OK Airport Runway Extension Contracts

Authorization to sign contracts for construction of a 1,300-foot extension to the runway at Iosco County Airport was given Wednesday by the county board of commissioners. Com. Carlton Merschel of East Tawas said the commission felt this improvement to the airport was of "tremendous importance" to job related programs in the area and would be a "big plus" in bringing industry to the county. Because of a cutback in federal spending, this project is being financed by local funds. A federal program had been in the planning stages for about eight years. Although the present 3,500-foot runway is to be resurfaced next year through federal funds, Merschel said the commission had "looked far down the road and determined that federal financing would not be available for the runway extension project."

Total cost of the extension is to be approximately $180,000, shared about equally by state and local funding. Last year, the county commission allocated $40,000 in federal funds to the project and a $50,000 loan is to be repaid to the state over a period of 10 years.

Merschel said that it is anticipated that additional revenue from the airport would be used to repay the loan.

John Henry Construction Company of East Tawas was awarded a contract to perform work on the extension. His bid was $59,992.40.

Blacktop work is to be handled by Central Paving Company of West Branch and has been arranged through the annual contract with the Iosco County Road Commission. This contractual price will result in a substantial savings to the county.

Extension of the runway will permit utilization of the facility by jet aircraft owned by business firms. Under favorable weather conditions, jet aircraft can use the present facility, but the 1,300-foot addition improves safety during unfavorable flying weather.

Necessary changes in Lincoln Road are to be made by the county road commission.

Hypnotist Show Goes On, Minus Blindfolded Stunt

Gene Delfont, "master hypnotist," will not be driving a car while blindfolded Saturday afternoon, as advertised, but he will be staging his show Sunday night at the high school gymnasium as a benefit fundraiser for school activities.

Advance advertising for the Tennessee-born hypnotist's program stated he would drive a car while blindfolded Saturday noon from the high school to the Midway Family Shopping Center, using only the sound of a police siren for direction.

Concern over traffic safety involved in staging such a program was expressed last week by East Tawas Police Chief Donald Docking, who said he was worried about a possible traffic hazard and the Newman Street-US-23 intersection.

On Monday, Lt. S. H. (Sam) Hutchings, commander of the Michigan State Police Post at East Tawas, said that driving an automobile along a public highway while blindfolded was a clear violation of the law and that no permit had been obtained.

Hutchings said he had checked with the Iosco County Sheriff's Department Monday morning and learned that it had not given its approval to the use of patrol cars to escort Delfont during the trip. The state police commander said that a citation would be issued if a permit was not obtained.

Although claiming that it was a "safe trick and there was no need for concern," Delfont said he would abide by the law enforcement officer's warning and immediately canceled that act from his program.

Last week, the board of education came under fire from a group of citizens, who protested Delfont's hypnotist show on October 5 mainly for religious reasons.

Concern was also expressed by citizens over the school's liability in connection with one portion of Delfont's act, which states that he is to be "shot with a .357 magnum at 40 feet."

School administrators stated that the performance was for entertainment only and that the school had liability insurance. The board of education heard the protest from citizens, but took no action.

Entire proceeds from the show, with the exception of Delfont's expenses and advertising, are to go to the school's community education and athletic programs.

Although advance publicity stated that the hypnotist had been wounded during a recent performance, Delfont said there was no danger to the audience. He said that a trained police officer would fire a handgun from a distance of 15 feet at a 15-inch-square piece of glass used for sighting. Delfont will be 40 feet away and he is to "catch the bullet" in a special glove after it strikes a metal plate.

Delfont, who practices clinical hypnotism, said he was here to visit relatives and offered to perform his act strictly as a benefit for the school. He emphasized that his bullet catch act is not a trick or fakery.

Bridge Offer Under Study

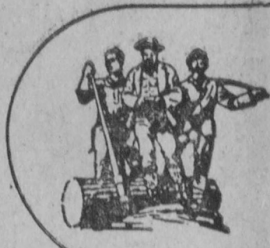

An out-of-court settlement concerning destruction of the Hottis Road bridge three years ago by a truck is under consideration by the Iosco County Road Commission.

The 80-year-old bridge had been posted as unsafe and collapsed after a heavy truck drove over it in 1976.

The road commission filed a lawsuit asking for damages against the driver and a verbal offer of a $25,000 settlement was recently made by the defendant's attorney.

Members of the road commission voted Monday to take the offer into consideration. The settlement would be shared by the township, which has applied for critical bridge funds to replace the structure.

County Finance Chairman Calls

Arbitration Award Excessive

With the county board of commissioners currently conducting budget hearings with individual department heads, Iosco finance chairman, David George, stated the belief Monday that a state arbitrator's award on a new contract with the sheriff's department personnel was "excessive."

Details of that award were announced last Wednesday and are outlined briefly in a news story on page 1, section 2.

"Sheriff's department employees will be compensated at a rate that exceeds the wages paid all other Northeastern Michigan sheriff's departments, including the high wage area of Alpena," stated Commissioner George.

