SPRING IS NEAR and these two white swans enjoyed the mild weather last week along the Tawas River downstream from the M-55 bridge. The pictures were snapped Wednesday afternoon by Frank Mark of Tawas City, a retired civil service maintenance employee at Wurtsmith Air Force Base, who purchased a new camera outfit and zeroed in on the swans with a zoom lens for his first picture taking effort. In the lower photo, the swans were joined by several ducks for a sun bath.

State Tax Commission Finds 'Deficiencies' in Evaluation

A representative of the Michigan Department of Treasury notified Iosco County officials February 18 that a preliminary review had shown "there may be serious deficiencies" in the county's equalization study.

Roland C. Anderson, manager of research, statistics and education for the treasury department, said that percentages of increase for agricultural, residential and timber cutover "do not uniformly compare with the increased figures reported by other county equalization department studies."

Such information from Lansing has been unheard of since John Rose, county equalization director, took over that office a number of years ago.

The term "deficiency" as used in the letter is being termed locally that the state believes percentages of increase should be higher.

The letter stated that "The true cash value of the agricultural real classification of property shows an increase of 1.66 percent as compared to 19-80 true cash values. The study also shows an increase in the true cash value of the residential real property classification of 4.68 percent and increase in the timber cutover true cash value of 1.44 percent."

Rose said Tuesday that he is "standing by" the equalization study, which he said was based upon actual property appraisals. He said that a sales study was not used in his findings as there were too few sales last year and would not reflect the true cash value of property.

In any event, he expects to meet soon with representatives of the treasury department to discuss the county's preliminary equalization report.

Anderson said that Lambert

Enders, the treasury department's District No. 4 supervisor, was currently reviewing this county's study "and would make a report regarding possible deficiencies. These reports will be forwarded to you for your review as early as possible."

He said that earlier reports of "possible deficiencies in your study by the tax commission were impossible because your study was not received until February 18."

Anderson said that "representatives of the commission staff will meet with you at any time, so that working together, we can eliminate any problem before your April equalization session."

When the state tax commission did not agree with county equalization in prior years, factors were multiplied against county figures to achieve the final equalization.

What may not be taken into consideration by the state is that the county completed an entire reappraisal of property over a period of several years, which may not have been accomplished elsewhere, and percentages of increase shown by the local report may be accurate.

Rehearsals Start for Iosco Pageant

Eleven young Iosco County women began a series of rehearsals Monday that will climax with one of them being crowned Miss Iosco County for 1981 at the annual Miss Iosco County Pageant May 23.

This year marks the ninth season for the pageant, which began under the direction of Mrs. Diane Little in the spring of 1973, with the Paul Bunyan Festival as the sponsor.

The 11 contestants this year will follow the same arduous schedule that their predecessors followed over the past eight years in striving to win the coveted title.

And, like the winners in previous years, the 1981 Miss Iosco County will go on to compete in the Miss Michigan Pageant, the next step on the ladder to becoming Miss America.

Sponsored this year by the Oscoda Lions Club with Edward Buresh as the club's project chairman, the pageant will again offer the winner a $750 educational scholarship plus a $450 wardrobe. First runner-up will receive a $250 scholarship, while the second runner-up will receive a $150 scholarship.

Director of the pageant this year is Mary Aune, who has worked with the program since its beginning in 1973. She takes over from Alice Parsons, who resigned.

Working with Mrs. Aune will be Shelly Schraven as assistant director, Nan Buresh and Betty Kelly as hostess coordinators and Jackie Melton as choreographer.

Monday evening's rehearsal was the first of 11 Monday evening sessions at which the contestants practice their talents, learn how to sit and walk, attend make-up sessions, receive advice on hair styles and dress, plus a myriad of other details that make every one of the contestants a winner.

The last week prior to the pageant, May 18-22, there will be nightly rehearsals getting ready for the program before the packed auditorium at Oscoda High School that has come to be routine for the annual program.

In addition to the coaching at the weekly rehearsals, the contestants will be offered private coaching in their chosen talent area.

On May 23, Gail Tamplin of Hale, Miss Iosco County for 19-80, will place the crown on the head of the 1981 queen, to be selected by a panel of judges provided by the Miss Michigan Pageant organization.

Competing for the crown this year are five girls from Oscoda, three from the Tawas area, one from Twining, one from AuGres and one from Mikado.

The contestants are Leslie Ford, Tammy Bording, Leni Weis, Diane Jones and Audrey Brummond of Oscoda; Julie Featheringill, Kellie Carlisle and Claudia Carney of Tawas; Becky Harrison of Twining; Amy-Lynn Hinds (back for a second try after competing in 1980) of AuGres; Magdaline Virgin of Mikado.

Weekly rehearsals are being held in the gymnasium of the Cedar Lake Elementary School at Oscoda.

Federal Cuts Could Doom Gateway

Stressing that his information was unofficial, City Mgr. Lowell Thomas told the Tawas City Council Monday night that only an outside possibility exists for the city to receive Land Water Conservation Act funding for its proposed Gateway Park at the mouth of the Tawas River.

This word really was not unexpected because of massive cutbacks in the federal bureaucracy being recommended by the Reagan administration in an effort to slash federal spending. The president has recommended that the 300-million dollars allocated for LWC projects be cut by $100,000,000 and the agency may even be eliminated.

Thomas said the secretary of interior had ordered that no LWC applications be accepted after February 17. The city's application for $80,000 in LWC funds was forwarded from Lansing on February 11, but it is doubtful if there would have been enough time for processing the papers at Washington, D.C.

Action is expected by congress this week on the president's sweeping proposals.

The only possibility remaining for approval of the city's project is that the federal government would accept the application on the strength of its February 11 date line at Lansing.

The city manager and council members took the news with sadness—the river mouth project has been under consideration for a number of years and a considerable amount of local and state funds were expended last year in its planning.

However, all city officials agreed with the basic philosophy behind the administration's recommendation to congress and support action to reduce federal spending by slashing all such programs and even eliminating certain departments.

Loss of LWC funds will probably mean, too, the city will not receive $80,000 from the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission which has been pledged for this project. These funds, normally, are considered matching money for other federal funding.

Thomas said the city could pursue funding for the project from other federal agencies, or it may come down to the fact that the city—if it still places a high priority on river mouth development—may see its way clear to finance the project piecemeal over a long period of time.

The $80,000 in LWC funds was to provide financing for the first phase of a long term development project. With local matching funds, it would have provided an outer breakwall to protect the city-owned property and the interior would have been developed over a period of years.

The application for funding was delayed earlier this year when a tourist information center was included in plans recommended by the Upper

Great Lakes Regional Commission. The revised plan called for building an information center by the building trades class ing a dwelling next term.

City Objects to Proposed Removal of Safety Walks

Believing that better use could be made of federal highway funds, the Tawas City Council Monday night voiced objection to a state highway department plan to remodel the M-55 bridge over the Tawas River by elimination of a safety walk. Mayor David Westcott was particularly outspoken concerning the plan to widen the roadway portion of the M-55 bridge. He believed that elimination of the 3½-foot walkway on the bridge would endanger the lives of youngsters walking to school along M-55.

