

'No Tax Base, No Main Extensions,' Says Thomas

Extension of water and sewer service across the city boundary into Alabaster Township has been denied by the City of Tawas City. This was the word Monday night from City Mgr. Lowell Thomas, who said that a request for municipal service had been requested by owners of the Alibi Inn in Alabaster Township. Thomas said that such requests would not be considered until such time as the city's annexation petitions with the state boundary commission have been resolved. In addition, the city council adopted a resolution several years ago prohibiting extension of sewer and water mains outside the corporate limits. Because of state financial problems, the staff of the state boundary commission was reduced to only one member during recent budget cuts and a decision on the city's annexation petitions may not be reached in the near future—it could be from two to four years, according to Thomas.

A proposed move to change jurisdiction of the boundary commission from the treasury department to the department of commerce could speed the decision-making process, but final action would still take from one to three years.

The Alibi Inn, located at the southwestern side of the intersection of Townline Road and US-23, was included in the area proposed for annexation by the Tawas City Council.

The state boundary commission held public hearings here last June on the council's proposed annexation of adjoining properties in both Alabaster and Tawas Townships. The city's petitions were opposed by officials of both townships, who believed that Townline Road should continue as the natural boundary line.

In response to a request more than 10 years ago from Bay Drive property owners of Alabaster Township, city water service was extended across Townline Road and later extended the line for a distance of approximately 950 feet. The last water connection on that line in Alabaster Township was made in about 1975, when the city council's resolution prohibiting further extensions was adopted.

Sewer or water service has never been extended along US-23 across Townline Road.

Industry Recognized at Tawas IDC Luncheon

Representatives of 13 local industries were guests of honor at a recognition luncheon Friday noon under sponsorship of the Tawas Area Industrial Development Corporation.

All industries of the area were represented, including United States Gypsum Company, National Gypsum Company, Tawas Plating, Tawas Industries, Bopp-Busch Manufacturing Company, Evenflow Manufacturing Company, Valeron, Ta-

Wessels, Roger Jackson, Roger Moffatt and Neal Miller. Purpose of the meeting was to honor industry for its contributions to the community as well as an exchange of ideas.

Speakers included City Mgr. Lowell Thomas, who told of plans for developing Tawas City's expanded industrial park, and Ronald Tyler, who explained financing through the Economic Development Commission.

The luncheon was held at Lixey's China House, East Tawas.

City Finances Appear Good Says Thomas

Following presentation of the city's quarterly financial report Monday night, several revisions and transfers were authorized in the 1981 budget by the Tawas City Council.

"Basically, things look good financially—revenues are coming in as anticipated and no significant problems are expected with the budget," said City Mgr. Lowell Thomas.

Transfers included: Increasing library maintenance from $50 to $100; transferring $67,850 to cover the city's share of new bridge construction; increasing local street winter maintenance from $2,000 to $4,500; increasing general trunkline overhead from $3,000 to $5,000; increasing local street maintenance from $1,750 to $3,000; increasing the equipment fund from $1,500 to $6,300; appropriation of $7,655 to the local improvement fund for land purchase and miscellaneous expense for the new fire hall; increase professional consulting service for sewers from $3,500 to $5,500.

All of the transfers were made within the various funds, as designated under contingency items in the budget.

Farmer Termed Escaping Gas a Nuisance 40 Years Ago

With the high cost of heat providing one of the biggest financial headaches today for homeowners, Doris Thayer believes that now would be a good time for someone to investigate a possible source of natural gas near Hale.

Forty years ago, E. A. Roberts of Daily Crude Oil Company dug an oil well on the farm of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Spencer, located northwest of Hale. The site was near the edge of a swamp just off Ora Lake Road.

Drilling in 1941 stopped at around 3,000 feet and, when no crude oil was found, the rig was dismantled and moved to another location by Roberts.

A few weeks after the drillers left, Spencer was checking his cattle at the edge of the swamp and was surprised to find the abandoned well hole bubbling and hissing with escaping natural gas.