On the other hand, Mark DeBeau, president of the Iosco County Police Officers Association, said he was "proud of the members of our union for continuing to work without interruption for the last 21 months at 1978 wages. I do not believe anyone can claim a victory—just a fair and impartial settlement."

However, the county finance chairman said that Iosco's per capita cost for the sheriff's department "is one of the highest in Michigan and probably the highest for a county of our size. In addition, the sheriff's department budget accounts for 25 percent more of the county's budget than any other Northeastern Michigan county budget."

George said he believed "the arbitrator's award would have been considerably lower if the sheriff had not refused to represent the taxpayers in the negotiations, nor if the county's position had not been compromised by the sheriff granting union demands without the advice or consent of the board of commissioners."

George claimed that the arbitrator's settlement would cost around $80,000, which includes cost of attorney and arbitrator fees. He said that the county had $55,673 set aside in its budget to cover the cost and the remainder would come from federal revenue sharing funds to prevent a budget deficit at the end of the year.

When contacted Tuesday morning about the finance chairman's statement, Sheriff George Westcott said that he, as sheriff, had nothing to do with negotiating a contract with departmental employees. He said the three functions of the board of commissioners, with relation to the sheriff's department, were to set its budget, establish the number of positions and set salaries of those employees.

Based on the arbitrator's award, George said sheriff's department employees, hired since late 1978, would receive the following percentages of wage increases over three years:

Deputy, 51.5 percent; animal control officer, 50.7 percent; secretary deputy, 65.8 percent; cook, 47.2 percent; matron, 47.1 percent.

Employees with three years seniority in December 1978 would receive the following wage increases in three years:

Deputy, 29 percent; animal control officer, 29 percent; secretary deputy, 29.8 percent; cook, 42.3 percent; matron, 31.2 percent; sergeant detective, 29.7 percent.

In addition, the county must now provide uniforms and cleaning for the animal control officer, matron and cook personnel and will have to pay the wages and overtime expenses of union personnel when they negotiate contracts or investigate grievances. George said the latter two items "can cost the taxpayers thousands of dollars."

Westcott also questioned another statement by the finance chairman. "What union demand did I grant without the advice and counsel of the board of commissioners?" he asked. Both the sheriff and Undersheriff Michael Welsh believed that percentages of increases for departmental salaries, as presented above by the finance chairman, were in error.

The sheriff said he had not discussed contract negotiations with the union and that the only area of his concern was his right to manage the department. He said he expected no change as the management aspect of the contract had the same language as before. Contacted Tuesday morning, Com. Carlton Merschel said that percentages and other figures in the finance chairman's report were strictly those of the finance chairman and had not been presented to the full board of commissioners.

"I don't know if anyone else on the board would agree with the figures," said Merschel. DeBeau said Thursday that employees of the sheriff's department "are very pleased with the arbitration settlement with the county. Nearly two years ago, the board of commissioners offered a seven percent pay raise with no other benefit changes if we did not join a union.

"The arbitrator awarded pay raises of 7½, 8½ and 8½ percent for each of the three years and substantially higher raises for the sergeants, secretary deputy, cooks, matrons and animal control officer. We also received increases in health benefits, longevity pay, uniform allowance, time off for negotiations and kept language out of the contract that would have allowed for the arbitrary lay off of persons hired under state funded programs."

ADJUSTING her crown after receiving it Friday night is Lori Gracik, 1980 homecoming queen at Tawas Area High School. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Gracik, are shown with her, along with a member of her court. The program included a dance Saturday night at the high school. Turn to pages 3 and 6 for more pictures.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Seven State Proposals Add Confusion to Nov. Election

Confused about this year's state-wide ballot proposals? Do not feel alone. There will be seven state-wide ballot proposals to vote on Tuesday, November 4. Several of the proposals are quite complex and all deserve study before entering the polls.

Michigan State University's Cooperative Extension Service will be able to help clear up that confusion. Extension specialists have compiled information on the proposals which may help. This includes the official wording of issues as they will appear on the ballot, a summary of the 1980 state-wide ballot proposals and an analysis of the property tax proposals on taxes paid by Michigan farmers.

For copies of any of these materials or to arrange for someone to explain ballot proposals to any organization, contact the MSU Cooperative Extension Service, 362-3449.

Locally, Iosco County voters will receive a proposal ballot concerning "pegged millage" and Tawas City will vote on a proposition concerning a new fire hall.

Hospital OK'd for Expanded Surgical Suite

Tawas Hospital has received approval from the Michigan Department of Public Health and the East Central Michigan Health System Agency to proceed with construction of an expanded surgical suite. The project will include two operating rooms, a four-bed recovery room, an outpatient surgical preparation area, an anesthesia preparation area and changing room for surgery personnel. Renovations to existing structure will provide central sterile supply services and adequate storage and mechanical room space. The total additional square footage added to the hospital will be 4,500; another 3,600 square feet of the existing building will be renovated.

The total project cost, including architect's fees and equipment, will be approximately one million dollars. Bids have been accepted and ground breaking is expected late this fall with a completion date in the fall of 1981. Architects for the project are Gazall, Krapak and Associates of Flint.

Iosco Gained 929 in Census Count

Iosco County gained 929 persons over the preliminary population count as found in the federal census last spring.