Westcott's full time job is transportation director at Tawas Area School and he pointed out that legislation is being considered at Lansing to elim-

Noncertified Employees Unhappy With Shorter Day

A decision relative to a grievance against Tawas Area Board of Education is expected to be made later in the week by non-certified employees of the school district, whose hours were cut last week by the board of education.

A general meeting of non-certified employees was held Monday night at which Supt. Allan Dighera explained action taken last week by the board of education.

school's fiscal year, the board last week authorized a number of cuts, but is still $36,026 short of balancing the budget.

The noncertified employees—secretaries, custodians and food service workers—have objected to the cutting of their daily workday by one hour when the board of education chose not to cut spring sports and extra-curricular activities.

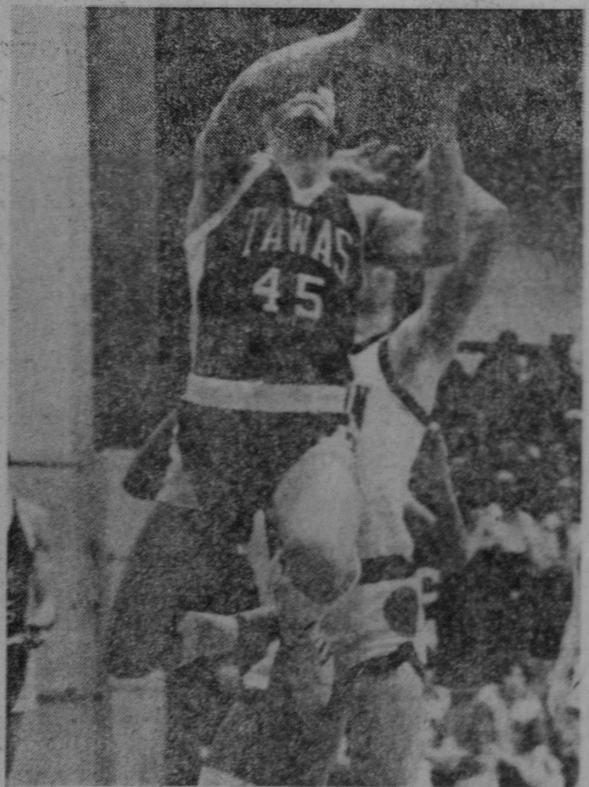

A representative of the union acting as the bargaining agent for noncertified employees is to meet with members Thursday night.

Tawas Student Excited Over Page Appointment

Kim Kalinowski, a 16-year-old Tawas Area High School junior whose ambition is to become an attorney and enter politics, has started off on the right foot to achieve her goal in life.

Last Thursday, she and the school were notified by Cong. Bob Davis that she had been appointed a congressional page and leaves next week for Washington, D. C.

She was one of 200 applicants filing for 12 openings as pages in the United States House of Representatives. Normally, appointments are not announced until June, but there was a vacancy and Miss Kalinowski's appointment was effective immediately.

As a page, she will be running errands for congressmen during sessions of the house of representatives and during committee meetings. Each page is assigned a specific area of the floor and, according to her information, she will be working with Republican members.

"I was on 'cloud nine' when telephone calls were received by the school and at my home notifying me of the appointment," she said Monday morning. "My parents are as excited as I about this opportunity."

She is presently maintaining a 3.85 grade point average in high school and is enrolled in a college preparatory curriculum. Her subjects include United States history, college English, probabilities in matrix, French and chemistry.

While in Washington, D. C., she will continue her high school courses in a special school for pages in the Library of Congress.

"I read an article in a magazine about congressional pages and I wrote to Michigan's two senators for more information and an application. I then submitted my resume to Congressman Davis in December and have been anxiously awaiting word since then," she stated Monday.

Thomas Pinowski, guidance counselor at Tawas Area High School, said Monday that, to his knowledge, this appointment is a first for a Tawas Area High School student—possibly a first for the entire county.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kalinowski of Tawas City. Her father is co-treasurer at the Josco County Building. She has a brother in junior high school.

Informal education has always helped people to shape themselves and those around them; to shape the present and the future. And, once again, the Michigan division of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association will make it possible for some Michigan residents to attend College Week, a four-day experience in informal learning, by providing scholarships.

In 1980, the association contributed over $4,500 in scholarships, sending more than 60 persons to College Week.

College Week, an annual event sponsored by the MSU Cooperative Extension Service Family Living Education Program, the MSU College of Human Ecology, other MSU departments and state-wide organizations, attracts more than 1,400 persons from every county in Michigan. This year, it is scheduled for June 22-25.

"This year, more than 50 classes are being offered," says Wilma Miller, MSU College Week program coordinator. "Class topics cover subjects like handling stress, financial and estate planning, solar and other energy options, family communications and leadership development."

Any person may apply for National Farm/Garden scholarship funds by calling 362-3449 by Friday, March 13.

In 4 o'clock rites Saturday, February 28, at Grace Lutheran Church, East Tawas, the Rev. James Mehan and the Rev. William Graf officiated at the double ring ceremony uniting JoAnn Marie Youngs and James Andrew Nash in marriage. The altar was adorned in white daisies and aqua chrysanthemums. Pastor Graf, vocalist, was accompanied by Mrs. Alden Phelps, organist.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Youngs of Tawas City. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nash of East Tawas are parents of the bridegroom.

The former Miss Youngs chose an aqua qiana gown trimmed at the neckline and sleeves in re-embroidered Alencon lace. A matching head-veil secured a shoulder-length veil and she carried a bouquet of snowdrift chrysanthemums and yellow roses with babies breath.

Mrs. Allen Nash, matron of honor, was attired in a yellow blouson gown featuring Brussels lace yoke and cape sleeves. Her bouquet was comprised of white chrysanthemums, miniature aqua carnations and babies breath.

Serving as best man was Allen Nash of East Tawas, brother of the bridegroom, with Philip Lixey and Bryan Lee, ushers.

A dinner reception followed the ceremony in the church social room for 100 guests from Midland, Howell, St. Ignace, Lansing, Alpena, AuGres and Kentwood. Forest Service Reports on Receipts Returned

Receipts from timber sales and payment in lieu of taxes to Iosco County on United States Forest Service lands here amounted to $65,509 during 19-

80. Twenty-five percent of national forest receipts go to states for distribution to local governments to support road and school programs. The PILT payments are made directly to the local governments.

The 25 percent payments come from receipts collected for national forest system timber sales, mineral extraction, special use and grazing permits, recreation fees. This county's share of Huron-Manistee National Forest receipts was $35,452.

Iosco County has 102,551 acres of federal forest land within its borders and received $30,057 appropriated for payments in lieu of taxes under a 1976 law.

Grant Tax Exemption for New Stamping Press

Following a public hearing Monday night, Tawas City Council approved a 12-year industrial exemption certificate to Bopp-Busch Manufacturing Company for installation of a new $197,000 stamping press at its installation on Industrial Avenue.

The public hearing, required by state law, was to permit local taxing units and the city assessor to voice any objection over the proposed exemption. There were no objections.

The new press was installed December 22 in the Crews Products Building, which had been designated by the council as an industrial development district in 1978. Remodeling of the building for installation of the new press brings the total exemption to $200,820.