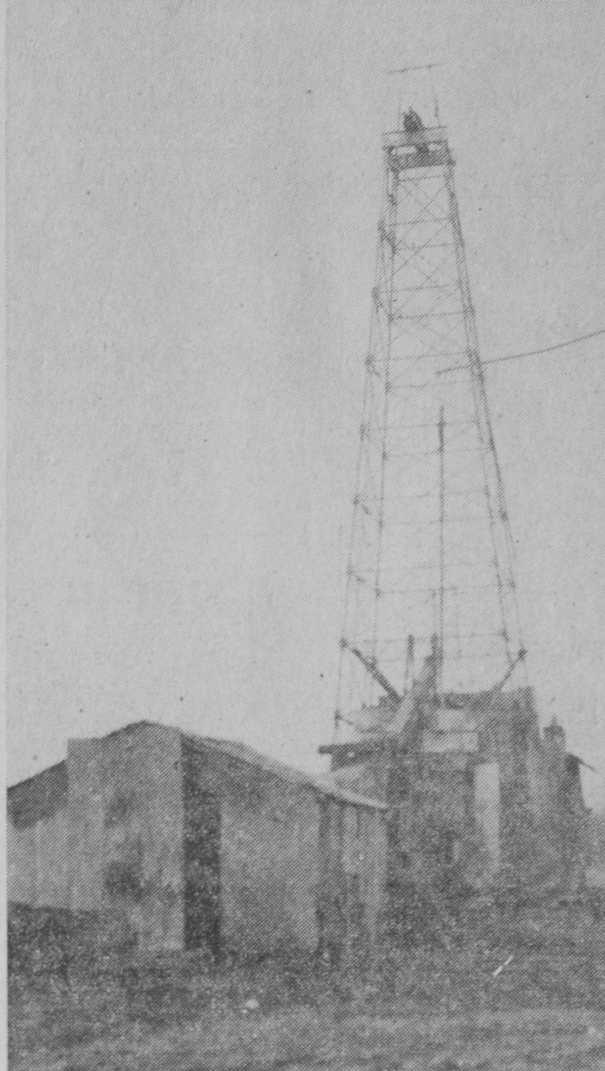

He complained to state authorities and the conservation department sent a representative to Hale to investigate the matter.

"My father was told that there was enough natural gas coming out of that abandoned hole to supply the entire community of Hale for a long time to come," said Mrs. Thayer. "Father had a good supply of wood and was not interested in heating with natural gas."

Because of the lack of interest by Spencer, the abandoned well was capped to stop the escaping natural gas. The site was soon covered by underbrush and the well was forgotten.

The property is now owned by the Hale Baptist Church and Mrs. Thayer believes that the church should investigate the possibility of reopening the well, believing it could provide a source of natural gas.

"The story about the well containing enough gas to provide heat for the entire community could be true," she states. During the past 50 or more years, numerous holes have been drilled in Iosco County but there never has been an instance recorded where natural gas or crude oil has been found.

NATURAL GAS said to have escaped from this well on the Spencer farm near Hale 40 years ago was a nuisance to the property owner and he had the well capped. His daughter believes the abandoned well could provide a supply of natural gas.

Organizational Meeting Tonight for Tawas City DDA

Organizational meeting for Tawas City's new Downtown Development Authority is to be held tonight (Wednesday), 7:30 o'clock, at the city hall.

An ordinance establishing the authority was approved in October by the council. The organization would help to promote redevelopment of the commercial district.

Named to the authority in November were Dr. Dennis Molard, Duane Walters, Gregory Huck, David Lesinski, Del Myles, John Pridnia, Benjamin

Brewer and Brent Babcock. The mayor also serves as a member under terms of the ordinance.

All of the appointees are property owners within the business district and were selected from a list of candidates submitted by councilmen and the council's commercial committee.

In other business Monday night, Leonard Hosbach and Brewer were reappointed to the city building authority with terms to expire May 1, 1982, and May 1, 1983, respectively. Carl Babcock presently holds the term expiring May 1, 1981.

The council decided to reorganize the building authority at its last meeting to handle financing of the city's new fire hall, to be constructed later in the year.

Coun. Donald Hayes reported on his attendance at a meeting of the Northeastern Michigan Economic Development Authority held last week at Grayling. Roger Jackson of the Tawas Area Chamber of Commerce and Ralph Western of the Tawas Area Industrial Development Corporation are members of the organization's executive board.

Hayes said the organization has made application for federal funds to provide low interest loans for commercial development in the 14-county area.

First reading was held on proposed amendments to the city's zoning ordinance, dealing with larger accessory buildings and required certificates of occupancy for change in occupancy of commercial buildings.

Approval was given by the council for city participation in an unemployment compensation program being administered by the Michigan Municipal League.

William Kidder Heads TC Planning Commission

William Kidder was elected chairman of the Tawas City Planning Commission at its annual reorganizational meeting held Thursday night. He replaced Wayne Thompson, who headed the commission during the past year.

Other officers named were James Russo, vice chairman, and Martha MacLeod, secretary.

A public hearing was held to hear comments on three proposed amendments to the city's zoning ordinance.

One amendment would permit larger accessory buildings in conjunction with residences, the second would require certificates of occupancy for any change in occupancy of buildings or land in business and industrial districts and the third dealt with bringing provisions of the zoning board of appeals in conformance with language of the state statutes.

In Inaugural Parade

Two Tawas City men serving in United States military academies were participants in Tuesday's inaugural parade at Washington, D. C. Keith McCready is a member of the United States Air Force Academy drum and bugle corps and Steven Kennedy is a member of the United States Naval Academy drum and bugle corps.

Would Promote Cemetery Chapel

On recommendation of the East Tawas Planning Commission, efforts are to be resumed to promote construction of a chapel at Greenwood Cemetery.

Construction of a chapel at the cemetery to provide a suitable location for funeral services was undertaken a number of years ago as a community project. Some financial pledges were received, but the project was never carried out.

At Monday's night's meeting of the East Tawas Council, it was suggested that a committee be formed to carry the project through in an aggressive way and the planning commission is to suggest a list of candidates for council consideration.

Two matters under council consideration, revision of the city's zoning ordinance and use of CETA employees in a spring-summer sidewalk construction program, were continued under a tabling motion from the last meeting.

The city clerk was given authority to contact an appraisal firm to determine the amount of information which would be provided under a proposed appraisal of the city garage for insurance purposes.

Appointed to the joint water board were Charles Quarters and Joseph Hennigar, three-year terms; George Staudacher and William Smith, two-year terms.

Now Taking Applications for City Clerk Post

Tawas City is now taking applications to fill the city clerk's vacancy.