In a mailgram received Wednesday from Vincent P. Barabba, director of the Bureau of Census, the preliminary head count for Iosco County now is 28,272 and the preliminary housing count is 18,027. The change in the 1980 decennial census was made following completion of field operations. The official figure is not to be announced until a later date.

The mailgram did not specify local units in which changes were made in the head count total.

THE TAWAS CITY Department of Public Works crew was busy Monday felling trees which were in the path of a road to the new industrial park west of Ninth Avenue. Sixth Street is being extended into the 40-acre site in order to make three industrial lots available prior to actual development of the industrial park. A contractor is to remove the tree stumps. Work is expected to be completed this fall.—Tawas Herald Photo.

The Once Over

Sunday morning, one of the "radio preachers" commented that there was much about the Bible that he really did not understand, but he accepted the Word as the truth.

There are many mysteries in life which are unanswerable and that is the main reason there are so many varied views concerning religion. In this country, people have the right to believe as they wish, but don't trample on the rights of others in the process.

It was that way last week when a group of concerned citizens registered a protest with Tawas Area Board of Education concerning a hypnotist show to be presented October 5 at the high school auditorium.

Those persons entering the protest based their thinking mainly from a religious viewpoint—that Satan, in some way, attempts to gain power over man by controlling his mind. The argument was fine in church, but not at a public meeting.

The show to be presented October 5 by Gene Delfont is strictly for entertainment and anyone who does not wish to attend is not being forced to do so. Like television, radio, reading a particular book or magazine, one who believes it is "not his cup of tea" need only change the channel or not pick up the book and he should not be concerned.

This column neither endorses nor condemns this show to be presented at the public school. If our recollection is correct, there have been a number of such presentations by hypnotists in the Tawas area in the past, but this is the first time so many people have become "bent out of shape" because of individual religious viewpoints.

This viewpoint of some was taken to such an extreme that those present at the board of education meeting misconstrued two different programs. As part of the community education offering, adults have the opportunity to register for hypnosis classes to curb smoking and control weight.

Again, this newspaper neither endorses nor condemns those classes, but a public school does have the right to offer the classes to anyone wishing to enroll. And do not become confused by what some are saying—classes in hypnosis are not being offered to students.

As for the safety angle concerning Delfont's show, that responsibility is in the hands of school officials, police agencies and the entertainer. If there is a hazard to the public, then a decision must be made by school officials and law enforcement authorities.

It is understood that Delfont has relatives living in this area and offered to present his show as a fund-raiser for school functions. After expenses, any profit would go to the community education and athletic programs. Therefore, this is not the usual type of presentation where profit on similar entertainment leaves the community.

THE POACHER'S VICTIMS—Cons. Officer Michael Mol (left), stationed at Houghton Lake, helps Department of Natural Resources District Law Supervisor Jay Larson bring a confiscated deer into a cold storage locker at the DNR's Mio office. The deer, taken from poachers who were apprehended by conservation officers, will be held as evidence. Along with this deer, the locker contains 15 others, parts of an elk, beaver furs, wild turkeys, a bear, ducks, bobcat, otter, an owl, a badger, some fish and fish eggs. Larson says poaching is a year around problem. "We make arrests every month of the year for illegal possession of deer," he says. "The people of Michigan want good law enforcement. Therefore, we urge them to cooperate by reporting violations to our 24-hour toll-free law enforcement hot line, 1-800-292-7800. Or call your local conservation officer or DNR district or regional office."

(Read Ephesians 3:7-21)

It was just a simple story in the Raleigh News and Observer, included in a collection of incidents that the reporter had observed on his beach vacation.

He had watched a small boy drop his quarter between the boards of a fishing pier as he was trying to buy a drink from a vending machine. An old-timer standing nearby told the distressed child to go down to the sand beneath the boards and start digging. Shortly afterwards, the beaming boy came back with one dollar and thirty-five cents clutched in his hand.

Our heavenly Father answers our prayers in much the same way. We often wonder why we are not just given the "quarter." But, sometimes God tells us to start "digging." And when we obey Him, our rewards are greater than we could have imagined.

PRAYER

Heavenly Father, teach us to pray and to obey. We know that Your will is that we have far more than we could possibly imagine with our limited love and understanding. Thank You, God, for Your great care. Amen.

Dairy Association Offers Suggestions

Lee Murray of American Dairy Association of Michigan, Incorporated, offers the following suggestions for fun: Cut out cheese slices with cookie cutters to top hamburgers and open-faced sandwiches. Save the extra pieces for macaroni and cheese casserole.

For extra nutrition: Add a slice of life... cheese... to meat sandwiches for the carry-your-own-lunch crowd. Experiment with two or even three varieties of cheese in grilled cheese sandwiches.

For easy entertaining: A tray of melon cubes and golden cheddar cheese cubes takes only moments to prepare, looks appetizing and guests love to choose their own with toothpicks.

For hearty salads: Include cheese in slaws and tossed salads, fruit salads and, molded salads. Protein rich and economical, cheese makes simple dishes hearty enough for a full meal.