Under terms of the certificate, one additional job would be provided.

City Mgr. Lowell Thomas said total exemptions issued by the city in recent years was still well within the five percent limitation.

In other matters, the city manager pointed out that a complete reappraisal of real estate for taxing purposes had not been made in the city for four years and that was the reason for the high estimated multiplier being recommended by the county equalization office.

As an example, the estimated multiplier for residential property is 38.31 percent, but Thomas pointed out that the actual increase would be around seven percent as assessments in the city have had a factor for the past two or three years.

The city manager reported that he had volunteered to assist the Northern Michigan Economic Development Association in manning a booth at Co Ho Hall April 27-30 during the national tool show.

A letter from the State Liquor Control Commission indicated that Edward Brenner and Joseph J. Drouin III had applied for an SDM license at 542 West Lake Street in the former Lang's Dairy Bar building. An SDM license is for consumption of beer and wine on the premises.

The city manager reported that a meeting of the joint water board with East Tawas and Baldwin Township was held February 23 to discuss the cost of producing filtered water. A 25 percent increase in the rates charged to the three units was authorized last December and Thomas said this would require a higher rate to be charged Tawas City customers effective at the start of the new fiscal year.

The joint water board agreed to hold meetings more frequently in order to anticipate increases in the cost of water production.

The block building formerly owned by Joseph Lubaway and included in the purchase by the city of property at the mouth of the Tawas River several years ago has been razed. The city is to advertise for bids for the sale and removal of a small two-story house on city property east of the Graystone building.

A MOVING CREW began work Tuesday on preparing this two-story frame house east of the First Street-Lake Street intersection in Tawas City to make way for expanded private commercial parking. The old dwelling has been sold and is to be moved to Wilber Township. Several days of preparation will be required.—Tawas Herald Photo.

WORK was completed early this week on razing the building, which was once owned by the late Joseph Lubaway, on US-23 (Lake Street) near the Tawas River bridge. The property has been owned by the City of Tawas for several years and is being cleared for proposed recreational use in the future at the mouth of the Tawas River.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Bridge

two years ago is designated for bicycles and pedestrians, but some motorists disregard the white line—a violation of state law—and use the "bicycle path" as a passing lane.

Westcott said he could not recall of any car-pedestrian accidents along M-55 in that area to date, but believed that elimination of the safety walk—and designated as such on the state plan—would be a hazard to children walking to school along M-55.

Although admitting that the state would probably say bridges are not intended as fishing platforms, Coun. Hugo Keiser stressed that all bridges are active with children during the fishing season. He also pointed out that the state provided funds to construct walkways on bridges at Mathews Street and First Street for the expressed purpose for fishing use and funds were provided by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

The city council is to express its objection to the proposed elimination of the walkways on the M-55 bridge. The project had been scheduled for a bid opening in July, but that date has been delayed.

City Mgr. Lowell Thomas said that he understood the widening of the bridge was to comply with federal regulations under which highways are funded. Mayor Westcott expressed the opinion that a better use could be made of federal money.

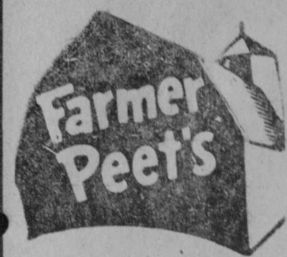

The other matter of conflict between the city and the state probably will not get off the ground, as far as the city is concerned. The fire department recommended that a traffic control light, activated from the new fire hall to be constructed this year, be installed at the US-23-Mathews Street intersection. This light, it is believed, would permit fire trucks to enter US-23 with less danger to oncoming motorists as well as to firemen.

In ruling out the light as not justified, the district engineer recommended that the city apply for the regulation diamond-shaped sign to be installed on either side of the intersection to warn motorists of fire trucks. Flashing amber lights on the sign would be activated from the fire hall when fire trucks make a run toward US-23.

City Manager Thomas said he was not sure that such a sign would be sufficient to warn motorists of approaching fire trucks, although he admitted "it might work."

Mayor Westcott felt that a strobe light warning motorists of approaching fire trucks could be installed beneath the present caution light at the intersection. It was pointed out by the city manager, however, that such a light was not standard on state highways and the suggestion probably would not be adopted.

The council is to seek further information concerning traffic control devices from the highway department's district engineering office at Alpena.

Good News on Bridge Finances at East Tawas

East Tawas Council has received word that the local share of "up front" money for the proposed new bridge over the Tawas River at the Bridge Street-Nunn Road-Monument Road intersection is slightly less than previously anticipated.

According to word at Monday night's council meeting, the total local share for the new bridge will be $57,500, to be split equally between the county road commission and City of East Tawas.

City Clerk Clyde Soper said the original estimate was that the local share would be $30,000 each.

The new bridge is to be constructed under a federal critical bridge replacement program with the Michigan Department of State Highways.

There will be an additional expense for obtaining right-of-way to relocate the bridge slightly to the south to permit Bridge Street to flow directly into Nunn Road. Monument Road is to be realigned so as to improve highway safety. Southbound traffic is to stop at its intersection with Nunn Road.

The city clerk said that Baldwin Township was donating a parcel of land valued at $500 for this change, while two lots within the city boundary costing $250 and $2,000 are to be purchased. The city's share would be $1,125.

In other business, the council voted to make charges to persons requesting a hearing before the zoning board of appeals on the basis of actual cost of hearings. At the present time, the cost to the individual making the request is $5, but the actual cost to the city is around $50.

RAYMOND RASCH has no complaints about business, despite economic hard times in Michigan. He provides an essential service to customers which actually helps to conserve natural resources.—Tawas Herald Photo.

MARIE RASCH helps her husband by keeping books for the family business near Hale and takes her turn at the workbench where she is learning how to rewind small electric motors.—Tawas Herald Photo.

No Economic Slump in

Electric Motor Rewinding

Raymond Rasch, a 1968 graduate of Hale Area High School who had been employed by the parks and recreation department of the City of Troy until last fall, recently returned to Plainfield Township and purchased the electric motor and pump repair business owned by Marvon Morgan.

Rasch said that he and his wife, Marie, had been looking for their own business since coming to the conclusion last year that parks and recreation employees would probably be the first to lose their jobs in the economically stricken metropolitan area.

Morgan was interested in retiring and the two struck a deal where the Raschs would purchase his business. They moved the shop to a new location next to their home on M-65 north of Hale.

While attending school at Hale, Rasch's father, Harvey, operated a grocery store at Long Lake. "I was always interested in doing something with my hands. Operators of small stores just cannot afford to call an electrician or a plumber every time something goes wrong with a motor or a compressor. I soon learned how to rewind motors and repair refrigeration equipment and even had a small shop at Long Lake."

His wife was originally from Ferris and the young couple later lived at Rochester. Rasch attended Ferris State College and later learned the plumbing business, specializing in underground sprinkler systems for the City of Troy, but decided to move north. "Life in the city is just too wasteful," he states.

Morgan helped them get started in their new business. Mrs. Rasch keeps the books and is learning how to rewind small motors, while her husband spends most of his time rearing larger motors and pumps.