The opening was caused January 5 when Rachel Sue McCready, who had served since 1976, submitted her resignation to City Mgr. Lowell Thomas.

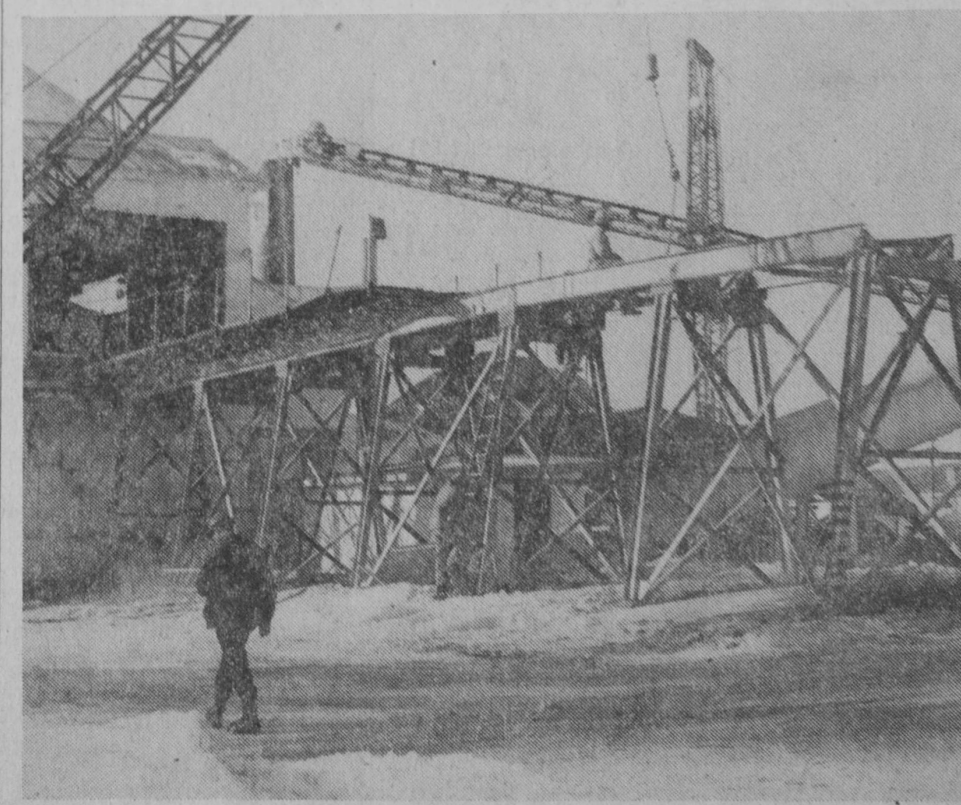

Under terms of the city charter, the position of city clerk is appointed by the city manager, subject to confirmation by the city council.

According to the announcement, the position is open to a resident of Tawas City. The job entails 10 to 15 hours per week with some evenings and more hours at election time.

Good typing skill is a requirement, while shorthand and legal exposure would be helpful. Two years of college is preferred.

Typed resumes may be mailed to Post Office Box 568, Tawas City.

A RAILROAD TRESTLE or tramway which extended over the southern end of Benson Road through United States Gypsum Company property in Alabaster Township is being removed this week. Long a landmark between the crusher and the road, it is being removed to facilitate widening and improving Benson Road by the county road commission, the township and the gypsum firm. It was originally constructed of heavy timbers when USG's aerial tramway went into service in 1929 and was later replaced with steel. It became obsolete a number of years ago when the gypsum firm replaced its rail-road operation with an endless belt conveyor system.—Tawas Herald Photo

SOME excellent catches of perch were taken through the ice of Tawas Bay last week but, when these pictures were snapped late Saturday afternoon, the fish were not hungry. Despite the bright sunshine, fishermen bundled against the cold weather and tried their luck. Tempting the perch with a tasty wax worm at left is Brent Babcock, Tawas City attorney, and baiting his hook at right is David O'Farrell of Peoples State Bank. Shanties in the ice fishing village are more numerous this year than ever before in the history of Perchville, according to another fisherman, Truman Barber Jr., who also tried his luck Saturday. Fishing conditions are expected to improve.—Tawas Herald Photos.

No Question About Which Came First

For some time there has been a question of which came first, the chicken or the egg? To many cooks, the answer has been the egg—for it is the first food served each day.

Not so true any more. Eggs have moved off breakfast tables to join the ranks of elegant candlelight dinners and delicate soufflés—even though many still sport a bit of "devilishness."

In Michigan, where good things are growing, eggs do come before chickens—in national production rank, that is. Marketed eggs totaled 1.5-billion and ranked 16th nationally, while chicken and broiler production was 7.6-million, ranking 17th in the nation, according to the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

To stretch shrinking food dollars, there is hardly a better buy. Two large eggs equal four ounces of meat nutritionally and six portions still cost less than one dollar. When you whip those prices into quiche, crepes or omelets, you have quite a main meal.

When buying eggs, as with other foods, be sure to buy the right kind for the right uses. Eggs are quality graded in accordance with federal-state laws. If eggs are to be used for poaching or frying, where appearance is important, look for Grade AA, Extra Fancy or Grade A. Grade B eggs have less thick whites and yolks may be somewhat flattened but they are good for general baking and cooking.