For the kids: Cut bite size pieces of favorite cheese to tuck in small plastic bags for carried lunches. Keep some handy in the refrigerator for nibbling any time.

For natural refreshment: Sprinkle grated cheese on hot buttered popcorn to carry to the football game or eat while watching television in the evening.

Final thought: When your husband says, "We are not getting any younger," you can bet he is about to suggest something expensive.

Make a memo: start collecting quick and easy dessert ideas that will come to the rescue on days when time is short. This great Coffee Ice Cream Pie recipe deserves your undivided attention because the basic ingredient may be in your freezer at this moment—a 12-ounce container of Cool Whip non-dairy whipped topping, which is part of both the filling and unique crust. So, reach into the freezer for that handy container of frozen whipped topping, and if you have coffee ice cream on hand, so much the better. Combine and spoon into a scrumptious Whipped Topping-Cookie Crust to freeze for at least 4 hours. The crust, made in advance and frozen, combines the crunch of crumbled chocolate sandwich cookies with the smoothness of thawed frozen whipped topping. Garnish with pecan halves or chocolate curls, if desired. Enjoy compliments at serving time!

COFFEE ICE CREAM PIE

1 pint coffee ice cream, softened
1 container (8 oz.) Cool Whip non-dairy whipped topping, thawed*
Whipped Topping-Cookie Crust

*Or use about 3-1/2 cups.

Place ice cream in bowl and stir until smooth. Fold in whipped topping, blending until smooth. Freeze in bowl, if necessary, just until mixture will mound. Then spoon into Whipped Topping-Cookie Crust. Freeze until firm, at least 4 hours. Garnish with pecan halves, if desired. Store any leftover pie in freezer.

For stronger coffee flavor, dissolve 2 tablespoons instant coffee in 1 tablespoon hot water; add to ice cream.

Whipped Topping-Cookie Crust. Gently fold 10 chocolate sandwich cookies, coarsely crumbled (about 1 cup) into 1 container (4 oz.) or 1-3/4 cups Cool Whip non-dairy whipped topping, thawed. Spread over bottom and up sides of 9-inch pie plate, forming a 1-inch border around edge. Freeze until firm.

Canned Pears Dress Up Economical Meals

Here's a tempting supper suggestion that's sure to be as popular with the family as it is with busy homemakers. A basic baked bean dinner has been converted to an adventure in eating with a few simple additions and canned Bartlett pears.

Baked beans are given extra zest with brown sugar, onion and a hint of orange. Canned Bartlett pear halves are arranged over the beans and drizzled with a tangy mustard glaze before going into the oven to heat through. Serve with franks or German sausages for a satisfying and economical meal.

Offering on-the-shelf convenience, versatile canned Bartlett pears with their smooth texture and subtle flavor often can provide just the right accent to turn the most basic meal into an attractive and satisfying dinner experience.

PEAR BEAN POTS

- 1 can (16 oz.) Bartlett pear halves
- 1 can (28 oz.) baked beans
- 3 tablespoons packed brown sugar, divided
- 1 tablespoon minced onion
- 1 teaspoon finely shredded orange peel
- 1 1/2 teaspoons prepared mustard

Drain pears; reserve 1 tablespoon syrup. Combine baked beans, 1 tablespoon brown sugar, onion and orange peel. Place in 1-1/2 quart casserole or 4 individual baking dishes. Arrange pear halves over beans. Combine reserved pear syrup, 2 tablespoons brown sugar and mustard; drizzle over pears. Bake at 350° F. 20 to 25 minutes or until piping hot. Makes 4 servings.

ANSWERS FOR HOMEOWNERS

Answers to homeowners' questions are given by J. B. Featherston, MAI, President of the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers, the nation's oldest appraisal organization, and the only one affiliated with the National Association of Realtors.

Question: How will the specter of gas shortages and increased costs affect the price of homes?

Land near mass transit stations is escalating in value—even where the system is a long way from completion.

Answer: Housing is in such short supply that there is no immediate danger that suburban homes will lose their value. Suburban homeowners will fight back with car pooling, public transportation and other forms of conservation.

Higher prices of inner city homes are, however, being fueled by the gas shortage. Proximity of employment and public transportation, added to other economic and cultural advantages, are revitalizing residential living in major cities.

Braves Ended Three-Game Losing Streak Against S-S

Tawas Braves broke a three-game losing streak Friday night and rolled over the Standish-Sterling Panthers, 33-12, much to the enjoyment of a large crowd on hand for the annual homecoming.

Tawas scored with less than two minutes gone in the first quarter, but the Panthers bounced back to score and keep the game within reach. The Braves then scored 20 unanswered points in the second period to win easily and each team scored a touchdown in the final quarter.

The first Tawas score came when Kelly Moffatt ran 59 yards to hit pay dirt. Grabow booted a PAT to give Tawas a 7-0 lead with 10 minutes, 54 seconds remaining on the clock.

Brian Zandowski put Standish-Sterling back in the game when he connected on a touchdown pass to narrow the margin to 7-6 at the end of the first quarter.

