dooley.

Veterans' Day Salute by DAR

A salute to Veterans' Day featured the November luncheon meeting of River Aux Sables Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, in the home of Mrs. Adolph G. Sie-land, Fairview. Mrs. Lyndon E. Fogelson and Theresa C. Sie-land were cohostesses.

A report by Mrs. Robert E. Murphy, chapter chairman of the national defense committee, stressed the 50th anniversary of the Veterans Affairs Administration.

Applauding the return to November 11 as Veterans' Day, she noted that there have been 39-million veterans since the Revolutionary War and that today's number of 30-million is the largest in the nation's history.

"Each of these has family and friends to whom the date is important," she said.

Members brought gifts for delivery to the Saginaw Veterans Hospital as part of their service for veterans-patients committee work. The National Society DAR is a member of the National VAVS Advisory Committee.

Mrs. Worthy T. Boyd, state and chapter registrar, provided an armchair tour of five DAR-owned and supported schools as she described the October Michigan DAR bus trip taken through Kentucky, North and South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama. She also displayed samples of fine weaving and handicraft taught at the schools.

Mrs. Homer D. Roberts, chapter regent, presided during the meeting and welcomed a prospective member, Mrs. Tasman Dowding.

Like Ben Franklin, Some Call Turkey National Bird

Some people think the turkey, not the eagle, is the national bird. Both are symbols of this country but they represent different ideas. For example, an eagle will never be found lying in a sea of giblet gravy, surrounded by mashed potatoes and candied yams. That is the turkey's job. The eagle has loftier things to do.

Those who cook the Thanksgiving turkey have a job to do, too. First and foremost, be sure it is fit to eat. Although instructions are printed clearly on frozen turkeys, ignoring them can wreak havoc on the festive spirit. A few turkey tips are easy to follow.

If the turkey is frozen, keep it in the original wrapper and allow two days for thawing birds weighing 18 pounds or less. Add another day for heavier birds. And thaw them in the refrigerator, never at room temperature. If time is limited, one can thaw the bird partially in the refrigerator and finish the thawing by placing the turkey under cold, not warm, running water.

Cook the turkey within 24 hours of thawing it. If not cooked immediately, cover loosely with waxed paper and place it in the refrigerator but never refreeze it.

Clean the turkey by washing it thoroughly inside and out with cold, running water. Drain and do the same thing with the giblets. While cleaning it, be aware of stickiness in three places: Under the wings, at a point where the legs and body join and on the upper surface of the tail. That means the turkey is beginning to spoil. If the wing tips are turning a darker color and if there is a bad odor, throw it away. Do not risk food poisoning on a day to count blessings. When in doubt, throw it out!

When the bird is cooked, keep it hot or in the refrigerator. Never let it stand out for serving or nibbling for more than two hours. When dinner is finished, cover it with waxed paper and put it in the refrigerator.

Although preparing the Thanksgiving dinner is a flurry, do not take short cuts with cleanliness. Never use the cutting board or knife that was used for the raw bird to serve up the cooked turkey. Wash all utensils and boards with hot soapy water after preparing the raw bird.

Poultry spoils easily so follow directions for a safe and hearty meal. It does not matter if the national birds are confused. The important thing is to celebrate the holiday, the time when not only the turkey but also the family makes it a day of thanksgiving.

Newsletter Tips Help Beat Inflation

"Making Ends Meet: Volume 2," a newsletter series to help families survive the financial challenges caused by inflation and unemployment, is now available from Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service offices throughout Michigan. These newsletters contain practical ideas for easing the squeeze on family finances in the areas of clothing, foods and energy for home heating and transportation.

The newsletters will be mailed out monthly for six months beginning in November. Three issues will give ideas for feeding the family well on a limited food budget. The issues will teach that homemade foods are more economical than convenience foods, how to start a food buying club and other hints for stretching food dollars. How to save money and still meet a family's clothing needs will be covered in a fourth issue.

The newsletter about energy will provide a do-it-yourself home energy audit that one can use in determining how to save money on home heating costs. Fix-it-yourself auto maintenance and repairs to help the car get the best possible mileage per liter of fuel will be covered in the issue on energy and transportation.