Rasch said he enjoys being in business for himself—if he wants to work overtime or seven days a week on a particular job he can do so and he can find some time to enjoy hunting and fishing with his two active young sons.

"Because of the current state of the economy, I have not had much time off from business—while we stock and sell new water pumps, more and more people are calling on us to repair existing pumps and furnace motors, rather than to replace with new equipment. This trend should continue and we should continue to have a good business."

When there is some slack time, both Rasch and his wife are busy in their shop rewinding motors in order to build up an inventory of remanufactured replacements.

"By providing this service, our customers will not go without water or heat during a breakdown," said Rasch.

He hopes to find time to study toward obtaining a private pilot's license and he is interested in flying hot air balloons as a hobby. "That was a big thing while we were at Rochester and I hope to get into it."

Oil-Gas Leasing Remains Active in Western Iosco County Area

The oil and gas leasing boom in Western Iosco County is continuing, according to a report last week by Leon Putnam, registrar of deeds.

Two different firms, Hunt Energy Corporation and Michigan Oil and Gas Brokerage Service, recorded leases last week on 50 different parcels comprising 6,252 acres of land.

An inspection of the leases revealed that oil and gas leases were located in Grant, Tawas, Burleigh, Sherman, Reno, Wilber and Plainfield Townships.

Many more leases are expected to be recorded in the weeks ahead, according to Putnam, although he said that representatives of another firm were finding difficulty Thursday in locating unleased parcels in the above region.

Activity in leasing oil and gas rights increased sharply last fall and activity was noted in January following discovery of a new natural gas well in Missaukee County.

Because of this new interest, leasing rights which had been selling from $2 to $5 suddenly jumped to $15 per acre when Hunt made that new offer in January.

Putnam said the oil and gas leasing boom was good for his office. There has been a dull market in real estate for months and transfers recorded in the register of deeds are at the lowest point in years.

"Recording these oil and gas leases is helping to maintain our volume of business," he stated.

The office has also shown an increase in the sale of plat books.

Forage Changes Can be Expected as Corn-Grains Assume New Fuel Role

Farmers in Michigan and around the nation can expect far-reaching changes in the production and use of forages for animal feed in the next few decades as corn and other traditional feed crops are diverted for alcohol fuel and food for the world. What those changes may mean and what effects they might have on farming and on consumers will be part of several presentations planned for Farmers' Week at Michigan State University. Sponsored by the university's agricultural experiment station, the Cooperative Extension Service and the college of agriculture and natural resources, the sessions will be held from March 23 through 27 and will feature important developments in agriculture.

Parts of the weeklong meetings will focus on research accomplishments of agricultural experiment station scientists that have direct bearing on problems faced by American farmers as well as the potential for United States agriculture to fill demands for food production nationally and internationally and meet the growing need for alternative energy supplies.

These research achievements address questions that concern both producers and consumers, legislators and processors of food.

'MOM' & 'POP' RESTAURANTS HAVE VANISHED

A RURAL AMERICAN INSTITUTION, the "mom" and "pop" restaurant, is fast fading from the business scene due to competition from the fast food chains and the high cost of operation. Vic and Zel Forcier, shown in the insets, operated restaurants at three different locations in Tawas City for nearly 20 years. Their first, the GHQ, was a popular hang-out for young people of the Tawasites starting in 1945. —Tawas Herald Photo.

Whatever happened to the "mom" and "pop" restaurants which once catered to and served as neighborhood hang-outs for the generation of teenagers from pre-World War II to the mid-1950s?

Looking back 30 years and more, the owners of those restaurants provided a service to a community which can never be duplicated by modern day fast food franchise. And, it seemed as if every small town had such a hang-out in those days.

The Tawasites, for example, have talked of the need for a youth center for many years and even established one in the mid-1950s at the East Tawas Community Building, complete with pool and ping-pong tables and a dance floor. That one folded after operating only a few weeks.

The essential element missing was the "mom" and "pop" business owner, who had a way with kids—taking a genuine interest in what youngsters were doing in the classroom, offering some friendly counseling and flashing a smile while dishing out the fries, hamburgers and Cokes to kids, who had only a limited amount of spending money.

A steady stream of small change was fed into the juke box and the old jukebox—yes in the modern sense—but to the big band music of Glenn Miller and his contemporaries of the 1930s and 1940s; later to Frankie Lane and a host of pop, but not forgotten, entertainers.

Owners of a restaurant never get out toasting the business provided by the teenagers—it was never that profitable. A neighborhood or town restaurant hang-out just seemed to evolve over a period of time, depending upon the whim of the youngsters involved.

One of the first restaurants in the 1940 era to achieve the sobriquet of teen hang-out in Tawas City was Pierson's Silver Valley Cafe at East Tawas, the place to stop after the game was the Ravine Restaurant owned by Nick Panas or Bill's Cafe on Newman Street.

High school kids of Tawas City called the proprietress of the cafe located west of Lansky's Standard Station "Ma"

"MA" PIERSON was extremely popular with Tawas youngsters when she and her husband operated a restaurant in this building in 1940-1941. The picture was snapped Pierson. After an absence of more than 10 years, high school basketball was new to the community in 1941. Prior to completion of a new high school auditorium that winter, the town had been without facilities for holding basketball games since the mid-1920s.

The first game played on the new court was with the East Tawas Indians. The west siders of Coach John Forsten were no match for the slick team coached by "Nick" Nickels led by Wes Gentry and Bob Soderquist. The Indians beat Tawas City, 30-3—Phil Ross led the losers with two foul shots. His brother, Harold, made the other charity toss.

After the game, most members of the Tawas City basketball team and a few of the Indians, along with a good following from the student body, found their way to "Ma" Piersons for hamburgers. Most of the kids walked the seven or eight blocks from school as it was rare for a high school student to own four wheels and only a few had permission to take out the family car.

With the juke box blaring some big band hit tune of the day, the kids relished some of the individual exploits of that first game—the defensive play of Bob Rollin; the fancy ball handling exhibition of Art Biggins—all duly recorded in the Herald the following week by Frank Mark, the high school's sports reporter.

Because of the wartime food shortages, the phenomena of a restaurant catering to the teenager had a rather brief existence in Tawas City; it really was not revived again to any great extent after the Piersons left for Pinconning, but the one or two cafes in town still managed to find some ground beef for after-the-game hamburgers.

Then, in 1945, the best remembered of all hang-outs in the history of the Tawasites hit the scene when Vic and Zel Forcier opened their restaurant in the former GHQ located in the Bublitz Oil Company building on Lake Street west of Mathews Street.

The original operator of the GHQ, Hiram Pierce, had operated a beer garden-restaurant in the building in the late 1930s when it was owned by James H. Leslie, but it had been unoccupied for a number of years when Pierce moved to a new location.

The principal attraction of the GHQ was a large dance floor at the rear—surrounded on all sides by tables and chairs—with a restaurant fronting on US-23 dominated by a huge fireplace in the center. Along one wall was an ice cream and soda fountain with counter and stools for short orders; tables and chairs in the center and booths on the opposite side were for adult customers during the dinner hour.