Tawas broke the game wide open in the second quarter when Moffatt cut through the Panther defense and scored on a 33-yard touchdown run. Grabow made good on his second kick from placement to give Tawas a 14-6 lead.

Scott McDonald scored the next touchdown on a two-yard plunge with seven minutes remaining on the clock in the second quarter. The kick from placement was missed and Tawas held a 20-6 lead.

Moffatt scored two more touchdowns during the night, one on an 80-yard run and the next on a 32-yard romp. Grabow was successful on one kick from placement.

The final touchdown for Central came on a 72-yard kickoff return by Brad Bell. The attempt to run a two-point conversion was stopped by the Tawas defense.

Hale Eagles Polished Off J-L for Homecoming Win

Hale Area Eagles rang up their second straight victory Friday night, taking a 28-12 homecoming victory over Johannesburg-Lewiston. The Eagles now have a record of two wins and two losses.

Defensive units of both teams closed the doors on scoring during the first half, but Hale put together a 70-yard touchdown drive early in the third quarter with Dan Dear going the last 28 yards. The attempted conversion failed and the Eagles held a 6-0 lead.

The visitors came right back to tie the score on a two-yard run by Gary Payne.

A 42-yard pass from Bob Schulte to Tom Sanders put the Eagles in front and Tom Lesneski added one point on his kick from placement to give Hale a 13-6 lead.

Payne scored his second touchdown of the night and closed the gap to 13-12.

With a minute and 42 seconds left in the fourth quarter, Sanders hit Jeff Dillon with a 65-yard touchdown pass and Lesneski booted from placement to run Hale's lead to 20-12.

The final touchdown came with 40 seconds remaining in the game when Dear recovered a Johannesburg-Lewiston fumble. He then ran 14 yards for a touchdown and Sanders passed to Dillon for a two-yard conversion.

Dear had top offensive honors of the night with 111 yards in 18 carries. The Eagles rushed for 177 yards and had 137 yards by passing. Schulte hit on four of 15 passes with two interceptions while Sanders had 54 yards on two passes.

Dillon was top defender with three solo tackles and 22 assists. Lesneski had 21 assists, Caverly had 17, while Dear had one solo tackle and 14 assists.

The Eagles travel to Posen Saturday for a North Star League game.

Church Addition Under Way at Hale

Finish Work Labor to be Provided by Congregation

Ground was broken last week for an 8,000-square-foot addition to St. Paul's Lutheran Church at Hale.

Culmination of this project, long a dream of the congregation, was authorized by a recent vote of members.

The building is to house a social hall, kitchen, Sunday schoolroom and rest-rooms. Clement Construction Company of Hale is contractor and Irvin Hacker of Bay City is architect.

Advance planning was handled by the Rev. Garland Isler, pastor, along with Berkley Bernard and members of the building committee.

Funds to finance the initial construction have been raised and men of the congregation are to complete the finish work.

The building is to be of frame construction with brick exterior facing. Work by the contractor is to be completed within 14 weeks, depending upon weather conditions.

A NEW ADDITION is being constructed at the rear of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Hale, above. Work on the project is expected to be

State Arbitrator Makes Award in New Contract With Iosco Deputies

Terms of a final award in a two-year dispute over contract negotiations between Iosco County and members of the sheriff's department were announced last week by George E. Gulen Jr., state arbitrator.

According to information presented at Wednesday's meeting of the county board of commissioners, the arbitrator apparently "split the difference" in final offers of the two sides before bargaining sessions were concluded.

A major point won by the county was the percentage of increase in annual salaries over a three-year period. The county had offered a 7 1/2 percent salary increase for 1979 and eight percent increases for 1980 and 1981.

The Police Officers Association of Michigan, representing department personnel, had demanded a 10 percent increase as its last offer before going to arbitration.

Gulen settled on a salary increase of 7 1/2 percent for 1979 and 8 1/2 percent increases in 1980 and 1981.

A union demand for an annual cost of living increase, based on a federal index, was rejected by the arbitrator, along with its demand for shift differential pay. The union had also demanded extra pay for personnel injured on duty, although such personnel are covered by workmen's compensation insurance, and an increased salary for animal control officers over what the county offered.

The arbitrator agreed with the union on several points and desk sergeants are to receive an annual salary increase of $300 more than what was proposed. Minor salary increases were granted to cooks and matrons over what was proposed by the county.

Secretary-deputies are to receive $600 more salary than what was proposed by the county during the first year of the contract and $840 more the second year.

The arbitrator also took the "cap" off longevity pay effective in 1981. Previously, a set limit of $10,000 had been used to base longevity pay.

Information regarding the arbitration settlement was turned over to the county clerk, who is to compute the retroactive amount to be paid to individual employees.

Sheriff's department personnel had been working without a contract since December 31, 1978, and the arbitration award was made retroactive to January 1, 1979.

Northern Michigan's Last Steam Sawmill

HURON SHORES Rustic Furniture Company had a contract to produce about 100 railroad carloads of cedar fence annually when this picture of the mill on Tawas River was snapped in 1948. In the mill yard, men are peeling bark from cedar posts and a good stock of pine logs is on hand to feed the circular saw.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Long after the age of the steam engine had become ancient history—with electricity furnishing power for industrial purposes—the unfamiliar piercing sound of steam escaping sharply from an exhaust stack greeted ears of Tawas City residents.