"Making Ends Meet: Volume 2" was developed in response to requests from the 6,500 families who subscribed to the first series offered earlier this year. For subscription information, call MSU Cooperative Extension Service in Iosco County, 362-3449.

Drivers Should Use Extra Care

Automobile Club of Michigan urges Michigan motorists to avoid alcohol and use extra care when driving near home and in darkness to help make the upcoming Thanksgiving holiday even safer than last year, when the highway death toll was the lowest since 1975.

Twenty-seven persons were killed on Michigan roads during the 102-hour Thanksgiving period in 1979, compared with 28 in 1978, 32 in 1977 and 29 in 1976. Sixteen persons died in traffic during the 1975 holiday.

"Despite the fact that the Thanksgiving traffic death toll has fallen slightly each year since 1977, it still is one of the most dangerous periods of the year for drivers," stated Robert Cullen, Auto Club safety and traffic engineering manager.

Since 1977, an average 24 persons have been killed over each of the three summer holidays, compared with 29 over the Thanksgiving period.

"Major factors involved in holiday traffic deaths are even more evident over Thanksgiving," Cullen said. Nearly 90 percent of last Thanksgiving's fatal traffic accidents were within 25 miles of the drivers' homes. All but five of the fatal crashes occurred in darkness and nearly 75 percent of the drivers were known or suspected of drinking.

"Of the 17 persons killed who had safety belts available, none was known to have been wearing one," Cullen said.

Motorists in Michigan are expected to travel 350-million miles during the Thanksgiving period, which runs from 6:00 p. m. Wednesday, November 26, to midnight Sunday, November 30. The mileage total is unchanged from last year.

Tawas Wrestler on Laker Squad

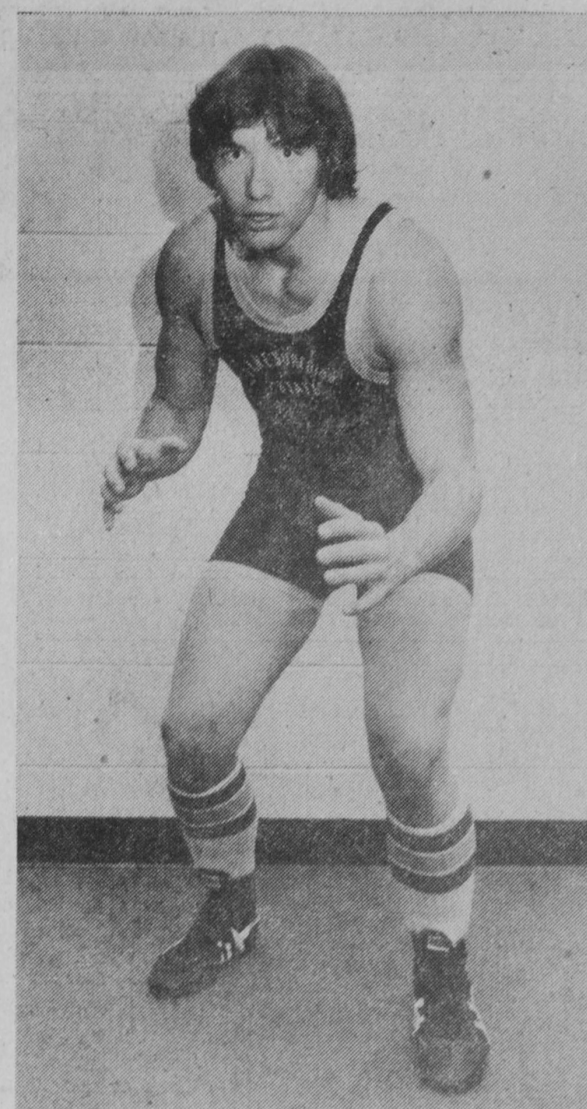

Lake Superior State College boasts an East Tawas athlete in its 1980-81 wrestling team roster. Chris Toska, who will compete at 167 pounds, is one of 15 new recruits to the Laker squad this season.

Toska joins the strong group of freshmen newcomers to the Laker mats this season. He will begin his collegiate wrestling career this fall after a fine grappling career at Tawas Area High School, under the direction of Coach Richard McTaggart. Toska fashioned a 27-6 record his senior year, which includes finalist appearances in the Oscoda, Cadillac and Northeastern Michigan Conference tournaments.