Eggs should always be cooked at low to moderate temperatures because high heat and overcooking will toughen them. And, if there is a good egg bargain at the grocery, stock up. Fresh shell eggs can be kept refrigerated in their cartons, with the large ends up, for several weeks.

Air Force Exercise at Wurtsmith AFB

United States Air Force Strategic Air Command (SAC) announced last week it will conduct a major command-wide, no notice exercise during calendar year 1981. The exercise, Global Shield 81, will include extensive command-post-and-field training activities. It is designed to enhance readiness and the ability of the command to carry out orders which support United States national policy should deterrence fail.

Global Shield 81 will be the third such large scale exercise held by the command in as many years. SAC's commander-in-chief, Gen. Richard H. Ellis, will direct the exercise and has indicated that Global Shield 81 will be more comprehensive and realistic than either the initial exercise in 1979 or Global Shield held last June.

All SAC units in the United States and selected air force reserve and air national guard units will participate in Global Shield 81. Also participating in the exercise will be components of the United States Navy and Marine Corps as well as elements of the Canadian forces.

Global Shield is a readiness training exercise in which SAC and other United States and Canadian forces react to a coordinated, preplanned series of events. Global Shield 81 is not related to real world events. SAC will retain its ability to meet day-to-day alert commitments and other national command authorities tasking during the exercises.

Insurance Facts Made Available

Ever wonder where the insurance dollar goes? The answer to this question and many others on insurance can be found in "Michigan Insurance Facts 1980," just published by the Michigan office of the Insurance Information Institute (III). The booklet is intended to be a handbook of statistical information pertaining to the insurance industry in Michigan. For example, this 16-page booklet outlines just how much of the premium dollar property/casualty insurance companies in Michigan paid out in claims and adjustments, operating expenses, dividends and taxes in 1979. It also shows how much insurance buyers paid out for auto, homeowners, general liability, commercial and worker's compensation insurance that year.

Single free copies of Michigan Insurance Facts 1980 are available from the Insurance Information Institute, 109 West Michigan Avenue, Suite 715, Lansing, MI 48933. The telephone number is (517) 372-4855. The Insurance Information Institute is a public information and education organization for all lines of insurance other than life and health insurance. The institute is supported by more than 200 insurance companies.

What has the United States Forest Service been doing since the Mack Lake fire for the burn area? To answer this question and others, Wayne K. Mann, Huron-Manistee supervisor of the national forests, has announced that the United States Forest Service will host a meeting to report progress of the Mack Lake burn rehabilitation team. The meeting will be held at 7:00 p.m. Wednesday, February 4, at the community center in Mio.

According to Mann, the rehabilitation team was established to plan and coordinate salvage and reforestation efforts on the 25,000-acre area burned on May 5, 1980. The team is headed by Horace H. LaBumbar, Huron-Manistee National Forests timber staff officer, and includes specialists in reforestation, wildlife management, soil resources and fire management.

The rehabilitation team members will discuss a number of topics: Objectives of the rehabilitation plan, fire effect on wildlife and management potentials, effects on Mack Lake, fire effect on soils and vegetation, timber salvage, reforestation plans and future plans. An updated listing of the status of fire claims will be available at the meeting.

Team members will be available for an informal question and answer session during the meeting. Everyone is invited to attend and participate in this information meeting.

Social Security Recipients May Earn More

People getting social security checks will be able to earn more in 1981 than they did in 1980 before any of their social security benefits are withheld. In 1981, a person under 65 for all of the year can earn $4,080 before any benefits are withheld. This annual exempt amount was $3,720 for 1980. The annual exempt amount for people 65 or older in 1981 is $5,500, up from $5,000 for 1980.

If a person's earnings exceed the annual exempt amount, one dollar in benefits is withheld for each two dollars of earnings above the exempt amount. People should notify social security as soon as they think their annual earnings might exceed the exempt amount. This way, they can avoid receiving any incorrect payments that might have to be repaid.

Eagles End Long Fairview Record

Hale Eagles came from behind in a wild fourth quarter Friday night to defeat visiting Fairview, 56-55. It was the first time the Eagles had defeated Fairview since the 1972-73 season.

The Eagles jumped off to a good lead, 15-10, in the first quarter, but Fairview closed the gap to 30-29 at intermission. The visitors turned the tables on the Eagles in the third quarter to gain a 39-36 lead, but Hale rebounded in the fourth to take the victory.

Key foul shots were canned late in the fourth quarter by Jeff Dillon, Tom Sanders and Lynn Gibbs. Gibbs was top scorer for Hale with 11 points and he had 11 rebounds. That was the second victory of the week for the Eagles as they turned aside AuGres, 48-42, on January 13. Hale took a 10-4 lead in the first quarter, but AuGres came back to lead at intermission, 22-18. The Eagles jumped out in front, 34-30, at the end of the third quarter and were never headed.

Know Your Michigan Law

By Attorney General FRANK J. KELLEY

As the old saying goes, there's only two sure things in life—death and taxes.

Michigan's Public Health Code, however, assures another certainty: Vital statistics.

The Public Health Code requires the state registrar to maintain and post birth and death certificates. The information on both certificates is considered so vital, that once they are filed, changes cannot be made without a court order.

The birth certificate, for example, gives the date of birth, the mother and her marital status and the name of the mother's husband.