Use of a steam engine to provide power for a sawmill was a rather novel thing in Northeastern Michigan in the spring of 1943, but the unique sounds associated with steam provided "music to the ears" of an older generation, who recalled the days when eight steam-powered sawmills lined the shore of Tawas Bay.

The last steam-powered mill in this region had lain practically idle for a number of years, when, in June 1943, Huron Shores Rustic Furniture Company announced it had purchased the Stark Mill on First Street.

Rudolph Stark, owner of the property, was then in semi-retirement, enjoying the good perch fishing off the Tawas City Park dock and was a familiar figure on streets of the Tawas, driving around town in his vintage Plymouth roadster. He had operated the mill for more than 30 years, but old age and the scarcity of timber to stock his operation led to closing doors of the corrugated steel-covered industrial buildings.

The plant had been established by Gale and Ramage in the 1890s as a planing and flooring mill, but that firm had discontinued its operation when maple and oak timber in sufficient quantity became a thing of the past in this region.

The scarcity of woven wire fencing during World War II, when all production was geared to the war effort, coupled with the desire to return to nostalgic rustic living by many persons throughout the country, proved to be contributing factors which led to reopening of the old mill.

Huron Shores Rustic Furniture Company, organized by C. F. Hamilton, long associated with public education at Bay City, had operated a shop on US-23 south of Tawas City for two years. The firm designed and manufactured rustic furniture as its main product.

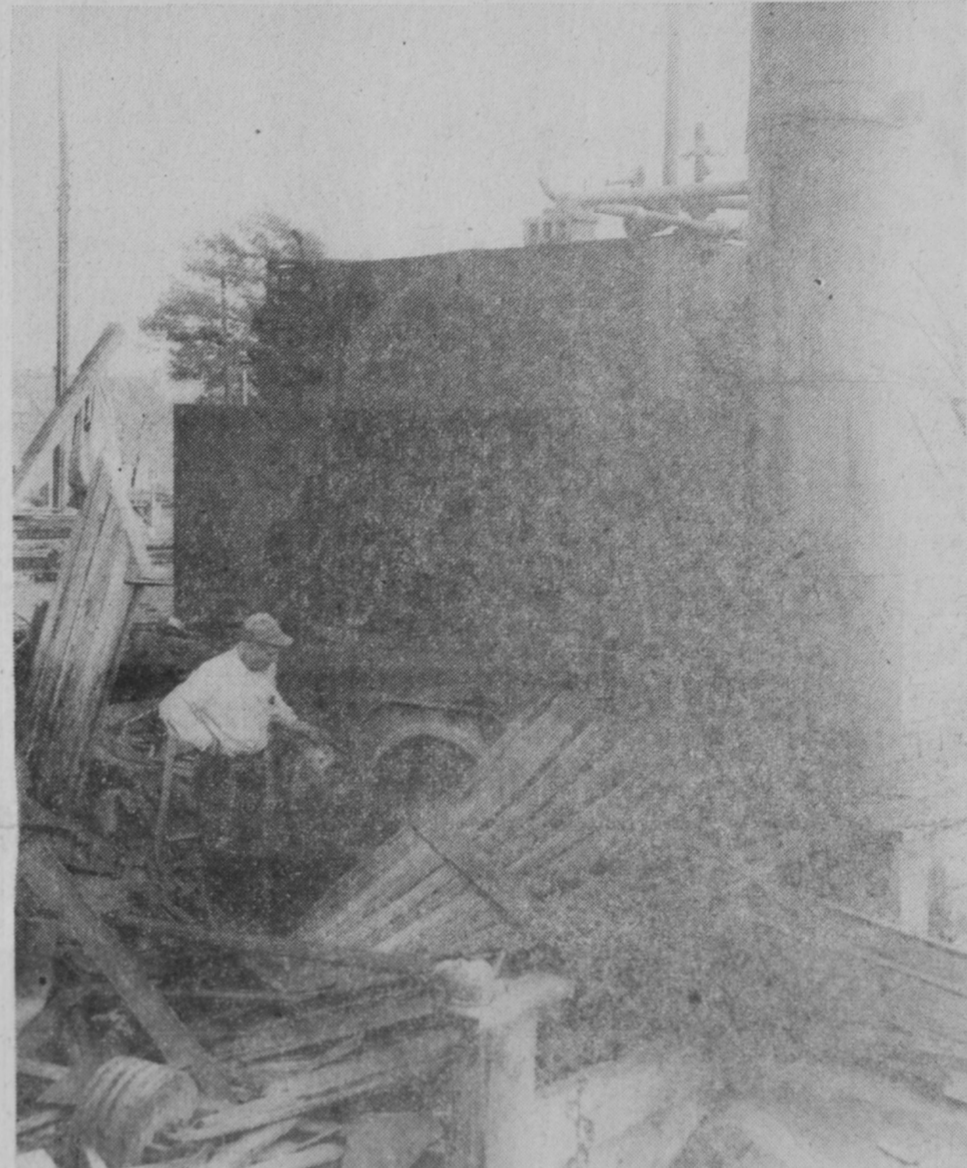

In April 1943, Hamilton announced that he had leased a portion of the C. E. Tanner Lumber Company mill on Pine Street at East Tawas for a new manufacturing operation, placing a number of men and boys on his payroll.