The converted tavern jumped from the very night it opened in 1945 and it became "the place to go" for kids of the Tawasites. Zel Forcier was a strict disciplinarian and the house rules were enforced by her husband, who held forth in the kitchen day and night.

The GHQ was a popular eating place for adults during the day and early evening—the Tawas City Businessmen's Association held weekly meetings there—but at night it was a popular hang-out for young people of the Tawasites and was often packed to capacity.

WICKERT'S RESTAURANT was the "place to go" after basketball games for East Tawas youngsters back in the 1940s and 1950s.

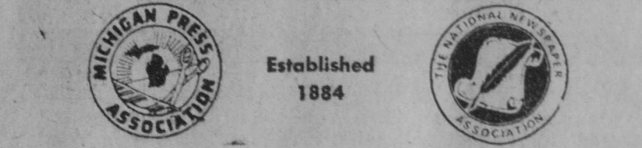

This picture was snapped shortly before the building was razed. It had a long history on Newman Street.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Millage Needs More Than Parents' Support

Tawas Area Board of Education had a taste of what President Reagan and congress now face in cutting federal spending. Governors of the 50 states and mayors of principal cities are clamoring for scalps; they are no more upset over proposed budget cuts than were the hundred or so parents who attended last week's board of education meeting to protest one budget cut—not over reduced spending for the library, books and teaching supplies—not over the cut in hours worked by custodians, secretaries or in the lunch program—but in spring sports!

A list of questions prepared by spokesmen for the group charged that the board of education had not done its homework and intimated that these elected officials were responsible for this school district's financial mess.

How ironic! The school district's budget is now in deficit, due principally to a cut in state transportation funds. It is no secret that Michigan is in serious financial trouble and this cut in school funds was necessary. We wonder if the spokesmen for the parents' group have been reading their daily newspapers and watching the nightly news reports concerning the country's current financial crisis.

Naturally, the board of education bowed under this kind of pressure. It yielded to the pledge that these parents would help spearhead a drive to influence voters to renew present operational taxes and provide additional millage next June to wipe out the deficit and continue the school program.

With or without the support of parents, it will be extremely difficult even to get financially-strapped voters to renew millage in June. People throughout this land have been complaining for years over the high cost of government and a new president was elected last November on the pledge that he would cut costs and get the economy turned around. That remains to be seen.

In the meantime, we all must face up to reality. Cutting budgets in certain areas is going to hurt a lot of people—but priorities must be established for cuts. Two weeks ago and earlier, members of Tawas Area Board of Education declared publicly that their first priority was to save the academic programs affecting the largest numbers of students.

We really cannot guess as to what lies ahead in the months to come, but it is a sure bet that this district will be financing practically the total cost of educating its children. We wonder where the parents of the more than 1,600 children in Tawas Area School District will place the priority on education. It is time for others to be heard as the taxpayers will have the last say in June and parents represent only 30 percent of those who vote in the election.

This newspaper cannot fault the board of education for this current financial problem and echoes the opinion of one board member who said this district has one of the most fiscally responsible superintendents in the state.

Cool heads and sound judgment must prevail at all levels—national, state and local—to see the way clear through the financial problems ahead. It will not be an easy job at any level, but it must be done.

Know Your Michigan Law

By Attorney General FRANK J. KELLEY

Michigan utility customers finding it difficult to make ends meet amid the distressed conditions of the state's economy may be able to obtain assistance with their heating bills.

Rules adopted by the Michigan Public Service Commission prohibit the termination of gas or electric service on delinquent accounts between December 1 and March 31 to certain eligible customers. As long as a monthly payment is made during the winter of at least seven percent of the annual bill, heating service must be provided. The balance is paid back in installments after March 31.

Persons are eligible for this program if they fall within certain income levels, or are receiving federal or state public assistance and if they apply for government heating assistance.

For example, a family of four may earn up to a maximum of $12,600 and still take advantage of the new rules. Single persons may have a maximum income of $5,500 to qualify. Many recipients of public assistance, food stamps or Medicaid are also eligible.

In addition, all gas and electric utilities are required to inform each customer of the existence of federal and state energy assistance programs and of the eligibility requirements of such programs.

If the information has not been received by means of an explanation on the bill, a bill insert or some other mailing, it may be obtained by calling or writing the utility, Michigan Public Service Commission or the Michigan Department of Social Services.

You read it in The Tawas Herald.

Senator Carl Levin's WASHINGTON

In a country that often credits its free press for helping to maintain an effective democracy, the mere existence of newspapers is not adequate assurance that the press will fulfill its vital watchdog role. Diversity in the newspaper industry is important so that the American public is presented with choices and not limited to a few corporate approved viewpoints, as in many totalitarian countries where governments often become the corporations using newspapers as a means of propaganda.

Diversity is defined by the dictionary as "a point of difference." In the newspaper industry, this difference emerges in the philosophies, politics, and personalities of its editors and publishers. It begins with the size of a publication and the audience for which it writes, both of which become the foundation for the paper's individual style and character.

There are large metropolitan publications that cater to a sophisticated readership interested more in world affairs than local events, mid-sized publications that offer a smattering of everything, and small, local newspapers that, according to publisher William Wasserman, focus on the "day-by-day nitty gritty of town life." In addition, every newspaper has its own political persuasion, philosophical approach toward presenting news, and personal voice, all of which determine who will read it.

The presence of strong, independent publishers is essential to maintaining variety in the newspaper industry. It assures the public of, if not a completely objective presentation of the news, a range of information varying according to each newspaper's priorities, about which people can formulate their own views.

A recent trend in the newspaper publishing industry, however, threatens the essential presence of independent papers. As the economy worsens, advertisements become increasingly difficult to obtain, making it financially impossible for publishers to handle the costly task of putting out a newspaper. Small newspapers, most of which rely on small businesses for their funding, are the hardest hit by this trend. One such paper, the Highwater Mark, of Eton Rapids, Michigan, has come to my attention.

After a 115-year history of publishing local news in the Eton Rapids area, the small weekly paper is presently losing money because the small businesses that provide much of its advertising are also having financial troubles. As a result, the Highwater Mark will most likely either fold or be picked up by one of the increasing number of newspaper chains that have become a threat to editorial independence in the newspaper industry.

Either way, the Highwater Mark will become a casualty of the alarming trend that could narrow the amount of diversity in the press unless the community rescues it. If the people of the Eton Rapids area or any other area support their local papers with increased subscriptions, advertising will become more profitable to troubled businesses, who will then be more willing to spend money on ads. By saving the Highwater Mark and other small papers in similar dilemmas, the community will also save its own right to choose what it wants to read because this other choice will still be there. It is, in the long run, up to the public whether they will be the beneficiaries of no newspaper, a newspaper whose editorial policies are dictated by profit-conscious corporate chains, or an independent newspaper whose publisher is motivated by good journalism standards.

Catholic Parishes Set Christian Renewal Program

Parishes of St. Joseph and Immaculate Heart of Mary are having a Christian Renewal (mission) during the Lenten season. The Rev. Fr. Thomas Danielsen and the Rev. Fr. Gregory Schmitt will be conducting the program.