Once the birth certificate is filed, the state registrar can only amend the birth record to indicate the paternity of the child, or change the paternity, upon a court order.

The death certificate must list a cause of death certified by either the attending physician or the county medical examiner's office. Once the death is registered, the certificate cannot be amended to change the cause of death without a court order.

The accuracy of these records is important for a number of reasons including taxation.

Thus, there are actually three sure things in life: Death, taxes and vital statistics.

RETIRING FRIDAY after nearly 32 years of federal service was Richard Matthews, postmaster at Hale. He will keep busy on his farm near Hale.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Hale Postmaster Retires to Farm

Richard Matthews, 55, who retired Friday after nearly 32 years of federal service, said he plans to expand the operation of his 140-acre farm east of Hale—now that he no longer will be sorting mail each day. "I plan to start feeding a few more cattle and that means I will have to start growing more crops," said Matthews. He had served as postmaster at Hale since 1971, having entered the postal service in 1950 when he became a substitute rural carrier. In 1959, he became a clerk under former postmaster, David Bernard, was made officer in charge in 1970 and became postmaster on April 3, 1971. Born at Hastings, he spent 20 months in military service and came to Plainfield Township in 1946. He and his wife, Georgia, are parents of two children, Walter Reilly of Hale and Mrs. William (Gloria) Eggert of Missouri. The Matthews have seven grandchildren. Fellow employees presented the retiring postmaster with a watch Friday morning. Barbara Kaunisto, a clerk at the East Tawas post office, is to be officer in charge at Hale until a new postmaster is named in 90 days.

Historic Slides to be Featured

A pictorial history of Oscoda, AuSable and the Tawas is to be presented at the Iosco County Historical Society Museum, 405 West Bay Street, East Tawas, on Wednesday, January 21, 7:30 p. m.

The program is to be presented by Mary Jane Hennigar of Oscoda, who, with her husband, John, has prepared a unique collection of photographic slides illustrating the early history of the towns.

The Hennigars are lifelong residents of the county and began assembling and copying pictures nearly 20 years ago. Modern photographic materials were used to produce black and white lantern slides for projection. The public is invited to attend.

John (Jack) Lansky, Tawas City's oldest active businessman, marked his 50th year Thursday, January 15, in the gasoline service station business. During all those years, his station has been located directly across from the city hall.

There have been many changes which have taken place since Lansky opened his original station on January 15, 1931, and more than changing signs from Standard to Amoco.

Probably one of the biggest changes is the price of the product he dispenses. A customer driving under the convenient protective canopy of his original filling station would say: "Put in a dollar's worth, Jack," and the five gallons of Red Crown he pumped by hand into the tank would keep the spoked wheels of a Model A Ford roadster spinning for a week or more under normal driving conditions.

Like the sturdy Model A and the other cars of yesteryear, the old-time gasoline pump topped by a glass measuring tank (the driver saw his actual purchase) is also a collector's item. The glass Red Crown insignia at the top of the pump is an eagerly sought, but rarely found item, these days.

And the memories: Gone from his neighborhood in the business district of 50 years ago are such once-familiar names as Charles Moeller, W. C. Davidson, "Bill" and Howard Hatton, Eugene Bing, Raymond Tuttle, Stephen Ferguson, Fred Buch, Austin McGuire, Charles McLean, William Cholger, L. H. Braddock, H. J. Keiser Sr., Edward Trudell, Edward and Rose Martin, to name a few recorded in his book of memories.

A native of Tawas City, one of Lansky's first jobs was with Henry Kane, pioneer Ford dealer in this region. The garage and salesroom were located on Lake Street in the building presently occupied by Huron Auto Parts. Lansky had charge of the parts department and sold Model T Fords. When the business was purchased by W. C. (Roxey) Roach, he stayed on in the same capacity.

In 1929, Lansky decided to go into business for himself and he operated a poolroom in the Sawyer building, then located west of the Iosco Hotel. His brother, Frank, operated a Standard station in the Detroit area and, believing there was an opening for another station in Tawas City, decided to get back into the automotive game.

"I believed an open lot owned by Hymie Friedman would provide a good location and I bought the property from him. Actually, it was just a big hole in the ground (the indentation of the shore line of Tawas Bay) and I filled it in," recalled Lansky. "The Keisers had some red tile remaining after constructing their drugstore building and I bought what was left for my new station."

His 16 by 20-foot building was strictly modern for those days, complete with a canopy extending over the tops of two gasoline pumps for the protection of the attendant on wet days. There was also an outdoor concrete drive-over pit for changing oil and servicing vehicles. A red brick front set the station off as one of the most modern in the area.

Other stations in operation in 1931 were owned by Harry Rollin, Cholger, James Leslie and John Swartz, later owned by James Robinson.

Lansky later acquired another 60-foot-wide lot from Friedman, filled in some more land and, when US-23 was widened through Tawas City in 1940, he built an entirely new station closer to the lake shore.

He and his wife, Margaret, built their home next to the station in 1937, which made a convenient business arrangement. Their son, James—who was 10 months old when his dad opened his first station—was soon helping out pumping gasoline and changing oil in the ever increasing number of cars which stopped at the station on northward trips along US-23, as well as a growing local clientele.