Orders for large quantities of fencing had been secured during the winter of 1942-43, including one substantial order with a well-known mail-order house.

"The ornamental type fencing is being used extensively for yards and grounds," stated The Tawas Herald on April 30, 1945. "It is constructed almost entirely of noncritical materials, largely cedar poles with a minimum of nails used."

Harry C. Westrich, who was manual arts teacher at East Tawas High School, was a partner in the enterprise and acted as superintendent of the plant.

The rustic ornamental fencing became so popular that the firm obtained contracts for 150 carloads of fencing to be sold on a nation-wide basis. A second expansion of the operation became necessary and on June 25, 1943, the Herald announced that Huron Shores Rustic Furniture Company had purchased the Stark Mill in Tawas City.

Despite a critical manpower shortage because of the war, the new plant secured its work force through hiring older men of the community, as well as employing a large number of high school students. Jobs for persons in those age brackets were scarce and the new plant proved to be a welcome addition in this area.

To some neighbors in the residential area of First Street, black smoke pouring from the plant's tall stack and rolling through the neighborhood may have been irksome, but the annoyance was overlooked by most because of the 50 or more jobs being provided.

A steady stream of railroad cars were loaded at a siding behind the present office of Peoples State Bank on Court Street for shipment to customers throughout the country.

Business of Huron Shores Rustic Furniture Company boomed during 1943 and 1944, using ancient equipment which once powered a planing mill. In October 1944, the firm announced that a 40 by 110-foot fireproof building was to be constructed for the rustic furniture department, which manufactured picnic tables and outdoor benches.

"While originally organized to produce rustic furniture since locating in this city two years ago, the production of the plant here has been devoted to rustic fence and cabin timber, for which there has been an unlimited market," stated the Herald on October 19, 1945. That "unlimited market" could be attributed to the scarcity of building materials during the war years.

"Charles F. Hamilton, founder of the company, stated today that two large distributors had contracted for the plant's entire production of rustic furniture. He said that his aim was to employ as many of the returning servicemen in the plant as possible and that idea had been one of the principal factors in his plans for expanding the business."

Because of frequent fires in the roof of the structure, caused by sparks from the use of scrap wood to fire the steam boiler, Hamilton emphasized that the new building would be constructed of fireproof materials.

"The building now under construction is one of a unit in an extensive building program now contemplated," reported the Herald. "Constructed of concrete blocks, it will have steel girders, steel sashed windows and will be strictly fireproof and modern."

In addition to the machines for producing furniture, the building contained a finishing

Tawas Bravettes Won Over Ogemaw Hts. in Overtime

A 20-footer by Jan Johnson gave Tawas Bravettes a 58-57 overtime victory September 23 over the Ogemaw Heights Falcons.

Tawas again made many mistakes early in the first half, but this time played over them and pulled the game out of the fire by scoring 27 points in the final quarter.

Tawas had two players scoring in double figures and it was the 22 points by Johnson, senior, which proved to be the deciding factor. Colleen Curry, a sophomore who has been the team's leading scorer in earlier games, contributed 11 points to this win.

Others scoring for Tawas were Diane Nelkie, seven points; Lori Gracik, six points; Lisa Bielby, four points; Linda Nelkie, Cindy Stephan, Renee Powell and Kellie Brockenbrough, one basket each.

Johnson and Curry were tied with eight rebounds each, Bielby had six steals and Lori Gracik led in assists with eight.

The junior varsity, paced by Dawn Allen's 14 points, turned aside Ogemaw Heights, 47-41. Tawas shot only 43 times at the basket and completed 20, while the losers attempted 63 shots and meshed 19.

Two other players scoring in double figures for Tawas were Ann Wood, 13, and Patty Stephan, 10. Others scoring were Amy Wood, five points; Lisa Seifert, three points, and Karen Soult, two points.

Allen had 13 offensive rebounds, Ann Wood had six steals and four assists.

Freshmen girls took it on the chin, 42-33, September 22 at Gladwin. Tracy LeClair topped Tawas with 10 points, followed by Amy Dillon's nine points and six points by Lisa Walters. Dillon had 10 rebounds.

Eighth grade girls won a pair of games Wednesday night over Whittemore-Preccott. The "A" team posted a 16-14 win while the "B" team came from behind to win, 18-12.

Sue Gracik was top scorer for the "A" team with eight points, Missy Minard had six points

Even Some 17-Year-Olds May Vote

State Sen. Robert Young reminds 17-year-olds whose birthdays fall on or before November 5 that they are eligible to vote in the upcoming November election if they are registered by Monday, October 6.

Senator Young said that elections officials stated even 17-year-olds who turn 18 the day after election day, November 4, can vote.