"Chris is a hard worker in the practice room," said James Fallis, LSSC wrestling coach. "He is just beginning to reach his potential as a wrestler and is still developing his skills and strengths. Additional mat experience should make him a fine addition to the team this season."

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Toska of East Tawas and is majoring in electrical engineering technology.

CHRIS TOSKA, a former member of the Tawas Area Braves wrestling team, is now a competing matman as a freshman at Lake Superior State College.

Film Written for Juveniles --- Not for Adult Viewers

A Tawas family thought it would be fun to attend a movie Friday night, but the parents failed to take into consideration the rating system used to designate which films are suitable for various segments of the viewing audience. That was a mistake for most of today's films are directed toward a younger generation and not for "mature audiences."

There were very few adults in attendance and those persons seated in the theatre were mostly juveniles—averaging about 16 years of age.

After the first five minutes of this latest Hollywood flick, the "old man" could not relax a minute—but the snickering kid patrons thought that the lines of the headline screen comedian were out of this world.

To avoid creating a scene, he tried to recall some of the great movies out of the past—before it became fashionable for writers to use that four-letter word and other language which was once considered to be straight out of the gutter.

The "old man" admitted later there had been some entertaining good humor at times but, for the most part, the story line—if it had one—and language were pure filth to this 52-year-old viewer and one who had never considered himself to be a prude or goodie-goodie.

After Friday night's viewing and listening experience, the "old man" came to the conclusion he was an old fuddy-duddy and not in step with the general public. If he gets the urge to see a movie again, he will turn his television set to some channel where an old movie is being shown. Some of those old flicks may be considered pure corn today, but they did not resort to using outouse language to attract the kids.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

Yesterday, as the school children were being released from classes, a truck "ran the red light" at the corner of Lincoln and Newman Streets. Unusual? Not at all. Many mornings I've seen cars and pickups try (and succeed) to "beat the light," irregardless of the fact that they are in a school zone. But then, how are the drivers to know? There are no "SCHOOL" warning signs in the area—although they have been requested by school administrators many times; there aren't even any crosswalk lines on the pavements to guide our small children.

What's the problem? Are the wrong people being asked for these safeguards or are we as a community just too busy to protect our children? Surely, these projects wouldn't be so expensive that we can't afford them. Don't we care? Throughout our area we see "Deer Crossing" signs; let's have some "Children Crossing" signs where they will do some good.

Deeply Concerned, Mrs. James E. Ault

Christmas Seal Artists Concerned About Public Cigarette Smoking

This year's Christmas Seals show Santa on a surfboard. Star-sprinkled skies. And not a wisp of cigarette smoke anywhere.

If the Christmas Seal artists are typical of children their age, says Richard Sinsheimer, president of the American Lung Association, "we are well on our way toward a smoke-free generation." Children in kindergarten through third grade in every U.S. state and territory designed the 1980 Christmas Seals.

About her painting of a snow-bound gingerbread house Christen Chamberlain of Scotia, N.Y., said she was thinking of "Fiddler on the Roof." About smoking in public places, she thinks there should be separate areas for smokers and nonsmokers. "Smoking stinks, it hurts my eyes, makes me cough and I hate being around people who smoke," she says.

Her views about separate smoking areas, however, are not shared by Raymond Spolaric, the Christmas Seal artist from Newark, Del. "I am against smoking anywhere," he says. "I think it is a disgrace to the whole world to smoke in public places."

Says Michael Lemieux of South Burlington, Vt., who drew Santa surrounded by super-sized snowflakes, "I don't think people should smoke in theatres or sports arenas because it makes people smell something bad and it isn't good for other people's health. Smoking is bad for smokers also."

Eddie Williams from Brandon, Miss., who drew Santa Claus "raideer," doesn't like smoking in public places because "it affects the odor of the air and our breathing."

According to the lung association president, children are vitally concerned about the kind of air they breathe and what it will do to their lungs. Recent studies substantiate their concerns that second-hand smoke can affect the small airways of children's lungs, Sinsheimer says. "I'm never going to smoke."