Theme is JOY, Jesus O-ther Yourself. The program is aimed at leading people to a renewal or deeper personal commitment to Jesus Christ, the church and the life of the church as lived in the local community. Sacramentality of the work of God and proclamation of the word is at the very heart of the program.

The renewal starts at 7:30 p. m. Sunday-Tuesday, March 8, 9, 10, at St. Joseph, East Tawas, and Wednesday-Thursday, March 11 and 12, at Immaculate Heart of Mary, Tawas City. There will also be free baby-sitting service.

Refreshments will be served after each service for those wishing to attend. This is an opportunity to grow in faith. Everyone is invited to attend these services.

LOOKING BACKWARD—

Weather Was Perfect for Perchville

15 Years Ago—

March 2, 1966—It finally happened—the weatherman and perch cooperated with Tawas Chamber of Commerce and the annual Perchville Festival went into record books as the most successful in its three-year history.

Trustees Helen Payea and Carl Helmer are to act as observers in the first contract negotiation session with teacher representatives of Tawas Area School District. The superintendent and two principals are representing the district as negotiators.

Herbert Cholger Jr., a 1959 graduate of Tawas Area High School and an employee of Ford Motor Company at Dearborn for the past two years, is presently assigned to Nashville, Tennessee, where Ford is opening a new glass manufacturing plant.

Edward Haglund and Tom Lixey of East Tawas caught 16 perch Saturday to win the fishing contest.

25 Years Ago—

March 1, 1956—City Eng. Clifford Spicer told members of the Tawas City Water Board that a recent analysis of the municipal water supply disclosed that fluorine exists in its natural form here at a rate of four-tenths of one part per million. This is a greater amount than claimed in a new toothpaste on the market and even more than what some cities introduce into water supplies by other means.

Tawas Chamber of Commerce voted not to revive the annual spring perch festival due to the inability to guess dates for the spring run and the bad publicity resulting from poor fishing conditions.

Last Friday's ice and sleet storm was so severe in this area a county road commission sand truck skidded on Huron Shore Drive and turned on its side in the ditch. Driver of the truck, Edwin A. Anderson, was not injured in the mishap.

35 Years Ago—

March 1, 1946—Machine guns and submachine guns brought home as souvenirs from the war fronts are illegal unless they have been registered with the government and made inoperative.

The new Tawas City Sports Booster Council has been organized to provide competitive games for young men of the community.

Fred C. Latter had a word of praise for the county road commission crews after a rather trying winter. "I believe I speak for many of the farmertaxpayers, who do not wish to see all the road money spent on snow removal during the winter," said Latter.

A picture of Gen. of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower, army chief of staff, was transmitted by television from Washington, D. C., to New York City, New York, during the Lincoln memorial services. This was a test of the new inter-city coaxial cable and proved the possibilities for televising photographs for current news events.

Proceedings of Iosco County Board of Commissioners

FEBRUARY SESSION (CONT'D)

February 18, 1981
A regular meeting of the Iosco County Board of Commissioners held at the County Building in Tawas City on February 18, 1981, pursuant to published schedule.

Meeting called to order at 8:45 a. m. by Chairman George and the roll called.

Present: George (District 2), Merschel (District 3), Ulman (District 4) and Webb (District 1)

Absent: None (a vacancy existing in County Commissioner District No. 1)

In response to an invitation by the chairman for members of the public to address the board, Phyllis Costello, of Ransom Station W. D. B. I., raised the matter of the vacancy in County Commissioner District No. 1 occasioned by the resignation of John Landry, inquiring as to the intentions of the board with respect to making an interim appointment pending the special elections that have been scheduled. In discussion of the matter, it was the consensus of board members that, inasmuch as seven candidates have been nominated, petitions for the special primary election, section should be left to the voters of the district, and that it would not be fair at this juncture for the board to endorse a particular candidate by making an appointment.

Rose Link, employment service interviewer for the Tawas City Branch of the Michigan Employment Security Commission, appeared before the board to request an extension of their lease of office space in County Annex No. 2, which expires March 31, 1981, until they can make arrangements to lease office space elsewhere. In discussion of the matter, Merschel voiced the opinion that there would be no problem with an extension on a month-to-month basis, as the Rental Health Service is not ready to take over occupancy of the entire building. It was further the consensus of all board members that an extension would be acceptable, and the matter was referred to Commissioner Ulman to work out the details.

Allan Buchanan, engineer-manager of the Iosco County Road Commission, appearing for a brief meeting with the commissioners, Commissioner Merschel referred to the county maps for which the road commission has requested the county to contribute 50% of the cost, explaining the budget restrictions made necessary due to limited funding and the necessity to prohibit unbudgeted expenditures, proposing that the road commission assume the obligation at this time and submit a request for inclusion in the 1982 county budget. Mr. Buchanan indicated his understanding of the board's position and his acceptance of the suggestion.

Continuing, Merschel referred to an invoice from the road commission in the amount of $3,277.57 covering the closing of Lincoln Road and the construction of a new road to the butterfly property in connection with the county airport expansion project, whereupon Mr. Buchanan explained that the new road was constructed by John Henry, under contract with the road commission, at a cost of $2,300 and that the remaining costs were incurred by the road commission for labor, equipment use and materials involved in the closing of Lincoln Road.

Commissioner Webb thereupon informed Mr. Buchanan that the Plainfield Township board would like to have him attend a township board meeting.

Michigan Association of Counties Field Representative Fox appeared before the board with Package-Liquor dealers Edward Freel, Joann Ross and Wes and Helen Lamb to request the adoption of a resolution by the board, pursuant to the provisions of Act 6, 133 of the Public Acts of 1979, to approve the sale of spirits on consumption off the premises on Sunday after 12:00 noon.

In discussion of the matter, Commissioner Ulman read the sample resolution provided by the Michigan Liquor Control Commission, and Mr. Fox urged that the board act on it now, to become effective March 31, 1981. Each of the dealers in attendance addressed the board briefly in support of their request.

Committees were ordered to their respective duties at 10:15 a. m., the official meeting to stand in recess until 1:30 p. m.

Upon call to order at 2:45 p. m., all commissioners being present, it was moved by Merschel and supported by Ulman to approve the minutes of the board of commissioners meetings of January 27 and February 4, 1981, as drafted and presented by the clerk. Motion carried.

Commissioner Webb, reporting for the administrative committee, referred to the district court contract negotiations, the police officers association contract with sheriff's employees, the flat fee requested by the building and safety inspection department for new homes, and an update on the VanEtan Lake water level controversy, whereupon Commissioner Merschel, reporting for the statutory finance committee, advised that $385 of the last monthly billing from counsel related to the VanEtan Lake matter and that perhaps they should establish a special fund or charge the fees to the drain commissioner's budget.

Continuing, Webb referred to the proposed use of an abandoned National Gypsum Company quarry as a solid waste landfill site, advising that Richard Harris, manager of the National Gypsum Company local operations, whom he contacted recently, gave the opinion that they should proceed slowly and recommended that the project be confined to Iosco County, rather than a five-county joint undertaking. Following a discussion, Webb expressed his feeling that they should pursue an extension of the present contract with the Multi-County Landfill Corporation pending development of the quarry site. In further discussion, the matter of submitting a millage proposal to the voters for funding was discussed.