"I urge the youngest of my constituents not to miss this opportunity to vote in a presidential election," stated Senator Young.

"Besides the presidency, the Michigan electorate this November will also make choices on a number of positions, including United States congressmen, state representatives, state supreme court justices, a myriad of local officials, seven state-wide ballot proposals and local issues," Young explained. "I hope voting informed becomes a lifelong habit for all young people," he concluded.

Alice Goupil Nears 100th Birthday

Alice Goupil, a resident of Provincial House Nursing Home, Tawas City, will mark her 100th birthday anniversary on October 8.

Her family with the help of the administration and staff of the nursing home are planning to mark the occasion with a party in her honor at 12 o'clock noon. Her friends throughout the county are invited to participate by sending cards.

Mrs. Goupil, the former Mary Alice Drummond, was born October 8, 1880, at Bay City and came to Isosco County as a child. She was a long time resident of the Whittemore area and her son, Bruce, resides here.

When the Whittemore Chapter of the Lyceum League of America disbanded in 1964, only two members were left in that national organization which once numbered several thousand. Today, she is the last survivor.

Still in remarkably good health for her advanced years, she said she had spent the entire morning with the hairdresser and getting ready for the Herald photographer's visit Thursday afternoon.

In recent years, she was honored by being named "senior citizen queen" for the Isosco County Fair parade at Hale.

Get Information On Medicare Facilities

Information about health facilities taking part in Medicare is available at any social security office, a social security spokesperson said recently.

These health facilities—hospitals, skilled nursing facilities, home health agencies, and independent laboratories—must meet certain health and safety standards to take part in Medicare. They are inspected before they take part and are reinspected periodically to assure that they continue to meet the standards.

A report of any deficiencies of Medicare facilities and the facility's plan for correcting them are available for inspection at the local social security office. This information is not available by telephone.

The report shows only the shortcomings found during the most recent inspection and the facility's plan for correction. Positive findings of the inspection, included in the full report, are not immediately available but can be obtained through the social security office.

The fact that a facility has shortcomings does not mean there is any danger to the health and safety of its patients, the representative said. If that were the case, it could no longer take part in Medicare.

In addition, the corrections may have already been made by the time the report is available in the social security office.

More information is available in the leaflet, "Your can get information on Medicare facilities," which can be obtained free at any social security office. The address and telephone number of the nearest social security office can be found in the telephone directory.

HARRY WESTRICH, resident partner and manager, took an active part in community affairs. He was a member of the Tawas Camera Club when he posed for this comic picture, wearing a wig, in 1948.

and drying room and the general offices. "The company now has a substantial mill and plant for the production of fence. A dry kiln, with a 14,000-foot capacity, is also included," reported the Herald.

During the previous year, Huron Shores Rustic Furniture Company produced 130 carloads of rustic fence, 105 carloads of which were sold to all sections of the nation by Sears, Roebuck and Company. In addition to this, 75,000 posts and 3,000 gates were furnished for the fencing. Several million lineal feet of cedar were used in production.

In 1945, a new mortised rail fence was designed and went into production. Sears contracted for a large amount of the fence and plans were being prepared to advertise this product in the Sears spring catalogue.

"Hamilton and his associates have had a very busy plant during the past two years. The amount of locally produced material purchased and the substantial payroll has made the organization a valuable asset to the community," stated the Herald. "In addition to this, the members of the organization have taken an active interest in our various plans to improve the city."

Hamilton was an energetic promoter of the community, first in his efforts to interest the United States Army Corps of Engineers to develop a harbor of refuge at the mouth of the Tawas River. Those initial efforts were not successful, but he became field secretary for raising funds for construction of Tawas Hospital.

Westrich took an active part in the Tawas Chamber of Commerce and construction of a "log office" on US-23 as a tourist information center was one of his pet projects. He also took an active interest in and played an important role in consolidation of area schools into Tawas Area School District.

Another member of the firm was Frank Wilkusi of East Tawas, who had been employed by the United States Forest Service from 1933 until 1955, when he became associated with Huron Shores Rustic Furniture Company.

Hamilton was later injured in an accident at the mill and retired from the business. This resulted in a reorganization of the firm with John Monarch, Tawas City businessman, and Raoul LaBerge of East Tawas joining Westrich and Wilkusi.

A later reorganization saw Wilkusi taking over complete ownership of the firm.

Popularity of rustic fencing and furniture declined with a change of times in the late 1950s and Wilkusi closed doors of the plant along the Tawas River in 1961, rejoining the forest service. Location of an industrial operation in a residential area, too, had become a nuisance to neighbors, who objected to the dense smoke flowing through the area.

Buildings on the site were later removed by Wilkusi, including a huge steam boiler which had replaced one which had originally powered the old Gale and Ramage flooring mill. Today, the building constructed in 1944 to house the furniture company is headquarters for St. Vincent DePaul.

The old mill had served two different eras in the Michigan lumbering business, first utilizing original stands of hardwood for the manufacture of flooring and again to make use of second growth timber during a nearly 15-year boom precipitated by the scarcity of critical materials during World War II. This second use of steam power was the last seen in Northern Michigan.