1980 Christmas Seal artist Will Kirkpatrick, New Hampshire, says smoking is yucky.

when I grow up," says Kelly Smith of Morris Plains, N.J., who drew a hanging basket of holly. "And I don't like it when other people smoke around me."

The child artists are also concerned about their parents' wellbeing and very aware of their parents' views on smoking. The painting of Kimberly Jones of Portland, Oreg., showed three long-armed figures—all in red sweaters—trimming a tree. The figures, she says, were her parents and herself decorating a tree at her grandmother's. "My mom and dad don't smoke," she says. "And I won't either."

"I don't like people smoking in public places because smoke irritates everybody," says Peggy Champagne of Englewood, Colo., who painted a rocking horse. "My dad stopped smoking nine years ago."

"My mom does not smoke," says Lashell Marks of La Sal, Utah. "She gets very sick when she is around smoke. I don't think people should smoke in public places."

Like these Christmas Seal artists, most adults also have strong views about smoking. Government surveys reveal the overwhelming majority think smoking should be banned in more public places. "It's a matter of life and breath," says the lung association president. Christmas Seal contributions support programs to help smokers kick the habit.

(Read Genesis 40:11-23)

Joseph and Pharaoh's butler were both in prison when Joseph made his request and the butler promised that he would not forget Joseph. Soon after, the butler was released and promptly forgot all about Joseph.

Most of us have known that feeling of rejection when someone we have befriended forgets us when the difficulties are over. We try to push our feelings aside but the hurt persists. It is never pleasant to be ignored.

Yet, we often do this to God. While things are going well, we do not bother too much about our Creator. When things go wrong, however, we turn and expect God to be ready to share our problems and meet our needs.

The beauty is that God's love is so great that our Creator is always ready to listen and to help us. But the God of love and joy longs to share in our good times, too.

PRAYER

Loving God, we thank You that You are always willing to hear when we turn to You. Help us to remember, when the dark times are over, to share our sunshine with You, too. For Jesus Christ, our Savior's sake. Amen.

Celebrate Thanksgiving in Church

First Church of Christ, Scientist

A special Thanksgiving service will be offered Thursday, November 27, at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 919 East Bay Street, East Tawas.

Scriptures selected for the occasion point to Christ Jesus' example of gratitude as something deeply felt and lived day by day in healing, regeneration and brotherhood.

Related passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, the denominational textbook, will be read by Alma Hollenbeck, first reader, and include the statement: "Gratitude is much more than a verbal expression of thanks. Action expresses more gratitude than speech."

A familiar passage from Psalms, "O come, let us sing unto the Lord... Let us come before His presence with thanksgiving, and make a joyful noise unto Him with psalms. For the Lord is a great God" — along with other selections from the Old and New Testaments—will be read by Ellen Wayne, second reader.

The 11:00 a. m. annual service also includes hymns, prayers and a time for church members to express gratitude for God's goodness and care.

All are welcome to attend and care will be available for very young children.

Highlights And Sidelights

Repair Damaged Chief Wawatam

LANSING—According to State Sen. Mitch Irwin, Sault Ste. Marie, a meeting was held at the site of the damaged Chief Wawatam with officials from St. Ignace, Mackinaw City, Michigan Department of Transportation, Detroit and Mackinac Railway, United States Coast Guard and Lloyd's of London Insurance Company regarding the future of the rail car ferry.

The purpose of this meeting was to clarify the requirements needed to obtain official coast guard certification for the Chief.

Irwin said the department of transportation has determined that money is not the major problem since the insurance covers 90 percent of the damage. The deductible on the insurance will come out of the DOT's regular operation cost funds.

"All agreements have been reached," said Irwin, "and at this point, it is only a matter of paper work before the repairs can begin."

The Chief Wawatam has been inspected and given the go-ahead for repairs on-site by the coast guard and insurance company marine inspectors. The Detroit and Mackinac Railway will decide, in consultation with the insurance company, which contractor will handle the repair work. Local contractors are capable of handling the work and the Detroit and Mackinac Railway will be accepting offers immediately, insuring that the bid will be awarded a contract in two weeks and the Chief will be back in service in 14 days.