Webb commented, with respect to contract negotiations with district court employees, that the Arenac County Board of Commissioners has indicated a desire to attend the mediation proceedings. Matter discussed briefly.

Commissioner Webb presented and moved adoption of the following resolutions:

Your administrative committee recommends that David George, Peter Holley and John D. Webb, Jr. be reappointed to the board of directors of the Iosco Transit Corporation for a 2-year term ending February 28, 1983.

Supported by Ulman and carried.

Your administrative committee recommends that payment be authorized, on a one-time-only basis, to Part-time Employee Irene Hughes of a sum of money equal to the longevity she would have earned if she would have been paid longevity for 1980.

Supported by Merschel and carried.

Your administrative committee recommends that authorization be granted for the Iosco County Housing Commission's secretary-treasurer to be paid at a rate comparable to salary grade 04 in the latest United Steel Workers contract with courthous employees, with the provisions and exceptions contained in the November 19, 1980, resolution governing the hiring of said secretary-treasurer to apply to all HEW-hires.

Supported by Merschel and carried.

Chairman George commented briefly on his relationship with the Iosco County Housing Commission and recommended that Commissioner Webb be appointed to succeed him as the H. E. D. liaison representative, whereupon it was moved by Merschel and supported by Ulman. Motion carried.

Continuing, Webb presented and moved adoption of the following resolution, motion being supported by Ulman and carried.

Your administrative committee recommends that Howard Spencer be appointed to the advisory Council of the Northern Regional Substance Abuse Coordinating Agency, Inc.

Committees were ordered to their respective duties at 3:15 p. m., the official meeting to stand in recess subject to the call of the chair.

Upon call to order at 4:45 p. m., Commissioner Ulman, reporting for the building and grounds committee, advised that they are still working on a request for the purchase of a new vacuum cleaner, that the County Building beautification project is "simmering along", and that the approval of the E. D. C. project for the Brugger property in Tawas City is being held in abeyance pending advice of counsel.

Continuing, Ulman presented and moved adoption of the following resolution, motion being supported by Webb and carried.

Your building and grounds committee recommends that the M. E. S. C. office be allowed to continue their lease of space in County Annex No. 2 on a monthly basis after expiration of the lease agreement currently in effect.

Finance Chairman Merschel presented and moved adoption of the following resolution, motion being supported by Webb and carried.

Your finance committee recommends that, after review, the county clerk and the chairman of the board of commissioners be authorized to approve salary for the month of February, 1981, and per diem for meetings through today for the board of commissioners, as indicated in the following payroll report.

Supported by Merschel and carried.

Following a brief discussion concerning a grant-in-aid contract for the Iosco Transit program, a brief recess was ordered at 5:00 p. m.

Upon call to order at 5:20 p. m., Commissioner Webb presented and moved adoption of the following resolution, which was supported by Ulman. Following a discussion, wherein Webb explained that the resolution pertains to a grant-in-aid contract to provide funding for a radio for one of the transit system buses, motion carried.

Your administrative committee recommends that Commissioners David George and John D. Webb, Jr. be authorized to sign the attached grant-in-aid contract (number G81-0119) submitted by the Michigan Department of Transportation.

Commissioner Merschel commented on the request made some time ago by Baldwin Township Zoning Administrator Peter Lichtfus for amendment of the county animal control ordinance to provide that a land use permit would be required before the issuance of kennel licenses. In discussion of the matter, it was the consensus of board members that the matter should be referred to the county planning commission for a study and evaluation.

The business scheduled for the day having been concluded, it was moved by Ulman and supported by Webb to adjourn until March 4, 1981, 9:30 a. m., or subject to the call of the m.

Merschel referred to the proposal by Edward Sterling, administrator of the county building and safety inspection department, to institute fees for hearings before the construction code board of appeals, advising that he has conferred with Sterling, who is researching the matter with other counties and will present a recommendation as well as a recommendation concerning the proposed flat fee for new homes inspections.

Chairman George referred to the matter of the salary supplement of $960 provided in the probate court budget for Juvenile Officer George Burnette, indicating that the clerk has requested authorization for payment of the supplement; whereupon it was moved by Webb and supported by Ulman that authorization be granted to pay the supplement as indicated in the budget. Motion carried.

Continuing with his report, Merschel advised that the application for the cooperative reimbursement program for 1981 has been completed and signed, and that two public hearings have been scheduled with respect to the county airport zoning ordinance, with the first to be held on March 26, 7:00 p. m., in conjunction with the county planning commission meeting and the second to be held on April 15, 4:00 p. m., in conjunction with the board of commissioners meeting.

Chairman George reported on a quotation received from Zubeck Motor Sales, of Tawas City, offering to sell to the county for the sum of $3,000 the vehicle now being leased as a detective's car, indicating that the lease expires at the end of March. Matter referred to the public safety and finance committees.

Following a discussion, wherein Webb explained that the resolution pertains to a grant-in-aid contract to provide funding for a radio for one of the transit system buses, motion carried.

Your administrative committee recommends that Commissioners David George and John D. Webb, Jr. be authorized to sign the attached grant-in-aid contract (number G81-0119) submitted by the Michigan Department of Transportation.

Commissioner Merschel commented on the request made some time ago by Baldwin Township Zoning Administrator Peter Lichtfus for amendment of the county animal control ordinance to provide that a land use permit would be required before the issuance of kennel licenses. In discussion of the matter, it was the consensus of board members that the matter should be referred to the county planning commission for a study and evaluation.

The business scheduled for the day having been concluded, it was moved by Ulman and supported by Webb to adjourn until March 4, 1981, 9:30 a. m., or subject to the call of the m.

ENTERTAINING IDEAS

ENJOY SUNNY SQUASH ALL YEAR

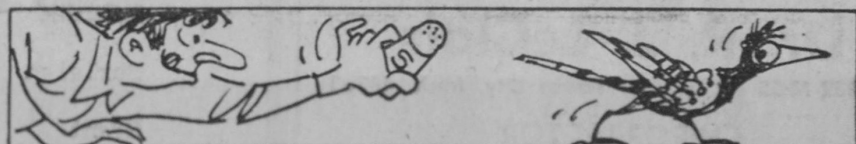

Calling acorn or butternut squash "winter squash" is a misnomer. These firm-shelled squash are now marketed year round.

Shaped like its name, acorn squash has a shell that's the perfect size to hold all sorts of savory stuffings—like apple and sausage stuffing, made extra easily with the convenience of canned apple pie filling. Cream-colored butternut squash are shaped like a bell, elongated pear, or a giant peanut—depending on how you look at them. Their real beauty is their fine-textured orange flesh that's free from stringiness. Its nutty flavor is enhanced by apple pie filling for an excellent vegetable to bake as part of an oven meal. This Sunny Squash Combo is rich in Vitamin A and other nutrients.

Makes 6 generous servings. (Leftovers can be frozen.)