Mrs. Lansky took her turn, too, in operation of the station. Besides keeping the books, she spelled her husband at the gasoline pumps, particularly when the fire siren atop the city hall called out the volunteer fire department. Lansky was the fire chief for a number of years and also served a term on the city council.

When "Jim" became of age as a high school student and took his turn at operating the station, his dad had a few free hours to enjoy his favorite sport—wetting a streamer fly on night fishing excursions for brown trout on the AuSable River, accompanied by his fishing cronies, Hosea Bigelow and Roach.

After returning from a "hitch" in the United States Marines during the Korean War, the son joined the father in the business. Grandsons James Jr. and Brian have also worked in the station (the latter is a high school senior this year), making the station operation a family affair. The Lanskys have three grandchildren and a seven-month-old great granddaughter.

The elder Lansky will not venture a guess as to how many thousands of gallons of gasoline he has pumped into the tanks of his customer's cars, the number of quarts of oil he has poured into crankcases, the number of flat tires he has changed, or the number of other services he has provided to his customers during the past 50 years.

"Jack" says he is going to "stay in harness" for a while longer, inasmuch as he will only be 83 years old on his birthday next August 24. And, naturally, he is going to take some time off to wet a fly in the old AuSable when the time comes for brown trout fishing next spring.

to be constructed on vacant property at the intersection of Fourth Avenue and Mathews Street. The building is being designed to permit bids by conventional contractors or suppliers of prefabricated steel buildings.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Shorter Sessions at Lansing? Don't Hold Your Breath

In his state of the state message last week, Governor Milliken hinted at an economy move which this column has advocated for many years: Shorten the session of the state legislature to six months.

But do not expect legislators to jump on the governor's bandwagon and shout a chorus of "Eureka." Changing from a full year to a half year sojourn at Lansing would mean a cut in pay and legislators would have to go out to work for six months of the year. It would also mean a healthy cut in their fat retirement programs at the end of their days of living at the public trough.

It was not too many years ago when the people of Michigan were sold a bill of goods by professional politicians to make service in the legislature a full time job. Actually, Michigan is one of only five states with full time legislatures and 27 other states have constitutional limitations on the length of legislative sessions.

The former editor of this newspaper was even more radical about the length of legislative sessions—he believed Michigan should copy Virginia and have its legislature meet in a six-month session every other year, with a brief annual session to adopt a budget.

That was not too bad an idea as the people would have a "breather" every other year from legislative effusions and would be safe from the harm being done at Lansing.

This column now advocates that Michigan copy Nebraska, which has a unicameral legislature. There is only one house in that legislature and, since the courts decreed the one-man, one-vote principal, there really is no need for a senate as the system of governmental checks and balances originated by our founding fathers is no more.

However, the reader is warned not to hold his breath while waiting for a change at Lansing. Legislators will beat their breasts and shout to high heaven about the importance of their work—especially those time consuming and expensive committee sessions. Some, in retaliation to the proposal, will even suggest that the governor's office be made a part-time job, which might not be a bad idea!

Highlights And Sidelights

Tourist Industry's Future Called Bright

DEARBORN—Although dark clouds have settled on Michigan's economic horizon, leading state tourism officials see a bright future for that industry, reports the January issue of Michigan Living/AAA Motor News.

"The travel industry will continue to prosper during the 1980s, but the problem of energy and increasing competition from other states will intensify," said Gov. William G. Milliken. "The industry must be ready to address these challenges with workable solutions, including conservation and dissemination of accurate and timely information." With gasoline prices rising and the senior citizen population growing, Milliken predicts more group travel in the 1980s. Many Michigan cities—Battle Creek, Flint, Grand Rapids and Kalamazoo—are upgrading their facilities and will play important roles in the travel picture, said Milliken.

However, with the current fiscal problems in Lansing, the governor said less financial help will be available from government. "Tourism businesses at the local and regional levels must work more cooperatively, pooling their resources to promote their area," he said.

Development of new tourist attractions and hotels has not slowed despite the sluggish economy, Michigan Living points out. "Major motel chains continue to expand with new budget motels, middle-range and more exotic hostels in almost every area city," said Wesley Tebeau, West Michigan's Tourist Association chief.

"Tourism construction in the billions of dollars is on the books already," said Sidney Baker, Southeast Michigan Travel and Tourist Association head.

Some of the major projects on the drawing boards or under construction include a 397-room Hyatt Regency and Auto World in Flint, a Stouffer's in Battle Creek and Space World near New Boston.

Mayor Coleman Young said that Detroit is on the way to becoming America's favorite "visitors' city." He added that Detroit's reputation as a convention city is at an all-time high.

Tourism officials in Northeast Lower and Upper Michigan expect to attract more campers, boaters and fishermen. "It (tourism) will grow because we can offer what others can't—open spaces," said Robert Helwig, Upper Peninsula Travel and Recreation Association director.

Tourism is the number two industry in Michigan. Last year, nonresidents spent more than two-billion dollars and residents spent three-billion dollars on Michigan vacations, according to the magazine. Tourism directly employs 127,000 persons in the state.

Local Students Achieve Honors

Several area students were among 1,141 enrollees at Central Michigan University to achieve honor for the fall term. To qualify for the honors list, students must attain a grade point average of no lower than 3.5 on a four-point basis.

Named to the honors lists were James Kiblinger and Sherry Moon of East Tawas; Marcy Humphrey of Hale; Michael Meyer, Kathleen O'Malley and Gena Wagner, Oscoda; Shelly Brown, Dennis Libka and Lois McCready, Tawas City; Barbara Erickson, Whittemore.

Karlene Falck of East Tawas, Phyllis Degesie of Whittemore and Margaret Shinaver of Turner joined 310 MAEH (Michigan Association of Extension Homemakers) members from across the state at the "Learn and Lead Thru MAEH" conference January 6-7 at the Michigan State University Kellogg Center, East Lansing.

"Purpose of the conference was to provide the opportunity for members to share program ideas that were successful in their counties, to learn effective leadership skills and to develop a long-range program plan," says Susan Lambrecht, Iosco County extension director. Participants selected two of the eight workshops offered covering topics like resolving group conflict, using parliamentary procedure effectively and motivating persons to use their skills and talents in MAEH and other groups.

The Week-End Cook

Part II
 By SUSAN LAMBRECHT
 Iosco County Extension Director

Why do prices at the grocery store seem to be leaping ahead of pay checks? Part of the reason is that many people choose to buy foods with a lot of the preparation already done—convenience foods.

There is a place for convenience in every kitchen. But, in these times of layoffs, inflation and general belt tightening, why not invest some time as a week-end cook to develop homemade convenience foods. An investment of minutes can save dollars on the grocery bill.

For starters, try making salad dressing. Bottled salad dressings have been around for so long, one may not even think of them as convenience foods. It is quick and easy to make for a fraction of the cost.

French Dressing
 1/4 cup sugar
 1 1/2 teaspoons paprika
 1 teaspoon dry mustard
 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
 1/2 teaspoon onion powder
 3/4 cup vegetable oil
 1/4 cup vinegar
 Combine ingredients in a glass jar. Shake until well blended. Chill before serving. Makes about 1 1/4 cups.

Home-Style Dressing
 2 teaspoons instant minced onion
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
 1/2 teaspoon monosodium glutamate, if desired.
 1 tablespoon parsley flakes
 1 cup mayonnaise
 1 cup buttermilk

Combine dry ingredients and mix until evenly distributed. Combine with mayonnaise and buttermilk and blend thoroughly.

Russian Dressing
 1 cup mayonnaise
 2/3 cup chili sauce
 2 tablespoons milk
 1 tablespoon sweet pickle relish
 Combine all ingredients and chill.

suscitation and obstructed airway techniques. These are skills which could save a life.

Many Complaints, CP to Reopen Payment Locations

Consumers Power Company announced Monday that it has authorized the reopening of many of the bill payment locations throughout its 27,000-square-mile service area in order to meet needs defined by a large number of its customers. The company cited customer concern as expressed in thousands of letters and telephone calls as the reason for this decision.

Consumers Power announced last month that it was discontinuing arrangements with many of the several hundred bill payment locations. Most of these facilities are at bank and savings and loan offices, drugstores and other small businesses.

The decision to re-establish many bill payment locations is a direct result of customer complaints, Stephen H. Howell, Consumers Power executive vice president in charge of customer service, said. He said that customers' expressions of concern were most persuasive.

Signs will be offered for display by those businesses renewing their bill payment arrangements. Customers also can obtain quick information about their bills or other utility matters by calling a toll free telephone number listed in the local directory in each community served by Consumers Power Company.

Great Cuisines Of The World

JAPANESE TEMPURA

The most distinguishing quality of Japanese cuisine is its reverence for the natural beauty and natural flavor of food. The Japanese do not mix several foods together in the same dish as the Chinese do, nor do they like to add rich sauces to their food as some of the French do; they prefer to serve foods separately and simply, in order to relish each type of food individually.

The Tempura featured here is an example of a classic Japanese dish. Fresh vegetables and shrimp are coated in a batter which is so light it is translucent after it is cooked. The vegetables and shrimp are then deep fried in peanut oil, which is light enough to enhance the natural flavors of food.

Peanut oil is recommended by culinary experts who say it is closest to oils used in the orient. Its light flavor makes it ideal for preparing delicate Japanese dishes. Furthermore, it is completely natural and unrefined with nothing artificial added.

The Tempura featured here is one example of recipes which may be entered in Planters Oil's "Great Cuisines of the World" Recipe Contest. Original recipes which use Planters Oil Pure Peanut Oil may be entered in one of six categories—French, Greek, Indonesian, Italian, Oriental and Spanish. For contest rules, look in your favorite store or write to: Planters Oil Contest Rules, Drawer "A", Madison Square Station, New York, N.Y. 10010.

Finalists' recipes will be considered for use in future Planters Oil recipe books.

Everyone entering the contest will receive a free copy of Planters Oil's new booklet, "Frying Coast to Coast," which contains more than 50 inspiring recipe ideas for sauteing, stir-frying, pan-frying and deep-frying regional and international favorites. It also contains helpful cooking advice for perfect meals and a 50¢ coupon toward the purchase of Planters 100% Pure Peanut Oil. The Tempura pictured here is one of several international favorites featured in the "Frying Coast to Coast" booklet.