APPLE-FILLED ACORN SQUASH
2 medium acorn squash water
1 can (20 oz.) Thank You Apple Pie Filling
1 onion powder
1/2 tsp. seasoned salt
2 Tbsp. butter or margarine
1/4 cup sliced almonds
4 brown-and-serve sausages (optional)
Halve each squash lengthwise; discard seeds. Place cut side down in large baking dish; add ½ inch water. Bake at 400° for 25 minutes. Turn squash cut side up and sprinkle with onion powder, seasoned salt, mace or ginger and dot with butter. If desired, place one sausage in each squash. Mix apple filling with sherry (optional) and fill squash cavities. Cover pan with foil and bake at 350° for 30 minutes or until squash is tender when pierced. Top with almonds and bake uncovered for 5 minutes more or until almonds are toasted. Serves 4.
*Other winter squash can be substituted.

Folk wisdom says that if you sprinkle salt on a bird's tail you will have good luck.

Great Cuisines Of The World

FROM FRANCE: POULET FLAMBE

France is revered for its fine wines and beautiful fashions, but most of all for its cuisine. The French are serious diners and cooks and accept only the finest in food. Only the freshest meats and vegetables are selected, as well as the finest cooking oils.
Peanut oil is the favorite choice for French cuisine. In France, 85% of the total cooking and salad oil consumption is attributed to peanut oil. Furthermore, peanut oil is used almost exclusively in French restaurants.

Domestically, Planters 100% Pure Peanut Oil has been pointed out as an authentic and pure oil, suitable for fine French cuisine. Meticulous cooks concerned with authenticity are encouraged to use Planters 100% Pure Peanut Oil.
The Poulet Flambe featured here is a French adaptation of fried chicken with a cream sauce. It is recommended for its economical, nutritious and convenient features which make it especially adaptable to contemporary American kitchens. Furthermore, the fact that it is coated with brandy makes it elegant enough to serve as a special dinner meal.
Made with Planters 100% Pure Peanut Oil, Poulet Flambe is authentic in flavor and delicate. Planters Oil's light quality enhances the natural flavor of food and seasoning. This quality makes it ideal for delicate French dishes such as this poulet.
Planters Oil is also 100% natural with nothing artificial added. Its unique processing method results in an unrefined, but pure oil.
Poulet Flambe is an example of recipes which may be entered in the Planters Oil "Great Cuisines of the World" Recipe Contest. Original recipes using Planters 100% Pure Peanut Oil will be judged in six categories—French, Greek, Indonesian, Italian, Oriental and Spanish. For contest rules, look in your favorite store or write to: Planters Oil Contest Rules, Drawer "A", Madison Square Station, New York, N.Y. 10010. Finalists' recipes will be considered for use in future Planters Oil recipe books.

Contestants will be competing for prizes including an international dining tour for two, gourmet cooking school lessons and Le Creuset Cookware. All contestants will receive a free copy of Planters Oil's new booklet, "Frying Coast to Coast," which contains more than 50 inspiring recipe ideas, plus frying tips and terminology for perfectly fried dishes.

1/4 cup Planters Peanut Oil
2 medium onions, thinly sliced
2 chicken bouillon cubes
1/2 cup water
1 1/2 cup brandy, heated
1 cup heavy cream
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon cornstarch
Hot cooked rice

Sprinkle chicken pieces with salt, pepper and paprika. In a large skillet or Dutch oven, brown chicken in peanut oil, a few pieces at a time. Remove chicken. Add onions and sauté over medium-high heat, until tender, about 5 minutes. Return chicken to pan, add bouillon cubes and water; bring to a boil. Reduce heat to low; cover and cook about 45 minutes or until chicken is tender.
Pour the warm brandy over the chicken and ignite it. When the flame dies, transfer chicken to a warm serving platter. Stir in cream to liquid remaining in skillet; bring to a boil and cook for 1 minute. Blend lemon juice into cornstarch. Stir into sauce and cook on medium-high heat until sauce thickens. Pour over chicken. Serve with rice.

POULET FLAMBE
Makes 4 servings
1 (3-pound) frying chicken, cut up
2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 teaspoon paprika

Changing Times for Small Business

Volume Drops, Hale Bakery Closed

THE TAWAS CITY ELKS were crowned district class D basketball champions in 1951 and carried Coach Mark Deibaugh off the floor with the trophy. After the game, most of the students headed for Vic and Zel's Restaurant at the GHQ for hamburgers and dancing.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Hale Bakery, which has been operated for the past 18 years by Mr. and Mrs. Perry Shellenbarger, closed its doors for good Saturday. The property has been sold to Peoples State Bank and the building is to be removed for additional parking at the bank's Hale office.

Shellenbarger said last week that changing times had forced closing of his bakery and popular coffee shop.

When he and his wife bought the business in 1963 from Donald and Shirley Dailey, the bakery was turning out 1,300 loaves of bread on a good weekend in the summer, along with 300 pies during the same period.

"We just have not sold enough bread, rolls and pies in recent times to justify continuation of the business," said Shellenbarger.

High overhead and the inflated cost of purchasing supplies to operate the bakery were directly responsible in closing the business. Bread which sold for 27 cents a loaf in 1963 had a price tag last week of 75 cents.

"People who like home baked bread can go into the frozen food department of the supermarket and purchase ready prepared dough and bake their own bread. It may not have the same flavor of my own recipe, but it is cheaper," said Shellenbarger.

Expanded bakery departments in large supermarkets also provided more convenient shopping.

"It was getting so that our daily sales were just not enough to pay the help and we decided to close the doors," he stated.

Equipment in the bakery was sold to a Bay City firm and is to be removed before the building is razed.

Shellenbarger said he would now devote all of his time to his auction sale business, which he has operated on a part-time basis for the past 21 years.

Both are natives of the Hale area and Mrs. Shellenbarger said she would return "as a full time housewife again." Most of their children are grown with their own families, but they still have one son in school.

"We sincerely appreciate the patronage over the years and the daily contacts with our friends," they stated.

HALE BAKERY turned out 1,300 loaves of bread on a good week-end 18 years ago, but changing times forced Mr. and Mrs. Perry Shellenbarger, owners, to close their doors for good on Saturday.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Restaurants

Street, but East Tawas kids usually found their way to the GHQ later in the evening for dancing or just sitting around "chewing the fat."

It is difficult to pinpoint the real reason why such restaurants catering to kids disappeared—it may have been the low profit derived from such businesses and the headaches involved in keeping kids in line; it may have been the new mobility provided by the ever-increasing number of youngsters driving cars and the lack of parking places on busy streets, or it may have been the drive-in restaurants sprouting around town—including Bill's at the M-55-US-23 intersection and Zip's on Ninth Avenue at the Tawas River bridge.

In any event, changing times saw the disappearance of those restaurant hang-outs for young sters. The old GHQ and its dance floor felt the wrecker's ball years ago, Wickert's Restaurant was razed for a larger commercial building and its latter location was converted into professional offices, while the Harbor Lights building was destroyed by fire.

Only the old Larkin building in Tawas City where "Ma"

Pierson watched over a generation of kids 40 years ago stands today; it no longer rocks to a juke box playing a Glenn Miller tune, but serves today as an office. Much has been lost in the changing times as the fast food restaurant can never replace the personality of a "Ma" Pierson.

Your fruits and vegetables may stay fresher longer if you line your vegetable bin with paper towels or dry sponges to absorb moisture.