TEMPURA
Makes 4 to 6 servings

3 cups Planters Peanut Oil
1-1/2 cups cold water
1 egg yolk
1-1/2 cups unsifted flour
1/2 cup cornstarch
4 teaspoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ground ginger
1 egg white, stiffly beaten
1 pound raw shrimp, shelled and deveined
1/4 pound fresh mushrooms, cleaned and halved
1/4 pound fresh green beans, cut into diagonal slices

4 carrots, peeled and cut into thin strips
1 large sweet potato, peeled, halved and cut in 1/4-inch slices
1 green pepper, seeded and cut into rings
1 large Bermuda onion, sliced and separated into rings

Heat peanut oil in a large saucepan to 375° F. Combine water, egg yolk, flour, cornstarch, sugar, salt and ginger in a blender container. Cover and blend on high speed until smooth, using a rubber spatula to keep mixture flowing to blades. Fold mixture into beaten egg white. Dip shrimp and assorted vegetables into batter, shaking off excess. Fry in hot peanut oil until golden and tender. Drain on paper towels. Serve hot with Dipping Sauce.

Dipping Sauce: Dissolve 1 beef bouillon cube in 1 cup boiling water. Stir in 1/4 cup Dry Sack Sherry and 1/4 cup soy sauce. Serve warm.

COOKING CORNER

VIVE LA GRANNY SMITH!

Southern France is giving Americans a delicious eating idea that can only grow in popularity. The clean, crisp tart flavor of the Granny Smith apple from Toulouse is here to stay.

The biggest news about the Granny is its taste. Tart, but not sour, the Granny Smith is a delight to CRUNCH into. They're round, medium-sized apples, with a greenish-white pulp that's fine, firm and full of juice.

Apple growers must take care in the grafting of trees to insure a uniform, quality product. And that's just what's taking place in the beautiful southwestern countryside of France—the first country to export apples—where there are orchards full of Granny Smith apples. From November through late January, U.S. consumers can enjoy the bright green southern French Granny imported by the Blue Whale fruit producer.

Because of its geographic situation and size of production, regardless of climatic conditions, the Blue Whale potential cannot be equalled. Eaten fresh, Granny Smith apples never taste old, or are fuzzy. Their cooking quality is excellent. Granny Smith apples keep their natural flavor—between a Pippin and a Golden Delicious—and hold their shape once cooked.

All apples help to exercise and cleanse your teeth and gums. They aid digestion in supplying pectin which helps to maintain the body's cholesterol balance. High in potassium, the greatest food value is in their fruit sugar—fructose. And, for dieters, an average apple has only 80 to 90 calories and does wonders for satisfying the appetite.

If you'd like to have a copy of your own free recipe brochure, write:

"Granny Smith—A Whale of an Apple" c/o The Blue Whale 3345 Wilshire Blvd. Los Angeles, CA 90010
And while you're at it, try this Southern French favorite from the Blue Whale!

SPICY POACHED APPLE SLICES

1/2 cup honey
1/3 cup cider vinegar
5 whole cloves
1 stick cinnamon
3 Blue Whale Granny Smith apples, peeled, cored, thinly sliced (approximately 4 cups)

Place honey, vinegar, cloves and cinnamon in small saucepan. Bring to boil. Simmer 2-3 minutes. Drop in half the apple slices. Cook 5-8 minutes at gentle boil until slices become translucent. Remove with slotted spoon. Repeat with second half of apple slices. Serve warm or cold, plain or as topping for vanilla yogurt or ice cream. Makes 4-6 servings.

Good News Department

America doesn't have to be held hostage permanently by foreign oil. Instead, we can choose the kind of energy future we want. In this article, a distinguished energy expert, Jerry McAfee, the Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Gulf Oil, points to current trends in energy development that support optimism.

In the 1980s we can choose to cut oil imports in half; to change our economy from depending primarily on oil and gas to one based on many energy sources. We can choose to make maximum use of the domestic fuels we have in good supply: coal, uranium, solar, geothermal, oil shale, tar sands, fusion and biomass. We can choose to put aside energy dependence and achieve energy security. Past research efforts are bearing fruit: enhanced oil recovery techniques squeezing more oil out of older fields have added about 385,000 barrels per day to U.S. production. Also, we have a real beginning in the development of synthetic fuels. A $1.4 billion solvent refined coal demonstration project is designed to confirm the feasibility of converting high-sulfur coal into clean-burning fuel oil and other products while meeting all applicable environmental standards. It brings together the financial and technical resources of the Department of Energy, German and Japanese governments and industry, and Gulf Oil. Other coal-based synthetic projects, too, are added every day, to the 260 existing ones. Some experts see synthetic fuels from oil shale as now being cost-competitive with foreign oil, putting oil shale in the forefront as a substitute for conventional petroleum. We are optimistic about eventually increasing our production of synthetic crude oil from tar sands. New technologies are also making the use of coal (and the U.S. has more than half of the free world's coal resources) more acceptable environmentally. As America recovers from the trauma of Three-Mile Island, we may triple the contribution of nuclear power by 1990. The trends show the potential for energy security. However, it won't be easy. The obstacles include limitations on capital formation: energy development in the future will require enormous amounts of capital. The easy oil has already been found. Another obstacle is the lack of access to federally-controlled land and offshore areas. Federal policies restrict or forbid access to potentially energy-rich areas. The energy industry is being strangled with red tape, restrictions and delays—the regulatory quagmire. The adversary relationship between government and industry must be overcome. The obstacles are formidable. But we can overcome them. With sound technology, wise leadership and trust, we can achieve energy security by 1990.
